

Four Persons Die In Bay State Tornado

Heat Wave Continues In State

By The Associated Press
The first break in the oppressive weather that has been making Connecticut sweat is not predicted by the weatherman until the weekend.

The extended outlook for Connecticut calls for fair, hot and humid weather through Friday, partly cloudy Saturday with a chance of showers and thunderstorms toward evening and Sunday fair, not as hot and less humid.

The National Weather Service at Bradley International Airport in Windsor Locks says the temperature — humidity index is supposed to climb into the 80s for the third straight day. That means it's uncomfortable for most people.

The heat and humidity were accompanied Tuesday by high winds, rain and hail that ripped across Western Connecticut and then over Long Island Sound, the weatherman said. The force of the storms uprooted trees, caused property damage and interrupted electric and telephone service. Numerous highway injuries were attributed, at least in part, to the bad weather.

The National Weather Service at Sikorsky Memorial Airport, Stratford, said winds gusts up to 46 miles per hour at about 3 p.m.

Easton, northwest of Bridgeport, was hardest hit in that area. United Illuminating Co. said about 2,000 customers were left without electrical service well into the night. Lightning caused an estimated $2,000 in damage to a Fairfield home.

Carolyn Peake, 55, of Waterbury was treated at New Milford Hospital for head lacerations, police and hospital officials said.

She was injured by a sailboat boom while sailing on Lake Waramaug in the state park of the same name, police said. The lake area in Washington was one of the hardest — hit areas, police said.

Local and state highway crews, as well as workmen from utility companies, worked into the night to restore service.

Upwards of 7,000 electric customers were without power at one time or another during the day. Power companies reported half of the town of Washington still out at dawn. Several hundred customers in northwestern Connecticut were not expected to get service until late morning.

Some residents in Roxbury and Cornwall reported hail stones as large as golf balls.

The rain brought relief to some areas of the state but not for long.

"Unless there's a change in the weather the situation is likely to get worse," Gregory Wight of the state Department of Environmental Protection said.

Hazy, warm and humid tonight. Patchy fog developing. Lows in the upper 60s. Sunny, hot and humid again Thursday. High in the upper 90s.

Precipitation probability 10 per cent tonight, 20 per cent Thursday.

Winds at 5 mph or less tonight, variable at 10 mph Thursday.

Outlook for Friday — partly sunny, continued hot and humid.

Pruned By Tornado

Jacobs Recall 1953 Tornado

BARBARA RICHMOND
(Herald Reporter)

A tornado on June 9, 1953 put the very small town of Fayville, Mass. on the map but at the same time almost blew it away, and Mr. and Mrs. Whitney Jacobs of 62 Alexander St. today recalled their experiences in that storm.

Jacobs was a Manchester Herald reporter from 1954 to 1956 and is now administrative assistant to the Health Center Planning Committee at the University of Connecticut.

The news of the severe tornado that hit West Stockbridge, Mass., yesterday, brought back unhappy memories to the Jacobs and Mrs. Jacobs commented that over the years she has "a healthy respect for severe weather warnings." She said she has lost some of the fear she has experienced even during an ordinary electrical storm.

The couple's son, Clayton, now 21, was a baby at the time of the Dayville storm and if his mother hadn't kept him up to play with him he probably would not have survived as his crib was littered with glass from the windows blown out by the force of the wind.

Mrs. Jacobs said she was preparing dinner in the old farmhouse where they lived at that time. She said it had been oppressively hot all day even though a stiff breeze was blowing and then the temperature dropped sharply. She said she saw what she thought was leaves blowing around but later discovered it was debris from a nearby town where the storm had already cut its path.

"Her husband, who was at a nearby garage, heard calls for ambulances to remove injured in that town and he immediately returned home. Mrs. Jacobs said they did not see the funnel-shaped cloud usually associated with a tornado but, she added, they became very alarmed when they felt a sudden, strange pressure in their ears. At that point they decided

West Stockbridge Surveys Damage To Truck Plaza

WEST STOCKBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — Clean-up operations began today to clear away debris and survey damage caused by a tornado that ripped through eastern New York into western Massachusetts Tuesday, killing four persons and injuring 31 others.

The twister leveled the State Line Diner at the Berkshire Truck Plaza complex here.

The dead were identified as Robert Hoag, 56, of New Hartford, N.Y., Louis J. Pascale, 28, of Brooklyn, N.Y., and Lewis Dubois, 58, a truck driver from Foxboro, Mass. A fourth victim, Constantine Delmolino, 37, died of injuries suffered when the tornado hit his home about a half a mile from the diner.

State Police from Massachusetts and New York and more than 60 volunteers remained on the scene throughout the night, and heavy equipment was called in to clear up the debris which was strewn at least half a mile away.

A state Department of Conservation hydroplane was called in this morning to check a swampy area near the truck stop for possible bodies. However, a state police spokesman said, "We don't expect to find anybody."

Of the 31 persons treated at three Pittsfield hospitals, all but two were listed in satisfactory condition today.

Listed in critical condition at Berkshire Medical Center was Curtis Valentine, 38, of Lyndon-ville, N.Y. His son, Eric, 7, was in fair condition at the hospital.

Bank checks and papers from the diner were apparently carried as far as 50 or 60 miles away into Connecticut by the winds. Philip Lansing of Granby, Conn., and Cindy Lariviere of South Windsor, Conn., reported finding papers bearing the name of the State Line Diner in their front yards.

Other checks and receipts blew into Manchester and Hebron, Conn.

Keith Loveless of Stockbridge, who was lunching at the diner when the storm hit, said a group of patrons had clustered at the door to watch the heavy downpour.

"I heard a snap and looked up and saw the whole roof divide down the middle and blow off," Loveless said.

"I thought I was dead. I thought the whole city had been destroyed," said another patron, Orosa Girona of West Stockbridge.

Trees and utility poles were uprooted, about 20 cars and trucks were overturned and gas

Rains Hamper Rescue Efforts

Hundreds Perish In Earthquake

MEXICO CITY (AP) —

Torrential rains drenched rescue workers in some parts of southeast Mexico today as they searched for bodies or trapped survivors from the worst earthquake in modern Mexican history.

The rains added to an already serious flood problem and drove more people from their homes.

Late figures from the quake areas 120 to 220 miles south and east of Mexico City indicated more than 600 persons perished in the devastating earth shock at 3:51 a.m. Tuesday.

It was the highest death toll of an earthquake in Mexico since the keeping of such records started in the early 1900s.

President Luis Echeverria scheduled a bus tour of the devastated area today.

The quake, coming during the worst rainy season in 30 years, extended a disaster area that already covered much of central Mexico. Seventy-six persons have died in floods in the past month, the homes of more than 400,000 have been damaged and millions of dollars worth of crops have been ruined.

The earthquake, which registered 6.5 on the Richter scale, struck at least 24 cities, towns and villages along the Sierra Madre range in the states of Puebla and Veracruz.

In Richter measurements, an earthquake of 7.0 is 10 times more severe than one of 6.0, which is 10 times greater than one of 5.0. That is because the Richter scale measures wave magnitudes and not something like an increase in automobile speed from 60 to 70 miles per hour.

Huge cracks opened in the earth in Puebla state, into which homes and other buildings tumbled. The craters spouted dust for hours, until afternoon rains damped it.

Ciudad Serdan, 170 miles east of Mexico City, appeared to be in the center of the area hit hardest. The police duty officer in the city reported early today that between 300 and 400 persons were dead in the city of 22,000 people and its adjacent villages.

In Orizaba, a center of the brewing industry, 80 deaths were reported, most of them in the collapse of a five-story building in which 20 families lived.

Twenty-four hours after the quake the exact toll was not known because many small villages along the edge of the extinct Pico de Orizaba volcano were still isolated.

The government reported 393 confirmed dead in the state of Puebla and 92 in Veracruz state. But later reports from both areas added another 17 deaths.

There were no reports of foreigners being injured and Acapulco, the tourist resort on the Pacific coast, barely felt the tremor.

Swedish Gunmen Surrender

STOCKHOLM (AP) — "Don't hurt them — they didn't harm us," two women hostages cried as police Tuesday night seized the pair of gunmen who had held four people for 132 hours in a Stockholm bank.

"We never felt the boys were a threat to our lives," 21-year-old Kristin Enmark told a newsman. "We were scared that the police would do something that would force them to turn desperate."

The two convicts — safecracker Jan-Erik Olsson, 32, and life-term murderer Clark Olofsson, 26 — surrendered after police pumped tear gas into the bank vault in which they were holding three women and a man prisoner.

There was no bloodshed, and doctors at the hospital to which the hostages were taken said their condition was "good under the circumstances."

Miss Enmark denied reports that one of the other two women had been raped repeatedly.

"None of them did anything to us," she told newsmen who interviewed her in Sabbatsberg Hospital.

Olsson seized the four bank employees last Thursday when police surprised him as he was robbing the main office of the Kreditbanken.

An escaped convict, he demanded that Olofsson be brought to the bank and that they be given $650,000 in ransom and safe conduct out of the country. The government agreed but would not let them go when Olsson insisted on taking two of the hostages with him for insurance.

The convicts had the run of the bank for two days, but police trapped them and their captives Saturday in the 40-by-19-foot vault.

Early Tuesday evening, the police suddenly cut off the lights in the vault and pumped tear gas through holes they had drilled. Olsson fired a burst from his submachine gun and then gave up.

"Shortly after the gas was pumped into the vault, I heard cries from the girls and the door was opened," Detective Inspector Karl Gunnar Aastrom said. He said Olofsson shouted, "We surrender."

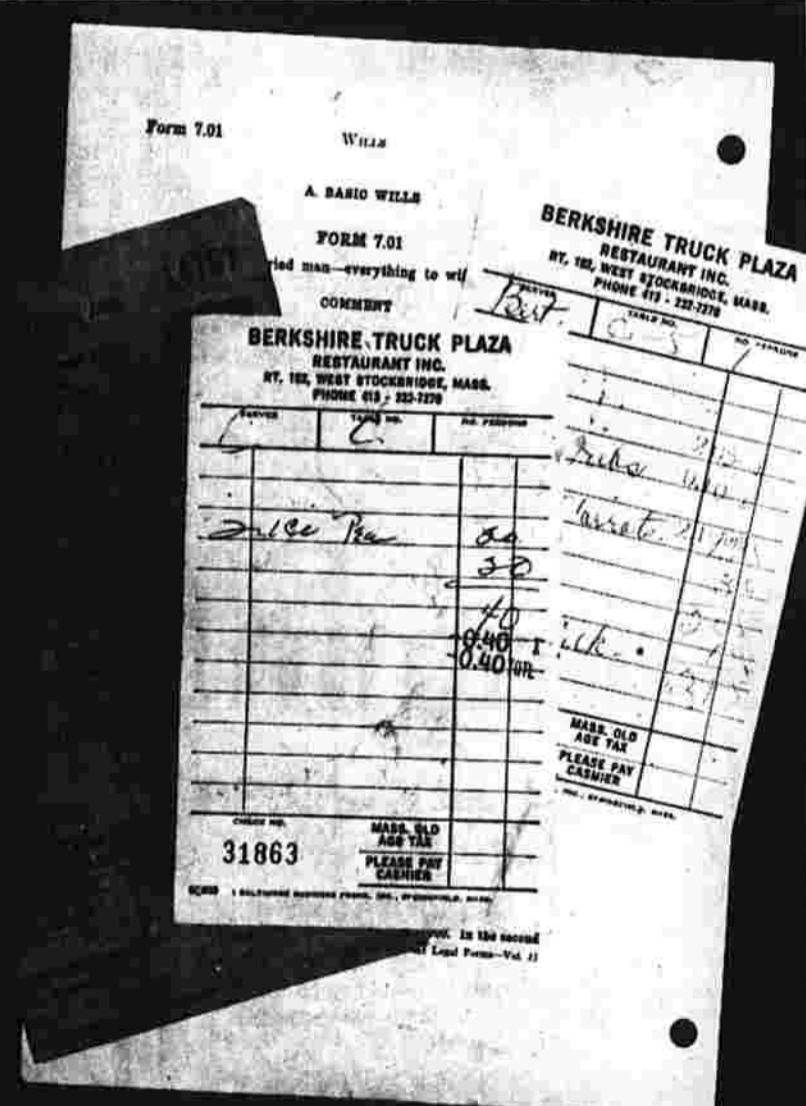

"He seemed to be fit," Aastrom continued. "I put the handcuffs around his wrists and took him away. Olsson did not put up any resistance either. Both appeared to be suffering from the gas."

"I couldn't imagine that it would work so smoothly," said Police Supt. Sven Thomander. "I got damned scared when I noticed we had pumped in too small an amount of gas. We closed the door again and pumped in more gas."

There were two casualties in the six-day siege, a policeman shot in the hand during Olsson's robbery attempt on Thursday and another policeman hit in the hand and the jaw when Olsson fired through one of the holes in the ceiling of the vault on Tuesday.

EXPERTS DIFFER ON OPENING LEADS
By Alfred Sheinwold

When you hold three small cards of a "blind" suit, which should you lead — high, low or middle card? Experts have been arguing about this for a few years. Today's hand shows one of the reasons that most of the top players favor the low card.

