The Tasks Ahead

Manchester people have spoken again at the polls.

For the winners the glow of victory will soon fade as they assume the responsibilities to which they were elected. While elections are partisan and can become heated at times, administration of the town and of our schools requires open-mindedness and

The Herald believes the voters have chosen men and women who can do just that.

For the winners then we offer first, our congratulations, and second, a challenge to give us the most efficient and open government they possibly can. They have been charged to represent all of Manchester, Democrats. Republicans and the unaffiliated, and this is a sobering and heavy respon-

We only ask them to remember they are the peoples' representatives and are charged with conducting the peoples' business. We ask them to do this openly, honestly, and with the courage of their convictions. We are confident that they can and will do this in the terms of office to which they have been elected.

As in all elections there are losers. While these individuals no doubt are disappointed and it may be difficult at this time to accept the voter verdict: the citizens of Manchester and other Connecticut towns are winners because each of them chose to be a candidate and take their principles and philosophies to the people so that each of us in casting our votes had a

Without such competition there could be no two-party system. Thistime the voters favored one party. Next time, depending on how the majority party candidates conduct their responsibilities, the voters may chose the other party. This is what the

That bi-partisanship is a viable part of the two-party system can be attested to by resounding endorsement given by the voters of the referen dum to expend $5.6 million dollars to renovate and make additions to Illing and Bennet Junior High Schools. This measure had the support of both parties and this unity behind a demonstrated need was confirmed by

The lesson is that if the majorities and minorities will seek out those areas in which they can agree first, and relegate partisanship to the rear seats, Manchester will be the big winner in the election because it will have representative government which places the needs of the town and schools ahead of party advantage.

We again congratulate all who placed themselves up for public approval or disapproval. They were the combatants until Tuesday; today, it is our hope they will close ranks and work together for the solution of the many problems that lie ahead.

some disappointment in the light turnout. We recognize the right to vote carries with it the right not to vote but this privilege, we feel, too many Manchester citizens failed to exercise positively by going to the polls.

The reasons can be debated at length but in the final analysis each voter must remember that if he did not take the time to vote Tuesday, he has to a large degree abdicated some of his responsibility as a citizen.

So to those who stayed at home, we say, watch how your government works in the coming two years and remember if it falls short of your desires, you share the responsibility even more than those who voted. Your votes could have changed the results. You will have only your own neglect to blame.

Misery Is...

A common assignment for students in elementary school is to have them finish the sentence, "Happiness is..." Recently Mrs. Sylvia Patrick, Grade 3 teacher, assigned her students the task of completing the sentence, "Misery is..." and also to draw a corresponding picture.

The papers, which have left all who have seen them

chuckling, are presently hanging on the hallway wall outside Mrs. Patrick's room. Following are several of the third graders interpretation

Misery is having your pants rip in a play. (Jessica Greenwood); having a bloody nose when you're wearing your brother's shirt (Eric Rys); having a sore throat on Halloween (Scott Fontaine), when you dance with a boy shorter than you (Donna Bolduc).

Misery is getting 10 wrong on your paper (Kristy Mahon); kissing a boy when everyone is watching (Katherine Cannon); going to bed after lunch because you hit your sister (Shari Holland); getting grounded on your birthday (Jeff Peterson); when a boy likes you and you do not like him (Kate Placco).

secretary Carol Gardner was hired to train as replacement for Republican Ruth Lojzim, the board's secretary, who will stay on the job two to three

The replacement of Mrs. Lojzim caused a round of discussion as Republican members questioned the desire of replacing, for such a short period, someone familiar with office routine. The reasoning expressed was that when the town manager is selected he will hire his own staff. -

Republican Stewart Joslin charged the action was "overdoing it just a bit and not in the best interest of the town." He added, "this is partisan and it Democratic campaign co-chairman Harvey Chambers told the board that the town manager will probably hire the person who has the job at the time, and "we want to have someone in there who is working for us." Democratic Registrar Michael Murray added that the job should have someone with typing ability, which Mrs.

