Hartford Democrats Reported Swinging Toward Mrs. Grasso

United Press International Rep. Ella T. Grasso, D-Conn., the first major party woman candidate for governor of Connecticut, apparently has staged a successful raid on the home territory of her chief male rival. Mrs. Grasso, who has made a strong showing in a number of polls, is expected to gain the support of Hartford Democrats, the last hope for the campaign

State Budget Hearing Set For Tonight

WOODBRIDGE (UPI) — "Every citizen who cares about his tax dollars" was urged to participate tonight at a public hearing on the state budget.

The Connecticut Taxpayers Association which issued the appeal said that unless the proposed budget is slashed, "Connecticut will have deficits and tax increases in the near future."

The public hearing will be held at 7:30 p.m. in the State Capitol in Hartford. "The only question is whether enough individual taxpayers will show up to protect their own interests," said Grover Rees, association spokesman.

Major Bills Face Congress

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Congress this week takes up campaign financing, federal school aid and possibly no-fault auto insurance with two of the bills posing new tests between President Nixon and the Democratic-controlled legislative branch of government.

The House is scheduled to open debate Tuesday on school aid while the Senate takes up campaign spending. The Senate hopes to get to no-fault auto insurance late this week, possibly splitting its time between the two bills.

Nixon went on national radio Saturday to lobby for the school bill and its provisions against busing for racial reasons and for more local control of schools. He said he would veto a rival Senate bill if it reaches him.

The campaign spending bill, a Watergate-inspired measure, also promised a test of will between Nixon and the Democratic-controlled Congress.

The fate of no-fault auto insurance is in doubt. The Senate Judiciary Committee approved the bill last week on a narrow 8-7 vote. The same committee sat on a similar bill last year, so backers saw the vote as a good omen.

of Attorney General Robert K. Killian. Hartford Town Chairman Nicholas R. Carbone has been leaning away from Killian, whose base of support is Hartford, toward Mrs. Grasso.

The Hartford Democrats are expected to throw their support behind Mrs. Grasso, who has vowed she would live at her Windsor Locks home rather than the Executive Mansion if elected governor.

Carbone's turn to Mrs. Grasso is based on a statewide poll commissioned by the state Democratic Committee which showed she was the choice over Killian as a candidate 55 per cent to 17 per cent.

Killian, whose hopes for the gubernatorial nod hinge on his ability to get the backing of his home town convention slate of 70 Democrats, has promised a primary challenge May 23 if Hartford goes for Mrs. Grasso.

Rep. William A. O'Neill, D-East Hampton, Mrs. Grasso's campaign manager, suggested that the other contenders drop out of the race and give Mrs. Grasso a clear shot.

But Mrs. Grasso, in a Connecticut Public Information Network interview, Sunday, said she would prefer that the candidates remain in the race if they wish.

"The only poll that counts is the one that is taken on election day," she said.

"I always run as if I were far behind," she said. "Everyone has a good opportunity for good visibility, I feel that I am never a front runner."

In the poll, however, trailing far behind Mrs. Grasso and Killian was former University of Connecticut president Homer D. Babbidge with 9 per cent. Former Norwalk Mayor Frank N. Zullo didn't register sufficient strength to win mention in the state committee poll, a sampling of 800 voters taken by Peter Hart of Washington.

Zullo said the polls, which he called a waste of time, may indicate public recognition of a candidate, but recognition isn't everything.

Most delegates to the June Democratic state convention are keeping loose despite the reports of a "snowball effect" of support for Mrs. Grasso, Zullo said.

"As far as I'm concerned, when the suns of summer are upon us, you know what happens to those snowballs," he said.

The Hartford Democratic Town Committee, which is controlled by Carbone, is meeting April 17 to endorse the city's 70 delegates to the convention.

Mrs. Grasso already has the backing of Democratic leaders in New Haven and New Britain. Still uncommitted are Waterbury, Stamford, and Bridgeport.

In the poll, Mrs. Grasso would defeat Rep. Robert H. Steele, R-Conn., a leading Republican contender 55 per cent to 23 per cent. Steele, however, would edge Killian 36 per cent to 34 per cent with 30 per cent undecided.

Government Form Report Draft To be Reviewed

Manchester's 15-member government study (Blue Ribbon) committee on Wednesday will discuss the first draft of the report it will submit to the Board of Directors. Its meeting Wednesday will be at 8 p.m. in the Municipal Building coffee room.

When the board appointed the committee last August, it instructed it to study Manchester's existing council-manager form of government, to compare it to other forms and to report its findings and recommendations by May.

Should the board then determine a charter revision is worth considering, it then would appoint a Charter Revision Commission, to draft a proposal for a November referendum.

