Explosion Damages Building Near U.N.

NEW YORK (UPI) — An explosion and fire, apparently caused by accumulated gas, today ripped through a commercial building and heavily damaged an adjacent apartment building just one block from the United Nations.

A check of hospitals showed 53 persons were treated for injuries, most of them minor. Two men working in a garage under the apartment building were unaccounted for and a search for them was underway.

Most of the injured came from the Envoy Towers, a residential building adjoining the structure where the blast occurred, and they suffered cuts from flying glass. The 250 families in the building were ordered evacuated.

The injured were taken to five area hospitals. One suffered serious burns, a Bellevue Hospital spokesman said.

The blast shortly before 7 a.m. EDT severely damaged the two buildings and blew out windows in the east midtown area between Second and First avenues from 42nd Street north to 50th Street.

One of the buildings, a 22-story block-long office building at 305 E. 45th St., suffered the most damage. Almost the entire ground floor on the north side was blown out.

There were no immediate reports of damage to the huge United Nations complex, which is located east of Second Avenue along the East River and runs from 42nd Street to 48th Street.

Two and one half hours after the blast, firemen still were battling a stubborn fire which they contained to the ground floor of the commercial building.

Firemen with heavy axes climbed to upper floors of the 18-story apartment building to break through buckled doors to reach occupants believed trapped inside.

At the time of the blast shortly before 7 a.m. EDT, at least two custodial employees were in the 25-story commercial building.

Sal Desposito, a porter, told reporters:

"I was sitting down in the back (on the first floor) and the whole thing went up. Nothing hit me and I ran out."

John Moglia, another building employe, was standing over the basement where he believes the explosion took place.

"The whole floor came up," he said. "I was thrown about 30 feet. I lost my glasses and my cap but I wasn't hit by any flying objects."

others over a wide area, littering the streets of mid-Manhattan and disrupting vehicular and pedestrian traffic.

The blast sent a cloud of dust and smoke over the area, but the accompanying fire was confined to the ground floor.

Ambulances rushed the more seriously injured to Bellevue Hospital.

Assistant fire chief Lester Snyder said, "We still have a fire problem on the ground floor." Heavy smoke and flames still poured from the floor two hours after the blast.

"I heard thunder, what I thought was thunder," said Al Armour, president of Projections Systems, whose office was in the explosion building. "I have half a million dollars worth of inventory in that building."

The United Nations Missions of Burundi and Indonesia are located in the building and the U.N. Mission from Nepal has offices in the adjoining apartment house.

Waiting for a Bite

You are never too young to learn how to fish nor too old to try landing that big one. Saturday fishing opened in the state and anglers of all ages tried their luck and as usual had varying degrees of success. George Russo of 188 Broad St. is giving son, George Jr., a lesson in the art at Center

Springs Park. Whether George Jr. caught anything or not is not as important as going fishing with dad — a pleasure they'll both enjoy until the time comes for George Jr. to pass on the angling arts to his own children. (Herald photo by Dunn)

Israel Building Supply Roads To Mt. Hermon

United Press International Israeli and Syrian army engineer units worked under artillery fire today to build supply roads up the 9,000-foot slopes of snowy Mt. Hermon, the battleground for control of the Golan Heights.

The Tel Aviv military command said Israeli work crews struggled under constant Syrian artillery fire to widen a road to the peak.

Israeli planes, mortars and field guns bombarded Syrian engineering units building their own road on the northeast slopes, the command said.

Arab newsmen in southern Lebanon said Israel beefed up its positions on Mt. Hermon by occupying Tel El Chahar, part of the mountain in Lebanese territory. Lebanese soldiers fired mortars at the Israelis, but failed to dislodge them, the reports said.

An Israeli military spokesman, however, said, "We don't have any information" about the Lebanese news reports.

Syrian military communiques said "several" Israeli soldiers were killed and tanks destroyed in day and night artillery duels over the mountain. Syria said two raiding Israeli fighter-bombers were driven off by ground fire.

"I couldn't see anything or hear anything for what seemed like about ten minutes. I groped my way out but on my own power not with the help of firemen."

The cause of the early morning blast was not immediately determined, but fire officials said they suspected a gas leak.

"It must have been leaking for a long time," one fire officer said.

The explosion apparently centered in the basement and blew out much of the structure's brickwork.

It also blew out every window in the building, and shattered

Cleaner Air Is Aim Of Workshop Tonight

Transportation strategies to help reduce smog in the Greater Hartford area will be the subject of a public workshop tonight at 7 at Manchester's Highland Park School.

The workshop, to be conducted by officials of the state Departments of Environmental Protection, Finance & Control, and Transportation, is one of seven sessions schedule in towns throughout the Capitol and Central Planning Regions.

Transportation strategies to be developed, which may have wide-ranging social and economic effects, are aimed at achieving air quality standards set by the federal government.

Air quality measurements taken by the Department of Environmental Protection show that the national air quality standards cannot be achieved in the metropolitan area without some reduction in pollutants emitted by automobiles and trucks.

To meet the standards by the required date, the federal Environmental Protection Agency has ordered Connecticut to develop a transportation strategy to achieve the standards. The Hartford area is one of more than 30 metropolitan regions across the country which must prepare such plans.

The 36 towns in the Capitol and Central Planning Regions will be affected. The affected towns include Manchester, Andover, Bolton, Hebron, South Windsor, Tolland, and Vernon.

The three state agencies conducting tonight's workshop have agreed that a transportation strategy can be prepared, providing for achievement and maintenance of the air quality standards, improved transportation, beneficial economic development, and energy conservation.

A technical consultant, GCA Technology Corp., has drafted a list of optional transportation strategies, which will be aired at tonight's meeting. GCA's work isn't a proposed plan, state officials emphasize, and is only a preliminary analysis of what may be done.

Cancer Fund Big Winner In Political Hoop Tilt

By SOL R. COHEN

The Manchester Cancer Fund is about $300 richer today and an assorted group of Republican and Democratic politicians about 300 pounds poorer — thanks to a hard-fought basketball game Sunday afternoon at Manchester High School.