Diamonds, A-Q-J-5; Clubs, 9-6-4-3.

What do you say?
Answer: Bid one diamond. The hand is clearly worth an opening bid since you have 15 points in high cards alone. Partner's probable response is in hearts, where you are shortest. If you begin with one diamond, you will not be able to bid one spade. If you begin with one spade, you will be embarrassed by a response of two hearts.

Group Homes Rules Reviewed by HRC

ALICE EVANS (Herald Reporter)

A new draft of a proposed group home ordinance was presented to the Human Relations Commission Tuesday night by HRC member Stephen Cassano.

Before the proposed regulatory ordinance is brought before the Board of Directors, it will be reviewed by Town Counsel David Barry.

Several questions will have to be answered before the ordinance is presented to the Board of Directors. The commission will have to decide if the ordinance will apply to only group homes for children or should it encompass rehabilitation centers and homes for persons over 16. The term "fostering" will have to be defined, and the role of the Zoning Board in the licensing of group homes will have to be decided.

Commissioner Carl Zinzer said that the Zoning Board of Appeals should hold public hearings before group homes could be licensed, even though the ordinance provides a licensing body composed of the human resources coordinator, the town building inspector, fire marshal, health inspector, and a member of the Town Welfare Department.

He said that people might approve of group homes within the town but probably would object to one being located next door.

The commission also discussed its "Focus" program, which is scheduled to be held each Sunday night starting Sept. 9.

Health Agency Reports 30 New Cases Of Mono

HARTFORD (AP)—Thirty new cases of infectious mononucleosis were reported by the Connecticut Health Department this week, bringing the total so far this year to 876. This is 14 more cases than were reported during the same period last year, said Dr. Franklin Foote, state health commissioner. The 1972 total was 1,449.

Mononucleosis is caused by a virus whose symptoms include an irregular fever, sore throat, swollen glands and swelling of the spleen, Foote said.

There are no preventive measures and no specific treatment for the illness, he said. State Health Department figures also show that for the week ending Aug. 25, there were 172 new acute gonorrhea cases—up 20 from the previous week.

Syphilis remained constant at 11, new mumps cases rose from 2 to 1, and viral hepatitis cases numbered 11, up 2, according to the figures.

High School Plans Opening Schedule

DONNA HOLLAND
Correspondent
Tel. 646-0375

Bolton High School will open its doors for the tenth year of operation Sept. 5 to approximately 290 students who are expected to arrive at the school by 7:55 a.m. Formal classes will end at 2:14 p.m.

Principal Norman Shaw reminds students that the school is still without a cafeteria so lunches must be brought from home.

After clubs and activities have been organized, it will probably be possible to purchase something—pizza, grinders, doughnuts, potato chips—on each day, but for the first few days only milk and ice cream will be available.

There are no changes in the overall time schedule of the school day. The only variation of procedure during the first week of school will be the lack of late buses.

Late buses will run on each Monday and Wednesday beginning the first full week of school for students participating in after school activities.

Curriculum development has increased because of the stability of the staff. Junior and senior class members this year were able to choose from a list of seven different half-year English courses that ranged from British Literature to Visual Literacy or Literature For Those Who Hate Literature.

Laboratories for chemistry and physics have been scheduled for the first time this year. All students who elected to take either of these subjects have been assigned seven classes each week instead of the usual five.

Freshman and sophomore class members were offered a new course in social studies that will make for more flexibility in their studies.

Classes will be able to choose from a group of possible areas of study for the first half year and choose again at mid-year. Students have not made any decisions as yet, but they are expected to do so during the first two weeks of school.

All classes will meet at a different time each day on a regular schedule except classes scheduled for the middle of the day. Classes scheduled for the middle of the day remain the same.

Board Raises Fees for Lunch

ANNE EMT
Correspondent
Tel. 238-3971

The Regional District 4 Board of Education Monday night approved a 5-cent increase in price to 20 cents and an increase of 15 cents in adult lunches from 50 cents to 65 cents.

Cost for milk this year will also increase 5 cents to 10 cents each one-half pint. In connection with milk prices, the board accepted a 68¢ per half-pint bid from Knudsen Brothers. This was the only bid submitted.

Also approved was a 10-cent per hour increase across the board for cafeteria staff, plus a $200 increase for the manager, bringing the projected cost of operation to $15,250.50 as opposed to $15,215.25 last year.

The increase, however, is not as much as would have occurred were there not double sessions this year. Since the seventh and eighth grades will not be having lunch at school, the cafeteria workers will work a total of 555 hours less this year than last.

Student Funds
After meeting with officers of the class of 1973, which graduated with approximately $1,200 in unexpended class funds, J. Colin Pushe, principal of Rham High School, has reached a verbal agreement with the officers to hold the funds in the student activity account needed by the class for a 15-year reunion.

The board is considering a policy whereby a graduating class of 1973, which graduated with approximately $1,200 in unexpended class funds, J. Colin Pushe, principal of Rham High School, has reached a verbal agreement with the officers to hold the funds in the student activity account needed by the class for a 15-year reunion.

Boating Mishaps Decline
GOVERNOR'S ISLAND, N.Y. (AP)—Coast Guard officials say there have been 10 to 15 per cent fewer boating accidents in Connecticut so far this year than at the same time last year.

The officials at headquarters for the Third Coast Guard District also said six persons died in boating accidents in the state this year, with one death occurring since the start of the heavy boating season, May 30.

Since Memorial Day, the Coast Guard said, there have been 10 accidents in Connecticut waters, six of them on Long Island Sound. Most of the accidents were collisions, either between boats or between a boat and a fixed object.

Mass Transit Plight

Mass transportation systems cannot, even under the best of conditions, be as convenient as the family car. This in essence is the plight of those charged with coming up with a mass transit system for our towns and the state.

Getting people to use buses, trains, monorails, or even boats is the key problem, according to James Shugrue, acting state transportation commissioner. He told this to a small group attending the I-291 alternatives session in Manchester last week.

We gathered with his remarks the DOT seems to be caught in the middle of a dilemma. Advocates of mass transit are saying in effect that without a system you can't have riders. Yet, historically, it is a fact that affluence has meant auto ownership for the millions and mass abandonment of mass transit systems which were once quite highly developed and profitable in towns like Manchester, not only for in-town movement but inter-town as well.

Since that meeting, there has been a trial balloon sent up in Washington to use a tax to penalize poor fuel economy in new cars as a means to conserve petroleum.

Should this come about, there is nothing to stand in the way of a tax being imposed on auto users based upon the use of the vehicle. The structure of the tax could be such to force (via taxes) workers commuting to and from work to use mass transit facilities.

The problem of getting people to use mass transit can be solved in such a manner. But such "forced" use could be self-defeating in one sense. We hesitate to think about the plight of the commuter in the hands of a public or private mass transit system if he were a captive passenger.

Now even admitting that mass transit, in whatever form it takes cannot compete with the auto for convenience and status too for that matter, the fact remains much can and should be done to make mass transit use more convenient than it now is, more attractive and economical.

It will take time and money to develop the ideal mass transit system some envision as the basic means of moving people. But as we pointed out by Manchester's Town Planner Eric Potter, we must do this because Connecticut is much too small to continue building more and more roads.

So in the end, it is not going to be a question of will people use it, but really whether they will have any other choice unless our diminishing open spaces are to become tiny oases in an asphalt desert.

Russia Becomes Best Trade Friend

It has been an accepted axiom that politics make strange bedfellows. But it seems that economics, or trade, if you will, may be making even stranger ones. To wit, the United States greatest ally in overcoming our naggingly persistent trade deficit is none other than our old enemy Russia.

To quote some quite startling figures, in 1971 we exported goods worth $161 million and imported goods worth $57.2 million. But, in the first six months of this year our exports were $64 million and imports only $86.5 million for a whopping big trade surplus with the USSR.

In 1972 the great wheat sale affected our trade balance favorably and total future contracts for grain sales are at the $1.2 billion mark.

And in addition to sales of grain the prospects of our continuing to sell machinery are looking very bright.

Our overall balance of trade in July was favorable for the first time in several years. And our dealings with Russia had much to do with the month in the "black" as well as with a declining deficit in the first six months of 1973.

At the same time our trade with

China is exceeding all early expectations and will soon make the United States the second nation in volume of trading with that country, Japan, naturally being first.

Our biggest imports from Russia are not vodka and caviar, although there is a little of that. Paladium, platinum and gem diamonds rank high on the list of our Russian purchases. Chrome ore was another of our purchases.

While shipments from Russia are a small part of our total export-import picture, they cannot be said to be negligible.

Strengthening of trade and a favorable balance will go far in bringing the dollar back to a stronger place in its relation to other national currencies.

President Nixon received praise, generally, but some criticism for his visits to Russia and China. The large 1972 wheat sale to Russia was criticized by many and it was attributed a portion of the food bill rise since then. However, we think it would be hard to find much condemnation today from the wheat growers who are enjoying their highest price per bushel in years.

Today's Thought

Despite repeated admonitions to drive safely, frequently and tragically, driving after drinking, excessive speeds and failure to buckle up add up to deaths and injuries on our highways. During the Labor Day weekend, "let's come back alive" by driving defensively, advises the Connecticut Safety Commission.

THIRD PHRASE
Someone Else Will!
A usable catchall phrase that alleviates us from personal responsibility and potential guilt feelings and is commonly found many places. It is much used by individuals in middle command positions who do not wish to risk being wrong in the eyes of their superiors or electors.

It is learned early, used widely, and when fully practiced can deviate any organization or family.
The phrase is connected with the human desire to be childlike and absolutely dependent. This is an odd reading of the scripture and the grossest kind of misinterpretation of the relationship of a person to his God.

Secretary Kissinger

WASHINGTON — For beleaguered President Nixon, the elevation of Dr. Henry A. Kissinger to Secretary of State was a political master stroke, but for Kissinger himself it is fraught with dangers that threaten his charmed life.

For the President, the move takes advantage of by far the brightest shining figure in his palid administration. By elevating Kissinger to the No. 1 cabinet post, the President at once exploits the mystical public appeal to his use foreign policy adviser and reinforces his administration at its weakest point: the State Department, clearly vacuumed of all power by Kissinger's staff at the White House. The impact is felt simultaneously on domestic and world opinion.

But Kissinger could become the victim of the dormant State Department bureaucracy which will now try to energize. He is underdog in that struggle. U.S. foreign policy and the battered President will suffer along with Kissinger.

Kissinger's aura even in these grim Watergate days is indispensible considering his routine experience wherever he goes. He is literally besieged by citizens, seeking his autograph and a handshake. He is the only interoffice Nixon man to have

Hi Neighbor

Burl Lyons, Publisher

If the Mass Pike is in your travel plans for the approaching Labor Day weekend you might figure on getting an earlier start home otherwise you might not make it to work on time Tuesday morning.

We were jammed on the Mass Pike last weekend and in approaching Sturbridge cars were bumper-to-bumper and moving at a mighty slow pace for a distance of nearly five miles. Adding to the problem of heavy traffic is construction in the area.

However, you will undoubtedly find traffic heavy everywhere this holiday weekend and patience will need to be exercised. If you want to stay close to home there is the Labor Day picnic sponsored by East Hartford Jayces at the Elks Field.

The classified pages are always good reading and sometimes the best reading appears in the personal column or elsewhere like this advertisement in the Seattle Post-Intelligencer and reprinted in the Willimantic Chronicle:

"My boat and motor has disappeared from Martha Lake, Alderwood Manor, since June 10. I send my wishes that the boat breaks in half in mid-lake and that your mother is unsuccessful in attracting help as she runs barking along the shore."

In view of the surplus in the Connecticut state treasury, friends and neighbors might be interested in the fact that out in California the legislature has cut another penny off the sales tax because the Golden State has a tax surplus of $236 million.

In Connecticut, we are grateful for the half per cent cut. However a great many people, disturbed by prices which are threatening to go out of sight, are simply wondering why states can continue to give out cash surpluses when the wage earner doesn't have a dime to hardly call his own from pay day to pay day.

A fellow told us the other day he had been reading about this newspaper shortage and then found his Herald full of a couple "throw away" circulars. Unfortunately, due to a financial loss, those circulars weren't printed by us but were shipped in from elsewhere for distribution in our paper.

It's strange, though, that from time to time we hear frequent complaints about circulars cluttering up the newspaper but when we talk to merchants they claim circulars do a fantastic job in attracting customers.

These days we are giving serious thinking to launching a crusade and lending all efforts toward sharply reducing vandalism in our schools and other public property.

If some of the parents don't give a damn about their kids, maybe it's time the newspaper showed some concern.

We have been thinking about contacting various community leaders and other concerned citizens to see if we could establish a standing reward fund in which funds could be dispersed to those giving information which would lead to the arrest of those responsible. The fund would be a continuing one that would be available when the need arose.

Our second thought is publicity for those apprehended for vandalism acts, reparations of the law which protects juveniles. We are about in the frame of mind to test the law.

If any civic club is looking for a project we can't think of a better one. We have got to put a stop to this senseless vandalism in our schools and other public property. If the clubs are too busy, then maybe The Herald will tackle the job by itself. But, for one, am getting sick and tired of reading about broken windows, torn books, carpet fires, spilled paint and all the other countless acts of vandalism in our schools for which there is no logical reason or excuse.

