Sheinwold on Bridge

By Alfred Sheinwold In many bridge hands there is a race to establish tricks. The defenders have the advantage of starting first, but they can waste this advantage if they are careless.

West opened the king of diamonds, leading the race before he could even get started.

West led the jack of hearts, forcing out the ace. South was to lead another diamond, and West takes the ace. Now West has won the race, since he can cash a heart trick.

Heralding Politics

When redistricting came to the state in 1972 and Manchester was chopped into four senate districts and four house districts with all but two of the six combined with other towns, many people feared Manchester would lose its identity when it came to representation in the State Capitol.

Richard M. Rittenband of South Windsor, the unsuccessful Republican candidate last November for First District congressman, has been named to a six-months state job paying $10,000.

Citing the need to improve health-care service for Connecticut veterans, U.S. Sen. Lowell Weicker has called for the construction of a Veterans' Hospital at the University of Connecticut Health Center site in Farmington.

Herbert Phelon, counsel to the Manchester Housing Authority, has resigned his post but will remain on the job until a successor is appointed.

Woman Drowns In Riptide

ORLEANS, Mass. (AP) — One woman drowned and eight others were hospitalized when a giant riptide swept along Nauset Beach near the Cape Cod National Sea Shore Tuesday and pulled at least 50 swimmers out to sea.

The victim was identified as Mrs. Edward Stephonatis, 52, of Watertown, Conn.

A riptide occurs when two currents running in opposite directions along the shoreline meet and push out to sea.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB DIFFERENT TYPES OF SURGERY Hysterectomy vs. tied tubes

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D. Dear Dr. Lamb - There are several girls in our office who are curious about certain issues of birth control. We often hear of women having complete hysterectomies instead of tubal ligations. This seems rather senseless to us. Why would they choose a hysterectomy over a tubal ligation?

When a woman has her tubes tied there are any side effects? What actually happens? Does the ovary stop producing eggs, or does the tie prevent the eggs from reaching the womb. If the eggs are still produced, does this not cause some damage from the eggs backing up in the woman's system?

How easy is it to obtain a tubal ligation? Is it a matter between patient and doctor, or are some hospitals opposed to it? Dear Reader - Some women have a hysterectomy because they have problems with their uterus, such as a tumor or excessive bleeding. This, of course, also results in their being sterile. The body of the uterus and the cervix are frequent sites of cancer in the female. The complete removal of the uterus and cervix eliminates the likelihood of this problem in the future. Tying the tubes does not.

When the tubes are tied this literally removes the ability of the ova to pass down the tube into the uterus for implantation and pregnancy. This has no effect whatsoever on the ovaries. The ovaries are anatomically separated from the mouth or opening of the tubes. The egg is released by the ovary, passes a very short distance, literally in the open space, and enters the mouth of the tube. This means after the tubes are tied, ovulation continues as it did before. The eggs, however, cannot pass down the tubes, so they are literally absorbed by the body. They are not blocked up can cause uncontrollable rages or abnormal behavior. In a severe case of slicers it may cause bleeding. Even in a healthy person, the accumulated affects can cause liver damage, brain damage and other medical problems. No one should form a habit of having even one drink a day, and it's inadvisable to drink more than four drinks for any occasion. These should be drunk no more rapidly than one drink per hour and you should wait at least an hour after the last drink before driving. Drinks should be limited to one jigger of whiskey or a similar beverage in making a cocktail, or one bottle of beer, or a half a glass of wine.

RANGE AND FUEL OIL GASOLINE BANTLY OIL COMPANY, INC. 331 Main Street Tel. 649-4595 Rockville 875-3274

Danger From Below

Farmer Watson's sheep, grazing in their pasture one morning, spotted a thick, molasses-like liquid oozing out of the ground. Finding it appetizing, they all took a long drink. Unhappily, the liquid was nothing but crude oil, seeping up from a broken pipeline that ran underneath the farm. In short order the sheep sickened and died. Watson lost no time in seeking damages from the pipeline company. In court, he pointed out that the company had known of the leak for more than a week without bothering to warn him of the danger.

Result: the court ordered the company to pay for the dead sheep. The judge said it had failed to exercise the "reasonable care" that the law demands in such circumstances. This case illustrates the type of claim that can arise from the network of cross-country pipelines now spreading swiftly under our land. Gas pipelines too have their hazards. In another case, a gas pipeline was laid on the surface of some suburban property, close behind a small house. A resident of the house unwittingly backed his car over the line, cracked it open, and suffered a toxic dose of escaping gas. When the man asked for damages, the company said it had a contractual right to lay pipeline "anywhere on the premises." But a court said this did not mean it could do so without fair regard for the safety of people living there. Of course, the resident who is aware of a pipeline has to take reasonable precautions too. Another farmer was injured when his plow struck a buried pipeline, throwing him to the ground. But it seems he had known where the pipeline was, and had been hoping that the plow would just slide right by it. A court decided he could not collect damages from the pipeline company. "He contributed," said the court, "to his own hurt."

Tolland Zone Change Hearing Set For Apartments

VIVIAN KENNESON Correspondent The Planning and Zoning Commission will hold a public hearing Sept. 4 at 8 p.m. at the Town Hall for a zone change from commercial to multiple family in connection with a proposed apartment complex off Rhodes Rd. Preliminary plans were presented to the PZC Aug. 6 by surveyor Everett Gardner, architect Dan Wright, the 96-unit apartment complex is proposed on 14 acres with an access road to be located next to the Rhodes Rd. firehouse. PZC chairman Douglas Prior, citing state regulations, requested the names and addresses of all landowners within 500 feet of the proposed complex. The landowners would be notified by mail of the public hearing. The complex, called "Quaker Knoll Village," proposed 68 one-bedroom apartments and 28 two-bedroom apartments. The exterior plans call for dark stained wood in a colonial style. Parking plans would permit 118 outside and 26 garage spaces. If the zone change is granted, the PZC will accept the building plans for review. Land Use Workshops PZC member William Osborn and alternate Leonard Bach will attend three of four scheduled workshops on land use sponsored by the Soil Conservation Service of the Department of Environmental Protection. The workshops will be held at the University of Connecticut this fall and a minimum of two members from PZC and conservation commissions in several surrounding towns have been invited to attend. The first workshop is planned for Sept. 4 which conflicts with a PZC meeting and public hearing.

