Ives Named State Treasurer
HARTFORD (AP) - Connecticut has a new state treasurer, former state Senate Minority Leader Alden A. Ives of Morris. Gov. Thomas J. Meskill has announced the appointment of Ives, an insurance company executive, in a move that caught some political observers by surprise. Ives had not been among those mentioned most often as possible candidates for the post.

Ives succeeds Robert I. Berdon, who Thursday resigned mid-way through his four-year term to take a seat on the Superior Court bench. Berdon was sworn in as a judge Friday. Ives will take the remainder of Berdon's term which expires Jan. 8, 1975.

The state Republican convention in June 1974 will elect a candidate for state treasurer who will run for the office in the election that fall. Before winning a seat in the state Senate in 1961, Ives served two terms in the state House. He sat in the upper chamber for five terms. He served as minority leader during the 1971-1972 General Assembly.

Mrs. Shaffer Seeks Support For Special Session

HARTFORD (AP) - Secretary of the State Gloria Schaffer has sent letters to legislative leaders asking them to support her request for a special session to amend Connecticut's Corrupt Practices Act.

The secretary has asked Gov. Thomas J. Meskill to call the special session the same day as a "trailer session" when lawmakers will reconsider vetoed bills. The trailer is scheduled tentatively for July 18.

Mrs. Schaffer wants the act amended to cover local referenda which aren't held in conjunction with an election.

Vernon Police

Two men were charged by Vernon Police Sunday with disorderly conduct in connection with an alleged fight in a Rt. 83 parking area. The two were Emory Barry, 20, of Hartford Tpk., Vernon and Michael Skimmer, 19, of Acton, Mass. Each was released on a $250 surety bond for court July 17.

News Capsule

Nixon-Watergate
WASHINGTON (AP) - President Nixon will speak on Watergate "in an appropriate forum" after the Senate Watergate committee concludes the current phase of its three-pronged investigation, the White House says.

The announcement came Monday from Nixon's San Clemente complex, where presidential Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler ruled out a Nixon news conference before the conclusion of the committee's first phase sometime in early August.

Nixon has not held a news conference since March 30, 1972. He last spoke publicly on the Watergate scandal May 22.

Ponder Phase IV
WASHINGTON (AP) - The administration's Food Advisory Commission closed a closed session today to work on proposed new food price controls after being told that the current freeze will cause higher prices.

Food industry spokesmen Monday predicted food shortages because of the 6-day freeze. They also forecast disruptions in the economy.

The committee also heard from Kay Ryan, a government consumer specialist, who said she would prefer some food shortages to a continuing upward spiral in food costs.

Export Controls
WASHINGTON (AP) - The United States has slapped stiff export controls on iron and steel scrap metals after domestic prices reached a 16-year high.

At the same time, Commerce Secretary Frederick B. Dent announced late Monday he had eased a five-day total embargo on the exports of soybeans and cottonseed-meal after animal feeds at home vital foodstuffs for human consumption abroad.

Cabinet Shuffle
SANTIAGO, Chile (AP) - President Salvador Allende is to reshuffle his cabinet today, and political observers believe the new ministers will include military men because of the violence plaguing the government.

Quiet Fourth In Store For Manchester
There won't be any fireworks display in Manchester tomorrow - July 4th. There wasn't any last year, and there probably won't be any next year.

Missing will be the boom of the cannon at 6 p.m. - signifying the show is on. Missing will be the crowds of about 30,000 - drawn to Mt. Nebo from Manchester and surrounding towns. And missing will be the "oohs" and "ahs" of the adults and kids alike, as they watch a year's worth dissipate into smoke in about 40 minutes.

Until 1971, fireworks displays had been held in Manchester for more than 20 years - first at the old golf club where Manchester High School now stands, then Memorial Field, and then, for about 10 years, Mt. Nebo. Sponsored for most of that time by Manchester's American Legion Post, the fireworks displays fizzled out when the new I-94 was opened. The highway cut into the Mt. Nebo area, and Legion officials began looking for a new site.

Meetings with town officials and department heads were to no avail. Legion officials were told there is no site available in Manchester to meet their needs.

And so, those Manchester residents anxious to view a fireworks display this year - and maybe next year, and the year after, etc. - will have to content with traveling to area towns, which have sites available for the traditional show.

Mayor John Thompson is urging that bells in churches and public buildings in Manchester be rung for 4 minutes July 4th, beginning at 2 p.m., "since the tradition of being rung originated in Connecticut and has been renewed in recent years."

It is urging, also, that the American Flag be displayed, "as testimony to our faith in the principles for which our nation stands."

