Gas Retailers Will Discuss Possible Protest

United Press International
Most of the state's gasoline station owners vowed to stay open today but a meeting was scheduled to decide whether there be a massive shutdown to protest federal policy.

Members of the Connecticut Gasoline Retailers Association voted Wednesday to hold off a proposed boycott to protest an order from federal energy chief William E. Simon banning preferential treatment of all but commercial customers.

National gas retailer representatives held meetings with Simon in Washington last week seeking a relaxation of the ban.

As a result of the meetings, Simon allowed gas stations to increase their prices to keep pace with rising wholesale rates. But the status of the preferential sales ban was not clear.

Moorer Role In Spying Scrutinized

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Senate Armed Services Committee is weighing conflicting testimony about Pentagon spying on the White House and about the role of the nation's top military man, Adm. Thomas H. Moorer.

The outcome could affect Moorer's chances to be reappointed by President Nixon for a third consecutive two-year term as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff. His present term is up in December.

The committee is expected to release more testimony on the subject this week—in the form of Q-and-A interrogations—and that might clarify apparent conflicts in written statements so far released.

Moorer's testimony thus far appeared to conflict with that of Yeoman Charles Radford, a Navy stenographer at the White House who says he purloined for the Pentagon White House papers on a 1971 trip, by Henry Kissinger to Peking, and with that of Adm. Robert O. Welander who ran the Pentagon liaison office in the White House.

In a letter to committee chairman Sen. John C. Stennis, D-Miss., Moorer said documents he received were of little interest to him, implying he did not seek them.

Partial Campaign Reform May Be Enacted This Year

HARTFORD (UPI)—Thorough election reform legislation has been prepared by the month-old, nonpartisan Clean Campaign Committee, but only part of it will get through the legislature this year.

"We have a pretty clear picture," Attorney Clifton Leonhardt, who drafted the reform group's proposals, said Sunday.

A bill to shorten campaigns has been recommended by the Legislative Elections Committee, which Leonhardt sees as showing "good positive movement" on setting up campaign spending and political contributing limits. He said the committee also favors a bill to create a state elections commission, which would have investigative subpoena powers.

Leonhardt considers the election committee's pre-election disclosure bill "a step in the right direction." The bill would require a candidate to reveal contributions and spending 14 days and seven days before an election.

Leonhardt said the clean campaign committee had urged the first disclosure to be 45 days before the election. Two weeks before is "almost too late to do any good," he said. Current law requires disclosure after the campaign.

who shut down last Tuesday, met Saturday with Port Chester, N.Y., dealers and voted to stay open.

Milford stations shut down over the weekend, but they too were expected to be open today.

In the brightened gas supply picture, Connecticut is expected to receive an additional 7.5 million gallons of gasoline within the first five days of this week.

State energy chief Eckardt C. Beck said if the major oil companies can distribute the seven million gallons quickly, motorists will soon see some benefit in the new allotment.

However, Beck said neither his office nor the Boston regional office of the Federal Energy Office has been officially notified of the upcoming gas.

He said the gas was "a lot to swallow in five days" and that it would be a problem to find enough trucks to transport the gas and enough storage facilities to hold it.

"If spread over 15 days it might be more reasonable," he said.

Regarding the distribution, Beck said the gasoline will be put into hard hit areas first. By doing that, he said, the energy situation could be equalized statewide.

Beck said extra efforts will be made to distribute gas to the stations that closed down when they ran out last week.

"The oil companies should have provided them with additional gas under Form 17," Beck said, adding that his office will investigate the major oil companies to determine where the holdup is. Form 17 is the federal application for increased allotments.

In a related development, the state Tax Department said about 100 million gallons of gasoline were sold in Connecticut in January at a tax rate of 10 cents per gallon.

The department said January, 1973 sales totaled 111 million gallons. Thus, it said, the state government lost $1.1 million in income in January as compared to the same period in 1973.

The Elections Committee has come out flatly against a Clean Campaign Committee proposal requiring disclosure of candidates' personal income and assets and another for partial public financing, at least for this year.

"I don't reject the idea of public financing categorically," said Sen. Richard S. Scalo, R-Bridgeport, co-chairman of the Elections Committee.

But his co-chairman sounds as if she does.

"I personally don't think the committee is prepared to go into public financing this session," said Rep. Eloise B. Green, R-Southbury. "The general public seems horrified at using tax dollars to finance campaigns."

Scalo said the matter should be studied by a commission. Leonhardt said the clean campaign committee "hasn't made a dent" in legislators' opposition to disclosing candidates' incomes and assets.

The group's spending limit proposals call for:

—A 15-cent maximum expenditure for each person living in a district in which there is an election, or $1,000, whichever is more.

—A half-cent maximum expenditure for every person in the state for candidates for statewide office, excluding can-

Kalmbach Pleads Guilty To Two Federal Charges

WASHINGTON (UPI)—President Nixon's personal lawyer Herbert W. Kalmbach Jr. pleaded guilty today to two charges of violation of campaign practices laws growing out of the 1970 congressional elections.

Kalmbach was charged with soliciting $3.9 million in funds for an illegally organized campaign committee and with offering a European ambassadorship to J. Fife Symington, Jr.