Columbia Hearing To Continue In Dispute Over Sign

VIRGINIA CARLSON Correspondent Tel. 228-9224 The State Building Code Standards Committee will continue a hearing in October in the case of the town; Sam Pescatello, building official; and Frances Beckish, owner of the Landmark. The appeals board said the sign could be erected without a permit and Pescatello immediately appealed the case to the state board. First Selectman Howard Bates said he has not been able to find anything in the town records recording a deed in the town concerning the property in question. He said it was possible the deed could be in Lebanon's records since Columbia was once known as Lebanon Crank. Pescatello presented as evidence a plot plan prepared by J. Kovla, engineer and land surveyor. He said he had previously used the plot plan in granting a permit for installation of a beauty parlor in the basement of the Landmark. According to the report, the extent of the future development, whether residential or retail business, should be based on an analysis of the existing resources base. It was pointed out that businesses will require larger parking areas and therefore increase the surface runoff of water. The over-all impact of the proposed zoning use will depend upon the number of businesses; types of businesses; location of businesses; size of and the planning and construction of business. A possible alternative to a completely zone change would be to set aside a short distance off the main highway which could then be developed in the style of a shopping area or a mall. The impact of retail businesses upon wildlife in this area will depend upon the type of business, methods of waste and the sewage disposal and the extent of these businesses. There are no public sanitary sewer systems serving this area.

WOMAN REFEREE

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — What is she doing out there on the mat? Why, she's a referee. Kathy Kelleher, 24, has been refereeing wrestling matches for the Amateur Athletic Union in Toledo and other Ohio cities for the past year and a half. She was the first woman to referee in a national AAU wrestling tournament. Miss Kelleher said she got involved in the sport on account of her fiancé, Joe Scatzo Jr., a former University of Toledo wrestler-turned-referee. When she's not refereeing, Miss Kelleher works in the office of her physician father.

Democrats Pick Candidates After Hearing Their Views

VIVIAN KENNESON
Correspondent
Tel. 675-0704

Democrats participated in a unique caucus Tuesday night whereby all persons interested in running for office were allowed to address the group before caucus members voted.

Charles Regan, chairman of the candidates' screening committee, presented and nominated all persons who came through the committee and further nominations were in order from the floor.

Town Committee Chairman Charles Thiffault opened the caucus and the committee vice chairman, George Hunt, was elected chairman of the caucus.

John Burkas received 48 of 72 votes in a secret ballot, and was the highest vote-getter of the eight persons nominated for selectman. Helen Wanat and Kevin Cavanagh each received 44 votes and Edward Moskey was the fourth candidate selected, with 42 votes.

Under the new charter, effective Nov. 1, the Board of Selectmen will consist of seven members. Each party is allowed to nominate four.

Burkas, active in town activities since moving to town in 1951, has served one term as selectman. He has been on the Board of Finance, which will be eliminated under the new charter, since its inception six years ago. He was on the Hicks School building committee, is a former Planning and Zoning chairman and Capitol Region Planning Agency representative for four years.

Burkas and his wife, Judy, former registrar of voters and president of the Democratic Women's Club, live on Russell Drive. He is a technical writer for Pratt & Whitney Aircraft.

Burkas said, "I would like to continue my interest in town and keep an eye on good government."

Mrs. Wanat, widow of former First Selectman Eugene Wanat, is a psychologist in the Windsor school system. She has lived in town over 30 years, is a former teacher at the University of Connecticut, former vice chairman of the Town Committee, and served ten terms as justice of the peace. She was the first woman registrar in town, and the Hartford Times first Tolland correspondent, in 1947. Mrs. Wanat says she still holds the same belief she shared with her late husband. "We've always been interested in the town and issues, not personalities."

Cavanagh, the only Tolland "newcomer" has lived in town five years. He is the assistant director of Data Processing at Traveler's Insurance Co. He served one year on the Board of Finance and has been active in local politics since 1970. He was the co-chairman of the Citizen for Charter Revision committee, which helped get the new charter voted in.

Cavanagh, confident of a Democratic win in November, said the opposition party has "created confusion in Tolland—if they win in November the confusion will turn to chaos."

Moskey, is employed by American Machine Foundry and runs his own typewriter repair service. Although he has served many years on the town committee he has never sought public office.

Now that his son has graduated from high school, and Moskey is no longer active in Boys League, he feels "it's time I came into politics and help people in Tolland get what they're paying for."

Planning and Zoning Candidates

The caucus selected independent Douglas Hatch and Edith Knight, over present PZC alternate Len Barch and Tolland businessman Kenneth Cowperthwaite.

Hatch, vowing to remain with Democrats to "oust the Republican empire" even if not elected, advocates keeping Tolland a rural residential community. Hatch said his "leadership and persuasive skills" were acquired through his position at Aetna Insurance Co. where he is in charge of residential property insurance for the entire country.

Mrs. Knight, life-long resident, noted that the PZC has always been one of her "pet peeves." She has been present at most public hearings to voice her opinions. Mrs. Knight is on the board of tax assessors, which will be eliminated with the new charter. She also serves on the Conservation Commission and has been active in various organizations.

Both Barch and Cowperthwaite spoke of inevitable growth in town and advocated careful planning.

Breault, Fowler, Schmidt, Carilli Nominated by Democrats For Council

At last night's Democratic caucus, Councilmen Richard Breault and Rose Fowler, plus William Schmidt and Al Carilli, were selected to run for the town council in the November election. There were 121 registered Democrats voting.

Seven were nominated for the council. These included the four submitted by the nominating committee: Councilmen Dick Breault, Dave Roach, and Dan Manley and Bill Schmidt. The following were nominated from the floor: Al Carilli, incumbents Rose Fowler and Al Breault.

When his name was placed in nomination, Councilman Dave Roach withdrew from the contest. It was not until later on in the caucus that Council Chairman Al Bradley withdrew his name from nomination. The vote for the five remaining nominees was as follows: Councilman Dick Breault, 90, Councilwoman Rose Fowler 85, William Schmidt 86, Al Carilli 66, and Dan Manley 48.

