Fire damages apartment. A Monday night fire of suspicious origin damaged the third-floor apartment of Ronald Hagenaw at 8 Newman St., Tuesday night. The blaze, reported at 11:30 p.m., apparently started in a kitchen in the three-story tenement house and spread into the attic. Firemen, who were at the scene until about 1:30 this morning, returned later today to investigate the incident. (Herald photo by Gentilmoio)

Miguel Mollet, 16, of 78 Oak St. was charged Monday with attempted second-degree burglary in connection with an attempted break at the 14F Garden Dr. residence of Tonya Brackley, Manchester Police report.

Police said that Mollet apparently broke a window in the rear door while the Brackley woman and a girl friend were inside. Mollet was charged with first-degree burglary and possession of a motorist and the three notified police, said Mollet was apprehended a short distance from the residence.

Mollet was held overnight at Police Headquarters in lieu of a $1,000 cash bond and he was to be presented in today's Circuit Court 12 East Hartford session.

Virginia Clark, 17, of 324 Center St. was charged Monday with third-degree larceny and a second-degree forgery via a Circuit Court 12 warrant charging her with altering money orders at Cheney Bros., where she is employed.

She was released on a $250 non-surety bond with appearance in Circuit Court 12, Manchester, scheduled for Jan. 22.

Joseph Blazinski, 19, of 44 Sautters Rd. was charged Monday with operating a motor vehicle while under the influence of alcohol and drug in connection with a one-car accident on Hartford Rd., police said.

Blazinski was released on a $100 non-surety bond with court date Jan. 28.

In other Manchester Police reports: An automobile accident was reported late this morning at the intersection of Main St. and Center and New Sts. in front of Lloyd's Automotive Parts. Preliminary reports from police said that an ambulance was called to the scene. Other information was unavailable at presstime.

Pella Brothers Dairy Farm at 384 Bidwell St. reported to police Monday that about 300 gallons of gasoline have been taken from vehicles owned by the farm in recent days.

It was reported to police Wednesday that the vehicle of Judy Altrui of Downey Dr. was broken into and $40 in cash and merchandise was taken, including a credit card.

David S. MacLachlan, 30, of Edgemere Rd., Coventry was charged by Coventry Police early this morning with harassment of a woman and a child. Police said the arrest was made in connection with a complaint that telephone operators were being harassed. MacLachlan is scheduled to appear in Circuit Court 12, Manchester, Feb. 4.

Democratic Town Chairman Tod Cummings said of Pietrantonio: "He'll be difficult to replace. As senior member of the board, he has a lot of experience and know-how. I'm sorry as I am to see him leave, I understand and appreciate all his reasons."

Cummings said the town committee "will be thoughtful and careful in endorsing a replacement for Pietrantonio. We need the good type of businessman that Tony is."

Pietrantonio said he will attend Wednesday night's ice storm critique, scheduled for 7:30 at Manchester High School. His attendance, he said, will be as a town resident, and not as a town director.

The Connecticut Conference of Mayors is determined it will keep after the federal and state governments until they do something about the monetary losses in the state during the December ice storm.

Friday, at a meeting in New Haven and on a motion by Manchester Mayor John Thompson, it lent its support to state efforts to require the federal government to declare Connecticut a disaster area, thus making it eligible for low interest loans.

Also adopted unanimously was a second proposal by Thompson. It stated that, in the event the state doesn't qualify to be declared a disaster area, the General Assembly should consider emergency grants to those communities hit so hard by the storm they suffered extensive damage.

Superior Court Judge Jay E. Rubinow of Manchester has been reappointed by Gov. Thomas Meskillo to the State Safety Commission. The appointment is for the period ending June 30, 1975.

Judge Rubinow has served on the 20-member agency since July 19, 1961. The members serve without compensation.

State Comptroller Nathan Agostinelli will be the guest speaker Sunday when Charter Oak Lodge of B'nai B'rith holds its monthly breakfast meeting. It will be at 9 a.m. at the like Manchester, suffered hardships and damage during and after the storm.

Also adopted unanimously was a second proposal by Thompson. It stated that, in the event the state doesn't qualify to be declared a disaster area, the General Assembly should consider emergency grants to those communities hit so hard by the storm they suffered extensive damage.

Gov. Meskillo, who insists he hasn't yet made up his mind whether he will or will not be a candidate for re-election, continues to act very much the candidate.

He is stepping up his appearances in as many of the state's 10 municipalities as possible in his continuing his speaking engagements and his official designations of "weekends and days."

For example, Monday he addressed a forum in New York City on the subject, "Political Decisions in Times of Crisis." Wednesday, he will designate Jan. 23 "School Nurses Day."

Today he is in Norwich and Montville. He will spend Thursday in Torrington.

Coasting at Center Springs Park is allowed today to 3 p.m. There is no skating. For information about skiing at Northville, call the winter outdoor sports information number, 643-4700, after 3 p.m.

More than six million passengers were banded on Washington State ferries traveling Puget Sound in 1972. 42,000 compared with 40,000 a year ago — a drop of 14 percent. Dealers predicted it would slump again today.

The Manchester Board of Directors, in a unanimous action Tuesday night, voted to purchase a 225-66-acre State Mt. parcel for $31,022.50 and to allocate $167,000 as the town's cost share.

The state already has given Manchester a $165,522.50 parcel for its share and the $32,500 allocation promised by the federal government is expected about 30 days after a deed is filed and all necessary paper work completed.

Tuesday night's action was the culmination of efforts dating back to 1963 and initiated by the Manchester Conservation Commission for acquiring the property.

In recognition of its participation and efforts, the board asked the Conservation Commission to name the property in honor of the people involved in the effort over the past nine years.

At voted Tuesday night, the town's $167,000 cost share will be as follows: $98,063 from the Insurance Refund Account, $54,960 from 1972-73 surplus, and $13,977 from the Capital Improvement Reserve Fund.

The ice storm review public hearing was originally scheduled for last Wednesday night, but heavy snowfall that day forced postponement of the session.

Public comments on the December ice storm crisis will be heard by the Manchester Board of Directors tonight at 7:30 at Manchester High School's Banquet Auditorium.

Representatives of the Hartford Electric Light Co., Connecticut Natural Gas, and various Town of Manchester departments will attend the public hearing, Town Manager Robert Weiss said.

British Face Turmoil

By Sol R. Cohen

LONDON (UPI) — Railroad engineers ended a 24-hour walkout today, but industrial turmoil raged in Britain, with subway workers taking a strike vote and coal miners maintaining a crippling slowdown.

The nation's 23,000 trainmen returned to work today, ending their second one-day walkout in five days. The engineers, however, kept up a month-old slowdown aimed at winning pay demands.

LONDON's 10,000 subway employees voted to strike Feb. 4 and shut down the city's mass transit system unless authorities grant a $14.49 million pay boost.

The nation's 289,000 coal miners continued a two-month slowdown cutting into the country's dwindling fuel supplies and intensifying the impact of the worldwide energy crisis.

Prime Minister Edward Heath said Tuesday he would make a final attempt to find a way out of the crisis by holding a new round of talks with leaders of the 10-million-member Trades Union Congress (TUC), Britain's AFL-CIO.

The government, which imposed a fuel-saving three-day work week because of the economic crisis, said it might have to take even harder action, prohibiting Britons from lighting more than one room in an apartment at the same time.

"You don't need to do your teeth with the light on," Energy Minister Patrick Jenkin said Tuesday. "Do them in the dark."

The ailing pound plummeted Tuesday to an all-time low of $2.07 compared with a dollar a year ago — a drop of 14 percent. Dealers predicted it would slump again today.

Panel Report Rekindles Watergate

The experts concluded that the tapes had been erased, and that at one time a conversation between Nixon and his chief aide H.R. Haldeman probably existed on the tape. They said the 18 minutes were not erased all at once, but in at least five stages and possibly as many as nine.

The report immediately broadened the scope of possible extra Senate Watergate hearings and another impeachment pressure.

In a federal court hearing Tuesday, the experts were blocked by White House lawyers from answering Chief Judge John J. Sirica's question: "Was the 18-minute buzz caused by accident, or was it deliberately done?"

We have no view as to who did what for what reason," Thomas J. Stockham Jr., of the University of Utah, one of the six experts jointly named by the report's authors, told the Watergate prosecutors, said.

But when the prosecutors and Sirica tried several times to determine if the two-month technical study could determine a deliberate pattern of destruction to erase the tapes, they were blocked by James S. Claire, the President's new chief Watergate lawyer.

"I object to your honor's question because there's no basis in the previous testimony in the hearings to indicate why it could be done deliberately," Sirica said.

Sirica withdrew the question, and the prosecutors decided to continue the hearings this week, starting with testimony from two former Secret Service agents, Lou Sims and Alfred Wong, Assistant Prosecutor J. Sirica said.

Bronnell said he learned that the acquisition of some other form of financing was worked out. Vivian Ferguson expressed the same concerns. After Weiss assured the directors the town is in sound-enough financial shape to absorb the $167,000 cost, she agreed, "We must take the plunge now."

Weiss said he too was told the option wouldn't be extended beyond Jan. 31. Insisting, "It wasn't a threat," he said the owners said they might have to look elsewhere for a buyer.

Both actions were by unanimous vote, as were all actions by the board Tuesday night.

Directors Robert Price and Hillary Gallagher were authorized to name the seven-member committee — from a list of eligibles already compiled.

Tape Tampering Spurs New Pressure For Impeachment

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A technical panel says it doesn't know who caused an 18-minute buzz on one of President Nixon's key Watergate tapes, but it does know the tape was erased by starting and stopping a tape recorder at least five and perhaps nine times.

The report immediately broadened the scope of possible extra Senate Watergate hearings and another impeachment pressure.

In a federal court hearing Tuesday, the experts were blocked by White House lawyers from answering Chief Judge John J. Sirica's question: "Was the 18-minute buzz caused by accident, or was it deliberately done?"

