THOUGHTFUL PLAY IN MEMORABLE HAND BY Sheinwold. If you come to the national tournament at the Sheraton Park Hotel in Washington, D.C. July 30-31, you'll see dozens of fine hands. One of the memorable hands from just such a tournament, shown today, displays an unorthodox bid (designed to head off a spade opening lead) and the thoughtful line of play adopted by the late Helen Sobel Smith.

South dealer Both sides vulnerable NORTH ♠ 8 ♣ 10 9 2 ♦ 13 ♠ 9 7 5 ♣ 8 7 6 5 ♦ 2

West opened the queen of clubs and Mrs. Smith won with the ace. She drew two more clubs and West discarded the king of diamonds on the second trump. Mrs. Smith could not afford to lead a third trump and then develop the diamonds. She would be unable to reach her spade with a fourth trump to discard on the extra diamond. That would have her with only one trump and two clubs to give up. She would never win a trick with the last club.

The last trump had to be left out. Mrs. Smith couldn't even lead to lead out the ace of diamonds and then the ten. West would take the king of diamonds and lead another diamond without first drawing a third trump. Mrs. Smith thought things over and led the ten of diamonds without first taking the ace of diamonds and without first drawing a third trump. West took the king of diamonds and returned a spade. Mrs. Smith won with the ace of spades, cleared the ace of diamonds and entered dummy with a trump to discard a spade on the queen of diamonds. Now she still had two trumps and could give up two clubs tricks and still keep control to win a trick with the last club.

Brown Candidate For 8th District

Patrick M. Brown of 91 Washington St. has announced his candidacy for a three-year term on the 8th District board of directors. He is the only candidate for the seat being vacated by Patrick Donlon, Donlon, on the board for six years, has declined to run for reelection.

The 8th District annual meeting will be Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. at Bentley School, Hollister St.

Brown, 27, is a teacher of mathematics in the 8th grade classes at Vernon's Center Middle School. A Norwich native, he has resided in Manchester for three years. His wife, the former Gail Quillette, is a Manchester native. The Browns have two children, Kimberly Elizabeth, 5, and Michael Eric, 8 months.

Brown, who said, "I am a candidate because I believe my age would add a different perspective to the (8th District) board of directors," explained his philosophy of government. "Big government," he said, "is basically too large and too cumbersome a process. More power and participation should come from the people and not from grass roots. The Eight Utilities District allows this kind of participation.

Consumer Honesty

It may be useful, in this era of strong consumerism movement, to be reminded that there is a counterpart to the old warning of "caveat emptor" — let the buyer beware.

This is "caveat venditor" — let the seller also keep an eye out for sharp customers.

Not only does the consumer not always wear a halo as the innocent victim of rapacious retailers, but many of his actions, whether careless or deliberate, actually contribute to the high prices we all complain about.

Shoplifting is obviously the No. 1 cause. The National Retail Merchants Assn. estimates that the cost of shoplifting and related theft is about $3.5 billion a year.

Shoplifters ultimately rob the average family of something between $30 and $60 a year. This is the surcharge a family pays in higher prices to cover business losses due to shoplifting.

But even those who would never consider stealing an item from a store may be guilty of practices that amount to a form of theft, charges Beverly Henderson, a consumer economics specialist at the University of Wisconsin-Extension.

One of these tricks, she points out, is switching price labels from low-priced to higher priced items. As a result, to the annoyance of honest customers, stores have retaliated by using sticky labels that are almost impossible to get off.

Then there's the classic example of the person who buys merchandise — a fondue set, say — and use it for a special occasion. Then she returns it to the store, saying it was not suitable. Such used merchandise will probably be sold at a reduced price, and again other customers share the cost of this loss to the store.

It's not unusual to see someone handling and squeezing fresh fruit and other produce in the supermarket, says Miss Henderson. Damaged food spoils quickly, and if some unsuspecting consumer doesn't buy it, it will be marked down for quick sale or thrown out.

Maybe you've seen a misplaced package of frozen food on a shelf. Some thoughtless consumer changed her mind about the purchase and didn't bother to return it to the frozen food case.

