Appointments Approved

By SOL R. COHEN

Rudolph H. Pierro, a Republican, was named Tuesday night by the Board of Directors to the Manchester Zoning Board of Appeals. He succeeds Republican Alexander Eigner Jr., who resigned, and fills an unexpired term to November 1974. Pierro had been on the ZBA from 1970 to 1972 and was its chairman in 1972. In November of that year, when his term expired, he was replaced by a Democrat. He then was named a ZBA alternate by the

To replace him as an alternate, the directors named Paul Willhide, an unsuccessful Republican candidate in November for the Board of Directors. The board named Raymond J. Karpe to the Development Commission to an unexpired term to November 1977, vacated when Thomas Toomey, a Democrat and the commission's chairman, resigned. The board tabled the appointment of a successor to Democrat Victor Moses on the Redevelopment Agency. Moses resigned when he was named assistant lown counsel.

The board tabled till March the appointment of seven members to the Citizens Advisory Committee. In other business Tuesday night (all actions were by unanimous votes), the

Confidentiality Essential

The right of a news reporter to hold in absolute confidence the identity of his news sources has long been a tenet of the profession and held to be derivative from the 1st Amendment of the Constitution which states, "Congress shall make no law...abridging freedom of speech, or the press...".

A three-judge federal panel is now considering the latest round in Los Angeles reporter William Farr's effort to avoid an indeterminate jail sentence imposed because of his adamant adherence to this principle. Farr broke a court-imposed "gag" rule imposed by the judge in the notorious Charles Mason murder trial. He received information from lawyers in the case and used it in his news stories. The court had ruled that no one connected with the case should divulge any pertinent information. Farr was tried for the so-called offense and given an indeterminate sentence, serving 46 days of it last year. He was released from jail last January on order of Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas pending a study of the case by the 9th Circuit Court of Appeal.

ssues raised by the reporter have supreme Court refused to hear the

To the average reader the case may appear to be one between the reporter and the local court, without any effect upon them. We think, however that this is a failure to consider the broad application of confidentiality, as it pertains to the public's right-to-know. The beauty of the suggestions, according to energy officials who have studied the memorandum, is that each of the 22 proposals outlined is simple, proven, well-known and obvious, requiring no research. All are down-to-earth practical ordinary ideas such as combustion controls on steel heating-treating furnaces, fuel recovery in basic oxygen furnaces, production controls in steel reheat and heat treating operations, stack gas recuperators on industrial furnaces preheaters in cement kiln operations, better ventilation conrol in industrial plants, computers to control temperature and ventilation in commercial structures, double-glazed windows in major buildings, the conversion of large central air-conditioning systems to heat pumps, automatic flue dampers, increased insulation, weather stripping and storm windows in private homes and better maintenance of water heater, air conditioning and heating equipment. Seldom has this writer seen a report privately so highly praised in these Washington jungles by men in rival agen-

Now anyone who knows Washington understands that regardless of how well thought out a plan may be, there will be some considerable slippage in time tables and most probably an inability to reach anywhere close to optimum results. The possibilities of this program are so great, nevertheless, that even after discounting the inevitable, political, economic and engineering delays, it is difficult to understand why no action has been taken. Perhaps the answer lies in the top-heavy bureaucracy

For while the program assumes only the use of existing technology, and while the cost estimates are said to be conservative, the urgency of the fuel shortages requires that the federal government begin a bold and aggressive crash program to assure the installation of these energy saving devices within the necessary time limits. The program most certainly would require direct government involvement in incentives and writeoffs, in insured loans, subsidies, demonstration projects and, most probably would require that the government actively promote a market for approved types of energy-saving devices.

Several years ago, two ladies on Frances Drive had matchmaking ideas. One had andsome brother, the other a good-looking niece. "Let's have a dinner party and have them meet," they plotted.
Mrs. Philip Spinella called her niece while Mrs. Al Otten elephoned her brother. The two singles knew nothing of the assist to Cupid. All was in readiness when the brother arrived. Much to their chagrin. he brought with him a beautiful blonde. The dinner party went off as scheduled with both young women in attendance. Later, when the niece was told of the plot that went awry, she laughed and said, "If that man turned away from that beautiful girl, there'd have to be something wrong with him!" To her surprise, he telephoned her two weeks later and within six months the matchmakers on Frances Drive would attend a wedding which was their idea all along. Newsprint Cost Raised