Vernon Parking Lot Provided For Commuter Bus

If and when the Public Utilities Commission (PUC) approves a commuter bus service for Vernon, the town will have a parking lot for those using the service.

The Board of Education Monday night gave its approval for the commuter's use of a portion of the north lot (use is being granted for the northeast lot); that traffic officials be provided initially, and that other parking arrangements be made before next September.

The PUC held a public hearing on the installation of the commuter service last Wednesday.

"I regret Tony's resignation," said Thompson. "He was always a valued member of our board, especially in the budget-making process. I think he served the community well and faithfully. I honestly wish to see him go. He'll be missed."

Utility Rates

When it comes to our electric and fuel bills, most of us just pay them and let them go at that. Trying to figure out the rate structure is beyond the mathematical capability of most of us and, even if we did know how to calculate it, most of us would rather accept the utility's word for it rather than try to re-compute it as we sometimes do with the cash register tape at the grocery store.

But, whether the consumer really cares or not, more and more criticism is being raised in the present rate structure's philosophy of rewarding the bigger volume users with a lower rate.

When energy was plentiful, and it was a utility's advantage to encourage more use, this was more or less accepted by everyone.

But times have changed. Energy is in short supply and everyone is being asked to use as little as possible. But such conservation is reaching a point of diminishing returns for the utilities which have certain fixed costs to meet in supplying power. The outlook is that the small consumer, who was paying a higher rate as a low-volume user, may soon be paying more for less. Should this come about the monetary savings of energy conservation will be gone.

On the other hand, if we are to assume that our energy demands must be trimmed to our energy-producing capabilities, there may be a valid argument for reversing the rate structure so that the more energy a customer uses, the more he will pay on a graduated scale.

Industry of course would bear the brunt of such an approach since it is, nationally, the largest category energy user and this in turn would be reflected in costs of what is produced.

On the other hand, however, since industrial use is so large, it would seem that this is the area in which significant energy conservation can be achieved. A graduated rate based on consumption, the more you use the more it would cost, might be an incentive to use it wisely.

We think the energy companies ought to give it serious consideration for it appears that the other side of the coin of using a low price to encourage consumption is a higher price to encourage conservation. We need to keep our utilities economically sound and we must conserve energy but the burden of doing so must be equitably applied to all users. If the energy companies would take the lead in this direction, they might avert having a much less satisfactory rate structure imposed upon them by those seeking political gain rather than a fair share for energy producers and consumers — large and small.

Let's Stick To Business

Soon the Congress will resume its deliberations after an extended — and often criticized — Christmas holiday. The new session will have many issues to resolve or attempt to resolve.

The session will be dictated to a large degree by political considerations since 1974 is an election year.

The problem facing the constituents, however, is keeping their eyes on the playing field without being diverted by political sideshows.

Watergate has not run its course and while it would appear that the matter might best be resolved in the courts, we will not escape the fact that there still is political mileage left which, at this point, will mean some form of continuation of the Special Senate Committee sideshow.

Energy will be another potential sideshow as the Congress, administration, and others still continue to debate the extent of the energy crisis, the plans to cope with it, and, with eyes on November, who is the major culprit.

Impachment of President Nixon is a delicate matter since such things always are. The House cannot act hastily nor can it escape the damaging implications of politics if it does not "put up or shut up" relatively soon.

We wonder more often as each day passes about whether the "country could survive" is as real as whether those who would initiate it will survive.

With these and possibly a few other issues dominating the Washington scene in the coming weeks, we must keep our eyes on the field that will affect us fundamentally but will not get the perpetual re-plays that so characterize the others.

There is the matter of campaign financing reform. Will it be concentrated on presidential campaign or will we see some concrete reforms affecting congressional campaigning in 1974?

There is the matter of $300 billion dollar plus budget which must be evaluated realistically.

There is the matter of inflation which is the cruellest tax of all.

And there is the matter of restoring confidence in government at all levels. This will not be achieved by negative actions but by bold and positive ones aimed at solving problems and inspiring new and lofty goals. Regardless of past mistakes made and regardless who is to blame, the tragedy of any mistake, Democrat or Republican, administrative or congressional, lies less in the mistake than our failure to learn and profit from it.

As Congress prepares to convene, let's dispense with the ghosts of the past and seek solutions for real issues before us.

And for the voters, we would hope 1974 will be a year in which our political leaders will be evaluated on what they have accomplished rather than what they have failed to do. If this can happen, then no crisis will be insurmountable.

A Little Recent History

WASHINGTON — Enough! One reaches at the smug I-told-you-so's of the Kennedy-McGovern liberal elite concerning Richard Nixon's troubles. One yearns for a competent and articulate advocate of national stature willing to raise his voice in the President's behalf.

Watergate? Okay. The White House enemies' list? Sure. As the boss, Richard Nixon can't escape responsibility for stupid and vicious antics by little boys playing the politics of espionage. But when came the conclusion that Nixon has been a complete failure as a President? John Kennedy and Lyndon Johnson should have been such flops.

Before they organize a lynching party, the Kennedy-McGovern vigilantes should be forced to read a little recent history. Perhaps they could start with a little-noticed statistic: There were no airline hijackings in the United States in 1973. A minor achievement!

Not so ruddy minor to people who have to do a lot of flying. More important, it was a victory over one aspect of the violent scene Nixon inherited from his two recent predecessors. With campuses relatively tranquil, it seems only fair to remember that when Nixon took office numerous students spent much of their time blowing up college libraries, seizing school buildings and assaulting campus speakers with whose views they disagreed.

Since January 1969, there has been no outrage to compare with the riots following the assassination of Martin Luther King when scores of cities were burned, 300 persons died and $1-billion in damage was wreaked.

Indeed, if it were not for Watergate and assorted injustices which the House of Representatives failed to pass the Sen. Ribicoff sponsored mandatory fuel allotment bill. In addition, we should in November 1974 recall the Sen. Jackson and Ribicoff bill that created the massive Federal Energy Administration which hopefully will aid us all through the energy crisis yet to come.

Let us all now note Sen. Ribicoff's foresight and action on our behalf and in November 1974 remember this public service giant and through our ballots return Senator Abe to our continued service.

Respectfully,
Robert D. Houley

Board of Education votes 6-1 to ban smoking at Manchester High School, board also rejects double sessions at Highland Park and Keene St. Schools.

Philip Harrison is chosen chairman of Chamber of Commerce Retail Division.

Hi Neighbor

Burl Lyons, Publisher

Congress will reconvene Monday but Rep. William Colter told us the other day that he doesn't expect a heavy legislative calendar and it seems a safe bet the House will spend much of its time toying with impeachment proceedings.

While Watergate is still an issue, and will be a big issue in forthcoming elections, many congressmen who visited with their constituents were told that the energy crisis and the high cost of living are primary concerns.

There is one change we would like to see in this session, though Congressman Colter told us that folks in his district are not letter writers compared to many other congressional districts. Perhaps that's because Colter has easy access to his district. But we think it is real healthy and makes a lot of sense for more people take the time to sit down and write their elected representatives.

If it isn't too late for New Year resolutions, that would be a good one for a great many folks.

Publication of the revised and enlarged White House Enemy List is likely to result in a new kind of snobbery. And so what if your ancestors came over on the Mayflower? If you aren't on the enemy list you're nobody.

A lot of people are probably regretful they didn't do more to make themselves obnoxious to the White House. Perhaps a national organization will even be formed of those on the enemy list, with state branches and an annual convention. If George Meany had a bigger back yard that would be an ideal place to hold the convention. Every one could greet each other by asking, "what have you done to him lately?"

If you aren't disliked today, you are really out of it.

The work of the Manchester Elks is noted in the current issue of the Elks national magazine. There is a photo of Darrell Hovey, Manchester Elks exalted ruler, receiving a Grand Lodge certificate from Andrew Winzler noting Hovey's work with the National Foundation, the joy of giving. Hovey also received the award last year, having served two years as foundation chairman.

A nationwide Purdue University study should be of interest to business and industry. The latest chapter of the study showed that 54 per cent of the high school pupils questioned agreed with the statement that most businesses are out to make as much profit as possible, no matter who gets hurt.

More than three-fourths of those polled endorsed a statement that business leaders are more interested in personal gain than in the welfare of the public. Some 7,000 pupils took part in the survey, based on a sample of 1,984 replies matched as closely as possible with the actual high school population.

The survey indicates clearly that business and industry aren't getting their story told in the classroom.

During our newspaper time in the West, we recall a high school teacher who devoted his entire class period one day to informing the students about the fantastic profits of a utility company. Since we were on the utility's board of directors, we found out about it, and asked the teacher for equal time to tell the other side of the story, the amount of taxes paid, etc. The teacher agreed. Nothing was changed but at least the students had both sides of the story. That's the mark of a good educator.

The cost of newspaper, the commodity upon which your newspaper is printed, continues to rise. The latest chapter revolves around one company informing us that it takes three barrels of oil for each ton of paper produced. The company says that within the past four months the average cost of oil delivered to the mills has increased from $4 to $12 per barrel.

That we can believe as many a Manchester homeowner is experiencing an increased price for heating oil these days, particularly if it is foreign oil.

Frequently, we are still getting letters to the editor which carry only the name of the writer and no address. Checking the telephone directory, as well as the town directory, isn't always the right answer either. Try to make certain that your letter also carries your address, if not the letter, at least the envelope.

A lot of Manchester and Bolton folks were shook up by the power outage of Friday, and understandably so, since many haven't fully recovered from the horrible experience of December.

At this point we could care less about Gov. Meskill's ski trip to Vermont which politicians are using to great advantage.

We made this point once, editorially, and would like to make it again here. We would like to see the town manager and Board of Directors sit down with Hartford Electric Light Co. officials and see what can be done to avert any future extended power outages.