Kissinger, Brezhnev Begin Moscow Talks

MOSCOW (UPI) — American Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger and Soviet Communist party Secretary Leonid I. Brezhnev opened talks today to pave the way for a Russian visit by President Nixon, Brezhnev optimistically predicted agreement this year on a new Strategic Arms Limitation (SALT) agreement.

That was expected to be the main issue in the three days of talks to try to sort out differences on arms, trade and the Middle East that have cooled the detente between the United States and Russia. Both men were in an expansive, bantering mood when they entered the Kremlin room where the Soviet Politburo meets every Thursday.

Asked about the prospects for a SALT agreement this year, the target date set by Nixon, Brezhnev replied:

"I take an optimistic view on that. We have made a very good beginning on that process. The further we proceed from the date of the first SALT agreement in 1972, people will really appreciate the importance of that significant step."

"That document speaks of peace and good neighborliness because the only other alternative is war. There is no other alternative."

When Kissinger entered the room a moment later, Brezhnev told him he had been talking to the press. "I told them I was optimistic and they agreed with me that all want peace. That makes it easier to start."

Brezhnev also expressed the opinion that "relations at this point (with the United States) are good. There is much work to do at this time."

"You do want it better, don't you?" a newsman asked. "There are such people who would like to see things worse," Brezhnev replied.

Kissinger said he also would discuss the controversy in the United States over trade with the Soviet Union and his Middle East diplomacy.

Deadline Extended

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski today gave President Nixon four more days to respond to Nixon's subpoena of more White House materials related to Watergate.

Jaworski had filed the subpoena March 15. Nixon was to have responded to it today. But Jaworski said that at the request of Nixon's Watergate attorney, James St. Clair, he had delayed the deadline to Friday.

Cold Blankets Midwest, East

United Press International A cold wave that tumbled spring temperatures in the Midwest moved east to the Atlantic Coast today.

Freezing weather was reported from Maine to as far south as the Southern Appalachians, the Tennessee Valley and southern Arkansas. Snows were forecast for northern Minnesota through the upper Great Lakes and for Central and Northern Illinois.

Freezing rain and sleet fell early today from northeastern Alabama northward through southeastern Tennessee and eastward into northern Georgia and northwestern North Carolina. The National Weather Service issued travelers warnings for the region and said one to three inches of snow were expected in the lower elevations with four inches of snow forecast for the mountains of western North Carolina.

Talk of an early spring following a mild winter ended during the weekend.

Mother Nature struck back — dropping the temperature to 33 below zero in Roseau, Minn., setting a cold mark for late March in Chicago, icing highways in Texas, Missouri, Illinois and Indiana, and piling up as much as seven inches of snow from central Missouri through Ohio, western Pennsylvania, upper New York state and New England.

The Chicago reading of 5 above broke a 100-year record and came the same month that the thermometer climbed to 80 for a pre-spring warm weather mark on March 3.

The cold wave set record lows in dozens of midwest communities and threatened fruit trees in Indiana and Illinois, where the earlier mild temperatures had started trees to bud. Horticulturist J. Bon Harline of Anna, Ill., said the freeze may have wiped out the entire commercial peach crop in the Midwest.

An ice storm left hazardous roads over a broad area of north, west and central Texas. At least four highway deaths were attributed to storm related accidents. Two of the victims, Melvin L. and Linda Moyers died when their trailer truck hit ice at the Brazos River Bridge, skidded into another truck and exploded.

St. Louis and Cleveland, Ohio, had seven-inch snowfalls. A 12-car pile-up was reported on the icy South Expressway in Akron, Ohio.

Firebombing Kills Eight

ALLENTOWN, Pa. (UPI) — "It was horrible," said Mrs. Conchita Belasqua, 21, who lives next door to what was the Caboose Bar. "I could smell the burning flesh."

Randy Fritz, another neighbor, said the victims "weren't charred, they were steamed." The skin was falling off the victims as firemen brought them out of the taproom in this eastern Pennsylvania industrial town.

The horrible spectacle was the firebombing of the bar at 4:22 p.m. Saturday.

Eight persons died, five are still in critical condition and two others are in a serious or guarded state. Three other patrons, a fireman and a police officer were injured but not hospitalized.

Forty-five minutes after the firebombing, Ernest J. Burton Jr., 24, a local man, surrendered to police.

Burton was arraigned on eight counts of murder, 10 of attempted murder, 10 of aggravated assault and battery and one count each of risking a catastrophe, arson, criminal mischief and recklessly endangering other persons.