The team representing the Republican Town Committee prevailed by a 29 to 23 score over the team representing the Democratic Town Committee.

They played eight-minute quarters, except for the third quarter, which had 10, and February, which has 28.

The games had everything — real uniforms (grey with blue letters and an elephant for the Republicans, tan with red letters and a donkey for the Democrats), four certified referees, a team of nine professional-type cheerleaders for the Democrats and four not-so-professional cheerleaders for the Republicans, a running score on the electrical scoreboard, an announcer (Al Werbner) who knew the score, and even some scoring (if not with the ball, certainly with the spectators).

The wonder of it all is that the players had any endurance left after the long, tiring practice session. That they had the desire to play and to win was attested to by the furious pace of scoring and missing, take your choice.

It took no time at all — only 3:18 into the first quarter — for the first score, when "Frenchy" LaPointe, chalked up the first two points for the Democrats. The Republicans called "foul," but didn't get away with it. They said later they thought LaPointe was patting his stomach — not shooting the ball.

Anyway, it took only two minutes more for the Republicans to tie the score, when Charlie "Energy" Crocini put one up from almost two feet out. What yelling and cheering. From then on the game settled down to a furious pace of almost-scoring.

The Republicans shot a fantastic 11 per cent, the Democrats almost equaled it at nine per cent.

The Democrats led 5 to 4 at the end of the first quarter. The Republicans outscored the Democrats 15 to 8 in the next quarter and led 19 to 13 at the half. The Democrats came back in the third quarter and narrowed the gap to 24 to 22, still in favor of the Republicans. The latter prevailed in the fourth quarter, outscoring the Democrats 5 to 1 and winning the ballgame 29 to 23.

The high-point man and most valuable player of the game was Republican Frank Rizza, who starred on the East Catholic championship team nine years ago.

The professional-type Democratic cheerleaders, wearing uniforms donated by the Womens Auxiliary of the Manchester Football League, were: Joanne Costello, Louise Prignano, Sue Price, Mary-Jean Tani, Rachael Prignano, Jo-Ann Moriarty, Anne Prignano, Barb McConville and mascot Kim Costello.

The Republicans countered with Ellen Zinsser and Jennie Gallagher, in cheer-leader-type uniforms; Fred "Big Bear" Peck, in straw hat and ankle-length raccoon coat (it looked like the raccoon was alive); and Vivian Ferguson, in a Charlie Chaplin outfit, complete with cane and a black wig.

Typical original cheers were:
"Open the door ...
"Roll out the mat ...
"Come on Democrats ...
"Knock 'em flat."
Or:
"GOP, GOP ...
"Beat those guys ...
"For you and me."
To be $300 richer and 300 pounds poorer — that's not too bad. Ask anyone. Ask "Frenchy" LaPointe. Ask me.

Miss Clarahan Named Loyalty Day Queen

Miss Linda Jeanne Clarahan, a senior at Manchester High School, was crowned VFW Loyalty Day Queen Saturday night at a dance at the VFW Home.

She will represent the Manchester VFW Post and its Auxiliary at a Loyalty Day Ball May 3 in Middletown where she will compete for the State Miss Loyalty Day title. The state queen will reign at the Loyalty Day Parade May 5 in Middletown.

Miss Suzanne Thurbault, Miss VFW 2046, was second runner-up; Miss Patricia Hayden of Manchester, third runner-up; and Miss Lucille Hood of East Hartford, fourth runner-up.

Miss Clarahan, daughter of Mrs. Shirley Clarahan of Green Rd. is a member of the National Honor Society, has been actively involved in many areas of school and community interests. She has served as editor-in-chief of the Literary/Art magazine, as assistant director of the Rhythmic Choir of the Center Congregational Church, a member of the Drama Club as well as active in productions of the Community Theater, the Triangle Playhouse in Farmington and others.

She has been active in student government and has done volunteer work for inner-city children and convalescent homes. Among her many honors have been the Civitan International, Good Citizen Award, the VFW Speechwriting Contest, Youth Citizenship Award given annually by the Soroptimist Club of Hartford, and her selection as third runner-up in the Connecticut Junior Miss Pageant for 1974.

Judges for Saturday's competition were Town Director Phyllis Jackson, Mrs. Mary Sterud, director of nursing at Manchester Memorial Hospital, Burl Lyons, publisher of The Herald, David Wilson, manager of the World's Main St. store, and Mark Oladell, manager of the Cut and Curl Beauty Salon.

Mitchell-Stans Trial Near End

NEW YORK (UPI) — The government pressed to shore up its case against former Attorney General John N. Mitchell and former Commerce Secretary Maurice H. Stans with rebuttal testimony today in the final week of the first trial of former Cabinet members since the 1920s.

The first rebuttal witness was Richard B. Vine, director of the State Department's Office of Western European Affairs. He began his testimony late Friday, telling how he was attached to the U.S. embassy in Bern, Switzerland, on Nov. 30, 1971, when Mitchell, then attorney general, phoned about the jailing of Robert L. Vesco.

Vine said he told Mitchell that the international financier, now a fugitive in the Mitchell-Stans case, had been jailed on a felony charge, "disloyal management," brought by a shareholder of Investors Overseas Services,

Ltd., which Vesco had taken over.

Vesco was released on $125,000 bail, and the charge was later dropped.

Mitchell and Stans are charged with trying to impede a federal investigation of Vesco's operations in exchange for his secret $200,000 cash contribution to the 1972 Nixon re-election campaign. The trial began its 10th week today.

U.S. District Court Judge Lee P. Giagliardi told the jury of nine men and three women that testimony would be finished today even if it was necessary to go into a night session. Summons and the judge's charge to the jury were scheduled for Tuesday and Wednesday.

Stans's defense rested its case late Friday. Mitchell's attorney, Peter Fleming Jr., indicated he might have another witness or two, but this was not certain. Meanwhile the judge let the government get its rebuttal started.

Spending Power Play

Whether the assembly-expanded state budget clears Gov. Thomas Meskill's desk unscathed apparently hinges on what the assembly ultimately enacts in its efforts to tighten control over the purse strings.