As has been traditional on the Fourth of July holiday, The Manchester Herald will not be published tomorrow. Its staff wishes everyone "A safe and sane 4th." Drive carefully.

Major Security Meeting Opens In Helsinki

HELSINKI, Finland (AP) - The 25-nation Conference on European Security and Cooperation, the largest postwar effort to ease tensions on the continent, opened today in Finlandia Hall with optimistic expressions from all sides.

"Our cooperation is not directed against any state or continent and should constitute an important contribution to world peace and security," said Ahti Karjalainen, the Finnish foreign minister, as the foreign ministers and other representatives of the United States, Canada and all the European nations except Albania took their seats in a party in Helsinki Monday celebrating Sir Alec Douglas-Home of Britain, Walter Scheel of West Germany, Italy's Giuseppe Medici and Canada's Mitchell Sharp - arrived together shortly before the conference opened. They came from a party in London Monday celebrating Sir Alec's 70th birthday.

Rogers said the meeting was "one of the most important international conferences since World War II." He said he believed it would turn out "to be of real significance."

In Moscow, the Soviet Defense Ministry newspaper, Red Star, said the Soviet Union "regards the conference not as a propaganda gathering or as a ceremonial gathering for the empty exchange of words, but as a practical action for relaxation of tensions in Europe and an opening toward many-sided cooperation."

For the United States and its allies, one of the major issues was how far the Soviet bloc would go in easing its restrictions on contacts between its people and those in the West.

The issue caused the biggest controversy during the six months of preliminary negotiations to set up the conference, and the Western ministers were expected to make much of it in their opening statements this week.

The Soviet Union has long pushed for an agreement between its Warsaw Pact organization and the North Atlantic Treaty Organization that would in effect recognize the postwar division of Europe into Communist and non-Communist groupings.

The United States and all European countries except Albania have before them an agenda of topics agreed on under three main headings during the preliminary negotiations that ended June 8.

The first topic covers the general "confidence building" aspects of European security and cooperation, as well as 10 guiding principles borrowed mainly from the United Nations charter. It includes a proposal for advance notification of military movements and exchange of observers in military maneuvers.

The second topic concentrates on economic, scientific, technological and environmental cooperation between the different economic and political systems in Europe.

The third topic covers the area of cultural, educational and human contacts.

Town Surplus May Exceed $130,000

SOL R. COHEN (Herald Reporter)

A year-end status report by the town controller's office indicates Manchester will enjoy a General Fund surplus of at least $130,000 for the fiscal year ended last Saturday.

The Board of Directors, which it adopted 1973-74 budgets, lowered the General Fund tax rate by 2 mills, to 66.65 mills, and raised the Fire District tax rate by 6.29 mills, to 5.85 mills.

The controller's report of May 31 - with one month of the fiscal year still to go - also was ahead of 1973-74 estimates.

The report, "Status of Appropriations," shows $128,834 available as of June 30. Added to that sum will be revenue in excess of estimates. The excess is assumed. The controller's report of May 31 - with one month of the fiscal year still to go - showed tax collections already were ahead of 1973-74 estimates.

On that basis, the 1973-74 General Fund surplus may rise even higher than the $130,000 indication.

Of the $128,834 in appropriations available at the end of the fiscal year, the Board of Education accounts for $2,364. Its 1973-74 appropriation was $10,340,000.

Surpluses were reported for all town departments. Because of transfers from some departments to others, approved in June by the Board of Directors, surpluses based on original appropriations are difficult to determine.

When the directors adopted the 1973-74 General Fund budget, they didn't estimate nor utilize any surplus from the 1972-73 fiscal year. What they did utilize, however, was $374,000 in surplus still available from the 1971-72 fiscal year (ended June 30, 1972).

Manchester had wound up that fiscal year with a General Fund surplus of just 28 cents under $500,000 ($499,999.72). The surplus was used to pay for the Fire District account for 1971-72 was $174,000, and $35,000 of it was used by the directors in adopting the 1973-74 (current) budget.

It appears that the Fire District surplus for the fiscal year ended June 30, 1973, will be $130,000.

Manchester Memorial Hospital Appreciation Fund has passed the one-third mark of the total goal of $60,000. With today's donors, the thermometer has risen above the $30,000 mark.

B52 Raids Increase

PHNOM PENH, Cambodia (AP) - U.S. B52 heavy bombers struck within 10 to 25 miles of Phnom Penh Monday night and early today in an insurgent stronghold, 25 miles southwest of the capital.

