Police Report

Diane P. Wierzbicki, 27, of 9 Eldridge St., was charged Wednesday night with breach of peace and resisting arrest in connection with an alleged disturbance at the One-Hour Martizing, Main St. She was released on a $150 non-surety bond for court July 3.

Ronald Carone, 17, of 424 W. Middle Tpke., was charged Wednesday with criminal attempt to obstruct justice in connection with an incident in the basement of 428 W. Middle Tpke.

Police said that Carone and a juvenile, unidentified because of his age, were found in the basement working on a combination lock that secured a storage bin. Police said that both boys claimed that they were experimenting with a system they say is possible to open any lock.

The unidentified boy was referred to juvenile authorities. Carone was released on his written promise to appear in court June 25.

VERNON John P. Sullivan, 17, of 102 W. Main St., Rockville, was charged Wednesday afternoon with breach of peace in connection with a disturbance at Sykes Junior High School, Park St., Rockville.

Police say that Sullivan struck a male teacher. Sullivan was released on a $100 non-surety bond for court July 3.

Flag Day

It can be printed in cloth, sewed together from different colored materials, handstitched, or run off on an assembly line.

It can be roughly sketched on a piece of cloth and waved to show the pride, conviction and faith of a newly-released prisoner of war to his fellow Americans and his country.

We are referring to the Flag of the United States of America.

Today as we mark Flag Day, the Stars and Stripes waves throughout the land from Manchester to Malibu and from Nome to Norwich. It still is unfurled in many other parts of the world where the American presence is required but as a banner of hope, hope for a more peaceful world, now that the tragedy of involvement in Southeast Asia is all but behind us.

There are those who are contemptuous of this piece of cloth and the things it stands for.

We will not pretend to defend many of the things done under this flag but fortunately these evils are more than outweighed by the ideals and hopes that led to the creation of the United States and the aspirations its flag represents.

Today, as the world's oldest modern republic, we can display our flag with pride knowing that despite many shortcomings and lapses in our efforts to "create a more perfect union," someone always has risen to the challenge to pick up this banner, whenever it has fallen, and continue to advance the goals of a free and democratic society.

Long may it wave o'er the land of the free.

Spruce-Up Time

Time is running out for the Town of Manchester and its citizens if they plan any special sprucing-up for the town's 150th anniversary celebration beginning June 23.

It would be our hope that each of us will endeavor to conduct in the next few days a special "Sesquicentennial Spruce-Up Session" with the idea of putting our best foot forward for our visitors and guests during the celebration.

If each home owner would do this and the town departments concentrate on street clean-up and sign repair, the "city of village charm" can be just that.

While each of us has a direct responsibility for these things within our own limits, we would like to call to the attention of the state highway department the deterioration of several signs directing people to Manchester.

A particularly glaring (or should we say non-glaring) example of this are the Exit 92 signs off Wilbur Cross Highway that lead to West Center St. These signs, which are reflectorized, need replacement because the material which reflects headlights is worn out and almost impossible to read at normal speeds on the highway at night.

Because our town has grown and changed over the years, all signs take on a special importance for former residents in particular who, because of the changes, will be dependent upon them to find the old neighborhood and other points of interest.

It is our hope that everyone will get into the celebration act and do their bit to prepare for it by beautifying Manchester as much as time and resources permit. We hope the state will attempt to do something about the signs as it should be done, celebration or no celebration.

And we hope all citizens in the East of the River country will join in Manchester's big week-long gala.

Inside Report

Rowland Evans and Robert Novak
Operative Ehrlichman

WASHINGTON — John D. Ehrlichman, one of the most powerful men in America until his resignation from the White House staff April 30, began his political career in 1960 as a political espionage agent for Richard M. Nixon spying in New York and the Democratic national convention.
As an unknown 33-year-old zoning lawyer from Seattle, Ehrlichman was officially listed as a Nixon advance man friend and former UCLA classmate, chief advance man H.R. (Bob) Halteman in fact, he was an undercover agent staking Rockefeller's abortive campaign for the Republican presidential nomination. Later he was assigned as a secret observer to the 1960 Democratic convention in Los Angeles that nominated John F. Kennedy.
Thus, whether or not the courts finally tie him directly to the Watergate scandal, Ehrlichman's meager political background was in the little-known clandestine side of campaigning. Indeed, as recently as August 1969, when Ehrlichman turned up at the Republican national convention as a high Nixon aide, fellow staffers thought of him mostly as a "security" man.

Ehrlichman made no secret of his political beginnings in a May 1970 interview with William W. Prochnow, then Washington correspondent for the Seattle Times (now an aide to Democratic Sen. Warren Magnuson of Washington). Because of his anonymity, Ehrlichman said, he was assigned to "operative work" staking Rockefeller.
For example, Ehrlichman told of driving a Rockefeller car in the Governor's campaign procession in North Dakota — swing through Fargo and several other towns. "The Rockefeller people thought I was from North Dakota, and the North Dakota people thought I was from Rockefeller," Ehrlichman told Prochnow. He enjoyed repeating the same story to powerful men in America until his resignation from the Los Angeles Democratic convention (1) to examine attitudes of the Southern delegates; (2) to prepare a dossier on the Kennedy campaign apparatus.

Senate Diplomacy
Behind the long Senate Foreign Relations Committee delay in confirming four top-ranking diplomats is a strange consensus by the Southern liberal-oriented committee to pressure Nixon to send "new faces" to carry out U.S. policy in the Far East.
Chairman J. W. Fulbright of Arkansas is leading this pressure move against the administration, but he has allies in both parties who presently comprise a clear majority of the committee.
Thus, the nominations — sent to the committee between March 19 and May 8 — may be held up for several weeks during closed-door bargaining with Secretary of State William P. Rogers. The continued vacancies, high officials believe, could damage U.S. Far Eastern policy.

The delayed appointments are: G. McMurtrie Godley, assistant secretary for Far Eastern affairs; Graham Martin, ambassador to South Vietnam; William Sullivan, ambassador to the Philippines; and Charles S. Whitehouse, ambassador to Laos. All named key diplomatic posts in the Far East over the last decade.
With the Vietnam war officially ended, Senators engaged in big stall claim policy in the Far East to carry out a "new policy." But it is hardly conceivable that the administration would hand down on its nominees, each of whom is highly respected in the Senate. Despite Mr. Nixon's present weakness, the most pressure move can conceivably accomplish is to change the matter of future ambassadorial assignments.

Open Forum

Sports?

After reading the Open Forum letter, "No Sport," I agree that the Indy 500 is nothing more than legalized mayhem.

However, no one drags those unfortunate spectators to this race, they go for the express purpose of seeing just the sights he describes. As in many other things, there is no one to force you to witness these spectacles. Nearly every night of the week we watch some of the worst slaughter there is in the name of "Football." In the winter it is hockey where a puck or stick, can maim or kill as easily as an automobile at the Indy 500. Does he watch these? Has he seen the players stagger off the ice, receive 10 to 20 stitches, and in 20 minutes be back in the thick of action.

The Indy 500 occurs once a year and since 1911 there have been 30 fatalities. Has he bothered to look up the number of killed in the name of booting the crippled, physically and mentally, through this sport? I would wager there are more graves from this sport than all of the other contact sports, plus the Indy 500, yet the only thing mentioned was cock fighting for pete's sake. Has he heard of bull baiting (which still exists), dog fights (also) and the most vicious of all is the one where a roach is mearched with honey and released in a bowl with six huge ants. Believe me, that roach never (cocky) again.

Would all walkers please collect the money from their sponsors now? We would like all money turned in to the Savings Bank of Rockville at 25 Park Street by Monday, June 18.

In a day when we seem to enjoy accenting the negative rather than the positive how good it was to see over 400 people "Walk for the Hungry" on Sunday, June 3.

Comments
For a Coalition Government

NEW YORK, N.Y. — The focus is shifting. While the nation still watches the Watergate story unfold, there is little doubt left in most minds about the fact (not the extent) of President Nixon's involvement in corrupt election operations. The new focus is on how workable the government will be, how badly the society has been wounded, how sorely it will suffer from dismay and disbelief at home and loss of confidence abroad.

Somehow, in the end, the culprits will be punished. The President is a special case only because he is President and the stability of the society is tangled up with him. Whether the opposition prime minister or not we like it, that is how it is in the American system.

In this case there are safety valves — the belief that the courts have worked (especially in the case of U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica), that the press has worked and that the Senate investigation is working. Thus the disbelief is not about all political institutions but about the crucial one.
The question the special prosecutor, Archibald Cox, raises is cropping up in letters to the editor around the nation. The nub of it is that there is a three-ring circus in operation — the grand jury, the Senate inquiry, the daily press revelations. It makes for easy reading and viewing, say the letters, but what precedents does it set and how does it make for due process of law?
I share the disquiet, especially since I recall another Senate committee inquiry (Joe McCarthy's) and the newspaper headlines he tried to use, and how complacent Richard Nixon was about them and how angry the liberals were. I don't like double standards, whether in morals or government.

But this is an extraordinary occasion, and must admit extraordinary measures. The Senate inquiry (despite Cox's pleas) has taken hold of the imagination too strongly to be stopped now. It is too good as radio and TV political theater to be replaced by the necessarily secret processes of the grand jury alone. The instinct of the people is sound here: Let them all go together, in a healthy rivalry, to yield maximum light. After the dismal years of secrecy we need the light.
But this only sharpens the need for greater stability and confidence in the Presidency while the secrets and the penalties unfold. If impeachment is too traumatic, and since we don't have cabinet government, the best solution will be to throw safeguards around the President and the Presidency. This can be done by getting an informal but public agreement from the President that he will put a coalition government together for the remainder of his tenure.
It isn't enough for him to be reorganizing his White House staff, as he keeps doing periodically; he must also reorganize his government, share the top Cabinet posts with Democrats, agree on a power balance in Congress and contrive some sort of overview or major decisions on the economy, foreign policy and on the dollar abroad. It can be done. There is nothing in the Constitution to prohibit it.
The President won't like it, but he has little choice if the practical options are the coalition route or the resignation-impeachment route.