STAMFORD (UPI) - A najor supplier of newsprint in Connecticut says it plans to raise its prices for the third time in as many months to $17. Greater Northern Paper Co. f Stamford said Wednesday the hike will raise the cost of newsprint to $225 a ton, effective Feb. 4. Stamford said the latest increases were necessary because of a 300 per cent increase in the price of oil and indicated that the four-month strike against paper companies in Canada has only "an indirect effect" on the increases. The latest $17 per ton boost for 2-pound monolay is the third since Oct. 15 when the price for 28-pound monolay was $195.50 per ton and the cost of 30-pound newsprint was $185.50 An increase that went into effect Jan. 1 put the newsprint at $208 per ton. The cost of the newsprint a year ago was $167.50 a ton.

A Mystery

With half of their schedule completed, the Manchester High cagers remain a mystery. Coach Jim Moriarty's Indians are now 4-5 having clobbered Bristol Central last night behind a record performance of Kim Bushey. That was their best performance to date.

The Silk Towners haven't always looked that well, however. Against early opposition, the locals had trouble breaking a fullcourt press thrown at them. They wildly tried to pass through a maze of players instead of dribbling out of trouble, which they did against Central. Having seen the entire league the first-go-around, the impression here is that Manchester should be most successful in the second half of the slate. There were two teams the Indians had no business losing to, but stupid mis-Over the last five decisions, the hoopsters are 4-1. If they continue the poise and confidence exhibited against Central, then the chance of Moriarty's quintet making the State Basketball Tournament is not unrealistic. If not, the second time around will be a mirrorimage of the first.

Crowds

Talking of Manchester High, where have the fans gone? The first home engaement against Hall drew a throng of about 700. The locals won in most convincing style. You would think supporters would come out of hiding. That didn't happenthe opposite did. Monday night against Bristol Eastern there were 500 onlookers while last night's exciting contest was witnessed by just over 400. The Manchester cheerleaders were doing their job very well in the two tilts. But, for all their effort, they might as well have been yelling in the middle of the Sahara Desert. Only a handful from the rooting section joined in. School spirit? Where is it?

Poor Officiating

There was this middle-aged gentleman sitting next to this party Tuesday night at the East Catholic-Pulaski High basketball game. He was screaming his head off at the officials. At first, I didn't enjoy having him exercise his vocal chords in my ear. After a while, however, I agreed with him 100 per cent.

That was the worst officiated game I've witnessed in a long, long time. When pressed on the subject, East mentor Stan Ogrodnik took a diplomatic stance. During the game, however, he along with General mentor Dom Ferrara, was constantly jumping up in wonderment of some of the calls. Without naming names, which is for the better, the vounger half of the team should perform a service he knows something about. In the first half, he refused to call anything. And when he did, they were outrageous. The elderly member of the duo seemed to be afraid to show up his "partner" by making all the calls. He should have, for his neglect just caused more mayhem. The Central Connecticut Board of Officials must have somebody better than what was sent here Tuesday. The two who were there should take up some other profession.

Spear, a Hartford lawyer, has agreements with six high schools or their booster clubs which give the groups a 10 per cent cut of the gate. Spear claims their non-profit status precludes tax payments of 10 per cent because such groups are sponsoring the showings.

"There are no taxes," says But the state Tax Department, made aware of Spear's position, is answering the bell for round two. The department's Philip Driscoll says sporting events are subject to the tax "except when all the proceeds go to a non-profit organization." Spear, who owns the copany which has distribution right for the fight in Connecticut, says the school organization are "getting all the profits." Exactly how much Spear is realizing from the venture is not known. He says he is encountering "enormous say how much the expenses "I think this is what we would call proprietary information,"

Of the agreements with the schools, Spear says: "It's a good relationship. It lets the money go for worthwhile causes, which I'm interested it

Suez Troop Withdrawal Pact Signed

HARTFORD (UPI) - President Nixon's announcement of a breakthrough in the Middle East situation was hailed Thursday by Jewish and Arab communities in Connecticut. Rabbi Stanley Kessler of West Hartford's Beth El Temple said the fact that the announcement was made simultaneously by Israel, Egypt and the United States

"certainly spells out something decisive." "We're still somewhat in the dark about what all this really is," Kessler said, "but it must mean something very definitely
