Nixon Urged Not To Veto Energy Bill

United Press International
Rep. Harley O. Staggers, D-W.Va., chairman of the House Commerce Committee, has appealed to President Nixon to change his mind about vetoing the emergency energy bill passed by Congress this week.

Staggers, who managed the energy legislation on the floor, wrote in a letter to Nixon that "the American people cannot be expected to tolerate the long lines at the gas pump much longer. I urge you not to deny yourself the tools needed to respond to the needs of the American people simply because you disagree with the terms of some parts of this bill."

President Nixon has said he will veto the measure because it contains a provision to roll back certain petroleum prices, a move Nixon contends would stifle incentives for the oil industry to explore for new supplies.

He has until March 12 to veto the measure or it will automatically become law.

The emergency energy legislation won final Congressional approval Wednesday on a 258-151 vote in the House, not enough for the two-thirds majority needed to override a veto.

In other energy developments:

— Shell Oil reduced gas one-half cent a gallon and diesel fuel by 2.5 cents. Gulf boosted its gasoline price 1.3 cents a gallon. Exxon announced it would lower gasoline prices by 7 cents a gallon because more gas supplies will be available this spring as the demand for home heating declines.

— United Mine Workers district officials predicted a strike by nearly 19,000 miners in the West Virginia's coal fields would fizzle by the first of the week as new gasoline supplies began arriving Friday. The miners say they don't have enough gas to get to work.

— Rhode Island became the 15th state to impose an odd-even gasoline rationing system and the state's House of Representatives passed a bill to impose mandatory loss of driver's licenses for one year for persons convicted of siphoning gasoline from motor vehicles.

— Middle East sources said the Arab oil embargo may be lifted in stages after a meeting of Arab oil ministers later this month. The gradual lifting of the embargo would be linked with progress of a settlement with Israel.

— California Gov. Ronald Reagan placed the state's seven most populated counties on an odd-even rationing plan and Rep. Fortney H. Stark, D-Calif., said he would hold a hearing March 9 to determine the extent of the gas shortage.

'Easy Rider' Team Aids Gas Dealers

Several Manchester area gasoline retailers took advantage of an information session conducted in town Friday by the "Easy Rider" team of the state's Energy Emergency Agency.

"We found out a lot of things we didn't know," Pete Listro, president of the local affiliate of the Auto Service Council of America, said after the day's session.

Listro said the informational session — conducted from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce offices — was very successful.

Many local gasoline retailers learned they were eligible to complete Federal Energy Office (FEO) forms requesting additional gasoline allotments, Listro said, noting that there will probably be a movement in Manchester next week to get all dealers to request more fuel.

In Friday's session, Kirk Banks and Charles Heidelberger of the state energy agency explained federal forms required to request additional gasoline.

Banks said the forms, when completed by retailers, are meant to demonstrate to the FEO that more gasoline is needed at a particular service station.

Recognizing apparent suspensions of some dealers, Banks emphasized that the FEO forms are useful, because regional FEO officials at Boston don't know the situation in Manchester.

One misconception of local dealers destroyed by the informational session was that retailers weren't eligible for additional allotments unless they could prove a 10 per cent increase in the gasoline business from 1972 to 1973.

Instead, the FEO requires dealers to show that they've experienced 10 per cent growth in their entire business operation, not just in the pumping of gasoline.

The "Easy Rider" informational sessions started several weeks ago as a team of state officials riding to Connecticut locations on a bus.

The bus service has ended, and the state energy agency team now visits municipalities on a request basis. Manchester was the first stop for the team under the new plan.

Topics discussed during Friday's session in Manchester included problems of gasoline dealers as well as the FEO forms.

Listro commented that an optimistic attitude by news media, elected officials, and the public has contributed to declining lengths of service station lines in the last two weeks.

Stresses A Point

Mrs. Grasso Pledges Dialogue with People

FLOYD LARSON

Pledging a continuing dialogue with the people to give them her views and obtain their ideas, U.S. Rep. Ella Grasso, a candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor, made her formal appearance before the Manchester Democratic Town Committee Friday night.

Because of her heavy schedule, Mrs. Grasso spoke briefly, outlining her political philosophy, and then engaged in a "toss and tell" discussion with the overflow crowd at the Municipal Building Hearing Room.

The Windsor Locks congresswoman, who served as an assemblywoman and as secretary of state before being elected to Congress, expressed her concern that the state needs an administration which has "courage, compassion and concern for the people."

She referred to Gov. Thomas J. Meskill's handling of the bus strike and his absence from the state during the December ice storm as examples of the current administration's lack of concern for the people.

"Connecticut," she said, "needs a highly visible government which listens to the people, works with the people and uses people's ideas and resources."

Her major concerns are mass transit, for which she feels there should be a greater people input of ideas, and suggested a citizen task force on transportation might be a vehicle to merge the many existing studies and data with ideas from the people; a closer working relationship between the state and municipal government; more state assistance to public schools and higher education; and tighter budgetary management so that tax cuts can be given quicker whenever it is prudent to do so.

She criticized the impoundment of state funds which she said has affected the quality of services in the area of welfare, mental health and special education programs.

Mrs. Grasso said she favors cost-of-living increases for state employees and would stress the qualifications of political employees as the prime criteria in her handling of patronage.

"A vital and central part of this campaign," she said, "will be my effort to make the people a part of our government. Watergate has reawakened personal and individual responsibility to government. We (the Democrats) care for the people and want the people to be a part of our government. With cooperation, common purposes and objectives, we can achieve our goals," she said.

In the "toss and tell" period, Mrs. Grasso said:

• She favors federal and state aid to day-care centers based on ability to pay.