Bond on the four lesser charges was set at $375,000 but bail on the 28 murder, attempted murder and assault charges will not be set until Burton's preliminary hearing April 2.

Investigators said they were looking into reports that Burton was thrown out of the bar for arguing earlier in the day.

A while later, according to the reports, he returned with a five-gallon can of gasoline which he allegedly threw through the front door and ignited.

Authorities said the 18 patrons of the 20-by-50-foot bar were found piled against a bolted rear door after firemen smashed through it with axes.

Heralding Angle Parking

By CONNIE TUTTLE

"Should Manchester regain control of Main St. at a cost of at least $100,000?"

Manchester residents walking Main St. had the opportunity to express their opinions on this question Saturday afternoon.

The question arises after the state Department of Transportation (DOT) gave the town two options at a meeting Friday: Either regain control of Main St. by paying the state at least $100,000 for the traffic system installed by the state last fall, or return to parallel parking by April 10.

Mayor John Thompson, questioned Saturday, felt the $100,000 price tag was "too high a price to pay" unless advantages other than angle parking could be presented to the town.

So the question went to the people.

The majority of those interviewed felt that the benefits of angle parking should be maintained, even at the $100,000 figure. Yet some people, who did not wish to give their names, felt that the state had done a good job and it should continue to maintain control. Another man agreed with the mayor that the price tag was simply too high. These Manchester residents responded:

H. Clough
"No, it's not worth it at that price."

Frances Buonano
"Yes, I prefer the angle parking."

Mel Hathorn
"Yes, I like the angle parking."

Jim Crutchfield
"Yes, the town should take the street under its own authority."

John McParland
"Yes, I like the angle parking."

Irving Neufeld
"Yes, I like this type of parking."

St. Louis-Mexico City Train Being Planned

SAN ANTONIO, Tex. (UPI) — Passengers may be able to travel from St. Louis to Mexico City this summer without having to change trains at the border, a St. Antonio Chamber of Commerce spokesman reports.

Stanley Campbell, vice president of the Chamber's transportation committee, said after a closed session of Mexican officials and Chamber members that three-times-weekly service might begin as early as June 1.

Campbell said Amtrak reported it did not have enough equipment for the service but Mexico offered to provide it. The three-day service was decided upon even though the Mexican delegation said it was willing to provide daily service if Amtrak would reciprocate in the United States.

Mexico also agreed to change its train schedules to facilitate an inauguration of the single train service. Passengers now must change trains at the border before going into Mexico.

The Mexican representatives agreed that passengers could undergo on-board customs inspections en route to Mexico, but they will have to clear inspection on the trip back, Campbell said.

The Mexican delegates to the meeting were O. Gutierrez De Velasco, chief of the passenger traffic division of National Railways of Mexico; Domingo Remis, manager of Mexican

Meteorite May Be Mere Infant

By SISTER MARY PATRICIA S.N.D.

HOUSTON (UPI) — A meteorite which fell to earth in Egypt in 1911 is the youngest meteorite ever discovered, a leader 1.6 billion years, a scientist has claimed.

Dr. D.A. Papanastassiou said the meteorite probably was "sitting around for 10 million years" in space before falling to earth.

Papanastassiou said he used atomic dating methods to determine the age of the potash-silicate meteorite just two weeks ago. The California Institute of Technology scientist told delegates attending the final day of the 5th annual Lunar Science Conference the youngest meteorite discovered previously was 3.4 billion years old.

For years, scientists have assumed that most meteorites were 4.6 billion years old and were formed with the birth of the planets and solar system.

A Challenge to TV Documentary Makers

By RICK DU BROW

Television is caught in a kind of psychological bind because of two different American trends. The increasing dominance of urban areas, and the national reaching out for grassroots values.

There are video programs taking note of these trends, but with not too many exceptions, the urban influence is felt most heavily in broadcasts on the home screen.

The Amnesty Issue

There has been a rising tide of discussion of granting amnesty to American men who fled the country rather than perform military service in the Vietnam war. Thousands of such fugitives reside in Canada which offered a convenient haven.

Like most American expatriates, who left the country at one time or another for a diversity of reasons, they now want to come home. The question now is can they come back and under what circumstances.

We tend to accept the premise of Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield that consideration of amnesty is not the prerogative or function of Congress.

Traditionally and historically it has been served as a right of the head of state. In other times this was the king, today in the United States it is the President.

President Nixon has taken a firm line on amnesty, or forgiveness. It is his feeling that charity towards these men might be deep injustice towards those who served their country, even though they may have done so with some misgivings.

There are two classes of persons involved in this problem. There are deserters from the military and those who fled to avoid service and never were inducted.