The new board will meet at a closed session Tuesday to go over the applications for town manager. A dozen applications have been received to date. The first regular meeting will be Nov. 20 at 7:30 p.m. and every other Tuesday from that date. Special meetings will be called by the chairman as the need arises. Constables Extended A resolution was passed to extend the powers of the present constables for 90 days or until the town manager appoints

The present Planning and Zoning Commission alternates - Len Bach, Werner Kunzli and Clifford Williams - will stay on for the Nov. 19 PZC meeting. New alternates will be named by the selectmen Nov. 20. Stoetzner Meets Former First Selectman-Erwin Stoetzner met with the new board to go over town items which are pending. Kingfisher's $600,000 expansion plans in the Industrial Park involve trades which will have to be clarified. The company has purchased additional land for its proposed warehouse and will grant a right-of-way to the town to get to its 14 acres which would be landlocked.

The lack of a dog pound is also a matter which must be resolved. The state won't release town funds until something is done. A joint pound with Vernon behind the TAC building is one possibility, if a right-of-way can be obtained. The installation of additional runs on Dog Warden Mario Palumbo's property is Stoetzner told the board to

On Rate Hike For Hospitals

HARTFORD (AP) - State Atty. Gen. Robert K. Killian ruled Wednesday that the state Hospital and Health Care Commission has the authority to order Connecticut hospitals, which boosted rates above the 6 per cent level Oct. 1, to make

The ruling was one of several questions that the commission had requested Killian to make when several hospitals in the state defied the commission's Oct. 6 suspension of all hikes Killian's other rulings stated: -That rate hikes of less than per cent may be ordered discretion. -That the commission cannot approve rate hikes above 6 per cent prior to a public efunded at the commission's

-That the commission had no legal right to receive rate hike requests until Oct. 1. At a hearing Wednesday, attorney George Nichols of Bridgeport representing Stamford Hospital, challenged the power of the commission to review rates at all. He said the federal Economic Stabilization Act pre-empted the powers of Nichols claimed that the commission could not review increases over 6 per cent until January 1974.

Some Help Wanted

What the Manchester High football team needs in order to win another game this season is a little help from themselves and the officials. They played a very good game against Wethersfield but still came out on the short end of the scoreboard.

It seems as if Coach Larry Olsen's team has to do is play a flawless game. That means no fumbles, interceptions, penalties, missed assignments and no more questionable judgment calls from the officials.

Last week, the wide receiver lined up off the line by a few steps most of the way. The officials never said anything to him or his coach during the course of action. Manchester scored what seemed to be a winning touchdown, but during the Tribe's celebration, the white handkerchief went flying. What had been done all afternoon was ruled to be illegal. Strange but true, that's how a game can be determined.

It is not proper procedure to knock officials who are trying their best, but when the same group who let the previous game get out of hand (luckily no altercations). then some reevaluating must be done.

Success At Last

It took most of the season but Coach John LaFontana and his East Catholic Eagle club emerged with a win last weekend as it swamped a hapless Pulaski outfit 50-14. Leading the charge for East was quarterback Bob Love and wide receivers Joe Banning and Dave Berner, who combined to put together an awesome passing attack. This trio has played well all season long, but its teammates have run into some tough competition this year. Two of the seven losses suffered by East this season were at the hands of clubs highly ranked in state scholastic polls. One defeat was by Northwest Catholic and another by Xavier High of Middletown, which last week set a new record, winning its 34th game in a row, breaking the standard formerly held by New Canaan High. The Eagles were to have had two games remaining, but Saturday's game against Monument Mt. Regional, Mass., has been canceled due to "disclipinary actions" taken against the latter school. That leaves East with only the Thanksgiving Day morning game against South Catholic thane of Cawdor and later King of Scotland. That is a great destiny, but I would like to beat this MacDuff just once at something. The witches could predic the future. They couldn't make MacBeth into a good bridge player. His best play would have been to lead a trump and wait for MacDuf to play the other suits but the leuce of hearts fascinated nim. Finally MacBeth led a heart and MacDuff made the rest of the tricks. Note that MacDuff's deuce of hearts was a sure loser some time in the play. He elected to lose it early in hope would shift to a heart.