While there are certain to be one-way streets in downtown Manchester in the future, perhaps a study should be given to proposed one-way streets in other parts of town, not only for the movement of traffic but from a safety standpoint.

Too many of our streets are hardly capable of carrying two-way traffic and the problem is compounded by parking. Granted, one-way streets are often an efficient and safe way to increase traffic flow, but the smooth flow of traffic and safety more important.

Perhaps it isn't too early to begin such a study.

The Hartford Courant's claim of "The oldest newspaper of continuous publication in America" is being disputed.

The New England Daily Newspaper Association's newsletter comments: "The mail brought a copy of the Newport Mercury, published in Newport, R.I., which bears the claim, 'the oldest paper in America. Established by J. Franklin 1788.'"

J. Franklin was reportedly Benjamin's nephew. While there were two brief lapses in continuous publication due to the Revolutionary War, illness and paper shortage (they had it in those days, too) the Newport Mercury has been published weekly, without lapse, since Dec. 22, 1787.

The Courant was reportedly founded Nov. 26, 1764, under the name "The Connecticut Courant and Weekly Advertiser." The present title apparently was first used sometime after 1820.

Perhaps — who was really first — isn't that important. If the Courant would simply insert the word daily into the slogan, there would be no cause for dispute, since the Rhode Island paper is a weekly.

A good idea?
Arizona is believed to be the first state in the nation to proclaim the last Sunday in September, Sept. 30, as Grandparents Day.

The idea was suggested by an Arizona daily newspaper publisher who commented, "it should be a non-commercial day. Grandparents do not need fancy gifts or cards. They need love and recognition."

Out in the Middle West and on the West Coast, the retail trade-in-business on clothing and accessories is reportedly booming.

As an example, an old suit will bring you $25 on a new one, and $15 plus your old winter handbag will get you one of the newest fashion bags.

Generally, our practice is to hang on to the old suits because we can't afford new ones and hope that the old style comes back. The trade-in idea might be a smart move though for some Manchester retailer.

'Save The Taxpayers'

To the editor:
During August at the height of the vacation season the Board of Education, the Board of Directors, and the Board of Managers as usual took advantage of the townspeople and taxpayers. Knowing full well that there would be very slim turnouts at their meetings they rushed through several of their pet schemes and programs.

For the benefit of the thousands of people who were away on vacation or business, it is imperative that they be informed and alerted to one of the wildest, rawest proposals made before the Board of Directors in a long, long time on August 14, last.

A small group spearheaded by ex-town director William Fitzgerald have taken it upon themselves to devise plans and negotiations for spending about $500,000 to purchase and rebuild the old dilapidated Cheney Hall on Hartford Road. One wonders if such a scheme was hatched during one of the numerous cocktail parties attended by some of these planners during Sesquicentennial Week late in June.

For the record the present owners, Leon Podrove and John Barnini, acquired this property in September 1960 for about $45,000. The property was well used and milked by its previous owners and the present owners probably have already more than doubled their original investment. There have been very few repairs or improvements made to the property since back in 1960. Now that the structure is an eyesore and in the state of decay, is it any wonder that Podrove and Barnini are so ready and anxious to unload it?

Mr. Fitzgerald and his cohorts are completely out of order with their proposal which would enable the owners to make one real great killing at taxpayers' expense.

If this piece of property with its phony appraisal figure is such a sensational bargain let Mr. Fitzgerald and the other 13 committee members buy it up post-haste and show us all what they can do with it as private owners.

It is very shocking to learn that Mr. Fitzgerald has now demonstrated such an irresponsible lack of concern for those who would have to foot the bill for such folly, the taxpayers. After all this ridiculously absurd proposal could be kept up costing us $500,000 plus all the headaches, charades, and shenanigans we have already experienced when our high decey and sanity against those who would squander any thoughts about squandering your hard-earned tax dollars to such a proposal.

Every director worth his salt should tell Podrove and Barnini loudly and clearly, "We are not interested in your junk."

We have all witnessed the group whose theme was "Save Case Mountain." Now along comes this clique whose slogan is "Save Cheney Hall."

This is the time and place for the Board of Directors to rise in union and cry out, "Save the Taxpayers!"

Two Air-Cooled Hours

SOL R. COHEN
(Cool Reporter)

Whenever a heat wave strikes, everything else tends to take a back seat—be it politics, the economy or whatever. The current heat wave is no exception. Do you hear people talking about Watergate, Cambodia, the beef shortage, the gasoline crisis, or do you hear people saying, "If I could only cool off!"

Yesterday was a scorcher. What to do? A hot ride in a hot car along a hot countryside? An uncomfortable siesta on a hot lawn? Close the windows and keep the hot air out?

None seemed right, so I kept thinking about it and I finally solved the problem—for my wife, if not for myself.

I treated her to a delightful, round-trip, all-expense-paid two hours of fun and relaxation in the cool comfort of her favorite supermarket.

I've always been a big spender and, believe me, those two hours cost me more than two hours at a summer resort, or at an air-conditioned movie, or even at an air-conditioned restaurant.

The only two hours which might have cost me more would have been two air-cooled hours in her favorite department store. I had considered that, but ruled it out immediately. That big a spender, I'm not.

The two hours she had in the supermarket were well spent. Sure, it was cool there, but it was other things, too. It was the place where she met many of her friends and was able to catch up on current events.

It was the place where she was able to listen to the strains of music, piped in from an air-conditioned central location, by a guy in shirt-sleeves, sipping on a lemonade.

Fun and Relaxation? Cool and Cozy? Shop in Comfort?

Sure, they're cliché come-ons by some enterprising ad writer. But, how true on a hot and humid day or night.

Like most husbands, I hate to shop for groceries. But, I hate hot and humid days even more.

So, the next time the weather is oppressive and our cupboards empty, I'll do the shopping.

Two hours of fun and relaxation in the cool comfort of a supermarket sounds fine to me.

Enfield Man Killed In Auto Crash

ENFIELD (AP) — James Hansen, 19, of Enfield, died Tuesday when the car he was driving hit the rear of another vehicle and crashed into a tree, police said.

They said the driver of the second vehicle, Rita Bease, 46, of Enfield, suffered minor lacerations when her car hit a pole on the side of the road after being struck by the Hansen vehicle.

The incident occurred at about 6 p.m. on Route 5, police said.

Europeans Have Faith In Stock Market Future

By JOHN CUNIFF
AP Business Analyst
NEW YORK (AP) — Europeans who believe there is a future to the United States stock market are being presented with a rare, perhaps once-in-a-lifetime, opportunity.

The situation results from two dollar devaluations in less than two years that have effectively raised the price of blue chip stocks as much as 40 percent in terms of certain foreign currencies.

Thus a double possibility for profits exists: one, if the price of stocks move higher; two, if the dollar recovers its value in relation to other currencies.

Rinfret-Boston Associates, management and economic consultants to industry and government, compiled a list of discounts for stocks purchased in foreign currencies and concluded, "We Go!"

Based on August 20 prices, when the Dow Jones Industrial Average closed at 867, the equivalent in German marks was 522, in French francs 746 and in Swiss francs 500.

In many ways, it commented, "the extent of the dollar decline against the German mark, the French franc and the Swiss franc has been unappreciated." It went on to explain:

"Most people read in the newspaper that the tradeweighted dollar devaluation since December 1971 is about 30 percent. That figure includes trade with the entire world, and since Canada is our most important trade partner, the figure is not representative of Europe."

"The reason is that the Canadian dollar is virtually at par with the American dollar."

Wise European investors appear to be aware of the advantage, at least based on their buying and selling practices.

Last year they bought far more stocks than they sold, especially in the fourth quarter of the year. The net capital inflow of $2.1 billion was the second highest figure in history.

Through the first five months of 1973, the dominance of purchases over sales was even higher than in the comparable period of 1972. The net purchase balance through May was $1.3 billion, compared with $700 million a year earlier.

Tips Given On Coping With Heat

WINDSOR LOCKS (AP) — Here's what the National Weather Service says you should know about coping with the heat.

—Slow down. The body doesn't function well in high heat and humidity.

—Heed your body's warnings that it's becoming overheated.

—Dress for summer. Wear lightweight and light-colored clothes.

—Eat less. Foods such as proteins increase the body's metabolic heat production and increase water loss.

—Drink more. Hot weather can dehydrate the body.

—Increase salt intake, unless on a salt-restricted diet. Take an occasional salt tablet or salt solution if you are sweating.

—Treat yourself extra gently during the first critical two or three days of hot weather.

—Try to get out of the heat for at least a few hours each day, even if you have to enter an air conditioned store, restaurant or theater.

—Avoid too much sun. Sunburn reduces the amount of heat the body can dissipate.

1973 Automobile Price Hike Decision Expected Next Week

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Cost of Living Council may decide within a week whether to grant Phase 4 price increases sought by the nation's big four automakers, a council spokesman says.

The spokesman said the council would rule shortly because of the considerable publicity surrounding the requests and because a public hearing had been held.

The proposed hikes, ranging from $1 a model sought by American Motors to $169 a model sought by Ford, take effect automatically unless the council vetoes them. General Motors has asked for an increase averaging $102 a model; Chrysler, $70 a model.

Representatives of all four manufacturers, however, have said the increases will be inadequate to meet the increasing costs, and additional hikes may be requested in the near future.

Members of a council hearing board questioned whether automakers at a day-long public hearing Tuesday. Ford and General Motors were asked if they still needed the full amounts requested in view of the fact that Chrysler and American Motors had proposed lower increases.

Representatives of both Ford and GM said they would take a "hard look" at the situation for competitive reasons.

This raised the possibility that the council might trim the Ford and GM requests.

Representatives of all four automakers indicated to the council that they would probably seek additional price increases shortly to cover higher labor and materials costs.

Henry W. Welch, vice president for finance of General Motors, said GM has not had a price increase to cover material or wage costs since December 1971, although such costs have increased $92 per vehicle on the average.

The increases now under consideration, the automakers say, are to recover the cost of government-mandated safety and antipollution equipment on 1974 models, including improvements for bumpers, seat belts and roofs.

Youth Corps Money Allocated

HARTFORD (AP) — The U.S. Labor Department has given Connecticut cities and towns about $1.1 million for Neighborhood Youth Corps Programs for out-of-school youths.

In addition, the state has received $710,000 Labor Department money for development and training Act funds to provide classroom training for unemployed persons.

Many American Firms Planning Overseas Plants

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Despite uncertainties in international economics, numerous U.S. firms are going ahead with overseas acquisition plans, a Midwest research organization reports.

Midwest Research Institute of Kansas City surveyed 1,300 firms and about 20 per cent responded. Results were reported in a study entitled "A Profile of U.S. Corporate Growth: 1973."

The survey found about 75 per cent of the responding firms planned to make acquisitions this year. About one-third of those involved foreign acquisitions, despite uncertainties over exchange rates, the balance of payment situation and the use of the dollar as principal means for financing foreign trade.

About 80 per cent of the firms that already have foreign operations indicated they planned to expand them this year.

Gary R. Nuss, who directed the MRI study, said the sampling included public and private firms, those with domestic, international and multinational operations, and both manufacturing and non-manufacturing concerns. The study was sponsored by Corporate Diversification, Ltd., New York, through a grant to MRI, a private, nonprofit organization.

Firms surveyed showed little concern about effects of the first re-evaluation of the dollar. Only 14 per cent said re-evaluation would be unfavorable. Most felt it would have no effect and about one-third said it would be favorable.

The survey was taken prior to the 1973 devaluation, but Nuss said the 1973 devaluation, but Nuss said the 1973 devaluation may not concern corporate planners any more than the earlier changes.

The survey showed firms put little short-run emphasis on President Nixon's foreign policy moves toward China and Russia. But about half the respondents, although seeing no short-run gains because of the detente with the Soviet Union, Nuss said it appears larger firms, with revenues greater than $1.2 billion, are more likely to see good than bad in foreign operations coming to the United States.

"It can be expected that the number of foreign take-overs will grow dramatically in 1973 and beyond," the report said. It was felt some countries, especially Japan and West Germany, have established such effective marketing headquarters that assembly operations in the United States will make sense, especially in view of the second dollar devaluation.

Earlier at the LBJ Library in Austin, Johnson's widow, Lady Bird, and her two daughters smiled and wept as the Lyndon B. Johnson commemorative stamp was issued on the stage where the late president made his last public appearance.

At the space center dedication, Dr. James C. Fletcher, administrator of the National Aeronautics and Space Administration, called Johnson "a crusader in man's conquest of space."

"No other person did more to move America and the world rapidly into the space age than Lyndon Baines Johnson," Fletcher said.

Postmaster General E.T. Klassen presented souvenir sheets of the stamp in black albums embossed with gold to Mrs. Johnson, her daughters and their husbands.

Blue Cross Rate Hike Opposed

HARFORD (AP) — An aide to Gov. Thomas J. Meskill Tuesday urged Connecticut Insurance Commissioner Paul B. Altamatt to disapprove at least one part of a rate increase requested by Connecticut Blue Cross.

Special Counsel Robert C. Leuba represented Meskill at a public hearing on Blue Cross' request to raise premiums for direct subscribers by 13.6 per cent.