In Washington, Defense Department spokesman William Beecher said the number of raids by the big eight-jet planes increased slightly in June and probably would be stepped up even more before Aug. 15, the deadline set by the U.S. Congress for an end to all other American military activity in Indochina.

The informant said the B52s struck at suspected insurgent positions around the railway town of Batt Dong, 15 miles north of Phnom Penh; Trapeang Thnot, another rail town 9 1/2 miles due west; the district town of Saven, 13 miles to the southeast; the district town of Prek Tamak, 13 miles northwest on the east bank of the Mekong River; and in the Srang mountain region, an insurgent stronghold 65 miles southwest of the capital.

In Washington, Defense Department spokesman William Beecher said a break in Cambodia's monsoon weather and military thrusts by the insurgents led to the step-up, which was ordered as the White House negotiated with Communist leaders the compromise deal of Aug. 15 for the cutoff in U.S. military operations.

The Cambodian military spokesman, Col. Am Rong, said bombing near a hamlet on Highway 3 about 12 miles south of Phnom Penh killed 20 insurgents.

In Saigon, the Viet Cong newspaper declared it not surprising for two Canadian officers who disappeared Thursday near Xuan Loc, 45 miles northeast of the South Vietnamese capital.

Field reports and South Vietnamese and Canadian authorities said the officers, Capt. Ian Patten of Etobicoke, Ont., and Capt. Fletcher Thomson of Ottawa, are being detained by the Viet Cong.

Announcing the conference Monday, Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said, "The surpluses are not surprising after touring Europe, might play some role in any Cambodian settlement."

There also have been published reports that Chinese Premier Chou En-lai will visit the United States next fall.

Nixon To Discuss Cambodian Peace With Red Envoy

SAN CLEMENTE, Calif. (AP) - President Nixon is expected to discuss his goal of a negotiated settlement for Cambodia in talks here Friday with Chinese envoy Huang Chen.

Huang, head of China's new liaison office in Washington, will be flown here aboard a jet aircraft from the presidential fleet.

Announcing the conference Monday, Press Secretary Ronald L. Ziegler said, "The surpluses are not surprising after touring Europe, might play some role in any Cambodian settlement."

There also have been published reports that Chinese Premier Chou En-lai will visit the United States next fall.

Motor Fuel Rationing Said Near
DALLAS (AP) - A detailed national program for compulsory rationing of all motor fuels lacks only White House approval, a government official declared today.

The Dallas News reported that Duke Ligon, director of the Office of Oil and Gas of the Interior Department, said the plan calls for mandatory allocation of crude oil to refineries and a set of finished products - including gasoline - down to the consumer level.

"I'm talking about everything from crude oil on - you name it," the News quoted Ligon as saying. "Everybody would be on it. We're on the program ready. We would have announced it five days ago except that we wanted to get Gov. Love's approval."

Colorado Gov. John A. Love was named Friday as President Nixon's new assistant on energy matters.

In a recent interview, Love seemed to oppose mandatory allocations. Ligon also is executive secretary of the Oil Policy Committee and has been charged with policing the administration's voluntary allocation program since it was announced May 10.

Upper New England Flood Loss Assessed

Damage to Vermont's highway system was estimated at $10 million alone. New Hampshire Gov. Thomson estimated the Granite State's losses at $15 million as he asked President Nixon Monday night to declare the state a major disaster area.

The hardest hit area in Vermont was in the Ludlow area, in the center of the state.

An aide to the governor said "the top soil in the Ludlow area is probably in Connecticut by now."

General Electric and Manchester Fibers plants at Ludlow were hit with $50,000 in losses.

Following a helicopter tour of the state, Gov. Salton said he was impressed with Vermonters' "obvious to respond calmly in a bad situation."

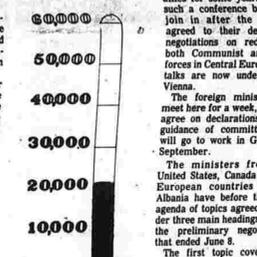

Vermont State Police Commissioner Edward Corcoran, noting that the weekend flood was the worst in Vermont since 1927, warned that "flash floods are not new in the state - we are. There was no federal assistance in the old days, and if you got wiped out once, you didn't go there again.

Besides the $5 million in crop losses in New Hampshire, damage to roads and bridges was estimated at $2 million by Robert Monier, state coordinator of federal funds and comprehensive planning director.

The Army Corps of Engineers said federal aid would be prevented extensive damage in western Massachusetts, but several thousand acres of farmland were flooded.