On the latter charge, Kalmbach was accused of soliciting $100,000 from Symington in return for the promise of the ambassadorship. Symington, who was ambassador to Trinidad and Tobago at the time, was not appointed to any European post.

The first charge involving the illegal committee carries a maximum sentence of two years in prison and a $10,000 fine. The second charge involving the promise of an ambassadorship carries a maximum fine of one year in prison and a $1,000 fine.

Kalmbach, senior partner of a prominent Los Angeles law firm, stood silently in court while the charges were read. He answered "yes" each time U. S. District Judge John J. Sirica asked if he agreed with the government's allegation.

Both charges were related to the 1970 congressional campaigns and not directly with the Watergate case. Federal prosecutors said, however, that the $100,000 from Symington was considered advance support for the 1972 presidential campaign as well.

Prosecutors said that Kalmbach would be called as a witness in future Watergate cases and that he might be named an unindicted co-conspirator. Watergate Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski has said new Watergate indictments can be expected soon.

Kalmbach is a longtime personal friend, fund raiser and lawyer for the President. He handled all the legal work for the purchase of Nixon's San Clemente estate in California.

During Senate hearings, he testified he arranged for about $400,000 in payments to the Watergate burglars while they were in jail; made other payments to admitted political trickster Donald Segretti, and was involved in a number of major campaign contributions to the 1972 Nixon campaign, including funds from dairy producers.

In today's court action, the government said that between March and November, 1970, Kalmbach solicited pledges of $3.9 million for Republican candidates in congressional campaigns.

Two Variance Requests Top ZBA Agenda

Ted Trudon's plans for a new Suzuki dealership on Tolland Tpk. and plans to expand Alcar Auto Parts of 226 Spruce St. are among six items on tonight's public hearing agenda of the Manchester Zoning Board of Appeals (ZBA).

The ZBA hearings are scheduled for 7 at the Municipal Building Hearing Room.

Ted Trudon, who owns Volkswagen, Porsche-Audi, and Pontiac dealerships, is seeking ZBA approval of the location for his planned Suzuki facility. At 179 Tolland Tpk., east of the planned Pontiac automobile dealership which gained ZBA approval in November.

Preliminary site plans prepared by The Lawrence Associates and filed in the town planner's office—show a 4,800-square foot building for the Suzuki dealership.

The proposed new facility would be on the east side of 21½-acre lot zone Business 2 and 3 Zones. In November, the ZBA approved a special exception to allow a 14,500-square-foot Pontiac dealership on the west side of the property.

Trudon is also seeking a zoning variance from the ZBA to permit another sign, for the Suzuki dealership, on the property.

Zoning regulations allow only one free-standing sign on a business lot, and Trudon's application maintains that two separate business establishments on the same lot deserve two separate signs.

Israeli-Syrian Disengagement Goal of Mission

WASHINGTON (UPI)—Henry A. Kissinger began his most difficult mission to the Middle East today, with hopes of cracking the Israel-Syria impasse that has been punctuated by numerous bloody border clashes.

The secretary of state was pictured as optimistic about prospects of his trip, although U.S. officials conceded the obstacles were large and sensitive. Kissinger himself declined to assess the outlook as he boarded his jet at Andrews AFB, Md., just outside Washington.

Before starting this fourth Middle East trip, Kissinger conferred Sunday at the White House with President Nixon. Kissinger flies to Damascus Tuesday after an overnight stop in London, where he will confer with British leaders.

Accompanying Kissinger on the trip was Joseph J. Sisco, who has played a major role in much of U.S. Mideast diplomacy in recent years. Sisco said he felt an "unparalleled opportunity" existed for progress toward peace in the area.

Sisco, recently elevated to undersecretary of state, said on the CBS-TV Morning News Program: "I think the atmosphere in the area is favorable. I think we have an unparalleled opportunity to make progress."

Egyptian President Anwar Sadat expressed "great hope" for success of Kissinger's new mission, and said if disengagement of Syrian and Israeli troops results, that would be a "good step" toward ending the Arab oil embargo against the United States.

"When the United States takes practical steps, my colleagues will take practical steps," said Sadat.

On Sunday, Kissinger held the latest of a series of meetings over the past week with Egypt's foreign minister, Ismail Fahmy. Kissinger was said to have assured Fahmy and others during a lunch at the Egyptian Embassy that the United States has a firm goal of improving relations with Arab countries.

Kissinger then accompanied Fahmy to the airport to see him off for Cairo. Fahmy had been in the United States more than a week and he and Kissinger held several meetings. Fahmy also conferred with President Nixon last week.

Before heading to Damascus, Syria's capital, to confer with President Hafez Assad, Kissinger will meet in London with Foreign Secretary Sir Alex Douglas Home. He leaves Tuesday for Damascus.

One of the most sensitive problems in the Syrian-Israeli impasse is a dispute over Israeli POWs held by Syria since the start of the October war. U.S. officials hope Syria will give Kissinger a list of prisoners which they have refused in the past to provide.

Israelis balked at disengagement talks until it learns about the fate of the POWs held by Syria. Sisco said "the question of the POWs...obviously is a significant element" in the Kissinger conferences with leaders of the two sides.

On the issue of POWs, Sisco conceded that "it's a significant element, and that significant element will have to be dealt with if progress is to be made."