Moonlight Gasoline Market Blooming

By BOB MONROE, Associated Press Writer
NEW YORK (AP) — The gasoline shortage has produced a small, shadowy market where some fuel-starved independent gas station chains are paying premium prices to distributors for supplies.

The market, described by some independents as "moonlight gasoline" or "back door deals," operates at the local wholesale level. Independents confirmed its existence in many sections of the country but it appears to account for a relatively small volume.

The distributors, industry middlemen known as jobbers, generally buy their gasoline from major oil companies. Several independents said the majors have been trying to curb the practice by limiting the amount they will sell the jobbers.

The market got started when the shortage forced the chains' regular suppliers to cut back the amount of fuel they would deliver.

Operators of the private brand chains, where the motorist in the past was able to save 3 to 6 cents a gallon, then had to find alternative gas sources or be faced with having to close stations.

Whatever the reason for allocating the consensus of independents was that it has had the effect of drying up much of the gasoline that was available on this market three or four months ago.

Both independents and spokesmen for several government agencies agreed the practice was not illegal but was an outgrowth of a "seller's market" with some charging what the traffic will bear.

One way major companies get gasoline to the retail market is to sell it to the independent wholesalers, who resell it to dealers who operate the brand-name neighborhood service stations. According to the independents, some distributors are selling to the private brand chains on the side, charging them a cent or more a gallon over what they charge name-brand stations.

North Vietnam Getting Cargo Despite Mines

WASHINGTON (AP) — Russian and other freighters have delivered well over 150,000 tons of cargo to North Vietnam since the United States suspended minesweeping, Pentagon sources estimate.

This suggests ship captains are confident the mines, laid by U.S. Navy planes as late as last December, have deactivated automatically as American officials said they were pre-set to do.

A Navy task force is expected to resume minesweeping at Haiphong and other North Vietnamese ports in a few days now that U.S. and Hanoi negotiators have reached agreement to carry out terms of the Vietnam cease-fire pact signed last Jan. 27.

The task force of about 18 ships, which dispersed in late April, is reported to have reassembled at Subic Bay in the Philippines.

Pentagon spokesman Jerry W. Friedman said a chief reason for minesweeping is to assure that the mines have deactivated.

About 11,000 U.S. mines were dropped into North Vietnamese waters, principally in the approaches to seven North Vietnamese ports, but U.S. minesweepers exploded only one mine after clearing operations began at Haiphong on March 6.

A minesweeping specialist said U.S. officials know that the North Vietnamese earlier conducted some minesweeping at Haiphong, North Vietnam's principal port.

Within a few days of the start of the U.S. Navy's minesweeping work in early March, the Pentagon reported the first Soviet freighter had entered Haiphong harbor since the mining during the previous May.

The volume delivered at Haiphong still has not approached the 200,000 tons a

Official Criticizes Oil Industry Energy Crisis Allegations

WASHINGTON (AP) — The President's top environment adviser Wednesday sharply criticized oil industry advertising, that the nation's energy crisis is due to antipollution efforts.

"This assertion is simply not true," said Russell E. Train, chairman of the Council on Environmental Quality.

"I emphasize this point because there is a current tendency to make the environment the whipping boy for our energy problems," Train told a meeting of the Washington Rotary Club.

Train cited a statement by an oil executive whom he did not name as charging environmentalists with blocking construction of new power plants and refineries.

"In my opinion," Train said, "such statements obscure the facts, confuse the issues, and can only serve to delay effective solution of our energy problems."

Train also mentioned advertising which sought to convince the public that automobile emission standards cause major reductions of gasoline mileage.

Train said Environmental Protection Agency studies showed far more significant mileage losses from automatic transmissions, air conditioners and greater weight of automobiles. Train said small cars get about 22 miles per gallon instead of the present U.S. average of less than 14.

"In my opinion," he said, "it is imperative that our society shift its preference to smaller cars."

Modern Ills Battering Roman Ruins

ROME (AP) — The Arch of Constantine has joined the neighboring Colosseum on the list of Italy's ancient monuments battered by modern ills.

Experts report that the arch, a 153-year-old gateway to Rome, is losing its sturdiness. They blamed heavy traffic around it, particularly big buses carrying thousands of tourists daily to see the arch and the Colosseum.

The arch, built to commemorate the emperor's triumphs, is an emblem of Rome's imperial past and was believed to be as eternal as the Colosseum.

The Colosseum was such a symbol of Rome's eternity that an ancient saying warned, "When the Colosseum falls, Rome will fall, when Rome falls, the world shall fall."

Both the world and Rome survived, but masonry began falling from the jagged ruins of the 1,801-year-old Colosseum last year. Heavy traffic around the monument was again cited as the chief reason.

Parts of the Colosseum were cordoned off and closed to the public, as were some other parts in the Roman Forum area.

And so as not to disturb the time-honored monuments, tanks and armored vehicles were kept away from this year's Republic Day parade around the Forum. Even air force jets flew higher than normal.

Forget the Used-Necktie Bin

Father's Day? Think Shirts!

By HELEN HENNESSY NEA Women's Editor

Most men never get the opportunity to choose their Father's Day gift. The day comes and goes and dad pretty much takes what he gets with a smile. (He thinks she shops the used-necktie bins. She thinks he wouldn't recognize a good, smart fashion if he stepped on it.) And while the necktie craze does seem to head the Dad's Day parade of gift-wearables, there's many a man who sports a few brand new shirts, too, after his holiday.

"There's no man more interested in his appearance than a man in show business," said Al Ivler, designer for Career Shirt Co. And wondering what you would select himself if he had a choice, Ivler went for the answers to four diversified performers. He asked what kind of shirt each would wear to receive as a Father's Day gift.

Paul Anka, singer-composer said: "I'd like to have a lot of ruffles. Call it the Douglas P. Air-Breaks syndrome. But I feel like a swashbuckler in a ruffled shirt."

Sergio Mendes, pianist-composer, said: "I like plain blue shirts. I can't explain why but I feel creative when I'm wearing a blue shirt. Most of my formal shirts are blue, too. I'm aware of it."

From Your Neighbor's Kitchen

By Vivian F. Ferguson

Bob and Joan Taylor enjoy people. When they entertain, they are apt to make an all-day affair of it. It might be a party occasion, everyone dressed in bathing suits enjoying a dip in the pool.

They have fun on the spur of the moment. Once, after a Memorial Day parade, they went to the home of two friends, then everyone ended up at their place, 4 Alice Drive. "Nothing had been planned, it just happened," said Bob. "Yes, we're zany that way," laughed Joan. "This year, on my birthday, which is January ninth, we had a steak cookout in the carport. Snow covered the ground and people were going past the house staring at us. Of course, we ate inside."

Joan's friend, June Lea was visiting with her two sons, Fred and Frank. "Once," she interjected, "they served kielbasa done on the grill, later lamb chops and shrimp as appetizers followed by a roast." Everyone sits around enjoying each other's company. This is similar to a clam bake where there is a large menu but you don't eat everything all at once, spreading it out over several hours.

Bob learned to cook at 13 when his mother died. His brother Bill, who is now drum major of the Manchester Pipe Band, was then in the U.S. Navy. "It was either sink or swim. My father would help me out, telling me what to do," said Bob.

"It's nice when we entertain because we share in the preparation," stated Joan. "Yes," replied Bob, "Joan takes care of all the incidentals and I'll do the main course. We also eat out at least once a week and the children can do their own ordering from the menu."

The two Taylor girls are Debbie 11 and Cindy 5. Last summer, I met Joan in a grocery store. After hearing her order, I asked if I could write about the lobster bake they were planning. Bob had read about a beach party where lobsters, chicken, clams, etc. were baked all day in a covered hole in the sand. "I modified it for home use on a grill. The heat must be intense so I took a 5-gallon barrel and split it in half, then put it on legs to make the grill." Bob used some pounds of charcoal which must be grey-white when the lobsters are baked.

There were six adults, the Taylors, Fred and June Lea, and Town Clerk Ed Tomkowiak and his wife Maureen. Each couple has two children. It was Ed's turn to pay for the food. "The lobsters ran about three pounds each at the market that day. Ed had some bill to pay and he's still moaning about it," laughed Bob. "It was a perfect summer day, the sun shining, pleasantly hot but not uncomfortably so. While the children splashed happily in the pool or played a game of croquet, the adults enjoyed

COOKING IS FUN

School Menus

The cafeteria menus for Manchester Public is itself since 18-22, are:

Monday: Orange juice, peanut butter and jelly sandwich, vegetable sticks, milk, chocolate pudding.

Tuesday: Menu to be announced at each school.

Wednesday: Grinder, applesauce, milk, ice cream.

Thursday: 1/2 day session no lunch program.

Friday: No school.

AFTERNOON SNACK

Apple Wedges, Milk Refrigerator Gingerbread REFRIGERATOR GINGERBREAD

The kids should like this:

- 2 cups sifted flour
- 1/2 teaspoon baking soda
- 1/4 teaspoon ginger
- 1/2 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/2 teaspoon allspice
- 1/4 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup butter or margarine
- 1 cup sugar
- 2 eggs
- 1/2 cup light molasses
- 1/2 cup buttermilk

Sift together the flour, baking soda, ginger, cinnamon, allspice and salt. Cream butter and sugar; beat in eggs one at a time. Add dry ingredients alternately with buttermilk, beating until blended. To store, cover bowl tightly (first with a damp towel, then with wax paper tied securely with cord) and store in the refrigerator 2 to 3 hours. Turn into a greased loaf pan (9 by 5 by 3 inches) and bake in a preheated 350-degree oven about 1 hour. Cool on wire rack about 10 minutes. Turn out of pan and cool completely.

Convertible Swimsuits Skirted swimsuits that detach to become regular bikinis are great for women whose hips and thighs are slightly heavier than they would like.

Tattooed Tummies? What looks like tattoos, but are really tiny decals for the body, will be seen on many young and bare mid-ribs this summer.

Basin Clean-up Cost Estimated At $1.3 Billion

HARTFORD (AP) — The study said air pollution control costs for industry will be about $677 million, compared to $191 million for industrial water pollution control expenditures.