Pursuit of Happiness

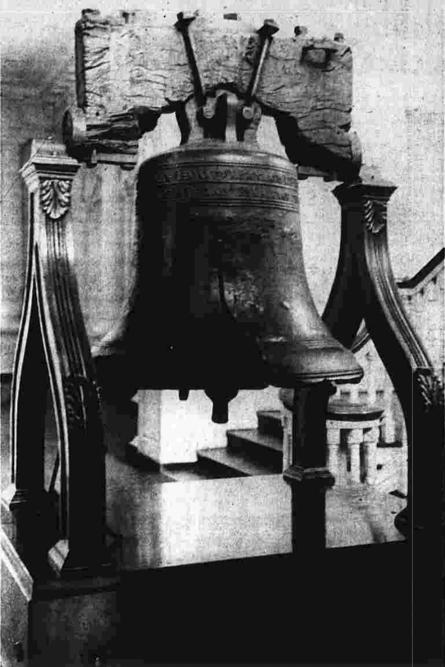

Tomorrow will mark 197 years since the signing of the American Declaration of Independence.
Observance of this birthday has undergone a big change in recent decades. The mobility of Americans has all but ended the old-time hometown celebrations where fireworks were a means of commemoration rather than commercialization.
The old-fashioned patriotism which was reflected in parades, oratory and flag-waving, has been replaced by bumper-to-bumper freeway traffic, hurling invectives against fellow drivers, and short-tempered fist shaking as we struggle to get out of town for the Fourth of July Holiday and struggle to get back when it's over.
Public protest has resulted in laws which have, in most areas, tamed fireworks to the point where injuries are relatively few and yet there is no strong movement to regulate mayhem on our highways on the Fourth and other holidays.

The predictions for 1973—a one day affair—is that 180 to 250 Americans will not survive the holiday traffic.
It points out what Will Rogers said long ago before the automobile became our second home. "America has lost more people on its highways on Fourth of July than it did in the Revolutionary War."
Have a safe fourth, stay home if you can, and drive defensively if you can't. The Fourth of July marks more than just the birth of American freedom; it is also the birth of American individual responsibility and self-discipline.
After all the inalienable rights to "life, liberty and pursuit of happiness" can only be enjoyed by the living.

'Political Envoys On The Way Out?'

The venerable, if not exactly "time-honored" custom of rewarding political contributors with ambassadorships may be on the way out, and few there are who will mourn it.
A pending policy statement by the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, already accepted in principle by the State Department, would permit only 15 per cent of ambassadorships to be drawn from outside Foreign Service ranks (compared with a current average of 30 to 35 per cent for non-career appointments).
In addition, any nominee for an ambassadorship who contributed more than $10,000 to a campaign would be viewed as unacceptable by the committee.
To repeat, few will regret the passing of the old system, except perhaps those "fat cats" who felt that the prestige of the thing or the social class it gave them entree to was worth what it cost them to maintain their posts (more about that below).
However, because everyone these days has been primed to believe the worst about politicians, and political contributors, it should be pointed out that the conferring of diplomatic plums in return for campaign donations was one of those practices which, like Topsy, just grew and was not necessarily the product of conscious evil.

It was a self-defeating process: Because a stingy and moralistic Congress consistently refused to provide the funds necessary to run the nation's foreign embassies, particularly in the department of entertainment, only rich men willing to dig into their own pockets could afford to be ambassadors.
Or maybe it was the other way around: Because an ambassadorship was a convenient way to reward a political contributor, and since most contributors were perforce well-heeled, the Lemonade Lucies in Congress were able to score points with the public by refusing to vote enough funds to run an embassy in the manner in which the members of the international diplomatic set had accustomed themselves (even if it was only nibbling free sandwiches at the traditional Fourth of July open-house).
Whichever way it happened, the result was the same.
But if the fat cats no longer underwrite a significant part of the nation's diplomatic functioning, that means Congress will have to—and that brings us back where the whole thing started.