Sure, the weather was to blame for our December Congress, and perhaps also the primary cause for Friday's disturbance. At the same time, though, a couple of out-of-state linemen said they doubted seriously if some of the lines they worked on would even stand the pressure of a mild wind storm.

Granted, we might not be able to do much about improving some of the power lines, or trimming trees, until spring. However, now is the time to get the plan of action established. Now is the time for our town officials to get the clear-cut picture from HELECO as to the condition of our electrical lines. Time is of the essence and if the Board of Directors needs any assistance we would be happy to lend our efforts.

It is also our understanding that the town manager is to get a detailed breakdown from HELECO of the number of crews working in each town during that December storm. Nearly a month has passed and we still don't have that information so that it can be released to the public.

A timely quotation with the finances of most families still reeling from Christmas:
Salesman: "You pay a small deposit, then you make more payments for six months."
Housewife: "Who told you about us?"

UAC REPORT
United Aircraft Corp. contributed nearly $1 billion to Connecticut's economy in 1973. Harry J. Gray, chairman and president of the corporation, said its expenditures averaged nearly $20 million a week for wages and salaries of Connecticut employees, state and local taxes, and purchases from suppliers and subcontractors in the state.

Wages and salaries paid employees at the corporation's state plants last year totaled about $775 million. Gray said the year, United Aircraft had about 65,000 employees, 53,000 of them in Connecticut.

Tax payments to the State of Connecticut and cities and towns within the state came to about $23 million in 1973. United Aircraft's purchases of goods and services from Connecticut suppliers amounted to more than $275 million, Gray said.

In addition, UAC contributed more than $1.1 million in corporate gifts to health, education, cultural, and social services in Connecticut during the year. Its donations went to hospitals, colleges and universities, social service organizations, United Way and Community Chest fund appeals, and urban development programs.

Bolton An Ice Storm Welcomed Him

DONNA HOLLAND Correspondent Tel. 646-0375
Jorge Gurgel Fernandes, exchange student from Brazil staying at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Elijah Roser, South Rd., arrived in Bolton the first day of the ice storm in December. Jorge said he had always dreamed since he was little of seeing a fire in the fireplace and snow. He thought the ice storm was frightening, but he thinks he would rather ski than ice skate. He is attending high school on a soccer scholarship and will be playing a championship soccer game when he returns to his hometown. He is enjoying Bolton and getting along very well with other students at the high school. He speaks and understands English quite well and his only problem with the language appears to be when using the telephone. Hopefully the Roser's daughter, Laurie, will attend school this summer in Central South America.

A meeting of the Tolland County Democratic Association is planned for tonight at 8 o'clock in the Andover Old Town Hall. Dave Barry, former State Senator from Manchester will speak.
The Regional School District 8 Insurance Agents Association re-elected Richard M. Grant as executive vice president at the annual meeting Tuesday at the Town Office Building.
Kenneth W. Ellis was re-elected president and Geraldine S. Grant secretary-treasurer.
A contribution of $50 to the American Legion and American Legion Auxiliary Boys and Girls State program was authorized by the association. The money, which constitutes a full scholarship, will be used to support either a boy or a girl, depending upon the need.

South Windsor Zone Change Bid Draws Opposition

The South Windsor Planning and Zoning Commission held a public hearing last night on two applications.
The first brought vigorous opposition from area residents. Elliot Elmore is seeking two zone changes. The first change is from Rural Residential (RR) to General Commercial (GC) on a 20-acre piece of land on the northwest corner of Ellington and Chapel Rds.
The second change is from RR to an A-20 as a 15-acre piece of property just east of the other site.
Elmore feels that the area already contains a mixture of residential and commercial sites and therefore his zone change would not substantially change the character of the area. Two houses, greenhouses, barns and a fruit stand currently stand on the property.
The opposition was explained in detail by William Burkhardt. He feels that spot zoning occurred for Elmore's land years ago and the zone change is not in keeping with the plan of development for the area.
A GC zone would permit gas stations, bowling alleys, bars and other commercial establishments. Such establishments are considered a threat by those residents now in the RR zone.
Residents also fear that the A-20 zone will bring an open space subdivision.
The second application was a request by Lovard, Inc. for an amendment to the Zoning Regulations of the Town. The amendment would provide an addition to the uses allowed in an industrial zone. It would allow a restaurant of not less than 4,500 square feet of dining area to operate and sell alcohol beverages on the premises.
This amendment of course, applies to strictly eat-in type restaurants as opposed to drive-ins.
Patricia Williams, regional planner for the Capitol Region Council of Governments, finds no objection to this amendment since it does not conflict with the regulations of surrounding towns.

Bolton Permits Needed For Generators

DONNA HOLLAND Correspondent Tel. 646-0375
All residents are advised that a permit is needed before a generator can be hooked up. Permits can be obtained from Calvin Hutchinson, building inspector. Hutchinson noted the importance of properly hooking up generators including the use of a double throw switch.
Anyone running a generator after a power outage not having the double throw switch could cause serious damage to the generator and to himself.
Hutchinson strongly urges anyone hooking up a generator to consult with an electrician. In any event, Hutchinson said, a permit is mandatory.

Bolton Increase Sought In ADM Grant

Teachers Attend Seminars
DONNA HOLLAND Correspondent Tel. 646-0375
At the November Board of Education meeting it was reported that it appeared there would be an ADM grant increase from the present $215 per student to $300 per student. Such an increase would have resulted in an additional $80,000 for Bolton.
Latest information, however, gives good indication that about the best that can be expected for the 1974-75 school year will be $230 per student.
Marilyn Breslow, board member, suggests that all residents make the government and legislators aware of the fact that the surplus in the state is needed in Bolton.
Andrew Manneggia, board chairman, said that the increase in the 1974-75 school budget just to maintain the present school programs will be staggering.
Board members will be contacting various school, political and social group advising them to contact their representatives.
Raymond Allen, superintendent, said it is important that every effort be expended to communicate with legislators the serious need for a sizable increase in ADM grants for the next school year. He suggested board members develop a strategy for getting the message to the state legislators.
ADM stands for average daily membership whereby school attendance is taken Oct. 1 and May 1 of each school year, divided by two, resulting in the number of students that the amount of the state grant is determined by.

Rham School Board Starts Middle School Plan

ANNE EMT
Correspondent
Tel. 228-3971

From a recommendation from Frank Shannon, chairman of the educational needs committee, the Regional District 8 Board of Education last week created six subcommittees to work on preliminary planning for the proposed middle school.

The committees include architect, site, building planning and programming, public relations, finance, and building and construction.

Serving on the committees are the following board members: Shannon, Mrs. Imodale Richards, Mrs. Katherine Simon and Ronald Haver, architect; Richard Harrison, Everett Graham and Haver, site; Mrs. Chris Dreyer, Harrison, Ralph Thompson, Victor Schoen and Mrs. Sibon, building planning and programming.

Also, Mrs. Richards will serve as chairman of the public relations subcommittee with assistance from members of the other committees; board treasurer Graham will head up the finance committee; Graham will also serve as chairman of the building and construction group with Shannon and Schoen assisting.

In addition to the board members on each committee, there will be several residents from the three district towns of Hebron, Andover and Marlborough.

The first and most important committee to start work will be the architect committee, which must begin immediately to screen architects.

This committee will work closely with Dr. Herbert Sheathelm of the University of Connecticut, who has been hired by the board to assist in this task. It is hoped that this committee will be able to bring some recommendations to the board by March 1.

The Rham Music Boosters will meet Wednesday night at 8 in the Rham High School cafeteria. All members are urged to attend this meeting.

State Surplus Battleground In Fiscal Tug-Of-War

By HOWARD BRESCHER
HARTFORD (UPI) — When times are hard, the governor can order his lieutenants in state government to hold down the lid on spending and keep the budget out of the red.

But when there is plenty of money—such as the $70 million surplus Gov. Thomas J. Meskill has been accumulating—it is another question.

The chairman of the legislature's Appropriations Committee, which draws up the state's spending plans, are concerned about the infringement of the legislature's traditional spending powers by the executive.

Sen. Meskill took office in 1971, he has directed state agency chiefs through Adolf G. Carlson, commissioner of finance and control, to spend less money than set down by the lawmakers.

When Dr. Warren G. Hill, chancellor for the higher education system, showed the Appropriations Committee a spending request for $45 million Tuesday he was asked if the money would all be used.

Higher education officials have been asked to reduce spending 3 per cent less below what was appropriated for the current fiscal year, in order, Carlson said, to be sure that revenues would be as high as anticipated.

At the close of the last fiscal year, June 30, the budget was $70 million in surplus. The surplus is automatically applied to spending in fiscal 1974, which will be the subject of the coming legislative session.

Sen. Nicholas A. Lenge, R-West Hartford, asked Hill why higher education officials had complied with Carlson's request for a spending cut.

A number of legislators, Republican and Democratic, have criticized the Meskill austerity policy as possibly illegal when the budget is in surplus, and an infringement on the legislature's constitutional authority to set spending.

When a deficit is in sight, however, the governor has the power to compel belt tightening.

Hill told Lenge that he protested the higher education cut in a letter to Carlson, but went along because he was told, indirectly, that later in the fiscal year, which began July 1, he would receive all the appropriated money.

Spending it all, he expects to spend all but a small fraction of the appropriated funds, and that higher education will need—and spend—all the money it gets for next year.

Lenge told UPI that he and co-chairman Rep. Richard A. Dice, R-Cheshire, are trying to determine how the energy heads interpret Carlson's annual requests for spending cuts.

"We want to determine what effect these requests—or directives, if that is how they are interpreted—have had on allotments and also whether the agency heads are fully informed as to what they are doing," Lenge said.

When there is a budget surplus, the agencies are not legally required to comply with Carlson's cutback requests.

Lenge said depending on what information comes from other agencies as to how they interpret the requests to cut spending, there may be recommendations to change or clarify the law.

UConn Increase
Hill said his $145 million request is $21 million higher than authorized by the legislature for the current year.