In our view, deserters from the service who return must face the procedures prescribed for their act. A deserter's actions affect not only himself, but also those of his companions.

Hence, desertion may jeopardize a military action and the safety of all others involved in that action. In our view the deserter who chooses to return must do so with the knowledge that he could be punished after a military trial.

Those who fled to avoid military service should be allowed to return, but on condition that they agree to perform some sort of public service as reparation for that which they refused when called upon.

Some of the fugitives adopt a firm line that they should be allowed to return unconditionally. We consider this a great injustice to those who did serve and returned after giving years of their life to their country, not to mention those who did not return and gave their lives.

There is no doubt that the Vietnamese war was not a popular one and that many viewed service as an distasteful and against their conscientious beliefs.

This, however, was not the first war that Americans fought in with less than full enthusiasm. As far back as the Civil War, men on both sides viewed service with distaste and indeed many bought their way out of that conflict.

For national survival it is necessary that military service arise from national needs and the acts of the national government. It would be chaotic, if everyone made up his own mind whether he wanted to serve or not to serve.

We are a forgiving people and our tendencies are humanitarian, but what do you say to those who did their duty, even though they found it distasteful?

We still subscribe to the sentiments of Stephen Decatur's toast at Norfolk, Va. in 1816. "Our country! In her intercourse with foreign nations may she always be in the right: but our country, right or wrong."

Death Penalty Debate

Restoration of the death penalty on a national scale is now being debated in the Congress. The bill has the backing of the administration.

The debate follows the Supreme Court action two years ago which ruled the death penalty unconstitutional because of the imprecise nature of many capital punishment laws.

The new bill specifies crimes which may draw the death penalty, including murders which result from hijacking, and kidnapping.

After the court had ruled adversely on the death penalty many states took steps to implement it on the state level.

With crimes of violence rising at an accelerating pace the people want the death penalty reinstated. Many do not feel secure in their homes and attribute the lack of law and order to lenient statutes and even more lenient application of them in the courts.

Kidnapings such as the Hearst case and the Reg Murphy one in Atlanta, as well as a spate of others, are certain to bring public thinking around to approval of a death penalty law.

Public revision to crime is resulting in this stern law.

Today's Thought

Each person prays his own prayer, even when using words composed by others.

Each person brings her own image of God with whom she speaks.

Each person shares her own sense of need for which they seek.

Each person is different yet has the same God.

This week I would like to share six prayers that lift our differences as we approach God, and our commonality before God. Please join me when these words speak either to you or for you.

O God, our Father, there are some useless and troublesome things in my life that I'd like to discard. In my own strength I'm unable to get rid of them. I need thy help. There are foolish prejudices that keep me from growing in knowledge and wisdom. Help me open my mind and let them out. There are still grudges that keep my spirit sour. Grant me the willingness to dismiss them from memory. There are un-healthy fears that keep me hidden in a corner. Build up my courage so there will be no room in my life for timidity and cowardice. Amen.

The True Crisis of Main Street

Dear editor:
Your description of events concerning angle parking on Main Street in Manchester as a crisis is totally inaccurate. The true crisis is in the lack of responsiveness of government to the needs of the people.

The writer appreciates the admission of the editor that the control of Main Street should be in the Town of Manchester where it had been for a total of 140 of the last 140 years. However, the experience of the last 10 years with poor snow removal on the part of the State of Connecticut, causing motorists to be trapped against plowed snow or pedestrians and motorists finding high barriers of snow pushed against the curb has indicated a need for change in control. The only time snow removal was ever properly done was when the Town of Manchester did it. Our town has also always paid for street lighting, for sweeping, for painting the white and yellow lines, as well as for police protection.

The experiment of state control of a predominantly local street has not worked. The author of the petition (the writer of the letter) had made no agreement with the State of Connecticut (the agreement was not a negotiation, it was merely a declaration of the commissioner as to what the state would allow). Ten years ago it was not known as to the ramifications of the change of Main Street to state control and the method of change and the publicly given left turn was desired. If the change was proper then, it is not proper now, any error should be corrected whenever possible.

As to the method of change, Mr. editor, unless you can suggest a better method let it be noted that the "right of petition is one of the fundamental privileges of a free people. There is no rule on how a petition should be received. Legislators and other officials decide for themselves how to handle such requests" (Huntington Cairns, legal analyst).

The response to the petition has been one of the finest examples of grass roots actions. People have volunteered their services, people have driven and walked to Main Street to offer their help and to sign the petition. So far more than 3,000 people have expressed their views and others are still signing. Mr. Editor, this is the best way to get problems of any street in Manchester resolved.

Sincerely,
George H. Marlow

Ford's Weaknesses ...Or Strengths?