• She feels the Democratic party is proceeding well with its reform efforts and particularly is hopeful it will continue the direction toward more participation in party platform formulation through party hearings. We should have a strong platform and "keep faith with that platform," she said.

• Mrs. Grasso is opposed to pay raises for congressmen but favors it for other non-legislative federal employees.

• On abortion she said she believes a fetus "is a person with rights to be respected." As to the state doing any more than it now has through regulations concerning abortion, she said, the Supreme Court ruling is now the law of the land and any state action will depend upon federal legislation now in committee.

• She said that she has not found her being a woman to have any adverse effect on her candidacy.

• She favors sales tax cuts as long as economic and population growth indicate sufficient revenue to meet state needs specially in the social and human services areas. She said each year, the administration should assess its revenue needs, and if there is an anticipated surplus it should be rebated to the people.

• In the matter of off-shore oil development along the New England coast, she said she feels there is sufficient expertise in the region's industry and educational institutions to assess the social, economic and environmental impact of such development, and that once the people know these impacts, they can make the right decision.

• In connection with sales tax cuts and commitment to increased spending for education and other state services; Mrs. Grasso expressed her conviction that economic and other growth factors in the state could achieve this without deficits.

• She favors some state assistance to parochial and private schools through textbooks, sharing of library and laboratory facilities and has co-sponsored a bill in Congress to give parents tax credits if they send their children to these schools. She said parochial schools are a community asset and relieve pressures on the public schools.

• In the light of current surpluses, she sees no immediate enactment of a personal income tax; but warned that proponents of such a tax are hard at work to "sell it to the people."

Washington Talks Planned

Syria, Israel Still Far Apart

RIYADH, Saudi Arabia (UPI) — Syria and Israel are as far apart as ever on military disengagement but both have agreed to send delegations to Washington this month and continue talks with Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, a senior U.S. official said today.

The official, speaking as Kissinger's plane flew from Damascus to Riyadh, said Kissinger himself made the suggestion for the Washington talks in meetings Friday with Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir and Syrian President Hafez Assad.

Israel will first send a senior negotiator sometime before March 16 and then a senior Syrian, probably a military official, will follow.

They will talk with Kissinger rather than with each other in this first stage.

When Kissinger's talks with Assad were completed Friday night, the Syrian leader made the Arab gesture of kissing the secretary on both cheeks in friendship.

On procedure, the United States believes that the agreement is satisfactory, but as for the actual military disengagement on the Golan Heights, the official said the two sides were as far apart as ever and described the gap between them as "substantial."

The official said the Washington stage of the talks would last at least two or three weeks. If there appears a chance of agreement, Syrian and Israeli representatives will have to meet face-to-face at a later stage, the official said. That could be in the military commission of the Geneva peace conference, the official reported.

It still must be decided whether Kissinger will have to postpone the Russian trip he planned for later this month to discuss strategic arms-limitation. That visit was to be followed by a fifth trip to the Middle East.

Kissinger did not present concrete Israeli proposals to Assad, but rather ideas on disengagement.

The official said the basic problem was where the line of separation would be between the opposing forces on the Golan Heights and the details of disengagement.

The secretary planned to fly to Amman tonight to confer with Jordanian King Hussein about the four-war, quarter-century Arab-Israeli conflict.

The Jerusalem government said Syria let the International Red Cross see 65 Israeli prisoners Friday, the first visit since last October's 17-day war. Two of the captives were reported hospitalized.

Most Reactions To Indictments Noncommittal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The presentation of the Watergate indictments caught most congressmen out of town. Those remaining had little to say other than that all the accused are "innocent until proven guilty."

Before he left Washington for the weekend, Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr. of the House Judiciary Committee, which is investigating possible impeachment of President Nixon, said it "would not be appropriate" for him to comment on the indictments.

But he did disclose that neither he nor his impeachment inquiry staff had been informed of the contents of a sealed report handed to Judge John J. Sirica along with indictments against seven former Nixon aides.

"I don't know what was in it, only what I heard was said in the courtroom," John M. Doar, special counsel to the committee's impeachment inquiry, told UPI late Friday.

Committee members contacted about the report also disclaimed knowledge of it and indicated they would be satisfied to wait until next Tuesday, when Doar gives the committee a briefing on the impeachment investigation to date and on the committee's request for White House information.

Rep. Robert McClory of Illinois, second-ranking GOP member of the committee, said of the indictments, "I hope this will facilitate the release of materials from the special prosecutor's office so we can round this up."

Edward Hutchinson of Michigan, ranking GOP member, and Sen. Sam Ervin, D-N.C., chairman of the Senate Watergate committee, declined comment through spokesmen.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., said that defendants are not guilty unless so proven.

Rep. Bella Abzug, D-N.Y., one of the 14 House members who introduced impeachment resolutions, said the indictment indicates that "there is a prima facie case for indicting, that is impeaching, Mr. Nixon."

H. R. Haldeman spoke briefly with reporters outside his Los Angeles home, but he only said that he would have no comment on the indictments.

Sen. Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., said in Atlantic City, N.J., Friday night the indictments made it even more important that Nixon turn over Watergate-related evidence to investigators.

Mondale said the indictments "will further deepen public concern about the capacity of this administration to govern."

Four Die In Fire

CHELSEA, Mass. (UPI) — Four persons were killed and two critically burned early today when fire swept through a four-story brick building in Chelsea Square.

Authorities identified three of the four victims of the three-alarm fire as Frederick Fox, 68, Victor Rodriguez, 37, and Victor Hermit 50. All three were Chelsea residents.

A fourth victim, a woman, was not identified by police.