The request covers spending for the University of Connecticut, technical colleges, state colleges and regional community colleges.

Till told the 19 committee members present that the increase includes $8.6 million to maintain current activities, $10 million to improve service and $12 million for new programs and services.

Hill told legislators that one of the largest items requested is for salary adjustments, which are currently being studied by the Commission on Higher Education.

Hike Pay
UConn must offer high salaries in order to compete in the "international market" for top-quality faculty and staff people, many of whom are attracted to Yale University for the prestige, Hill said.

Hill also said $45 million would have to be spent in order to meet the commission goal of achieving a level of support equal to that of the upper bracket of comparable institutions within five years.

That goal would put Connecticut technical schools, colleges and the university well above the average level of support for similar institutions in other states.

Skylab 3 Crew Has Heat Problem

HARTFORD (UPI) — Ground officials told the Skylab 3 astronauts they could postpone today's medical tests if it gets too hot inside their orbiting spacecraft.

Because of the angle of the earth in relation to the sun, the Skylab space ship spent 74 consecutive hours in sunlight during Tuesday's 82nd day of the mission, crewmen Gerald P. Carr, Edward G. Gibson and William R. Pogue worked in temperatures that crept into the 80s.

Flight planners decided against a series of rolling maneuvers today because they said it would only expose the ship to even more sunlight.

Instead, a series of medical tests were scheduled but flight director Charles Lewis said even those could be postponed if the temperature climbs too high.

Lewis predicted temperatures in the spacecraft will climb to 85 or 87 degrees by Friday and then would begin to drop because the three-against-a-series-of-rolling-maneuvers today because they said it would only expose the ship to even more sunlight.

Normal temperature in Skylab is the low 70s.

Skylab orbits the Earth once every 99 minutes. Part of this time is usually spent in the shadow of the earth keeping the station's temperatures down.

New Haven Receives Big Grant

NEW HAVEN (UPI) — Mayor Bartholomew Guida said Tuesday the New Haven Model Cities program is receiving a supplemental grant of $48,000.

Guida said the funding is being made available by the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development to communities where the Model Cities antipoverty program has proven effective.

Model Cities Director J. Vernon Moore said in addition to housing projects which may use the funding are the Robert Wolfe Senior Center, the Davenport Library Project, and a number of key educational programs.

Moore said federal guidelines would allow expenditure of supplemental funds past the end of the current fiscal year.

Storm Losses Deductible

HARTFORD (UPI) — The Connecticut Society of Certified Public Accountants says state residents may deduct some property loss suffered in the pre-Christmas ice storm from their income tax returns.

The society said Tuesday disaster victims must be able to prove a casualty occurred and it lessened the value of their property. They must also prove the amount of the loss.

To prove one's property was damaged, before-and-after photographs are helpful as well as public records of police and fire alarms and news clippings mentioning the effects of the storm on one's neighborhood.

To prove the amount of losses, the society advises retaining competent appraisers with specialized knowledge of the types of property affected.

Job Opportunities Lacking For Young, Disadvantaged Workers

BRIDGEPORT (UPI) - In the scramble for jobs in the '70s, the young and disadvantaged are likely to come out of the pack empty-handed a two-year manpower study revealed today.

Herbert Harris, executive director of the Connecticut Manpower Executive Association, which conducted the study, said the plight of the jobless and the working poor will be bleak for the foreseeable future.

In a study of all 17 labor market areas in the state, the association found there will be 380,000 more young men and women seeking work than there will be jobs available during the 1970-80 decade.

Catholic Women Cite Council Objectives

John Bossidy, permanent deacon at the Church of the Assumption, will be guest speaker at the Manchester Council of Catholic Women meeting Thursday at 8 p.m. at St. Bartholomew's School. His topic: "The Diaconia - Service in the World."

The council is conducting a membership drive this month to enroll all Manchester Catholic women.

According to the study, the rate of job increases in Connecticut will vary drastically among the state's 17 labor market areas, with Danbury, Middletown and Norwalk registered the fastest job growths.

BOOK REVIEWS

Give Us This Day, by R.F. Deiderfeld. (Simon and Schuster, $8.95) Deiderfeld's death is a tragedy. This posthumously published third installment in the Swann saga the last. It takes Adam and Henrietta and their overbearing family from the start of World War I and it's a must for Deiderfeld fans with his slow-paced charm.

Ellen Swallow: The Woman Who Founded Ecology, by Robert Clarke. (Follett, $7.95) Those who trace the ecology movement back to Rachel Carson should read Miss Swallow, the first woman to be admitted to MIT, who a hundred years ago fought for protection of the environment and called her work "ecology."

Unreal Estate, by Anthony Wolff. (Sierra Club, $7.95) The land peddler is out in force, armed with twin weapons of press agency and promise, and individuals with a few spare dollars to invest had better watch out.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

Will wheat germ help?

My question is of what nutritional value is wheat germ and how much to use? A friend has told me she simply adds about a tablespoonful to her morning dish of cereal. She has used this much for several years and believes it to be the answer to her disappearance of certain conditions. I remember she mentioned a brown spot disappearing from her skin. I began using it the same way about a month ago as her list of conditions sounded relevant to my own experiences.

DEAR DR. LAMB - Many people are concerned about the germ part of the wheat seed that sprouts the plant. Most of the rest of the seed is stored starch to feed the sprouting plant.

Woman's View

By GAY PAULLEN, UPI Women's Editor NEW YORK (UPI) - Carolyn Fuller, considered a childhood passion for drawing and an adult one for travel into a two-part career satisfying both desires.

Miss Fuller's works, mostly oils, will be exhibited at the prestigious Avanti Galleries on New York's upper East Side.

Asked about this, Miss Fuller said, "I think it's an alright campaign - the concept of trying to personalize a business - you can see I'm trying to sidestep your question."

Most of her flights are along the Eastern Seaboard from Miami to Providence, R.I., with intermediate stops including New York. Occasionally she works the routes into the Southwest, the West Coast, or Miami-London.

The artist, born in Kansas City, Mo., said she used to draw to take out her frustration in a family where children didn't talk back to their elders even with provocation.

Birds In Winter

Mrs. Shaw's kindergarten class at Washington School decided that they wanted to do something to make life a bit more pleasant for the birds this winter. They set about making a variety of simple feeders and then looked for an appropriate place to hang them. They chose a flowering crab apple tree at the southeast corner of the museum building. This particular tree was a good choice because it is next to a hemlock which evergreen bushes provide excellent cover and protection for the birds during the cold winter months. In addition, the museum staff has been maintaining two feeders there since the fall and the birds have become accustomed to feeding there. Once feeding is started, it should be continued at least through March when the food supply is scarcest. Birds of the creatures of habit, covering regular routes looking for food and will be used to stopping at particular feeders. The kinds of birds that you attract to your feeders depend upon the kinds of food you put out. To attract ground feeding birds such as juncos, sparrows and mourning doves, you should keep a spot that is protected from the wind free from snow. Scatter a wild bird seed mixture containing millet three regularly. Windowsill or hanging feeders filled with sunflower seed will draw a variety of birds including chickadees, nuthatches, finches, tufted titmice, evening grosbeaks, bluejays and cardinals. Thistle seed is especially attractive to several types of finches. Suet and/or peanut butter will be enjoyed by such insect eating species as woodpeckers, nuthatches and creepers. In addition to these foods, you may want to try donuts, canned dog food, cheese, stale bread and other kitchen scraps. There are a variety of simple feeders, like the ones made by Mrs. Shaw's class, which will hold the foods mentioned above and that can easily be made at home. One of these is a birch log feeder. Drill one inch holes in several places along a 12-to-18-inch birch log. Then fill the holes with a seed and peanut butter mixture or suet; screw a hook in one end of the long and hang. Half a coconut or grapefruit filled with "chickadee pudding" makes an excellent feeder. The recipe for the pudding is as follows:

1 1/2 cups melted fat
2 lbs. peanut butter
1/2 cup cornmeal or oatmeal
1/2 cup flour
1/4 cup wild bird seed
1/2 cup bread crumbs
Mix together fat and peanut butter. Add rest of ingredients. Pour into containers and let harden. Hang outdoors. Mesh bags that onions and other produce come in can be filled with suet and hung outdoors also. Empty, washed-out feeders can be used as well. Simply cut out a very large triangular section from the bottom of the bottle. Punch two holes in the cap of the bottle and thread a piece of wire through. Fill the bottle with seed up to the triangular opening. Pine cones dipped in melted suet and rolled in seeds is another easy feeder to make. These are only a few of the many different types of feeders that can be made. If you have any questions about feeders, the museum staff is happy to help you in anyway we can.

The museum, which is now featuring two new exhibits on engines and washing machines, is open Tuesday through Sunday, free of charge, from 2 to 5 p.m.

Another Way Eyed To Get Storm Aid

By DOUG BEVINS

If President Nixon doesn't declare Connecticut a disaster area because of the December ice-storm crisis, the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce will seek federal aid for local businesses another way.

Chamber President Richard G. Clark said the other way would be through Congressman William Cotter, D-First District, who has agreed to assist the Chamber.

Clark reported today that he is completing compilation of financial losses suffered by Manchester businessmen in the Dec. 17 to 22 storm crisis, in which most of the town was without power for up to six days.

Figures received so far, from 74 businesses, show $11,382 in tangible losses and $79,756 in economic injury. Tangible losses include losses in property, physical damage, and merchandise. Economic injury means the loss in business production or potential sales.

Clark said several of Manchester's larger stores, including chain department and food stores, haven't yet reported their losses, and those they could substantially increase the amounts reported so far.

Compilation of the loss figures is being done by the Chamber for the federal Small Business Administration, which could make low-cost loans available to businessmen if Connecticut is declared a disaster area by Nixon.

CofC Changes Top Titles

The Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce has changed the titles of its two top officials to make for greater informative, and creditable responses to the public.