How badly have we misjudged Vice President Gerald Ford?

One of the most curious features of this city is the manner in which a man gets a reputation — as a penetrating constitutional authority, as a discerning expert on foreign affairs, or as a plodding, unimaginative congressional minority leader.

An anecdote can move with a man for years — as has President Johnson's story about Ford having played football too often with his helmet off.

Men get a reputation for brains in this capital city when they are good with words, to wit, "Ask not what your country can do for you..."

Ford's literary style, by comparison, is more limited, his voice is a little flat.

Other men were admired for their wit, charm and charisma, qualities sometimes confused with intelligence.

Ford is lacking in these virtues. To a friend says "Jerry's unadventurous, unimaginative, even pedestrian in his thinking."

Presidents, senators and congressmen have gained prestige and intellectual stature when they or their speech writers enunciate innovative concepts — which may or may not work.

Even Ford's admirers don't claim originality in his trademark. As a result of the year or another, Ford has been described as a seat warmer without visible signs of leadership. But the qualities outlined above are not those most required of a president.

What then about Gerald Ford?

Says an old college friend, "He's slow to embrace new ideas, but no one has to tell him anything twice. He doesn't try to change the system. He sees his job as trying to make it work."

A legislator who worked with Ford on Capitol Hill for a decade says, "I don't know about his brightness or his originality. But as an administrator he's tops. You come to him for a decision. He asks sharp questions — brings in other people, asks them about some gaps in what you've said, and seeks confirmation or objection. Then makes his decision. It's usually the right one, well-reasoned and, in that point — not without. He's tops in this business."

Almanac

United Press International
Today is Monday, March 25th, the 84th day of 1974 with 281 to follow.

The moon is approaching its first quarter.

The morning stars are Mercury, Venus and Jupiter.

The evening stars are Mars and Saturn.

Those born on this date are under the sign of Aries. Italian symphony conductor Arturo Toscanini (ahr-toor'-oh tahs-kan-nee'-nee) was born March 25th, 1867.

Also on this day in history:
In 1900, the Socialist party of the United States was formed in Indianapolis.

In 1911, a total of 147 persons died when trapped in a fire that swept the Triangle Shirtwaist Company in New York City.

In 1947, an explosion in a mine in Centralia, Ill., resulted in the deaths of 111 men, most of them asphyxiated by gas fumes.

The Whole Song
To the editor:
As I read my article in the Forum March 20, I noticed that there were parts of the song left out. They were: For the sense to learn, the lessons He Taught. So here is the whole song over again.

God Bless God
God Bless God; for the lakes, the trees, the good winds that blow, for the hills, the plains, the rain and the snow. God Bless God, God Bless God; for the sense to learn, the lessons He taught, God Bless God, God Bless God; for the sense to learn, the lessons He taught, God Bless God, God Bless God; for the sense to learn, the lessons He taught, God Bless God, God Bless God.

Another aspect of Gerry Ford, mentioned by many and women in Washington, was stated succinctly by one: "When Gerry looks at you out of those soft eyes, you can't say 'no'."

There obviously are strengths as well as weaknesses in the vice-president.

Satellite Vehicle for Instant Instruction

By R.M. SORGE

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Thanks to earth satellite communication, a classroom for higher education can now be extended over one third of the earth's surface for instant instruction.

UNESCO, the United Nations Educational, Social and Cultural Organization, reports on one successful academic venture that reaches across the entire Pacific Ocean. A symposium that includes nine centers for higher education on various Pacific islands called PEACESAT — Pan-Pacific Educational and Communications Experiment Using Satellites — has been functioning on a regular basis for more than two years, UNESCO reports.

Participants in the experiment are the Wellington Polytechnic Institute in New Zealand, the Papua New Guinea Institute of Technology in Lae, the University of Hawaii as well as Maui Community and Hilo College, both in the Hawaiian Islands, the University of the South Pacific (USP) at Suva, Fiji, USP's Regional Extension Center in Tonga, the Department of Education of Pago Pago in American Samoa, and the Department of Public Affairs in Saipan, the Mariana Islands.

Participate Regularly
Students of these institutions, UNESCO says, can now participate "in regular inter-university seminars in education, in poetry, on nuclear testing, environment and pollution, and on the International Law of the Seabed."

"The six-program series of seminars on seabed law, for example," says the UNESCO reports "was based on lectures given by an expert at the University of Auckland, New Zealand, which were sent over telephone cables to PEACESAT station at Wellington Polytechnic for broadcasting. Seminar participants in this case included students in Anchorage, Alaska, which falls in the coverage area of ATS-1."

