Oppose Nixon
MIAMI BEACH (AP) — The AFL-CIO convention has scheduled a vote on a resolution calling for President Nixon's impeachment if he doesn't comply with court orders to produce the White House Watergate tapes. A special report to its convention, the 13.4 million member federation said, "Most Americans believe the president is not worthy of re-election." A 91-page report tracing Watergate and other "White House horrors" served as the basis for the resolution.

Told Of Rigging
LOGAN, Utah (AP) — A son of Vice President-designate Gerald R. Ford says he told his father last year of efforts by President Nixon's re-election committee to rig a national election poll to show support for the president. John G. Ford, 21, a student at Utah State University, said he was working for the committee at the time of the incident. He was the committee's deputy national campaign director for seven months in 1972.

The evidence rather than the evidence itself," he said. "Stemmler, the President described as 'a very distinguished man, highly respected by all elements in American life for his integrity, his fairness and his patriotism.'"

But a key figure in the proposed compromise was Sirica and he remained silent. It was understood he had not been consulted by the President before the White House statement was issued. Nixon remained under court order to surrender the tapes to Sirica and it would be up to the judge to say whether he was willing to accept a summary in place of the tapes themselves.

Nixon said he has "the utmost confidence in Sirica's discretion and integrity." But he said, "to allow the tapes to be heard by one judge would create a precedent which we're sure a long way from our goal, but counting heavily on the fact of your Gold Card carries to send Nixon to court for his contributions."

However, this wasn't done as a lark. As members of a diving club in the St. Petersburg area called Diver's World, they were trying to establish a notable record for staying underwater with no diving suit protection.

The Candidates Are Saying

Thomas Benoit
(Benoit is a Democratic candidate for re-election to the Vernon Town Council.)
I have proposed, in a letter to the Vernon Recreation Commission, a feasibility study to determine the advisability of converting the newly acquired Peoples Savings Bank Building into a community center. In a letter to the commission I stated:
"The building would appear to be particularly well-suited to fill the needs of all of our citizens for a community meeting and recreational facility.
"Civic, cultural and other groups are currently required to seek private assistance in securing suitable meeting space. Our senior citizens are desirous of having a centralized recreational complex within convenient walking distance. Our young people badly need indoor gymnasium and other competitive sports facilities. The bank building, with its ideal location, has the potential to meet these requirements.
"The first floor, which is already partially air-conditioned and contains sanitary facilities, could serve many of the recreational needs of our elderly and could accommodate local groups, both public and private, seeking a place to assemble.
"The area is heated, is contained within fireproof walls and perhaps most importantly, is of sufficient size to permit simultaneous activities. The second level is large enough to allow for the construction of a full-sized gymnasium, lockers and dressing rooms to offer our citizens well-designed adequate space in the interest of enjoyment and physical fitness.

" If we had to construct a new building of this size and quality, the expenditure would be several times the acquisition cost of the present structure. This is not to suggest we should be unmindful of the potential renovation cost to have the kind of facility we need.
" It does indicate, however, the fact that at a minimal cost we have secured the beginning of what could develop into a valuable town asset serving all of the people of Vernon. I would recommend that as part of our investigating efforts we contact state and federal sources to determine the availability of funds to even further effect the cost to be borne locally.
" The development of this building is, I believe, a very exciting and worthwhile concept indeed and I would respectfully urge your commission to give this proposal both serious and prompt consideration."

Genovesi Backs School Issues

State Rep. Donald Genovesi of Manchester's 12th Assembly District today announced he is supporting the proposal to spend $5.6 million for renovations and additions to Iling and Bennett Junior High Schools. He urged Manchester voters to vote "yes" Nov. 6 on Question 1.

"To those who would say I am a state lawmaker and shouldn't involve myself in local politics, I reply first of all, I am a Manchester resident and homeowner, concerned with all local problems and, second of all, this is not a matter of politics—it is a matter of needs for our children," Genovesi said.

"The additions and renovations are needed," said Genovesi, "to bring Bennett up to modern times and modern requirements. Its buildings were built in 1903 and 1915; to provide room for Iling ninth graders, so that all Iling students would be housed in one building; and to give the high school back to the high school, so that needed improved programs there may be implemented."

He said, "Some people have stated that the proposal should be separated into two questions. I disagree with that approach. We have a problem in the secondary schools that should be faced and solved as one package. Taking care of one school now and another at some future time would give us only a partial solution to a very serious problem."

Genovesi urged anyone with doubts about the referendum question to call the principal of Bennett or Iling and arrange for a tour of one or both schools.

"I think this would convince even the most skeptical that this program is needed now," he said.

AFL-CIO Demands Nixon Quit

MIAMI BEACH (AP) — The AFL-CIO convention approved a resolution today calling on President Nixon to resign and urging Congress to impeach him if he doesn't.

The action by the 2,000 delegates representing 13.4 million members of organized labor came shortly before Sen. Daniel K. Inouye said Nixon should resign because Americans "have suffered enough" and "must be spared this new pain and trauma."

The delegates rose to their feet to applaud a resolution by the organization's executive council calling for the resignation or impeachment. They shouted approval as the resolution was read by federation president George Meany. No dissenting votes were recorded from the floor.

Tolland County Notes

The Tolland County Soil and Water Conservation District will hold its annual meeting at 8 p.m., Wednesday in the meeting room of the Tolland County Agricultural Center, Rt. 30, Vernon.

Dave Lavine, director of the Inland-Wetlands project, will be the main speaker. The project is funded by the Ford Foundation and will provide towns with technical data and maps on areas designated as wetlands. It will also assist in the establishment of an agency in each municipality to administer the act.