At one point Leuba said Altamatt should stand by his decision in another Blue Cross rate case last year when he refused to permit the company to raise its rates on an inflationary trend of more than 6 per cent annually.

In a prepared statement, Leuba called the current request "a crushing blow" to direct Blue Cross subscribers—those not covered by group plans.

"Our hard-pressed citizens, particularly senior citizens and those in the middle income brackets and below, should not be forced to foot the bill for Blue Cross administrative inefficiencies," Leuba said.

He also said Meskill opposed Blue Cross' request to discontinue its "100" policy whereby the company pays all hospital costs after the first $10. Leuba said Meskill wanted this option retained for elderly and retired citizens.

Leuba said the company's report that its net operating expenses for 1973 increased more than 20 per cent over 1972 suggests strongly that Connecticut Blue Cross should look to its internal operations and make efforts at getting its own house in order before looking to the public for more money.

Leuba also said the commission should closely scrutinize Blue Cross' reserve funds.

"As of June 30, 1973, that account stood at $12.3 million, up $3.8 million from the $8.5 million figure of June 30, 1972," he said.

Leuba said the company's reported deficit for the first six months of this year equaled only one-eighth of the amount of increase in its contingency reserve.

"With inflation running at record rates, now is not the time for building unnecessary reserves," Leuba said.

Finally, he urged the commission to consider whether the Blue Cross request indicated that hospital costs should be expected to increase at the same rate during the coming year.

Board Headed By Ahearn

Aloysius Ahearn was unanimously re-elected chairman of the Board of Finance at a meeting earlier this week on the basis that all board members will assist with the excessive duties of the chairman.

Before this week's meeting Ahearn had notified all board members that he would not be available to serve as chairman this year. For various reasons all other board members were also unable to accept the chairmanship.

Ahearn had cited the long-standing practice of thrusting excessive duties on the chairman with other board members approving or disapproving the work as the reason the chairmanship changes so often.

Assisting Ahearn this year will be William Riley, town report; Siddey Sattar, Roy Peckham, revenue for budget time; Gerald Hassett, auditor's report; and Morris Silverstein, board statement.

Federal Milk Subsidy Canceled
WASHINGTON (AP) — Milk subsidy programs for some 40 million school children are being canceled.

The Agriculture Department said lack of funds is forcing it to eliminate the milk subsidies for schools that also have a federal subsidized lunch program.

Schools without the subsidized lunch program will continue to get the milk subsidy, officials said, a provision affecting about six million children.

Under the milk subsidy the government has provided an average of three cents toward the price of a half-pint of milk.

South Windsor

School Lunch Prices Raised

By vote of the South Windsor Board of Education, Tuesday night, the cost of school lunches will increase by five cents for students and 10 cents for faculty.

For the elementary school students the cost will increase from 45 to 50 cents; for secondary school students, 50 to 55 cents; and for faculty, 65 to 75 cents. Due to the lack of government subsidy, all in a card milk will be nine cents a carton instead of the previous five cents.

The bid for construction of the playground at Pleasant Valley Elementary School was rejected and the project will be held, Dr. Robert Goldman, superintendent of schools, said. The completion date is set for Oct. 25.

The board has obtained two more portable classrooms which will be ready for school opening next week. This will bring to a total of eight the number of portables now in use. There will be two each at Wapping Elementary School, Avery, Orchard Hill and Ell Terry schools.

The board approved some revisions to the rules of 80 and policy of the board to make them consistent with changes in the new teacher contract.

Also approved was a request to institute an intern position in the business office of the Board of Education. Board members will contact the University of Hartford to find a student interested in the intern position.

A contract for supportive staff members in the school system and one for the director of food services were formally ratified last night with the salary of the director going to $11,550, an increase of $50.

The board approved a change of title for four administrative positions from department coordinators to associate department chairmen. There will also be some minor changes in responsibilities in these positions.

Day Care Center To Open Sept. 4

A day care and creative learning center for pre-school children of students and staff members at Manchester Community College (MCC) will begin in September and continue through the academic year. Other children will be accepted if those from the college do not fill the enrollment quota.

The program, for children two-and-one-half to six years of age, is sponsored by the Free University and Student Center at MCC. The program will offer creative arts, sensorial perception, practical life activities and an opportunity to experience elementary mathematics and language skills. Activities will be individualized to meet the interests and abilities of each child. Professional teachers will conduct pre-school lessons. The day care and creative learning center will be open on Tuesday, Sept. 4, the same day that classes begin at MCC. The center will be located in the Center Congregational Church in Manchester. Hours will be from 7:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Activities and instruction in the morning session will be repeated in the afternoon. Children may attend either session or both sessions.

An open house will be held at the Center Congregational Church on Thursday at 7 p.m. for parents who have already arranged to have their children attend, and for others who think they might like to have their children attend. Children will be welcome.

Anyone wishing further information can call Susan Saporita, director of the day care and creative learning center, or Andrew Paterna, coordinator of the student center at Manchester Community College.

Stamps In The News

AP Newsfeatures By SYD KRONISH

It isn't easy to get approval for the issuance of a new U.S. stamp. Many ideas are submitted, but few are chosen. Only a limited number of commemoratives are produced each year and a goodly number of these are already reserved for national historic occasions. Nevertheless, many worthwhile organizations and groups, eager to publicize their favorite causes, work far in advance to petition the U.S. Stamp Advisory Committee, the Postmaster General or others in high political positions.

Recently the Florida congressional delegation asked for a commemorative in honor of Dr. John Gorrie, the inventor of the ice-making machine. Gorrie discovered how to make ice while seeking a way to cool the air for people suffering from malaria.

The American Optometric Association has petitioned for a "National Optometry" stamp to emphasize the vital importance of vision health care and to recognize the public health significance of the profession of optometry. The Association said such a stamp would fit well within the theme of the American health care stamp issues and cited other countries which have issued stamps on behalf of eye care.

Dominica pays tribute to the 100th anniversary of the World Meteorological Organization with a multicolored set of seven stamps. The set shows the latest and most modern scientific apparatuses to meteorology through the use of computers, radar and satellites. A souvenir sheet also accompanied the new set.

The 1-cent depicts the launching of the Tires weather satellite. The 1-cent illustrates the Nimbus satellite, 2-cent radiodone balloon equipment, 3-cent radarscope, 3-cent computer weather map. The souvenir sheet features the 50-cent and 1-cent stamps and the borders portray the eight winds.

The familiar folding fan, said to have been invented in China, is the basis of a new set of four stamps from the Republic of China (Taiwan). The Chinese fan has appeared on many art designs, especially during the Ming Dynasty. The latest stamps were reproduced from illustrations in the vast collections in the National Museum in Taiwan, according to the World Wide Philatelic Agency.

One design shows a bamboo fan rendered in ink. Another has a fan with flowers. The third and fourth depict fans with human figures portrayed. Artistic designs of the Ming Dynasty have appeared on many stamps of Nationalist China, particularly in recent years.

Four more important personages have been added to the "Famous Australians" series. The quartet honored includes: Dame Mary Gilmore, writer and poet; Sir Isaac Isaacs, jurist and first Australian-born Governor General; Marcus Clarke, noted author; William Charles Westworth, who made the first Blue Mountains crossing in 1813. Each stamp bears a portrait of a famous person and each is a 7-center.

East Africa dedicates a new set of four stamps to the 24th World Boy Scout Conference in Kenya this summer. The designs feature Scouts learning by serving, Lord Baden-Powell's grave in Kenya, the World Scout emblem, and a portrait of Lord Baden-Powell, founder of the Boy Scout movement.

ALL IN THE FAMILY WITHBANK. South Africa (AP) — Mrs. J. S. Vermaak jumped out of her car to argue with the driver of a truck that had collided with her. The other driver happened to be her husband. Damage to the car was estimated at $447, and to the truck, $18.

"We'll settle out of court," she said.

Young Man Goes South For Fortune

By HAL BOYLE

SUN CITY CENTER, Fla. (AP) — Every year thousands of young people from all over America migrate to New York City, hoping to find fame or fortune in the nation's largest metropolis.

Jerry Gould, a native New Yorker, reversed the trend. He left Manhattan because he could no longer stand it, found opportunity in Florida, and now is one of the country's largest home builders.

"I simply got tired of being pushed about and intimidated in New York," he remarked. "The people who like it feel it is the best place in the world to be, but I feel sorry for them."

"There are a lot of cultural advantages in the big city, but I resent the fact that most of the people who live there don't make enough money to enjoy them. Unless you have money in New York, where's the fun?"

"That isn't true in Florida, and other parts of the country. Here you don't have to be rich to play a little golf, go fishing, or just sit and enjoy the climate."

It wasn't sour grapes that led Jerry, who had spent three years in the Army during World War II as a medical technician aboard a hospital ship, to pull up stakes and move south in 1950.

He was a highly successful advertising salesman in Manhattan and had saved up enough money to buy a partnership in his father's retail clothing firm in Miami. Within a short time he also had become a partner in a leading advertising firm and then entered the booming land development field in 1965. Since then he has built 6,000 homes in Florida and elsewhere.

A pioneer in obtaining legislation to outlaw shady land sale schemes, he prefers the role of "community developer" rather than that of a promoter merely selling land on the installment plan.

He and a partner designed and built Lehigh Acres, a community of some 15,000 people 13 miles from Fort Myers.

Each year Gould makes several business trips back to his native city.

"I enjoy them," he acknowledged. "New York is a great place to visit, but... His shrug finished the sentence."

Hearty Sandwiches Can Help Ease The Squeeze

STORRS — If you're feeling squeezed between the pay check and the price of food, try serving sandwiches.

A sandwich is a meal squeezed between two slices of bread and that fits into your budget.

Serving sandwiches for company or a crowd is an economical way to stretch your food dollar. And you don't need to apologize for serving sandwiches when you use ingredients high in food value, says Janina Czajkowski, Extension nutritionist at The University of Connecticut. The sandwich filling can provide protein if you use fish, eggs, cheese, peanut butter, cooked beans as well as meat and poultry.

Whole grain or enriched bread supplies B vitamins and some vegetable protein. Two slices of whole grain bread provide up to 10 per cent of your day's protein allowance (about 6 grams). A slice of whole grain bread supplies only about 60 calories, but you can serve open-face sandwiches on a single slice if you are calorie conscious.

Use vitamin-rich vegetables to help stretch the more expensive protein filling as well as increase the food value of fish sandwich. Sliced tomatoes, cabbage or lettuce leaves, green pepper or onion rings, and sliced cucumbers make tasty sandwich ingredients. You may also wish to accompany sandwiches with carrot or celery sticks, cole slaw or tossed salad.

Let each person make their own sandwich. This is a good way to please everyone with sandwiches to suit their taste and at the same time keep preparation at a minimum.

Set out a variety of sandwich makings — cold, sliced meatloaf, coldcuts, canned luncheon meat, prepared cabbage, carrots, onions, and red and green pepper. Cover with second slice of rye bread.

roast, several types of cheese, salad greens, tomatoes, onions, soft margarine or butter and mayonnaise. Suit your taste with extras — pickles, relishes, mustard, ketchup or chili sauce. Serve with a beverage and fruit for dessert or complete the meal.

Here are some suggestions for making sandwiches interesting as well as economical and nutritious.

—Place a slice of canned meat, meat loaf or cooked corned beef on rye bread. Top with a colorful cole slaw made with cubed carrots, two tablespoons French dressing and a pinch of salt. Mix well. Makes about one and a half cups.

—For a colorful, openface meatless sandwich, mound egg salad over crisp cucumber slices and top with sliced tomato.

—A hearty favorite — squeeze a layer of potato salad between slices of ham on rye bread. Garnish with wedges of fresh tomato.

—Try this peanut butter filling that the kids will enjoy. Combine one-half cup peanut butter, one-half cup chopped celery leaves, one-half to one-cup grated carrots, two tablespoons French dressing and a pinch of salt. Mix well. Makes about one and a half cups.

Jury Ponders Aillon Fate

NEW HAVEN (AP) — Jury deliberations enter the second day today in the trial of Guillermo Aillon on charges he murdered his wife Barbara and in-laws, Mr. and Mrs. J. George Montano, last August.

The six men and six women debated the large amount of mostly circumstantial evidence in the case for 5 1/2 hours Tuesday before saying they were far from a verdict.

Judge Simon S. Cohen allowed them to return to their homes for the night but urged them to remain "antiseptically free from anything connected with this trial."

The panel emerged only once from the jury room, 40 minutes after they went in, to hear a rereading of testimony about the alleged murder weapon. The testimony, read by a court reporter, concerned questioning of Aillon by policemen at night, a few hours before the slayings were discovered. He was stopped in North Haven for alleged motor vehicle violations.

Three policemen who questioned him said he had a bloody, serrated knife in his car. Aillon testified the knife was used to cut meat for a dinner in East Hartford.

Rereading of the policeman's testimony took about one hour. The jury, led by newly selected foreman William May Sr. of Milford, then returned to its room to continue working toward a verdict.

Aillon can be either acquitted or convicted of murder or first or second-degree manslaughter.

Jacobs Recall

That night the Jacobs were unable to sleep as hundreds of curious people came to look at the debris. National Guardsmen were stationed at the house to keep looters out. Mrs. Jacobs termed this one of the most despicable aspects of the tragedy.