At stake is an interpretation of where legislative powers end and executive powers begin.

Granted, the governor in his program of the past four years, made many enemies as he placed legislatively appropriated funds in escrow and pared budgets wherever he could. Much of the campaign that is upcoming will be devoted to criticism and defense of these actions.

The issue though is not whether Gov. Meskill's austerity decisions were the wisest or the best ones but whether he or any governor should retain this right.

The assembly has given some recognition that the governor should have some control over appropriation disbursement with its so-called compromise that he could make 2 and 4 per cent cuts if the economy falters.

This compromise recognizes another political fact of life. Despite unhappiness in certain quarters over the governor's tight-fistedness with state money, the fact is he did turn a deficit-prone state budget into a surplus one and the result has been some relief, a fact which must be considered.

So really what is at stake is not so much past actions by Gov. Meskill but the nagging fear that even though he is a lame duck since he is not seeking re-election, he might continue his thrifty ways and some of these decisions could come at an awkward time for those seeking re-election in the assembly.

This is particularly true of the additions the assembly has written into the budget. If the power of the governor to control expenditures is not restricted, he could well sign the enlarged budget and still have the option of not spending some of the additional funds if the economy falters. A veto has been threatened by the governor if the proposed restrictions on his power over administering the budget is enacted.

But the hazards are many in a veto as well as in forcing a veto. If the assembly imposes budget spending requirements on the governor, he will likely use his veto powers to get a budget closer to his liking, either by sending the whole package back to the assembly or through the use of the line veto.

It may be hard for the assembly to make or accept this compromise. Should it override the vetoes and couple these with limitations on the governor's administrative powers over budget funds it must accept the consequences. In the light of current economic news, the future is not as bright as the assembly may have hoped when budget deliberations were made only a few weeks ago.

We would hope that the issue of extending assembly control into the budget expenditure process can be given a quiet death for the time being. It is apparent to us the real motivation behind it is not a sincere and fundamental constitutional concern but a situation of attempting to exploit a lame duck administration for political purposes. This fact alone makes it imperative that executive control over the budget should not be watered down at this time.

We are concerned the assembly may well have over extended itself in the budget it has sent to the governor in the light of economic uncertainties ahead. It is therefore no time to lock the present governor, or his successor, into a "forced" spending program designed in the light of immediate political considerations rather than the state's long-range economic well-being.

Election Day Drinking

One of the minor issues before the Connecticut General Assembly is whether bars should continue to be closed for state and national elections.

One lawmaker has opposed the idea of allowing the bars to be open, charging there is a danger of vote buying.

We can't agree. First, if the assembly puts a lid on campaign spending, it is doubtful any candidate will have enough money left by election day to cover the current cost of booze; let alone hire the staff needed to man the waterholes to seek out members of the electorate who have not voted and, more important, will "vote right" in exchange for a bottle of soda or, in the case of higher office, a cocktail.

Second, we don't think there is as much danger of "vote buying" at the last minute, as there is in the weeks before the election. The scandals in some of our communities over misuse of the absentee voting process is of more concern to us.

And, if a candidate or his adherents wants to make an effort to influence the voters on election day, it can be done whether the bars are open or not.

Maybe a compromise is in order. Let the bars be open on election day but make proof that the would-be patron has voted as a condition of admission. This might be an incentive to vote for those who think that politics are too dry now without drying up the waterholes too.

Seriously though, it seems to be a rather sad commentary on politics as a whole when it is implied that bars need to be closed because some voters are corruptible and, more to the point, some political adherents would exploit it. No law can really change that.

Careless Drivers

To the editor: Something should be said for the drivers of Manchester. I have had two very bad experiences with them through my two older sons.

The first was a month after I moved to Laurel Street. In July, my 13-year-old son was riding his bike with his brothers down the side street near the Army and Navy Club and hit a bad jump in the road and was knocked out. His older brother had to drag him out of the street because he said the cars would not stop.

The second involved my 15-year-old son. He was coming down New Street to turn onto Laurel Street on his way home and a car came right at him. He skidded to avoid the car, hit the curb, and fell from his bike, resulting in road burns on his arms, hands and face and also a badly swollen lip.

I'm wondering how many other children have been forced off the roads because of poor drivers in Manchester. Our children are taught to obey laws of the road, the same as if they were driving a car, and then the cars force them from the road. I hope these careless drivers will stop and think before one of these children get killed.

'Regional Governance'

Dear editor: Political madmen in Washington have created economic chaos, shortages in food and fuel, the threat of war, confiscatory taxation, a crisis in education and other diversions to condition Americans for a new kind of government.

The technique is as old as politics itself. It is the Hegelian principle of bringing about change in a three-step process: Thesis, antithesis and synthesis.

The first step is to create the problem. The second step is to generate opposition to the problem (fear, hysteria). The third step is to offer the solution to the problem — change which would be inoperative in January. Three people were inducted as realtors.

Do The Bureaucrats Call All The Shots?

Much has been written on the growth of presidential power. What may have actually occurred is a major decline in that power, especially as it applies to domestic problems.

That power has not gone to Congress. But Congress has been responsible for the whittling away of the president's prerogatives, a whittling that has been keenly felt by Presidents Kennedy, Johnson and Nixon, and by earlier occupants of the White House.

This whittling began almost immediately after President George Washington's terms ended. Washington, according to reports, had complete authority over all federal officials and their duties. But Congress, in 1789, began to whittle away at it.

Two Supreme Court decisions, one as late as 1958, have confirmed this right of Congress to vest powers in agencies or in their heads, rather than in the president. WASHINGTON — Two consecutive bouts with the flu have caused me to come late to what surely will be right up there when ballots are cast for Denouement of the Year.

You must remember the so-called Collinsville Raid. They made front pages and television screens all over the country last year when it appeared that narcotics agents and local police in Collinsville, Ill., had run amok in a scandalous abuse of police powers. They entered six homes on the nights of April 19 and 20, 1973. They acted without warrants and found no illicit drugs in the homes.

