

R: SAFE LIVING

MANCHESTER PUBLIC SAFETY COMMITTEE

In Manchester, most children go to school on the bus. According to statistics compiled in 1971 by the National Safety Council, 150 people were killed and 5,600 injured in school bus accidents. Of the 150 killed, 85 were students (35 of whom were bus passengers and 50 of whom were pedestrians approaching or leaving zone). These statistics are grim, but unless you know one of the accident victims, they seem very impersonal. As a parent, however, you are doubtless interested in preventing your children from becoming such grim statistics. Teach your children the art of good busmanship. Remember, safety starts at home. Children should be dressed for school and should leave home at the same time each day. They should get to the bus stop five minutes early. The driver can't wait for latecomers, so it's important to be on time. If your children have to walk to get to the bus stop and there are no sidewalks on their route, teach them to walk facing traffic. This way they can see the cars coming toward them and the driver can see them, too. While walking, they should stay as far from the road as possible. At the bus stop, children should not wait in the street. This is inviting trouble. It isn't safe for others, either. If the bus has to stop in the middle of the road. It's a good idea to line up, with younger children first, so that when the bus stops they will be ready to get on. Teach your children the importance of waiting until the bus comes to a complete stop. When getting on the bus, children should use the handrail to help them keep their balance as they go up the steps. Standing up in the bus is dangerous. Sometimes it's necessary, however. Children who have to ride standing should give their books to a seated person, stand facing forward or sideways, and hold onto two seat grips. If anything in the bus is damaged (windows, seat cushions, etc.), children should report it to the driver when they leave the bus. Encourage your children to develop good bus manners. This may be done by playing the game "Bus Trip" with your children. The rules are simple: 1. Stay quietly in your seat. No getting up and walking around. 2. Save snacks and homework for later. Coming to a sudden stop or going over a big bump or a hole can send apple cores and pencils flying. This could badly injure somebody. 3. Put books or bundles where they can't fall. Your lap is a pretty good place. 4. Keep your arms and legs out of the aisle where they can trip somebody. 5. Act as you would in a classroom. No loud talking, screaming, or fighting. 6. Try not to carry big or heavy things on a bus. No pets allowed in the bus. 7. Don't stick your head, hands, or books out the bus windows. You could use them. 8. Don't talk to the driver except in emergencies. He has to keep his eyes and his thoughts on the road when the bus is moving. 9. No talking at all when the bus is near a railroad crossing. The driver has to be able to hear as well as see if a train is approaching. 10. Get permission before opening windows. Leaning against windows is not a good idea because they are often built to pop out under pressure in case of accidents. A safe trip is a happy trip. Accidents can ruin your day, not to mention your life.

Feminist Art Center Opens In Chicago

CHICAGO (AP) — A new feminist art gallery designed to show that "women don't just have to be mothers or dietitians" has opened here. This is one of the goals of Artists, Residencies-museum (ARC), explained Mrs. Gerda Meyer Bernstein, an exhibitor. The new gallery is a cooperative effort, in which 17 Chicago-area women are participating initially. Those who belong pay $30 a month to pay gallery expenses. Similar galleries have opened in New York and Los Angeles, and a second such gallery is to open here Friday, next door to the gallery "will provide a vehicle for women artists to work together for mutual support and cooperation." She said it will "enable them, by their combined efforts, to assume a more significant role than has been possible in the past in the gallery-museum dominated art system." A wide variety of media is represented in the first exhibition, which opened Sept. 14. It includes oil and watercolor painting, etching, ceramics, sculpture, lithography and photography. It also includes some unusual media, such as shaped and stuffed canvas, quilts and X-ray. One of the most accomplished pieces in the exhibition is Mrs. Bernstein's drawing and X-ray montage called "Body Alchemy." It is a deeply moody depiction of Freudian conflict and a major accomplishment. Ellen Ferrar shows lively abstract watercolors, and Johnnie Johnson displays deep-pressed abstract etchings in bright colors on white paper.

DOUG BEVINS (Herald Reporter) Roger J. McDermott of 107 Keeney St. was named chairman of the Blue Ribbon committee studying Manchester's town government. McDermott, food service supervisor at Pratt & Whitney Aircraft (East Hartford), was elected at the Blue Ribbon committee's first meeting Wednesday night. Other officers named at the same time were vice chairman, Robert H. Franklin of 68 Elm St., and secretary, Mrs. Anita Murphy of 131 N. Lakewood Circle.

Democratic Club Backs School Work

DOUG BEVINS (Herald Reporter) The Democratic Club of Manchester, after hearing a Wednesday night presentation by School Superintendent James P. Kennedy and School Board Chairman Allan Thomas, endorsed the proposed $5.6 million additions-renovations program for Manchester's junior high schools. About 20 Democratic Club members voted to endorse the proposal, which will be held by town voters in a Nov. 8 referendum.

The referendum item "involves construction and bonding for two schools (Bennet and Iling Junior High Schools) but affects all secondary schools in Manchester," Thomas said, explaining the proposal. Thomas said the proposal, which is essentially a scaled-down version of a $8.8 million referendum defeated last year, is a three-pronged approach to solving secondary school needs. The first part consists of addition of 19 teaching stations at Iling. The construction work at Iling, also to include minor renovations, will allow Iling ninth graders to return to their school - they have been housed at Manchester High School due to lack of space at Iling. The second part of the program involves additions to

Nixon, Agnew Deny Breach

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House and Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's offices are trying to dampen press reports of a growing breach between President Nixon and Agnew that could lead to the latter's resignation. Deputy White House Press Secretary Gerald L. Warren strongly denied on Wednesday that Nixon was applying pressure on Agnew to quit because of his involvement in a federal investigation of alleged political corruption in Maryland. A special federal grand jury probing the allegations was scheduled to resume work today in Baltimore. He said there was no "disposition by the White House or the people in the White House to force the resignation of the vice president, or that the White House is exerting pressure on the vice president to resign." Warren also denied that the White House, as has been widely reported, was the fountainhead for reports that Agnew was contemplating resignation. Following the bland "no comment" reaction of the previous day, Warren's disclaimer was welcomed in the Agnew camp, where there has been dismay, sometimes to the point of anger, over the White House's public response to the vice president's crisis. Some Agnew backers contended that a policy of non-silence and only qualified support for him is designed to build pressure to force his resignation - or at least to distract attention from Watergate. A spokesman for Agnew acknowledged on Wednesday that some individuals at the White House might be encouraging speculation about a resignation but said he couldn't believe it was being done as a matter of Nixon policy.

Rhode Island Governor Wants State Road Link

PROVIDENCE, R.I. (AP) — Gov. Philip Noel made it clear today he wants to build a major highway between Rhode Island and Connecticut, but said he hasn't got a commitment from Gov. Thomas Meskill for the road. In his firmest statement yet on the proposed extension of Interstate-94 from Hartford to Providence, Noel said, "there is no question we will build that road, or try to build that road." Noel said a major east-west highway is very important to Rhode Island's economy. One question still to be resolved, he said, is where the road will be built. A number of routes have been proposed and the state is examining which would have the least environmental impact, he said. However, the major question is Connecticut's attitude toward the proposal. If Connecticut decides not to build the road, Rhode Island would not merely construct a highway to its western border, he said. Noel said the prospects for the highway are uncertain now. "After talking on two occasions with Gov. Meskill, I have not yet received an indication from him they are going to build the road," he said. The Hartford-Providence link had been considered a much-needed highway by the Connecticut Department of Transportation. Two segments of the road - a stretch from Spencer St. in Manchester to Bolton Notch and a so-called Willimantic Bypass - have been completed and opened to traffic.