A film, "The Green City," will be shown. At the business meeting, two new supervisors will be elected.

Fair Association
The Tolland County 4-H Fair Association will meet Nov. 2 at 7:30 p.m. in the Activities Building of the agricultural center to elect officers and consider proposed revisions to the bylaws.

These officers will talk on their summer activities as exchange 4-H'ers. They are Jane Hopkins, Priscilla Hutt and Bruce Hutt, all of Coventry.

Fair premiums will be distributed, a variety dance will be presented and refreshments will be served.

The bylaw changes concern two additions to the existing laws. One would prohibit any director being elected from having passed his sophomore year in high school and the other would have the membership elect four members at the annual meeting, and the board elect two members to serve three year terms.

It Could Happen Here

There is ample evidence the system of political contributions by architects, engineers and other doing, or wishing to do business with the government, is not limited to Maryland where it led to former Vice President Agnew's downfall.

Nor is there any evidence that it is new to the American political scene for history clearly shows otherwise. There is a complex and yet somewhat simple fact of political life that one the one hand, to the victor belongs the spoils, and on the other, a public office is a public trust.

Patronage and favoritism remain to a large degree a politician's stock in trade and it is not in itself inevitably and invariably evil. In making patronage appointments, politicians, if they wish, can and often do find men and women within party ranks of unquestioned ability and integrity. It is only bad when it is used to put incompetents on the public payroll or give them needless tasks.

Favoritism too can be handled the same way. The corruptness comes when a price tag is put on either.

Ambassadorships have been a not "selling item" for both political parties. Local, state and, to a degree national government, have many positions that at best can be termed as honorariums for certain party faithful. While Civil Service has reduced the number of patronage jobs, it is naive to believe patronage no longer exists.

Favoritism exists too. No politician would last long if he did not, within the bounds of legality bestow some favors to his supporters. Most common is the intercession by congressmen on behalf of constituents before almost every executive agency. No politician, once elected, can turn his back on those who supported him financially and worked and voted for his election.

While ideally his party is only part of his whole constituency, it is his party and not the opposition which he needs for re-election.

Within legitimate and reasonable bounds, patronage and favoritism, are a viable part of the American two-party system. That some will abuse it and corrupt it cites the need for controls rather than elimination.

The answer of how to retain legitimate patronage and favoritism and yet minimize the temptation for corruption is not simple.

Laws can be strengthened with perhaps stricter penalties for not only the politician involved but his collaborators outside government as well.

All business involving public funds and public officials should be and can be conducted more openly.

Competitive bidding should be encouraged and required whenever possible. When there are special situations where this is not desirable in the public interest, perhaps, the public's interest in officials' decisions could be better protected with a system where non-competitively awarded contracts are subject to special review.

We may feel remote from the problem in Connecticut but this is not true. While there may be no scandals being bared at the moment, and we hope there are none to be bared, we have in our town and state government agencies and administrators who have power enough to influence contract letting. To put it bluntly, it could happen here.

We cannot make democratic government completely incorruptible any more than we can make our whole society incorruptible.

But this is not to say we shouldn't be looking hard at the way we are now doing town and state business. Perhaps we may find a few barn doors now open that could be closed before the horses are gone.

Lady or The Tiger

A classic short story called, The Lady or the Tiger, with its inconclusive ending, conjurs up for us the dilemma facing the administration on wage and price controls.

No one really knows what the result will be if controls continue or if they are dropped.

The control effort to date has been anything but a success if you expect prices to stay down, level off, or inflation to be controlled.

On the other hand, prices were rising and inflation was increasing before controls were imposed.

Maybe the problem is not economic in itself or political in itself, but really the offspring of a mixed marriage of economics and politics that was shortgummed into being by the Great Depression of the Thirties.

Free enterprise, in surrendering to government regulation and intervention has, we fear, lost some of its initiative to compete for consumer favor. Instead, it looks to government to bail itself out of problems. The Penn Central is a horrible example. Government, and we mean federal, has been tilting with windmills more often than facing economic realities.

Whenever a scheme fails, instead of abandoning it, the planners spawn new ones again, again and again.

There have been bold charges into new frontiers that capture headlines and build bureaucracies but inflation, fear of recession, and a confidence gap, remain.

This hybrid of political-economic management of the nation seems to have us going around in circles because almost every new crisis — political or economic — has a familiar ring.

Maybe it is time for a no-fault divorce or at least a trial separation so that the economy can return to a freer arena of competition in the market place and government to political matters. Maybe by minimizing the effort now going into trying to make this mis-matched alliance workable; energies, ideas, and resources can be released toward solving problems in each area, rather than perpetuating them.

To control or not to control, The Lady or the Tiger.

The answer will not be known until both government and American enterprise decide on one course or the other.

But before that decision can be made do we, the people who are complaining about inflation, high prices, etc., really want to be weaned?

Inside Report

Rowland Evans and Robert Novak

Betrayed by Agnew

WASHINGTON — The anguished sense of betrayal by Republican conservatives toward Spiro T. Agnew, scarcely relieved by his televised valedictory, derives from the former Vice President's remarkable success in deceiving them the last two months — typified by his Aug. 18 visit to a political bullroast on Maryland's Eastern Shore.

Agnew travelled that day to Centreville, Md., to boost Robert Bauman, a young conservative state senator running for a congressional vacancy. As Agnew passed through the crowd shaking hands after his speech, he seemed heartened by expressions of confidence in his innocence. Arriving at his waiting helicopter, the Vice President told Bauman how good it was to get free of the Washington malaise if only briefly and then, in his cool, confident manner, said flatly he was being framed on charges of bribery and extortion.