The position of executive vice president, held by Richard G. Clark, was changed to president. The title of president, now held by hospital administrator Edward M. Kenney, was renamed chairman of the board.

The title changes were approved by a majority of the Chamber's membership.

Kenney said the changes were prompted by past situations in which it was unclear that the executive vice president was the principal staff spokesman. In the past, the elected president wasn't always readily available because of other commitments.

The change in titles of the Manchester Chamber is a trend among other chambers of commerce throughout the country, Kenney said.

Clark was hired as the Chamber's chief executive officer in December 1972. Kenney has served as the chief elected officer since last year.

IRS Receiving Gas Complaints

Connecticut motorists who think they've been overcharged at gasoline service stations should contact the Hartford district office of the Internal Revenue Service, district director Joseph Conley Jr. says.

The telephone number for the IRS in Hartford is 244-3345.

Conley says each complaint received will be investigated by one of 25 IRS agents who are constantly on the road checking federal price violations. He said complainants don't have to identify themselves.

Business Expenses: Adjust, Don't Deduct

By RAY DE CRANE

Anyone employed as an "outside salesman" occupies a unique position entitling him to preferential treatment under income tax laws.

An outside salesman - one whose principal function is soliciting business away from his employer's place of business - may claim all his ordinary and necessary business expenses as an adjustment to income. This still gives him the option of claiming a 15 per cent standard deduction against his adjusted gross income or itemizing his remaining deductions.

An employee who is not an outside salesman may claim as an adjustment to income only his transportation lodging and meal expenses. The remaining expenses such as entertainment, gifts to customers and splitting of commissions may be claimed only when deductions are itemized. If the standard deduction is claimed, these remaining expenses are lost.

Since they are included in his allowable 15 per cent deduction, up to the $2,000 limit. The outside salesman's adjustments can include all automobile and other travel expenses, entertainment, telephone and telegraph charges, hotel rooms and meals while away from home, laundry, dry cleaning and reasonable tips. With the exception of meals, he can deduct all such expenses even if he is not away from home overnight.

In claiming automobile expenses any employee has the option of using either one of two methods. In one case, total all operating expenses including depreciation, cost of gas and oil, insurance, parking, tires, license tags, etc. and from this total apply the percentage which represents the portion of your business driving related to your total mileage. The second method permits you to deduct 12 cents a mile for the first 15,000 business miles and nine cents a mile thereafter.

New Time - New Problems

The switch to Daylight Saving Time may be a mixed blessing. It's a pleasure to come home and still enjoy a few minutes of daylight before supper. However, when morning rolls around, it's a shock to your senses because instead of seeing "the dawn's early light," we encounter total darkness.

An unfortunate side-effect of the time change is that, in the early morning when you should be waking up, you really feel like falling asleep again.

Early morning darkness, as you know by the rash of recent accidents, can pose a serious safety hazard. Now, driving home is more dangerous than driving home at night, because of the morning darkness. It's time to switch soled your night driving techniques to the seven o'clock ride to work.

When it's dark outside your eye to take extra precautions. Make sure your headlights and taillights are operating properly. Facing oncoming headlights early in the morning can put an unaccustomed strain on you.

Don't use your high beams unless you really need them. Switch to low beams when you are following another car or when you are facing an oncoming vehicle. Use your parking lights instead of headlights at dawn is unsafe.

If you have trouble waking up in the dark and get a late start from your house, drive carefully. Corners and curves can be deadly in the night, especially when you are driving too fast. Obey all the traffic signs. It's better to get to work a little late than not to get there at all.

Winter driving techniques are required, too. The snow, ice and sleet rain present additional winter hazards that contribute to the problems of driving in early morning darkness. Adjust your speed to existing weather conditions.

Walking is just as dangerous as driving in the early morning darkness of January. Drivers must be particularly careful in the morning, because children are walking to school and adults may be walking to nearby bus stops. Be especially cautious when approaching or passing school buses.

Pedestrians should take precautions, too. Walk on the sidewalk, if one is available. If you have to walk on the pavement, stay as close to the edge of the road as you can and walk facing oncoming traffic. In the dark, wear some light or white clothing so that drivers can see you. If possible use a reflector type of red triangle on your outer clothing.

Avoid early morning accidents and enjoy the longer daylight hours by following these simple safety precautions. Let's continue to make Manchester a safe place in which to live!

Scientist Sees Energy Potential In Microwaves

MILWAUKEE, Wis. (UPI)—If people are really concerned about conserving energy, a professor of electrical engineering says, they should examine more closely the potential uses of microwaves.

Dr. Thomas K. Ishii, of Marquette University, said the extremely short radio waves can be used to dry clothes just as they are used to cook food. They can also be used to transmit raw power without wire as well as a person's voice.

Ishii said in an interview that man could also use microwaves to melt snow on his sidewalks or heat water in his home.

Microwaves, with wavelengths between infrared radiation and television radio waves, were first noticed in the 1920s, when radio operators began searching for more frequencies, Ishii said. He said the age of microwaves opened in 1927 with the development of a good magnetron, a vacuum tube which generates microwaves.

Today, Ishii and others are working on a system which would transmit power from one point to another without wire.

He proposed orbiting solar power stations in 1967, the year he was involved in the development of a microwave driven motor.

Ishii said power generating satellites could be launched today but their electricity would cost three to 10 times as much as current power from plants on earth. The biggest problem is converting microwaves into electricity and Ishii is trying to build a microwave motor big enough to drive a generator.

"This is just one possibility," he said. Microwaves could be used to heat water to drive a steam turbine but panels of solar cells would be needed to produce six square miles to produce enough energy to generate one million watts.

"We just actually scratched the surface," Ishii said. "There are lots of innovations and improvements that have to be done."

His microwave motor looks like a simple coil of wire. It is driven by the interaction between microwave current and a microwave magnetic field.

Temporary Commissary To Open Thursday

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI) — A temporary "bread and milk" facility will be opened Thursday morning at the New- port Naval Base to sell necessities previously available at the commissary which was destroyed by fire Sunday, base officials said.

"The store will be open until next Monday when it is expected that an interim commissary featuring at least full grocery lines can be put into operation," a spokesman said. "The tentative site is building 63, a former Naval supply center warehouse just inside Gate 12."

The temporary store will be located adjacent to the burned out commissary, operating at the same hours. In addition to bread and milk, the facility will sell whatever items can be fitted into the building's limited space, the spokesman said.

The commissary building was leveled in a three-alarm fire less than 12 hours after it was re-stocked with more than $50,000 worth of food. An investigation into the blaze continues.

Meeting Dates Filed

Plans Bill To Limit Governor's Powers

HARTFORD (UPI) — Rep. Irving J. Stolberg, D-New Haven, said he plans to introduce legislation that will cut the governor's power to reduce state spending as set by the legislature.

"I'd like to try to reduce the executive power to cut spending without good cause," Stolberg said Tuesday after a meeting of the legislative Appropriations Committee, on which Stolberg sits.

He said Finance and Control Commissioner Adolf G. Carlson is "heavy handed" in his annual requests for state agencies to reduce spending from 3 to 6 per cent below levels set by the legislature.

Stolberg said that a minimum goal would be to remove any power from the governor to control spending for strictly legislative and judicial functions.

Historical Unit To Meet Sunday
Sunday's program of the Manchester Historical Society will be a show-and-tell display by some of the membership of their avocations, hobbies, and collections.

The meeting will be held at Illing Junior High School at 2 p.m. It is open to the public.

Wells Dennison, program chairman, said that more than a dozen members will participate and speak briefly on their exhibits.

Some pieces to be displayed will be fireplace cooking equipment; pottery; Mt. Washington glass; jewelry, including brooches; tinware; cast iron toys; lamps, including those that burned whale oil; railroad lanterns and lamps; postmarks and other postal historical items; handmade textiles; World War I memorabilia; and china.

Exhibitors will answer questions from the audience and will be available at their displays afterward.

The meeting of St. Mary's Episcopal Guild scheduled for Thursday morning has been postponed until Jan. 24.

The Marine Corps League will meet tonight at 8 at the Marine Home.

The French Club of Manchester will sponsor a public card party Monday at 8 p.m. at the Orange Hall.

There will be a Communion Vesper Service tonight at 7:30 at Zion Evangelical Lutheran Church.

Little Police Can Do To Ease Energy Crisis

Aside from turning off several lights and cutting back on heating, there isn't much the Manchester Police Department can do to save energy.

A big savings could probably result if patrol-car use was reduced, but such a step isn't being considered seriously because it might jeopardize the department's responsibility to protect the town.

Actually, the police cruisers used in Manchester aren't the monster gasoline-guzzlers that many people think. The police cars are mid-size V-8s, modified with special heavy-duty equipment.

Realtors Install

Herman M. Frechette of the Manchester real estate firm of Frechette and Martin has been installed president of the Manchester Board of Realtors and Manchester Multiple Listing Service, succeeding Joseph A. Gustin, president of the Connecticut Association of Realtors, brought greetings from the state organization, Ralph Lipman, retiring state regional vice president, conducted the installation ceremony.

Lipman also installed members of the Manchester association's professional standards committee. They are: Hohenhalt, Marfocand Alfred P. Werber.

Miss Grant, conducting the annual ceremony of transfer and presentations, gave the new president, Frechette, the board's charter, presentation gavel, and president's pin.

Frechette then gave a past president's pin to Miss Grant, who accepted it for Dimock, who was ill.

Meyer, chairman of the board's education committee, cited several board members for completion of last year's educational course conducted jointly by the Manchester and Greater Vernon Boards of Realtors.

A plaque of appreciation from the Savings Bank of Manchester was awarded by William R. Johnson, the bank's executive vice president, to Dimock. It was accepted for Dimock by William E. Belfiore.

Belfiore, who was board president in 1962, gave the invocation and served as master of ceremonies for the installation event.

The California Public Health Department says California has 66 artificial kidney centers and 16 transplant centers. Only New York has comparable facilities.