Each of the candidates was asked to give a prepared speech. After these speeches a question and answer period was allowed. Resident John Twedy attempted to put pressure on the candidates to give a definite statement as to whether or not they were in favor of DevCo plans for a new community. At this time, Council Chairman Bradley made it clear that under the advice of the town attorney, the candidates would be jeopardizing any future court case that the town may have with DevCo by doing so at this time.

A motion was then passed to limit the questions concerning DevCo. Resident El Goodin asked the incumbent Mrs. Fowler and Al Bradley why they did not appear before the nominating committee. Mrs. Fowler said that she was not free to run last spring because her husband did not want her to, but he told her a week ago, "If you want it, go get it."

Bradley remarked that he had had a phone conversation with Al Phillips, chairman of the Democratic Town Committee, in which Phillips asked him why he had not appeared before the nominating committee and Bradley remarked that he did not feel that he had a chance before the nominating committee because they were responsible for removing him from the town committee last year.

Councilman David Roach asked Al Bradley, "Have you had secret meetings with the Republicans in your home?" Bradley responded that he had never had secret meetings with anyone. Dave Roach then said, "You have told me that you have met with Republicans on the town council."

It was at this point that Bradley made it quite clear that he did "not have to take this abuse" because he was withdrawing his name from nomination. There was no contest for the Board of Education. The committee-endorsed candidates, Francis Morrone and Anthony Felice, were nominated. There was also no contest for any of the minor boards. The Zoning Board of Appeals alternate candidate will be Charles Rain. For the Zoning Board of Appeals, the candidates will be Atty. Charles Poppo and Joseph Bastarache. The incumbent for that board chose not to run again.

IOH Seeking New Members

Instructors of the Handicapped (IOH) is making plans for the 1973-74 season. Comprised of over 80 local teen-agers IOH devotes its time to teaching approximately 100 physically and mentally handicapped persons how to swim. A junior or senior life saving certificate is necessary. Sessions are held every Sunday from October to May at the Manchester High School pool. IOH is anxious to add new instructors to its program each year.

All interested high school freshmen, sophomores, juniors and seniors from Manchester and surrounding areas are asked to apply as soon as possible. Instructors of the Handicapped, P.O. Box 249, Manchester, Conn. 06040. Red Cross life saving courses will be offered by IOH September for those prospective members who have not yet met this requirement.

South Windsor

Contests Loom In GOP Caucus

South Windsor Republican Town Chairman Robert Sklenner today urged all local Republicans to attend the party caucus tonight at 8 p.m. at South Windsor High School. "We expect contests at the caucus for all major boards," Sklenner stated, "and this is the chance for all registered Republicans to voice their opinions on selection of candidates."

Participation is especially important this year. "We expect contests at the caucus for all major boards," Sklenner stated, "and this is the chance for all registered Republicans to voice their opinions on selection of candidates."

Joel Cohan Candidate For Council

Joel C. Cohan, of 65 Palmer Rd., and eleven year resident of South Windsor, has announced his candidacy for the Republican nomination to the Town Council. He had held town offices previously, serving both as an alternate to the Planning and Zoning Commission and as chairman of the Zoning Board of Appeals.

Cohan is second vice president of the Phoenix Mutual Life Insurance Company. He is a cum laude graduate of Holy Cross College and earned a master's degree from Trinity College, majoring in government at both institutions. Cohan is a commentator at St. Margaret Mary's Church. He is a Marine Corps veteran.

Jumbo Jet Blasts Cars Into Cars

WINDSOR LOCKS (AP) - Three automobiles were smashed by flying baggage carts at Bradley International Airport early today, the state Department of Transportation said. The carts were blown by jet blast from a 747 Concorde liner taxiing away from the international wing. To turn, the pilot reved the engine. The thrust pushed three baggage carts through or over a blast barrier and through a cyclone fence onto the cars, a state spokesman said. The automobile windshields were smashed and roofs and hoods badly dented. Two of the cars were state-owned. The other was registered in Massachusetts. The 747 West German-leased plane had stopped at Bradley en route from Frankfurt to Los Angeles.

Space Needs Listed For Town Officials

ANNE EMT. Correspondent. Tel. 228-3971. Jeffrey Odell, member-at-large of the Town Office Building addition study committee which earlier this month determined a definite need for an addition, will present to the committee at its meeting Aug. 27 office needs required by various boards.

These needs include current, projected ten-year estimates, current clerical needs, long range possibilities and current record depository needs. Odell estimates current office needs for the selectmen, town clerk, treasurer, tax collector, assessor, building department and police.

The present building houses the first selectmen in the general meeting room on the main floor with his secretary in a separate office along with many of the files. The town clerk, treasurer, tax collector and assessor all work out of the same office room, also on the main floor and the building department (inspector and secretary) are housed in the other remaining office.

An office for the resident state trooper and constables is on the lower level along with the large meeting room. Future Odell also estimates that for the near future (within the next ten years) space will be needed for the registrars of voters, judge of probate, recreation and welfare.

Septic Tank Flaws Cited To Oppose Wohlbridge Plan

VIVIAN KENNESON Correspondent. Tel. 875-4704. "In fairness to Planning and Zoning Commission's engineers, Griswold & Foss," Mr. and Mrs. Martin Knight of South River Rd. will supply copies of letters and reports regarding Country Hills '83 and proposed Country Hills '84.

Surveyor Everett Gardner and developer Armand Gagne, owner of the property, appeared at a PZC early this month with plans for building of six houses on the parcel, and an informal five-year plan for future development. The houses were planned with individual septic systems.

Other PZC Action. The PZC Monday night granted approval of a 14-lot subdivision, called Indian Meadows, on Goose Lane. The approval is subject to recommendations that may be forthcoming from PZC engineers Griswold & Foss.

The PZC moved to send a letter to the Board of Selectmen formally requesting the creation of a sewer study committee to investigate the possibility of hooking into the planned sewer sewer plant expansion. PZC chairman Douglas Prior said that even if residents are not able to use the facilities, the business located in Tolland Industrial Park may be able to benefit from the tie-in.

Mancheater Evening Herald He Saw Eclipse In East Africa

At 3:37 minutes, 25.1 seconds on June 30, Sal Lopes held a piece of exposed film up to his eyes. Through the film, Lopes observed "a mass of light splattered over the sky," as the moon lumbered in front of the sun, causing one of nature's most awesome phenomena - the solar eclipse.