Bauman (elected to Congress three days later) believed Agnew and supported him publicly and privately. But long before that bullroast Bauman had fastened on Agnew as his leader. A former national chairman of the Young Americans for Freedom, Bauman looked to Agnew as a steady beacon of conservatism in sharp preference to the ideological waverings of President Nixon.

Bauman was not alone in either his acceptance of Agnew's innocence or his preference for him over Mr. Nixon. Thus, the anguish of such conservative Republican politicians today is twofold: not only has their leader been revealed as a common crook, but the very conservative doctrine he has been preaching for five years is now tainted. Was he synthetic from that start?

What adds to the burden for these politicians is that their conservative followers even now maintain a naive faith in the fallen Vice President. In the past week, many a conservative Congressman has studied with mounting horror the Justice Department's 40-page recounting of Agnew's venality, only to go back to his district and find constituents willing to believe Agnew was the victim of a liberal conspiracy. The telecast further bolstered the remaining true believers.

That poses a problem even for the Republican party's Mr. Conservative, Sen. Barry Goldwater. In the week since charges, although the luncheon was attended by Republican liberals long at odds with the Vice President, they tended to trust him and sympathize with him that day.

All the more natural, then, that conservatives — including some in the White House — should accept Agnew's words at face value. But that ready acceptance has now led some more thoughtful conservatives to ponder hard thoughts. To pledge that he would never resign while bargaining with prosecutors over his resignation may be more than simple deception but may also involve confusion with reality. Those who personally heard Agnew's face-to-face promises to keep fighting now suspect he may really have believed himself at that moment even while acquiescing in plea bargaining at the same time. Similarly, they wonder whether Agnew, through the last two months and in his televised speech, really believed he had done nothing wrong despite convincing Justice Department evidence.

Thus, agonizing questions are posed for conservatives: Was Agnew's transformation from liberal governor of Maryland to champion of hard-hat conservatism similarly devoid of true philosophical commitment? Was he merely using his natural gift for credibility as he did the last two months from his Aug. 12 press conference down to his last speech?

To conservatives who have lost their heads to the Watergate horrors in this year of disillusionment and betrayal.

Recall Churchill Story

WASHINGTON — Interior Secretary Rogers Morton's proud announcement that Federal agencies had dropped their winter thermostat settings by four degrees, to a range of 70-72, to save fuel this winter recalls a Winston Churchill story.

Churchill loved his comfort and convenience and he was annoyed when his valet fell ill on the eve of a visit to the Riviera villa of the actress, Maxine Elliot. So as he trundled up the steps of Maxine's elegant pad his first words were: "Do you realize, my dear, that I've come all the way across France without my man?"

"Oh Winston!" cooed Maxine. "How brave!" Elliot-wise, Secretary Morton obviously believes Federal workers will be roughing it come December and deserve both sympathy and admiration. They won't get either from me. If the thermostats have been lowered to a range of 70-72 degrees, that means they formerly were set to 74 to 76 degrees, which may explain why so many government workers came home well-dressed despite the capital's numbing cold that sometimes drops the mercury as low as 25 degrees.

It may also provide a clue as to why, sometimes, so little work is done in official Washington. My trade forces me to visit numerous government offices in wintertime and the warmth in which those bureaucrats bundle themselves can only be described as approaching that of a miniature Hell. The blast of hot air that greets a visitor makes him curse his carelessness in not packing a bathing suit in his overcoat pocket.

Any temperature above 90 degrees is for roasting pork, not protecting a human animal from the sun. If a body wants to sweat, he should move to Miami Beach or seek out the nearest sauna. Most doctors, VERPLANCK School wants to thank you for allowing your firm to give us the demonstration of fire safety.

One of the finest features to the Herald recently has been the column "The Candidates are Saying." This column has enabled the people to hear and examine the views and proposals of those who seek public office.

But Paul Greenberg, Democratic candidate for reelection to the Board of Education, has yet to be seen in this column. There is a reason for his absence, one that speaks well of him and bodes well for the people he serves. Paul Greenberg is putting all his efforts into the passage of the school programs question on election day. He is the man who was given the task to come up with a viable program acceptable by the people. He has taken the task of revitalizing and renewing the Middle and High Schools in Manchester, and presented a rational and effective plan for Manchester.

Today In History

By The Associated Press
Today is Monday, October 22nd, the 296th day of 1973. There are 70 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1863, President John F. Kennedy ordered U.S. air and navy forces to quarantine Cuba after concluding that Soviet missile bases were being built there.

On this date: In 1492, Henry VII of England began the siege of Boulogne, France.

In 1859, Spain declared war against the Moors in Morocco.

Remember Paul Greenberg on election day. He has put the very personal task of his reelection aside to work on the job at hand — the recapturing of leadership and quality in Manchester schools. Reward his concern for you and your children by his re-election. In a year so filled by charges and bravura, the quiet dedication of Paul Greenberg is indeed reassuring.

Bolton Bulldogs Lose; Tigers Tie

DONNA HOLLAND Correspondent 646-0375

Bolton Bulldogs lost to Cromwell Sunday 6 to 6. Gil Bozouneau, head coach, said the boys played a tremendous game against a bigger, older and more experienced club.

The defense, he said, was simply tremendous for the most part and Bozouneau singled out Paul Groves and Jerry Chemerski for hard hitting.