Three maternity leaves of absence were granted to Mrs. Harriet Hathaway, a social studies teacher at Hing Junior High School; Mrs. Nancy E. Wilk, a second grade teacher at Verplanck School; and Mrs. Carol Tracy, a fifth grade teacher at the Keene School.

Mrs. Gladys Jones, a first grade teacher at Buckland School, has been granted a leave of absence from September 1974 to Jan. 31, 1975, without pay, at which time she will be eligible for retirement benefits. Mrs. Jones has been with the Manchester school system for 14 years.

"Do-it-yourself television tube testing and home repairs may be money-saving, but they are also hazardous. Testing of tubes is not a simple operation and could be very dangerous. Color television sets emit dangerous x-rays and certain circuits are shielded to protect the viewer. Improper tube replacement or failure to replace certain shields in the high voltage section could result in dangerous x-radiation to persons viewing the TV set after repairs.

Questions on repairs, service and purchasing of TV, radio, and stereo sets should be referred to the Board of TV Service Examiners, 340 Capitol Ave., Hartford, (Tel. No. 566-5547).

Since some sets retain an electrical charge, be sure the electrical current has been disconnected for several hours before removing the back of the set. A severe shock could result.

Unlicensed Weapon Law Struck Down

HARTFORD (UPI) — The state Supreme Court has struck down a statute making the mere presence of an unlicensed weapon in a vehicle evidence of a crime by the vehicle's owner, driver and occupants.

The state's highest court said the statute "constitutes a denial of due process of law as protected in the Fourteenth amendment and is therefore invalid."

In the same decision, the justice ruled that defendants do not have the right to counsel during out-of-court identification sessions when photographs are used.

The case was an appeal by four men convicted of robbery with violence, tying up the victim to rob him with intent to rob and possession of an unlicensed weapon in a motor vehicle.

Schlesinger Probing Spy Charge

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Defense Secretary James R. Schlesinger is investigating reports that the Joint Chiefs of Staff spied on Henry A. Kissinger and the National Security Council, a Pentagon spokesman said Tuesday.

The spokesman, Jerry W. Friedheim, said Schlesinger was "making some questions about it, trying to appraise himself of the facts. I don't think he's drawn any conclusions."

Reports have circulated that information from Kissinger's office when he headed the National Security Council was fed to the Pentagon and to columnist Jack Anderson in 1971 and 1972.

The New York Times reported Monday that according to a White House report the secret documents ended up in the office of Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Friedheim said Tuesday that Schlesinger had talked to Moorer.

"The secretary at this point has seen nothing that would impair his confidence in the professional qualities of Adm. Moorer," Friedheim said.

Friedheim noted three times under reporters' questioning that Moorer was reappointed to a second two-year term after the spying allegations reported surfaced at the White House.

He also noted that the incidents happened long before Schlesinger became defense secretary last summer.

There was no Pentagon comment on questions dealing with a Navy yeoman who has been mentioned as the possible leak to Anderson.

Between 1962 and 1972, the prices for all consumer items rose 58 per cent. But retail food prices increased only 47 per cent while housing went up 64 per cent. The cost of medical care zoomed 123 per cent during the 10-year period.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

"Tainted" Car

Suppose you lend your car to a friend, who uses it to carry narcotics. If he is caught, could your car be confiscated—even though you were unaware of your friend's illicit intentions?

State laws on narcotics often do say exactly that. The car itself is considered tainted by its misuse, and is therefore subject to seizure.

From time to time, a lawless car owner will put up a fight in court. He will argue that he should not be penalized for someone else's transgression.

But most courts have upheld the confiscation of the car. Two reasons are commonly given:

- 1) that this will teach car owners to be more careful about lending their cars to untowardly friends; and,
- 2) that in fighting the drug problem, the state should not have the difficult task of proving the car owner's complicity.

As one judge put it: "The traffic in narcotics is so great an evil as to justify the drastic penalty of confiscation. The public interest outweighs the loss suffered by the innocent car owner."

Usually, however, an automobile can be confiscated only if it was "caught in the act." Thus, your car could not be taken away merely because the authorities find that someone had used it unlawfully the day before yesterday.

Furthermore, you are in a stronger position if the car was not just borrowed but was taken without your consent.

In one case, a youth was caught carrying narcotics in his mother's car. But when authorities tried to seize the car, the mother pointed out that her son had taken it against her express orders.

Under these circumstances, the court felt confiscation was simply too drastic. The court said that would be "an arbitrary invasion of (the mother's) property rights protected by both the state and federal Constitutions."

Quirks In The News

And There He Was!
COLOGNE, Germany (UPI) — "He is here! He is here!" the parrot croaked in the kitchen when police, acting on a tip, broke into the home of a fugitive from a prison.

Police said they found the jailbreaker in the living room hiding behind the curtains.

Invitation Issued
PASADENA, Calif. (UPI) — One of the prospective applicants for the next fireman's class knows what he's getting into. He did well enough as an amateur to receive an invitation to turn pro.

Andy Martinez, 22, noticed smoke and flames billowing from an upstairs apartment Monday. He climbed a tree, leaped to the roof of an adjoining building, jumped onto a balcony of the burning apartment and broke through the door.

When he was satisfied there was no one trapped inside, he had a neighbor throw him a garden hose and fought the flames until firemen arrived.

Fire Chief D. B. Holmes, impressed, said "How would you like to be a fire fighter?" "Sure, I'd like that," Martinez replied.

The chief told him he could sign up Feb. 2 for the next class.

Suspicious Raised
LONDON (UPI) — A hotel has mailed apologies to thousands of British men for any embarrassment caused by a circular letter announcing the reopening of its restaurant.

A spokesman for the Carlton Tower hotel said the letter ended with "I look forward very much to greeting you again." This raised suspicions of many wives about their husbands, he said.

He said the mailing list was selected by an agency and did not necessarily include previous clients.

Many Gas Stations Shut Doors

United Press International
More than 4,300 service stations have closed across the United States since the start of the energy crisis, according to industry estimates.

A nationwide spot check by United Press International Tuesday showed that the gasoline station closings were not confined to any one area of the country.

The American Petroleum Institute (API) in Washington, D.C., said no one really knows how many gas stations have been forced out of business because of the fuel shortage, but he said the rate of station closings shot up 90 per cent nationwide during the first six months of 1973. At the same time, the number of new stations opening up dropped by 30 per cent between 1972 and 1973.

The API said 3,710 gas stations closed between January and June of 1973, compared to 1,953 during the first six months of 1972. Figures for new stations opening up showed that during the first half of 1973, there were 755 new stations, but during the first half of last year, there were only 491.

The hardest hit areas appeared to be Los Angeles and Chicago.

Landberg Survey, Inc., of North Hollywood, Calif., reported 1,074 gasoline stations in Los Angeles County have closed because of the fuel shortage. In Chicago, Robert Jacobs of the Illinois Gasoline Dealers Association reported more than 500 filling stations in the metropolitan area have been forced to close since the energy crunch.

Georgia industry officials also reported a severe impact. According to Jack Houston of the state's Association of Petroleum Retailers Inc., about 1,000 filling stations, or 20 per cent, have closed since the shortage.

Social Security

Q. I worked until the end of June 1973 and earned $4,200. I have not worked since. Am I required to file an annual report with the Social Security office when I get these earnings from my employer?

A. Yes. Anyone receiving Social Security benefits and under the age of 72 who earns in excess of $2,100 in 1973 is required to file an annual report regardless of the month they retire.

Q. My wife is 66 and a high school teacher. Last summer when she wasn't teaching she got monthly Social Security checks. We'll report her total wages on our income tax return. My wife thinks that's all she has to do. Is she right?

A. No. She must also file an annual report of her earnings with the Social Security Administration by April 15, 1974. This report is entirely different from an income tax return.

Q. I started getting monthly Social Security checks as a student last summer when my mother died. Since I've had some part-time jobs this year, can you tell me when a person getting Social Security benefits has to report his earnings?

A. If you received at least one Social Security check and your earnings were over $2,100 in 1973, you must file an annual report of your earnings to Social Security by April 15, 1974.

Q. When I graduated from school last May, my Social Security checks stopped. I didn't work while I was in school, but I got a job right after graduation, and I earned $3,600 from June through December last year. Do I have to file an annual report of these 1973 earnings with Social Security?

A. Yes. Even though you didn't start work until June, you should report your earnings to Social Security because you received checks during the first five months of 1973. Since you didn't earn over $175 a month from January through May, you are entitled to your checks for these months even though you earned $3,600 for the year.

Q. I took a part-time job after I retired last year. In 1971 I earned about $2,300. Will I have to file an annual report next year because I am still working?

A. No. Unless your earnings exceed $2,400 in 1974 you do not have to file an annual report. Have a question about Social Security and its retirement, survivors, disability or Medicare benefits? Write to Questions & Answers, Social Security Office, 657 Main St., East Hartford, Conn. 06108.

Dooley Wants PUC Rule On Data During Blackouts

Democratic State Representative Thomas Dooley of Vernon has called upon the Public Utilities Commission to establish comprehensive regulations to "assure all Connecticut customers frequent and accurate information as to the progress of power restoration during emergency periods."

Referring to the recent power outage caused by the December ice storm, Rep. Dooley said many people remained in their unheated homes and suffered bitter cold conditions in the belief the power restoration was imminent.

He said many declined offers to move in with friends or delayed going with their families to public facilities because there was a feeling, "frequently supported by rumors of power crews being on their way," that heat and lights were about to be returned.

"Had these customers been supplied with the facts—that their electricity was, in some cases, days away, they could have vacated their chilled and unhealthy quarters and taken advantage of other accommodations," Dooley said.

"During such a crisis, knowledge of what is happening is second in importance only to actual restoration of the power. To many of my constituents, it would have made a great deal of difference and could have spared many adults and children a nightmarish experience," Dooley said.