According to the survey, nearly half of the total costs for the Center for Environment and Man, a Hartford firm which assisted in the survey.

Northrop said the major pollution problems in the basin were municipal sewage and waste water and a few polluting industries.

He said that one major cost that may have to be revised upwards in the coming years will be for imported low sulphur fuel oil.

"Since the study was completed in 1972 the devastation of the dollar and the increased demand for fuel indicates higher costs in the coming years for low sulphur fuel," he said.

The estimates cover capital expenditures as well as operating and maintenance costs.

CRCOG-CRPA Merger Round Table Topic

Mayor John Thompson announced Wednesday that, "in order to allay any fears about the implications of the merger of the Capitol Region of Councils and the Capitol Region Planning Agency," he will arrange a roundtable discussion on the subject in Manchester.

He said it will be the first or second week in July at a suitable place. He is inviting East Hartford Mayor Richard Blackstone, the council's chairman, and Dana Hanson, its

Registrar Names Three Assistants

Republican Registrar Frederick Peck has named three new assistant registrars for Manchester. They are: Mrs. Louise Cronin, 57 E. Middle Tpke.; Mrs. Susan Farr, 29 Elizabeth Dr.; and Mrs. Mary Ann Shaw, 28 S. Hawthorne St.

Peck said the three participated in voter-making sessions last week at Manchester High School and in the town clerk's office "and appear to be working out successfully."

He said they were appointed on the recommendations of the Republican Town Committee and their district leaders.

"With the decision to participate in additional voter-making sessions, the need for more assistants was evident," Peck explained.

CATTLE GET TAPIOCA
LONDON (AP) — Cereal feeds for beef and dairy cattle are becoming so expensive that British farmers are looking around for cheaper substitutes. Tapioca, or cassava, the raw material from which it is made, is high on the list.

Dutch and Belgian farmers have been using the product for some time. Mike Stranks, an animal nutrition expert with the Agricultural Development and Advisory Services, says: "In Holland and Belgium relatively small quantities of cereals are used for livestock feeding because they import a lot of cassava and citrus pulp which are used in preference to cereals as a cheaper source of energy."

After a ribbon-cutting ceremony Cashman rode the first car across the span between New London and Groton. It was a 1941 Lincoln Continental, the same car which initiated traffic across the old Gold Star bridge when it opened in 1943. Mrs. Adrienne Tylla of East Lyme owns the car.

The old bridge, which parallels the new span, will be closed in two weeks for renovations to be completed in 1975. During that time the new bridge will carry traffic both ways. When the entire $90 million project is finished, one bridge will have five eastbound lanes, the other five westbound lanes.

During the dedication ceremonies, eastbound traffic was tied up on the old bridge when a truck and a car collided. No serious injuries were reported.

Pre-Retirement Program Launched

HARTFORD (AP) — Retiring workers should look forward to more than just passing the time of day with their gold watches, a new state office believes.

The Connecticut Office of Pre-Retirement Education, thought to be the first in the country, was signed into law Monday by Gov. Thomas J. Meskill.

With $50,000 funding, it plans to develop a program to ease aging workers into retirement.

The worker who reaches 65, gets a gold watch and takes the traditional trip, wakes up at home one morning in retirement shock, says Shalom Bloom, director of Connecticut's Department of Aging. His rosy dream of "No more work" is shattered with boredom and a cut income.

"Fifty per cent don't know what to do with themselves," Bloom said. These over 60 years of age have the highest suicide rate of any age group, he said.

Often, the elderly couple sells their house or business and moves to Florida, only to find themselves in a retirement village where they meet their grandchildren.

A retirement revolution is coming down the pike," Bloom predicted. Many workers are taking early retirement, and people are living longer. By the end of the century, he said, senior citizens will have 25 active retired years.

The state program is modeled after a pioneering pre-retirement program sponsored by the United Auto Workers Union and the Scovill Manufacturing Co. in Waterbury, Conn.

The office will counsel workers over 55 in classes conducted at the plant or office. The worker will be reminded that he won't have that pay check coming in every paycheck when he retires and that he may have to curtail his activities. He will be told that health and nutrition needs of an old body are different. And that there are thousands of productive activities that can keep a retired person busy and happy.

The spouse will also be brought into the counseling.

"We'll say to them, 'Don't move to Florida. Take a second look,'" said Richard Resnik, chairman of the state Committee on pre-retirement Education and a UAW leader.

The retired couple may be happier staying in their present home near their family rather than pulling up roots and moving, he said.

The pre-retirement office will call on bankers, realtors,

Democrats Oppose Health Cuts

HARTFORD (AP) — Two ranking Democrats on the legislature's Appropriations and Finance Committees have urged the commissioners of mental health and mental retardation to spend their full department appropriation in the coming fiscal year.

Sens. Louis Cuttito of Waterbury and Joseph Lieberman of New Haven said the two departments should reject an administration request to hold back 4 per cent of their appropriated budget.

The request for cutbacks was made to all state agencies by Finance and Control Commissioner Ernest Shepherd. Lieberman said the 4 per cent reduction would mean a $2.5 million decrease in the department's budget. Lieberman said that Shepherd had asked for and received a special $4 million appropriation to meet national accreditation standards.

"How can you now even consider a $2.5 million decrease in the legislative appropriation?" Lieberman asked.

Cuttito, in a letter to Gareth Thorne, deputy commissioner of mental retardation, said the 4 per cent would wipe out 200 positions just approved by the governor. Cuttito said the law only gives the governor authority to cut budgets if a deficit is anticipated, and he said "No deficit is anticipated."

Offshore Supertanker Ports Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — The administration has asked Congress to approve legislation permitting construction of offshore ports for supertankers.

Jack Horton, an assistant interior secretary, said such ports would be environmentally sound and save American consumers money on oil imports.

The average tanker handled by U.S. ports carries about 30,000 tons. Of the principal tanker ports on the East Coast, only Portland, Maine can accommodate tankers exceeding 55,000-ton capacity.

Horton appeared before the House Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee which is holding hearings on two bills that would allow the offshore ports to be built.

One measure spells out environmental standards for the ports. The other would set up a procedure by which the federal government would grant construction permits.

The ports would be built at varying distances from the coast. Huge supertankers, each carrying up to 700,000 tons of crude oil, would unload at the offshore ports and the oil then would be shipped by pipeline to the coast.

"The question is simply whether these large tankers will unload in the Caribbean or Canada for trans-shipment to the United States or whether they will bring their cargoes directly to this country via deep water ports off our own coasts," Horton said.

"In addition to economic advantages," he said, "these large newer tankers could offer environmental advantages in the form of advanced pollution control devices."

The Tolland Junior Woman's Club has launched its annual membership drive. Applications are available for women between the ages of 18 and 40.

The club, founded eight years ago, is nonprofit, non-sectarian and non-partisan. It is affiliated with the international organization. Its purpose is to bring young women together to use their energies and abilities to benefit themselves and their community by providing civic, cultural, educational, and social development.

The TJWC was recipient of a silver tray presented by the Connecticut State Federation of Women's Clubs for its efforts and achievements during 1972-73. Some of these were beautification and conservation projects, library displays and Civil Air Patrol boys will assist conservation committee members in transplanting blue spruce trees to Hicks School and Tolland High School.

The trees were donated last winter to the club by Mr. and Mrs. Walter Kreckho, Peter Green Rd. Members and their husbands dug up and stored approximately 80 of these trees through the winter.

Additional information or applications may be obtained from the membership chairman, Mrs. Richard Carlson, Willie Circle, 878-7214.

Members of the conservation committee, Tolland Junior Woman's Club, recently painted the window boxes at the Town Hall and Administration Building. Flowers donated by Roy's Greenhouse, Tolland, were planted in the boxes and in the ground.

Helen Martin and Rita Blodeau received first prize for their display at the Third District poppy contest. The winning display will be taken to the state convention to be judged by the department for state honors.

Pension Bids

Sealed bids for a town employ pension plan will be received until Aug. 1 at 4:30 p.m.

All bids proposals should be addressed to Insurance Committee, care of Selectmen, Tolland, and mailed or hand delivered to the Selectmen's office, Administration Building.

Specifications for the pension plan are available at the selectmen's office and may be obtained by writing or calling.

The town reserves the right to reject any or all bid proposals and to negotiate certain terms and conditions with the successful bidder.

School Calendar

The Board of Education Wednesday night voted to hold half-day sessions the final three days of school, due to the heat. June 18, 19 and 20 will be half days.

Tolland High School graduation ceremonies will be held Sunday, June 17, at 3 p.m. outside behind the school.

Exchange Student

The American Field Service Student Exchange program is sponsoring Ginny Gates, a Tolland High School junior, for a nine-week visit to Lima, Peru, starting June 18.

Miss Gates, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Gates of Old Post Rd., will stay with the family of Mr. and Mrs. Francisco Navarro. She was selected for the exchange after a screening program by the local AFS chapter, and referred to the AFS office in New York where she was matched to her host family.

Airlines To X-Ray Baggage

WASHINGTON (AP) — The airline industry announced Wednesday it is purchasing more than $4 million in low-dose X-ray machines to screen carry-on baggage as part of its antihijacking campaign.

The industry and airport operators have been after the FAA to change some of its regulations, but the Air Line Pilots Association has been pushing the agency to continue its present strong rules.

W. Blake Thompson, senior vice president of financial planning for Allegheny Airlines, said the low-dose, quick impulse X-ray devices can examine a piece of luggage in one to three seconds.

"These new X-ray units can detect the finest wire used in an explosive device, while at the same time posing no threat to film or magnetic tapes," he told the chairman of security committees from 48 airports.

Thompson was the leadoff speaker at a two-day conference sponsored by the Air Transport Association, which represents the nation's scheduled airlines.

Members of the board for both companies have had meetings to develop an artistic exchange between the two companies in future seasons.

Environmental Impact Study Ordered

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal court has demanded an immediate study of environmental hazards of developing fast-breeder atomic power, which President Nixon has called the energy source of the future.

The three-judge U.S. Appeals Court for the District of Columbia ruling said, "It is evident that the program presents unique and unprecedented environmental hazards."