It is this satellite — Applications Technology permanent successor to it. ATS-1 was launched by the United States National Aeronautics and Space Administration in December, 1968, and is positioned in the mid-Pacific 22,300 miles high directly over the equator. Since 1971, NASA has authorized its use for the Pacific experiment 10 hours per week, at the initiative of Prof. John W. Bystrom of the University of Hawaii.

Another much larger experiment using satellite communications for education, has been envisaged in India in cooperation with NASA. It is to provide some 8,000 Indian villages with instructional television next year. Its objectives are contribution to family planning and improvement of teacher training, agriculture and other occupational skills, and health and hygiene.

The long-range goal is to install at least one television set in each of the country's 550,000 villages over the next 10 years in a vast scheme for closer national integration.

Republicans To Hear State Fiscal Review

A presentation by State Comptroller Nathan Agostinelli on "The Fiscal Facts about the State of Connecticut" is being sponsored by the Republican Towns Committee for the benefit of the public — of whatever political affiliation. It will be Tuesday at 8:30 p.m. in the Manchester Municipal Building.

Agostinelli will show charts, to visually emphasize the state financial picture. He may be joined in the presentation by other state officials. A question and answer period will follow.

Agostinelli, who was Manchester mayor from November 1966 to January 1971, when he assumed the present post, is a leading contender for the Republican nomination for governor.

Kidnaping Suspect Arrested

LAGONEGRO, Italy (UPI) — Investigators have arrested the suspected ring leader of the gang that staged the multinational dollar kidnaping of J. Paul Getty III, police sources said Saturday.

The sources identified the suspect, held in this southern Italian town where he was freed by his kidnapers Dec. 15, as Girolamo Piramonti.

They said money found in his possession has been identified as part of the $2.9 million ransom paid last December for release of the 17-year-old grandson of the American oil billionaire.

Six suspects were charged earlier with kidnaping the teen-aged "golden hippie" from Rome and cutting off his right ear to force the ransom payment. One of the six, an escaped convicted murderer, still is sought.

All were from this region of Calabria on the toe of the Italian boot where investigators said they believed Getty was held during the five-month and five days of his abduction.

Getty was seized July 10 in a Rome piazza. He told investigators after his release Dec. 15 that he was kept blindfolded and could not identify his abductors.

Investigators theorized that he may have been abducted by a gang of Calabrian drug runners seeking capital to finance their operations.

DevCo Considers Sewer District

DevCo is exploring the legal and financial feasibility of establishing a sewer district for providing sanitary sewers and sewage disposal facilities for the land DevCo owns. The announcement was made by Richard North, project manager. Should the town ultimately establish a sewer system for the lake, the sewer system for DevCo could be merged into the town system, North said. "One of the items of primary concern to us in planning for the development of the land which we own in Coventry has been proper sewerage facilities to service the property in an adequate fashion," North said. "This is also a concern to the residents of Coventry, especially those whose land is near that which we own, and this concern has been expressed to us through the many inquiries we have received in the past few months. We feel the formation of a sewer district within the northwest area of Coventry would be a solution to the problem." The district, once formed, would have the power and authority to provide sewer service to the area. Since most of the area to be served would be owned by DevCo, virtually all the assessment would be DevCo's burden. Adjoining property owners could join the proposed district should they desire.

Negotiations at Impasse Between Town, Employes

MONICA SHEA Correspondent 742-9493 Charges of "not bargaining in good faith" have been made by Coventry Town Manager Allen Sandberg and Gerald Daniels, union bargaining agent for town hall employes, with Daniels threatening to file charges against the town. Daniels expressed concern that a third party (Powers) gave advise to the town manager, "that was in fact reneging on the tentative agreement." He cited as one example of a change the fact that the tentative agreement called for overtime pay after 37 1/2 hours. The union is representing eight employes of the town hall. Daniels said that a tentative contract had been agreed upon on Feb. 13 and that the town

Real Estate Commission May Be Sued HARTFORD (UPI) — Education Instruction Incorporated, a Hartford civil rights group, says it is going to sue the state Real Estate Commission for ignoring the problem of housing discrimination. Boyd Hinds said in a television interview Sunday on WFSB there is widespread "racial steering" when minorities seek housing in predominantly white areas. James Carey, executive director of the commission, said there is a problem of racial steering but complaints need to be filed with it before it can act.

The School Bell

Bennet Junior High School Alan Cone, Principal

SOCIAL STUDIES IN THE JUNIOR HIGH Mrs. Bernice Maher, Social Studies Dept. Head In the two hundred years between 1700-1900, man's total knowledge doubled. Between the years 1900-1950, this knowledge was again doubled. Then in the ten brief years 1950-1960, the amount of information was doubled again. This knowledge has become history and has become a part of our lives. It is from this vast store of historical knowledge the social studies curriculum is formulated.