Another common practice is to open a jar or package of food sample it, and put it back on the shelf. (Often the person doing this takes another jar or package that hasn't been opened.) This results in contamination or spoilage of some foods. The customer who buys it may be the loser, or if she returns to the store and gets a refund or replacement, this adds to the store's operation costs.

"Cartnapping" is another problem for supermarkets. Some stores report losing one out of every five carts they own, at a cost of about $35 each.

By no means are all our problems with the high cost of living due to irresponsible consumers. Yet it behooves all of us to examine our own shopping habits for ways in which we may have unconsciously been contributing to the rising costs of retailing.

Regardless of the fact of whether our sons and daughters are graduating with high honors or whether they are graduating in a crowd of average students, a prayer is in the hearts of all the parents as they see their respective child step up to receive his or her diploma. A prayer that these graduates be equipped to handle life itself for in their hands lay the future of the world.

Education is most essential. But we hope that we have taught our children the meaning of faith, love, tolerance, and understanding. These are the necessary ingredients needed to face the problems of the world today.

Education itself is barren indeed without these vital necessities. These special talents do not require a lot of things these days.

Today is Tuesday, June 19, the 170th day of 1973. There are 195 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1819, the S.S. Savannah arrived in Liverpool, England, after the first Atlantic crossing by a steamship.

On this date: In 1586 colonists sailed from Roanoke Island, N.C., ending the first settlement of the English in America.

In 1867, Emperor Maximilian of Mexico was executed.

In 1924, the U.S. Congress created the Federal Communications Commission to regulate communications by wire and radio.

In 1953, Ethel and Julius Rosenberg were executed at New York's Sing Sing prison after being convicted as Soviet Atomic spies.

In 1964, the U.S. Senate passed a far-reaching civil rights bill after lengthy debate.

To the Class Of 1973

To the editor:

Whether you are graduating from high school, elementary school, or college, may God bless and guide you one and all. This June of 1973 many young and eager students will be seen stepping up to the graduating platform to receive their diplomas.

Proud parents and relatives will earnestly survey the crowd of graduates who are about to step up and accept that long-awaited diploma. A crowd of average students? Yes, average because all cannot have attained that special distinction of being singled out as a valedictorian or perhaps as salutatorian. For whether it is through sheer hard work, or it is hard work for the average student born of average parents, or being among the fortunate of the minority group who have been endowed with that ancestor with an above average intelligence rating, the fact remains that all have earned this diploma in education.

Regardless of the fact of whether our sons and daughters are graduating with high honors or whether they are graduating in a crowd of average students, a prayer is in the hearts of all the parents as they see their respective child step up to receive his or her diploma. A prayer that these graduates be equipped to handle life itself for in their hands lay the future of the world.

Memories and Reunions

Max Lerner

NEW HAVEN — Most reunions are touching efforts to give permanence to ties that once gave pleasure, and to imprint on the future the vanishing traces of the past. This is true of veterans who once shared battlefields and of old graduates who once shared the perils of classrooms. Time lays a withering hand on the field goal you once kicked or the prank you once played together on the professor in 17th-Century Lit. but you keep gathering anyway to affirm the importance of the memory by re-enacting it.

I have been remiss about reunions, but this time I decided to gather with my class that entered Yale more than a decade ago than any of us dare recall. We wore class blazers and funny class hats and settled down like an occupying army on Trumbull College, and the bar was kept reasonably busy, and we listened to speeches, and a few of us made some. But mostly we tried to catch up with each other — to exchange experiences and match wits and note what the intervening years had done to us.

It is a kind of archeology, this mining of the past. You gaze at the substantial man whose hand you are clasping, with grayish hair and a weathered face, and you try to find in it the lineaments of the youngster you once knew who sat next to you in the Latin class or was part of the all-night poker sessions. And you know he is searching for the remembered traces of the youngster in you.

But I suspect that each of us is making the same search not only in the other but in himself.