Lopes should apparently be sensitized to the needs of the African people, a former Peace Corps worker. Lopes spent several years as a teacher in Liberia. After the expedition returned to the United States, Lopes remained in Africa to visit friends in the village of Kpaitse, which is now totally Liberian controlled.

Lopes pointed toward a pile of notes detailing his experiences in Kenya. He plans to transform this mass of material into a book revealing what it was like standing before that "mass of light."

While Lopes peered through the film, screens out the sun's blinding rays, his co-workers a group of Lexington High School students and another faculty member, conducted a variety of experiments.

Lopes had organized the "Lexington Solar Eclipse Observation Expedition." Despite a lack of scientific knowledge, Lopes decided last December to accompany the group on the journey.

Sal Lopes, formerly of 48 Spruce St., reminisces over some souvenirs of his recent trip to Kenya, East Africa while recounting his experiences there during a solar eclipse. Current teaching in Lexington, Mass., his family - the Joseph Lopes' of 706 Center St., lives in Manchester.

At 3:37 minutes, 25.1 seconds on June 30, Sal Lopes held a piece of exposed film up to his eyes. Through the film, Lopes observed "a mass of light splattered over the sky," as the moon lumbered in front of the sun, causing one of nature's most awesome phenomena - the solar eclipse.

Lopes, a former Manchester resident now teaching at Lexington (Mass.) High School, Lopes remembered several nights when the screaming byenas kept him awake for hours.

While Lopes peered through the film, screens out the sun's blinding rays, his co-workers a group of Lexington High School students and another faculty member, conducted a variety of experiments.

Despite a lack of scientific knowledge, Lopes decided last December to accompany the group on the journey. The group managed to obtain a site reserved for NBC-TV, which had canceled its coverage due to Watergate televising expenses, Lopes said.

Although the group was at first "set back seriously," it managed to secure a research permit from the Kenyan government enabling it to view the eclipse from the exclusive location, which was populated by about 70-80 living scientists.

Prior to the day of the event, the high school expedition met with several scientists, including Dr. Richard Leakey, who was heading the expedition, and Dr. Donald Menzel, an astronomer from Harvard University.

One of the students went "head to head" with Menzel. Lopes recalled the 17-year-old youth challenged a theory devised by the astronomer which dealt with atmospheric reflections on the ground.

This same boy observed the reactions of ants during the eclipse, the only experiment of its kind occurring at that particular site, Lopes maintained that the actions of wildlife through the eclipse was studied at another location since the peninsula was an arid island, devoid of any animals.

Other experiments conducted by the youths were a study of shadow bands, thin shadows which ripple across the ground; a plot of the sun's intensity and photographic documentation of the event. Over $5,000 worth of sophisticated equipment was loaned or donated to the expedition by various corporations, Lopes said.

"It was so huge, so prominent," Lopes recounted, when describing the sun during the eclipse. At the moment of totality, sounds of cheering people and hooting horns were audible, he said.

His own reaction to the final moment of totality was, ironically enough, that youthful expression - "Out of sight!"

The sun was three-quarters larger than the size during a normal eclipse, Lopes recounted numerous adventures encountered by the group. "Because of the roaming scorpions, we had to sleep on the ground, in the open," he said. The expedition also soon mastered other rules of living in East Africa.

"One night, we woke up and our pots and pans were flying all around us," he recalled. The team quickly learned to secure equipment at night, due to the extremely high winds in the area.

While staying at a game reserve in the southern part of Kenya, the group picked up proper rules of etiquette while dealing with both animals and native Africans.

"Because we were in Masai territory, we were forbidden to take pictures," Lopes explained. A guide revealed tales of tourists speared by the Masai, a nomadic tribe, while attempting to photograph them.

Many Citizens Use State's Complaint Line

HARTFORD (AP) - In the month since the state tried to make it easier for citizens to complain and ask questions of state government, 3,474 telephone calls have been received by the state Information Bureau.

The bureau says that 56 per cent of the calls got an immediate response, 19 per cent were delayed so more information could be collected and the remainder of the calls were referred to the state agency involved.

Pedestrian City Plans Told

By HOWARD ULMAN
Associated Press Writer

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — A student group's futuristic view of people whizzing above downtown streets in tiny capsules instead of sitting in autos creeping along in traffic jams is causing a stir beyond academic circles.

Government officials say they're interested in what once was merely a class project. They say staff are being assigned to take a close look at the plans.

Under the program, cars would be banned from downtown Providence. Lots and structures would be set up on the downtown fringe for parking. Inside the boundary, people and parks would rule.

The pedestrian city is the vision of a

Rhode Island School of Design team. It is part of a broader plan that began last fall as a classroom project to develop a coordinated transportation system for Providence.

Each day, about 250,000 vehicles pass through the downtown area, the researchers say, causing traffic congestion and making life hazardous for pedestrians.

Under the design school's plan, those cars either would skirt the downtown area via a "ring road" composed of existing streets or would be left in the fringe parking facilities. Streets would become malls where people could walk.

Historians working downtown would hop aboard a capsule for the last leg of their journeys.

Each capsule would be like a horizontal elevator, carrying four to six persons who would push buttons to alert the computer running the system of their destinations. Nineteen stations would be set up to minimize walking distance from capsules to jobs.

The researchers say a similar system in Morgantown, W. Va., now operates between the University of West Virginia and the downtown area.

Prof. Gerald Howes, who is overseeing the project, complains that downtown Providence is too busy, dangerous and lifeless. He says creation of a pedestrian city is technologically feasible.

It could "attract a great amount of entertainment, living and culture back to" downtown Providence and create a "24-hour-a-day city," he says.

One stumbling block facing the student plan is money. The researchers say about $25 million to $30 million would be needed to set up the capsule system, with more funds required for other parts of the plan.

"It's the type of project that can be done piecemeal, depending on the financing," says Vincent Palozzi, director of the Providence Department of Planning and Urban Development.

Francis Dura, a state planning official, says "We're quite interested in the whole thing. Basically, it seems to hold great promise."