Offensively, Cromwell keyed heavily on Groves who, despite having four or five men constantly after him, broke the tackles for long gains.

Dane Ward was not completely recovered from injuries received in a previous game, and the team could not generate too much of an offense.

John Stamp, when called upon to carry, did extremely well.

Next week the Bulldogs will meet the East Windsor Chargers who have recently gone on a winning streak and should provide stiff competition.

Tigers Tie The Tigers lone touchdown that held the game to an 8-4 tie was made when Vincent Morrone intercepted the ball and ran 40 yards for a touchdown.

Steve Holcomb made the two-point conversion.

Leon Rivers, head coach, was extremely proud of all the boys, who put forth their efforts in yesterday's game.

Coventry Bids Before PZC Tonight

Two public hearings scheduled at the Planning and Zoning Commission meeting which will be held at 8 tonight at the Town Hall.

The first will be an application from William and Ethelene Zingler to redivide part of their property on Riley Mt. Rd. into two lots, and providing for an additional 50-foot right of way to rear land.

The second is on the application of Sterling MacPherson for a special permit to use his property at Main and Mason Sts., formerly occupied by the Coventry Book Store, for educational purposes by Mansfield Training School.

The MacPherson property would be considered part of the training school but the town may have to increase its education budget to cover the children.

Loyzin has requested Board of Education representatives to attend the hearing.

According to Loyzin, if the town declines the property tax exempt, the state would pay the entire bill for educating these children.

Other items on the agenda are two referrals by the council to the commission relating to a proposed new driveway for the

Coventry CPC Lends Support To Buying SA Land

The Committee for the Preservation of Coventry indicated in a letter sent the Town Council that it was concerned about other things other than the one they had been the most vocal about - "opposition to the new city of 20,000 proposed by the Greater Hartford Process-DevCo combine."

In the letter, the committee urges the council to take positive steps to acquire the Salvation Army lakefront property. The town has recently received the right of first refusal. The resolution supports the recent position taken by the town's Conservation Commission in a similar letter to the council.

Committee member Al Bray said, "With the ever-increasing pressures upon land acquisition and use, it is vital that our town government be aware that the citizens desire more, not less, control over its natural resources. The Salvation Army property on the lake, should be available, is a natural one for the town to own for several reasons."

Bray added, "It abuts property presently owned by the town. It also includes buildings that would expand the town's recreational facilities, and we've already been accused of being 'deprived' in this area."

He added that "it wouldn't necessarily become financially non-productive property just because it became town owned."

Bray indicated that the rules about the procurement of state and federal funds to buy land for recreational use do permit charging fees for the use of the facilities on the land.

Bray said, "It's high time, however, that Coventry begin some forward thinking on its own in the area of land acquisition, something along the lines of the Town of Madison, Conn. has done by building one-half mill in its annual tax rate for just that purpose."

Selling Candy The Coventry Midget and Pony League football players will be selling candy to buy land for recreational use.

They will be selling Munson's Candy Bars for 50 cents and will sell them door-to-door.

Garden Club The Coventry Garden Club will hold a workshop on Tuesday at 10 a.m. at the home of Mrs. Byron Hall, Pilgrim Hill Dr.

The purpose of the workshop is to make dried arrangements for the Holiday Fair.

Members are asked to bring dried material of any kind; also containers, if possible. Please bring a sandwich.

Pioneer Reports Increased Sales, Reduced Income

Pioneer Systems, Inc., of Manchester has reported a 25 per cent increase in net sales for the nine-month period ended Sept. 30, but has recorded a drop in net income due to special and extraordinary charges.

The firm listed net sales of $33.1 million for the first nine months of 1973, a 25 per cent increase over the $26.6 million net sales in the first nine months of 1972.

Net income for the nine-month period this year was $520,000 (18 cents per share) compared to $663,000 (23 cents per share) for the same period in 1972.

David N. Abrams, Pioneer Systems president, attributed the reduced income to expenses incurred in connection with corporate restructure ($225,000), unrealized exchange loss on European financing ($102,000), and loss on prepayment of a debt ($183,000).

The corporate restructure involved regrouping of Pioneer's principal operating subsidiaries into three companies: Pioneer International Corp., Vogart Crafts Corp., and the Putnam-Geltinger Corp.

The extraordinary charge of $102,000 for a currency exchange loss stemmed from a foreign debenture payable in Swiss Francs and sold by the company in 1972. Abrams said the Swiss Franc value, versus the U.S. dollar, has been appreciating.

The prepayment of a debt to the Ford Motor Credit Co. resulted in a $183,000 penalty to Pioneer, Abrams said.

Principal areas of activity of Pioneer Systems include design and manufacture of parachutes and aerial recovery systems, processing and finishing of textile fabrics, production and sales of hobbycraft, design and manufacture of sewing equipment, and provision of technical and engineering personnel for temporary industry requirements.

Pioneer Systems is also engaged in private channel cable television services through its 81 per cent ownership of Optical Systems Corp.

SNET EARNINGS

Southern New England Telephone Co. has reported 1973 third quarter earnings of $1.08 per common share, less than last year's third quarter earnings but slightly more than the first two quarters of 1973.

SNET said third quarter results reflect the impact of continuing inflation, high interest rates, and wage increases which went into effect in July. Those factors were offset by a cost control program and aggressive marketing, the company said.

Telephones in service increased by 22,400 during the third quarter, SNET said.

Bike Trail Signs Ready Soon

Bike trail signs to be used on a proposed secondary route for the trail will be ready in about two weeks and installation of them will begin immediately. Donald Edin, chairman of the recreational trails committee, reports.