Two of the victims, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Gigliotto, told about their night of terror on the Dick Cavett show. The Gigliottos and another victim, Donald Askew, testified before a Senate subcommittee recently chaired by Sen. Charles Percy, D-Ill.

Their stories were that the lawmen had forced their way into their homes, and generally abused them. The Gigliottos were held at gunpoint and Gigliotto was handcuffed. One John Mainers of Edwardsville, Ill., told reporters agents woke him up, put a gun to his head and held him in a St. Louis jail for 77 hours without filing any charges against him.

Well, sir, and madams, they finally got around to trying the seven Federal agents and three detectives on charges of violating the constitutional rights of the persons whose homes they had entered. No, they were not convicted. It took a Federal jury only three hours to find them innocent of all the charges against them.

What happened in this curious exercise that had civil libertarians from Boston to Los Angeles writing in delighted gush? Very simple. The prosecution didn't have a case. Defense counsel admitted the cops banged the job. But they pointed out that the raiders already had broken a St. Louis cocaine ring when one of them bought 28 ounces of the drug from Edward Staffer, Meiners' roommate. So they started roundup of drug dealers. No search warrants were required, and the cops' attorneys also produced evidence and testimony showing that persons in four of the six homes entered were convicted on drug charges.

Realtors Set Open House

National Realtor Week which starts today will be highlighted by the Manchester Board of Realtors open house Saturday at its new headquarters at 156 E. Center St.

Herman Frechette, president of the board and of the Manchester Multiple Listing Service, Corp., said the open house is planned as a service to the public.

Realtors will be on hand to answer any and all questions from the public with respect to buying or selling real estate. Refreshments will be served, and the public is invited from noon to 4 p.m.

Frechette noted that the opening of headquarters, about five months ago, culminated a long, hard effort by the board to get all of its services under one roof.

In addition to serving as the board's headquarters, the E. Center St. office will house the MLS Corp.

MLS serves the public in a number of ways, according to Frechette. For example, a prospective buyer or seller can obtain a list of realtors from whom to select a realtor, and the organization. Another aid, which was in the works for about two years and will be available to MLS members in six to eight weeks, is a new computer photo listing book.

Temple Speaker

The Rev. Dr. Lawrence Almond, former pastor of South United Methodist Church, will be guest speaker Friday when Temple Beth Shalom conducts Sabbath Eve Services. The Services will begin at 8:15 p.m. An Oseg Shabbat (Sabbath Tea) will follow.

Dr. Almond, presently executive director of the Massachusetts Bible Society, will speak on the eve of Yom Ha'atzmaut, "Israel Independence Day." Last December, he was a member along with 24 clergy persons to an Interfaith Mission to Israel. From that mission, he will bring the message of the reevaluation of Israel.

Dr. Almond and his wife, the former Juanita Ralson of Neodesha, Kansas, have five children, one of whom, David, is organist/master at Concordia Lutheran Church and on the faculty of Hart College of Music.

Jonathan is pastor of Christ United Methodist Church, Wakefield, R.I.; Peter is a student at Baker University in Kansas; Priscilla is Mrs. Edward Sparrow of Virginia Beach, Va.; and Stephen is at home.

AFS Students Rotary Guests

American Field Service exchange students will be guest speakers at the Rotary Club meeting Tuesday at 6:30 p.m. at Manchester Country Club.

Miss Nancy Donovan, daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Thomas Donovan of 110 Westland St., and a senior at Manchester High School, will tell of her experiences as an exchange student last summer in Ussuri, Holland. She is a member of the Student Assembly, National Honor Society, Somanis, and the Girls' Tennis Team at the school. She is also vice president of Manchester High School, and assistant secretary of the Round Table Singers.

Miss Helle Hansen of Lolland, Denmark, who is attending Manchester High School, will discuss her homeland. Her host family is Mr. and Mrs. Jay Stager of 30 Forest St. She is a member of the Round Table, and Sock and Buskin at Manchester High School and assistant secretary of the Club at Bennet Junior High School.

The law also seemed to be on the defendant's side. A law officer may enter a home without a warrant if he has probable cause to believe that a crime is about to be committed, or that a felon is inside. Another section of the U.S. Code makes it a misdemeanor for a policeman to search a private dwelling without a warrant — but a free copy of "Regional Governance: The Federal State," from the Committee to Restore the Constitution, Inc., 990 Savings Building, Fort Collins, Colo., 80521.

To the editor: I am a resident at Westhill homes for the elderly in Manchester.

Being an avid reader, I look forward to the Bookmobile's visits each month. The courteous and dedicated attendants have been most helpful in selecting books I desired. It's more than a service, it's a friend and a brightener of my life.

Conversation
Christ talked of grass, and wind, and rain.
And yeast, and bread, and flax,
And fig-trees, and fish, and candles;
And made it His delight to bring
Heaven and the earth together.
He spoke of lilies, vines, and corn,
The sparrow and the raven,
And words so natural, 'yet so wise.'
Were on men's hearts engraven;

Dance Group Performs "Peter and the Wolf"

MONICA SHEA
The Dance Society of the University of Connecticut performed "Peter and the Wolf" for the students at Coventry Grammar School last week.

The society gave two performances so that all the students at the school were able to enjoy the show. The performances were paid for out of the Student Activity Fund.

The society was composed two years ago by a group of students who have all had dancing experience. None of the students are presently majoring in dance but have maintained their interest in dance over the years.

This was the first children's production that the group has attended and to date they have given six performances of "Peter and the Wolf."

Last year the society conducted dance workshops for the students at UConn.

The group is composed of eight people and they made their own costumes, sets and props.

Peter was played by Joe Bellone, the Grandfather was Norm Johnson, Robin Fattibene was the Bird, Debbie Carlson played the Cat, Marilyn Thomas was the Duck, the Wolf was played by Ann Claxton, and the two hunters were Wendy Russell and Jenny Capablanca.

The choreographer for "Peter and the Wolf" was Robin Fattibene.

Service Council To Pick Officers

Manchester Community Services Council will elect officers at its annual meeting Thursday noon at Emmanuel Lutheran Church.