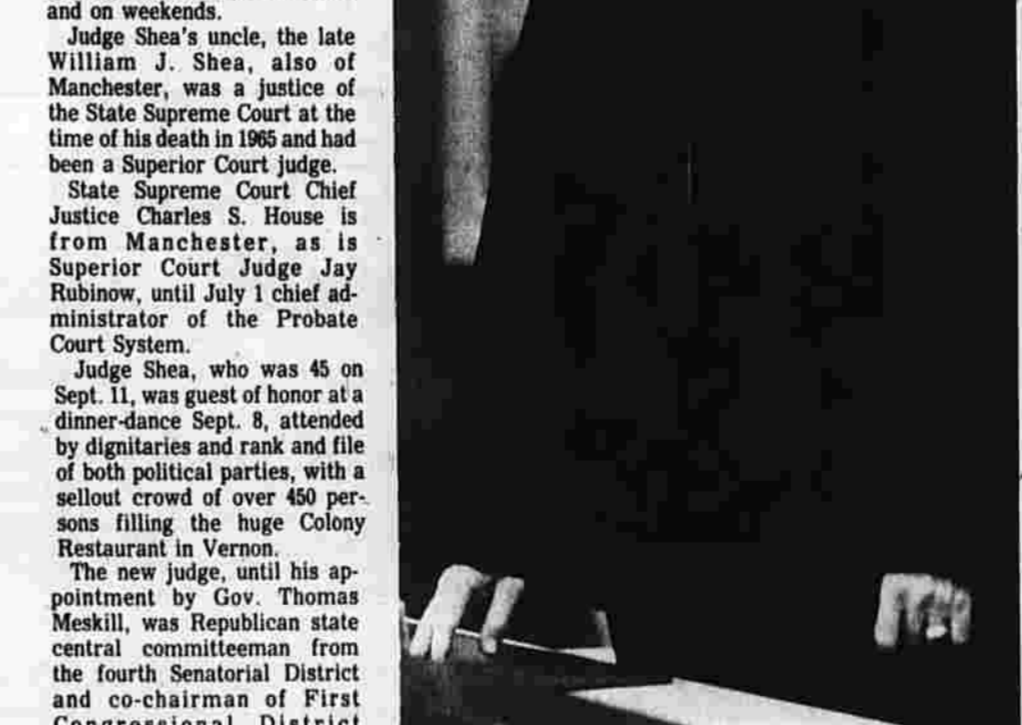

Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz., top, reflects during a news conference in New York, Wednesday, where he said that former Texas governor John B. Connally would be a fine candidate to replace Vice President Agnew, if Agnew were to resign. Connally at a news conference later in the day, bottom, refused comment on "what may or may not be going on" regarding the vice presidency. # Court Waits Word About Tape Accord

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House and the Watergate special prosecutor were to tell the U.S. Court of Appeals today whether they have agreed to a proposed solution to the legal battle over presidential tapes. Each side is scheduled to file a response to the court's proposal that special prosecutor Archibald Cox be permitted to listen privately to the tapes to determine what portions are needed for the Watergate grand jury investigation. A spokesman for Cox disclosed Wednesday that White House lawyers and members of the prosecutor's staff had discussed the proposed compromise, but he refused to say whether any agreement had been reached. Lawyers for President Nixon appeared to take a hard line in defense of withholding the tapes in a legal brief filed Wednesday with the appeals court. The brief was part of the continuing arguments being given the court and did not directly deal with the suggested compromise. But after citing Nixon's efforts to aid the Watergate investigation, including giving Cox broad

John Shea Joins Ranks Of Jurists From Town

By SOL R. COHEN (Herald Reporter) John F. Shea Jr., who took office Sept. 1 as a Superior Court judge, is the latest in a line of fine jurists contributed to the state by the Town of Manchester. Judge Shea was sworn in Aug. 31 by his long-time friend and law partner, Paul R. Marle, in ceremonies in Tolland County Superior Court, Rockville. Although the new judge has been assigned a full schedule of speaking engagements, to promote the referendum, in October.

Judge John F. Shea Jr. He was state campaign manager for Edwin H. May of Wethersfield when the latter sought the 1962 GOP gubernatorial nomination, and was active in May's 1966 and 1968 campaigns for First District congressman. Judge Shea prepared for his Superior Court post the best way he knows how - with hard work. He spent the four weeks from the middle of July to the middle of August at the College of American Jurisprudence a faculty for new and established judges. Judge Shea, who never was one to dwell for any length of time on honors he received, said May 11, when he was nominated by Gov. Thomas Meskill, "Naturally I'm thrilled with this appointment and I

Senate Passes Pension Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has passed 93 to 0 a private pension plan reform bill and the odds seem to favor similar action in the House. The landmark legislation, which has been worked on in Senate committees for more than three years, would set the first minimum standards for private pension plans. It is designed to guarantee that the approximately 40 million Americans now covered by the plans actually get benefits when they reach retirement age. Sponsors said that investigations have shown thousands of persons never received any pensions despite many years of service in a company with a pension plan. Sen. Harrison A. Williams (D.N.J.), chief author of the bill with Sen. Jacob K. Javits (R-N.Y.), called the action "an historic step in extending security for American working men and women." The Senate vote sent the measure to the House where the Education and Labor and Ways and Means committees have been working for their own versions. Rep. Al Ullman, D-Ore., ac-

Minimum Legal Fees Labeled Price Fixing

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Justice Department is setting out to shatter a 179-year-old tradition of America's law profession - the minimum fees recommended by hundreds of local bar and that antitrust laws therefore do not apply. But Wilson declared that the fee schedules - usually drawn up by a local bar committee and sometimes voted upon by the entire membership - "are often more than mere suggestions. They are often accompanied by the threat of disciplinary action for those who systematically choose to undercut the suggested fee."

Meskill Plans Swift Trip

HARTFORD (AP) — Gov. and Mrs. Thomas J. Meskill will join a national governors' conference Oct. 5-14, his office announced Wednesday. The tour will include visits to major Swiss manufacturing firms, inspections of Swiss mass transportation facilities and briefings by local and national government officials. "Future expansions of Swiss firms, we are told, will take place largely outside of Switzerland, and it is our hope to be able to attract some new providers of jobs to our state," Meskill said.

Library Board Closes Branch

The board of directors of the Manchester Public Library voted unanimously last night to discontinue library services offered at the West Side Library.

Citing the decline in attendance, decrease in circulation of materials and the increased use of other town library facilities as determining factors, the board expressed the opinion that the bookmobile unit would provide adequate library facilities in that area.

The library had been in existence since 1922. West Side residents signed a petition urging its closure in 1971. The library in September 1972 when word of the proposed closing came to light.

The board reported that between 1966 and 1972, use of the library there had decreased over 50 per cent.

At a public hearing held Sept. 5, only two residents appeared to protest the move.

Gypsy Moth Problem Expensive to Solve

To rid Tolland County of the gypsy moth would be a very expensive proposition, Mayor Frank McCoy told the Town Council this week.

Mayor McCoy wrote to the executive director of the Connecticut Conference of Mayors, Joel Cogen, asking that the legislative committee of the group place on its list, as a subject for future legislation, the appropriation of funds for combating the problem, and the Mayor has been assured that such an appropriation will be placed on CCM's preliminary legislative program for 1974.

The 'Hidden Economy'

America's real gross national product may be far in excess of the figures a host of government agencies keep tabs on.

This is because there is an incalculable volume of "off the books" enterprises operating at all levels of society — the neighborhood baby sitter, the free lance auto repairman, the hustler are examples — says Prof. Louis A. Ferman of the University of Michigan School of Social Work.

This seldom noticed economic system, which he calls the "irregular economy," is most heavily concentrated in poverty areas, where people have less access to well-paying jobs and adequate goods and services than members of society at large.

Ferman and his wife, sociology Prof. Patricia R. Ferman of Eastern Michigan University, are preparing a book on the irregular economy, to be released late this year.
The existence of two side-by-side economic systems first came to their attention 15 years ago during research among 20 "hardcore" unemployed residents of the Detroit ghetto. They had hypothesized that these people would be alienated and withdrawn from society, engaged in occasional job-seeking and leisure pursuits.

To their surprise, they found that most of them were working regularly, if in an irregular way. Some were in criminal activities, such as prostitution or narcotics, but most worked at such conventional jobs as gardening, handicrafts, home repair or the selling of low-priced goods.