Myron Gaffer, 38, and an unidentified woman were burned critically in the fire. They were on the danger list at Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston.

Firemen rescued five persons over ladders immediately after responding to the three-alarm fire, which broke out at about 1:25 a.m. Four firemen were hospitalized for minor injuries.

The cause of the blaze was under investigation by fire officials who speculated that a hotplate near a pillow ignited the fire.

Patrolman Holyfield Named Community Relations Officer

Patrolman Russell C. Holyfield of 10 Robin Rd. has been named community relations officer for the Manchester Police Department. He will start his duties Monday, will be taken off patrol duty and will be paid his existing salary.

The community relations program is funded under a $12,500 grant from the federal Law Enforcement Assistance Administration. Manchester's participation was approved by the Connecticut Planning Commission on Criminal Administration.

Holyfield, 26, is a native of Lafayette, Ind. He is a graduate of Grovorton High School, Alexandria, Va., and the University of Connecticut, where he received a degree in business administration. His major was psychology.

Earlier School Hours Resume Here Monday

All Manchester public and parochial schools will return to normal schedules Monday after starting later because of winter Daylight Saving Time.

Cloudy with occasional rain this afternoon. Some rain mixed with snow later in the day. High in the 40s, low tonight in the mid 30s. Sunday considerable cloudiness with 30 per cent chance of showers. High in the upper 40s.

The Impeachment Question

What are the offenses, under the Constitution, for which charges of impeachment may be brought against a President in the House of the U.S. Congress?

Article II, Section 4, of the Constitution says: The President, Vice-President and all civil officers of the United States, shall be removed from office on impeachment for the conviction of treason, bribery, or other high crimes and misdemeanors.

The staff of the House Judicial Committee, considering the possibility of impeachment, has prepared a report for the members propounding a view which can hardly be considered "strict constructionist."

The report said the duty of the President to preserve, protect and defend the Constitution to the best of his ability includes the duty not to abuse his powers or transgress their limits, not to violate the rights of citizens, such as those granted by the Bill of Rights and not to act in derogation of power vested elsewhere by the Constitution.

In saying a President could be impeached for acts other than criminal offenses, the report cited as impeachable conduct "undermining the integrity of the office, disregard of constitutional duties and oath of office, arrogation of power, abuse of the government process, adverse impact on the system of the government."

"Clearly, these effects can be brought about in ways not anticipated by criminal law," the report said.

That makes an impeachable offense just about anything which a person chooses to think is one. Using that criterion it is safe to assume that the country never had a President who was not thought to merit impeachment by someone.

In the broad interpretation of the committee staff we are sure that some might have considered impeachment of Lincoln for freeing the slaves, of Buchanan for throwing away 8 million dollars on the purchase of that wasteland, Alaska, and of Roosevelt for closing the banks.

Chairman Peter Rodino of the committee, a New Jersey Democrat, has pointed out to its members that they are not bound by the report. It is merely advisory for them to accept or reject out of their own convictions.

It would be our naive assumption that a person elected to the Congress of the United States, either representative or senator, would have some familiarity with the Constitution and be capable of coming to his own conclusions of its intent.

Committee members of this and other committees of both House and Senate are busy men. They have many other duties in addition to their committee assignments. It is understandable that a staff is required.

But sometimes it seems that staffs are carried away with their importance and forget their function. We consider it presumptuous of them to tell Congressmen of the United States what an impeachable offense is. It is spelled out.

In the conduct of the Ervin committee, as it came to be known, it was difficult at times to know if Senator Sam Ervin was running the committee, or if it was counsel Sam Dash.

Judiciary committee counsel Doar is placing himself in the same position.

If a Congressman of the United States cannot read the Constitution and make up his own mind as to what it means he is in the wrong job.

Pension Protection

We have criticized Congress for spending too much time on non-productive activity and in order to be fair, we feel members should be praised for taking the first major step to protect the pension rights of American workers.

Before a House-Senate Conference Committee is a bill, which seems almost certain to become law, which sets standards for pension plans.

While it does not require a company to have a pension plan, or dictate the amount of the pension, it does require those companies having or starting plans to provide such for full-time workers after they work three years or reach age 35; join a federal pension insurance fund to protect the pension against fraud or bankruptcy; and sets out three minimum standards for vested pension rights.

These latter three are: Full vesting after 10 years of employment; vesting of 25 per cent after five years, increasing year by year, until after the sum of an employee's age and years of service reach 45, with 100 per cent vesting five years later.

The bill also would allow workers, not covered by a pension plan, to set aside up to $1,500 per year tax-free for a personal retirement fund.

While the bill may be short of the goals desired by some, it is an important first step toward pension protection for workers who may either lose their jobs just prior to retirement or lose benefits because a company suffers business failure.

Enactment of the measure will be a major legislative achievement of the current session.

To the editor:
The history of the brook that flows through Avery Heights is well-known. In the late fifties many young families moved to this area. Some bought houses which had a tiny brook running through their yards in winter and spring, and which merely trickled through in the summer.

Beside this brook young children could, in those days, be raised with reasonable assurance. As trees were felled and roads paved to accommodate this influx of people, water which had theretofore been taken into the trunks of trees or absorbed in the soil, had to run elsewhere. Flooding of Avery Brook became a serious matter.
Today, all the tree properties bordering the brook on Manor Lane and in a large section of Pine Tree Lane have suffered erosion of their yards and loss of trees during heavy storms. When the banks could no longer contain the brook, untold water damage has been done to floors, rugs, furniture and walls in the living quarters of many of these homes. This has continued year by year, time and time again and with ever increasing severity as builders continued to build.