Edin, Mayor Frank McCoy and Dr. Joseph Kristan, Vernon's health officer, last week flew over the trail area in a helicopter provided by the National Guard. They were searching for possible sites along the trail where exercise areas can be employed.

The idea of the areas was proposed by Dr. Kristan who said they are very popular in European countries in conjunction with bike and hike trails. The Town Council, in August, appropriated funds not to exceed $1,000 for Edin's committee, appointed by Mayor McCoy, to pay for the signs and other necessary supplies for the trails.

The basic route will start in the area of the Center Road School or the Teen Center on Rt. 30, where there is adequate parking. It will go south on Bolton Rd., Cemetery, Barnforth and Broad and Milk Rd., to Valley Falls Park and back by way of Tunnel Rd. An alternate route will have an eventual tie-in with the Penn Central right-of-way and will cover Warren Ave., Maple St., Phoenix St., Tankerhook Rd., about 700 feet of the right-of-way, go across Rt. 30 to Cold Spring Dr., Deerfield Rd. and back to Center Rd. The entire route would cover about seven miles.

Another alternate route would also start at the Center Rd. site, would turn on Tunnel Rd., to Feeder Rd., Bolton Rd. and back to Center Rd., about 4.5 miles. Edin said the conservation committee of the Vernon Junior Women's Club has offered to prepare a brochure which will outline the routes and also give brief descriptions of points of interest along the routes.

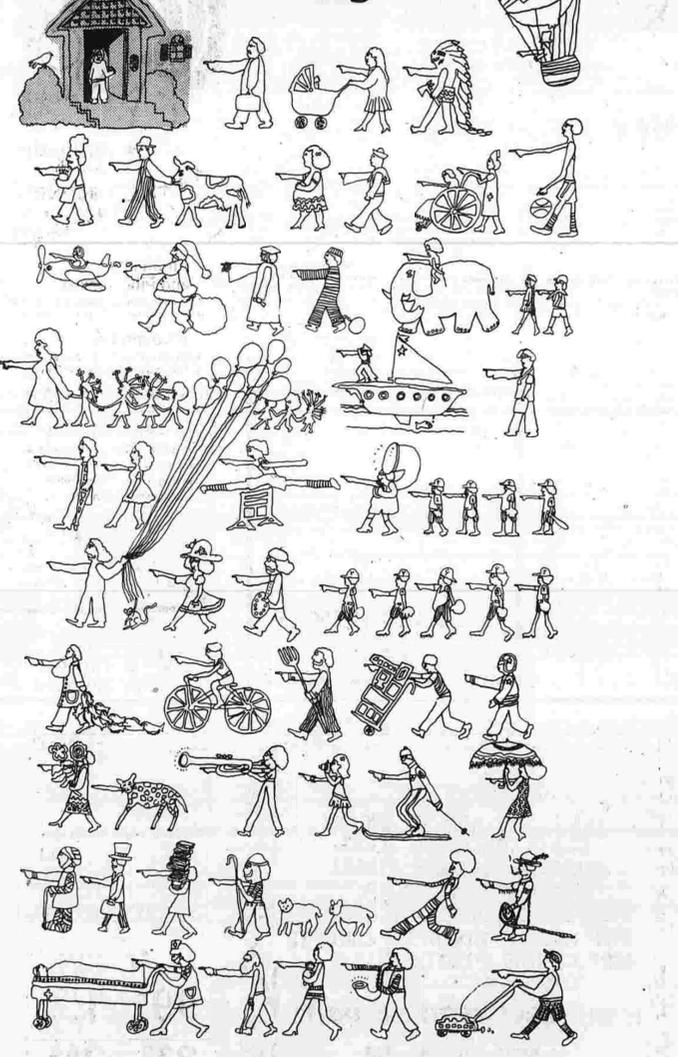

Edin said these will include, among other things, the tunnel on Tunnel Rd., two very old cemeteries and some old homes. Safety rules for the riders will also be included. The trails are being set up for non-motorized vehicles only due to the fact they are in areas where there are many homes. Accompanying local officials on the helicopter tour was Mrs. Lenore Skilton of the Travelers Insurance Co. who is connected with the Traveler's Physical Exercise Pays (PEP) program which is carried on in conjunction with the President's Council on Physical Fitness.

Today's Thought

Our bodies are members of Christ's sacred body.

We must not desecrate them by indulging in sexual aberrations. We are temples of the Holy Spirit, sin must have no place within us. Parents of families: Instruct your children by word and example about the purity of their bodies.

Protect them, as far as you can, from the immoral cancer of pornography, which is being encouraged and developed all around us. Under the guise of liberty, our permissive society is endeavoring to violate, not only the sacred laws of God Himself, but the very nature of humanity. Human intelligence and reason are thrown overboard in the search for sexual pleasure. Man who was made "a little less than the angels" is now debased below the level of the beast of the field.

Listen to St. Paul's advice: "The body is not meant for immorality - it is meant to glorify God." Submitted by: Rev. Magr. Edward J. Reardon, St. James Church

The Candidates Are Saying

Raymond J. Karpe

(Karpe is a Republican candidate for the Manchester Board of Directors.) Recent events in Manchester led me to the conclusion that there are serious communication gaps between the townspeople and Town Hall. I refer specifically to apparent misunderstanding and confusion regarding sidewalks on Wetherill, Kenney and Hackmatack Sts., the recent closing of Parker St., and the promise to explore viable alternatives to its closing.