Further investigation has confirmed the existence of informal, sometimes invisible, occupation networks within many low-income communities. The majority of the work is not criminal, but it is illegal, since it goes unreported for licensing or tax purposes.

Jobs in the irregular economy thus offer some major advantages over jobs in the regular economy.

They are not accountable to any legal authority, since no records are kept of them. The earnings tend to be larger and more predictable since no taxes are deducted. And since the worker can accept or reject jobs as he pleases, he enjoys a control over his economic fate unparalleled by most conventional employment.

Ferman stresses that the irregular economy is ancillary to the regular economy, not distinct from it. Some goods and services may even shift from one economy to the other, as liquor did after the repeal of Prohibition.

Although the irregular economy also operates to some extent in middle-class suburbs, in the ghetto it's more likely to be a survival mechanism.

It offers, says Ferman, the only means by which some residents "maintain a level of existence similar to that of regular society." It is a means for redressing inequities.

Cap's Soviet Blooper

WASHINGTON — An unworkable cooperation into foreign policy by Casper W. (Cap) Weinberger, Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare (HEW), ended up at the White House and State Department officials and infuriating conservative Republicans in Congress.

Weinberger returned from a 15-day tour of health facilities in the Soviet Union and Poland just as Dr. Philip Handler, president of the National Academy of Sciences, was warning the Soviet Academy about harassment of physicist Andrei Sakharov. Government persecution, Handler warned, might lead American scientists to boycott joint U.S.-Soviet projects.

At a press conference the day after Handler's statement, Weinberger attacked — not the Russians but Handler, without checking either the White House or the State Department.

"It is better to be disingenuous than to be dishonest," he said. "It is better to be disingenuous than to be dishonest." He said that the administration was condoning Soviet repression. White House and State Department officials were amazed by Weinberger. The Nixon administration line is to encourage U.S.-Soviet scientific cooperation but not to encourage U.S.-Soviet political cooperation. ##### Generals On the Move

NEW YORK, N.Y. — The events in Chile are bound to spark a liberal-conservative debate in every country which still has a free arena for discussion. I venture the guess that both sides will bring up mostly the same arguments which have become the staple in both camps on questions of power and freedom in South America.

The fact is that North American conventional wisdom, whether liberal or conservative, doesn't shed much light on South American events. Take the question of the military regimes. It would be truly wonderful — a thing to wonder at — if all the South American countries could be like Venezuela and Colombia, and have a landscape without political generals. But the generals are on the march. Latin American regimes have become a luxury and they operate mainly through the major party leaders have made a basic pact to live up to the rules of the constitutional game.

In the others the generals perform a function we had better recognize. "God will forgive me," the French quip goes, "it is his métier." The South Americans have a somewhat parallel feeling about generals — that the country can go on its merry way, with class strife and party bitterness and ideological hatreds and economic romanticism and guerrilla kidnappings.

"Contrariwise, a youngster with average ability can, by dint of hard work, accomplish a good deal (but he will never be a genius)." This is not to say, he adds, that an infant should be deprived of rattles or mobiles or other toys which he enjoys. The important thing to remember is that the presence of such toys will not make him a genius any more than their absence of will make him an imbecile.

Every parent knows that the best way to get baby off to a good start in life is to surround him with a variety of colorful, mobile, noisy toys that will stimulate his mental development. Not so, says a psychologist. "Parents who are purchasing these materials are almost sure to be wasting their money," claims David Elkind of the University of Rochester, N.Y., as quoted by Science News.

Toys Don't Mean Genius

Writing in the American Journal of Diseases of Children, Elkind says that the question of how much heredity contributes to intelligence is unanswerable. However, "Bright children are likely to stay bright unless, for whatever reason, they engage in activities destructive to mental prowess.

Toys, says Elkind, should be chosen on the basis of their safety and their immediate entertainment value, rather than for their supposed long-range educational benefits.

Private Drab, Freedom Fighter

"Over there, over there," sang Private Oliver Drab, 278-464, as he packed his duffie in the grim barracks at Fort Meigs, Miss. "The Yanks are coming."

"Where the hell do you think we're going, soldier?" asked Capt. Back Ace, teasingly flicking his boots with his swagger stick.

Private Drab looked up in surprise. "Why, Chile, of course, sir."

"What makes you think you're going to Chile, Drab?" said the Captain with a frown.

"Oh, I know I didn't fight so hot in Vietnam, sir," admitted Drab. "And I wouldn't blame you if you left me home this time. But the thing in Vietnam was I never could figure out what I was fighting for. It kind of takes the heart out of a man."

"Damn it, Drab! I told you a hundred times over there you were fighting to preserve the policy or to saving ourselves or our beloved allies."

"Yes, sir, I'm for democracy. Only it was kind of hard to see the democracy over there through all them generals who ran things in Saigon. But, Chile, you're right, sir. But seeing you feel that way, I might as well go on packing."

"I'm glad to hear that," said Capt. Ace wryly.

"Yes, sir," said Drab eagerly. "From what I read in the papers, here here, Chile was elected President. And it was the generals who done him in to set up a dictatorship. Like Mr. Nixon said, 'It's our duty to make sure our allies enjoy freedom of choice through free elections.'"

"He said that about Vietnam, Drab," said the Captain.

"And it sure goes double for Chile, sir. They're really our allies. I read where you sent

Anatomy Specialist Disputes 'Pinched-Nerve' Theory Used By Chiropractic Practitioners

By DAN HALL
Associated Press Writer

NEW HAVEN (AP) — An anatomy specialist says an experiment with cadavers refutes chiropractors who blame spinal-column displacement for a broad range of maladies.

Dr. Edward S. Crelin, professor of anatomy at the Yale University Medical School, said tests on spinal columns from six bodies showed that even severe pressure on the bone structure which protects the spinal cord does not pinch nerves leading from it.

Crelin said he was the first scientist to experiment with vertebral displacement to test the technique of manipulation, a central part of chiropractic treatment.

The experiments, which he conducted during the past two years, show that chiropractors "have no reason for being," he said during a recent interview.

The doctor's findings appear in an edition of American Scientist released this week.

Crelin added during the interview that subluxation does occur, but patients usually are not aware of it. Pinching the sensitive spinal nerves, he added, would cause immediate and excruciating pain.

Day Camp Hearing Conducted

HARTFORD (AP) — At least 200 Connecticut residents paid close to $6,000 to enroll their children in a defunct day camp this past summer, an attorney for the state Consumer Protection Department testified Wednesday.

William McCullough presented evidence at a hearing on whether the department should prevent Sunrise Day Camps Ltd., of Islip, N.Y., from conducting further business in the state.

The organization was denied a license by the state Health Department when it was learned the camps planned to operate at five state parks in violation of state law.

McCullough said because the camps have subsequently filed for bankruptcy in New York federal court it is unlikely that the department can recover the money paid by Connecticut residents.

If it can be proved that the money was collected under false pretenses, however, the residents could file suits individually or as a group to recover the losses which would not be excusable under federal bankruptcy laws, McCullough said.

He said the camps received close to $58,000 from residents of Connecticut, New York, Maryland and New Jersey before filing for bankruptcy.

Most of the money went for salaries, he said.

"That's right, Oliver," said Corporal Bertz, musing the six feet by the Captain got so sore.

"Aren't you for the inalienable right of everybody everywhere to choose their own leaders?" he asked.

"That's right, Oliver," said Corporal Bertz, musing the six feet by the Captain got so sore.

From Your

Neighbor's Kitchen

By Vivian F. Ferguson

Beverly Woodhouse is an old-fashioned girl. She believes that her home and children are her first responsibility in life. Not only that, but she enjoys herself in the process.

A few years ago, Bev became involved in community work outside the home. While she loved the work and the organizations, she found that she wasn't doing the job at home to her satisfaction.

"We have changed our life style so we can do things with the children. We've become tennis players and skiers."