For weeks after, the Jacobs received letters that had been addressed to them but were scattered to the four winds during the storm. People who found them reread them and sent them to her way.

The Jacobs have lived through a few hurricanes, too, but they hope never to see a tornado in this area.

Rear view of the Selgman home shows combination of wood, cement block, and fiberglass panels.

Heralding Homes Tolland Family Lives In A Glass House

Mrs. Don Selgman with Jessica and Darren (sitting on step in front of their fiberglass home in Tolland).

Fiberglass panels give interior of master bedroom a "padded" look.

Clerestory window above entrance throws light into main area of home and balances win over doorway on left.

Margaret Selgman and her children can enjoy a panoramic view from both full-length window walls in living room.

There really are some people who live in glass houses. One such house, on Tolland Stage Rd. in Tolland, is where the Donald E. Selgman family lives.

The Selgmans decided to build their home of fiberglass segments after having seen such a house on display. In fact, Don was sold on it the minute he saw it, but Margaret, his wife, had to be convinced.

The outside shell of their home was erected in one day last winter. The construction of the exterior was a mere matter of setting the uniform segments in place and bolting them together.

Called polyarch fiberglass segments, each segment is 6 feet 6 wide, 8 feet 4 high with a 13-foot span which takes the place of the roof.

Each segment is of sandwich-type construction with a layer of polyurethane insulation sandwiched between two layers of fiberglass.

The curved contour of the segments eliminates the need for drain spouts.

Generally a rectangular shape of a raised ranch style, the house features a redwood deck across the back from which can be seen sail boats on nearby Shennepet Lake, winter skiing at Mt. Tom, and planes landing at Bradley Field.

An entrance walk of pastel colored Spanish cement tiles laid in white stone leads to the large mahogany paneled front door. A bright red geranium in a black metal Spanish birch sits in the corner of the wide door step.

The inside walls which divide the rooms are of regular indoor wall material and may be painted or papered according to the owner's choice. The Selgmans have chosen pastels for their interior wall colors.

However, the fiberglass panels as they are paint impregnated inside and out. The interior surface is an off-white and the exterior surface, also white, is available in colors.

Inside this unique house, warm bright colors offset the construction. Lemon yellow, orange, and red accented with greens and browns liven the otherwise white house.

Orange carpeting on the stairs at the entrance continues into the carpeted living room — a large room with sliding glass doors that open onto the deck. Opposite the glass doors is a window wall which gives a view of the terraced yard. The full length drapes, when drawn on both glass areas, bring coziness to the room with their orange, as desired.

As the windows are not normally cut into the fiberglass panels, an exception was made in the bathroom when a circular opaque skylight was installed. Pale pistachio green walls and accessories under the overhead natural light give a subterranean effect.

The master bedroom uses simple earth colors in the cocoa brown carpeting and soft butterscotch yellow walls and bed covers which blend with the outdoor view through two corner window walls, one of which opens onto the redwood deck.

Two built-in speakers above the closet doors, with separate controls provide music from the stereo or AM/FM radio in the living room.

"It was Don's doing. He should be an electrician," says Margaret.

All are graduates of Manchester Community College.

Mrs. Belluardo was graduated from MCC in 1971. She was an honor student and a member of Phi Theta Kappa Honor Society. In June of this year, she received a B.S. degree from the University of Connecticut where she majored in education. In addition, she has been a member of the MCC Regional Advisory Council and was chairman of the public information committee of that group. She will be employed in the morning, primarily.

Roger Fisher was graduated from MCC in 1969. He went on to earn a B.A. degree in sociology from Central Connecticut State College. He has been employed as a part-time counselor in the Youth Services Department of the Manchester Board of Education. At MCC, he will work primarily in the afternoon.

Mrs. Marchese is a 1973 graduate of Manchester Community College. She was an honor student and majored in public service. She will work primarily in the evening.

Each student services aide will work approximately 20 hours per week for the 32 weeks of the academic year. Their first week, just completed, was a training period through which they became acquainted with the college's physical plant and administrative organization, admissions procedures and college regulations, financial aid, curricular patterns, counseling, registering and problem-solving.

Toward the end of the week, they encountered their first real-life situations when they assisted with the registration of freshman students.

Heralding Homes Crank Calls End

MERIDEN, N.H. (AP) — There'll be no more crank calls made in Meriden.

The practice was stopped during the weekend when the Meriden Telephone Co., abandoned its magno-drive crank telephone system in favor of dial service for its 300 subscribers.

The switchover signals the end of the last magno-drive telephone system in the state. The only other survivor of its kind in New England is at Bryant's Pond, Maine.

The change to a dial system brought to an era begun in 1904 when the Chellis family installed the first switchboard in Meriden at the Chellis Homestead.

Frank Chellis, president of the telephone company, said the new system will mean there no longer will be a member of his family on duty 24 hours a day to operate the switchboard.

Hebron Bus Routes To Be Set

ANNE EMT

Tel. 228-3971

The Board of Education is expected to approve bus routes, drivers and substitute drivers at its meeting Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at the Gillett Hill School.

Routes will be published prior to the opening of school.

Other items on the agenda include teacher appointments to bring the staff to full operation, a discussion of teacher aides for the year, a discussion of 8th graders study of ethnic groups program, the instrumental music program for the year, and student accident insurance.

Also, milk prices, major medical coverage for the year, approval of substitute policy and establishment of rates of pay, and approval of a school lunch policy.

Services Aides On MCC Staff

Three area residents have been hired as part-time student services aides on an experimental program that will provide support for the services available to students at Manchester Community College (MCC). They will assist with academic advising, program planning, registering, and other functions of the college's student services division.

The three are: Mrs. Shirley Belluardo of 360 Ferguson Rd., Roger A. Fisher of 35 Eastfield St., and Mrs. Marylou Marchese of 14 Hilltop Ave., Vernon.

The downstairs area includes a roomy twin bedroom for Darren, 4½, and Jessica, 3, a garage, and a den. The den is presently being converted into a bedroom for Jessica. Some garage space will be reserved for a workshop.

The den, which opens onto a terrace under the wooden deck, doubles as a guest room and a study. Eventually, the den will become Darren's bedroom, and the room presently used by the children will be used as the den, or family room, as it is larger than the present one.

A spacious utility room with laundry appliances features a large set tub.

"I can't imagine living without one, even with my automatic appliances," Margaret says. "It's handy for so many things when one has small children. And it's perfect for giving the dog a bath," she adds.

Margaret's hobby is getting to know her home and its surroundings. There's wild fruit growing on their land which Margaret wants to eat this fall. Don is presently training to become a branch manager for the Connecticut Bank and Trust Co.

One can see this house of glass when the Arts of Tolland has a home tour Sept. 15.

R: SAFE LIVING

MANCHESTER PUBLIC SAFETY COMMITTEE

The summer sun is warm and beautiful, but staying in the sun too long can result in sunburn, sunstroke, or heat exhaustion. These things can throw you for a loop.

Sunburn is a result of overexposure to the sun. Your skin takes on a bright red color and you feel very hot. Sunburn is liable to blister, peel, and itch. To relieve the pain, apply cold cream, salad oil, or shortening if you only have a mild sunburn. Use a dry dressing and follow your doctor's advice for severe, blistered, and extensive burns. Sunstroke is caused by prolonged exposure to high temperatures and the sun. The sunstroke victim has a red, dry face and very hot skin. Breathing is slow and noisy. In severe cases, the victim may be unconscious. To help him, place the sunstroke victim in the shade on his back. Raise his head slightly. Loosen his clothing and sponge him with alcohol or lukewarm water to bring his temperature down. Give him sips of mild salt solution. Most important, get medical help as soon as possible.

Heat exhaustion results from hard physical effort in extremely high temperatures. The person's face is usually pale and there is cold sweat on his forehead. Breathing is shallow. The body may feel clammy. Vomiting is common. Place the victim of heat exhaustion in the shade on his back, with his head slightly lowered. Loosen his clothing and give him sips of mild salt solution. Medical help is essential.

To avoid the pains of sunburn, sunstroke, and heat exhaustion, remember these safety tips: Hay days can be sunburn days. Indirect rays can give you as bad a burn as direct exposure to sunlight. Don't be surprised by sunburn; cover up on hay days.

Reflected rays can burn, too. If you're in the water, you're not exempt from sunburn. Wear suntan lotions to help filter out burning rays. Take the

Canadian Rail Workers May Defy Government

OTTAWA (AP) — Some of Canada's striking railroad workers are ready to defy Parliament's settlement unfair.

"We're not going to bow down like sheep again," he said, referring to the back-to-work order from Parliament that ended the 1966 national rail strike after nine days.

Another union leader said, "The only question is how widespread the dissident membership is."

Robert Stratton, chairman of the Montreal strike committee, said a shift back to rotating strikes would be one possibility. The non-operating employees held four weeks of regional walkouts of varying durations before launching the nationwide strike seven days ago.

Parliament is scheduled to meet Thursday to pass legislation to end the walkout. It could either adopt a settlement to the wage dispute or order arbitration.

Union leaders have begun lobbying with members of the House of Commons and plan a demonstration on Parliament Hill Thursday. The non-operating employees now make an average of $3.54 per hour and initially demanded a 21.5 per cent increase over two years.

Thames Dredging Disposal Problem Aired At Hearing

GROTON (AP) — Virtually everyone agrees that the Thames River should be dredged but many disagree on where the spoils should be dumped.

That sentiment was expressed Tuesday night at a public hearing held on the U.S. Navy and the Army Corps of Engineers could find out the citizenry's wishes on the dredging of 2.8 million cubic yards from the river bottom.

The Army Corps of Engineers estimated the project at a $9.5 million cost. Dumping off Newport would cost $12.3 million and dumping beyond Block Island would drive the price even higher, the corps said.

Dwindling Land Space May Force Ocean Dumping

KINGSTON, R.I. (AP) — A university research team says economic pressures and dwindling landfill space may force a number of East Coast communities to seek permission to dump domestic refuse into the ocean, at least until major recycling programs can be established.

The scientists, from the University of Rhode Island, conducted a one-year study on the effects of ocean dumping and found that few communities have more than 10 years of landfill space left.

Dr. Saul B. Salla, a professor of oceanography and zoology at URI, who released the study today, said if ocean dumping is allowed, it should be used strictly as "an interim procedure to tide us over until full recycling is possible."

Vernon Notes

Persons living in the Vernon housing projects for the elderly may be faced with a hike in their rents in order to help the Housing Authority meet the increase in maintenance and utility costs.

At present the rent ceiling for one pays more than one-fourth of his annual income for housing no matter how much beyond the ceiling that may be.

Francis Pitkat, executive director of the Housing Authority, said that budget making for both state and federal projects will start soon.

Windsor Court and Grove Court, the efficiency apartments are $2 a month and the one-bedroom units, $69. With the terms of the Brookside Amendment in effect, no one pays more than one-fourth of his annual income for housing no matter how much beyond the ceiling that may be.

Traveling Women Battle Etiquette Traditions

By DEE WEDEMEYER
Associated Press Writer

They say they are from New York and work for a bank. The bankers chuckled. It was not a new experience. As one of an increasing number of American women traveling on business, Mrs. Wieser repeatedly finds herself challenging traditional etiquette.

Some women have traveled in their jobs for decades, of course. But in the past five years more and more have gone on the road to represent some of the older, more established firms. Over the years, few firms had formal policies against women traveling, but misgivings held down the numbers. Some men thought it would not appear proper for two single people of the opposite sex to travel together. Or if a married man traveled with a woman, his wife might be jealous. And women traveling alone raised questions of safety.

Donald Armiger, a vice president for personnel at New York's First National City Bank - which employs Jacobs and Mrs. Wieser - said that the worries do not seem to have been warranted.

"There have been no scandals. I'm sorry to say," said Armiger.

The main problem is traditional etiquette. In restaurants, checks inevitably come to the man, even if it is the woman who is taking the client out to dinner.

Many women interviewed told of being asked, "And what would the missus like?" while their client sat by uncomfortably.

Many men who have traveled with women on business said their company is a welcome change.

David Witherell, an accountant for Price Waterhouse & Co., traveled last year with his boss, Anne Curtis, to a small town near Scranton, Pa.

"It changed the style of the trip but I found it a pleasant change," said Witherell. "Men tend to carouse more in the evenings, out bar hopping. It tends things down a little."

"Women have different things to talk about. It opened up new conversation avenues. With a man after work you tend to talk about sports. With a woman one night we went shopping or we talked about plants, women's clothing styles. Things I wouldn't talk about with a man."

John Ryan, general manager of Sylvania Commercial Electronic Corp., in Bedford, Mass., said his trips with female coworkers have convinced him that women are much better travelers than men.

"Women tend to be better organized than men," said Ryan. "Men will stay in a rooming house until the last minute to go. The old myth of women with many suitcases isn't true either."

Some women said they are learning that travel is not the glamorous experience they thought it would be.

"It is a logistical nightmare," said Miss Gladson. "Men can call wives to pack their suitcases. It is totally impossible if you leave at 7 a.m. and return at midnight. There are no supermarkets open then."