This we have watched. With only 45 per cent of the land in the Avery Watershed developed, it is not difficult to predict the future if the town does not take deliberate measures to control the flow of these waters. This worry belongs not only to us along the brook, wherever in Summit Wind there is presently a problem with water—and the possibility of future development (and development there will be), people need only to look at the changes we have encountered as a model of what to expect.
It is obvious that planning and controls for the future of our Watershed are imperative. Our elected representatives on the Town Council have considered plans and alternate plans for the technological control of the flow of water in the Avery Watershed and are urging us to vote "yes" for site 2 in the March 30 referendum.

Let us support their initial efforts along these lines. Let's insure the protection of our homes, our health and our safety. We don't want to be lost in the flood of future growth and progress. We want to pilot our own ship and ride the tide.
Be sure to cast your vote in the referendum March

Thank You, Mr. President

To the editor:
It never ceases to amaze me how a small minority, who still steadfastly refuses to lose faith in a President who has taken us "all" to the cleaners, is not able to fully evaluate just who really is responsible for the serious condition this country is in today. As I write this, I am waiting in a long line for 3 worth of gas, at 60 cents a gallon.

"Stand behind the President in his hour of need," seems to be the slogan these days by those who seem to judge a man by his charisma instead of his integrity. These loyalists who obviously never heard the expression, "You can fool some of the people some of the time but not all the people all the time," refuse to accept the fact that they were "duped" at the polls and rather than admit they were wrong, and to save face, they defend the presidency with a lot of thoughtless, irresponsible, bravado. Well that's just fine, but they shouldn't expect all of us to overlook the mass of unlawful injustices which have been perpetrated upon the American public by Mr. Nixon and his vast array of cronies. Maybe these people feel justified in exonerating these cronies but I still believe the vast majority of the public see it as it really is.

Those who think the media is out to "lunch" the President can forget it. He hung himself a long time ago when he put friends and people he owed favors to into important governmental positions instead of honest, qualified personnel. Yes, the President has moved the nation out of Vietnam—right into Cambodia.

Yes, he has stopped irresponsible spending, at the expense of the poor and ruin of our economy.
Yes, he is a great foreign policy strategist, all-but anyone can be if they pamper the opposition with Cadillac, Lincoln, and grain deals.
Yes, he has held taxes down for the big rich corporations while the rest of us pay through the nose.
So, by all means, let's stay loyal to this man, let's call John Dean a liar, even though we haven't heard "all" the evidence yet while the President stubbornly refuses to give any information, tapes, or what have you that could very well substantiate Dean's testimony.

Likes Day-Time Primary

To the editor:
I would like to comment about the primary in District 9. Since I was not able to attend the caucus last month, I am very glad to have the chance to help choose the 9th District members of the Town Committee.

I am sure that many others who could not make that evening meeting are pleased to see a primary in District 9. Mothers who have children do not care to go out after dark and people who work at night, it seems much fairer to allow as many people as possible to take part in all political matters and a daytime election will do this.

A Miracle

WASHINGTON — I sing a hosanna. The crack of bat against ball once again is heard in the training camps and shortly by the baseball boxscore, at once informative and esoteric, will be found in sports sections across the land. A modest wager already has been laid on the Boston Red Sox to win the American League pennant.

It seems to me the opening of the baseball season is one of the nation's miracles. Although the major leagues are big business, operated for the most part by paunchy entrepreneurs for profit, spring annually brings word that it has somehow survived. If the American male can remain faithful to a sport dressed in such vulgar corporate clothing, he may yet devise a way of getting along with foreigners.

I expect this affection for baseball is traceable to the circumstance that Americans are a notoriously sentimental breed, fond of any outdoor exhibition by unlettered males indulging themselves in masculinity. The Walter Mitty in the baseball fan is excited at the fantasy that these 18 players on the field are really his proxies.

Besides, a baseball game offers wonderful opportunities for the second guess, and thus is pure American. Hardly a play ensues that does not put the manager on the spot with the fans. As is well known, the Yankees would have won that game last August had the pitcher thrown a curve instead of the fast ball decreed by the blockhead on the bench.
To savor this after-the-fact expertise, the fan puts up with a great deal. Attending a game subject him to the evil mounds of ubers and special ops and adolescent posturing—but also with its style and grace and the drama of a pitcher facing a home run hitter with the winning runs on base. It is a bum, but it is our bum, and like fond parents we dote on its bad manners.

For some fans, life is one of desperation. What with expansion and incompetent tutoring, many of today's players are clumsy oafs of meager talent serving time toward a pension. In Washington, the fan for a generation was affronted by a collection of calls and miffits who stumbled through their games like drunken sleepwalkers. The dilution of competence by expansion has reduced some other clubs to a similar state of athletic penury. In point of fact, the average baseball player is apt to be a cretinous lout no civilized person would invite to his table. I suppose it is fitting that among baseball's all-time heroes are a couple of drunkards named Grover Alexander and Babe Ruth. They were players of extraordinary ability and thus could not have survived among the luminous without frequent recourse to the bottle.

Yes, he has held taxes down for the big rich corporations while the rest of us pay through the nose.
So, by all means, let's stay loyal to this man, let's call John Dean a liar, even though we haven't heard "all" the evidence yet while the President stubbornly refuses to give any information, tapes, or what have you that could very well substantiate Dean's testimony.

Dough Czar Waiting In Wings

By Dick West
WASHINGTON (UPI)—The American Bakers Association predicts the United States will have a bread shortage this summer unless the government curtails wheat exports.
This warning must be placed in the same category with last summer's warnings that America was headed for a gasoline shortage this winter.
Which is to say, we consumers have nothing to worry about.
As we now know from experience with the gas shortage, the government is generally to cope with any scarcity that might arise.
At this very moment, you may be sure, there is a prospective dough czar waiting in the wings ready to do for breadstuffs what energy czar, William Simon is doing for motorists.