In order to improve taxpayer awareness, I would propose an improved and expanded flow of information from Town Hall to all residents, with special emphasis given to informing taxpayers directly affected, as in the case of sidewalks and sewers.

Scientist, 447 N. Main St., by Joseph G. Heard of Miami, Fla. His topic: "We Thy People." The lecture is open to the public free of charge. Child care will be available. The lecturer is a Christian Science practitioner and teacher and a member of the Christian Science Board of Lecturship.

Brown and Xavier Too Much for East

By Marc Rick
Three touchdowns by Anthony Brown in the first period featured as Xavier High racked up and coasted to a 48-12 demise of East Catholic at Palmer Field last Saturday night. Xavier, the No. 1 ranked schoolboy team in the state, made the MVC victory its 33rd in a row without a defeat (32 wins and 1 tie). They also won their seasonal mark to an impressive 6-0. Brown, known as "Dr. A," tallied on jaunts of 28, 52 and five yards as he galloped for 164 yards being used primarily in the first quarter. The sure-to-be All-American possesses all the abilities of former teammate and star, Greg Woods. The fast paced contest was completely dominated by the powerful Falcons who scored at will in the initial half and then flooded the game with junior varsity players for the remainder. Wides East Catholic, now 0-6, tried vainly to come back in the second half with two touchdowns but the heroes were too little and too late to overcome the 41 point intermission spread. Sophomore Jim "Rocky" Lodge broke the ice with 3:18 left in the third stanza as he took a kickoff and went 87 yards to the amusement of all in attendance. Lodge survived the first wave of defenders and then scampered untouched into the end zone for a quick six-pointer. The losers struck again early in the fourth quarter with Bob Love sneaking over from one yard out. East outplayed and outscored the Middletown club in the second half as it seemed to show what little spark they had. "Most of you got a chance to play against a real All-American tonight," cited Eagle mentor John LaFontana as he talked to his crew about running back Brown. "There's no doubt that Xavier is the No. 1 team in the state," concluded LaFontana. "They proved it to me." The downstaters opened the scoring on their second play from scrimmage as Jim Holter connected to a wide open Clint Gaffney for a 75 yard strike. Another TD aerial saw reserve Vernon Pindar hitting Ed McMahon for 35 yards to terminate their scoring. LaFontana emphasized to his club that their toughest part of the schedule has passed. "We're now playing teams in our league," he stated. The final games are against Enfield, Palaski, Monmouth, Mass., and South Catholic. Scoring: X-J. Holter to C. Gaffney 75 yd. pass (Sataga) kick; X-A. Brown 52 yd. run (kick failed); X-A. Brown 5 yd. run (kick failed); X-J. Holter 2 yd. run (conversion pass); X-P. Voelker 1 yd. run (Sataga) kick; X-V. Pindar pass to E. McMahon 35 yd. pass (Sataga) kick; E-J. Lodge 85 yd. kickoff return (kick failed); E-B. Love 1 yd. run (conversion failed).

Home Grid Opener Successful As Indians Shutout Maloney

By Len Auster
After last week's disaster, they could have surrendered the rest of the season. Instead, however, the Manchester High football team gave a sterling performance Saturday in its Homecoming at Memorial Field before 1,000 enthusiastic boosters as it wilted Maloney High of Meriden 29-0 in CCLL action. "I've never seen a Manchester team as high as this one was. I couldn't control in the dressing room before the game," Coach Larry Olson said as he lit a victory cigar after making a successful home bow. The man who did most of the damage against Maloney was a namesake, Manchester's hard-charging junior halfback Jack Brown. He went over, around and through the Spartan defense for 182 yards on 16 attempts. He scored the first touchdown, added three extra points, and set up the Indians final marker on a brilliant 77-yard run through a hole a Sherman tank could've passed between. On the second play following the ensuing kickoff, Outlaw fumbled and Ken Irish pounced on the loose pignikin for Manchester at the Maloney 44. It took the "Big Red" machine just four plays to score with fullback Scott Odell going the last 14 yards for the TD on his own right side. Maloney made the first of his three PAT's. In the second quarter, Milka was intercepted but on the very next down, Spartan quarterback Robert Sternberg's aerial was skyjacked by Peter McCluskey, who returned 46 yards to put the Tribe in business on the Spartan 18. A holding infraction Manchester back but they weren't to be denied. A 25-yard Milka to Roy pass play and a Maloney 13-yard jaunt brought the ball to the Maloney three. Maloney returned the favor with Bruce Taggart skirting left and for the six-pointer. Maloney's conversion made the intermission count, 22-0. Olson's crew slackened off somewhat in the second half putting only seven more points up. The crowd, which didn't really have too much to cheer about in the third stanza, was brought to its feet in the fourth as Maloney broke a 77-yard gallop before being overhauled from behind at the Spartan four. Milka registered the final touchdown from there, bootlegging it in. Maloney's conversion made it 29-0 with 9:58 showing on the clock and that's how it concluded as Olson substituted freely thereafter. Maloney is now 14-0 in CCLL action, 1-5 overall while Manchester raised its CCLL and overall ledger to 2-2-1. The Indians go back on the road traveling to East Hartford Saturday to take on CCLL competitor Penney High in a 1:30 start. The Black Knights are 1-3-2 thus far this season. "One thing is sure, Joan Olson's good cooking Saturday night must have tasted even better to Coach Olson after a highly successful Homecoming.