Mary Ann Gore, mother of four children, began working three years ago and now is manager of Frances Wright, a specialty store in Memphis, Tenn. Her first business trip was the first travel she had done in more than a decade without her husband.

"I had never checked into a hotel myself before," she said. "I didn't know how to tip. Before I had switched out the door into the cab and never tipped a door man. All the traditionally masculine things to do."

For Mrs. Gore, the worst problems are well meaning friends who ask, "How do you manage with the children?" and feeling guilty about missing events in the children's lives.

Husband and children say they get an inordinate amount of kidding from their friends.

More American presidents were born in Virginia than in any other state. Eight chief executives, Washington, Jefferson, Madison, Monroe, William Henry Harrison, Tyler, Taylor and Wilson were Virginians. The World Almanac notes. The state with the second greatest number of native-born presidents is Ohio, with seven: Grant, Hayes, Garfield, Benjamin Harrison, McKinley, Taft and Harding were born in Ohio.

The best of this week's mini-pricing specials...

from our big early week ad!

If ever there was a time to see the difference our own Mariboro plant and our "Quality Protected" Beef makes — you ought to walk into a Stop & Shop store today. Since we don't have to depend on other processors for our beef, our supply wasn't cut off by the shut-downs you've heard about. Our buyers went to the cattle ranches and feed lots and bought live steers — had them custom slaughtered and shipped to our plant where we do the processing. So we've been able to provide our customers with plenty of beef throughout the current crisis. True, we may not always have every cut... but we will have a good selection. We do have beef at Stop & Shop right now. Even so, we're asking our customers to buy only enough to meet their immediate needs... so we will be able to share our beef supply with more families.

East, Midwest Face More Weather Misery

humidity index hit 85, which a spokesman for the National Weather Service said meant "uter misery."

In Washington, the temperature reached 97 degrees and the capital's metropolitan area was under an air pollution alert for the 17th day this summer. Hot, stagnant air holding pollution over the area was not expected to dissipate before Friday.

A spokesman for the Virginia Electric & Power Co. in Richmond said the utility had an all-time high power demand of 7,100 megawatts on Tuesday.

Auto companies closed down several Midwestern plants because of the heat wave, while some 750 sweetening workers at two other plants simply walked off their jobs.

New York City suffered through a year-high temperature of 89 degrees as Consolidated Edison reported a record power demand of 8,161 megawatts. The temperature plants in Wisconsin as well as a Jeep facility in Toledo, Ohio. At Chrysler truck plants in Windsor and Warren, workers took their own emergency measures and walked out, forcing the plants to close.

At Ford Motor Co.'s Dearborn, Mich., assembly plant, many employees failed to return from breaks, forcing the plant to close after two hours. Some 2,300 workers went home early.

Electric power failures Tuesday night affected about 15,000 customers in the Cleveland area. The outages lasted up to 40 minutes. In the Pittsburgh area, Duquesne Light Co. reported several neighborhoods were temporarily without power because of overloaded equipment.

Fort Wayne (Ind.) City Utilities cut off electricity to city parks and recreational facilities to conserve power. Temperatures there have hovered in the mid 90s for five days.

In the Detroit area, where the temperature reached 86 degrees, union officials prodded Chrysler Corp. into closing its engine and assembly plants in Warren, Mich., and Windsor, Ont., sending 4,700 workers home.

American Motors decided to close down its Kenosha assembly and Milwaukee body days.

BOOK REVIEWS

FUNK & WAGNALLS GUIDE TO MODERN WORLD LITERATURE. By Martin Seymour-Smith. Funk & Wagnall's. 1206 Pages. $13.95.

The guide to any "modern" survey is bound to be relative. Where does it begin and end? Nevertheless, Martin Seymour-Smith, an English critic and poet, has fulfilled a useful and colossal task, even if the result is a judgment of world letters since the end of the last century as refracted by a single mind.

Seymour-Smith arranges his sections alphabetically. That means, conveniently for the largest bloc of his readers, we begin really with American literature, after a sketch of Albanian authors, and proceed through Yugoslav writers.

Among the earlier Americans he treats, he finds Henry James and some who go as hardy to abide all questions of American realism. Proceeding to others, he follows the current judgment of critics Theodore Dreiser was a much better writer than, say, Sinclair Lewis. Anyone who has struggled with Dreiser's turgid prose, in contrast with Lewis' clarity in portraying much broader spectrum of American life in his time, would qualify this.

Getting more into our own times, he brackets together the work of Norman Mailer as a version of American Jewish fiction. "And he finds that the mode is the same. Somebody hires him to do a job; murder gets into it; he hangs around, cooperating with small-time cops, to work on solving the murder. It asks this person and that married couple a few questions; makes a few auto trips to other towns. With his poking around he's stirring up somebody's guilt, which will make that one try further, revealing more.

This is a rather slow-moving way of crime solving and when you're first reading "Undercurrent" you nearly bog down a few times. But the impression of the book after you finish it is no longer of something slow. It seems well-plotted and satisfying. There's a solution and a final little twist. After two mysteries by Franzen have proved okay, we'll be glad to see the next one.

GOOD TIMES: An Oral History of the 1960s. By Peter Joseph. Charterhouse Books. 472 Pages. $10.95.

The publication of "Good Times" probably was a bit anticlimactic for 25-year-old Peter Joseph. Joseph, you see, is not your ordinary young man.

As a Princeton undergraduate — a time spent formalizing his ambition — Joseph logged 15,000 miles traveling the United States. He compiled 230 interviews on the meaning of the 1960s and the ambitious college thesis project is the basis of "Good Times."

The book includes 125 of Joseph's interviews, from Allen Pant of Century Camera fame to Ken Kesey of book fame and from golf superstar Arnold Palmer to rock superstar Jerry Garcia.

The oral history format has become a favorite tool of sociologists and journalists these days. Studs Terkel is one of its best known practitioners. It is an interesting form and Joseph does justice, making it more than a transcript. But going through the book, one yearns to listen to the tapes rather than read the words. The emotion is missing and that is one of the problems of the form.

SHAKESPEARE THE MAN. By A.L. Rowse. Harper & Row. 264 Pages. $10.

Shakespeare's scantily recorded life is just the challenge to set off the imagination of such a learned Elizabethan scholar as A.L. Rowse. The results are fascinating, if not indisputably demonstrable.

A decade ago Rowse, long-time fellow at All Souls College, Oxford University, wrote a biography of Shakespeare and brought out a special edition of the sonnets in which he insisted that by applying his proper historical methods he had solved a 400-year-old problem. The young man of the sonnets, he argued, was Shakespeare's brother, the Earl of Southampton. At the same time he said an interesting form and Joseph does justice, making it more than a transcript. But going Several months ago Rowse announced with considerable fanfare in London what he now calls his "wholly unexpected discovery of the identity of the sonnets' Dark Lady. Having planned for some time to do a "portrait of the man" Shakespeare, Rowse waves into this latest, a smaller tapestry of two identities he hypothesizes.

Rowse is convinced the Dark Lady was Emilia Bassano, member of an Italian family of court musicians to Queen Elizabeth I. He bases his conclusion on the notebooks of one Simon Forman, a popular astrologer of the time who knew the young woman intimately, both personally and professionally. She was very dark, beautiful, and amorous. As the mistress of Lord Hunsdon, patron of the Lord Chamberlain's Company, she was a conspicuous member, she easily could have met the poet. And the internal evidence of the sonnets is certainly persuasive.

Maybe Rowse cannot prove his case absolutely, but who can prove him wrong? Ronald C. Hood Associated Press

UNDERCURRENT

By Bill Pronzini. Random House. 213 Pages. $6.95.

There's a new private eye character in fiction, who's interesting enough to draw a reader's attention. He operates in small towns in northern California and solves crimes that every girl they meet, this one meets a girl in distress and protects her temporarily. But he's a lawbreaker. She moves on to straighten out her life, and he gets no girl.

She's broadly sympathetic to his fellow human beings. The book is written from his point of view, and he doesn't seem to have a name.

He appeared first in Bill Pronzini's "The Vanished" and now again in "Undercurrent."

Social Security

Q. I retired over two years ago. If I start working part-time now, how much can I make and still collect my full Social Security payments each month?

A. You'll get your full Social Security payments for each month you don't earn more than $175 in wages or do substantial work in self-employment. Or you can get your full benefits, regardless of monthly earnings, if your total earnings for the year don't exceed $4,100.

Q. I'm 23 and was recently in an accident at work. Do I need as much work coverage under Social Security as an older worker in order to get monthly disability checks?

A. No. Workers who become severely disabled before 24 may qualify for Social Security disability payments with just 14 years of work. Workers disabled between 24 and 30 need credit for having worked half the time between age 21 and the month the disability began. People 31 or over need at least five years of work credit under Social Security to qualify for disability payments. For more information, contact the Social Security office.

Q. Is my husband, who's a career man in the Air Force, covered under the Social Security system?

A. Yes, your husband's base pay counts toward Social Security just like wages he would earn anywhere else, and he pays Social Security contributions on it. Furthermore, your husband gets an additional $100 Social Security credit each month he's on active duty. This credit is given him without any deduction from his pay and makes up for the benefits he receives that are worth money but which he doesn't actually get in cash — things like meals, medical care, and housing.

Q. I'm 64 and I'm getting reduced Social Security payments. I've been told that I'll be enrolled automatically in Medicare when I become 65. What should I do if I don't want medical insurance coverage?

A. Social Security will send you information about both hospital and medical insurance a few months before you're 65. You'll also get your Medicare health insurance card. If you decide you don't want medical insurance, just fill out the back of the card, sign it, and return it to Social Security before the month you're 65.

Q. Last year my husband and I adopted a five-year-old child through the county adoption agency. She was an orphan and, before we adopted her, she was getting monthly Social Security checks on her father's work record. I heard that her checks could start again. Is this true?

A. Yes, a child's payments no longer stop because of adoption. A child, like your daughter, whose payments were previously stopped because of adoption can again receive monthly benefits. Contact your Social Security office to reapply for benefits for your adopted daughter. Benefits may be paid back to October 1972.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB IT IS POSSIBLE Will handshakes hurt heart?

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Dear Dr. Lamb - You might think this letter sounds dumb. Well, here goes. I'm an eighth grade student and this summer on TV I heard that shaking hands is bad for the heart. Is this true? I'd like to have as much information on this subject as I could.

Dear Reader - It's not a dumb question, and it's almost true. It is related to the difference between isometric and isotonic exercises. An isometric exercise is one where you tense a muscle like when you hold your breath or when you hold your arm out and stiffen it without moving it. This is an isometric exercise. In isotonic exercise when a muscle is tensed, as in an isometric exercise, the pressure in the muscle clamps down on the arteries decreasing the blood flow to that muscle. Some way through a reflex mechanism, this stimulates the nerve control over the arteries in the whole body and can cause the blood pressure to rise significantly. The degree of rise varies with different individuals.

This same reflex mechanism can cause some people to have extra beats or flip-flops, which we call premature contractions or irregularities of the heart beat. This is the basis for saying that handshaking could be dangerous to an individual. Some individuals have half-jokingly suggested that handshaking politicians should have a good heart and circulation. I suspect that persons who do have serious heart and vascular problems, or those who have unusually overactive reflexes in this regard, might indeed have some problems with continuous handshaking, but for the vast majority of relatively healthy individuals, it couldn't create much of a problem.

MCC To Offer Spanish Class

Manchester Community College will offer a special class in career Spanish this fall for persons who have no knowledge of the language but could use it in connection with their jobs or travel.

The course will have a conventional approach to beginning Spanish. Medical, social service and business situations will be presented along with special vocabularies for each situation. This has been found to be a practical method of instruction for persons who are in, or who wish to enter a field of employment in which knowledge of Spanish would make them better able to deal effectively with co-workers or the public.

Course content and instructional media have been combined in a creative and realistic fashion geared to develop communication skills that will be effective, that will teach the student to speak in Spanish with native users of the language. Television tapes and other audio-visual tools will be used.

Radial Tires To Be Used On New Cars

DETROIT (AP) - Steel-belted, radial-ply tires will make their first large-scale appearance on the new American car line this year.

Long dominant on European highways, the radials were virtually unknown to the average U.S. car buyer until just a few years ago. But a major effort by the top domestic auto and tire firms has made their widespread inclusion possible on 1974 model cars.

The radials have been widely touted as long-wearing, virtually puncture-proof and capable of providing a much smoother ride.

And the Federal Environmental Protection Agency says they also will mean a gasoline savings of about 10 per cent. The automakers are expecting Americans to jump at radial options and at models with radial tires as standard equipment when the 1974 cars go on sale next month.

Judge Rules Court Can Alter Trust

HARTFORD (AP) - A Superior Court judge has ruled that a will can be altered if the change is the best way to fulfill the wishes of the person who drew the will.

Judge Simon S. Cohen said in a decision published Tuesday in the Connecticut Law Journal that the document can be changed to conform with current federal income tax laws.

The case involved the estate of Evelyn MacCurdy-Salisbury, who died in 1917 leaving a will that set up trust funds in which one-third of the income was to be added to the principal each year.

By 1971, the trust funds, the MacCurdy-Salisbury Education Fund and the Old Lyme-Phoebe Griffin Noise-Library Trust Fund had accumulated more than $1.7 million under the bequest.