Alan Mason, Manchester's director of human resources and executive secretary of the council, will speak on "The Future — New Responsibilities."

Sorghum is the world's fourth most important cereal crop, surpassed only by rice, wheat and corn.

Sluis-McNamara

Carolyn Lee McNamara of Manchester and Henri S. Sluis of London, England, were united in marriage April 3 at the home of the bride's parents. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Edward J. McNamara of 192 Green Rd. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Marcus Sluis of London, England.

For the double-ring civil ceremony, the McNamara home was decorated with white roses and chrysanthemums. The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a princess styled gown of white peau de soie with yoke and Bishop sleeves of Chantilly lace. Her finger-tip veil of silk illusion was attached to a matching lace and peau de soie headpiece accented with pearls. She carried a colonial bouquet of white roses, stephanotis, baby's breath and ivy. The gown and veil were created by the bride's mother.

Mrs. Stephen D. McNamara of West Hartford, the bride's sister-in-law, was matron of honor. She wore a turquoise floral chiffon gown and carried a colonial bouquet of shasta daisies, chrysanthemums and ivy. Stephen D. McNamara of West Hartford, the bride's brother, was best man. At reception was held at the Manchester Country Club after which the couple left on trip to Maine and Canada. For traveling, Mrs. Sluis wore a navy blue suit trimmed with red and white and a corsage of white cymbidium orchid and red roses. They will reside in London after April 30.

Woman's View Hadassah, Sisterhood Plan Tuesday Program

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor
NEW YORK (UPI)—Don't belittle the plots of soap operas. They're a mirror of what's going on in the woman's liberation movement, deftly reflected in the daytime serials.

Ask Mary Stuart, who's played one leading lady role for 23 years in the "soaps"—Joanne Tate in "Search for Tomorrow"—about how Lib has affected your times and the answers:
"I think that over-all the serials reflect what's going on today. Wives reflect it, we're freer, we're having more fun. Our show has one liberationist character. She's married, she had an abortion before her marriage, she has her career as a lawyer."

Snap Decisions No Longer Mark Of Businessman

NEW YORK (UPI)—Not so many years ago the executive who made rapid-fire decisions was greatly admired.

Today such a boss is likely to give his associates a bad case of the jitters. He not only may harm his company but may pose a least some threat to the nation's economy or its environment, says Prof. Howard Raiffa of Harvard.

RSox Get 'Gift' Win Over Indians

BOSTON (UPI)—The Boston Red Sox can't always expect attempted pickoff throws to wind up in center-field, but they'll take them when they can get them.

Especially if they can win ballgames without registering an official time at bat in the deciding inning, which is precisely what happened Sunday when they beat the Cleveland Indians 6-5 in 10 innings.

The ending followed the same pattern as the rest of the game—sloppy. Boston almost threw the game away with three errors, and Cleveland succeeded in doing so with just one.

Dick McAuliffe started the Boston half of the 10th by walking, and when Bob Montgomery tried to sacrifice him to second, Indian pitcher Cecil Upshaw tried to get the lead man. But McAuliffe beat the throw and there were runners on first and second.

Milt Wilcox was called in to pitch to Cecil Cooper, but before he threw the first pitch, he tried to catch McAuliffe off second. But the ball hit McAuliffe's foot, and went into short centerfield.

McAuliffe never stopped running until he was across home plate with the winning run.

"A foot either way, and I would've had to hold at third," said McAuliffe. "But it hit my foot and just died out there in centerfield. My third base coach (Don Zimmer) waved me on, so I just kept coming."

Darrell Johnson didn't know whether to be pleased with the bizarre ending, or unhappy about the sloppy play of the Red Sox.

"A little of both," he said. "I don't care if we don't have any times at bat, so long as we win. But we played terrible baseball for nine innings."

The Red Sox woke up in the last half of the ninth, however, scoring four runs to tie the game, after they had handed Cleveland three earlier unearned runs.

McAuliffe started the ninth inning rally the same way he started the one in the tenth—by walking. Pinch hitter Danny Cater singled him to second, and Cooper loaded the bases with a base hit. Doug Griffin knocked in McAuliffe with another single, and Bernie Carbo batted in Cater while grounding into a force play. Carl Yastrzemski got into the act by hitting a long sacrifice fly to center to score Cooper and then Rico Petrocelli hammered a double off the centerfield wall scoring Juan Beniquez, who had run for Carbo.

Cleveland touched starter Bill Lee for 13 hits, half of which never made it out of the infield.

"I can't feel too sorry for him," said Johnson. "He made two errors himself. But we all clipped in and played loose. Lee was airtight on the pitching end, but he hurt himself with his bad fielding."

The Indians got a two-run homer by John Lowenstein for their only earned runs of the afternoon. They got two unearned runs when Mario Guerrero failed to complete a tailor made double play with the bases loaded and another unearned run when Angel Hermoso singled home Dave Duncon, who had reached when Griffin dropped his easy pop fly.

Hiller Keeping Tigers In AL's Eastern Race

NEW YORK (UPI)—John Hiller asked no favors after he underwent heart surgery in 1971 and he's asking none now when he has an 0.53 earned run average and a 3-0 record that are keeping the Detroit Tigers from falling through the floor of the American League's Eastern Division.

"One season doesn't make a good ballplayer," says Hiller, referring to his record 30-save and 10-victory performance as a reliever in 1973. "If I have another year this year like I did last, then we'll see."

Considering his achievements since returning to active duty with the Tigers in 1972, the 31-year old Canadian-born left-hander has modest goals.

"I would like to be in the running for the Fireman of the Year Award again," he said after allowing one run and six hits in 7 2/3 innings of relief in the Tigers' 6-5 victory over the Milwaukee Brewers Sunday. "And I would like to be in the All-Star game. That would definitely be a thrill."

The unbeaten Hiller has won three of the Tigers' five games this season and already has appeared in 17 innings—figures that make him a strong contender for the honor of being recognized as the No. 1 reliever pitcher in the major leagues.