Citing the problems of handling some 600,000 cubic feet of concentrated radioactive wastes that would be generated by the year 2000 under the fast-breeder plan, the court said: "These wastes will pose an admitted hazard to human health for hundreds of years, and will have to be maintained in special repositories."

Reversing a district court decision, the appeals court said the Atomic Energy Commission must prepare a study of environmental impacts of the breeder-reactor development program.

The AEC had argued that an impact study was not needed until the breeder reactor program moved out of the research stage and was on the verge of commercial construction, estimated around 1980.

The Natural Resources Defense Council (NRDC), a citizens environment organization, which had sued the AEC, claimed the law requires an environmental-impact study early in the entire program.

A fast-breeder power plant operates by generating plutonium-239, which is used as reactor fuel instead of uranium 235, a scarce natural element used in present nuclear power plants.

The problem is no atomic reactor uses up its fuel completely. Highly radioactive waste materials must periodically be removed and disposed of. And plutonium wastes would remain highly radioactive for hundreds of thousands of years, posing potential long-range hazards.

Soccer Clinic Listed Friday

ANNE EMT
Correspondent
Tel. 228-3971

Benny Brewer of the new Connecticut Wildcat professional soccer team will conduct a soccer clinic Friday from 7 to 8:30 p.m. at the Hebron Elementary School.

The clinic is open to anyone interested in learning more about soccer and there is no admission charge. The program will consist of soccer movies, demonstrations by Wildcat players and special instruction for youngsters.

Brewer, a graduate of Brown University, Providence, R.I., was a member of the 1967 and 1968 All-League teams and the 1968 All-New England team, and the 1968 All-American team.

In 1969 he played for the Boston Astors of the American Soccer League and in 1970 was a guest participant in the training camp of the first division English team, West Ham United of London.

Brewer holds a "B" coaching certificate issued by the United States Soccer-Football Association. He served as freshman soccer coach at Yale University from 1969 through 1971, and is presently head soccer coach at Boston College.

This clinic, according to James Cello, physical education director for the Hebron elementary schools, will be the culmination of the spring after-school programs.

Taxpayers
The Hebron Taxpayers Association will hold its first annual meeting Friday evening at 7:30 in the Rham High School auditorium.

On the agenda for the meeting are the election of officers and approval of the bylaws. The meeting is open to the public.

Rham Graduation

Activities for Rham High School's sixteenth commencement will open with a baccalaureate program on Sunday evening at 7 in the auditorium. The address will be given by the Rev. John Kozon of St. Columba's Church, Columbia.

The invocation and benediction will be delivered by the Rev. Robert Weeden, pastor of Marlborough Congregational Church.

Commencement exercises are scheduled for Wednesday at 8:30 p.m. in the outdoor amphitheater, weather permitting; if not, at 8 p.m. in the gymnasium. Admission is unrestricted outdoors, but by ticket only if in the gym.

Robert G. Day, former assistant principal at Rham and now principal of Shepley Hill School in Dudley, Mass., will give the address.

Student To Take Part In Aquatic Workshop

ANNE EMT
Correspondent
Tel. 228-3971

Laure Devine, a junior at Rham High School, has been selected by the New England Aquarium of Boston to participate in an Environmental Workshop to be held during the month of July.

Laure is one of 18 coed students (three from each of the six New England States) who will spend a four-week period camping out and visiting an assortment of typical aquatic systems.

The students time will be spent in the Moxie Forest in Vermont, the Androscoggin River in Maine and New Hampshire, the marshes and beaches of Rhode Island and Connecticut, and the islands and harbor of Boston. At each study area a complete unit will be established, and day trips will be taken by foot, canoe or boat to explore and learn more about the interesting aspects of the area.

Resource people from each state and region will join the group to supplement the regular staff and to provide practical and professional input.

One of the important undertakings will be bio-chemical examination of the water systems and an evaluation of their present and potential uses.

The data and observations will be recorded using cameras.

South Windsor Chamber Leads Planting Project

Karen Krone To Get Grant

ANNE EMT
Correspondent
Tel. 228-3971

The Hebron Junior Women's Club announced yesterday that its annual scholarship award will be presented this year to Miss Karen Krone, R.I. 85 who will be graduating June 20 from Rham High School as the number one student in her class of 118.

Miss Krone has been accepted for the fall semester at Central Connecticut State College where she will study secondary school education and major in the field of slow learners.

For the past two months, in addition to her own scholastic achievements, she has been tutoring two children with learning problems.

At Rham, Miss Krone is a member of the National Honor Society, a State of Connecticut Scholar and the recipient of the Spanish Academic Award.

She also belongs to the Ecology Club, the chorus and the band, and was yearbook editor as well as a delegate to Laurel Girl's State.

Registration for the girls softball summer program will be held Tuesday evening from 6:30 to 7:30 at the Gilead Hill School.

The program, which is under the direction of Mrs. Charlene Cross and Mrs. Anne Emt, will run through the month of July.

Bolton

Graduation Tomorrow

Bolton High School graduation ceremony will be held at 7 p.m. either in the gymnasium or outside at the high school.

The question of having the graduation ceremony outside depends on the weather and on whether members of the senior class get the facilities set up and make arrangements to take them down.

At the ceremony the invocation will be by the Rev. John F. Fiora III and the benediction by the Rev. Robert W. Cronin. Col. John E. Richters Jr. will speak on "The Time of Your Life."

Col. Richters holds a black belt in Judo, is a life insurance salesman, and author of a book entitled "Sales Karate."

This year all seniors were required to write a graduation speech, transcribed on plain paper and unsigned. The students themselves chose five staff members who chose two speeches that will be read at graduation.

Lola Campbell's speech is entitled "History, Reality and Mystery," and Richard Alton's is entitled "Living: The Art and Challenge."

Bolton Scholarship Fund, Inc. will make its awards with Robert Murdoch president, presenting them.

Dr. Joseph Castagna, superintendent of schools, will read the names of seniors.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon and Soviet Communist leader Leonid Brezhnev are expected to concentrate on arms limitations and closer economic ties in their "working summit meeting" that opens here next Monday.

U.S. officials caution in advance that Brezhnev's June 18-20 visit is not likely to produce any major breakthroughs comparable to the agreement on defensive weapons signed by Nixon when he visited the Soviet Union last spring.

For example, they would be surprised if Nixon and Brezhnev complete anything spectacular on the Middle East, where war and peace are considered to remain very much in the hands of the Arab states and Israel.

Some half-done pacts will be ready for announcement during the summit, but they are relatively minor in importance. In a Wednesday night speech, Nixon devoted mainly to the economy, Jewish organizations plan to protest against Soviet restrictions on Jewish emigration to Israel. Brezhnev is visiting the United States. A "Freedom Assembly" of Soviet Jews is planned near the Capitol on Sunday.

Brezhnev may run into other demonstrations if he goes to San Clemente, where the agreements being reached for the summit sessions include provisions for joint exploration of the oceans, broader cultural exchanges, ways to collect taxes from nations in the way of peacekeeping in the other, exchanges of experts and research in transportation and health care, as well as other fields. The purpose of the field, he explained, is to permit eventual expansion to a fourth league.

Director Pascal Prignano questioned the practicality of the suggested field, "because of its proximity to the landfill area and its odors — odors which might drive players and spectators away."

Town Manager Robert Weiss said plans are under way to eliminate the odor and, "once it is eliminated, plans might be started for making the whole area recreational."

Town resident Balla Pagani charged that nothing is being done to eliminate the stench emanating from the treatment plant's filter beds, "no matter what we are being told is being done."

"It's worse than ever, and the people living in the area can't stand it," he said. "Even the kids playing Little League ball can't stand it."

The Little League request for another field will be placed on the directors' July agenda for public hearing and consideration.

A second commonly held misconception is that the way of the cross is the way of passive submission. One only goes to the cross when he cannot do any other thing, we say, or else he is a fool. This equates the cross with weakness rather than strength, with defeat and not victory.

There came a time in Jesus' ministry when He realized the inevitability of His death. He told his disciples that it would be necessary for Him to suffer and die. But because they held the idea that the weak die and the strong live, they rejected the very thought. It was not that they were afraid of death but they were demoralized by the submissive death that the cross projected.

They were not cowards. On the night that Jesus was arrested, Peter grabbed a sword and attempted to assassinate the high priest. He missed him completely, but his sword cut off the ear of a servant. While the sword was the only way they knew to fight, they wanted their deaths to count for something. To die with a sword in the hand was one thing; to die with a nail through the hand was quite another. They ran to live and fight another day.

Dr. George W. Webb, South United Methodist Church.

Two company managers, Joseph Buoncorno and Eugene Chusshheim, told police there was a man who identified himself as an internal revenue service agent entered their office and threatened to blow them up with an attaché case containing five or six sticks that appeared to be dynamite.

He ordered the two employees to withdraw $14,000 from the company account, police said. When told the firm's bank was in New York City, he threatened to drive him to another bank, made Buoncorno cash his paycheck and took a total of $14,000 from the two men. They were left unharmed in a deserted part of town.

Center Aids Boston Renewal Plan

BOSTON (AP) — The new 15-acre Christian Science International Center and its 16-acre perimeter development have been coordinated to play a major role in the renewal of Boston's Back Bay section.

One of the problems facing architect I.M. Pei, who began the design on the unified center 10 years ago, was that the original church structures were to be maintained, so that new construction had to blend with the old.

The original Mother Church edifice was built in 1844; the domed extension seating 5,000 was completed in 1906, and a building housing the Christian Science Publishing Society was opened in 1933.

In addition, Pei, whose other projects in the area include the Boston Government Center and the Kennedy Library, had to design the perimeter area so that private developers could build housing on land sold or leased by the church, in keeping with the city's overall renewal plans.

The plan calls for balanced housing — some low-cost, some moderate and some at higher market levels. The church is making certain parcels of its land available at less than market value to develop housing for the elderly.

The new center construction consists of a Church Administration Building, a Church Colonnade, a Sunday School, an underground garage, a new portico to the Mother Church extension and a plaza with a reflecting pool, gardens, trees and benches, all open to the community.