The Cairo newspaper Al-Ahram, which generally reflects official government views in Egypt, predicted the Syrians would provide Kissinger a list of POWs to pass on to Israel, provided Israel gave general assurances that it would pull back from Syrian territory seized in the 1967 war.

The primary by some members of the Manchester Board of Directors (three are candidates, as is the husband of a fourth), the board has called off its March 5 scheduled meeting and will meet March 12 instead.

Voting hours will be from noon to 8 p.m. and only registered Democrats in that district are eligible to vote. Voting will be by machine (1) and all procedures prescribed by state law (including election personnel) will be observed.

The primary will cost an estimated $400, with the $105 in fees paid by the 7 challengers ($15 each) paying part of the cost. The town will pay the balance. School will be in session as usual.

The voting machine will have two lines of candidates. The top line is for the seven persons endorsed for the town committee in a Jan. 29 caucus. The bottom line is for the seven candidates who forced the primary. All seven challengers ran and lost Jan. 29.

The seven top vote-getters of the 14 running will be declared members of the Democratic Town Committee.

The slate endorsed Jan. 29 consists of: Peter A. Crombie Jr., Jean R. Graff, Nicholas R. Jackson, Richard J. McConville, Roger J. McDermott, Mary D. Mohr and Frank M. Stamler. Only Jackson and Stamler are presently on the town committee.

The slate challenging their endorsement consists of: N. Charles Boggini, Paul B. Greenberg, Matthew M. Moriarty Jr., Theresa M. Parla, Robert B. Price, Pascal A. Prignano and Mary A. Roy. All seven are presently on the town committee.

FRANKFURT, Germany (UPI)—The Aite Leipsner Insurance Company has announced it will pay 25 percent more for damages than the policy calls for if a driver is injured in an accident even though wearing a seat belt.
A company spokesman said the firm hopes this financial inducement will boost the government's attempts to improve road safety and asked other insurers to follow its example.
From June, 1976, drivers will be required by law to use safety belts.

The Lighter Side

The Bard, Too Has Gas Tips

WASHINGTON (UPI)—One thing America still has in abundance despite the energy crisis is energy experts.
And here to answer still more questions about the gasoline shortage is the immortal expert of Stratford-on-Avon, William Shakespeare.
Q. Shakespeare, what advice would you give motorists setting out to buy gas?
A. "Stiffen the sinews, summon up the blood, stand like greyhounds in the slips, straining upon the start."
Q. You mean we should get to the gas pumps early?
A. "Delays have dangerous ends. Better three hours too soon than a minute late. The day shall bring us on so soon as to try the fair adventure of tomorrow."
Q. Okay, so we get up before dawn. But how can we find a service station that's open?
A. "I would to God thou and I knew where a commune of each good name were to be bought."
Q. Frankly, Mr. Shakespeare, your advice isn't much better than we've been getting from Mr. Simon. What can you tell us about the odd-and-even rationing system that some areas have adopted?
A. "A calendar, a calendar! Look in the almanac. I hope good luck lies in odd numbers."
Q. Odd or even, we still have to wait in line.
A. "What! Will the East Coast has the severest shortage?
A. "Then westward ho! A horse! A horse! My kingdom for a horse!"
Q. Thank you, Mr. Shakespeare.

Q. The places where I get gas want more than thanks. How do you pay for it after you find it?
A. "So far as my coin would stretch; and where it would not, I have used my credit."
Q. Are you aware that the East Coast has the severest shortage?
A. "Then westward ho! A horse! A horse! My kingdom for a horse!"
Q. Thank you, Mr. Shakespeare.

Q. The screening committee of the Vernon Board of Education will present an overview of the Planned Program Budgeting System at the meeting of the board tonight at 7:30 in the Sykes School.
This budgeting system is now required by the state and was instituted last year by the board.

A screening committee of the board has been interviewing applicants for the position which was made vacant by the death of C. Arthur Matson who was principal of that school since it first opened.
The screening committee has reviewed all of the applications, interviewed many applicants, and is to narrow the number to about three for review of the entire board.

WINSTED (UPI)—A Winsted man who was arrested last May has filed a $200,000 damage suit against the city claiming the officer who took him into custody brutally assaulted him. John Maddraj said he still has not returned to work since the incident and won't be able to for some time. He said the policeman threatened him with a blackjack, pointed a gun at him and threatened to shoot him. Maddraj's suit also said he was sprayed with a chemical, jumped and choked, had his face ground into the pavement and his arms twisted violently.