Federal tax authorities argued that accumulated gains of the trust over the years were subject to taxation.

The administrator of the trust, the First New Haven National Bank, asked Judge Cohen for permission to pay out all the earnings of the trust funds each year to avoid the taxes.

In ruling in favor of the trust, Cohen said literal compliance with the provisions of the will would "defeat or substantially impair the accomplishment of the purposes of the trust."

He said the purposes of the trust in adding one-third of the income to the body of the trust each year "can no longer be effectuated...because the tax on the accumulated income is essentially confiscatory."

Hunter Stops Bosox

OAKLAND (AP) — Oakland A's pitcher Jim "Catfish" Hunter was upset he didn't pitch a no-hitter against the Boston Red Sox.

Hunter allowed only one scratch single before leaving the game after seven innings Tuesday night. The A's went on to win 6-1 and move 5 1/2 games ahead of second-place Kansas City in the American League West.

"I wouldn't have come out of the game if I had a no-hitter," Hunter said. "I thought it should have been an error instead of a hit."

Hunter was talking about a ground ball hit by Carl Yastrzemski that bounced off the glove of first baseman Gene Tenace with two outs in the fourth inning.

The official scorer ruled it a hit because he felt the play too difficult for Tenace to catch.

"It was Dick Green's ball,"

Hunter, who now has won 12 games in a row to improve his season record to 17-3, has not lost since May 29. He is scheduled to pitch against Kansas City Saturday.

The A's scored three runs in the second inning and three more in the seventh off losing pitcher Dick Pole, 3-2.

With two outs in the second, Tenace and Jesus Alou singled and Ray Fosse drove them home with a triple. Dick Green singled to score Fosse.

A walk, base hits by Green and North, an error and another single by Bert Campaneris accounted for the other Oakland runs in the seventh.

Boston scored in the eighth on singles by Darrell Evans and Cecil Cooper and a sacrifice fly by Doug Griffith.

The victory was the 14th in the last 16 games for the red-hot A's. They conclude the series with Boston tonight with Vida Blue, 15-7, pitching against Boston's Bill Lee, 14-4.

Yankees Bow Again

ANAHEIM (AP) — Clyde Wright knew something was wrong.

"When I got my third strikeout I almost quit in disbelief," said the slow-throwing California left-hander in the wake of a five-hit, four-strikeout, 5-2 victory over the slumping New York Yankees.

"Four strikeouts for Wright is tantamount to 18 for Nolan Ryan or someone of his ilk.

"I guess you guys will have to say I just overpowered 'em," Wright beamed after Tuesday's game.

It was his second victory in five days and lifted his record to 10-17. He had endured eight starts and 36 days without tasting a triumph.

He would like to finish at 17-17 before the 1973 season is laid to rest. Can he do it? "If I didn't think I could," Wright said, "I wouldn't pitch."

The Angels and Yankees conclude their brief two-game series tonight with George "Doc" Medich, 10-7, of the Yankees facing Wright's antithesis, the aspersion-drawing Ryan, 14-16.

Wright received home run support from both Oliver and Stanton in sending the Yankees down to their seventh straight loss.

Oliver, the Angels' new third baseman, also added a pair of singles and drove in three runs to pace California's 10-hit attack against loser Fritz Peterson, 8-13, and reliever Wayne Granger.

Oliver has played 17 games at third and manager Bobby W. Niekirk plans to keep him there, possibly sending him to the Arizona Instructional League to hone his skills at his new position.

"It's my natural position," Oliver admitted. "But I'm beginning to feel more relaxed at third. At first, I was taking my errors back to the dugout instead of forgetting them like you're supposed to, but not any more."

Oliver has committed only two miscues in 17 games at third, both of them coming one afternoon in Boston. However, he believes any comparison between him and Baltimore's deft-fielding Brooks Robinson is somewhat premature.

"The only similarity between Brooks and me is that both our first names begin with B," Oliver smiled.

Oliver was smiling in the first inning, too, when he hammered a two-run homer to get the Angels off fast against Peterson. Oliver's 15th of the year followed a walk to Frank Robinson and was his first homer since July 31.

Stanton hit his seventh, a solo shot in the second, and the Angels added single runs in the third and seventh.

The only New York run came in the seventh when Thurmon Munson hit his 17th homer following a single by Bobby Murcer.

The runs snapped a Yankee scoreless drought which had reached 26 innings.

Garrett's HR Sparks Mets

NEW YORK (AP) — Wayne Garrett of the New York Mets isn't a gambling man.

When San Diego's Clay Kirby pitched him a high fastball in the sixth inning Tuesday night, Garrett decided not to gamble on the umpire calling it a ball.

Instead he walloped his 10th home run of the season, breaking a 2-2 tie and igniting a five-run sixth inning that propelled the Mets to an 8-5 victory over the Padres.

"It was a high fastball, a real borderline pitch," Garrett said about the three-and-two pitch. "It could have been a ball but I wasn't going to take any chances."

Following Garrett's blast with one out, the Mets made it 4-2 with singles by Felix Millan, Rusty Staub and Olen Jones and chased Loser Kirby, 7-15.

Ron Hodges and Don Hahn added RBI singles against reliever Mike Caldwell and an error produced the fifth New York run of the inning.

San Diego scored two runs in the first inning off Jon Matlack, 11-15. The Mets tallied a run in their half of the first and then tied it in the fourth inning on Hodges' two-out single.

San Diego knocked Matlack off the mound in the eighth with a three-run burst.

'Hit-and-Hope Hitter'

NEW YORK (AP) — You must be kidding. Al Oliver must be kidding. Al Oliver must be kidding. Al Oliver must be kidding.

Long known for his swagger and confidence, the Pittsburgh Pirate outfielder admitted Tuesday night that he's a "hit-and-hope" hitter.

"I hit and hope for the best," said Oliver after hitting a home run to start the Pirates to an 8-3 victory over the Cincinnati Reds.

Oliver, who usually boasts that he's the "greatest" self-assurance, was not so positive Tuesday night despite the big blow.

"I'm not a home run hitter," said Oliver. "I'm a hard-luck hitter. If I was paid for line drives, I'd be the first million dollar player in baseball."

"It was just glad the homer got us going."

The homer not only got the Pirates going, it kept them coming in the National League East race. They kept the pressure on front-running St. Louis and remained two games behind the Cardinals beat the Houston Astros 8-3.

In the other National League games, the Philadelphia Phillies whipped the San Francisco Giants 1-0; the Los Angeles Dodgers beat the Montreal Expos 6-1; the New York Mets turned back the San Diego Padres 8-4, and the Chicago Cubs trimmed the Atlanta Braves 9-6.

Dodgers 6, Expos 1
Steve Garvey's home run keyed a two-run rally in the fourth inning that started the comeback for the Dodgers. After Garvey's home run tied the game 1-1, the dodgers scored the tie-breaking run on singles by Willie Crawford, Bill Russell and Ron Cey.

Cubs 9, Braves 6
Henry Aaron smashed his 706th career homer and knocked in four runs, but Chicago rallied for three runs in the eighth and two more in the ninth to beat Atlanta 9-6. Aaron's three-run shot in the first inning put him within eight homers of Babe Ruth's monumental record of 714. Atlanta star has had 33 so far this season.

Lee Admits He Tossed Wet Pitch

OAKLAND (AP) — "I don't want to see Jim Merritt be a scapegoat," said Boston Red Sox pitcher Bill Lee, risking a fine Tuesday when he admitted, "I've thrown a spitball at least once this year."

American League President Joe Cronin fined Texas Rangers pitcher Merritt an undisclosed amount of money Monday after Merritt admitted that he threw spitballs in a victory over the Cleveland Indians Sunday.

However, Merritt called them "spitballs" (Perry) spitballs, "I'm not going to make a grand jury case of it, I hope every pitcher in baseball has experimented with spitballs and different things will admit," said Lee before Tuesday night's game against the Oakland A's.

"Almost every pitcher I know has tried something like that when things are going bad," added the Boston southpaw who is 14-8 this year.

Lee said most of his experimenting was in a Venezuelan winter league and that he used a petroleum jelly and other lubricants.

"But I've thrown four, five or six in regular American League games. Bobby Murcer hit one off the fence on me, but I've gotten some out, too," Lee said.

Lee called Cronin's action against Merritt "an absurdity."

"Lee said 'I don't need the spitball, because I think I have a good hard slider.'"

But he called tampering with the baseball on the mound "part of the game."

Former New York Yankee great Whitey Ford "cut the baseball and that made pitches sail much more than spitballs do," Lee added.

The modern baseball, made in Haiti, is hard to grip properly, anyway, Lee added.

"A lot of times you can't make it go where you want it to, and a good pitcher is one who can make it go where he wants," he said.

"What have they done to help the pitcher? Everything has helped the batters—moving in fences, lowering the mound. 'Why don't they make the distance to the mound shorter? Oh well, that wouldn't help me,'" Lee said.

Nitschke Tearfully Retires

NEW YORK (AP) — Ray Nitschke's eyes were filled with tears. He had lost the battle with age — a more determined foe than any lineman he had faced in his 15-year National Football League career.

"There's no room on the Packer squad for three middle linebackers," he said, "so I'm retiring."

There was only one regret for the 36-year-old veteran, "...that I can't turn the clock back to 1958 and become a Packer all over again."

His voice wavered, his eyes grew more moist.

"The spirit's still there, but the numbers game got to me. His expression was nothing new. The brass insistence of new. The aging stars leave the game they love has claimed untold numbers of veteran players."

"I've been prepared for this for the last month or so — when camp started," Nitschke said. "But I wanted to be prepared to help out if I was needed... if they called on me."

The call never came. Packer coaches had to concern themselves with Jim Carter, Nitschke's replacement since 1971. The fact that Nitschke had anchored Green Bay defenses through five championship seasons and two Super Bowl crowns just couldn't stop the clock.

There was another, less emotional, departure from pro football Tuesday — that of running back John Riggins from the New York Jets' camp.

Riggins, who had been holding out for over $100,000 after gaining 94 yards and being voted the club's Most Valuable Player last season, returned to his Centralia, Kan. home after contract negotiations failed.

"I went for all the marbles," he said. "It was all or none. The way I see it now, I don't think I'll be back."

Meanwhile, things were returning to normal at other NFL camps after wholesale cuts Monday brought rosters down to the 49-man limit.

The Minnesota Vikings traded wide receiver Gene Washington to the Denver Broncos in exchange for wide receiver Rod Sherman and a undisclosed draft choice.

Washington, 26, is a seven-year veteran and a former first round draft choice. His career statistics include 172 receptions for 3,007 yards, but a foot injury has bothered him the last two seasons. A former hurdler at Michigan State, Washington's Cincinnati Bengals, then Oakland again before being acquired by Denver, has caught 104 passes for 1,558 yards.

Newly named head coach John North of New Orleans made it clear that he won't be transforming the Saints, 2-11-1 last year, into immediate winners.

"I think it's going to take a little time, but we will get it going," he said on his first day as head man.

The Miami Dolphins dealt defensive tackle Mike Kadish to the Buffalo Bills for veteran center-guard Ivy Goode. The Bills also got the good news that running back O.J. Simpson had healed sufficiently from a cracked rib to return to practice.

While Namath did not specify charges, he claimed Sports Illustrated "has conducted a malicious campaign to malign and impugn his integrity and honesty and to present to the reading public an unfair and untrue representation of him."

Namath Files Suit
NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Namath, the New York Jets' flamboyant quarterback, filed a $2.25 million damage suit in Manhattan Supreme Court Tuesday against Sports Illustrated, charging the magazine with maligning his honesty and integrity and using his picture without permission.

While Namath did not specify charges, he claimed Sports Illustrated "has conducted a malicious campaign to malign and impugn his integrity and honesty and to present to the reading public an unfair and untrue representation of him."

Threat of Suspension Over for Net Players

FOREST HILLS, N.Y. (AP) — Now that the threat of suspension is over for some of the top names in professional tennis, 300 players from all over the world can concentrate their efforts toward winning the U.S. Open title.

The International Tennis Federation announced Tuesday that it would make no decision until after the Open regarding possible suspension of players who have signed with World Team Tennis.

So, on-top seed Iie Nastase of Romania will begin defense of his men's title in a match against Humphrey Hoge of Venezuela today, while Billie Jean King, last year's winner, will face Peggy Michel of Los Angeles.

Nastase was fined $5,000 by the Association of Tennis Professionals Tuesday night for defying the group's boycott of the All-England championships at Wimbledon last June.

Controversy had marred the prestigious tournament in late June, when 70 members of the ATP boycotted the tournament.

Yugoslavian star Nikki Pilić was barred for refusing to represent his country in Davis Cup competition, and ATP players stayed away from the courts in support of Pilić's stand.

The other men's top seed, Stan Smith of San Pines, S.C., will meet Patrick Proisy of France, while the women's second seed, Margaret Court of Australia, will play Pat Prefontaine of South Africa.

The action will be on the famed West Side Tennis Club courts, with other matches including: "What have they done to help the pitcher? Everything has helped the batters—moving in fences, lowering the mound. 'Why don't they make the distance to the mound shorter? Oh well, that wouldn't help me,'" Lee said.