The lobby of the 28-story Administration building of architectural concrete has a 34-foot ceiling, is open and naturally lighted. There are no interior columns on any of the 25 office floors. A gridwork of electric power and telephone services is installed in cells throughout each floor for maximum utility and efficiency. All that private developers could build housing on land sold or leased by the church, in keeping with the city's overall renewal plans.

The Sunday School, a two-story structure plus a 430-seat balcony, can accommodate 500 pupils and staff, but can be adapted to seat 1,150 at general meetings. A unique feature is

LL Says It Would Build Own Field on Town Site

The Manchester Little League is seeking another field for its play and has told town officials it will construct and maintain one at its own expense if the town will donate the land.

Assistant Town Manager John Harkin recommended to the Board of Directors Tuesday night that it approve a town-owned area of Love Lane, near Olcott St. and near, also, the town's sanitary landfill area.

He said there is sufficient area for parking and access could be via a dirt road from Love Lane, unused now except for access to WINF's transmitter.

Harkin said title to the land would remain with the town, in the event it would be needed for future landfill expansion. He said the Little League would assume all responsibility, as with its other fields. The purpose of the field, he explained, is to permit eventual expansion to a fourth league.

Director Pascal Prignano questioned the practicality of the suggested field, "because of its proximity to the landfill area and its odors — odors which might drive players and spectators away."

Town Manager Robert Weiss said plans are under way to eliminate the odor and, "once it is eliminated, plans might be started for making the whole area recreational."

Sight Restored, Man Sees Wife

By LEIF ERICKSON
Associated Press Writer

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — With his sight restored after 17 years, Robert Blitt saw his wife for the first time 27 months after their marriage.

"It is one of the most personal experiences you can imagine," Blitt said Wednesday on leaving Mt. Zion Hospital, where a plastic lens was implanted June 4.

"I was delighted," he said of seeing his wife, Martha, and their 6-month-old son, Fabian, for the first time one day after the surgery.

"I knew they were beautiful. But seeing them adds a completely new perspective to that beauty," said the 39-year-old Blitt, who met his wife at a youth conference in 1967 and married her four years later.

Blitt said blind people tend to develop mental images of people and his wife didn't look as he expected she would.

"But there was no trouble discarding the picture I had made up," he said.

"All people have arms, legs, a torso and a head. It's when you start looking at faces that each person becomes unique. There's no way you can put together a face without seeing it."

Blitt, a mathematics teacher at Arapahoe Community College at Littleton, Colo., was blinded in 1956 by a jet sulfur dioxide gas escaping from a refrigerator he was repairing. He then was an engineering student at Stanford University.

No Clues Found For Navy Ship Lost In 1918

NORFOLK, Va. (AP) — Lt. Cmdr. George W. Worley had just overseen the loading of more than 10,000 tons of manganese ore aboard his Navy fuel ship when he guided her into the Atlantic on March 4, 1918.

The weather was fair and Worley steered the 7½-year-old ship away from Barbados toward the United States and an eventual destination of Hampton Roads, Chesapeake Bay and Baltimore, Md.

But Worley and the 308 passengers and crewmen aboard the USS Cyclops were not bound for Baltimore. They were bound for oblivion.

It was 85 years ago today that the Navy, after first denying that the Cyclops was missing, finally admitted it was being lost when the ship disappeared in the black-ink sea.

In the years since, the ocean has not yielded a single clue to the fate of the Cyclops.

Despite comprehensive, almost frantic searches, not one piece of wreckage, not one body, not one splinter from the 642-foot long ship has ever been found.

"The disappearance of this ship has been one of the most baffling mysteries in the annals of the Navy, all attempts to locate her having proved unsuccessful," the Navy concluded. "Many theories have been advanced, but none that satisfactorily accounts for her disappearance."

Cyclops reported no problems in her one radio report one day out of Barbados. The crew of 236 and the 73 passengers, including the U.S. consul at Rio de Janeiro, apparently were enjoying a routine trip.

There were no more reports. At first, the Navy refused to admit the Cyclops was lost and news reports indicating she might never reach port were belittled by military officials.

In fact, the Navy reported that Cyclops was proceeding toward port, but was moving slowly because of engine trouble. Even then, American destroyers were combing miles of the Atlantic for some trace of her.

The destroyers turned up no sign of the vessel and finally, a month after her last radio message had been received, the Navy admitted the truth.

"Only God and the sea know what happened to the great ship," said President Woodrow Wilson.

Firm Needs Engineers

HARTFORD (AP) — State Labor Commissioner Jack A. Fusari Wednesday asked the State Employment Service and units of the Connecticut Volunteer Engineers, Scientists and Technicians to refer unemployed engineers to a Windsor company.

The company, Combustion Engineering, plans to hire 30 engineers in its nuclear power department, he said.

Engineering graduates who are selected will participate in a 10-week course in nuclear engineering at Purdue University beginning next week.

A growing number of orders have created the need for additional staff, according to Jack Carvin, industrial relations director at Combustion.

They have all of our journals and they were abreast of some of the current hardware developments," he said. "And they have been able to make a number of significant contributions of their own to computer technology."

Booth, a professor of electrical engineering at UConn, said the Soviet scientists displayed a reserve about technology to the brink of closing the "computer gap" with the United States, a Connecticut expert says.

Dr. Taylor L. Booth, a University of Connecticut professor who returned this month from conferring with computer scientists in three Soviet cities, said Russian technology is "receiving a tremendous push" from the government.

At present, he said, the Soviets are modernizing very rapidly and lag behind the U.S. mainly in the field of miniaturizing computer components.

The problem involves less than 750 units of the Townsman model ES-38W and sample shipments of Townsman model ES-38WR, both of which reached the market in late March, the company said.

The company said Wednesday that it has developed a corrective and that servicemen will be sent to purchasers' homes to examine sets for the possible shock hazard.

Sign New Vietnam Cease-Fire Accord

The United States, North and South Vietnam and the Viet Cong yesterday signed new cease-fire accord at the Paris International Conference Center. The accord is designed to insure observance of the Vietnam peace agreement signed earlier this year.

Selective Service Registration Still Required

WASHINGTON (AP) — "Most of the 18-year-olds are saying they thought the draft was over, so they didn't have to register," said the Illinois state draft director, Capt. Thomas Hornada. "Some say they thought that, when they registered to vote, they automatically registered for the draft at the same time. We're getting all kinds of crazy ideas."

The most widespread failure to register was found in the West and New England, with the best compliance in the Midwest, despite Illinois. There was more neglect in urban than in rural areas, Peplone said.

"It's unfortunate the men are not registering," because they are violating the law, he told a reporter.

In an effort to reverse the figures, his headquarters is gearing up a nationwide publicity campaign, expected to start next month. Peplone plans to use such devices as posters in schools and radio and TV spots.

Also, Selective Service is making it easier to register by allowing the young men to sign up with such people as barbers, teachers and neighborhood businessmen, appointed as unpaid registrars. Others, including ministers and police officers, have been appointed advisers to registrants.

World Citizenship Proposed By Fr. Hesburgh

CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — The president of Notre Dame University proposed to a Harvard audience Wednesday that an international agency be set up to grant people world citizenship along with their national citizenship.

The Rev. Theodore M. Hesburgh said in a speech at Harvard University's alumni exercises such world citizenship would be a means to break down "the one great remaining divider of humankind... national sovereignty."

"What I would suggest is that everyone in the world would be allowed to hold dual citizenship—to be a citizen of the nation in which he or she happens to be born and, in addition, to be able to qualify for world citizenship," he said.

Father Hesburgh said an applicant for world citizenship would have to accept certain commitments.

"One would have to certify his or her belief in the unity of mankind, in the equal dignity of every human being, whatever his or her nationality, race, religion, sex or color," he said.

"One would have to certify his or her willingness to work for world peace through the promotion and practice of justice at home and abroad."

"One would have to do something to prove the sincerity of these beliefs, something to promote justice for all, something to promote the peace and well being of his or her fellow humans at home and abroad."

Father Hesburgh said he would hope the international agency set up to grant world citizenship would grant benefits "beyond the commitment" of world citizens.

Such a benefit, he said, would be "free passage without visas anywhere in the world."

"We might all begin by a declaration of the interdependence of mankind today," he said. "The evidence is totally on the side of such a declaration. There is no serious problem facing our country, and indeed the world today, that is not global in its sweep as well as in its solution."

"A new global vision is needed... one of social justice, in the equal dignity of every human being, whatever his or her nationality, race, religion, sex or color," he said.

The hummingbird is found only in the Western Hemisphere.

Banker Encouraged About Trade

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst

NEW YORK (AP) — After three days of meetings with bank and government officials in Moscow, A.W. "Tom" Clausen, Bank of America president, is greatly encouraged about the future of trade with the Soviet Union.

Moreover, he said, he is optimistic about the prospects for world peace and higher living standards, which he believes are logical consequences of nations cooperating to supply needs rather than threatening and restraining.

Clausen led a delegation from the $4-billion San Francisco-based bank, the nation's largest financial institution, to the Soviet capital to discuss approaches to financing the expected trade surge between the countries.

While few specifics were nailed down during the late May sessions with Gosbank, the state bank; Gosplan, the state committee for planning; and various other institutions, Clausen was able to state unequivocally at a Moscow news conference:

"The private financial institutions of the West will facilitate financing on reasonable terms for any project or arrangement which is of mutual benefit. We are eager to take part."

In some respects, he noted, the economies of the Soviet Union and the United States are complementary. The United States needs energy and the Soviets have it. The Soviets need agricultural products, which the United States has. Ideological differences, he decided, might be a short-run obstacle, but nothing that cannot be accommodated by two people who put man into space and who now are cooperating on space technology. He conceded, in an apparent reference to capitalist and Socialist approaches, that "politics compromises the economics and always will."

The Soviets, he said, "are very intelligent, tough negotiators."

South Windsor Arts, Crafts Programs Set

The South Windsor Recreation Department has announced the schedule for arts and crafts programs at the summer playgrounds.