Knowland Death Ruled Suicide

GUERNEVILLE, Calif. (UPI)—William F. Knowland, newspaper publisher and former Republican U.S. senator, died of a self-inflicted gunshot wound to the head, an autopsy showed Sunday.
"The body was recovered at the water's edge, partially in the water," Undersheriff Robert Hayes said after the autopsy.
"The weapon, a .32-caliber automatic pistol, was recovered by a diver about two feet under the water, by the body. The evidence found, as first stated, indicated a self-inflicted gunshot wound."
"We have definitely ruled out foul play."
Knowland, 65, publisher of the Oakland Tribune, died Saturday as he stood on the muddy dock of his $100,000 waterfront home along the Russian River, 75 miles north of San Francisco.
No suicide note was found and there were no clues to indicate what prompted him to take his life.
Knowland had gone to the summer retreat Saturday morning after taking part in week-long celebrations marking gunboat's 100th anniversary of his newspaper.
The Tribune carried the simple headline, "William F. Knowland Dead," accompanied by a black-bordered photograph of the publisher.
A member of a pioneer California family, Knowland became the youngest senator in the nation when, in 1945 at age 37, he was appointed by then Gov. Earl Warren to serve out the term of the late Sen. Hiram W. Johnson.
Knowland had been California's youngest assemblyman at age 24, the youngest state senator at age 26, and the Republican National Committee's youngest executive committee chairman at 33.
He was elected to the U.S. Senate in 1946 and re-elected in 1952. He was named GOP floor leader in 1953 and remained as minority leader the next year when Democrats gained control of the Senate.
When Knowland retired from the Senate in 1959, then majority leader and later President Lyndon B. Johnson said, "He is a gentleman, a statesman and a patriot, and I will always be proud — very proud — to claim him as a friend."

Free World Press Victory

The mantle of publicity and support given to Alexander Solzhenitsyn by the press and intellectuals of the free world is responsible for the dissident author being free, albeit in exile, rather than incarcerated in Russia.

Solzhenitsyn had become too hot an issue for Russia to take steps to silence him which have been meted out to many another Russian, who has publicly spoken out against the Communist government.

He had become an international cause celebre. And harsh punishment would have merely verified charges which he has made against the Red regime all the way back to Stalinist days.

Unlike many other refugees from a totalitarian state, Solzhenitsyn is not penniless. His flight to Switzerland was undoubtedly paid by some of the millions of dollars which he is reported to have there, royalty payments for his literary works published outside of Russia.

If, as it is reported, the details of his exile had been worked out in advance through the government of West Germany and the Russian ambassador, we can see nothing inherently evil in such an arrangement.

While the author's wife and family have been detained in Russia, we have little doubt that they, too, will be released.

He has expressed a hope that he may settle in Norway. We had thought he might come here, since he has been invited. Residency in this country might have given added strength to his efforts to bring his family out of Russia.

Certainly the United States has no lack of critics of government, party in power, or public personages. So we do not need Mr. Solzhenitsyn for that particular purpose.

But, in our traditional role of accepting the oppressed from all over the world — as we have done so long — it would have been fitting and appropriate had he come here, as so many of the fugitives from czarist Russia did years ago.

Guest Editorial

Hebron Plans For '76

Editor's Note: The author of today's guest editorial is John Sibun, chairman of the American Revolution Bicentennial Commission of Hebron, and is reprinted from The Connecticut Bicentennial Gazette.

The editorial reflects on what one community, Hebron, is planning to take full advantage of our nation's 200th anniversary.

Notwithstanding that Hebron's most famous Colonial ancestor, the Rev. Samuel Peters, was a Tory, he was also a man of many parts. He would not only have approved of the community's planning thus far for the Bicentennial, but had he still been around would most certainly have been on the Commission.

So with the spirit of Sam Peters, a study committee was set up a few years ago to ascertain what sort of project the 4,500 population would support and make some recommendations as to format. As a result, a town-appointed Commission was created, drawing on a cross section of the community. Each member may bring his own project with him and this initial interest, of course, provides the incentive for the ultimate follow-through.

Subcommittee chairmen provide their own manpower, though the Commission can help here, if requested, drawing from a pool of people who have indicated appropriate interest. The overall program is arrived at by a consensus of the whole Commission. As a small town, Hebron has some built-in advantages. Most people are not strangers to each other, partly due to the town meeting form of government and there is no remoteness from town officials. A large part of the population has an affinity for the town's historical background and support such organizations as the Historical Society. To know ourselves and our intentions known to the community as a whole, we held a one-day event in 1973 (Colonial picnic and games), scheduled two events for 1974 and three for 1975, culminating in our main effort in '76.

Our overall celebration program is varied and while it will include a parade, this time-honored event will not be our Alpha and Omega. Emphasis will be on using our local historic scenes and recapturing bygone events, e.g., "Colonial Days" will include making, for a short time, a cluster of our 18th Century houses part of the past. Dressed in the period, people will be encouraged to eat the food and live the lives of the times. There will be house tours and lectures on state and local history for public and school audiences.

The schools will take an active part in the town celebrations as well as developing their own programs. Considerable time and effort will go into completing the restoration of the Old Town Hall (originally a church) so that it may serve as museum for this and future generations and as a forum for lectures and exhibits.

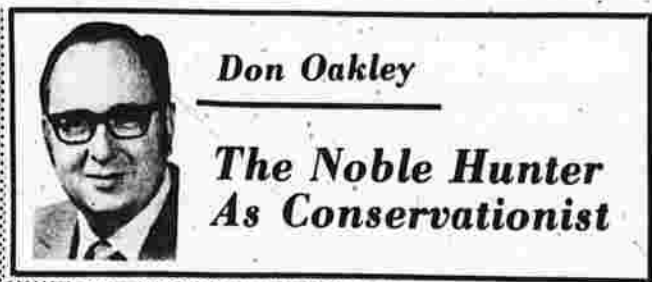

Using the talents of local writers and actors we are going to record on TV tape an hour-long documentary depicting scenes from Hebron's history, employing where possible the actual sites. We hope to get this televised, at least locally, and to make the film available to those who do not enjoy a New England heritage. There are also, numerous smaller projects, such as putting markers on old houses, planting trees and encouraging foreign visitors to come to our town.