Bev and Atty, Richard Woodhouse, who is better known as "Chuck" (taken from his middle name of Charles), have been married for 12 years. They are busy engaged in redecorating their home at 132 Mountain Rd. They have two girls, Lauren 11 and Julie 8, and two boys, Brad 10 and Michael 4.

Chuck's mother, Ida Woodhouse, makes her home with them. She and her late husband, Fred, were owners of The Corner Store at Bristol and Main Sts. for many years and are well known to Manchester natives.

In keeping with their strong family interests, the Woodhouses teach a Sunday school class together under the team-teaching program at Center Church. While their own children are attending classes, Chuck and Bev take care of the two-year-olds, with the help of three teenage girls and another adult, Mrs. Louise Lake.

Also in keeping with family involvement, Bev is a library volunteer at Highland Park School which her three oldest children attend. Young Michael goes to nursery school.

Bev couldn't cook a thing when she was first married. "The very first breakfast I gave, Chuck was tea and cupcakes. Oh, yes, the cupcakes were bought!"

The Woodhouse lived next door to Mrs. Ruth McCabe at that time. "She is such a wonderful cook. Ruth used to bring down all sorts of soups. She taught me how to cook."

stuffed lobster beautifully. "I have a little shrimp, crabmeat or scallops, I'll add them to the filling. We put them on the grill, then cover for the last 10-15 minutes so the top is nicely browned," says Bev. If you do not have a covered grill, she suggests you use foil for the last 15 minutes of cooking time.

Bev's crabmeat casserole can easily be prepared using fresh or canned crabmeat.

3 small onions
2 tablespoons chopped parsley

1 1/2 lbs. fresh crabmeat or three 7-oz. cans
5 tablespoons butter
5 tablespoons flour
1 1/2 cups milk
1/2 cup light cream
1/2 teaspoon salt

freshly ground black pepper
1/2 cup dry sherry
1/2 cup bread crumbs

Chop pepper, mushrooms, pickles and onions finely and mix with the parsley and crabmeat. Preheat oven to 350.

In a saucepan, melt the butter, add the flour and stir until blended. Meanwhile, bring the milk and cream to a boil and add all at once to the butter-flour mixture, stirring until sauce is thickened and smooth. Combine the sauce with the crabmeat mixture and season with salt and pepper.

Remove from heat and add the sherry. Pour into a buttered casserole, sprinkle with bread crumbs. Dot with additional butter and bake 30 minutes.

Once, visiting Beverly Groobert, Bev Woodhouse had a salad which used only the juice of green olives for dressing. This is her adaptation.

Then, I finally had enough courage to tell Chuck's mother that I didn't know how...you know, she is excellent!"

The Fanny Farmer cookbook proved to be great aid to the new bride. "I didn't really become greatly involved in cooking until I had my first three children. I had to be at home all day and I would try different recipes."

The Woodhouses are particularly fond of seafood. Bev will take bluefish filets and stuff them with a mixture of luncheon crackers, melted butter, salt, pepper, Parmesan cheese, sherry and fresh lemon juice. With a covered outdoor grill, they are able to bake

Democrats Open Quarters Monday

The 1973 Democratic campaign for town officers will officially get under way Monday with the opening of a party headquarters in the former Miller Building on Broad St. next to the Top Hat Restaurant, Ted Cummings, Democratic town chairman, has announced.

The opening will be at 8 p.m. with light refreshments to be served. A prominent party speaker is being arranged for to appear on the formal part of the program. All the party candidates for town and school officers will be present to meet with voters, he said.

The headquarters will be open 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily except Sunday during the campaign, he said.

Cummings also outlined party goals and achievements in a statement to prelude the beginning of the formal campaign next week.

"We believe the Democratic party has kept its pledges made two years ago," he said, "when we pledged we could do a better job for you."

"This we have done," he added, "by lowering taxes by two mills, by conducting open and bi-partisan sessions of the directors and the school board, by including the minority party in the budget-making process, and we believe town and school services such as recreation, libraries, education and public works have been improved."

He paid special tribute to minority members of both the directors and the school board for their cooperation in achieving many of these goals.

"While we do intend to run our candidates on our record, we recognize there is yet much to be done and our campaign will be geared toward offering programs to continue and complete the work we started two years ago," Cummings said.

Some of the projects he cited as being well under way or nearing completion include the Hilliard St. improvements, Hartford Rd. sidewalks, West Side filter plant work to improve water quality for residents in that area and the re-examination of the Benet and Hing Junior High School expansion programs to permit reunification to the voters again in November at a lower cost figure.

"Nor have we neglected human needs," the Democratic spokesman said, "for we have employed for the first time in history a full-time public health officer; created a commission

AKRON, Ohio (AP)—David Campbell was laid off along with seven other painters who had been employed by the Akron Board of Education. But Campbell recently was rehired by the board as a vocational teacher at $1,250 more a year than he had been making as a painter.

Virginia Blacksmith Has College Background

WYMER, W. Va. (AP)—The mountain valley echoes daily with the rhythmic ringing of a hammer striking an anvil as a college graduate Michael Snyder practices an age-old trade that has become his life work.

The stocky, smoke-blackened smith, just 34 years old, uses only his anvil, coal-fired forge and a few hand tools to practice a craft that threatened to die in the mountains with the few remaining veterans.

Most modern smiths use power tools and acetylene torches in their work, even to reproduce old hand-wrought ironwork. But the only concessions to the age of power tools is Snyder's farmyard shop is a light bulb and a radio.

Much of Snyder's wrought iron trade has been in functional tourist items — drives, fireplace sets, candle holders, dinner gongs and wall brackets and hooks for displaying other craftsmen's wares.

He was the first member of his family to go to college — his father was a coal miner and his grandfather and great-grandfather were blacksmiths near Monongah, W. Va.

But after college, he drifted from one job to another, editing a state travel magazine, working in a New York public relations firm, reporting for a Charleston newspaper and spending time in Colorado as a ski bum.

"I tried everything. I didn't realize it, but I'm more suited to working with my hands," he said.

"I'm proud of the way I make a living," he added, even though it isn't lucrative.

"I get satisfaction knowing I can make something for someone that isn't going to wear out in their lifetime... something people will use."

He was between jobs in 1971 when Don Page, director of the state Arts and Crafts Division, asked him if he'd like to go to a blacksmithing school at Santa Fe, N.M.

The tuition was paid by a state crafts apprenticeship program to train young people and preserve crafts in danger of dying. Snyder, in turn, has now taken an apprentice of his own, Byron Johnson of Lavallete, a Marshall University track star who wants to be able to hand forge and assemble flint lock and muzzle-loading rifles.

One-Room School Integral Part Of North Dakota System

By J.D. WILSON
Associated Press Writer

BISMARCK, N.D. (AP) — The one-room school is slowly disappearing, but in North Dakota it is still an integral part of the public education system and promises to be around for many years.

The North Dakota Department of Public Instruction says there are 36 one-room schools in the state, serving 370 pupils.

"They're gradually disappearing," said Ron Stastney, director of elementary education for the department. "But not all of them will ever go out of existence, simply because of the geography."

Stastney says the one-room schools have a definite place in the state's education system although they are not the ideal situation for every student.

"The rural schools offer acceptable education but cannot offer expansion programs," he said. "The school curriculum has expanded beyond rural capabilities to specialize."

But he said he feels that the smaller, closer-knit groups offer definite attractions over the larger school systems.

Support for the one-room education also comes from school administrators.

"Service is as good as the teacher," said Mrs. G.A. Hample, Burleigh County superintendent of schools. Burleigh County has four one-room schools serving 40 students.

Mrs. Hample said the small number of students is a point in favor of the tiny school houses. "It's almost a one-to-one situation. The individualized attention can help the child with special problems."

But she said the lack of students makes competition difficult.

"The competition would be good for them, and there may not be enough other children to share ideas," she said.

On the average, teachers in the state's one-room schools earn $2,200 less each year than their counterparts in urban elementary schools — $5,026 in 1972 compared with $7,251.

Mrs. Adair Flatness, who teaches six students in three grades at the Sunny Slope school in Bowman County, may be the lowest paid teacher in the state at $4,775. But she says it's worth it.