United States History In Grade 8, Bennet students embark on a "Study of the United States," historically, politically and culturally. The phenomenal growth of our country from the small, insignificant thirteen colonies to a world power of today is a story in itself. The course covers the American Revolution and other war periods (even current event material on Vietnam), our cultural contributions, minority groups, and problems of today—all areas of supreme importance. The social studies program at Bennet Junior High provides this "training ground."

Selection Programs In Grade 9, a selective program has been used for the past several years. Students have chosen to take such semester courses as Canada, Australia and New Zealand, African Studies, Comparative Government and Economics or a full year's course in "World History" and one entitled "You in Today's World."

Michigan Suffering Shortage of Wolves

MARQUETTE, Mich. (UPI) — Michigan wildlife authorities Saturday reported yet another shortage — wolves. To do something about it they imported two male and two female timber wolves from Minnesota and released them in the Huron Mountain area, hoping they would breed and enlarge the diminishing wolf population of the region.

our spring artificial flowers are in bloom! come take a look, and make an arrangement; we have a wonderful selection and they are only from 10¢ to 19¢... FAIRWAY the miracle of man's first downtown manchester

Michigan Suffering Shortage of Wolves Dr. David Mech, an expert on endangered wildlife for the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, said "these four wolves are probably the healthiest in the nation." He said that before they were released in the woods, they were vaccinated against rabies, distemper, leptospirosis and hepatitis.

Solar Heating Test Underway VANCE A. CRISWELL, but he said because of unseasonably warm weather, the system might not get a real test until next winter. The solar system is capable of storing enough heated water for up to four days in a 15,000-gallon tank. If more than four straight cloudy days are experienced, a conventional backup oil-fired unit will be used. AAI Corp., of Cockeysville, Md., a private engineering firm, designed and built the system, putting $73,000 of the firm's money into it. The company has patented much of its work and eventually plans to market a solar heating system. "It's certainly living up to expectations," a company official said. Walter Friend, an AAI project manager, was unable to estimate what the cost of such a system would be for a private industry, but said future systems similar in size to the Timonium school unit could cost less since much of the expense was for initial design. "We will collect data from our study and pass it on to architects and businessmen who will hopefully use it in designing factories, schools, shopping centers and eventually homes," he said. Design of the system for the local school began in January and it was put into use on March 8. It actually started heating classrooms March 11. "The system put out more heat than the engineers expected it to," said Principal

ENERGY SUPPLY REPORT #2 Energy Shortage "Product of Man's Own Making" Says New York Bank Study

"An energy shortage in the United States at this time was not inevitable. It... is a product of man's own making - the consequence of a long failure to recognize this basic economic fact of life: the supply of energy is directly related to the expenditures made to provide that supply." - From a report by the Energy Economics Division of Chase Manhattan Bank.

Woman's View

By GAY PAULEY LPT Women's Editor NEW YORK (UPI) - Just call Lisa Sottis the Golden Greek of the jewelry world. The Athens-born artist specializes in one-of-a-kind, handcrafted gold jewelry, often paired with antique stones. Many of her customers are of that special body of international culture called the Beautiful People. Sottis herself is a BP. Because she specializes in gold work, the brown-eyed blonde is fretful. Her jewelry depends on a steady supply and now, like anyone else working with gold, she's facing inflation and uncertainties of supply. "It is one problem I don't need," she said in her accented English. "Do you know, prices have multiplied seven times over the last three years. Such a headache!" She used to be able to order each week just what gold she needed. Now it's getting so I need. Now it's getting so I need. Gold is warm in metal. Gold is warm. "Diamonds anybody can have. Today there's little individual designing in diamonds... no artistic quality." Miss Sottis, having kissed diamonds off, added that she gets most of her raw gold supplies from dealers in Zurich and London. The necklaces (some almost brooch-like), earrings, belts and other jewelry Miss Sottis has hammered out can only have risen in value along with the rest of the gold in such assorted places as family jewel collections, jewelry stores and Ft. Knox. Her designs were never expensive - prices on individual designs start at $8,000 and go on up to $15,000 for the more elaborate "breastplate" necklaces. I talked with the sculptress - painter - jeweler during her stopover in New York en route to Milan, where she now has her home and studio. She was one of the jet setters who helped open the fabulous new Patino resort at Manzanillo, Mexico. Miss Sottis (she's married but uses her maiden name professionally) fits the stereotype of the restless international set with her always-on-go schedule, her waist-length blonde hair worn straight, her permanent sunburn, her little figure, her Paris-label clothes. The jewelry alone is time-consuming. The 29-year-old artist said some of the pieces take her several weeks, even months. The jewelry alone is time-consuming. Burke Will Seek Nomination for Seat in House

Atty. Martin B. Burke of Rockville announced over the weekend that he will seek the Democratic nomination for state representative from the 56th District.