Old-Ever Bread? Bakers' bread, hamburger buns, birthday cakes and even pizza" could disappear from the shelves before the new wheat crop is harvested.
"People may have to stand in line for a loaf of bread, at much higher prices, the way they now wait in line to buy gasoline," their spokesman says.

The great legacy which Jesus left to each of us was peace—the peace of God.
Peace does not come easily in our day for pressures within and without continue to bombard us. We are restless, anxious and unable to relax. Burdens of work, sin, fear of death, all give us on us.

Business-Directory Guide For Manchester and Surrounding Vicinity

featuring this week...

A store that you should get to know is the very helpful Manchester Safe & Lock Co. located in the center of Manchester at 453 Main Street, just north of the Main Post Office. The owner, Marcel Lapierre is also known as 'The Manchester Locksmith.' Their business caters to auto, homes, and commercial establishments. Here are just a few of the multi services this fine company handles:

Alarms, Locks & Safes, Combination Changes, plus Sales and Service—and they are bonded.
They have most keys in stock, plus repairs of all kinds, as for brands, they carry—Eagle, Weiser, Sargent, Lockwood, Kwikset, Corbin, Yale, Ruswin and Schlage.

Manchester Pet Center
CONN. COIN & STAMP

All pet owners should make the Manchester Pet Center at 9 Maple Street in Downtown Manchester their pet headquarters. Started in 1953 by "Ben" Gozzo, it is now a family business, with his wife Daisy at his side. The Gozzo family believes that satisfying the customer is the most important part of their business; and they have now served over 45,000 customers. Living at 83 Ralph Road in Manchester, also gives them a personal pride, not only in their fine store, but also in our lovely town.
They are open seven days a week from 9 to 6 daily, plus Thursday night 'til 9.
The Connecticut Coin and Stamp is also located at the entrance to the Pet Center. They carry a full line of Coins, Stamps, and Accessories. Come in any time to discuss your coin or stamp problems with helpful, courteous Mr. Gozzo. (Herald photo by Pinto)

A Glimpse at Iona's Past

Manchester's Iona Manufacturing Co. has begun shutdown of its Regent St. plant, after an announcement by General Signal Corp., the company's owner, that Iona was in a bad financial position.

Firm to Build Plant in Town APR 4 1968

The Iona Manufacturing Co. of East Hartford, a small firm producing motor cars and electrical appliances, is moving its operations to Manchester.

Iona, which is headed by William H. Sleith, its president, was founded in 1947. According to present plans, the new factory will be ready for occupancy in the fall.

Iona Adding To Its Plant

The Iona Manufacturing Co. has announced that it is planning to add a 20,000-sq-ft addition to its Regent St. plant.

Iona Will Spend $50,000 on Work

Application for a $50,000 addition to the Regent St. plant has been filed for processing at the city planning department.

Iona, Sunbeam Dropping Suits

Sunbeam Corp. has agreed to drop a patent infringement suit against Iona Manufacturing Co. of Manchester.

Lucy Drops Series, Will Do Specials

Grasso

before the committee, Mrs. Grasso said she would form more specific recommendations on state issues as she continues her dialogue with the people.

"I would hope that as I meet with the people in this campaign that I will get their views which I can then make a part of my program. The people are the fourth branch of government and the most important. I intend to bring the people in and make them truly a part of our government."

Mrs. Grasso was introduced by Ted Cummings, town Democratic committee chairman.

From Manchester she went to a meeting in East Hartford as a part of her weekend campaign tour of the state.

In a review of the Congress, Mrs. Grasso cited the passage of the pension protection bill as a major legislative achievement and, although she doubts Congress can override a veto, she said the emergency energy act providing for a rollback in crude oil prices "was a stand for the people plagued by ever-rising prices."

In loving memory of Elizabeth W. Stone, who passed away March 2, 1969. Sadly missed. Children

In Memoriam
In loving memory of Verna E. Reed who passed away March 2, 1973. To some you may be forgotten, To others a part of the past, But I thank God for the happier days, And the wonderful daughter I had, Faithful and kind in all your ways, Upright and just to the end of your days, Sincere and true in heart and mind, Those are the memories you left behind. Life is not the same for me, Since you were called away, When we meet again someday, So all I can do is tend your grave, And love and pray for you and yours, For the rest of my days.

Lovingly remembered and sadly missed by Mother and Dad

MANCHESTER
Picking up a hitch-hike Friday proved costly to a Manchester resident, Manchester Police report.

Police said James Elliott of 660 E. Middle Tpke. picked up a man at the intersection of W. Vernon and Taylor Sts. who said he needed a ride to town.

The passenger then reportedly told Elliott to take the first right (Kennedy Rd.), went through the victim's wallet, and took a check for $300. Elliott told police the man said to wait there for five minutes as he fled the scene.

The case is under investigation.

Daniel Nascembeni, 31, of Rockville, was charged Friday with third-degree assault in connection with an incident at Broad St. and W. Middle Tpke.

Police said that Nascembeni reportedly pulled out in front of a vehicle driven by Adrienne Michaud of 442 W. Middle Tpke.

The accused then refused to move on a green light and the Michaud woman honked her horn, police said. Police said that Nascembeni got out of his car, struck the 17-year-old girl and then struck her 16-year-old brother, Roger Michaud, before being pulled off by some witnesses to the incident.

Nascembeni was released on a $150 non-surety bond for appearance in Circuit Court 12 March 25.