The California Angels defeated the Oakland A's, 9-5, the Boston Red Sox edged the Cleveland Indians, 6-5, in 10 innings, the Minnesota Twins ousted the Texas Rangers, 8-2, the Chicago White Sox outwaged the Kansas City Royals, 11-7, and the New York Yankees beat the Baltimore Orioles 3-0 after a 4-5 loss in 13 innings, in other AL games.

Orioles 6-0, Yankees 5-3

Earl Williams opened the 13th inning of the first game with a single and eventually scored the winning run on rookie Mike Reinbach's single. Doyle Alexander, who took over after Jim Palmer pitched the first 12 innings for the Orioles, was the winner and rookie Tom Buskey the loser. Lou Piniella had a double and two singles and Sam McDowell and Fred Bee combined in a four-hitter for the Yankees in the second game.

Tigers 6 Brewers 5

Hiller's brilliant effort was rewarded when Designated Hitter Al Kaline's 14th inning single scored Jim Northrup from second base to break a 5-5 tie which had existed since the ninth. Northrup doubled with two out and scored on Kaline's dribbler through the middle. Mickey Stanley's run-scoring double had tied the score in the bottom of the ninth.

The Angels staged a six-run rally in the eighth inning with the key hits a double by Joe Labrad, a triple by Bobby Valentine and Lee Stanton's homer. Skip Lockwood held the A's to one run over the final three innings to gain his first victory of the year while Rollie Fingers, appearing in his eighth game of the season, suffered the loss.

Twins 8, Rangers 2

Larry Hulse's three-run eighth-inning homer capped a 15-hit Minnesota attack which enabled Joe Decker to win his second game. Manager Billy Martin protesting the loss, which ended a five-game Ranger winning streak, on the basis of a sixth-inning call by Umpire Ron Luciano. Luciano ruled that Toby Harrah led a double by Jeff Burroughs hit him and, therefore, called a grounder by Jim Bibbo was the losing pitcher.

White Sox 11, Royals 7

Brian Downing's triple with the bases filled sparked a seven-run sixth inning outburst which carried the White Sox' Terry Forster to his first win. Each team collected 17 hits with the White Sox' Jorge Orta hitting a double and Cookie Rojas had three hits each in the Kansas City attack and Brian Downing, Pat Kelly and Ken Henderson had two each for the White Sox.

Elder May Not Accept Invitation to Masters

PENSACOLA, Fla. (UPI)—Now that the shoe is on the other foot, Lee Elder says he doesn't know if he'll accept the invitation to become the Masters' first black golfer. Elder, upset in the past because no black has had such an invitation, earned one Sunday when he won the Monsanto Open with a sudden-death playoff victory over Peter Osterhuis of England.

Cliff Roberts, chairman of the Masters, didn't waste any time.

"We are pleased that Mr. Elder won in Pensacola and we are looking forward to seeing him in Augusta next spring," said Roberts who has insisted that the Masters would welcome its first black "as soon as he earns a place in our tournament."

But Elder, "in ninth heaven" after gaining his first victory in seven years on the PGA tour, wasn't so quick to accept.

"I'll have to weigh that somewhat," said Elder. "I'll be happy to play the Masters, but I want to wait and see. There are a lot more tournaments in between. Right now I'm happier about the Tournament of Champions than the Masters."

Elder's victory Sunday was worth $30,045, more than double what he had won previously this year, and a berth in the T of C which begins Thursday at La Costa, Calif.

Since he's the first black to win a "major" PGA event since Charles Sifford won the Los Angeles open in 1969, he will be the first black to play in that tournament in five years.

The 39-year-old Elder, a Texas native who now lives in Washington, D. C., was two strokes behind Osterhuis with two holes to play Sunday but came through with two last hole 5's to play a 10-under-par 274 that forced the playoff. Lee had a 5-under-par 67 for regulation 18 holes Sunday while the Englishman had a 68.

Elder admitted that he was getting tired and his play over the first three holes of the playoff showed it. He was in trouble at the first hole but escaped when Osterhuis matched his bogey and was saved again at No. 2 when Osterhuis missed a four-foot birdie putt.

"His missing that putt really gave me a lift," said Elder. "Both parred the third hole and then Lee rammed home an 18-foot birdie putt at No. 4 to win."

"It was Hartford in reverse," said Elder, referring to a 1972 tournament he lost in a playoff to Lee Trevino. "That time, Trevino was inside my line and made the putt after I missed. This time, I was inside Peter and watched his putt very carefully."

Osterhuis, eligible to play in only three of the regular PGA tour events because he failed to earn his player card last fall, won't be back in the states until June when he plans to play at Philadelphia and in the Open.