Finally, we did not overlook two important by-products that a Bicentennial would provide our small town. It should help bring closer together the families which have been here for generations and those who have moved here more recently. In addition, the nature of the project allows all members of any one family to work together as a unit.

Therefore, we in Hebron are using the opportunity to take stock of the past, enrich and enjoy the present and prepare for the future.

Don Oakley
The Noble Hunter
As Conservationist

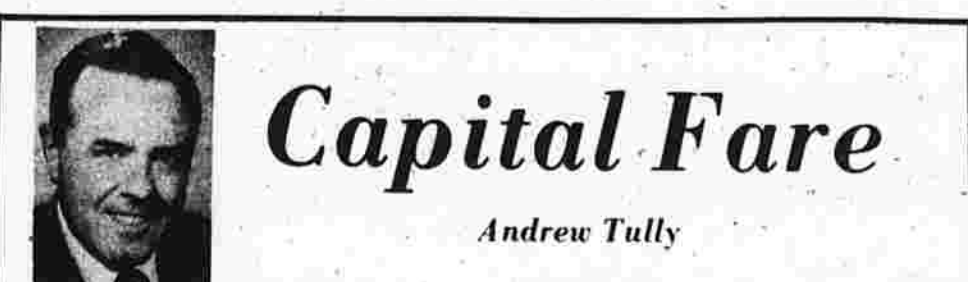

Within recent years, anti-hunting sentiment in America has grown rapidly. Hunters have been characterized by anti-hunting organizations as "miserable cowards" with a "lust to kill."

To the anti-hunter, hunting is an evil, a moral outrage. To the hunter, it is a positive good and crucial to wildlife conservation. And never to do the twin meet on any common ground.

A plague of both houses, says Jack E. Hope. As a former hunter who writes on environmental concerns, Hope is qualified to examine both sides of the controversy dispassionately and does so in the current issue of Smithsonian magazine.

There is little reason, he says, to believe that hunters are motivated by abnormal cruelty or propensity to violence. If they were, they would not confine their attention to animals designated as legal game but would indiscriminately open fire on everything.

Hunters are overwhelmingly big game hunters, says Hope. Pressure from hunters was instrumental in establishing game laws and creating a funding mechanism through hunting licenses and taxes paid on ammunition to rescue several declining species. Until the recent upsurge in environmental interest, hunters were foremost among those people who devoted any thought or effort to the welfare of wildlife.

Andrew Tully
Capital Fare

The French are a funny race; they take our dough and spit it in our face. Sometimes it seems that the only way France's official attitude toward the United States can be altered is for France to get involved in another war. The French manage to tolerate us when we're rescuing them from military defeat.

"In this energy crisis more, we can expect nothing but more trouble from Paris," says a high State Department official charged with dealing with our sometime allies. "I doubt very much that we can bugle France from its go-it-alone policy enunciated by Jobert at the Washington conference."

French Foreign Minister Michel Jobert is not merely a sarcastic, posturing exhibitionist, although he did a good job of what might be called drawing room clowning at the 13-nation conference.

Looking always to France's own economic advantage — and of course, the pursuit of La Gloire. A France, then, standing alone, no matter what? Not quite. France is quite willing to use the cooperation of others. Long ago, De Gaulle withdrew French troops from NATO, while somehow managing to keep a French voice among NATO's policymakers.

His aid was for the glory of the Republican party, the United States and Richard Nixon — in an ascending order of motivation. In the end, he hurt all three grievously. The Democratic victory in Vice President Gerald Ford's former congressional district is another bit of evidence of how deeply the party itself has been wounded.

He entrusted the administrative task to H.R. (Bob) Haldeman and John Ehrlichman, and the political ask to former Atty. Gen. John Mitchell, keeping overall charge in his own hands. Just how far the Palace Guard went beyond his instructions is a question not yet fully answered. Its outlines remain to be filled out by the two last stages of the judicial and impeachment process. Certainly his subordinates felt they were acting within his larger design and purpose, however much they might "go beyond the brief" in the means they used.

Commissioner Burns said once formal approval has been obtained that "everything possible will be done to bring about the earliest practical completion of the installation."

Stamless Letter

In a letter from Springfield, Mass., to Newington dated in October 1951, I found a timely question. (This letter is stamped, sent after the first U.S. stamps were issued — 1947 — but in the several year period after the issuance when the use of stamps were not required, William Kirkham Jr. of Springfield wrote to his brother John, a farmer in Newington: "Was the delay of mine, which you should have got the day it was mailed. Letters mailed here in the morning go to Hartford at 10 a.m. and I do not understand why you do not get them the same day. We can write to New York and get an answer the next forenoon." Why Cancer Fighter is 'Mad'

OMAHA (UPI)—Statistics of the American Cancer Society show one-third of all persons inflicted with cancer die a needless every year—due to lack of early cancer detection. That's 108,000 persons. One physician, along with a dedicated staff, has tried to offer solution to such a problem by examination of allegedly well and healthy persons who may be harboring early signs of the disease. The department of Preventive Medicine and Public Health at Creighton University School of Medicine, Omaha, under the direction of Dr. Henry Lynch, developed a mobile cancer detection unit aimed at such multiphasic cancer screening. But Dr. Lynch and his colleagues were not content with the first mobile unit of multiple cancer screening had to close its doors last year. Lack of funds. The practicing physician in the small community of Dr. Lynch said, "puts in 18-20 hours a day and is on call at all times. Overworked. "By virtue of this, he has little time available to do the type of routine cancer screening which we think are mandatory if we're going to make a dent in the overall mortality."