Legal Opinion Squelches Open-End School Budget

By CONNIE TUTTLE
Assistant Town Counsel Victor I. Moses has squelched Manchester Board of Education hopes that it might submit a budget to the Board of Directors without figures for salary increases currently under negotiation.

In a letter to General Manager Robert B. Weiss, Moses referred to Town Charter requirements that all town agencies, including the Board of Education, submit a detailed estimate of their salaries to be included in the budget request as they form part of the cost of maintaining schools.

Board of Education Chairman Allan Thomas said that since current salary negotiations are not very far along, quoting a figure might jeopardize them. He agreed, however, to comply with Moses' opinion.

After submitting a detailed budget, the Board of Education does have an avenue for acquiring more funds for increased teachers' salaries if needed. After a public hearing the Board of Directors, by majority vote, may make additional appropriations.

The current Board of Education budget is $11.1 million. It is requesting $11.8 million for the next fiscal year, an increase of 6.3 percent. These figures do not include salary increases.

The text of Moses' opinion follows.

You have inquired of this office as to whether or not it would be appropriate for monies to be in the Budget of the General Manager to accommodate the Board of Education's requirements which are a part of the normal operating costs of the schools and whether they could be so transferred before the Budget is adopted without a Public Hearing of some kind? In addition, you have inquired as to the Town's obligation to furnish extra funds to the Board of Education after the Town's Budget has been adopted.

Under Section 5-2 (a) of the Town Charter, it states that the Board of Education and each office, department and agency of the Town which requires an appropriation shall, not later than February 21st of each year, submit to the General Manager a request for an appropriation for the ensuing year in accordance with a form prescribed by the General Manager and shall furnish the General Manager with such further information as to the receipts and expenditures as he shall require. A provision of this kind is generally found in town charters making it the duty of every municipal officer, the conduct of whose office requires the expenditure of money, and every board of commission having the management and control of any department of the government of the city prepare and file a detailed estimate of the amount of expenditure required for their office or department including a statement of the salaries of their subordinates. The purpose of this Section is to ascertain the amount of money which must be raised to conduct the affairs of the municipality for the ensuing fiscal year so that the business of the municipality may be conducted on a balanced budget and on sound business principles.

A further purpose is not only to control all expenditures for the year under budget appropriations, but also to give members of the public a better understanding of the financial condition and affairs of the municipalities.

The power of any municipality to control the Budget of the Board of Education is derived from the General Statutes Sec. 10-222.

This Statute requires the Board of Education to prepare an itemized estimate of the cost of maintaining the public schools for the ensuing year and to submit its estimate to the Board of Directors within the limit prescribed therein. This estimate must be itemized so that the Board of Directors can determine whether a proposed expenditure is for a purpose which it is the duty of the Board of Education to effectuate or which the Board of Education can determine in its own independent discretion. (Board of Education of Stamford vs. Board of Finance, 127 Conn. 345)

From a careful reading of the General Statutes, Sec. 10-222, and Sec. 5-2 (a) of the Town Charter, it is the opinion of the undersigned that the Board of Education is required to prepare, for the purpose of securing appropriations, estimates of the costs of maintaining schools for the ensuing fiscal year and to submit the same to the General Manager. The clear intent of Sec. 10-222 of the General Statutes and Sec. 5-2(a) of the Charter is to require the Board of Education to submit to the General Manager, at his request, all information pertaining to the possible expenditures and estimates of the costs of maintaining schools for the ensuing fiscal year. Teachers' salaries and possible increases of the same are part of the costs of maintaining schools which the Board of Education is required to submit to the General Manager as part of its proposed Budget.

The recommendation of the Board of Education that funds for school purposes (i.e., possible salary increases) be placed in the Budget of the General Manager to accommodate the Board of Education's required expenditures to be subsequently transferred to the Budget of the Board of Education circumvents the provisions of the General Statutes Sec. 10-222 and would constitute an illegal restriction on an appropriation for strictly educational purposes. The placing of such funds in the Budget of the General Manager would tend to place said funds beyond the power of the Board of Education to transfer or extend at its discretion in violation of the General Statutes Sec. 10-222 (see Board of Education of the Town of Ellington vs. Town of Ellington, et al, 151 Conn. 1). Such a procedure, even at the recommendation of the Board of Education, would establish a dangerous precedent.

As to the Town's obligation to furnish extra funds to the Board of Education after the budget has been adopted, there is a specific provision in the Charter, Sec. 5-8, where the Board of Directors may, by majority vote, make additional appropriations to the Board of Education if the Board of Directors deems it necessary because of conditions unforeseen at the time of the preparation of the annual Budget, and if it is in the best interest of the Town to do so. This, of course, only after a Public Hearing, in accordance with Sec. 3-8 of the Town Charter. Whenever any such additional or new appropriation increases the total of the expenditure side of the Budget, additional means of financing in a like amount shall be provided in such manner as may be determined by the Board of Directors.

The undersigned (Moses) conferred with Mr. Baskin, town auditor, and he has concurred with this opinion and is forwarding to you a letter to this effect.

Rockville, were treated at Rockville General Hospital Friday for injuries suffered in a one-car crash on Hunter Rd., Tolland, Friday morning.

Schools Ask $2,491,700

MONICA SHEA

A proposed budget of $2,491,700 was presented to the Board of Education Friday night by Superintendent of Schools Dr. Donald Hardy. This figure represents a 13.9 percent increase over last year's budget of $2,187,580.

Areas most affected by the proposed increase include teachers' salaries, transportation, heat, supplies, additional aides and new teaching positions. Ten aides will be required for the Phase II B and Phase II C of the Sequential Learning Program, and a teacher will be hired for Spanish and English. A part-time physical education teacher will also be hired.