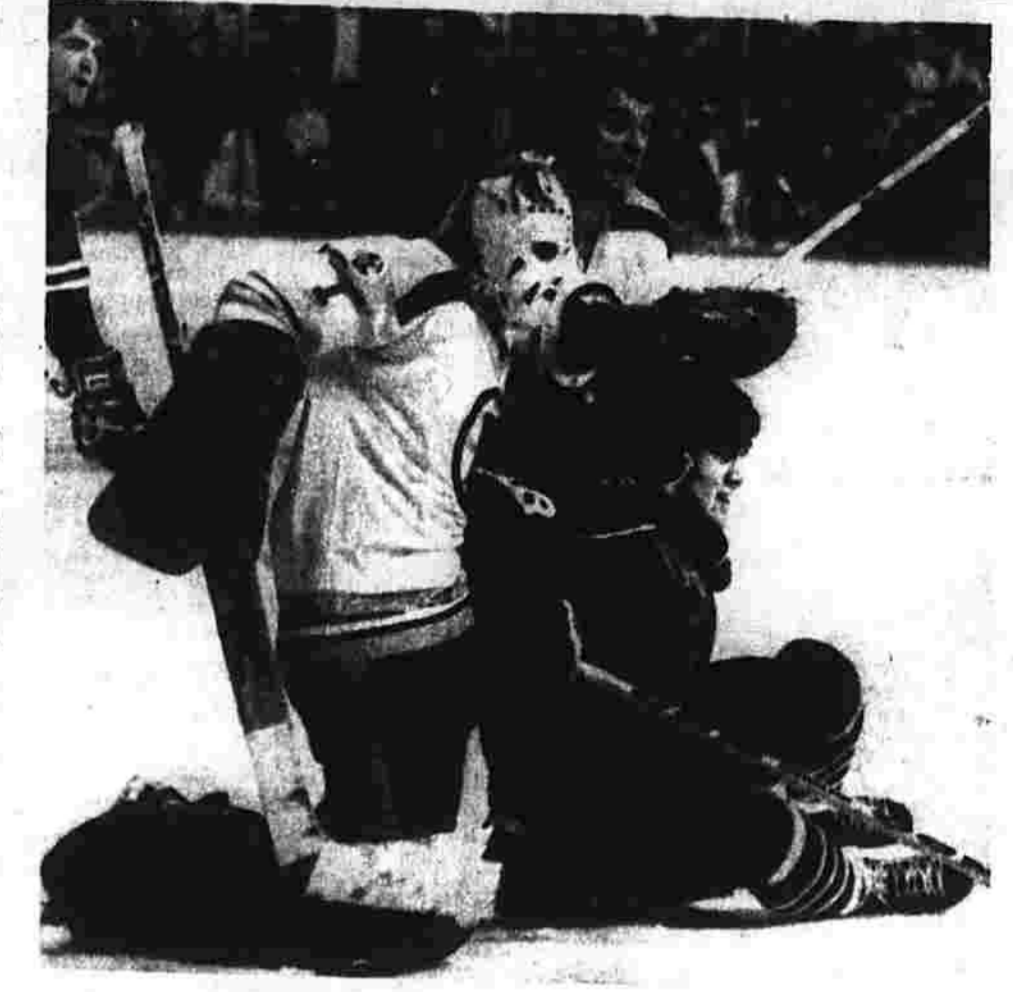

Elder, with tears in his eyes, rushed to a telephone after winning Sunday and called his wife, Rose, in Washington. "It was disappointing that she couldn't be here to see my first win, but she was unable to make plane reservations."

Al Geiberger, a stroke behind Osterhuis and a stroke ahead of Elder at the start of the final round, was tied for the lead after two holes Sunday, but wound up in third with his 70-276. Miller Barber and Ray Floyd, both with 68-278, were tied for fourth and Gibby Gilbert took sixth with 69-280.

The Monsanto Open got almost as good a deal out of Elder's victory as the winner.

This tournament was in serious trouble. Bracketed by the Master and the Tournament of Champions, it drew only three of this year's top 21 money winners—and none of the "big names."

Any other winner would not have attracted much attention. But that birdie putt Lee Elder made to win Sunday's playoff was a shot heard around the world.

Bruin Goalie Gilles Gilbert Finds Plenty of Company Darryl Rota of Chicago and Boston's Darryl Edstrand Tangle

Goalies Out to Lunch As Bruins Pelt Hawks

BOSTON (UPI)—This time, the difference was in the goaltending.

Tony Esposito and Gil Gilbert dominated play last Thursday night as the Chicago Black Hawks took a 4-2 win in the first game of their Stanley Cup semifinal series.

In game No. 2 Sunday the goalies again were the difference only for a different reason. Gilbert played poorly and Esposito heroically as the Bruins evicted the series with an 8-6 win over the Black Hawks.

Esposito, who stopped 46 of 48 shots in the first game, could handle only 27 of the 36 Boston drives fired his way in the second game. The eight goals were the most Esposito had allowed in any game this season.

"I didn't play well at all," said Esposito. "All I can do is go out and do my best."

His best was almost good enough since Gilbert, like Esposito, had a barrel of problems handling dipping drives in the heavy air of Boston Garden where the temperature was close to 75 degrees. Gilbert stopped 23 shots.

"The puck was dropping all day. Most of the time you don't get shots like that. Once in a while, but not like that," said Gilbert, who has minded the Boston goal in every playoff game thus far.

John Bucyk, who scored the third playoff hat trick of his career Sunday, agreed with Gilbert.

"The puck was doing funny things," said Bucyk, "and he (Esposito) was fighting the puck a little."

"It was an important win though. It's going to give our fellow confidence," he said, "but we're going to have to tighten up."

Bucyk tied two playoff records in the game, one for most power play goals in a game (3) and the other for most power play goals in a period (3).

Richest Women's Purse Won by JoAnn Prentice

PALM SPRINGS, Calif. (UPI)—Slender Jo Ann Prentice, a 41-year-old golfer course owner from Alabama, was $32,000 richer today after picking up the LPGA's richest payoff in history.

But her sudden-death victory in four extra holes of the $200,000 Dinah Shore-Calgate Winners Circle golf tournament wasn't the women's best Sunday came about four holes later than it might have.

Coming down to the par three, 157-yard 17th green in Sunday's final round, the 122 pound brunette threatened the hole for a bogey then allowed Sandra Haynie and Jane Blalock to catch her.

After the regulation 72 holes at the tough, sun-baked Mission Hills Golf and Country Club 6,382-yard course, the three women were knotted at 289, one over par.

She didn't let the hole fool her a second time though.

"I was so nervous on the last putt I wasn't even thinking about the money," said Miss Prentice after she sank a three-foot putt on No. 17 to win the top prize of $32,000 and a new car on the fourth sudden-death hole to edge Miss Blalock.

"When I walked up to 17 I was determined to win it or lose it on the hole. I went to the pin."

She punched a four-iron shot, which landed about three feet from the hole.

Miss Haynie was eliminated on the second sudden-death hole. After Miss Blalock missed a 12-footer for her birdie by stroking her putt one foot past the hole, Miss Prentice calmly rolled in the match-clinching putt.

It was only the bespectacled Miss Prentice's fifth tour victory ever and easily overshadowed her biggest previous winning purse of $6,500.

Her other wins came at Miami last year, at Corpus Christi, Tex. in 1972, and in 1967 and 1968.

"I haven't won much in the past but I won one today," said Miss Prentice, who was awarded a Hawaiian lei by LPGA Hall of Famer Jackie Pung as sort of an answer to the green jacket given the winner of the PGA's Masters winner on the men's tour.