The unit is designed in such a way that patients can be evaluated and examined at their convenience. The unit can be taken into a town and put in an area of proximity to most of the people. The initial cost of the unit was $65,000 and the operating budget for a year, which included salaries, equipment, living expenses in the field, transportation supplies, was in excess of $100,000. Dr. Lynch said when the operation initially got underway, fewer than 50 patients were examined a day, during the first few trips out. But, with increasing efficiency, his staff was finally able to see about 16 patients an hour, or 125 per day. A workshop will be held for current and prospective Junior Girl Scout leaders and consultants of the Manchester-Bolton Association, March 14 at 7:30 p.m. at the Community Baptist Church. Participants will spend 10 minutes in each of five groups badge planning, kaper charts and court of honor; signs and ceremonies; ecology; troop finances and reports; and use of troop committee. Refreshments will be served, followed by an open discussion. Additional information may be obtained by contacting Mrs. Harry Hoover, 91 Wetherell St.

Dr. Lynch said that cancer detection screening has been world-wide since as early as 1961 in such countries as Japan. But most screening dealt only with one part of the body. Carol Kraft, a registered nurse working with the unit, is an example of someone who came out of nurses training with limited field experience. With a lot of motivation on her part, some additional formal training and with experience gained in the unit, she has reached the point where she's able to do some examinations as well as a physician, according to Dr. Lynch.

Auto Workers To Get COL Pay Boost

DETROIT (UPI) — The nation's 600,000 auto workers will get an eight cent per hour pay boost in March to offset partially the inflation eating away at their weekly paycheck.

Before the energy crisis created massive layoffs in the industry, more than 700,000 workers were employed by General Motors, Ford and Chrysler. The United Auto Workers (UAW) Friday said those still on the job would get the pay boost during the first week in March.