Hoisting the Flag

This column first appeared in July 1970. It is reprinted by request.
WASHINGTON — The flag was up in the attic in the white house on South Street. Ma packed it away in lavender in Grandpa Tully's big leather-bound trunk after every holiday. But Pa left the flagpole in its holder outside the front attic window. In case — he explained mysteriously — of emergency.
Every holiday was fun for a boy living in a small Massachusetts town in a simpler day, but the Fourth of July was special. It was at once a day for celebrating independence and for giving royalty the back of one's hand.
Fourth of July started for the boy when he was shaken out of sleep by his father shortly after dawn. "Come on," Pa said, "time to put out the flag."
Rubbing his eyes, the boy followed his father downstairs to the kitchen. Pa was already dressed and dressed — white shirt, blue tie, gray suit, but the boy was barefoot and in pajamas. His father already had bacon and eggs sizzling on the old black gas stove. The boy went into the back kitchen and took a quart of Bill Bouvier's milk out of the ancient chest with the lift lid, shaking the bottle as he came back into the kitchen to mix the four inches of cream at the top.
As they ate the bacon and eggs, and toast crunchily and dripping with butter, Pa reminded the boy that the resolution declaring America's independence was passed on July 2, 1776, not July 4. The document adopted on July 4, he noted, was merely an explanation and defense of the action taken two days earlier.
"Tom Jefferson was a better writer than Richard Henry Lee," Pa would say. Jefferson, of course, wrote the July 4 explanation, while Lee wrote the resolutions declaring independence from King George III. The boy knew that by heart because he had lived with his father quite a few years.
Hunger satisfied, father and son climbed the narrow stairs to the attic. "Go get that flag," Pa commanded. "Pa complained." Then, while Pa fussed with the flagpole and cord, the boy opened the trunk and took out the neatly folded flag. He passed it to his father, making sure he didn't drop on the floor. Then he held one length of the cord while Pa threaded the flag through the other.
"All right, put it out there," Pa said. And the boy gave the cord a stiff yank to draw the flag out into place. Then he held it there while his father knotted the cord to the pole.
They stepped back and stood there for a few seconds. "Looks fine, doesn't it?" Pa said, and the boy said, yes. It looked wonderful. "Then I guess we can wake up the neighborhood," Pa said.
This was the moment the boy had been waiting for. His father reached into his coat pocket and took out a red five-inch firecracker. The town's bylaws prohibited the sale of any cracker bigger than an inch and a half, but Pa was a man of the world. He knew a dealer across the state line, in Quebeaug, Conn.
In 1898, the U.S. Navy defeated the Spanish fleet in the harbor at Santiago, Cuba during the Spanish-American War. In 1950, U.S. and North Korean troops clashed for the first time in the Korean war. Ten years ago, President John F. Kennedy returned to Washington from a ten-day European tour that took him to West Germany, Ireland, Britain and Italy.
Five years ago, Gen. William C. Westmoreland was sworn in as army chief of staff at a Pentagon ceremony.
One year ago, North Vietnamese troops were shelling over Republican objections, vote for an appropriation of $1,000 for a study of the highway department by Bruno DeMarco.

Hi Neighbor

Burl Lyons, Publisher

Manchester residents are taking a well-deserved rest this week following the gigantic celebration. The week-long event showed clearly that this community can accomplish when the people work together for a common project. It was a great show and many, many people will treasure the memories for the remainder of their lives.
The attractions in Center Park during the week got us to thinking it would be great if we used the park more during the summer. Wouldn't a weekly concert in the park be nice?

Krause is certainly due the clean-up crew who did a masterful job following the many events. Main Street could have used more litter barrels for the parade but who was enough of a prophet to forecast the huge crowd?

We are indebted to Ron Bouchard of Sound Ideas on Manchester's Main Street. Early the opening night of the Home Products Show, the tape broke on The Herald's slide show presentation. Tony Gentiluomo rushed the tape to Ron and it was quickly repaired. We thanked.

We received several comments on our Sesquicentennial Edition and are pleased that nearly all of them were favorable. Young people don't write us very often but one of the best comments came from a freshman at East Catholic High School who wrote:

"I was very impressed with your special edition. I would like to comment on the beautiful articles on education, industry, the progress of our town, etc. The information and the pictures were outstanding. I'm glad that The Herald can proudly service a town such as Manchester as well as they did for the Sesquicentennial celebration."
Rev. Kenneth Gustafson of Manchester sent a copy to O.L. Harrup Sr., president of the Northeast Bible Institute, Green Lane, Pa., who commented:
"The content of the edition was so interesting that I found it hard to lay it down and get to work."
At last count, the edition went to someone in 49 states as well as several other countries.

The old-time photos we have published have proven to be a big hit with friends and neighbors.
We aren't through publishing them either. Even though the birthday celebration is over we will continue to publish old-time scenes for perhaps the remainder of the year.

On the eve of this Independence Day holiday, we would like to share with you some excerpts from a speech by Charles L. Gould, publisher of the San Francisco Examiner. They have been widely reprinted but you feel they are timely as we pause to celebrate our nation's birthday.