"The students are more enthusiastic," said Mrs. Flatness, the wife of a rancher. "No one plays hooky, and they're tickled to come to school."

GREENWICH (AP) — Police conducted a car-by-car search of a Connecticut Turnpike traffic jam today, looking for five armed men who held up a Stamford bank, escaping with an undetermined amount of money.

The FBI said five men wearing ski masks and carrying pistols, shotguns and plastic bags, walked into the West Side branch of the Connecticut National Bank shortly after it opened at 9 a.m.

They ordered employees into a corner, walked behind the tellers' cages and scooped money into the bags, police said.

Reports that the men had been caught in a traffic jam on the Connecticut Turnpike led to a car-by-car search of a mile-long bottleneck at a construction site near exit 5, west-bound in Greenwich.

No suspects were found in the congestion.

Police said the robbers fled from the bank about 9:15 a.m. in a car later found abandoned on Harvard Avenue about three blocks from the bank.

No injuries were reported in the robbery.

Police and bank officials spent the morning trying to determine the amount taken by the holdup men.

Police reported the robbers were seen driving west on the Connecticut Turnpike in an orange and black four-door Buick.

State and Greenwich police then conducted the search.

The display will be kept in place through next week, Mrs. Baker said.

The chapter also had this week proclaimed as Constitution Week in Manchester by Mayor John Thompson and urges those residents not now doing so to display their flags for the remainder of the week.

Although he minimizes the many words of praise heaped upon him at his Sept. 8 testimonial (words such as wisdom, knowledgeable, fair-minded and clarity of expression), his associates, his adversaries and those laymen who watched him in action whether in court or delivering an opinion as town counsel — back that praise.

Judge Shea won statewide recognition in his 1963 to 1972 role as defense lawyer for Roy Groves of Andover. After being convicted twice in the murder of Hope Rothwell of Bolton, Darwin was freed, thanks to the efforts of his defense attorney, Judge Shea is a graduate of Providence College and the University of Connecticut School of Law. He was admitted to the Connecticut Bar in 1964 and is a member of the Manchester, Hartford County, Connecticut and American Bar Associations. He had been admitted to practice before the State and U.S. Supreme Courts.

He says he was interested in becoming a lawyer early in school and credits the interest with the fact that his uncle was a judge and two of his cousins were lawyers.

"Always, even way back in grammar school, I've been interested in the law," he says. "I knew in high school I definitely was headed that way and I participated in as many debating activities as I could. When I entered college, I immediately settled on pre-law as my major."

Democratic Club Backs Candidates

The Democratic Club of Manchester Wednesday night committed itself to assisting, "with people and money," the Democratic election campaign this fall.

Club members gave a vote of confidence to the organization's executive board, which has decided to work for all Democratic candidates.

The first event planned by the club during the campaign will be a cocktail fundraiser, to be held Oct. 18 at the Knights of Columbus Home. Tickets for the party will be $5, Holmes said.

Victor Moses was named chairman of the fund-raiser and David Paris was named chairman of a committee to oversee use of club money for political advertising and promotion.

Hours after the court suggested a week ago that Cox, a member of the executive branch of government, be allowed to listen to the tapes as a way of bypassing the constitutional issues raised by the President, the special prosecutor indicated he was ready to follow the proposal.

The appeals court said that if his suggestion was turned down it would then rule on the constitutional issues.

Amex Halts Trading Of Sanitas Stock

HARTFORD (AP) — Trading of Sanitas Service Corp. common stock on the American Stock Exchange was suspended Wednesday, while the exchange reviews a report on the Hartford-based company for the fiscal year ended June 30.

Audited results for the year are expected to be ready early next month.

Sanitas stock closed at an all-time low of 2 1/2 Tuesday, down from a previous low of 2 1/4. The high this year is 7 1/4 and during the seven-year history of the multiserivce company, its stock has sold as high as about 30 on the Amex.

A statement released by the company said Sanitas suffered a $1.9 million loss from discontinued operations of the Detroit Industrial Laundry. That was reported last April.

Sanitas began as a local building-maintenance firm, but has expanded into a nationwide company dealing in solid waste management, energy service and industrial security and maintenance.

David Weintraub resigned as Sanitas' chief executive at a special Board of Directors meeting Monday, the company said. No reason was given.

He was replaced by Alan R. Carp, a former senior vice president who joined Sanitas in 1968 and was elected president in June, according to the company.

The directors also voted not to declare the regular quarterly dividend of three cents a share.

Friendship Lodge of Masons will pay a fraternal visit to the Masonic Lodge on Nantucket island this weekend and confer the Master Mason degree on three of its own candidates.

A party of some 90 members and their ladies will depart from Manchester early Friday morning and will catch the 10:15 a.m. ferry from Wood's Hole at Cape Cod for the 2 1/2-hour trip to Nantucket, where they will visit Union Lodge.

After Friday evening dinner, Friendship Lodge will confer the degree, and the officers will be escorted into lodge by Scottish pipers. The ladies will be entertained by the curator of the Whaling Museum, who will give a historical talk about Nantucket. There will be a get-together after lodge.

Saturday will be open for sightseeing and shopping trips before a smorgasbord that evening at the Admiralty Club.

Vernon Town Still Seeks Dog Pound Site

Under pressure from the state, the Town of Vernon is anxious to start construction of a new dog pound but is finding it difficult to find a satisfactory location, Mayor Frank McCoy told the Town Council this week. Tolland has also been told by the state it must have a new dog pound and the two towns are trying to work out a joint project at a location which would serve both towns conveniently. Land to the rear of the Tolland County Agricultural Center on Rt. 30 is being considered. The town has asked to lease the land for a long term or have it returned to the town. TAC officials have told Mayor McCoy they are willing to work out something but indicate they would be reluctant to give the town a right-of-way from Rt. 30 to 173 Mountain Rd. Tolland officials are trying to arrange something that would allow a right-of-way through its Industrial Park which is adjacent to the TAC building. However, the town does not own that land. Vernon has $10,500 set aside in its budget for construction of the dog pound and Tolland has also set aside money for this purpose. The town is now renting property owned by the former dog warden and has had complaints that it is not large enough for conditions and the town has received complaints from residents of the area. Vernon, at present, does not have a full-time dog warden but Mayor McCoy said Mrs. Helen Gleason who is acting dog warden is doing full-time work at part-time pay. The town has drawings of the proposed pound and when a site is found the public works department will build it. Mayor McCoy said if an agreement cannot be reached with Tolland then Vernon will have to go ahead and build one for itself. The mayor added that chances for two-town cooperation could be affected by the coming November elections which Tolland is to go to in a general election.

Bolton Ruling Asked on Board Makeup

DOONNA HOLLAND Correspondent Tel. 644-0375 clear up any clouds hanging over the legal appointments. Robert Gorton and Phil Dooley of the Planning Commission and Zoning Commission, respectively, were present at yesterday's meeting to discuss the feasibility of combining the two commissions. Gorton said that it was the conclusion of the boards that the two commissions remain separate as they are a good balance on each other and a merger would double the work load. Dooley repeated the check and balance as the reason for keeping the commissions separate, adding that a proposal to merge them was defeated at a town meeting two years ago. Dooley said that the two boards hope to develop a check list of requirements as well as having the two boards meet the same night to make it easier for interested parties to meet with both. The Democratic Town Committee will meet Friday at 8 p.m. at Town Hall.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB Can person live without pancreas?

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D. Dear Dr. Lamb - Where is the pancreas located? Is it behind the stomach or more in the center with the gall bladder located on one end of it? Also, if the pancreas becomes diseased, as with cancer, can it be removed so that anyone still be able to live without the pancreas by taking medicine?

The liver, as you know, is on the right side of the abdomen and the gall bladder rests underneath the liver. If a stone passes down the bile duct located on one end of an opening into the intestine, and its pressure obstructs the outflow of bile from the gall bladder, this may cause inflammation of the pancreas. This is the basis for the story that if you don't do something about gall bladder disease it can affect the pancreas. Obviously, you can have gall stones and as long as they are not lodged in the bile duct and do not obstruct the pancreatic duct, they don't damage the pancreas. Should a stone become lodged, it can be removed surgically.