This year the cost of two teachers and two aides previously paid for under the Federal Emergency Employment Act must be borne by the town.

Covertry's per pupil cost is estimated at $1,041. Dr. Hardy's proposed budget as compared with the estimated per pupil cost for education in the state of $1,194; a gap of $153. This figure reflects a decrease in the difference between Covertry's per pupil cost and the state's over the last two years. This year's gap is estimated at $189, while the difference for the school year 1972-73 was $208. Since Dr. Hardy became superintendent the cost gap has narrowed steadily. The Sequential Learning Program per pupil cost, after implementation of all five phases, is estimated at between $95 and $100 by Dr. Hardy.

The board must decide on a budget to present to the Town Council Thursday at 7:30 p.m. at a special meeting held at the high school.

G&S 'Show Boat' Stirs Nostalgia

By JUNE TOMPKINS
Aside from a case of first night jitters, last night's opener of "Show Boat" at East Catholic High School auditorium was a grand combination of color, lovable music, lively action, and excellent casting.

The Manchester Gilbert & Sullivan Workshop broke tradition for the second time in its 27-year history and presented a Broadway show, much to the liking of the audience.

The choice of shows fits in with the current trend of theatrical revivals. But the familiar tunes of Kern and Hammerstein written for "Show Boat" hardly need reviving, for they're never quite forgotten. It's good to hear them sung in their original show form.

Several unfamiliar names appear in the G&S show cast, but they're people of exceptionally fine talent and training. Deserving special mention are Susan Borst as Magnolia and Thom E. Lavoil as Ravenal. They play the romantic leads in the show. Lavoil is the tall, handsome, well-dressed gentleman he should be for the part, and his training as a voice-opera major at the Hart College of Music of the University of Hartford has further fulfilled his role.

Complementing him is Susan Borst as Magnolia. Although she appeared last year for G&S in "The Gondoliers," this is a new type of role for her with the group. She has performed lead roles in several operas including "Madame Butterfly" and "The Marriage of Figaro" during her college days at Hamline University in St. Paul, Minn. She has the depth and quality to make an artistic vocal blend in the duets she sings with Lavoil. "Make Believe" and "You Are Love" are both memorable performances by the duo.

Another first time performer with G&S is Carole S. Milano who plays Julie, the mulatto. This is her second appearance in "Show Boat" but her first time in this particular role. Her rendition of "Can't Help Lovin' Dat Man" in the first act is first rate; however, her "Bill" in the second act is not so much her type of song and doesn't show quite the pathos that is intended.

Robert Horton and Janet Acker are a picturesque Cap'n Andy and Parthy Ann Hawkes. Horton, with his thick iron gray wavy hair and well-groomed beard looks as though he was manufactured for the part. He is a very lively captain, and much too lively with his lines. Much of his dialogue is lost, and with it, probably a lot of comedy.

Donald Jones, "Ol' Man River" Joe, is not new to "Show Boat." He has played it before. There's not much one can do or not do to the "river" song, a favorite with everybody. Repetition only endears it to its listeners.

Look Out... It's Save Your Vision Week! It's a Joy to See

Jennifer Bergstrom, a 12-year old from Goldsboro, North Carolina did this poster, "It's a Joy to See." It won a national contest sponsored by the American Optometric Association. What do you enjoy seeing?

We love to see:

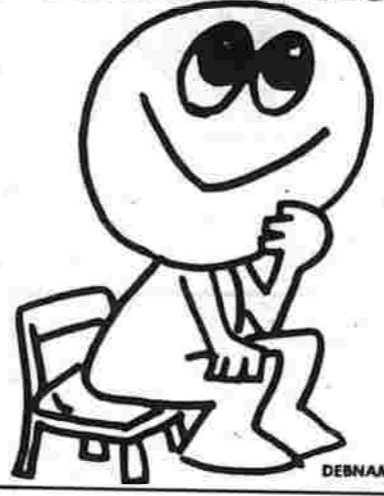

Puppies

Christmas trees

Grass

Meet Seymour Safely, a character created especially for children by the American Optometric (op-TOM-e-tric) Association. This is a group of sight specialists and other people who are interested in reminding you to take better care of your eyes.

Happy Thought
The world is so full of a number of things, I'm sure we should all be as happy as kings.
by Robert Louis Stevenson

Take Care of Your Eyes... There's So Much to See!

Good books

Keep away from targets of such things as BB guns, darts, bows and arrows, pea shooters and sling shots.

Don't carry pointed scissors, pencils or other sharp things when you run and play. Look out for pointed things like tree branches.

Smiles

Learn about the dangers of playing with firecrackers, cutting the grass, working with tools and looking into the sun. Let an adult know if something blows into your eyes.

Use comfortable lighting and sit up straight when you read or write. When watching television, move at least six feet from the screen.

Parents

Use comfortable lighting and sit up straight when you read or write. When watching television, move at least six feet from the screen.

Flowers

This girl is being given an eye test by a school nurse. Tell your parents about any trouble you have seeing, so they can take you to visit your eye doctor for an examination. One out of every four children has vision problems.

Super Sport: Jimmy Connors

Jimmy and Chris

Jimmy Connors is co-ranked with Stan Smith for the number one spot as the leading male tennis player in this country. He has beaten Smith several times.

Connors is engaged to the famous women's tennis player, Chris Evert. He is 20 years old and is from Belleville, Illinois. His mother is a tennis teacher and started tossing balls at him when he was old enough to hold a racket. Chris' father is a tennis teacher, also. She started playing at an early age.