"Let me raise my voice against the distorted image of our nation that has been painted by those who call it a sick nation. The charge is unfair, unjust and untrue. Our society is far from perfect, but it is not sick. It is far and away the most enlightened, most unselfish, most compassionate in the history of the world.

"This is the heritage of those who fought and died for principles of pride and decency and honor. We came from a hundred lands and we built a new nation. We are still building it, an edifice of freedom and opportunity which continues to raise the hearts and hopes of all enslaved peoples.

"Unfortunately, in the recent past, pride in country has fallen on hard times. Patriotism has become a nasty word. We must take a new and honest and objective look at ourselves, our heritage and accomplishments. I, for one, have no apologies to make for my country or my generation. Never before in history or in any other land has a people accomplished so much, given so much, and asked so little.

"Four times in one lifetime we have involved ourselves in foreign wars. We have poured the flower of our manhood and the fortunes of our citizens into these battles against aggression, injustice and tyranny.

"Consider, as the critics never do, that 100 years ago the crime rate in the United States was twice as high as it is today. That drug addiction was far more prevalent. That hundreds of thousands of children worked 10 hours a day in factories. That social welfare as we know it today was nonexistent.

"Consider that in one generation we have conquered or controlled diphtheria, smallpox, typhoid, polio, measles, tuberculosis and pneumonia.
"In one generation we have built more schools and colleges and hospitals and libraries than all other generations since the beginning of time. We have trained and graduated more scientists, doctors, surgeons, dentists, lawyers, teachers, engineers and physicists than did our forebears for a thousand years before.
"We have raised our standards of living and lowered our hours of work. The automobile, radio, telephone, airplane, television, antibiotics and a hundred other miracles have come to all flowers in one generation.
"We have taxed ourselves unmercifully to bring hope and health to our sick, our indigent, our young and our aged. Last year our personal gifts to private charities exceeded 21 billion dollars.
"We have done more to bring dignity and equality and opportunity to all minority groups than any other generation has ever done in any nation since the dawn of history.
"So, don't let anyone tell you or sell you the idea that ours is a sick society. I know what my own generation has done and I'll stand on the record.
"As I said before, our society is still far from perfect. There is still much work to be done, challenges to meet, hopes to be realized, goals to be attained.
"They'll not be attained by the preachers and teachers of despair. They'll not be attained by shooting down, by dropping out, by magnifying faults and sneering at virtues.
"They'll be attained by the real heroes of every generation, the workers who can dream; the doers who can hope; the men who respect our Constitution and have faith in the American system; the people who believe in God, in justice and a better and brighter tomorrow."

Have a safe and sane holiday.

Town Libraries Put Listings On Microfilm

The Manchester Public Library, in conjunction with the Manchester High School Library and the Manchester Community College Library, is microfilming card catalogs and shelf listings for both local and statewide identification systems.
The public card catalog of the Mary Cheney Library is being recorded on microfilm for use by the Connecticut State Library's Interlibrary Loan Center. This center has on file, in microfilm, book collections of various academic and public libraries in Connecticut.
When a request comes to the Interlibrary Loan Center in Hartford, the State Library collections are checked. If the book is not available from their resources, the microfilm for the various libraries are consulted. If the book is located from the microfilm resource, the participating library is asked to loan the book to the requesting library.
A few of the libraries involved in this project are Yale University, Trinity College, Connecticut College, and the New Britain, Stamford and Hartford Public Libraries.
On a local basis, the shelf lists, arranged by the classification number or category given each book of the three Manchester libraries are also being microfilmed.
The project will make it possible for the local libraries to identify which library might have a book that a patron desired.
The initial filming of the three shelf lists is nearly complete. Future plans include compiling a master film of the three libraries' holdings.
Filming for the Interlibrary Loan Center is expected to be finished this week.

We sold Everything But The Garage

When Grandma Warren asked us to help her run a garage sale, I agreed, but my heart wasn't in it.

"I couldn't sell an electric blanket to an eskimo," I moaned to my husband. "I'll bet our kids won't be much better. Why just last week John had a lemonade stand and ended up a dollar in the hole. He gave most of the lemonade away to his friends."

Grandma seemed to have enough enthusiasm for all of us. Her pre-sale directions were very clear. "Start by pricing things high," she said, "but let people know that you're willing to barter. And remember, we have only two days to clear out the garage."

The first people to arrive at the sale were the antique dealers. You couldn't miss them for they strode purposefully around the garage rearranging the few old treasures. When a dealer approached me with a silver spoon marked six dollars and said, "I'll give you four," I was so non-plussed I agreed on the spot.