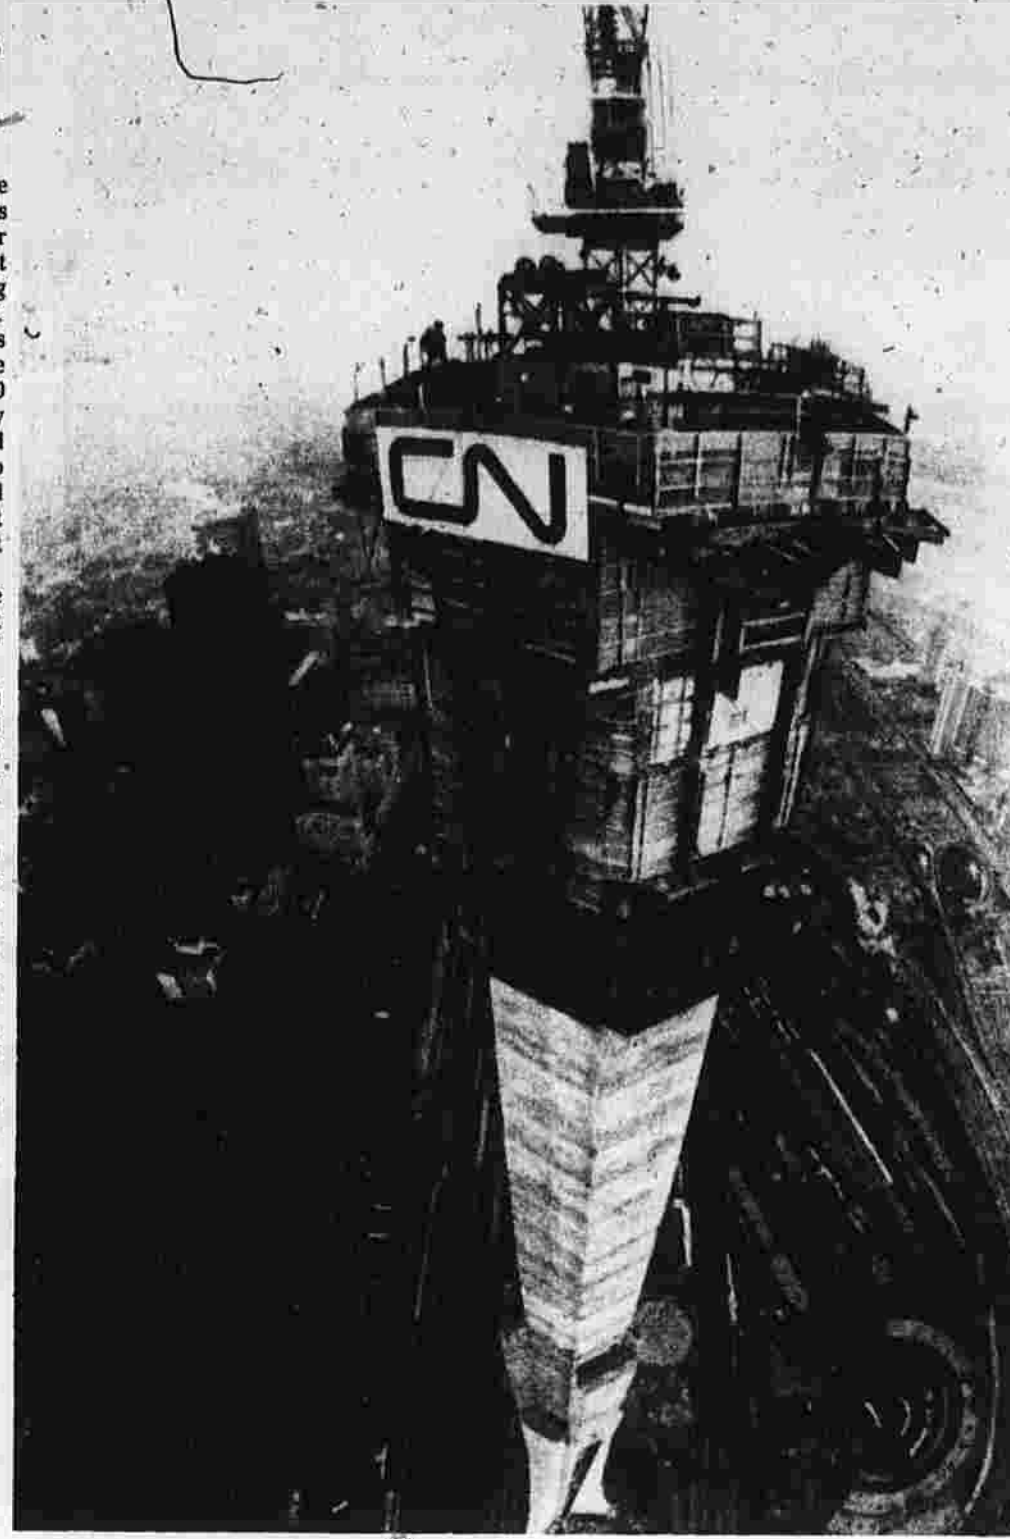

The latest cost-of-living raise will bring the average straight time pay for "big three" workers to about $4 an hour. The union said GM workers hired before May 29, 1948, and still on the job have gained a total of $6.91 in annual improvement factor and cost-of-living (AIF-COLA) pay hikes.

"Many of our members do not realize how important the combination AIF-COLA formula has been in advancing their standard of living and protecting their wage increases against erosion by inflation," Irving Bluestone, UAW vice president and head of the GM department, said.

Bluestone said the GM veteran worker is now receiving $3.71 an hour more than he would have made before May 29, 1948.

The latest eight cent per hour increase will be paid Ford and GM workers in the first week of March. Chrysler employees will get the boost as a quarterly check of about $130 in June.

In addition to the "big three," about 21,000 American Motors workers, 130,000 in the agricultural implement companies and another 50,000 in auto industry parts supplier plants, also will receive cost-of-living increases in March.

CN Tower in Toronto

An additional cost-of-living adjustment of one cent per hour is being diverted to help pay for the UAW-negotiated dental care program, which begins in October for workers at Chrysler, Ford and GM, and other costly fringe benefits.

DR. LAWRENCE E. LAMB

Eggy hanky panky

By Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.
DEAR DR. LAMB — You must be wrong about eggs and cholesterol. I bought a carton of eggs the other day and inside the carton it stated, "Research indicates eating eggs will not increase serum cholesterol in the average person if they are not gaining weight," and "Research indicates high levels of serum cholesterol is not correlated with high risk of heart attack in most people."

Also, the carton was approved by the Department of Agriculture. Now, what do you have to say about that in view of all your comments about eggs and cholesterol?

DEAR READER — I sent the egg carton top to the Food and Drug Administration, and they sent it to the Department of Agriculture, and from the letter it sounds like there has been some hanky-panky. You can judge for yourself. Here, in part, is what the letter said:

"The carton you submitted did bear the shield (USDA) and was approved. However, your records show the labeling submitted for approval did not contain any statements about cholesterol. This information was added to the label subsequent to approval. Accordingly, we have disapproved the further use of this carton until the statements in question are removed or changed in such a manner as not to be misleading."

"In approving labels of cartons bearing the official grade designation, we use as our criteria for approval the regulations of the Federal Food and Drug Administration as authorized under the Federal Food, Drug and Cosmetic Act and the Fair Packaging and Labeling Act. We have discussed the statements about cholesterol with appropriate officials in the food and Drug Administration, and it is their opinion that the statements contained on this carton should not be approved."

"We appreciate your bringing this to our attention so we could take corrective action."

There you have it. The misleading statements on cholesterol were added by the egg distributor after getting U.S. Department of Agriculture approval. I'll let you guess why the statements were added after the label was reviewed by the department and not before.

Examples like this one lead me to think the consumers really do need a watchdog in terms of food and health.

So, what do I have to say about that in regards to the label. Just thank you for sending it along so I could unmask the real truth and help to protect my readers from such practices. As a doctor I am always dismayed to find products being promoted in this fashion when we spend so much time trying to help inform people on what is good for their health. I sincerely hope that no patients with heart disease or others who should be taking measures to control their blood cholesterol levels have been misled by such labels and resorted to dietary habits not good for their health.