And Robert J. Rahill, state transportation director who says he's assigning staffers to study the plan, describes it as "a bit visionary, but it has the kind of bold sweep that we need."

Sweden, Though Highly Americanized, Differs Many Ways

STOCKHOLM (AP) — When an American visits Sweden, he usually feels right at home. If you ask him why, he may well reply "so much seems so American."

The easy to understand, because Swedes have the reputation of being the "most Americanized" people in Europe. So much is done in the American way.

They live in a modern, even ultramodern, style, surrounded by gadgets. Self-service stores, dispensers and supermarkets rapidly are replacing the little shops around the corner. They buy their clothes off the rack and they go for frozen dinners.

Above all, an American has little difficulty in getting around. English is the second language.

And judged by the usual yardsticks for standard of living, Sweden more often than not ranks second only to the United States. It leads Europe, for example, in the numbers of cars, telephones, television sets, washing machines and freezers per thousand inhabitants.

But there are differences, and the longer one stays in Sweden, the more apparent they become.

Like the United States, Sweden is prosperous. The national per capita income, tops in Europe, was $3,995 in 1970 compared with $4,274 in the United States.

But it wasn't always so. During the latter half of the 19th century and until World War I, more than a million Swedes fled the poverty of Sweden, then mainly an agricultural society, and emigrated to America.

As a result of the industrial revolution, which came late to Sweden but took hold very fast, the country's people are in the main a rather uniform middle class of industrial workers, clerks and small tradesmen. In the 40 years from 1930, the percentage of the labor force engaged in agriculture has dropped from 36 per cent to only 7 per cent.

Inflation is an old story to the Swede—prices have risen about 80 per cent over the last 10 years—and prices are a shock even to visiting Americans with their own problems of high priced beef and shortages.

There are no food shortages in Sweden except as they are dictated by a household's budget. A pound of fillet mignon costs from $7 to $9, ground beef about $2.50 and pork chops about $3.00. So it's no wonder that pea soup, bologna sausage, blood pudding and potatoes with herring have become Sweden's national dishes.

With American bourbon priced at $17 a fifth, Scotch at $14 and gin at $15, many a Swede simply can't afford spirits. Sale of spirits and wines in a state monopoly and the national policy is to wean the Swede away from hard drinking to the wines which are not so highly taxed.

But perhaps the most significant difference at all between the American and Swedish way of life is that Sweden above all is a thoroughly socialized country—perhaps the most advanced in this respect in the world.

And that means high taxes.

Finance Minister Gunnar Straeng has boasted that Sweden leads the international league in taxes.

The average male industrial worker earns $6,750-$7,500 annually. But his take-home pay is much lower. A married couple with an annual 1972 income of $9,000 would have to pay out about 30 per cent in direct taxes and on an income double that around 46 per cent. Another 17 per cent goes in indirect taxes on all consumer goods including food.

But the Swede, of course, gets back part of the tax in a course of his life through the state's elaborate welfare scheme—a basic pension, health insurance, child allowances, housing grants and educational subsidies.

Military uniforms, in all their decorative glory, have fascinated people all over the world for hundreds of years. Many nations have issued stamps depicting various forms of Army attire, and the latest to release a set of such stamps is Antigua, an island in the Caribbean which has had a long history of British military occupation.

The 4-cent postage stamp depicts a private of Col. Zacharia Tiffin's Foot Regiment of 1701. The 10-cent stamp shows a private of the 63rd Regiment of Foot soldiers, 1758 era. The 20-cent illustrates a Light Foot Company officer of the 35th Sussex Regiment of 1828. The 35-cent has a private of the 2nd West India Regiment of 1853. The 75-cent picture a sergeant of the Prince of Wales Regiment of 1858.

A souvenir set containing five values and bearing the official emblem of Antigua was also issued with the military set.

Antigua, since 1967 a self-governing state in association with Great Britain since 1967, still has close ties with England. It has maintained its reputation as a yachting center of the Caribbean.

The new stamps, issued July 1, are now available.

The recent designs of the U.S. memorial stamps honoring the late Presidents Truman and Johnson were selected by these citizens not long before their deaths.

According to the U.S. Postal Service, L.J. submitted a copy of his favorite portrait to be held in the files for a memorial stamp on his passing. The photo was sent in September 1972.

The Truman design was based upon a photo taken by Leo Stern, a Kansas City photographer. Not only was this a favorite of L.J. but also of his wife and daughter.

The advance portraits are requested to forestall any controversy as to what illustration should appear on the stamp.

Prince Edward Antony Richard Louis Windsor, third son of Queen Elizabeth, carries on a family tradition by appearing on two stamps issued by New Zealand as this year's "Health Series."

Children of the reigning monarch were first shown on these stamps in 1943 when Edward's mother (then Princess Elizabeth) was featured with her sister, Princess Margaret. Others on the health stamps have been Prince Charles (now the Prince of Wales), Princess Anne and Prince Andrew, reports the Empire Stamp Galleries. Little Edward is the youngest of Elizabeth's children.

The 11th American Stamp Dealers Association International Stamp Course will be held Nov. 13 and 14 preceding the ASDA National Stamp Show in New York from Nov. 16 to 18. Only stamp dealers may participate in this sale and exchange session, and the results usually cause quite a stir in philatelic circles.

FROM THE MAIL BAG: To Bertha Reid, of Americus, Ga., there have been several errors reported on the 8-cent flag stamp, thus diminishing the value, but time will tell. To Don Bensus, of Barron, Alaska, many dealers purchase stamps directly from foreign countries. It is difficult for individuals to make such orders since currencies fluctuate and standing orders are not always accepted. Your best bet is via a bona fide stamp dealer. To Mrs. Herbert M. Johnson, of Dassel, Minn., there are some interesting stamps, old but not necessarily valuable, in the group your daughter discovered. I suggest you show them to a dealer in Minneapolis for a first hand appraisal.