How could we escape some of these thoughts when our class secretary, Gould Martin, read the list of classmates who had died in the past years? But we also know that our little ship is borne along on vast changing tides of recurrent life, in the procession of the generations.

The new Yale — with women all over the campus and its large contingent of blacks — is not the Yale we knew, but it will be better for adding their vitality. I can't help wondering what a reunion of the entering class of 1973 will be like — in 1998. I'll try to be around to see it.

Therefore faith is the highest honor and act of love toward God and the highest degree of such honor and love. When in the contrary things of life, the pain and sorrow and injustice, you can regard and praise Him as good, just, loving and merciful, that is faith. The natural eye must be completely closed; there must be nothing but sheer faith.

With this faith you will not be disappointed. It could only be a gift of the Spirit Himself.

Rev. Donald McLean, Trinity Lutheran Church, Vernon

"Faith is the substance of things hoped for, the evidence of things not seen." Hebrews 11:1

That is why faith is called the proof of things that are not seen, or even the very opposite

Cherry-Cherry Pie

If your friends have been intimating that Watergate has forced the government to grind to a halt — don't you believe it.

Last week, after seven years of controversy, the Food and Drug Administration published frozen cherry pie standards.

Beginning Dec. 31, and in time for George Washington's Birthday next February, the nation's cherry pie that arrive on the table via the frozen food shelf at the supermarket will be, like George, above reproach.

It seems that in 1966 some pies were not as cherry as they could be and some makers complained to the FDA that their competitors were not putting the same number of cherries in a pie as they were. Several FDA standards were proposed before they industry would accept the ones published last week.

So starting next year, you won't have to worry about frozen cherry pie for regardless of size or depth of the pan, it must be at least 25 per cent by weight cherries and no more than 15 per cent of the cherries can be blemished.

So after Dec. 31 when you put fork into that cherry pie, remember, it was a long tough battle but you have at least one chance in four of sparring cherries which aren't bad odds had the way the government does a lot of things these days.

Connecticut DAR To Host Colonial Tea June 28

Historic Jonathan Trumbull House in Lebanon is owned and maintained by the Connecticut Daughters of the American Revolution.

The historic Jonathan Trumbull House in Lebanon, home of the former governor of Connecticut during the American Revolution, will be the setting for a Colonial Tea, Thursday, June 28, sponsored by the Connecticut Daughters of the American Revolution.

The silver tea, which will be held from 1 to 4 p.m. is open to the public, and will afford visitors the opportunity to tour the historic homestead. Cakes and cookies made from authentic recipes of the 1700s will be featured.

Also on the grounds, in the Wadsworth Stable built in 1730 in Hartford at North Albeeum Square and Prospect St., and dismantled and moved to Lebanon in 1933 through the efforts of a group of concerned citizens, a sale of handicrafts, books, attic treasures and jewelry will be conducted.

Proceeds will be used by the Connecticut Daughters to maintain the property.

The Trumbull House and the Wadsworth Stable are open to the public Tuesday through Thursday.

Turn out of pan. This stores well and is best baked 1-2 days ahead. Slice thinly.

Williamsburg Pound Cake

1 pound of butter
1 pound of granulated sugar
12 eggs separated and beaten
12 pound flour sifted twice
1/2 lb pitted dates
8 large almonds, skins removed honey for glazing

Cream butter and sugar. Add the well-beaten egg yolks and the stiffly beaten egg whites, and the flour alternately to the sugar and butter mixture. Beat until light. Pour the mixture into a well-greased, lightly floured pan, large enough to hold it with 1" left on top. Bake at 350 until golden brown and tester comes clean. Allow to cool in the pan. When cool, remove and decorate the top with dates and almonds and glaze with honey. The secret of this cake is in the long, slow, careful baking.

Washington Cake
5 cups of sifted all-purpose flour
1 1/4 tps baking powder
1 tsp nutmeg
1 1/4 cups margarine
2 1/2 cups sugar
6 eggs
sift together these three
1 cup milk
1 pkg currants (11 oz)
1 tsp vanilla

350 oven; 10x4 tube pan greased and floured
Beat margarine and sugar until light and fluffy. Add eggs one at a time then vanilla beating after each one. At low speed beat in alternately flour and milk, beating only until combined. Stir in currants. Bake 1 hr. and 20 min. or until tester comes out clean. Cool 15 min.