For more information on cholesterol write to me in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, N.Y., N.Y. 10019 and ask for the booklet on "Cholesterol."

Enclose 50 cents to cover costs. I think it is safe to assume that the concept that elevated serum cholesterol levels increase the risk of heart attacks is on fairly solid ground. It represents the thinking of most of the leading scientists working on this problem. It remains true that the egg yolk is one of the richest sources of cholesterol in the average diet.

Dr. Lamb welcomes your letters, but because of the large volume of mail he can answer individually only letters used in his column. Write to Dr. Lamb in care of this newspaper, P.O. Box 1551, Radio City Station, N.Y., N.Y. 10019. (NEWS/PAPER ENTERPRISE ASSN.)

Today's Thought

"Be doers of the word and not hearers only." James 1:22

An applicant for a job is usually asked, "What experience do you have?" The real test of ability is not what has been read but what has been done. It means that knowledge has been put into practice and this is true of our Christian faith.

Hearing is necessary — but only part of the task. Faith shows itself in the works we do. Let us by our doing, show we have heard well. "Lord, keep us active in our faith."

The commission will also review and evaluate the proposed legislation introduced by Rep. Jesse Brannard to provide referenda on establishment of new communities.

The commission will make an appointment to fill the vacancy on the Lake Rehabilitation Study Committee caused by the resignation of Paul Goodin.

Panel Will Discuss Family Life Program

JUDY KUHNEEL
Correspondent
Tel. 644-1364

The South Windsor Board of Education will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the Timothy Edwards Middle School.

The board will have a panel discussion on the family life program entitled, "Human Development and Health Education."

This program has been proposed since 1969 for implementation in the South Windsor schools. However, the necessary appropriations have not been made available.

At its recent budget hearings the board approved funds which would be used to purchase the program to be implemented in the 1974-75 school year. Necessary now is final approval from the Town Council.

The Board of Education feels the panel discussion will assist concerned citizens in better understanding the program, and invites input from the audience.

Sewer Commission
The South Windsor Sewer Commission will meet Tuesday at 8 p.m. in the Town Hall.

Included on the agenda is the acceptance of the Barrington Estates Pumping Station and discussion of a separate Sewer Department.

Two Variance

ty. A. Paul Berte, states that Trudon intends to incorporate the planned Suzuki dealership as Ted Trudon Suzuki Inc.
The Alcar Auto Parts application, filed by company partners Alfred Rossetto and Nicholas Carlo, seeks a variance from zoning regulations about parking requirements.
The owners are proposing an addition to the auto parts business, at Spruce and Maple Sts. in a Business 2 Zone, which will bring the size of the facility to nearly 15,000 square feet.
Zoning regulations require one parking space for every 250 square feet of floor space, but application states that there is only enough room for 30 spaces, which will be "more than sufficient" to accommodate the firm's 10 employees.
The plans, filed in the planner's office, say that the primary use of the Alcar Auto Parts building will be warehousing of auto parts, but the firm intends to continue a small wholesale-retail sales area.
The plans envision total floor area of 14,888 square feet, making use of 1,144 square feet of existing building. Part of the existing structure will be removed, according to the plans, to make room for the two-story addition.
Other items on tonight's ZBA hearing agenda are:
• A variance requested by the Manchester Board of Education to allow the gym-library addition at Bennet Junior High School to be built right up to the property line on the north side of Wells St.
• A variance requested by Alex Yakaitis of 406 Burnham St. to house farm workers in a house trailer on his property during seasonal farming activity.
• Fred A. Andreoli's request for a variance to build a house on each of two land-locked 1/4-acre parcels in a Rural Residence Zone off Imperial Dr. in Manchester. The lots don't have frontage on a town street, and the only access is from the Town of South Windsor, which has agreed to provide municipal services to those lots.
• A request for a special exception to allow location approval and general repairer's license sought by Anthony Marinelli at a Business 2 Zone location adjacent to an existing gasoline service station at 886 Hartford Rd. Marinelli also wants a variance of zoning requirements that an auto repair shop can be located within 400 feet of a residential dwelling.

Zone Variance Sought For Bennet Addition

The Manchester Board of Education has run into a temporary roadblock in its efforts to design and construct the gym-library addition to Bennet Junior High School, part of a total $5.6 million school project approved by town voters last November.
The roadblock is the town's zoning regulations, and the school board — through School Supt. James P. Kennedy — has filed a petition with the Zoning Board of Appeals seeking a variance of sideyard requirements.
The zoning board's public hearing on the variance request is scheduled tonight at 7 at the Municipal Building Hearing Room.
Zoning regulations require a 10-foot side yard for a Residence C Zone — in which the proposed Bennet addition is located — but plans for the school addition bring the new building right up to the Wells St. property line.
Kennedy's application states that strict application of the requirement would cause hardship because compliance with the regulation would necessitate a smaller addition, seriously compromising its educational use.
The proposed addition, being designed by architect Richard Mankey of Manchester, would face Wells St. and lie between the existing Barnard and Franklin Buildings on the Bennet complex.
The addition is part of a $2,719,000 alterations-renovations project for Bennet. The Bennet proposal is one part of a total $5.6 million school project, which also includes additions and renovations to Iling Junior High School.