Mets Win Jumbles NL Pennant Race

NEW YORK (AP) — "I think we're going to cheer each other up down the homestretch. The last three games will decide it."

Now you have the picture of the National League East pennant race from Manager Danny Murtagh of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

"We're still two up in the loss column and they'll have to play catch-up," Murtagh added, talking about one of the roughest games in recent baseball history.

The Mets' big victory, before a wildly-cheering crowd of more than 27,000 at Shea Stadium, put New York into a third-place tie with the St. Louis Cardinals, just 1 1/2 games in back of the front-running Pirates.

The charge is reminiscent of 1969, when they were labeled "The Amazons" enroute to a World Series triumph over Baltimore.

The Cardinals dropped a 3-2 decision to Philadelphia, the Expos were beaten 6-4 by the Cubs, Los Angeles dumped Atlanta 4-1, Cincinnati topped San Francisco 3-1 and Houston split a pair with San Diego, the Astros winning 8-5 and losing 6-3, in other National League action.

Cubs 8, Expos 6
Starter Rick Reuschel with five runs in the first inning but couldn't hold the lead. Reuschel survived the outburst and picked up his 14th victory with relief from Mike Paul in the sixth and Bob Locker in the ninth.

Phillies 3, Cardinals 2
Philly ace Steve Carlton, a 27-game winner last season, was happier about avoiding his 20th loss than picking up his 12th win.

"It was difficult to get it out of my mind that I was going for my 20th defeat," said Carlton, "well, not going for it, you know what I mean. I was vulnerable."

Carlton held his own cause by singling in the fifth and Rich Trost fired an eight-inning night for the Pirates and Del Unser's single late in the inning drove in the winning run.

Reds 5, Giants 1
Fred Norman stopped San Francisco on just two base hits to square his record at 12-12 and reduce Cincinnati's magic number for clinching the National League West to five.

Dodgers 4, Braves 1
The Dodgers picked up all their runs in the eighth, two of them on a single by Ron Cey and another on a single by Willie Davis. Andy Messersmith earned his 14th win against 10 losses.

Dave Johnson got the Atlanta run with his 43rd home run of the season, breaking the record for most homers in one year set in 1922 by Rogers Hornsby.

Astros 8.5, Padres 5.5
Rich Trost fired an eight-inning night for the Pirates and Del Unser's single late in the inning drove in the winning run, breaking the record for most homers in one year set in 1922 by Rogers Hornsby.

Ryan Surpasses AL Record, Wants 20-Game Win Season

NEW YORK (AP) — Nolan Ryan isn't satisfied. He registered his 19th victory of the season Wednesday night, struck out seven batters to come within 28 of breaking the major league record, and pitched a five-hitter for his 24th complete game this year in California's 6-2 triumph over the Texas Rangers in the opener of a two-night double-header.

"...but he isn't satisfied. If I break the strikeout record and don't win 20 games, I'll be disappointed," said Ryan, who broke Babe Ruth's American League record for strikeouts in the third-inning. He fanned designated hitter Bill Sudakis on a low fastball and good ground ball, and good breaking pitches," Tiant said. The combination was good for a 3-1 triumph over the New Yorkers. Tiant struck out 10 and walked none to pick up his 19th victory of the season and 21st complete game.

A's 3, Twins 0
Vida Blue helped whittle down to three the A's "magic number" with his 19th victory of the season—a three-hit, 3-0 shutout over Minnesota. Any combination of Oakland victories and Kansas City defeats would bring the A's their third consecutive Western division title.

Tigers 10, Orioles 1
Aurelio Rodriguez lined a base-leaded triple to score three runs and highlight a seven-run Detroit fifth inning as the Tigers blasted the penant-bound Orioles 10-1.

White Sox 4, Royals 3
Buddy Bradford's 12th-inning single scored Carlos May with the running run in Chicago's 4-3 decision over Kansas City. May had doubled to lead off the inning, moved or Jorge Orta's infield single before Bradford drove him in to win the game for Chicago.

Brewers 7, Indians 4
George Scott drove in four runs, three in the seventh inning, to power the Brewers to a 7-4 victory over the Indians.

Rickie Evans, the youngster from New York, is making a determined bid to dethrone two-time NASCAR modified champion Jerry Cook. Presently, Evans is ahead of Cook in the point race as the 1973 season draws to a close.

Both drivers, using Rome N.Y., as their home, are some 700 points ahead of Bugs Stevens who is making a late charge for the title.

If mechanical failures strike both Cook and Evans during the running of the Race-of-Champions Oct. 14 at Trenton Speedway and the Oct. 28 race at Martinsville, Va., and Stevens can finish in the top five, he has a great outside chance of winning his fourth national title.

Although Syracuse, N.Y. is some distance away and traveling there is unlikely, one of the greatest spectacles in modified racing will take place Sept. 28-30 at the New York State Fairgrounds.

An unbelievable purse of $40,000 will be split up among the 51-car qualifying field. The winner will take home a reported $6,000. The show will be run on a one-mile dirt oval.

Women's Tennis Star Wants No Shenanigans Riggs...Gladiator of The Men

HOUSTON (AP) — If Bob Riggs gets behind in his $100,000 winner-take-all Battle of the Sexes tennis match with Billie Jean King tonight, he can always try something he does even better than play tennis—talk.

Billie Jean and Riggs were eye ball to eye ball for the final time when they met at a news conference Wednesday and Mrs. King told Riggs she didn't want any "shenanigans" during their internationally televised extravaganza in the Astrodome.

"When it gets to a certain point he better not try any shenanigans on the court," Billie Jean said. "That's all I've got to say."

"What kind of shenanigans do you have in mind, Billie Jean?" Riggs said, enjoying every minute of the exchange.

"That depends on what you've got in mind," a serious Mrs. King said.

"We're just waiting for the other shoe to drop, aren't you," King said, who has contended from the start that she'll psyche Mrs. King into falling apart on the court.

Riggs continued the dialogue, sensing he was getting to Mrs. King.

Riggs: "You're anticipating that I'm going to say something, aren't you?"
King: "This is a tennis match. I don't care what you say before or after."
Riggs: "Don't you want to have some fun with this match and talk to one another as we walk back and forth at odd games?"
King: "Nope."
Riggs: "You want me to sit on the other side of the court?"
King: "I just want you to play tennis."
The 55-year-old machine gun talking Riggs, son of a minister, was in his element for the final session before tonight's production that will be televised into 36 countries including England, where it will be shown at 3 a.m. in London.

"This isn't just a tennis match, it's a battle of the sexes and the gladiator of the men happens to be me," Riggs said.

One Foot In Grave
"I hope to be cast in that role, a 55-year-old man with one foot in the grave, who has played tournament tennis for 15 years."

Billie Jean...who was too smart to get on the court with a good young man's player. But look at me. They say "There's a way back and forth at odd games." I still have too much pride. There's no reason I should lose to an old guy like that."
Mrs. King sat quietly while Riggs went through his lines, sometimes laughing, sometimes serious.

With a crowd of 35,000 to 40,000 on hand, it's doubtful the usual quiet will be observed. Just to make sure, the entire University of Houston marching band will add liveliness to the occasion.

Movie stars are flying in and many will participate in a celebrity tennis tournament with the finalists scheduled to play prior to the King-Riggs women's tennis match.

"They've come a long way baby," Riggs said. "Even though I will probably overcome Billie Jean handily, I don't think I will hurt her tennis cause at all."
All of which appears to do little to shake Mrs. King's confidence. Asked by Riggs what she would do with one of her underhand slice shots, Mrs. King replied: "Just don't have your mouth open."

Obscurity After Title
Riggs, who disappeared into relative obscurity after winning the 1970 Wimbledon title, became a household word when he started talking down women's tennis and demolished Australia's Margaret Court 6-2, 6-1 in a similar match in Florida.