Candlelight flickers on a unique toile tray as homemade bread and Washington Cake await visitors to the Colonial Tea.

Bus Contract Final

DONNA HOLLAND
Correspondent
Tel. 646-0375

The Bolton Board of Education last week authorized acceptance of a finalized contract for school transportation dated June 14, 1973 between the Town of Bolton and Eastern Bus Lines, Inc. owned by George Negra.

The contract is being held in escrow by Town Counsel pending receipt from Safeco Ins. Co. of a letter unconditionally advising that it will renew a performance bond in the amount of $70,000 annually and will abide by terms of contract.

The bond for the coming year has been received but the contract calls for a three-year bond.

The contract calls for Eastern to provide transportation services for all daily bus runs to and from all Bolton schools for all students including one daily late bus run; all daily bus runs to and from all schools in and out of Bolton for special education students; athletic trips and field trips.

The board, through the superintendent of schools, will establish the best routes and schedules for daily bus runs before each school year. All students will be picked up at or close to their homes as possible. No student shall be allowed to cross any street to board or disembark a bus except as authorized by the board.

The following rules apply to daily bus runs in Bolton: Departure time for students from home to school shall not be more than 30 minutes before classes commence and arrival at home shall not be more than 30 minutes after classes end, except as determined by the board for such activities as detention, tutoring, extra-curricular and other exceptions as determined by the board. Also, no student shall arrive on the school grounds earlier than 30 minutes before classes commence or later than 5 minutes after classes commence.

Also, no student shall be expected to ride a bus for longer than 30 minutes unless the board makes an exception. According to terms of the contract Eastern shall provide seven 1973 International buses, 66-seat capacity; one 1972 International bus, 60-seat capacity, as a spare bus; and two 1973 International mini-buses, 20-seat capacity. All vehicles provided must comply in all respects to minimum specifications set by the board.

Negro said his equipment goes beyond all board specifications. Snow tires will be required during the winter months. Operators shall be required to wear seat belts and cannot be placed on the rear wheels of buses and minibus. All vehicles must be inspected daily and must be kept in first class repair and operating conditions at all times. Records of such services shall be maintained and made available to the board on demand.

All vehicles used exclusively under the contract will be stored in an area provided by the board to the rear of the Center School.

Eastern will obtain the services of operators who are careful, courteous, in good health and of reputable character, capable of maintaining discipline and good public relations between students and public and who meet certain minimum qualifications.

Eastern shall be required to submit the following information, concerning certain minimum qualifications, for each operator: name, address, phone, 22 years of age or older, complete physical and eye examination annually, chest x-rays at least once every three years, electrocardiogram test if requested by the board for drivers over 40, driver experience record, public service operators license number and date issued and the bus and route assignment for each operator.

Operators may not refuse any student eligible for transportation the right to ride the bus nor have the right to remove any student from the bus. Operators must be courteous to all students, operate bus in safe and careful manner with due regard for safety and well being of each student and shall not at any time endanger physical or moral well being of any student.

Operators shall report in writing to Eastern and the school principal's office the name of those students who misbehave and cannot be managed.

Court Refuses To Block Times Sale
NEW HAVEN (AP) — A Superior Court judge refused today to block the proposed purchase of The Hartford Times by The Register Publishing Co. of New Haven.

Lionel S. Jackson, Register president, said after the ruling by Judge Leo Parsky that "the company will move ahead on efforts to reach an agreement for purchase of The Hartford Times."

An injunction prohibiting the sale was sought last month by the Register and Journal-American. Judge Parsky also rejected Richard Jackson's move to have Lionel and Henry Conlon of Catskill, N.Y., removed from their positions as the company's other two trustees.