He said he would urge a adoption of a regulation whereby, upon the declaration of a "primary" power failure that the utilities involved inform the first selectman or the mayor of the town affected, on at least a daily basis, of the specific area-by-area restoration plans.

"This information could then be disseminated to the customers without power," Dooley added. He explained that such a procedure would require the utilities to establish, in concert with town governments, a communications plan and network and it also necessitates the assignment of both power company and town personnel to the plan to assure its effectiveness.

Dooley said that the orderly distribution of this vital information, and what it could mean to the Connecticut family in times such as experienced recently, is clearly worth the time, effort and reasonable cost which would be required.

Noting that the state statutes currently provide for the PUC to regulate power company operation in the public interest, Dooley said he sincerely believes that is the procedural route that should be taken.

As a last resort he said he is prepared to introduce support legislation to attain this end. "While this would not provide the desirable flexibility, it is preferable to the current situation which leaves our citizens in the dark both literally and figuratively," the Vernon legislator said.

McCoy To Advise On Transit Group

A scholarship fund has been established in memory of C. Arthur Mattson, principal of the Lake Street School in Vernon.

Mattson and his wife died last month. He was principal of the school since it was established in 1959. The fund is being sponsored by the PTO of the school.

A committee was appointed Monday night to work out the details of the fund. Members are Robert Lessig, acting principal of the school, Richard Hopkins, James Florence, and Mrs. John Heaney.

Donations may be made out to the C. Arthur Mattson Scholarship Fund and sent to Lake Street School, attention of James Florence.

Mayor Frank McCoy of Vernon has been named to an advisory committee of the Greater Hartford Transit District (GHTD) and as a member will help review and evaluate proposed legislation to improve transportation in the capital region.

Dr. John A. Bailey is consultant to the group and Richard Suisman, a Hartford councilman, will serve as chairman of the committee which will be meeting for the first time today.

It is made up of a broad cross section of persons and community interest groups of the Greater Hartford area. Bailey is director of Northwestern University's transportation center. He will be working on developing and evaluating alternative approaches to the structure, responsibilities, methods and funding of regional transit districts.

William M. White, chairman of GHTD will also be working with the committee which is charged with providing input to the transit district deliberations.

Vernon is one of the nine towns in the GHTD, even though it is only a conditional member.

The town has two representatives on the district committee but the Town Council has voted against giving the district any more funds at this time.

Vernon

Gas Station Pays Fine of $2,500

Robert Songallo, former operator of the Texaco Service Station, Rt. 30, Vernon, has been ordered by the Internal Revenue Service (IRS) to pay $2,500 for allegedly raising his prices illegally.

The Remedial Order was issued to enforce compliance with the Petroleum Price Regulations of the Economic Stabilization Division. The fine, paid by Songallo, was imposed on Dec. 28.

The order charged that Songallo increased his gasoline price above the allowable ceiling. It also charged that he violated the regulations which provide that selling prices may be increased only once in any calendar month.

Joseph J. Conley Jr., district director of IRS, said the remedial order is issued to impose legal sanctions against those operators who violate the Economic Stabilization regulations.

Conley further said that there are others in process throughout the state and legal action will continue to be imposed upon those who violate the regulations.

Agents are continuing to check and recheck compliance by gasoline, heating oil, and diesel fuel dealers throughout the state, Conley said.

Bank Building Report Due

The Vernon Recreation Commission will meet tonight to consider an engineering report concerning repairs to the People's Bank Building, recently purchased by the town, and being considered for use as a Senior Citizen Center.

The estimated cost of repairs is $8,000 which would be to the first floor of the building, originally the home of the Rockville Methodist Church.

The Commission chairman, Donald Berger, in a report to the Town Council, said it does seem that the bank building, located in the center of Rockville, is a logical location for a senior citizen center.

He cited as reasons the fact that the building is near a heavily residential area and two housing projects for the elderly; it is on the regular route of both the Connecticut Company and Post Road Stages buses; it has first floor square footage in excess of that of the Lottie Fisk Building, now used, and with minor changes, adequate parking could be available at the rear of the building.

Berger, called for an engineer's report on the condition of the roof which he said appeared to be leaky as water had come in on the second floor level.

He also asked for a check of the heating system to see if it is adequate to heat all of the areas to be included in the proposed center, and a check to see if the building is structurally sound so that an archway or opening could be made to connect the two large rooms.

He also questioned if there is sufficient plumbing to increase the bathroom facilities for both men and women; if the wiring and plumbing is adequate to install a restaurant-type kitchen; and what must be done to the wiring and lighting in the former church hall section to bring it up to code standard.

DOT Sets Meeting In South Windsor

The Connecticut Department of Transportation (DOT) will conduct an informational conference at the South Windsor Town Hall Thursday at 7:30 p.m. regarding alternate plans to Interstate 91 and mass transportation.

The DOT's revised proposal will directly involve the contractor between the Bissell Bridge and Burr Corners. The DOT is reviewing the plan with local citizens before firm orders are made to the Federal Highway Administration.

As South Windsor will be directly affected, Mayor Robert Smith is urging all interested citizens and officials to attend the meeting.

Ice Skating

The South Windsor recreation department reports there are two days a week available for ice skating of the Hartford Area for South Windsor residents with ID cards: Tuesday, 6:45 to 8 p.m. and Saturday, 4:10 to 5:40. Tuesday is also "Ladies Day" at the arena between 10 and 12 a.m. The arena is offering a baby-sitting service and free ice skating instruction from a professional skater.

Joe Whelton Sets Hot Pace As East Rolls to 9-1 Mark

By Len Auster

Facing a man-for-man defense was all the medicine he needed as Joe Whelton, with surgeon-like skill, picked apart the Pulaski High defense for 20 points. As a result he led the East Catholic basketball team to a 63-51 non-conference victory over the Generals last night at the Eagles' Nest.

Whelton rammed home 13 of 24 shots from the floor along with all four opportunities from the charity stripe. The senior All-State guard also doled out some eye-popping passes to other members of the Whelton Gang which is now 9-1 overall for the season.

Supplementing Whelton's performance were Ron Soucier and John Riccio who found the range for 14 and eight points, respectively. The pair also led the Eagles in rebounding with a combined total of 15 carmine.

The Silk Towners took command in the second half, leading by 11, 44-33, after three quarters, and then running away with it in the final stanza, leading at one stage by a 58-39 bulge.

With 1:40 showing on the clock, Ogrodnik leaped his bench and used every player in an East uniform he could find. Everybody except the cheerleaders who were doing their job expertly along the East section.

Whelton received a standing ovation from a most appreciative but surprisingly quiet crowd of about 1,000 at the Nest when he made his exit.

"I was particularly pleased tonight with the pose and thinking we exhibited. They (Pulaski) were trying to control the tempo but we combatted that very well. We communicated well and played really well on defense," commented Ogrodnik.

Pulaski, now 3-6 for the season, was paced by Jim Vesci's 15 markers. Bob Bero and Steve Stomski had 12 apiece for the losers.

"The testimony of a good team is the ability to get up for the non-glamorous teams. We were up tonight. Over the next two weeks, we'll find out if we are an excellent team. If we can do it every night, then I would say we are an excellent team," the Eagle sixth-year mentor said.

Starting off that stretch is a Saturday night makeup date at the Eagles' Nest against Waterford High. Following next week are two home games against Xavier High Tuesday and Sacred Heart on Friday.

Cedeno Fined $100, Set Free in Slaying

SANTO DOMINGO, D.R. (UPI) — Houston Astros outfielder Cesar Cedeno was a $100 fine away from closing the book today on his conviction for involuntary manslaughter in the motel shooting of a 19-year-old girl.

When Cedeno's lawyer pays the fine, the case is closed, barring an appeal of the sentence by the victim's survivors, and that did not seem likely.

Judge Porfirio Natera yesterday convicted Cedeno and meted the fine. The conviction, which could have carried a three-year sentence, came despite a move by the prosecuting district attorney that the charge be dropped for lack of evidence "compromising the innocence" of Cedeno.

The young ballplayer was accused in the Dec. 11 dawn slaying in the Keko Motel of Altagracia de la Cruz, 19. Cedeno testified that she was accidentally shot in the head by his .38 caliber pistol when he tried to wrest it from her after she had grabbed it to examine it.

Haywood said there was a different attitude among the players this year and the teams threw friendly taunts at each other from adjoining dressing rooms before the game started.

BOULDER, Colo. (UPI) — Newly named Colorado head football coach Bill Mallory announced Monday the appointment of Dwight Wallace as the Buffaloes' quarterback and receiver coach.

Record Fine in NBA Metted Out to Motta

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI) — Dick Motta told NBA Commissioner Walter Kennedy he was a changed man. And until his Chicago Bulls lost a controversial game in overtime to the Seattle SuperSonics Jan. 4, it appeared he was.

Seattle's Sidney Wicks with 11 points and Lanier and Kenney were the top scorers in the game.

Utah Stars Nip Tams

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (UPI) — In the only game played in the American Basketball Association Tuesday night, guard James Jones dumped in six points in the last three minutes, totaling 18 points for the night, to lift the Utah Stars to an 89-87 win over the Memphis Tams.

Utah led by six points with five minutes left, but Memphis cut the score to 82-81 the two-minute mark. Chones' three quick two-pointers picked up the Stars' pace again, however.

Csonka Out Of Pro Tilt

SAN DIEGO (UPI)—The Miami Dolphins' contingent to the Pro Bowl, bruised and battered in their 24-7 Super Bowl win over Minnesota last Sunday, began limping out of the AFC camp here Tuesday.

Star running back Larry Csonka, wide receiver Paul Warfield and Bill Stanfill left camp after declaring themselves medically unfit for the Pro Bowl game Sunday in Kansas City. Both squads came here for workouts to escape bad weather in Kansas City.

Earlier Tuesday, offensive tackle Wayne Moore was excused from the game after undergoing a medical examination. Moore is nursing a twisted knee.