Riggs has been a promoter's dream in drumming interest for the match with Mrs. King, making trips to surrounding Texas communities and always talking.

Mrs. King, a five-time Wimbledon women's champion, is the recognized leader of

Cherishing Sections
There'll be cheering sections on each side of the court for Riggs and King (Pep rallies were held for both Wednesday night).

Manchester Defeats Conard In CCIL Soccer Match

Manchester High's George Kanehl booted in a difficult regulation corner kick to give the locals a quick 1-0 lead over Conard High yesterday afternoon at Memorial Field and the Tribe went on to win, 3-1, in the CCIL match.

Reiner Caccace added another Manchester goal in the third quarter. Conard's Skip Prete slammed a ball past goalie Ray Sullivan as the Chieftains closed the gap to 2-1. Rick Taylor's fourth period score gave Manchester its winning margin.

Manchester will continue its home play Friday against Hall High.

The Tribe upped its record to 2-0. Conard dipped to 1-1.

Legendary Mays Hangs Up Spikes

NEW YORK (AP) — Willie Mays, whose all-around playing ability earned him legendary status despite being hampered by numerous injuries, says good-bye to baseball today.

Mays' retirement as an active player was to be announced at an 11:30 a.m., EDT, news conference at Shea Stadium.

"I love pressure because it doesn't bother me," Mays once said, adding, "I love to be in a situation where I know I have to get a hit."

"That more or less sums up the philosophy of Mays, baseball's beloved "Say Hey" kid for nearly a quarter-century.

Nov. 4, Mays was hobbled by injuries this year, after playing out the 1972 season despite an injured left knee that required cortisone treatments and a gimpy right knee that gave him trouble.

This season was the first time he had been placed on the disabled list. He injured his right shoulder May 14 while making a throw against the Houston Astros and spent 15 days on the disabled list.

He received $165,000 a year from the Mets, who are obligated to pay him $50,000 annually until he reaches 50 whether he plays or not.

Mays was acquired by the Mets from the San Francisco Giants on May 11, 1972 in exchange for Charlie Williams, a 24-year-old rookie pitcher, and an undisclosed amount of cash. Estimates of the money involved ranged from $100,000 to $200,000.

He never boasted about his baseball ability. "He had a great love for people from all walks of life, especially children," said Riggs, who expressed a deep feeling for children, she said, owing to his poverty-stricken background which was devoid of security and love. The son of a Baltimore bartender, played in back-alley slums before being shipped off to a Catholic trade school. It was there he began playing baseball.

Someone asked her if Aaron, who has hit 711 homers, would become immortal when he breaks the Babe's record.

"I really don't know," she said after pondering the question for a moment. "It's hard to say. But who was the second man to fly the Atlantic by himself?"

Mrs. Ruth Praises Aaron, Babe Was The Greatest

NEW YORK (AP) — Babe Ruth's manager, lifetime home runs is endangered by the relentless onslaught of slugging Hank Aaron, yet the Babe's manager, who broke Ruth's record for home runs, said he was not bitter but in his quest to break the long-standing record.

"I never met Hank Aaron but I wish him the very best," Mrs. Ruth said at a news conference Wednesday evening.

"There was only one Babe and I think Aaron knows that, too."

"You know, all people seem to ask me is my reaction to Aaron breaking the Babe's record. I'm getting a little tired of all the same questions."

"The Babe was the greatest; he was the complete ballplayer."

Mrs. Ruth parried questions regarding her thoughts on Aaron breaking Ruth's record and preferred to talk about the personal side of Babe Ruth.

"There was the Ruth most fans knew, a garrulous, whimsical fellow whose batting prowess brought crowds to baseball parks in droves and injected a new vitality into a sport that was reeling from the effects of the 1919 World Series scandal. Ruth reflected the Roaring Twenties, a time of free-wheeling merriment.

Then there was the Ruth his world remembers, a warm, modest man who could hit home runs in front of 70,000 fans, yet who disliked facing crowds in public places.

"He never thought he was great, he thought he was just lucky," she said. "He didn't talk very much about all his home runs. In fact, baseball was rarely discussed at our

Report Card Plan Changed at Rham

ANNE EMT Correspondent Tel. 238-3971 New report card procedures will be followed at Rham High School this year, according to Glen Frank, assistant principal. Frank informed the Board of Education at its Monday meeting that the new cards will have teacher and administration comments covering a wider range of academic and behavioral analysis. Comments will be selected by numbers from a computerized list. Frank also mentioned that students will receive their report cards ten school days after the close of a marking period. The delay is necessary by grades have reports to go first to the administration prior to being sent to the computer company, which itself takes five days for printing.

Summer Programs The board reviewed the summer programs directed by Robert Penney, basketball coach; Michael Zotta, soccer coach; and Robert Clowes, music director. Both Penney and Zotta reported having successful programs whereas Clowes felt his was not as successful as it had been in past years, especially in the beginning lessons where he felt parents were reluctant to start lessons not knowing what programs the elementary schools would have this year.

An average of 23 students attended the 24 sessions held in the basketball program; 20 at 31 of the evening soccer program sessions; and an average of 15-20 attended the 39 daily music sessions although 88 students were involved.

Graduates The board approved applications of two graduates for permission to enroll in two courses at Rham. Approval was given in principle to space, academic performance and general behavior.

Property Declarations Required in October

Harold Maddocks, assessor, has announced that personal property declarations from those required by law to file an annual declaration must be made on or before the first day of November. A penalty of 10 percent, as prescribed by law, will be added to all lists not properly filed by that date. Personal property lists will be mailed to non-residents but to resident taxpayers. Personal property includes mobile homes, unregistered motor vehicles, trailers, boats and snowmobiles. Owners of real estate and registered motor vehicles need not file. If in doubt, a property owner is urged to contact the assessor's office. Persons with an Amston address, who are not Hebron residents, are urged to check their motor vehicle registrations to be sure the proper tax town is noted. It is up to the owner to see that any error is corrected. Maddocks will hold office hours from 1 to 7 on Oct. 1, 15 and 29, and daily, Monday through Friday from 9 to 5 during October to receive declarations from those required to file.

Republicans Open Headquarters

Thursday night marked the official beginning of the 1973 campaign by the Manchester Republican party for town offices. A headquarters in the Plaza Shopping Center on East Middle Tpke. was opened. Among those present were, from left, Samuel Maltempo, candidate for treasurer; Raymond Karpe, candidate for Board of Directors; Mrs. Vivian Ferguson, seeking re-election to the board; Charles Crocini, director candidate; State Comptroller Nathan Agostinelli; and A. Paul Berte, GOP town chairman. (Herald photo by Pinto)

Republicans Open Town Campaign

A challenge to work harder than ever to restore the Republican party to majority status in town government was issued by A. Paul Berte, town GOP chairman, at the official opening of the 1973 campaign headquarters Thursday night. The headquarters, located at 709 E. Middle Tpke. (next to Frank's Super Market in the Plaza Shopping Center) will be open daily from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and most evenings, he said. Berte opened the event to kickoff the campaign by pledging the Republicans "will be pursuing our goals more forcefully, vigorously and actively than ever before. We all know that a political campaign is a difficult undertaking and as the minority party it is usually even more so. We have much to be proud of however. "As a minority party we have shown the citizenry of Manchester that we always put the best interests of the town above any political gain. A most noteworthy example of our party's leadership through actions of our Republican elected officials in the town's best interests was during the recent town budget deliberations this past spring... when the majority was expounding a 'hold the line' tax philosophy and our Republican members of the Board of Directors recognized that a tax cut was a very real possibility and had the foresight and courage to come out publicly for that position," he said. "Our Republican members of the board saw an opportunity to benefit the people of Manchester and they called it as they saw it. The people of Manchester want a local government that leads and not follows. And that's where we really have something the opposition doesn't. "We have the most qualified candidates who can bring back to Manchester town government the qualities the public is looking for — initiative, action, and responsiveness," Berte concluded, prior to introducing the candidates and wives who were present for the opening. He then introduced State Comptroller Nathan G. Agostinelli, Manchester, who complemented the party for its selection of a strong ticket of candidates which "represents a cross-section of the community." "Taking note of opposition claims for a town tax reduction, the tax cut was possible because of Republican-conceived revenue-share funds the town received from the federal government, and this was due to the efforts of one man, mainly, President Nixon, whom we are all prone to be quick to criticize these days. "There is a myth about the Republican Party being the party of the rich," he continued, "but that all it is, a myth. We need money to conduct this campaign especially on the local level," Agostinelli said. He paid particular praise to Sam Maltempo, candidate for town treasurer, who has a record of 25 years of public service and experience in finances as a former president of the policemen's union. "To Agostinelli, a former mayor of Manchester, the biggest issue in the campaign is the Democratic majority's failure to 'hold administrative personnel in the town administration accountable to the board of directors.' In closing he said the Republican candidates are dedicated to good government and will work hard to make Manchester a better place in which to live. "I can talk to the candidates and other party workers was given by state Sen. David Odagard who cited the long delay in action on replacing of the Olcott St. bridge as one example where the majority party town administration slowness to act has inconvenienced area residents and many Manchester Community College students who used the route to and from the campus.