The craft sessions, which begin June 25, will be held Monday mornings at Eli Terry and afternoons at Orchard Hill; Tuesday mornings at the Wapping special playground and afternoons at Pleasant Valley; Wednesday mornings at Orchard Hill and afternoons at Wapping; and Thursday mornings at Pleasant Valley and afternoons at Eli Terry.

When craft sessions are preempted by special events or holidays, they will be held on Friday at appropriate times.

Crafts for the first week will be paperweights at the morning sessions and whimsy dip in the afternoons.

Projects for the summer will include sewing and leather, enamel work, candlemaking, styrofoam sculpture, tie dying and ceramics. The cost will range from 10 cents to 45 cents for each project.

The program will be under the direction of Lynn Ericson. She will be assisted by Debbie Post.

A brochure giving a more detailed description of the crafts program will be available at all playgrounds.

Town Considers Action Against Vacant Eyesore

Manchester town officials are taking steps which may result in ultimate condemnation of the old Jaffe & Podore Building, last occupied by the W.T. Grant department store at 811-821 Main St.

The building, which has been entirely vacant for nearly two years, is owned by Abraham M. Druckman of New York City. Druckman acquired the property in 1961, about 60 years after the building was erected, according to the town assessor's office.

Town Building Inspector Thomas C. Monahan said today he has drafted a letter to the owner which intimates that legal action will be taken in regard to the deteriorating property. Monahan said he is referring the matter to Town Counsel David Barry.

The building is a potential danger, Monahan said, not only to occupants of adjacent buildings but also to passersby. Monahan said he has received several complaints about the building's state of disrepair.

A gaze toward the Main St. windows of the structure shows floors buckling, ceiling tiles falling off, and apparent water seepage causing damage throughout the building. The town is taking steps to condemn the 70-year-old structure, which has been vacant for nearly two years.

Manchester Shopping Parkade — but nothing ever came about at the time.

There has been recent discussion among members of the Mayor's Downtown Action Committee concerning possible purchase of the property, razing of the building, and construction of parking facilities or a new access road to parking lots behind stores on the east side of Main St.

William Sleeth, chairman of the downtown committee, says a notice of condemnation, even if it doesn't actually succeed, might "wake up" the owner.

Despite its disrepair, the property is still up either for sale or for rent, the owner, Druckman, said today.

Town assessor's records show that the 811-821 Main St. building is assessed for $111,440.

Druckman was reached in New York by telephone, and he said that nothing has been done with the property because of "sheer neglect due to my recent illness."

Druckman said he hasn't been able to get to Connecticut, nor has he retained a local real estate agent to handle the building, because he had been in the hospital for some time.

LWV To Study Transit Needs

HAMDEN, Conn. (AP) — The League of Women Voters decided at its annual meeting Wednesday to begin a two-year study of Connecticut's transportation systems and needs.

The study will include mass transportation and private travel on land, water and air, a league representative said.

A report will be submitted to the 1974 General Assembly.

The project was selected by the 851 delegates meeting at Quinnipiac College in preference to a proposed survey of school financing.

Gov. Thomas Meskill spoke Wednesday and expressed his appreciation for the support given by the LWV to legislative reform.

The league also elected the following statewide officers: Mrs. Michael Erlanger of Redding, president; Mrs. Emory Ayers, Wilson, first vice president; Mrs. Adrian Ostfeld, North Haven, second vice president; Mrs. Danford Knowlton, New Preston, secretary; and Mrs. Owen Hedden, Suffield, treasurer.

Damato Announces Plan For Industrial Site

Raymond F. Damato, Manchester builder and developer plans to construct a 20,000 square-foot industrial building on a five-acre plot off Tolland Tpk., between the town's gravel pit and Buckland Cemetery.

The building would be divided into cubicles of 1,000 and 2,000 square feet — to fit the needs of small businesses.

Richard P. Hayes, Manchester real estate broker and land developer, appeared before the Board of Directors Tuesday night on Damato's behalf with a preliminary explanation of the proposal.

Hayes explained that, because the five-acre parcel is 250 feet wide at one end and only 30 feet wide at the other, Damato will seek a swap of part of his land for an equivalent part of adjacent low-owned land, to square off his parcel — thus, permitting construction.

Hayes emphasized that the presentation was a preliminary one only — to keep the directors informed of the situation. He said Damato must seek a zone change to industrial for the acreage and must enter into a contract with the Manchester Water Co. for a water-line extension to the property. He said it wouldn't be practical to lay a sewer service to the five-acre tract.

He said if a land swap is effected, Damato would improve a 60-foot-wide dirt road in the area — giving the town better access to its gravel pit.

"We think there is a great need for small, modern space for industry in town," said Hayes. "That's the reason for the building. The bigger increments are available, but not the smaller ones."

Repeat Petition Filed About Bess Eaton Noise

A repeat petition from neighbors of the Bess Eaton Donut Shop on Center St., complaining of noise problems there, was received Tuesday night by the Manchester Board of Directors.

The petition, similar to one received last year, requests an investigation by the town of loud noises during late hours, foul language, racing motorcycles, and other conditions the petitioners pinpoint as objectionable.

The directors, in a unanimous vote, instructed Town Manager Robert Weiss to investigate the complaint and to report back with a recommended solution.

Weiss said the problem there is continual and, except for periodic checks by police cruiser personnel, no specific control have been found. He said one solution might be a noise-control ordinance.

Director Pascal Prignano said he wouldn't go along with an ordinance specifically adopted to regulate a private business.

He said Bess Eaton, a private business and one of the very few in town open late at night, appears to be doing everything it can to minimize or control the problem on its parking lot.

From his observation, said Prignano, it appears to him a police-control problem, which might be regulated by giving the police more power.

Weiss Salary at $27,000

Town Manager Robert Weiss will receive a pay hike of $2,245 for 1973-74, bringing him to $27,000, Mayor John Thompson announced Tuesday night. Weiss' current salary is $24,757.

Thompson's announcement followed a Board of Directors' unanimous approval of new pay scales for department heads and assistants.

She was stopped short by Thompson, as she was in the middle of a statement, and Thompson instructed the board secretary to delete Mrs. Sadoski's remarks from the minutes. Mrs. Sadoski was saying at that point that some town employees have drinking problems, social problems and other problems that should be considered when giving pay raises.

Director Anthony Pietranzono acknowledged that the new salary plan might have some errors.

But, we must start somewhere and somehow to correct the existing inequities," he said. "As time goes on, we'll recognize those errors, and we'll correct them. Perhaps some employees are overpaid on merit, but that's for the board to determine."

He said the employees will be evaluated on an annual basis and the board will be the final authority in evaluating performances.

"The salary ranges we are establishing are for the positions, and not for the individuals," he explained.

Lyle Enjoys Big Lead In Slaying Yankee Win

OAKLAND (AP) — Relief ace Sparky Lyle of the New York Yankees found himself in an unusual situation Wednesday night. He was pitching in a game with a seven-run lead. Lyle had problems but held on to pick up his 14th save of the season as the Yankees defeated the Oakland A's 8-3.
"Maybe I got a little careless," Lyle said. "I'm not used to having such a big lead when I pitch."
Lyle took over for Fritz Peterson after Ted Kubiak singled to open the eighth inning. Lyle retired the side in order.
The Yankees led only 3-1 at the time but scored five unearned runs off Rolfe Fingers in the ninth inning to give Lyle a chance to relax in the last of the ninth.
"There was nothing wrong with Peterson," New York manager Ralph Houk said. "When you have a relief pitcher like Lyle, you bring him in before it's too late."
The Yankees collected 18 hits off four Oakland pitchers. Starter Ken Holtzman gave up 11 of them and went down to his fourth defeat against 11 victories.
Herbie Clark, Bobby Murcer and Thurman Munson all had three hits for the Yankees.

One-Hitter, Triple Play Spice Play in National

NEW YORK (AP) — The National League, the only major baseball league in the universe without designated hitters, got down to basics Wednesday night as it proved why there are no additives or artificial ingredients in its product.
The St. Louis Cardinals' Rick Wise came within two outs of picking a no-hitter.
The Atlanta Braves' Darrell Evans continued a streak which gave him 18 straight plate appearances without an official out.
The Montreal Expos pulled off a triple play.
The Atlanta Braves scored 18 runs.
The Philadelphia Phillies scored 16 runs.
Not bad for a league that thinks DH means double header, eh?
And in the National League, St. Louis struck out Cincinnati's 8-7. Atlanta embarrassed Pittsburgh 18-3; Philadelphia punished Los Angeles 16-3; New York beat San Francisco 8-1 and Houston defeated Chicago 6-1.
Cards-Reds
"By the way," said Joe Torre, who joked to Luis Melendez, who hit a grand slam home run, but was lost in the shuffle because of Wise's no-hit bid. "You just picked the wrong night." So did the Cincinnati Reds, who were handcuffed by the Cardinal righthander all night. Joe Morgan's sharp single up the middle with one down in the ninth was Cincinnati's offense for the opening.
Braves-Pirates
Evans' 14th homer of the season highlighted a six-run fourth which erased a 3-2 Pittsburgh lead and Atlanta went on to collect a total of 17 hits and the victory.
Phillies-Dodgers
The Phillies also built up their batting averages as every starter except Cesar Tovar hit safely. The Phils rolled sixes in each of the first two innings and coasted to an easy victory over the Dodgers.
Winning pitcher Ken Brett, who joined the offensive fireworks with a solo homer, boosted his record to 8-2.
Expos-Padres
The hockey fans in Montreal might have called it a hat trick, but in baseball parlance, it's known as a triple play. The Expos made their contribution to conserving energy when they recorded all the necessary outs in one inning on the same play during their victory over the Padres.
Cubs-Astros
Houston Manager Leo Durocher got a measure of revenge over the team which fired him last season as Don Wilson and Jim Ray combined to six-hit the Cubs. Cesar Cedeno belted a two-run homer.