Tolland May Take Over Own Special Education

VIVIAN KENNESON
Correspondent
Tel. 875-4704

Tolland may have its own special education program by the 1974-75 school year. According to Dr. Kenneth MacKenzie, superintendent of schools, with mounting costs for tuition and transportation to neighboring towns for special education, it has reached the point where it may be less expensive for the town to operate its own program. Camille Vautour, last year's special services chairman who resigned in June to pursue his doctorate degree at the University of Connecticut, has been rehired on a part-time basis. UConn has agreed to release Vautour one day a week to direct the special services staff. He will report to the Board of Education in February with recommendations on the initiation of a special education program beginning next year. The board received a report on special services from Vautour in June which set forth the contributing team's objectives, functions, description of programs, evaluation and hopes for the future. The team includes the speech and hearing therapist, psychologist, counseling staff, school nurses, learning disability teachers, and the town's teacher of social and emotional adjustment. Special services in Tolland represents programs and services for exceptional children ages 3 to 21 who reside in town. The primary focus is the pupil with special education needs, temporary or permanent, and the goal is to help the individual to be the best person he possibly can be. At present, the special services department provides supportive and instructional services. Supportive services include counseling, health, psychological, speech and hearing. Instructional services provided within the schools include learning disability programs, programs for social and emotional adjustment, and homebound instruction. Instructional services are provided other handicapped children by arrangement with other towns and institutions. Tolland has enrolled 5 children in the Talcottville School and 13 educable mentally retarded children in two other Vernon schools, for the coming school year. Six emotionally disturbed youngsters have been placed in schools and centers out of town, as well as one deaf child, a multiple handicapped child, and two pre-school cerebral palsy victim children. Learning disabilities refers to children who suffer disorders in one or more of the essential learning processes of perception, receptive language, memory, conceptualization and verbal or nonverbal expression. Almost 80 youngsters, ranging from severely involved to those whose disability is slight, were enrolled in the learning disabilities programs at all four schools. By June all children within the program were spending the majority of the school day in the regular classroom.

One of Vautour's most important tasks next year will be to gather all pertinent information regarding the establishment of programs for Tolland's own special education in Connecticut was over $2,000 per pupil. It is difficult for the education board, which must submit a budget in the spring, to know just how much money will be needed for special education in September. Families may move into town having children with handicaps that may cost the board additional thousands of dollars. The state legislature for the last three years has rejected proposals to reimburse towns for special education before the end of the school year. Tuition costs range from $1,800 to nearly $4,000 for the children placed in out-of-town schools. The Legislative Review Committee reported last year that the average cost of special education in Connecticut was over $2,000 per pupil. District Of Columbia Again Seeks Home Rule

By JOHN BECKER
Associated Press Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) - Even for a city where temporary buildings stand for 50 years and the Korean War emergency still is in effect, 99 years is a long time for the temporary suspension of local government. That's how long it has been, however, since Congress abolished all elective offices in the District of Columbia and set itself as the world's largest city council. In 1974 it was described as a temporary action to straighten out the city's tangled finances and clean up corruption. But to this day the 746,000 residents of the District remain without a voice in the selection of their local government officials. They were given the right to vote for President in 1961 and for school board members in 1966, and for the past three years they have had a nonvoting delegate in Congress. But the President appoints their mayor and city council and Congress writes their laws. In nearly every Congress since 1874 bills to restore home rule to the District have been introduced, and since 1949 seven have been passed by the Senate. But only one has ever reached the House floor and that one, in 1965, was amended beyond recognition and left to die. Now another home rule bill is heading for the House floor - one that has already passed the Senate this year - and the disenchanted citizens of the District have high hopes that their status as the last U.S. colony will soon end. The clash of federal and municipal interests, with Congress and the executive branch inevitably favoring the former, has been the chief reason for the long delay in granting District residents control over their affairs. In common with nearly every other city, however, Washington has school, welfare, housing and transportation problems that Congress has neither the time nor interest to attack. Few senators or representatives can be found who are willing to serve on the District of Columbia legislative committees. "We are trapped in a system which hardly deserves to be called a system," said Sen. Charles McC. Mathias Jr., R-Md., when the Senate was debating its bill last June. "It is an obsolete and cumbersome and arbitrary system of arrangements that have been made at various times through which authority is diffused and power is fragmented and decision is delayed. The mayor does not have the time, and the people do not have the vote." The House bill is expected to reach the floor in late September, after Congress returns from its summer recess. It faces strong opposition and its fate is in doubt, but the prospects for restoring self-government to the District of Columbia are better than they have been for 99 years.

The clash of federal and municipal interests, with Congress and the executive branch inevitably favoring the former, has been the chief reason for the long delay in granting District residents control over their affairs. In common with nearly every other city, however, Washington has school, welfare, housing and transportation problems that Congress has neither the time nor interest to attack. Few senators or representatives can be found who are willing to serve on the District of Columbia legislative committees. "We are trapped in a system which hardly deserves to be called a system," said Sen. Charles McC. Mathias Jr., R-Md., when the Senate was debating its bill last June. "It is an obsolete and cumbersome and arbitrary system of arrangements that have been made at various times through which authority is diffused and power is fragmented and decision is delayed. The mayor does not have the time, and the people do not have the vote." The House bill is expected to reach the floor in late September, after Congress returns from its summer recess. It faces strong opposition and its fate is in doubt, but the prospects for restoring self-government to the District of Columbia are better than they have been for 99 years.

Tolland Reading Grant To Be Shifted To Middle School

VIVIAN KENNESON
Correspondent
Tel. 875-4704
Dr. Kenneth MacKenzie, superintendent of schools, has reported that federal money for a reading program must be transferred from the Meadowbrook School to the Middle School. According to the State Board of Education, based on 1970 Census figures and the state Welfare Department, the number of disadvantaged youngsters at Meadowbrook does not entitle the school to the money. The only school in Tolland which would qualify for the reading grant is the Middle School. Meadowbrook Principal, Donald Parker, said that the grant had been used at Meadowbrook for seven years, and he will curtail the reading program which has been in operation there. The $5,500 federal reading grant will enable Middle School to hire a part-time certified teacher to work with a group of up to 20 students who need a lot of help in reading. The objective goals, which must be set forth for the state and federal governments, are very simple: To help those students who have learning problems to improve their reading ability, and to improve their school attendance. The first two objectives will be checked by pre and post-testing, while the third goal will be easily verified by attendance records. MacKenzie feels the initial grant will likely be considerably increased before the school year is over, and once the guidelines are established, and he will curtail the reading program which has been in operation there.