Mandatory Fuel Allocation Orders Expected

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House appears almost certain to impose mandatory controls on wholesale distribution of home-heating oil, propane and perhaps diesel fuel, informed sources here said. A decision has been made, subject only to presidential approval, to impose mandatory allocation of propane and to ban switching from coal and other high-sulfur fuels to scarcer low-sulfur petroleum, a source said. Presidential proclamations on those two decisions are expected within a few days, a source said. John A. Love, director of the White House Energy Policy Office, in public and other sources in private have indicated strongly that at least home-heating oil and probably diesel fuel would be brought under mandatory allocation. The remaining question seemed to be whether all petroleum fuels including gasoline must be controlled. "Mandatory allocation" would apply only at the wholesale level and avoid direct rationing of fuel among consumers. "Last Aug. 9, Love proposed the Joint Economic Committee of Congress came after an intense effort by gas station owners to have the ceiling prices in effect since Sept. 7 raised. Some dealers had shut down in protest and others had said they were planning to do so.

Consumer Price Jump Highest In 26 Years

WASHINGTON (AP) — Consumer prices jumped 1.8 per cent in August, the sharpest rate of increase in 26 years, the government reported today. The biggest one-month jump in food prices since 1953 was to blame. The rise in overall consumer prices was 1.8 per cent unadjusted and 1.9 per cent on a seasonally adjusted basis, both the highest since September 1947. The Labor Department said surging prices for meats, poultry and eggs accounted for about 80 per cent of the steep rise in the Consumer Price Index last month. Consumer food prices leaped a record 6 per cent in August, more than in any month since the 8.6 per cent increase in July 1953. Government economists had predicted the disastrous price report for August following the record-breaking price increase earlier following the removal of price restraints. A price freeze that began June 10 ended for food on July 18 and for almost everything else on Aug. 12. Food prices included in the index were collected between Aug. 7 and 8 and prices for other items were collected throughout the month, the government said. Nonfood items jumped five-tenths of 1 per cent after seasonal adjustment, slightly above the average for recent months. The cost of services, soared seven-tenths of one per cent, the largest monthly rise in nearly three years, and was due primarily to increases in mortgage interest rates, the department said. The figure showed that the prices of food purchased in nonfood stores increased more in August than in any other month since World War I, surpassing even the inflationary Americans also paid more to eat out, with the cost of restaurant meals and snacks rising 1.1 per cent. With the August report, consumer prices have risen at an annual rate of 10 per cent over the past six months and 7.6 per cent over the past year. The August jump in consumer prices pushed the overall consumer price index to 135.1, meaning that it cost consumers $13.51 to buy a variety of goods that cost $10 in the 1967 base period. A sampling of prices showed that meats, poultry and fish rose 1.6 per cent from July to August and were 6.7 per cent higher than a year ago. In the nonfood area, apparel prices rose in August instead of declining as they usually do in the summer months. Prices for houses, home maintenance and repair commodities and fuel oil also increased. Watergate conspirator, G. Gordon Liddy, pleaded innocent in Los Angeles to state charges of burglary and conspiracy in connection with the 1971 break-in at the office of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist. Henry Rothblatt, fired as defense attorney for four of the Watergate defendants because he refused to let them plead guilty, sued President Nixon and others Thursday for $10 million "for malicious intent, conspiracy with an attorney-client contract." Watergate Tape Compromise Fails

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U. S. Court of Appeals, having failed to obtain a compromise settlement of the White House tapes controversy, returns to the constitutional questions in the dispute. Special Watergate prosecutor Archibald Cox and the White House notified the court Thursday that their "sincere efforts" to reach an out-of-court settlement "were not fruitful." The court had asked a week earlier that the attempt be made. If the search for a compromise failed, the court had said, this court will discharge its duty of determining the controversy with the knowledge that it has not hesitated to explore the possibility of avoiding constitutional adjudication. An appeals court decision is expected by Oct. 1, when the Supreme Court returns from its summer recess. Whatever ruling comes from the appeals court is expected to be appealed to the Supreme Court. In nearly identical letters, Cox and Charles Alan Wright, White House consultant for the tapes case, told the appeals court that they had failed to reach a compromise in three meetings this week. The court has before it appeals by both the President and Cox from U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica's order that he be given the tapes to determine whether the President's claim that they must be kept secret is valid. Cox contends that the tapes would set aside or modify the action so it wouldn't constitute a taking, the amended act says. The wetlands act, before it was amended this year, specified that the court, if it determined that an action was a "taking," should assess damages. Potter explained that a

Town Wetlands Agency Recommended By Group

Manchester's Advisory Committee on Environmental Impact voted Thursday night, with one dissenting vote, to recommend appointment of a "municipal inland wetlands agency" to administer the state's Inland Wetlands and Water Courses Act. The advisory committee, created earlier this year, is charged with studying the inland wetlands act and making a recommendation to the Manchester Board of Directors. Committee members decided Thursday night to meet Oct. 11 to further study formation of a municipal inland wetlands agency. Town Planner J. Eric Potter, chairman of the advisory committee, said the committee hopes to put together a recommendation to the Directors soon. The decision to recommend appointment of a local agency to administer the wetlands act received support of all advisory committee members except William Bronelli, assistant town counsel. Bronelli said he wasn't ready to recommend such action until the operating costs of a municipal wetlands agency were known. Thursday night's committee vote came after considerable discussion of legal aspects of the Inland Wetlands and Water Courses Act. Potter said the committee was in agreement that a local agency would have advantages over state control of wetlands in Manchester, Potter said. Committee members cited local agency's knowledge of building permit requests, zoning, and subdivision petitions. "The amended act, encouraging municipal participation in regulation and control of wetlands, provides for a July 1, 1974, deadline for local action. If a town doesn't act by then, the State Department of Environmental Protection would assume control. If the Town of Manchester designates a municipal inland wetlands agency, the agency's initial job would be preparation of a precise map of the town's wetlands and water courses and promulgation of regulations governing such areas.

'Nickel Day' Doubles Bus Ridership

HARTFORD (AP) — Connecticut's bus ridership more than doubled Thursday during a special "nickel day" promotion in which fares were reduced to five cents, state transportation officials said today. The state counted 154,653 passengers riding ComCo's three divisions in Stamford, Hartford and New Haven Thursday. Last Thursday, 75,847 rode the buses in the three metropolitan areas. By reducing fares from the normal 33 cents to five cents, revenue in the three divisions dropped from last Thursday's $2,264 to $7,732, said a spokesman for the state Department of Transportation (DOT). ComCo's bus service is subsidized by DOT to the tune of $30,000 a week. The state has undertaken several promotions to increase bus patronage. Hartford stores reported business 10 to 40 per cent above normal Thursday and merchants said they would urge the state and bus company to try another "nickel day."