"You see," I whispered to my son, "I'm a flop. An absolute flop. If you kids don't do any better we'll paid your grandmother $15.50 to direct the sale."

A dramatic change took place in all of us over the next hour, and I'm afraid it had something to do with the jingle of coins in the muffin tin we were using as a cash register. Money DOES talk. I dropped my shy demeanor and was astonished to hear myself exclaiming to a customer, "At that price it's a steal!"

The kids had been affected too. "They're 50 cents each," I said to my son pointing to a set of glasses, "but I'll give you the whole bunch for a dollar."

"They just don't make 'em like that anymore," cried John, tugging an old foil locker to show how sturdy it was. "Will you listen to them," I said to their grandmother.

She nodded proudly. "I'm convinced the Grandmother Club had a very successful year and at this date has 15 members. This group is for those who have had any type of otology surgery."

The Crusade report noted that $37,000 had been collected in the 1973 Annual Cancer Crusade. This figure is some $1,000 more than last year at the same time. Jackson White, participant in the Medex program with Dr. David Warren, was the former speaker and discussed the new program.

When we finally took down our signs and closed the garage doors, most everything had gone and our profits filled two muffin tins and a cookie box.

"Thank you," said Grandma, "you were great."

"Thank YOU," we chorused. And we meant it. That garage sale was an educational experience and we picked up a lot of practical information.

Take John for example. He's planning to run a lemonade stand over the 4th of July. He says he is going to price his lemonade high but will be willing to barter and his holiday special will be "all you can drink for 25 cents!" Who knows, this time he may even make a profit.

Vernon St. Bernard's Parish Council Makes Changes

BARBARA RICHMOND (Herald Reporter) Vernon's St. Bernard Church Parish Council, started a year ago to counsel with and advise the pastor on matters concerning the activities, projects and programs within the parish, has recommended and accomplished several changes during the year.

In a year-end report to the parishioners the council, headed by John Gessay, said the following recommendations were made and carried out: Change to standing position to receive Communion; USG paid behind the altar was replaced by solid color and four sanctuary statues were moved; reflective material on the altar was replaced by reflective material on the altar.

The council is now seeking a way to organize a more meaningful procession of the offertory gifts to the altar. Besides counseling with the pastor, the council was also organized to demonstrate leadership and to stimulate enthusiasm in all matters regarding the spiritual and temporal affairs of the parish.

A Modern Pharmacy

James F. D'Amato, D.Ph., M.P., All of us have one eye that is stronger than the other. Usually the right eye is dominant. Since mismatched eyes see two images, the brain, to eliminate confusion, often gives up on the poorer and relies more and more on the stronger. Then the weaker eye may weaken with disuse. The result can be partial or complete loss of sight in that eye. However, a proper set of glasses that restores the vision of the weaker eye and maybe buys somewhat the vision of the stronger eye can sometimes save that lazy eye.

BBB Investigates Manchester Firm

A Manchester firm, Industries for Rehabilitation, Inc., one of two firms under investigation by the Better Business Bureau, according to Charles E. McDonough, BBB president.

Industries and the Jete Composites Ltd. firm in Hartford reportedly have been claiming to sell merchandise made by the mentally retarded, and physically handicapped, McDonough said. Bureau investigation revealed they are both profit-making companies.

The family suggests that any memorial contributions may be made to the American Cancer Society.

General P. Rothman of 270 W. Center St. is president of the local company, and Albert Hollander heads Jete Co.

The firm alleges they are selling merchandise made by the mentally retarded, the blind or the physically handicapped. The BBB claims there is no workshop aiding the mentally retarded or handicapped that sells any product to either company.

Much of the solicitation is done by telephone with callers offering items such as candles, trash can liners, dusting cloths, etc. According to the bureau such companies hurt the mentally retarded and handicapped by purchasing items believing the real charities selling them have already contributed.

The BBB president says consumers should be able to detect a legitimate charity from a phony one by the sales techniques. He contends sympathetic appeals and door-to-door selling are not used by legitimate, charitable, non-profit, or tax supported agencies.

Rothman could not be reached for comment.

No Date Set For Concert

The Manchester youth concert originally scheduled for last Friday, has not been rescheduled, according to SAM (Summer Activities in Manchester).

The reason cited for the delay in rescheduling was difficulty in finding a date on which both the bands contracted to play and M. Nebo film are both free.

The new concert date, when set, will be announced in The Herald.

Shelton Boy Accidentally Shot To Death
SHELTON (AP) - A 13-year-old Shelton boy died Monday of what police said was an accidental gunshot wound.