Bid Withdrawn For Travel Center

The Planning and Zoning Commission put away its files on a proposed travel center last night for the time being. In a last minute decision, developers of the proposed travel center on Merrow Rd. withdrew their application for a zone change. Recently denied a Zoning Board of Appeals variance for gas pumps, the developers have not come up with alternate plans. The travel center as originally planned would cater to the professional driver, and fuel would be a vital part of the plans.

Residents had turned out in large numbers at an earlier PZC informal hearing and the ZBA hearing early this month to voice opposition to the "truck stop."

A three-car accident Monday on Windsor Ave. resulted in the issuing of a summons to Michael Gessay, 17, of 5 Pleasant St., Rockville. He is charged with failure to drive a reasonable distance apart.

Police say that the Gessay vehicle collided with a car operated by Marjorie Reynolds of Main St., Talcottville, forcing her car into one operated by Roland Balenger of Hartford Tpk., Rockville.

Police say that there were no injuries in the accident. No court date is available at this time.

McCurry Fires Shutout As Legion Wins First

Final Round Decisive

Improving his final 18 holes by eight strokes over his first 18 in the 72-hole test for the coveted Club Golf Championship at the Manchester Country Club, Woody Clark wound up with his second crown after firing ended last Sunday.

The husky shot-maker was down in the pack after the first round with a 78 but put together two 72 rounds to trail pace-setter Ray Evelhoch by just one stroke, 221 to 222 on Saturday, with 18 holes to play on Sunday. Evelhoch skied to a 79 Saturday and when the latter duplicated this score Sunday, the bespectacled Clark breezed home with his brilliant 67 to win by a whopping eight strokes. Evelhoch had to be content with second place with an even 80, just one stroke better than defending champion Stan Hillinski, John Neilson and Ken Gordon.

Clark's 70 round was the best of the entire tournament.

Retirement Due Soon

Mailman Joe Twarone will call it a career shortly after 37 years with the Manchester post office. The easy-going, serious Twarone, one of the town's best duckpin bowlers for more than three decades, had a familiar figure on the Main Street "beet." Still looking for that elusive hole-in-one, but determined that someday it will happen, is Doris Carpenter who sharpened up her golf in Florida this spring before entering tournament play at the Manchester Country Club. Alex Hackey, Country Club pro, who has been on the local scene since 1949 - 25 years - claims the local course was never in better shape "and it's going to get better."

Runner-up Was Consistent

When Ray Evelhoch compiled a 72-hole total score of 300 for the 1973 Men's Division Club Golf Championship at Manchester last week he matched the mark of a year ago when he placed fifth. This time around the leader at the halfway point was second best in the final tabulation... Bob Hamilton, former Manchester High and University of Maine football player, guided his Dennis-Yarmouth Regional High to a 5-4 winning season last fall in his first head-coaching position. A fine golfer, Hamilton is playing out of the Bass River Country Club on Cape Cod this summer... Lou Becker reports the fourth annual Cancer Fund Golf Tournament will be staged Friday at Ellington Ridge with $3,000 the goal. The field is already filled. Becker said the latter will serve as co-chairman with John Harrigan and Sal Rossitto with Paul Kuehn the honorary chairman. Last year $2,000 was realized for this charity cause... Chris Blake, who did a fine job covering Manchester Community College baseball this spring, has joined The Herald's sports staff on a part-time basis for the summer months. Blake graduated from East Catholic High last week and will enroll at MCC in the fall. The young man served as sports editor for the East Catholic newspaper, the ECCHO. The Golf-Tron didn't catch on and proved to be only a fad at Tatcolville and the indoor golf venture has been scratched and the building is now the popular Colony Restaurant... Jimmy Jackson, who starred in baseball at Ellington Ridge last year, has accepted a scholarship to play baseball with MCC this spring. The right-handed pitcher should be a welcome addition to Coach Gene Casey's squad.

Second Milwaukee Miracle May Now Be in the Making

MILWAUKEE (AP) - What baseball people are starting to call the second Milwaukee miracle had been emerging despite only sparing help from George Scott. Until Monday night, that is.