Drug Price List Hearing Slated

HARTFORD (AP) - The state Pharmacy Commission will hold a public hearing Sept. 18, on proposed regulations governing price lists for prescription drugs. Under a bill passed by the 1973 Connecticut General Assembly, drug stores will be permitted to advertise the prices of drugs inside the store near the area where the drugs are dispensed. The regulations specify that the prices be posted on a 4-by-5-foot sign containing the names of the 100 most frequently dispensed drugs. Beside each name must appear information about the strength and quantities in which the drugs are sold. A pharmacy may not sell more than a 30-day supply of a particular drug unless most prescriptions for that drug are for larger quantities. The sign also must indicate whether the prices include such services as: delivery, after-hour prescription service, patient counseling, consultation with physicians and record keeping. Several other state agencies also have announced their intention to promulgate or amend regulations governing the sale of prescription drugs. The Department of Consumer Protection will hold a public hearing Sept. 18, on proposed regulations governing deceptive pricing in advertising. The regulations will require specific statements as to what is meant by such commonly used phrases as "reduced," "formerly sold," "regularly," and "suggested price." The agriculture department plans to amend regulations governing pet shops to cover animals other than dogs. The state banking department announced it would amend regulations concerning the sale of promissory notes in lending to bring the state regulations into compliance with new federal regulations adopted this year by the Federal Reserve Board. The Public Utilities Commission plans to amend regulations to prohibit water companies from sending customers two successive estimated bills. The Power Facility Evaluation Council will propose a new fee schedule for applications to better meet the council's expenses.

Hitchhiking Arrests Decline In State

HARTFORD (AP) - State police arrested 873 hitchhikers during the first seven months of 1973, compared to 4,402 during all of last year, according to a trooper traffic analyst. Warnings issued during the first seven months this year totaled 1,000, compared to 1,956 last year. This does not mean, however, that the department has relaxed its official policy of trying to keep those thumbing rides off the state's limited access highways, Trooper John McLeod of the traffic department said Monday. "It's been my personal observation that there are less hitchhikers on the highways in the last two years," he added. "There has been no question of our policy" toward the would-be free riders, he said. "They're a danger to themselves and to motorists." From 1970 to the present, state police have made 7,657 arrests and given out 10,857 warnings for hitchhiking, McLeod said. The 1972 arrest total was the largest annual figure since 1970. In January last year Commissioner Cleveland B. Pussenich issued a directive on hitchhiking, noting crimes associated with the practice. But figures on hitchhiking-related crimes are hard to come by, McLeod said, because many are not reported and those that are are filed according to the crime—assault, murder, robbery, for example. Officials believe many hitchhikers in Connecticut these days are transients, unfamiliar with the state's strict policy against thumbing rides, the trooper said. State residents by and large know they are likely to be arrested if caught thumbing, he said. "Maybe we're getting to them through media campaigns," he noted.

Aillon Denies Triple Slaying

NEW HAVEN (AP) - Guillermo Aillon denied Tuesday killing his estranged wife and her parents, saying in court that his father-in-law had promised to help get his daughter and Aillon back together.

State Atty. Arnold Marikie was scheduled to continue cross-examining Aillon today in Superior Court. Aillon, 35, of Wallingford, took the witness stand Tuesday with his trial in its sixth week.

"I said, 'Pop, I want you to help me,'" Aillon said at first he didn't want to interfere. Aillon added, but then agreed several days later to try to arrange a meeting between the couple in the presence of a marriage counselor or attorney.

Kennedy Offers Comment On Blue Cross Request

Edward M. Kennedy, administrator of Manchester Memorial Hospital, today commented on the recent Blue Cross request for a 13.6 per cent increase in premiums. Kennedy said that the 11 per cent increase in hospital costs, as claimed by Blue Cross, was an increase in total services provided and not an 11 per cent increase in charges which have been held within the federal guidelines of six per cent.

Beer Prices Expected To Increase NEW HAVEN (AP) - Connecticut's only brewery says the public can expect an increase in the cost of beer thanks to a grain shortage. When Phase 3 price controls ended Aug. 12, prices on malt and barley, prime ingredients in beer, rose about 25 per cent, a spokesman for Hull's Brewery said today.

Sprinkling System Added to Complex

MHS Football Field Getting Face-Lifting

By Dean Yost

Considerable progress has been made in the reconditioning of Manchester High School's football field. Due to the deplorable condition of the gridiron, $25,000 was appropriated by the Board of Education earlier this year to regrass the field.

half, to cover the field. Cost of the operation, which included roto-tilling, fertilizing both before and after sodding, weed killing the perimeter of the field, grading and liming, comes to $9,228.

Also, while the ground was dug up, a sprinkling system was installed. A main pipeline runs into the soccer field, plus down the middle of the football practice field, which is behind the west bleachers, press box side. This was put in at a cost of $6,995.

Hoerner Stops Yanks Cold in Relief Stint

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Reliever Joe Hoerner admits he has his eye on another World Series.

"I'd be lying if I didn't say I think about it," said Hoerner after he stopped New York's Tuesday night in Kansas City's 5-4 squeeze past the Yankees. "You definitely think about it when it's this late in the season and you're up there."

Hoerner pitched the final four innings against the Yankees. He allowed three hits, no runs, struck out three and walked one.

"That's the longest I've pitched since the 1968 World Series," said Hoerner, obtained by the Royals recently from Atlanta. "In one game of that Series, I pitched 3 2/3 innings for the St. Louis Cardinals in what was his last game in Detroit."

"I don't think I made a bad pitch tonight. I might not be throwing the ball quite as hard as I did when I was with St. Louis and Philadelphia. I've lost a little off my fast ball, but I think my control and slider are better—and I'm a little smarter now."

Bobby Murcer and Celerino Sanchez of the Yankees might argue about Hoerner's fast ball not being as fast. Both took called third strikes for the game's final out.

Steve Mungari, 1-0, was the winner in relief of Dick Drago, who was shelved for three runs in the first inning. Mungari, who took over with two out during the outburst, gave up only a bases-empty home run by Horacio Clarke in the fifth. Clarke's blast tied the game 4-4.

Yankee Manager Ralph Houk, whose team trails Baltimore by five games in the East, described the loss as "just one of those things. We've got four clubs in our race, and five more. It will be catch can catch can."