Two other Dolphin starters, offensive guard Larry Little and halfback Mercury Morris, were expected to be examined today by NFL doctors.

Csonka, who set a Super Bowl rushing record against the Vikings, required stitches on his face after the game. An NFL spokesman said Csonka, Stanfill and Warfield left camp after being told to report to the AFC camp in Kansas City.

Warfield has been nursing a pulled muscle since the week before the Super Bowl, while Stanfill said he suffered ribcage pain in the Vikings game.

Oakland running back Marv Hubbard was named to replace Csonka, and Denver wide receiver Haven Moses will fill in for Warfield. No immediate replacement was named for Stanfill.

U.S. Women's Classic Here

Site of the 1973 United States Duckpin Bowling Classic will be the Holiday Lanes on Saturday, Jan. 26. This announcement was made today by Paul Correnti, Holiday manager, and Mike Drizdick, secretary of the National Duckpin Bowling Congress.

The nation's leading male pinners, led by defending champion Lynn Stigler of Baltimore, will be in the fray.

Winner of the 43rd Classic will be determined by the highest total pinfall for 10 games, rolled in two blocks of five each. First block entries will roll at noon and return at 6 p.m. with the second block starting at 3 and 9 p.m.

The winner will receive $600 with $300 and $200 for second and third place.

Trophy Presented

BRUNSWICK, Ga. (UPI)—Glen and Leonard Wood, builders of the Mercury driven by David Pearson, were presented with the Myers Brothers Trophy Monday night by the National Motorsports Press Association.

The award, presented at the NMPA awards banquet, is given to the individual or group which has contributed the most to the betterment of auto racing during the past year.

Tarkenton's Super Share Given to Two Charities

MINNEAPOLIS, Minn. (UPI)—Minnesota quarterback Fran Tarkenton has donated his entire "loser's" share of Super Bowl earnings—$7,500—to help retarded children and drug addicts.

Tarkenton, who went to his home in Atlanta after the Vikings lost to the Miami Dolphins, gave $3,750 to Daytop Village, a rehabilitation program for drug addicts in New York, and $3,750 to the Minneapolis Association for Retarded Children.

He became acquainted with Daytop when he was playing with the New York Giants. He said it is "one of the worst programs I know."

"It's a self-help concept in which they try to return users to a drug-free environment, and they've done some wonderful things," Tarkenton said. "Since 1968 they've processed hundreds of young people and only a handful have returned to drugs."

A few days ago a teen-age nephew of Tarkenton's wife died of an overdose of barbiturates.

"I think the problem in some form touches or will touch all of us," he said. "If this Super Bowl money can help salvage a life, thinking who won or lost the football game would seem quite as important to me as it did a few days ago."

World Grid Loop Unveiled by Czar

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Gary Davidson, a veteran league-builder who helped organize the American Basketball Association and the National Hockey Association, unveiled his new project to the sports world Tuesday—the World Football League.

Davidson, a Newport Beach, Calif., attorney, said the WFL will not steal players from the established National Football League during the NFL player draft next Tuesday in New York.

"We don't want to raid anybody," Davidson told a news conference. "We just want to provide a broader opportunity for all players to play."

College players will be selected in next week's draft but the WFL will hold a secondary draft in February after the NFL teams have made their selections.

"We will be going after both college graduates and the pros," Davidson said, adding that most NFL "superstars" would probably be prevented from switching leagues in 1974 by the one-year option to the NFL standard players' contract.

Franchises for this season are already being organized in 12 U.S. cities, Davidson said, and negotiations are under way with groups in Tokyo, Mexico City and in some European cities.

The teams confirmed for this season are located in Memphis, Tenn.; New England (playing in Foxboro, Mass.); Toronto, Birmingham, Ala.; New York, Southern California, Philadelphia, Honolulu, Chicago, Washington, D. C., (playing in Annapolis, Md.), and Detroit.

The 12 teams will begin a 30-game schedule in mid-July. Games will be played on Wednesday and Thursday nights.

Davidson said he hopes to "open up" the offensive game with a number of rule changes, including moving goal posts to the rear end zone, returning all missed field goals outside the 20-yard line of scrimmage, and playing a 74-minute overtime period in the event of a tie.

State Wants Tax

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI)—The governor and his cabinet, Tuesday, insisted that the city of Bradenton take the spring training facilities of the Pittsburgh Pirates.

A law suit over a similar taxation of the Baltimore Orioles' spring training camp in Miami is under way, and some tourist sources feel the new tax move could drive tourists away and more baseball teams to Arizona.

Wins Award

NEW YORK (UPI)—Joe Paterno, who coached Penn State to a 12-0 record, including an Orange Bowl victory over Louisiana State, was presented the Football Coach of the Year award Tuesday.

The 12 teams will begin a 30-game schedule in mid-July. Games will be played on Wednesday and Thursday nights.

Recovered

ANAHEIM (UPI)—The California Angels announced Tuesday that infielder-outfielder Bobby Valentine suffered a severe leg fracture last season, has been given clearance to begin full workouts by team doctors.

Valentine broke his right leg when he crashed into the centerfield wall at Anaheim Stadium last May 17. He missed the remainder of the New York Jets.

Hewley Hired

NEW ORLEANS (UPI)—The New Orleans Saints have hired Wimp Hewley as offensive line coach from the New York Jets.

Hewley, 42, began his professional career as a freshman line coach at Wyoming in 1960, went to Purdue as offensive line coach in 1967, and joined the Jets in 1971.

McCullough Named

LOS ANGELES (UPI)—Earl McCullough, six-year veteran wide receiver of the Detroit Lions, today was named director of personnel of the International Track Association.

McCullough, 28, also will compete on the second-year pro track circuit.

In 1967, McCullough equaled the world 110-meter high hurdle record of 13.2 seconds. The mark has been lowered to 13 flat by Rod Milburn.

Fans Will Pick

SEATTLE, Wash. (UPI)—Fans of National Basketball Association teams will pick the Detroit Lions to get the players for the 1974 All-Star game to be staged in Phoenix, Ariz.

NBA Commissioner Walter Kennedy said Tuesday that the association had decided to follow a fan-ballooning plan similar to that used to pick participants for the major league baseball All-Star game.

Players for this year's game were chosen by two sources. Basketball writers covering the pro teams selected the first eight players on each team and the All-Star coaches added the final four on each team.

Helicopter Discussions Granted UAC

EAST HARTFORD (UPI)—A spokesman for United Aircraft Corp. said Tuesday the firm has been given permission by the federal government to discuss the possible sale of American helicopters to China.

If the sale takes place, it will be the first time the United States has allowed heavy-duty helicopters to be sold outside the western allied world.

The spokesman confirmed a published report by the Washington Star-News that the government has allowed UAC to discuss the sale of its Sikorsky Division.

The spokesman said that the preliminary discussions with the Chinese government for the Boeing 707s it purchased.

The spokesman said United has sold the helicopter, which is made in both military and civilian versions, to other countries.

The newspaper source quoted a diplomatic source as saying UAC also was negotiating with Romania on a deal calling for co-production in Romania of 50 of the same type helicopters valued at $100 million. Romania is considered to be the most independent of the soviet allies in eastern Europe.

According to unidentified U.S. officials quoted by the Star-News, helicopter sales to China "is bound to increase as the U.S. is taking sides in the Sino-Soviet dispute."

Therefore, they suggested, any completion of the current discussions between UAC and China will involve a policy decision by President Nixon.

Under the Mutual Securities Act of 1964, all military sales to Communist countries are embargoed, unless the President specifically authorizes them.

But UAC officials say that China and Romania would be sold the commercial version of the SH-19, which would not include military features such as bullet-proof gas tanks and machine-gun mounts.

The Star-News said that some U.S. officials were apprehensive that China could use the helicopters for such military purposes as shuttling its troops along the northern borders with Russia.

Unstaggered PZC Terms May Violate State Law

MONICA SHEA, Correspondent... In a joint news release, Town Council Chairman Rose Fowler and Planning and Zoning Chairman Steve Lozmin stated that it was discovered that the terms of office for the Planning and Zoning Commission members do not conform to state statutes, because the terms of all members expire in November 1975.

School Calendar Modified

As a result of the seven lost days to date in the present school year, the school calendar was modified at Monday night's Board of Education meeting to include extra school days. The revised calendar now provides for school to be in session Feb. 12, Lincoln's Birthday, and June 21 as extra school days. The board had earlier approved a proposal to convert four days of the spring vacation, April 16-19, to regular school days to compensate for the December ice storm.

Mud Buries Nine In West's Storm

Stranded motorists (R) look at bridge that was washed away by rampaging Sacramento River. Bridge was used as alternate route for Interstate 5, when section of main road collapsed at Dunsmuir, Calif. Rivers and streams in Northern California poured over their banks forcing evacuation of families and halting passenger train service. (UPI Photo)

The men had been repairing the main coastal cable between California and Oregon, which had been damaged by an earlier landslide. Heavy rain sent rivers overflowing their banks, triggered mud slides on major highways, washed out railroad tracks and forced evacuations of hundreds of homes in Washington, Oregon, Idaho, Montana and California. Utilities were knocked out.

Barry Seeks State Senate Post

By SOL R. COHEN... David M. Barry, who turned down reappointment in November as Manchester town councilor to devote his time to a return to politics, has announced he is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for state senator from the Fourth Senatorial District. The post has been held for the past two terms by Republican David Odagard, also of Manchester.

Barry Tells Plans To Area Democrats

By DONNA HOLLAND... Atty. David Barry told an audience at the Tolland County Democratic Association meeting in Andover Wednesday night of his plans to run for the State Senate.

Barry spoke to a group of about 25 in the Old Town Hall at Andover. Dennis Keating, Andover Democratic Town Committee chairman, welcomed all at the "save a gallon for the president" night. Keating, after glancing at the warm fire beginning to burn in the hall's fireplace, said it appeared someone had stuffed tapes in the fire.