The Suzuki Children's Orchestra

For 15 years, a Japanese teacher named Mr. Suzuki has been teaching children as young as three years old to play the violin. He has formed a children's orchestra that has toured this country giving concerts. Many children have learned to play by his method. The children learn to play at home with their mothers. Then they have a weekly lesson with a teacher. They learn to play by how the music sounds, for they are too young to read music.

How the Eye Works

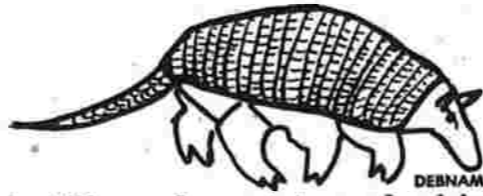

The black center of your eye is really an opening. It looks like a window in a dark house. It's called a pupil. Behind the pupil is a lens, something like the lens in a camera.

The rays of light from the object (above, it is the candle) come to the eye through the pupil and lens. An upside-down picture of the object is formed on the inside back part of the eye.

When the picture gets to the back part of the eye, it goes through a small opening and along the optic nerve (something like a telephone wire) to the brain. When the brain gets the picture, it turns it right side up again!

Animal of the Week:

The Armadillo

If you find an armadillo and want to make him happy, turn him over and scratch his tummy. He'll love it. Then let him go so he can eat fire ants, roaches, scorpions and other insects. Armadillos live in South and Central America. One kind lives in the southern part of our country as far north as Kansas and Missouri. To cross a stream, an armadillo simply swallows a lot of air so he will float.

Animals

A bull does not "charge" because he sees something red. Bulls are color blind, as are most pets and farm animals. All that dogs and cats can see are black and white.

Humans

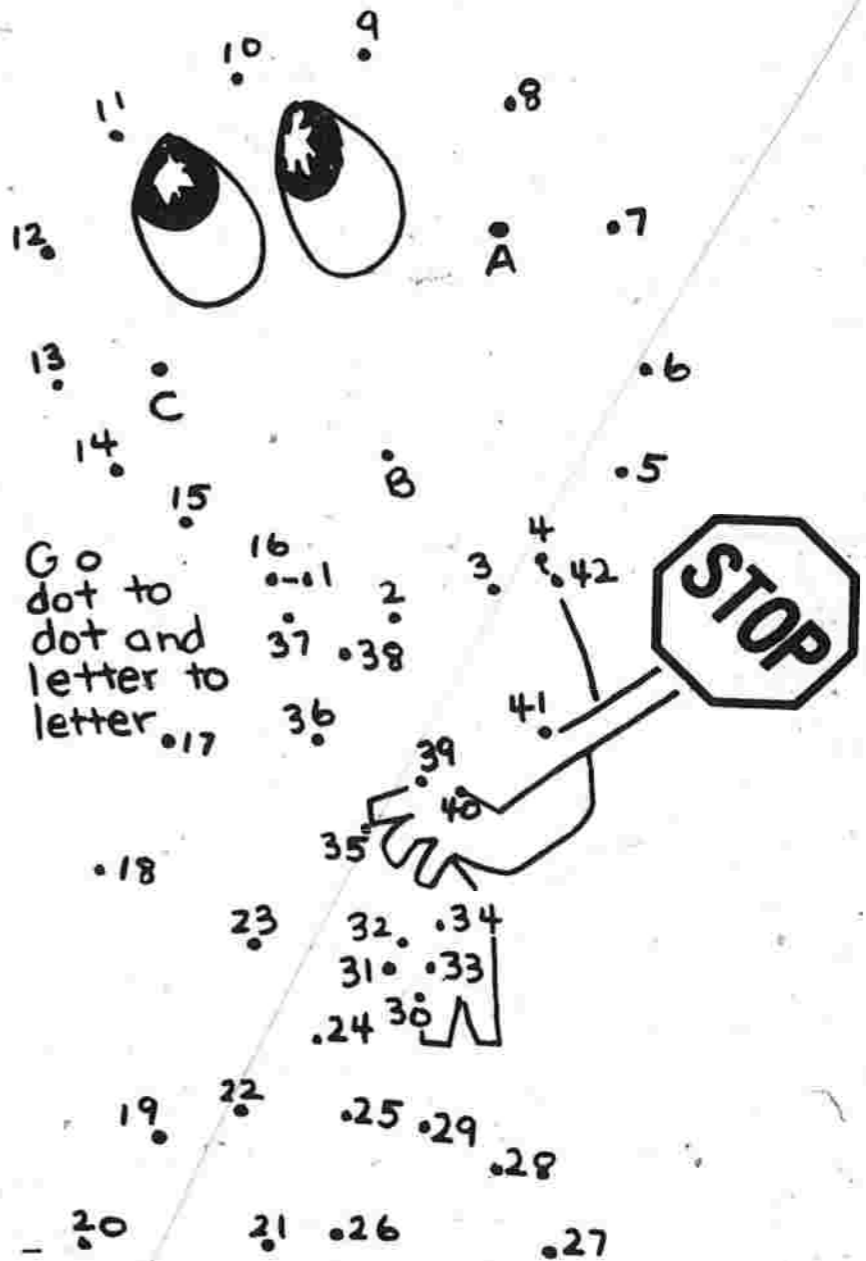

About eight to 10 percent of all males are color blind. Less than one percent of the females are color blind. Color blind people cannot tell some colors apart.

The Chinese were the first to wear glasses, some 14 centuries ago. Some glasses were tinted to protect their eyes from the sun.

Seymour Safely reminds you to:

- Look both ways before crossing the street.
- Obey all traffic rules when riding your bicycle.
- Wear "glow-in the dark" clothes when outdoors in the dark.