Mets Latest Success Experience for Battery

NEW YORK (AP) — A week or so ago, young Ron Hodges was catching Tom Seaver's pitches on the New York Mets' Memphis farm club. That was a week or so ago.
Hodges spent Wednesday night handling the big mitt for Tom Seaver, who is a few light years removed from anything Hodges has seen before. Seaver outlasted San Francisco 8-1 and it was an experience... for both the pitcher and his young catcher.
"He handled himself very well," said Seaver. "He knew what pitches to call and he changed my mind a couple of times with the signs he put down."
The rookie catcher, making his major league debut, also offered some comic relief for Seaver, who hasn't been treated to many smiles this sorry Met season. That happened in the sixth inning when Hodges came to the mound after Ed Goodson had drilled a long out to left field.
"He came out there and told me I had to keep my change-up down," said Seaver smiling again at the recollection. "I've been pitching for seven years, maybe thrown to 15 catchers and everyone of them told me the same thing. Keep the change-up down. He was no different than all the other catchers I've pitched to."
Hodges may not have been different to Seaver but Seaver was certainly different to Hodges. "At times," the catcher decided, "he was ungodly. I warmed him up in the bullpen before his last start but there was no comparison between what he did down there and the way he threw in the game."
Seaver weaved his way through a fistful of jams but didn't surrender a run until there were two out in the ninth inning; by then, he had a little margin for error because the Mets had remembered to score three runs.
Two of those runs came in the first inning on Felix Millan's first home run in exactly one year, a single by Rusty Staub and John Oliver's double. It stayed that way until the eighth when New York added another on Millan's third hit, a double, and two long flies.
Dave Rader's double, a walk to pinch hitter Willie McCovey and Bobby Bonds' single gave the Giants a run and a life in the ninth but Seaver finished them off, getting Tito Fuentes on a long fly ball. He left 10 Giants stranded on base and got two diving catches by Staub in right field to save a couple of his. It wasn't Seaver at his best, but it was good enough for young Hodges.
"Some of those pitches he threw," the young catcher said, shaking his head, "were really something."
Seaver sat out down before the game to go over the Giant line-up with the rookie receiver. "We talked," said the pitcher. "I told him how I wanted to pitch their hitters. I'd say I shook him off maybe 25 per cent of the time."

The Dry Side of Sports

By Dean R. Yost

Lost for Words

Monday night at the Steak Out Restaurant in Vernon, the seventh annual Football Dinner for the Manchester High graders was held. As has been the practice since the its beginning, four local businessmen supported the yearly feast.
Walsh, a senior, was awarded the trophy for contributing the most to the program. "He played everywhere we needed him. He responded well to the different positions and always gave us 100 per cent," outgoing Coach Dave Wiggin said.
The victory moved the Yankees back into first place in the American League East, one half game ahead of the Detroit Tigers.

Trevino Concedes Nothing to Jack

OAKMONT, Pa. (AP) — Trevino was acting like a prize fighter who can't wait for the bell to ring. He is edgy and tense. His usual good humor is blunted by a fierce impatience.
Trevino, who has won two U.S. Open titles and joined the exclusive ranks of golfing millionaires in his six years on the tour, is one of the favorites among the 17 pro and 13 amateurs beginning the four-day, 72-hole test over the 6,817-yard, par 71 Oakmont course, notorious for its cavernous traps and glass-slick greens.
"I had to laugh when I read in the paper that Bill Casper said Nicklaus and Tom Weiskopf have a 10-shot advantage here this week," the volatile Mexican-American spotted.
"Casper must be talking about himself—he's not talking about the Mex."
"I figure I've got as good a chance as anybody. I'm as ready as I'm ever going to be. This is not the Memphis Open or the Dallas Open. This is the U.S. Open. I get keyed up for this one."
The swarthy, 33-year-old

Amateur Crenshaw Unawed By Greens

OAKMONT, Pa. (AP) — Maybe it's the exuberance of youth, but amateur Ben Crenshaw is one of the few players who appears unawed by the super tough greens at Oakmont course, there were loud cries of anguish over the putting surfaces. But Crenshaw can't understand what all the excitement is about. He hasn't had any problem with the greens.
"I'll put the greens well," said the confident Crenshaw, a two-time National Collegiate Athletic Association champion and runner-up in last year's National Amateur. "I like 'em. Sure, you have to be careful that you don't put the ball in places where you can't do anything but three putt. The greens are true if you get within range."
Crenshaw, a native of Austin, Tex., believes he has an excellent chance of becoming the first amateur to win the Open since Johnny Goodman in 1933, at North Shore Country Club in Glenview, Ill. The only other amateurs to win the Open were Francis Ouimet, Bobby Jones (four times), Charles Evans Jr. and Jerry Travers.
The 5-foot-9, 166-pound Crenshaw won the Sunnehanna tournament last week near Johnston, Pa., but wasn't completely happy with his game. He said he wants to improve his driving. He says he's putting exceptionally well. During practice at Oakmont, Crenshaw didn't three-putt once.
He doesn't crack under pressure, and he doesn't lose his concentration at the sight of a Jack Nicklaus or Arnold Palmer in his threesome. At the Masters he shot a 73 in the first round playing with Palmer, who carded 77. The next day he was paired with Nicklaus and fired a 72, while Jack managed only a 77.

Pre-con Meeting Helped

ANAHEIM (AP) — Vada Pinson was trying to explain why the California Angels had lost 13 of 19 games — causing them to sink from second place in the American League West to fifth.
"We've been pressing too hard, especially here at home and we haven't been on his first at bat Wednesday proposed to do — the little things that help win games."
Prior to Wednesday night's game with Boston the Angels held a team meeting.
"We got a lot of this off our chests," Pinson revealed. "I think it was good for the club."
No one will dispute Pinson today.
The Angels climbed out of the doldrums, temporarily at least, with a 7-3 victory over Boston. Pinson was also the recipient of a tip from teammate and recognized team leader, Frank Robinson.
"He told me Tuesday night that I was appreciating the ball," Pinson said.
Robinson apparently gave STRIKEOUTS-Seaver, NY, 99; CARLTON LEAGUE BATTING (115 at bats)—Blomberg, NY, 407; D.Allen, Chi, 342.

Grand Masters Tour Sparked By Riggs

NEW YORK (AP) — Bobby Riggs, Frank Parker, Billy Talbert, Pancho Segura — famous names from tennis' golden past—all hope to regain some of their lost glory in the rebirth of interest that the sport currently enjoys.
Riggs hustled is way to a measure of recognition for the oldtimers with his recent easy victory over Australian Margaret Court in what was billed as the Battle of the Sexes.
Now some of his middle-aged friends are hoping to get a piece of the action through the branch of Al Bonta of Cincinnati, a leading authority on senior tennis.
Bonta announced at a news conference Wednesday the formation of a Tennis Grand Masters Tour, featuring 12 of the game's best senior players. These players, he said, will compete for $250,000 in cash prizes in 16 different U.S. cities and several European capitals this year, with the weekend activity getting underway July 20-21 in Milwaukee.
Bonta, captain of the U.S. Dabler Cup team, the senior division equivalent of the Davis Cup, said he considers tennis to be the game of the 1970s as golf was the sport of the 1950s and 1960s. And, he added, tennis also is becoming more and more a game for the middle-aged.

Prepare Boycott

LONDON (AP) — Nearly 100 of the world's top tennis stars are preparing to boycott Wimbledon if suspended Yugoslav star Nikki Pilić is not allowed to play.
Pilić is under suspension by the International Lawn Tennis Federation for failing to play on the Yugoslav national team in a recent Davis Cup match against New Zealand. Meansville, Pilić was barred for life from his nation's tennis Wednesday by the Yugoslav Tennis Federation.
The Association of Tennis Professionals then reiterated earlier demands that if Pilić is not allowed to play, none of its 97 members would perform at Wimbledon. That would reduce the classic event which starts June 25 to a women's tournament plus a men's singles contested by second-ranking players. All of the U.S. Davis Cup team, including reigning Wimbledon champion Stan Smith of Pasadena, Calif., would be involved in the boycott.
The first group was to tee off today at 7:30 a.m. EDT.

Local Resident Never Knocked Out in 102 Pro Bouts

O'Brien Just Missed Out In Bid for Boxing Crown

By Earl Yost

Irish Frankie O'Brien just missed by one bout being a world boxing champion in the 160-pound middleweight division. That was 40 years ago. Fifty years ago he had his first fight at the age of 18. Today, the 68-year-old O'Brien, a Manchester resident for 21 years residing at 388 Autumn St., is enjoying life in retirement while caring for a small vegetable and flower garden.

Frank O'Brien Reviews Accounts of Glory Days

Looking back at his ring career, the white-haired native of Hartford's East Side - Windsor Street - recalled some of his biggest moments inside the square circle.

"I had 102 fights as a professional. I lost only nine. I was never knocked out although I once had my jaw broken. I cut easily but my handlers were always able to patch me up."

"I only had two amateur fights," he reflected as he scanned a scrapbook of his glory days. "I lost the first because of a cut eye, to a guy named Joe Smith of Bridgeport. He was the state champ and I beat him in a return match and immediately turned pro in 1929 under Trainer Pete Perrone and Manager Denny McMahon."

One-Time Poleman Retired from Pratt & Whitney Engines, O'Brien earlier served 15 years as one of West Hartford's finest with the police department.

O'Brien, a southerner, was at the prime of his career when he took part in a National Boxing Association Tournament in 1931. Milwaukee to lead a successor to Mickey Walker who no longer could make the weight.

The 5-10 Nutmegger was at his best when weighing between 156 and 158 pounds. Today, still fit as a fiddle, O'Brien looks in great shape, having added only 10 pounds since hanging up his gloves. A two-mile walk each day comprises his exercise.

Winner of both the State and New England middleweight titles, it wasn't until O'Brien changed managers did he get big pay nights of that era. A multi-millionaire sportsman Arthur Carter of New York, purchased O'Brien's contract from McMahon and the young fighter was on his way.

During the preliminaries at the Cleveland Coliseum, O'Brien decided Jack McAvey in September, 1931. K.O. Kelly was also knocked and then came the toughest fight of O'Brien's career.