Hughes Suggests Ban On Large Campaign Gifts

WASHINGTON (AP) — The like are continuing.

The permanent political organizations are likely to be more careful in their recordkeeping and other practices now that GAO is looking into their books, he said.

"The most serious problem is cash," Phillips S. Hughes said in an interview discussing the explosive question of campaign finance. "If you have a large amount of loose cash floating around and with no good records kept some people weren't creating it."

Hughes said his office has referred 30 instances to the Department of Justice for possible prosecution, and that the department has been slow to prosecute, looking for malice and intent to conceal.

"We took the position that with amateurs running so many of the committees, violations would be a dime a dozen and we would be selective in referring."

The Senate has passed a campaign practice bill that includes a $100 limit on cash contributions, but its fate is uncertain in the House.

Hughes estimated that he and his staff of about 30 are responsible for checking on some 2,000 registered political committees.

"Of course, a lot of the political committees are hit-and-run operations — many (George McGovern people, for example), will probably never surface again," Hughes said.

"But the party committees, the state central committees and

Mary Rowe Recruits MIT Women

By GINNY PITT
Associated Press Writer
CAMBRIDGE, Mass. (AP) — If more women graduated from Massachusetts Institute of Technology, more women would hold influential positions in business, government and education in the United States, according to Mary Potter Rowe, special assistant for women and work at MIT.

A large proportion of MIT graduates have gone on to fill pretty powerful positions — especially in government," Dr. Rowe said in an interview. Part of her job is to recruit female students for MIT and to see that women are treated equally with their male counterparts once they get there.

Dr. Rowe reasons that with a higher percentage of female MIT graduates, there would be a correspondingly higher percentage of women making important decisions on the country's educational, governmental and economic policies.

Women currently account for about 10 per cent of MIT's total 7,700 student population. Dr. Rowe's job was created about six months ago. She reports directly to MIT president Jerome Weisner and Chancellor Paul Gray. She serves as a counselor to both students and faculty, as an adviser to the administration and as an "ombudsman" to all.

The major problem for women at MIT as well as in society is "invisibility," Dr. Rowe said. "You're the only woman in the classroom, but somehow your question is never heard or the answer you gave is attributed to the male student who sits behind you," she said. "It's as if women weren't even there."

As a partial move to combat this invisibility, the halls of MIT's administration building are lined with posters saluting women bartenders?

Do women have a constitutional right to be bartenders? Until the last few years, courts have steadfastly said no. Laws against women bartenders, once challenged as discriminatory, were upheld on two main grounds:

1) that their presence would encourage immorality in a place "where the worst passions are aroused"; and
2) that they could not keep the peace as effectively as men bartenders.

But in several recent cases, courts have taken a fresh look at the question and come up with the opposite answer. Immorality is no more encouraged, said one court, by a woman behind the bar than by waitresses out front serving cocktails.

As for keeping the peace, another court had this comment: "The saloon days of the Wild West are long gone. Nowadays the typical bar does not provide a setting for violence and danger, if in fact it ever did."

For good measure, the court added: "Women are as capable of mixing drinks as men."

Less innocuous activities, however, may still be subject to restraint. Another case involved a city ordinance forbidding the use of "B girls"—women hired by the management to solicit drinks from male customers. A tavern owner claimed that his women employees were being deprived of their freedom of speech and assembly.

"Their freedom of speech," he reasoned, "includes the right to talk to customers and their freedom of assembly, includes the right to mingle with customers."

But a court said the rights of speech and assembly, while guaranteed in general by the Constitution, may be limited in specific situations for specific reasons. Noting the city's power to encourage drinking, the court said:

"If the regulation curtails freedom in some slight degree, the limitation is not unconstitutional. These rights are not absolute."

successful women graduates. In the lobby there's an 8-foot-high cylindrical bulletin board with WOMEN printed in huge black and white letters. In more than one administrative office are colorful slogans like: "Sisterhood is Blooming. Spring will never be the Same."

But the problems, as well as the solutions, are not directed solely toward women, Dr. Rowe maintains. The door of her office is posted with overlapping male and female signs with a peace symbol in the center. The password is "androgyny" — to psychologically both male and female. Society has made it difficult for people to be androgynous, Dr. Rowe said. "It means permitting men to cry, to join the nurturant professions, to care for children and colleagues. It means permitting women to be assertive and financially independent and giving them wide career options," she said.

"Already," she said, "the child care arrangements for at least one fifth of all working mothers are the fathers of the children." Encouraging and supporting female students at MIT will place women in traditionally male fields like science and engineering and will give male students the opportunity to study in an atmosphere more closely resembling society. It will permit both male and female students for the androgynous world, she said.

Buildings Razed In Quake Area

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Demolition crews were leveling thousands of unsafe buildings today as other workers searched for more bodies in the ruins left by the earthquake Tuesday in southeast Mexico. Nearly 500 bodies had been recovered, and officials predicted the death toll might reach 1,000 in the 300-square-mile area of Puebla and Veracruz states.

President Luis Echeverria toured part of the area by bus Wednesday and ordered the demolition of some 10,000 buildings still standing but considered unsafe in more than 50 towns.

The president spent hours listening to the survivors of the worst quake in Mexican history. Alfonso Tabara, director of the government's Housing Development Institute, said the demolition would take two to three weeks and prefabricated houses would be provided within 15 days for the homeless.

A Red Cross spokesman said in Ciudad Serdan, one of the towns that suffered most, 50 per cent of the 22,000 inhabitants were homeless and had gone to relatives in other towns.

Cleanup work went on in other towns where large numbers of adobe homes crashed to the ground. Brigades of young medical and other students volunteered to distribute medicine, food and clothes.

"Some of these people come from as far away as Monterrey," Puebla Gov. Guillermo Morales Blumentron said of the volunteers.

Many homeless were being sheltered in public buildings in such large cities as Toluca and Puebla, where damage was minor. Contact still had not been established with about 10 villages in the quake area.

"In Zongolica, for example, the rescue brigade we sent with a radio and a portable electric plant said 80 per cent of the village was destroyed," Urbano Arriaga of the Veracruz public safety office said. "Then their equipment ran out of gas and we lost contact."

WASHINGTON (AP) — Volkswagen of America has agreed to recall an estimated 112,000 of its Karmann Ghias to correct possible gasoline or gasoline vapor leaks into the passenger compartment. The recall involves all Karmann Ghias manufactured from August 1967 through April 1972. Letters are to be mailed to owners warning of the potential fire hazard.

UAW Talks On Detroit

DETROIT (AP) — Negotiators for the United Auto Workers and the Chrysler Corp. discussed non-economic matters today as they continue talks on a new pact to replace the contract expiring Sept. 14. The union said its membership at Chrysler had voted nearly 92 per cent in favor of strike action if a new agreement is not signed by that date.

WASHINGTON (AP) — Chief Watergate committee counsel Sam Dash has refused to confirm or deny the committee has issued a subpoena for Las Vegas Sun publisher H. M. Greenspan said he was subpoenaed, but would not take newspaper records to Washington.

Egypt, Libya Move to Merge

CAIRO (AP) — Arab unity advanced another small step Wednesday night with the announcement that Egyptian President Anwar Sadat and Libyan strongman Muammar Khadafi had agreed on the procedure by which their two countries would merge.

The agreement was a victory for Sadat, who had insisted on a cautious, one-step-at-a-time approach to unification instead of completion of the merger by Sept. 1, as Khadafi wanted. The two leaders agreed that the first step would be the creation on Saturday of a 100-member constituent assembly to draft a constitution for the still unnamed new state. The assembly will include 50 members of Egypt's Parliament and 50 members of the Libyan Popular Revolutionary Committee. After the constitution is completed, it will be submitted to the people of both countries at a referendum. But no timetable was specified for completion of the constitution or proclamation of the union.

The agreement specified that Sadat and Khadafi will remain in power in their respective countries until the merger is completed. The constituent assembly is to nominate a president for the new nation, and Khadafi has said he will

Nixon Plans Appeal Of Court Ruling

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has vowed to resist a historic court order commanding him to deliver secret Watergate tape recordings for a judge's private inspection.

Chief U.S. District Judge John J. Sirica ordered Nixon Thursday to produce the tapes demanded by special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox, but temporarily withheld the effect to allow time for an appeal.

Nixon refused to obey the order. The White House, in a statement from San Clemente, Calif., said without elaboration that the President's lawyers "are now considering the possibility of obtaining an appellate review or how otherwise to sustain the President's position."

The order and a companion 23-page opinion fueled the President's clash with the courts and the Senate Watergate committee over access to the tapes of his conversations with key advisers implicated in the Watergate scandal.

The dispute has been carried further than any similar confrontation over presidential power in U.S. history. On a key point, Sirica squarely disputed Nixon and ruled that the President's authority to determine whether material sought in a criminal investigation is protected by executive privilege.

Nixon has claimed that a president's confidential records are privileged from disclosure. The existence of the tapes became known last month when a former White House aide told the Senate committee that Nixon routinely recorded his Oval Office conversations.

Cox, acting on behalf of the Watergate grand jury, then subpoenaed tapes of eight meetings Nixon and advisers at the time, John W. Dean III, H. R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman.

The committee also filed suit to compel disclosure after its own subpoena was rejected by the White House, as Cox's had been.

Cox and the committee say the tapes are vital to resolve contradictions in the testimony of Dean, Haldeman, Ehrlichman and others allegedly involved in the Watergate coverup. Cox said he was "very pleased" with Sirica's ruling. Watergate committee chairman Sam J. Ervin Jr., D-N.C.,

Peking Names Leaders

TOKYO (AP) — The Chinese Communist party has adopted a collective leadership to carry out its day-to-day affairs, Peking's official Hsinhua news agency reported today.

An official list of names broadcast by the agency showed that the party's 10th Central Committee political bureau has 21 members, including party chairman Mao Tse-tung.

The committee was elected at a party congress Aug. 24-28. The list does not identify the ranks and titles of the members. The order of names in the list follows the number of strokes required in writing the family names of the members.

The party chairman, whose family name, Mao, takes four strokes, heads the list followed by Wang Hung-wen, a former Shanghai textile worker and vice chairman of the Shanghai Municipal Revolutionary Committee.

Other members of the political bureau include Premier Chou Enlai, whose name appears 18th following Mao's wife Chiang Ching, veteran Communist Chu Teh, vice premier Li Teh-sheng and others.

Police Find Booby Traps Set for Motorcyclists

DAVID KNAPP (Herald Reporter)
Manchester Police said that they have recently, in two separate incidents, found booby traps planted on paths used by motorcyclists in the area of the Hartford Electric Light Co.'s powerlines, near Bush Hill.

The booby traps, metal fence corner posts of angle iron, sharpened end above the ground in two points along the trail used by the motorcyclists.

Police said that the maker of the "pungi sticks" would be charged with reckless endangerment if apprehended. Police said that if someone was killed or injured the charge would be increased to first-degree reckless endangerment or manslaughter.

Sgt. Joseph Brooks of the Manchester Police Department, and a resident of the area, said that the motorcyclists whose average age is about 14, were a problem in the area due to the high level of noise made by their machines. Brooks said that most of the "bikes" had poor mufflers or none, and make a lot of noise in the usually quiet neighborhood.

The parents then notified police. Sgt. Ralph Nezas was called to the area on Aug. 7 to investigate the discovery of the first stakes. He described the traps that he found as being made of angle iron corner posts, freshly sharpened, and cut to lengths of about 10 inches.

Brooks, who found three more such traps Monday in the same area on the trail, said that they apparently were made from the same type of material. In both cases the traps were concealed in narrow portions of the trail, where the motorcyclist would probably be watching the obstacles on either side of him and not the ground.

The traps were apparently planted in a series so that one would cause the motorcycle to fall. The second was positioned approximately where a motorcyclist, traveling at about 20 m.p.h. would hit the ground after impact with the first trap.

Both Brooks and Nezas said that the traps were "definitely put there to cause harm."

The area had been clearly posted with "No Trespassing" signs by local HELCO officials. Other portions of the same tract on Keeney St., bear signs which read, "This Area Off Limits to All Motor Vehicles." Brooks said that this was confusing to persons in the area who entered from Keeney St. Mantel said that the motor vehicle prohibition signs would be posted in the area of Glendale Rd., where no trespassing signs are now. Mantel also said that there had been signs of the same type as the Keeney St. signs posted in the Glendale Rd. area, but they had apparently been torn down by vandals.

Brooks referred to the persons in the area who complained to police and HELCO about the motorcyclists as a "vocal minority," and said that the majority of people in the area either used the property themselves for hiking, horseback riding or bicycling or had children who were among the group of motorcyclists using the paths.

Many area persons said that they were "upset" by the "No Trespassing" posting of the land.

Some persons in the area said that the motorcyclists, while they did make a lot of noise, were very polite and considerate of other persons using the area.

Mrs. Howard Gorman of 604 Bush Hill Rd., said that when horseback riders are on the trails, motorcyclists turn off their machines so as not to frighten the horses and move off the trail to allow them to pass.

The fact remains, however, that the land has been designated a "no trespassing area" and that anyone there without the permission of the owner (HELCO) is subject to arrest on charges of third-degree criminal trespass.