Bennet Surprise Winner In Soccer Against Illing

The first two Bennet-Illing varsity soccer games Saturday morning resulted in a 2-1 win for Bennet over its cross-town rival. The triumph boosted Bennet's record to 3-2-2 while Illing absorbed its first loss to go along with five wins and two ties. Both Bennet scores came on penalty kicks — the result of questionable violations of the part of the Illing defense in the penalty area. Maurice Godin of Illing smacked one by Bennet goalie Mickey Mikolowsky for his team's only marker. Bob Nurni accounted for both Bennet tallies. Outstanding for the winners were fullback Matt Walsh, center half Ed Hajbucki, Rick Marshall, and right fullback Grey Smayda, plus Nurni. Mikolowsky was a standout in the nets, giving up just one goal. It was a well-played defensive struggle with both teams saving numerous exciting saves. Illing's defense of goalie Dale Matthews, Dave Peck, Phil Valentine, Scott Hyde, Frank Ley, Eric Thomas and Bill Meier deserve credit for a fine game. Illing players Kennedy Junior and High of Enfield today in Enfield and Glastonbury on Thursday played a rematch with Bennet Saturday morning, Oct. 27, at 10.

College Tennis Team Winner

Scoring its first victory of the season, the Manchester Community College tennis team defeated South Central CC 3-2, Saturday in New Haven. The Cougar netmen took two of three singles matches and split the doubles matches to null down the win. Singles winners for Manchester were Bob Barney (6-3, 1-6, 6-4) and Bernie Santore (6-1, 6-3). The doubles duo of Santore and Bob Marko blanked Leighton and Brandiff of SCC 6-0.

Honored Men at Dedication Ceremonies Retired Coaches Pete Wigren and Tom Kelley

Wigren, Clarke Areas Dedicated

By Earl Yost

It's now official...Charles "Pete" Wigren Track and Thomas Kelley Baseball Field at Manchester High's Memorial Field.

The two long-time retired Manchester High teacher-coaches were honored at brief halftime ceremonies last Saturday at Memorial Field during the Manchester-Maloney High football game.

Despite a faulty microphone, Dave Wiggin, director of athletics, capably handled the official naming of the two areas. Wigren coached 33 years and turned out 54 championship teams in track and cross country. Kelley coached baseball 42 years and football 20 and later served as director of athletics.

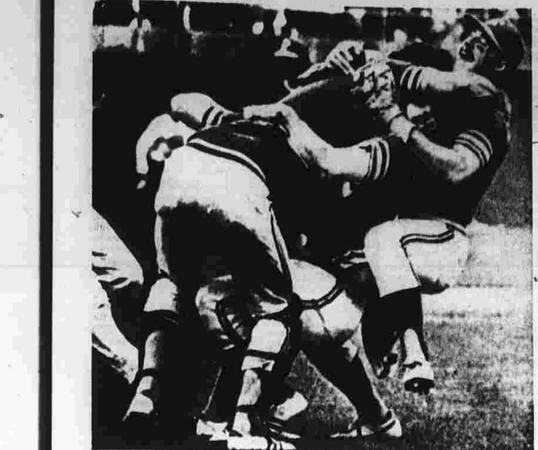

Alan Thomas of the Board of Education read two resolutions and presented these in frames to the honored men. Brief remarks were also made by Dr. Joseph Kennedy, superintendent of schools, and Mayor John Thompson.

Wiggin unveiled a large sign that will be placed at the main entrance to Memorial Field which denotes the Kelley Field and Wigren Track. Honor guard from the American Legion and the fine Manchester High Band, under the direction of Andy Shreeves, added much to the occasion.

Happiness Scene After A's Copped Series Mass of Tangled Legs and Arms Belong to World Champs

Verbal Swing Taken By MVP at Finley

OAKLAND (AP) — Reggie Jackson remained in character. He had just accepted the mantle of hero of the 1973 World Series. Champagne rained all over the Oakland A's dressing room. Happiness was rampant. But the outspoken Jackson had one more hit left. He took another verbal swing at owner Charles Finley. "Please don't give Finley credit," he repeated half a dozen times after the A's had beaten the New York Mets 5-2 and won their second straight World Series. "That takes away from what the guys in this dressing room have done."

"It was the easiest thing in the world for this team to lay down because of that man (Finley)," continued Jackson, the bitterness pouring out almost as fast as the victory champagne he had guzzled moments earlier. "The Andrews thing, the wives quitting. Who is responsible for all those things?" Jackson asked. He referred to Finley's effort to dump infielder Mike Andrews from the World Series squad, the players' wives being seated in the third deck at Shea Stadium, and Manager Dick Williams resigning minutes after the Series ended. Jackson, who was incredulous at being selected hero of the Series, spoke rapidly in his tirade against the controversial owner of the A's. "I ain't a bronco, don't ride me. I want to play in the Series. I want to be a little boy. The stand the players took...was right. I want what's mine, only what's mine. I want to preserve my dignity. I'm a man. Our fans...knew we were bitter and they knew why." Jackson's big act came alive in the final two games of the Series after managing only five hits in the first two of the best of seven games championship. He hit a pair of doubles and drove in two runs in the 3-1 sixth game triumph. He ripped a two-run homer in the seventh game Sunday. He also made two fine catches in the clinches. His last finish vaulted him from being the possible goat of the 70th World Series to its hero, its most valuable player.

New England Dart Title Achieved By BA Squad

With the Connecticut state championship already secured in its corner, the British American Club of Manchester went to Saturday and became newly crowned New England dart champions by defeating the representatives from Danvers, Mass., 5-4.