Toughest Fight of O'Brien's career. "I went up against a Cuban, Angel Civeille. I stopped him in nine rounds in the semifinals to win the right to face the veteran Gorilla Jones. That Civeille could hit. He was a terrific puncher and a ferocious slugger. I didn't know if I could beat him. The plan was for me to box him carefully and to get slugging, just as the bell sounded, he hit me in the mouth and I forgot all about boxing and hit him with everything but the kitchen sink. I had him down twice in the first round and twice in the second round, too. He took all I had and kept coming on. I split his eye in the fifth but he kept coming on. Finally, in the tenth, the referee stopped the bout and I was awarded a TKO.

"That was the greatest fight, the hardest, and the biggest thrill that I ever had in boxing, when the referee raised my hand," O'Brien said as he thumbed through clippings of the fight.

Going into the eliminations at Cleveland where he was a big crowd favorite, O'Brien hung up a string of 16 victories in 17 starts, losing only to Harry Ebbehts at Holyoke on a low blow. Twice, later, during this span, O'Brien was booked against Ebbehts and each time came home with a victory.

Big Boys

ORILLA, Ont. (AP) — What weighs more than 1,400 pounds, has four legs, four wheels and attracts stares?

The McGuire twins on their motorcycles. Billy and Benny are identical twins, the only difference between them, it is that Billy weighs 700 pounds, his brother 720.

Born in Hendersonville, N.C., the McGuire twins, where they've been entered as such for the last five years.

Billy and Benny are professional wreckers who spend six months of the year in Montreal and six in the United States.

Wrestling as tag team as amateurs, the brothers weighed in at about 400 pounds each and were undefeated.

They're now making a name for themselves on the pro circuit. They do it with their own methods, the locomotive play or the Guinness Book of Records.

A typical breakfast includes a dozen eggs, two or three pounds of bacon, a loaf of toast and half a gallon of tea. Each!

The 26-year-old brothers have a 100-foot truck and takes seven yards of cloth for a pair of pants. A shirt takes six yards.

The boys, who are married to Canadian girls, don't have special motorcycles, but their cars need heavy-duty suspension.

attractive program for residents of all ages.

The program is geared to all. "We will call it Olympic Day with festivities starting at 9 a.m. at Memorial Field. A track and field program will be staged until 4 at this site and then we will move on to Globe Hollow for swimming events and also to the Globe Hollow reservoir behind the Country Club for water races."

If it rains on the 30th, the entire schedule will be presented the following Saturday, July 1, Gowen added.

The full schedule of track events will be released shortly. Dick Williams, Manchester High coach, will be in charge. Competition will be open to Manchester residents only. This applies to the track portion only. Non-residents will be allowed in the boating activities which will include canoeing, sailing and kayak racing, plus scuba exhibitions and scuba competition.

A Free Spree Through Supermarket

Mrs. Gloria Lenart of Chicopee, Mass. enjoys a cool drink after completing a 15-minute shopping spree at Grand Union store in the Manchester Parkade. Mrs. Lenart won all the groceries she could collect as the result of a lottery sponsored by Home Decor. Her dash through the store netted her $376.97 worth of goods. Another winner, Mrs. Terry VanGorder of East Hartford won a total of $347.46 in a 7-minute sprint. As luck would have it, the limit on meat was $100. (Herald photo by Oflara)

Bolton Water Safety Program Planned Two Sessions

DONNA HOLLAND The water safety program for Bolton children will be held in two sessions this year, according to Mrs. MaryBeth Gorke, director. The first session will be at Gay City State Park, Hebron, and will run from July 2 through July 18. The second session begins July 23 and ends Aug. 8 and will be held at the Center at Brunswick Parkade Lane. The program will be supervised by competent trained personnel at Brunswick Parkade Lane. The cost is $2 per week for each youngster and includes three games of bowling, use of bowling shoes and balls, soda and a hot dog, bus transportation to the center and return to the playground. Participation in the program is voluntary. The program begins June 20 and ends Aug. 20. Buses will leave Herrick Memorial Park at noon. Consent forms brought home by children should be returned by Friday. In addition to the instruction program, an inter-playground league will be formed to provide weekly competition. Sesquicentennial Drummer Peter F. Mietzner, 78-year-old poet-drummer, and John Golet, fifer, of Moodus, will represent the "Continental Spirit of '87" in the Sesquicentennial parade on June 23. Mietzner, the surviving member of the local patriotic group, was named ancient drummer of the year in 1960 at age 65. A retired toolmaker, he has drummed at several commemorative celebrations on the East Coast and throughout the state. (Herald photo by Oflara)

Poet-Drummer Ready For Manchester Parade

JUNE TOMPKINS (Herald Reporter) The only beat that counts to Peter F. Mietzner of Moodus, St. is that of a drum. As he has said in a poem he wrote in 1950: "I was back in nineteen-hundred, just fifty years ago, when I first heard the roll of drums. And it is my heart's desire, About fifty-years in the evening, When the moon was shining brightly, In a little village called Moodus, Just a country place remote, Where ancient drumming resounded, Where the drummers' feet were tread, Or a three stroke roll a riff, Where the men who bought this ancient art, Were strict and knew their stuff, Each blow was struck distinctly, For a rousing drum and so, Rhythm, time and execution, Were drilled into the bone, And a single drum made music, When one drum is played alone." Mietzner bought his first drum for $12. He had to work 240 hours at 5 cents an hour to raise the money. His present drum, the one he will use in the Manchester Sesquicentennial parade on June 23 is an Eli Brown drum and was made in Windsor in 1838. The original tag is still inside the drum. "The Moodus Drum and Fife Corps of which Mietzner was a member for over fifty years is so named, with drum first in the title, because at the time of its origin in 1860, the drum was considered more important than the fife. Mietzner recalls that the

Watergate Espionage Linked To Mitchell

WASHINGTON (AP)—The disgrace and removal of the Democratic party's most experienced professional was the real goal of the Nixon campaign who planned the Watergate raid, Senate investigators have learned. Confessing publicly to conspiracy, obstruction of justice and perjury, and protected from prosecution by a grant of immunity, Magruder said he relayed details of the espionage plan to the office of the President's chief of staff, H.R. Haldeman. "President Nixon probably didn't know about it but it was possible that Haldeman did," Magruder said in testimony Thursday, three days short of the first anniversary of the Watergate arrests. Mitchell, then the campaign director, was involved in concealing a series of lies to prevent disclosure that all involved feared would result in Nixon's election defeat, Magruder said. Magruder, former White House aide and deputy director of the Nixon administration, was named in the Watergate and its cover-up. One of those he said was periodically kept up to date on Watergate progress was Gordon Strachan, a White House aide who served Haldeman, Nixon's principal aide, as liaison with the election committee. Magruder said Strachan was kept informed at regular intervals as the intelligence was approved by Mitchell himself at the $250,000 level. "The decision was made without much enthusiasm after much haggling over its costs, and without any real expectation of a startling result," Magruder testified. Sen. Howard H. Baker, R-Tenn., the committee's vice chairman, described it as a decision that is going to affect history that was made in almost a casual way. It was learned from Senate sources Thursday that Strachan has informed the committee

Earthquake No Surprise To UConn Geophysist

GROTON (AP)—A Connecticut geophysist says Thursday night's earthquake was not unexpected in the state. "Personally, as a seismologist, I was not surprised that we had a quake of this size," said Dr. E.F. Chiburis, who operates the University of Connecticut's four-station earthquake monitoring system in the state. "No area of the world is quakefree, there are only differences in degree," he said. Chiburis classified Thursday's tremor, which occurred about 9:12 p.m., as "mild to moderate quake" based on the data collected by his monitoring equipment. The earthquake rippled across eastern Canada and the northeastern United States for between five seconds to nearly half a minute, causing no reported swaying buildings and shifting floors caused by the shaking. A clerk at St. Francis Hospital in Hartford said the shaking of the building made many patients nervous. In Windsor Locks, Mrs. John Sadowski said the rippling tremors made floors of her house "feel like they were rolling." "It may not happen again for decades. On the other hand, it could indicate that more quakes will occur," he said. Residents of several towns in central and eastern Connecticut reported swaying buildings and shifting floors caused by the shaking. ### ECHS Graduation Rites Conducted In Cathedral

Hartford's St. Joseph Cathedral was its usual impressive setting for Thursday night's graduation exercises of the East Catholic High School Class of 1973. Each of the 270 seniors who received diplomas in the 1 1/2-hour ceremony was in his glory, but as with most high school graduations, the parents, relatives, and friends were the real show. It was a pleasant, comfortable evening — a welcome change from last week's heat wave — for the ceremonies, which started right on time at 7:30 p.m. and were over at about 9 p.m. Hectic moments in the cathedral's lower chapel — where the seniors assembled, dressed in their caps and gowns, and lined up for the procession — preceded the march upstairs into the cathedral. The class slowly walked up the middle aisle to the accompaniment of organ and the mixed choir of underclassmen singing Bach's "Now Let Every Tongue Adore Thee." Concluding his brief remarks, Pinto said, "We challenge you to challenge us." The fast-moving ceremony then went on to the presentation of diplomas by The Most Rev. Joseph F. Donnelly, auxiliary bishop of Hartford — which took nearly an hour. Names of the graduates were individually, and each student received the diploma and traditional handshake. The diploma presentation alternated between the young men and the young ladies, and as the end of the presentation ceremony ended, it was quite apparent that the girls outnumbered the boys by about 20. As each row of students left the pew to go forward for their diplomas, proud parents "fought" their way to the front of the cathedral to take snapshots. As each row of students moved forward, so did the rows of parents who wanted to preserve the moment in pictures. After the diploma presentations, graduates Dan E. Labelle, Nancy J. Moriarty, and Katherine A. Perleoni offered short readings. Following the readings there was a hymn — "To Jesus Christ Our Sovereign King" — and the smiling students then marched out to the recessional. "Sing to God with gladness," by St. Ignace of Loyola, filled the front vestibule of the cathedral and overflowed onto the front lawn at Farmington Ave. When the ceremonies ended, it had become dark outside, but the huge crowd still took its time in departing. More pictures of the ceremony are on Page 6; a list of the graduates is on Page 7. The list of graduates includes a code of one asterisk for members of the National Honor Society and two asterisks for National Merit Finalists.