The Yankees took their 3-0 lead on Clarke's single, his second of a walk to Roy White, Ron Blomberg's two-out double and Graig Nettles' single.

BH Reggie Smith Tops HR Parade

ARLINGTON, Tex. (AP) — Until Monday night, Arlington Stadium had grudgingly yielded 71 home runs in the Texas Rangers' first 61 home games.

Then the Rangers and Red Sox teamed up to hit five homers Monday when the prevailing wind that blows in from right or across from right to left diminished perceptibly.

Reggie Smith hit a pair of two-run homers and Dwight Evans added a prodigious 400-foot shot to left center for Boston's three homers. Tony Harrah, Tom Griego and Bill Sotakis posted Texas' three.

"I see the ball very well here," said Smith, who has hit seven homers in two years at the park, among the toughest in the American League to hit homers in. "I guess the rest is psychological, because this is not an easy park to hit in."

Two First Inning Runs Help Sink Moriarty's

Three singles and a sacrifice fly in the top of the first inning was all the New Britain Falcons needed last night at St. Thomas Seminary in Bloomfield to defeat the Eastern Division title-holders, Moriarty Brothers, 5-1. Action came in the double elimination playoffs. Less than 200 watched the tilt.

It was the second consecutive night that a front-running team was beaten. Monday night East Hartford Merchants topped Hartford Insurance, 4-3.

Tonight at St. Thomas, weather permitting, Hartford and Moriarty's will square off with the loser being eliminated from play. John Serafini is expected to get the mound call for the locals. Game time is 8:30.

ERIC! LOOK! ...OVER THERE! THE TREES!
...BUT THINK OF 'AMIGUSSE BUSCH'!

SGT. STRIPES... FOREVER

DID YOU HEAR A NEW LAW WAS PASSED TO CUT DOWN ON HORSEPOWER, BECAUSE OF AIR POLLUTION?
BOY, THAT'S GREAT! I'VE GOT A TEAM OF FOUR HORSES!
I KNOW JUST HOW YOU FEEL ABOUT IT, SARGE...
...BUT THINK OF 'AMIGUSSE BUSCH'!

OUR OUT WAY BY NED COCHRAN

SAY THAT'S NOT A VERY NICE THING TO DO! YOU'LL HAVE THE NEWSBAGS WORN OFF THAT YOU'RE FORGOTTEN FOR THIS BIKENOW!
OH, I'M ONLY GONNA PLAY WITH IT LONG ENOUGH SO I CAN GIVE IT TO MARYLINDA! I'LL KEEP IT!

OUR BOARDING HOUSE WITH MAJOR HOOPLE

YOU BOYS WERE FORGETTING THIS CLOTHESLINE! HEY HEY—I DON'T KNOW WHAT YOU'D DO WITHOUT A REAL CAMPER NOW!
LISTEN SLEEPIN' BEAUTY, IF WE HADN'T SPENT SO MUCH TIME CHANGING YOUR GEAR WE'D BE 100 MILES DOWN THE ROAD BY NOW!
AW, YOUR HEAD HAS NEVER GONE 100 MILES WITHOUT THE WISES IN THE UNDER TOW!
BUT IT WAS VOTED CAS OF THE YEAR!

SHORT RIBS

THIS ROUTINE WILL SHOW YOU, SIRE!
THE KING OF COMEDY SEEM TO CARE MUCH FOR GOOD OLD SLAPSTICK COMEDY.

THE FLINTSTONES

I'D LIKE TO APPLY FOR THE JOB OF HIGHWAY SAFETY REPORTER.
YES, TAKE THAT SEAT, PLEASE.
ARE THERE ANY TESTS?
ONE—AND YOU JUST PASSED IT!
...NO FEARS OF HEIGHTS?

MUTT AND JEFF

MUTT, I'M GOING TO FLY DOWN TO BERMUDA!
HIM—AT'S NICE!
AREN'T YOU EXCITED ABOUT IT?
SHOULD I BE?
FLYING IS A COMMON THING THESE DAYS!
WITH YOUR OWN WINGS?

WINTHROP

I'M EXHAUSTED... I WISH IT WAS TIME TO GO TO BED.
THAT'S WHAT I CALL SERVICE!

CAPTAIN EASY

THE MASTER HIMSELF... WHAT THEN, ESPECIALLY WHEN THERE ARE GUESTS IN THE HOUSE?
DON'T BE ABSURD, SURELY YOU MUST'VE HEARD BY NOW—AND ALL THOSE—THAT YOU ARE DISAPPOINTED!
AND ANYWAY—HOW COULD HE GET INTO THE ATTIC IF IT'S BROCKED UP?
AH—BUT YOU SEE THIS HOUSE HAS A NUMBER OF GREAT SILENT MOVIE TRAPDOORS!

STEVE CANYON

RIGHT? YOU GOT A GIRL FOR THE TOURIST BIT?
I'M URGENT! IS YOUR GIRL HERE?
NO, SIR, THIS IS ALL SORT OF A PRECISE TRIP!
DEAR, IF YOU GOT A GIRL, PLEASE GIVE HER MY LOVE AND TELL HER TO GO TO MARIANA!
PLEASE GIVE HER MY LOVE AND TELL HER TO GO TO MARIANA!
ANYONE DO YOU KNOW WHO WANTS TO MAKE A GREAT SILENT MOVIE TRAPDOOR?

HERALD BOX LETTERS
For Your Information

THE HERALD will not disclose the identity of any advertiser using box letters. Readers answering blind box ads who desire to protect their identity can follow this procedure:

Enclose your reply to the box in an envelope - address to the Classified Manager, Manchester Evening Herald, together with a memo listing the companies you do NOT want to see your letter. Your letter will be destroyed if the advertiser is one you've mentioned. If not it will be handled in the usual manner.

PLEASE READ YOUR AD

Classified or "Want Ads" are taken over the phone as a convenience. The advertiser should read as at the FREE DAY IT APPEARS and REPORT ERRORS in time for the next insertion. The Herald is responsible for only ONE incorrect or omitted insertion for any advertisement and then only to the extent of a "make good" insertion. Errors which do not lessen the value of the advertisement will not be corrected by "make good" insertion.