The Massachusetts combine looked like a formidable opponent, having rolled through 10 matches unbeaten in order to make the New England finals. The British Americans got off to a fast start as Len Smith and Jim Kerken won their matches 2-0 to give the team a 2-0 lead. The Sky View Pub club of Danvers came back strongly as their next two men, John McNamee and Ron Tams defeated Leo Richford and Bob Pohoryl, respectively, to knot the finals at 2-2. Sky View's Archie Somerville defeated Ross Vibberts in a 2-1 clincher to give his club a 3-2 edge. However, old reliable Ken Jones of the B.A.'s toed the line, and to the cheers of the line, and to the cheers of the gallery, proceeded to eliminate Don Skene, 2-1, tying the match at 3-3. The B.A.'s next shot, Jim Lockhart demolished his opponent, Len Lambert, who said this was his first loss in over five years of competition. Now leading 4-3 and needing only one more win to carry home the championship, the B.A.'s ran into Sky View's Ed Pritch, who defeated Ken Hunt, 2-1, to send the contest into sudden death. The final match pitted British American's Captain Ed Churilla against Charlie Wakelin. To the frenzied implore of onlookers, Churilla held his nerves and won 2-0, 5-1. It was a very rewarding title for the B.A.'s. It was a very rewarding title for the B.A.'s. It was a very rewarding title for the B.A.'s.

Reggie Smith Still Waiting

SHARON, Mass. (AP) — Reggie Smith, the Boston Red Sox's slugging outfielder reportedly traded to the St. Louis Cardinals, is waiting patiently to hear officially whether the report is fact or fiction. "I can't really have any reaction to a trade since nobody has informed me officially that there has been one," Smith said during the week. "To me it's just a rumor." "However, I'll have plenty to say if I'm traded. That's when you're supposed to have a reaction."

Williams Awaiting Call, Finley May Name Black

NEW YORK (AP) — Dick Williams quit on top as manager of the Oakland Athletics, then parked himself at the telephone to await a bid to try to rebuild the dynasty of the New York Yankees. "I'd love to manage the Yankees," the mustachioed 44-year-old winner of consecutive World Series titles said Sunday in making public one of the poorest kept secrets in the baseball world. "But, honestly, they haven't talked to me and I haven't talked to them." This is an oversight that insiders are sure will be soon corrected. Williams, after losing Manager Ralph Houk to the Detroit Tigers, are looking for a strong, charismatic leader to combat the escalating and fervent fan appeal of their rivals, the New York Mets, with whom they share the same stadium next year. No one fits the mold better than Williams, a popular, articulate man who has proved his worth by carrying three teams, including Boston in 1967, into the World Series, and winning two of them. Williams' dramatic departure also leaves a void at the helm of the colorful and free-swinging A's, with their roster of heroic mavericks and a maverick owner, Charles O. Finley, who is constantly at odds with the baseball brass. One of the most widely circulated rumors was that the innovative and unpredictable Finley might meet the present situation with the most of his bombast and name the first black manager of the major leagues. "But, honestly, they haven't talked to me and I haven't talked to them." Williams said he was motivated by family considerations. He lives on the East Coast, far away from his family (Riviera Beach Fla.), he said. "My wife, Nora, hasn't complained. She's been well. But I don't like the idea of being away from my children as much as I am. It would be much easier if I had a job on the East Coast."

McGraw Believed 'Until Final Out'

OAKLAND (AP) — Tug McGraw, the Mets best believer and reliever, is also their best prophet. "I told you before the game," McGraw said "If we don't win, I hope you do." And they did. The A's were the ones who won the game both teams had to win, beating New York 5-2 and stopping the Mets' miracle rainbow one victory short of the ultimate pot of gold. The A's successfully defended their world championship, the first New York Yankees pulled their championship double play in 1961 and 1962. "I wish they had a super ball club," said a subdued McGraw. "And we have outstanding relievers. I don't like to lose but if I had to lose I'm glad we lost to some super relief pitcher. We saw relief pitching at its best."

David Knowles, the A's lefthanded reliever, entered a record-breaking seventh series game in the ninth inning after Gene Tenace bobbled Ed Kranepool's two-out groundout. The error brought one run home and brought in Knowles with runners on first and third and the potentially tying run at plate. But Wayne Garrett lifted a soft liner to Bert Campaneris and several thousand fans, who had spilled onto the field prematurely one batter before, again cascaded onto the field in earnest. "I believe until the final out," said McGraw, whose inspirational cry of "you gotta believe" helped rally the Mets from last place in August to baseball's second best in October. "I felt that when we got that break on Kranepool's grounder, we would open the gates." "But Knowles, in relief of Feller Rolfie Fingers, shut those gates. No starting pitcher was able to go the distance in the 70th World Series, indicating the significance of the bullpen. "Relief pitching sure played a role here," added McGraw, who pitched five games in the series and was ready to go on Sunday.

Willie Sad

OAKLAND (AP) — "The only thing I'm sad about is I'm not gonna play anymore," said Willie Mays. And that's the national pastime will never be the same. Mays, the "Say Hey Kid," whose youthful exuberance provided memories for baseball fans the past 22 seasons, ended his active career Sunday by sitting on the bench. "No, I wasn't disappointed I didn't get in," the 42-year-old superstar said in the quiet of the Mets' locker room. "I don't think I'm any good at pinch-hitting. "I wish we had won," said Mays, who broke in with the then New York Giants in 1951. "But I told the guys before the game, win or lose, they should be proud. The exciting thing was winning the playoffs. That gets you here. And only two teams can say that." Baseball fans got their last glimpse of that famous No. 24 in Game No. 3 when his 10th-inning pinch-hit bid ended in a ground ball to second base.