Atty. Martin B. Burke

Atty. Thomas Dooley, who now holds that seat, announced last week that he will not seek re-election. The 56th District encompasses one section of Vernon while two other parts of town are included with other towns in the 55th and 57th Districts.

Atty. Burke who is with the law firm of Flaherty, Burke and Marder of Rockville, is a native of Rockville, the son of Mr. and Mrs. E. Fenton Burke.

In a letter to members of the Democratic Town Committee, Burke said he realized that Dooley's place will be difficult to fill.

"It is an exceptionally able and articulate legislator," he said. He added, "I am also keenly mindful of the respectability and challenge of the office which I seek, particularly so in this time of myriad criticisms of government and the political process."

He said he will personally contact each member of the committee, between now and August, not only to ask for their endorsement but also to seek their views on the issues facing Vernon and the state.

"My decision to seek the nomination has been carefully weighed and made only after a thorough review, with Tom Dooley, of the responsibilities and commitments of the office and the preceding campaign," Burke said.

He added, "In seeking your support I offer to wage a fair yet vigorous campaign, and pledge to continue the responsible and responsible representation that Vernon has enjoyed in the House of Representatives."

Burke lives at 38 Reed St. with his wife, Ellen, and their three sons, Matthew, Jonathan and Andrew.

He is a graduate of Williston Academy, East Hampton, Mass.; Colgate University with an A.B. degree; and the Albany Law School, Albany, N.Y.

He has been admitted to the bar in New York and Connecticut, was formerly a lecturer and presently a member of the Adjunct Faculty at the

Cotter Favors Tax Relief

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Rep. William R. Cotter, D-Conn., says he is supporting tax relief measures which would give wage earners $14.5 billion in combat inflation.

One measure would boost the personal exemption from $750 to $1,000 for each dependent and the other would adjust the income tax withholding schedule.

The two measures, Cotter said Saturday, would provide additional purchasing power and help boost the economy. He said he is forwarding his proposals to the House Ways and Means Committee, chaired by Rep. Wilbur Mills, D-Ark.

Democrats Take Poll; Will Name Delegates

The Manchester Democratic Town Committee will meet twice next month - on April 3 to open and count the ballots in its preferential poll for a gubernatorial nominee, and on April 17 to name delegates to the state convention that will choose the nominee.

The committee's 80 members are being asked to indicate which of four candidates they prefer - State Atty. Gen. Robert Killian, Congressman Ella Grasso, former UConn president Homer Babidge, or former Norwalk Mayor Frank Zullo. They may indicate also they are "undecided."

Manchester will have 22 delegates to the state convention. The town committee's bylaws specify they will be chosen by proportional representation, in accordance with the vote each candidate receives.

Some of the days lost because of the December ice storm and stormy weather have already been made up. Because school is scheduled to end on Friday, June 21, the recommendation will suggest a day other than the following Monday.

The board will have a presentation on the American Field Service exchange program in Manchester schools given by students who are participating in the program.

Kennedy will also report on the financial status of school cafeteria operations and the fuel oil status and its implications on the board's budget.

The board will act on three resignations, a leave of absence request, and a staff appointment.

Class Pitchers in Red Sox Camp

FLORIDA - For too many years the Boston Red Sox were short of top-grade pitching. No longer is this true. Thanks to some off-season trades...

For the record, Tiant won 20 games and Lee 17 in 1973. It's the newcomers who have given the Red Sox faithful new hope...

Under a broiling Florida sun - the weather claimed by the Chamber of Commerce in cities that feature major league ball clubs in the Grapefruit League - Johnson took time out to explain his outlook after the first month's workouts.

"Right now," Johnson continued, "we will carry nine pitchers back to Boston. The ones who show they can win down here will be the ones that we take to Milwaukee for our opening series (April 5, 6, 7)..."

Tiant and Lee Set

"I know from past experiences that (Luis) Tiant and (Bill) Lee will be starting pitchers on what they showed last year."

Lakers in Playoffs, Walton Battle Rages

NEW YORK (UPI) - The Los Angeles Lakers have come up with a National Basketball Association playoff berth for the 14th straight year but the lowly Portland Trail Blazers have something that may be even better - a shot at landing Bill Walton of UCLA.