The boy, Robert Cheek, apparently was cleaning a .22-caliber rifle when the gun went off, police said.

Police said Cheek died at Griffin Hospital shortly after he was taken there for treatment of a bullet wound in the head.

Troopers said Floyd Campbell, 41, of Columbus, Ohio was killed. They said the driver of the truck, Donald Harney, 27, also of Columbus, was in fair condition at St. Mary's Hospital.

Troopers said the two men were trapped in the truck for about an hour after the accident, which occurred near the Hamilton Avenue exit.

Why Do We Have Funerals, Anyway?
Somewhere you have you think the funeral director invented the funeral. Actually the funeral has existed since the beginning of recorded history. And in a world of constant change nothing endures long that has little value.

The funeral has always been the keynote example of the adage - 'Grief shared is grief diminished.' For the bereaved, the funeral can be that first, important step toward emotional adjustment to their loss.

Five other NFDA brochures discuss: arranging a funeral, funeral costs, the presence of the body, the condoleance visit, and children and death. You will find them all most helpful because they are based on experience, research and knowledge.

Send for your FREE copies today. You will be glad you did.

Police Report
MANCHESTER - John E. Gallagher, 24, and his wife, Kathy Ann, 22, were charged Monday night with cultivation of marijuana, police said.

Gallagher was additionally charged with illegal possession of a controlled non-narcotic substance and illegal possession of a prescription-legend drug.

Police say that the arrests were the result of an investigation conducted by the narcotics division of the Manchester Police Department.

Several marijuana plants were found growing at the rear of the house and officers were given permission to search the house, police said. Another plant was found 'growing out' in the house, according to police, and a small quantity of tablets and capsules was seized.

Mrs. Gallagher was released on her written promise to appear and Gallagher was released on a $1,500 non-refundable bond. Court date is July 16.

Shirley Shea, 22, of 147 South St., Rockville, was charged Monday with issuing a bad check. The charge is in connection with a March 31 incident. She was released on a $500 non-refundable bond for court July 16.

The flooding late Wednesday hit the still soggy southeastern section of Vermont and central New Hampshire south of the White Mountains.

In New Hampshire, the flash flood warnings were in effect for the northern White Mountains and the central lake region, as well as around the towns of Plymouth and Wonalancet.

In Maine, the warnings were issued for the western mountains and southwest and eastern interior sections of the state.

A severe thunderstorm warning was issued this morning for Hartford, Tolland, Windham and New London counties of Connecticut.

However, flood warnings remained in effect throughout the night in the northern White Mountains of New Hampshire.

Speakers Stress Free Flow Of Ideas

HELSINKI, Finland (AP) - Secretary of State William P. Rogers told the European Security Conference today its goal should be "a continent open to the free flow of people and ideas."

"Coexistence is not enough," Rogers told the 10 European ministers of 33 European states and Canada. He called on them to find specific and meaningful ways "to facilitate human contacts, the freer dissemination of information and the broadening of cultural and educational cooperation."

Sir Alec Douglas-Home, the British foreign minister, joined Rogers in these sentiments. They both took the view that the conference will be successful only if the participating nations find ways to improve the quality of life for the average European.

Rogers said: "We all recognize that this conference must not confirm the barriers that still divide Europe." He said it would be only "a sad footnote in future history books" unless it finds concrete ways "so that the everyday lives of people are favorably affected."

Sir Alec declared that there would be no pair in holding a summit meeting at the end of the security negotiations, one of the Soviet Union's goals, unless progress is made on these points. "The world has no alternative but to disperse," he said.

The British minister said the time has also come to cast the phrase "the cold war" out of the continent's dictionary. "We are looking for ways to make sure that our children and their children will not live under the strains and penalties which have been our lot," he declared.

He said Britain would propose that all newspapers circulate freely across borders of ordinary people in Europe? He said that the conference should provide a "code of conduct" for Europe.

"That is an impeccable sentiment," said the Briton. "The pertinent question is what is this to mean in the terms of life of ordinary people in Europe? We cannot leave such sentiments hanging in the air. We must come down to earth."

On Wednesday, the conference's second day, the Soviets proposed a declaration on political relations that appeared to harden their call for Western recognition of postwar territorial borders in northeastern Eastern Europe.

Moscow also proposed that all states promise not to intervene in each other's internal affairs, but a Soviet spokesman said later this would not necessarily rule out another use of Warsaw pact troops as in Czechoslovakia in 1968.

The wing ripped off and the plane continued on into the bushes," he said. "It just appeared out of the clouds and 'Wham!' it happened."