"Jo Ann played extremely well in the playoff," said Miss Blalock, who split $35,000 in second and third place money with Miss Haynie. "She was a real tiger."

Judy Rankin, who was tied for the lead with Miss Prentice after 36 holes, finished fourth for a $10,000 prize in the third annual tournament with a 291 total.

First day-leader Betsy Cullen was all alone in fifth at 292.

Ending in a five-way tie at 293 were Marje Breer, Beth Stone, Laura Baugh, Gill Dennenberg and Japan's Chako Higuchi Matsui.

Chris Evert in Lead

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (UPI)—Chris Evert has taken the lead in the women's tennis money winning sweepstakes from veteran Billie Jean King.

The 19-year-old Fort Lauderdale, Fla. ace ran her 1974 winning record to 27-0 Sunday, best on the Virginia Slims tennis circuit this year.

The top-seeded teen-ager had an easy 6-0, 6-1, victory over third-seeded Kerry Melville of Australia to win the singles crown in the $50,000 Barnett Bank Women's Tennis Classic.

here. It was worth $10,000 to Miss Evert.

"Crisy plays a different game from most players. When I go out there to play her, I feel like I have to do something different," said Miss Melville.

But Miss Evert's father and tennis coach, Jimmy, said "I don't understand why the other girls don't do better against Crisy. They all have the same stroke. It just seems that when they go on the clay with her they run into a psychological block."

Caps Win

HARTFORD (UPI)—Charlie Criss and center Dana Lewis combined for 83 points as the Hartford Capitols downed the Allentown Jets Sunday night, 128-111, in the second game of the Eastern Basketball Association playoffs.

The win ties the best-of-five series at one game apiece for the teams. Allentown won the first game Saturday at home.

Greg Luzinski Hits Hard After Long Season Slump

NEW YORK (UPI)—Greg Luzinski continued his spring cleaning Sunday afternoon by dusting off a tiresome batting slump.

He threw away a hitless string that tied him to a .106 batting average Friday night by smacking seven hits in 14 at bats in Philadelphia's last three games.

The Phillies knicked out loser But Hooton, 1-1, four runs in the fifth after scoring a run in the fourth inning. Larry Bowa singled and stole second and third as Del Unser walked.

Luzinski's sacrifice fly tied the game and Tommy Hunt tripled to score Unser and continued home on Monday's wild throw past third base.

Mike Anderson tagged Jim Krummel for his first home run giving the Phils a 5-2 lead as five Chicago pitchers saw duty. The Phillies have won their last eight of 10 games.

Elsewhere in the NL, Pittsburgh blanked New York 7-0, Montreal beat St. Louis 9-5, San Francisco nipped Los Angeles 6-4, San Diego beat Cincinnati 7-2 after losing 10-1, and Hank Aaron's 717th homer lifted Atlanta to a 4-3 victory over the Houston Astros.

Frisco 7, Mets 0

The Pirates' touched winless Tom Seaver for four hits and six runs in five innings as Ken Brett shut out the Mets. Seaver, now 0-2 in his first four starts, held the Pirates scoreless until the fifth inning when Manny Sanguillen slammed a one-out homer to tie, his first of the year.

Hearst Kidnaping Dominated News Last Week

C. W. ORR
United Press International
The FBI identified Patricia Hearst, the kidnaped daughter of the San Francisco newspaper executive, as one of nine persons who took part in a bank robbery last week.

The question was, did Miss Hearst, 20, participate willingly in the holdup, or did her abduction force her to go along.

Attorney General William B. Saxbe told a news conference he felt she was an active participant, part of a group of "common criminals."

Miss Hearst was kidnaped Feb. 4 by a terrorist organization, the Symbionese Liberation Army. In a tape recording earlier this month, she said that she could leave her captors if she chose, but she wanted to stay and help them fight oppression.

Also in the news this week: WASHINGTON—1st Lt. William F. Calley Jr., 23-year-old soldier, was sentenced to 30 years in the South Vietnamese hamlet of My Lai, but in half by Army Secretary Howard H. Callaway. President Nixon has promised to make a final review of Calley's case.

WASHINGTON—President Nixon nominated William E. Simon, chief of the Federal Energy Office, to Treasury secretary. But he will not have all of the duties of the present secretary, George P. Shultz, since Nixon himself will assume Shultz's chairmanship of the Council on Economic Policy.

WASHINGTON—Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski was given Internal Revenue Service records of the investigation of President Nixon's taxes. A subpoena requested by Jaworski requesting White House tapes and documents was served on Nixon's chief Watergate lawyer.

SAN FRANCISCO—In a series of apparently random attacks on whites, black killers claimed their 12th victim. Authorities began stopping young blacks for questioning, a move that civil rights groups said violated constitutional rights.

SAGINAW, Mich.—Democrat J. Bob Traxler beat Republican James M. Sparling Jr. in a special congressional election, despite President Nixon's first campaign appearance since Watergate. In his campaign, Traxler called the election a "referendum on Watergate."

WASHINGTON—The Supreme Court ruled that families of students shot by Ohio National Guardsmen during a 1970 antiwar demonstration at Kent State University can bring civil suits for damages against guardsmen and state officials. Four students were killed and nine injured.

WASHINGTON—The Cost of Living Council removed controls on food retailers and wholesalers. The food distribution industry was the last major segment of the economy still under price and wage controls.

NEW YORK—Frank McGee, host of NBC-TV's "Today" show since October, 1971, died of pneumonia at the age of 52.

Political Pros Feel Vindicated

ARNOLD B. SAWISLAK
WASHINGTON (UPI)—When Vice President Gerald R. Ford lashed out at the late Committee to Reelect the President recently, he was speaking for a lot of professional politicians and about a lot more than CREEP and its child of shame, the Watergate scandal.

Ford said publicly what many pros have long been muttering about campaign committees that operate outside the control of established party organizations.

CREEP, the derisive tag given President Nixon's reelection committee by its critics and adopted by Ford in his Chicago attack on it, may be the last such one-shot campaign operation for some time.

The campaign reform bill passed this spring by the Senate would require that all presidential campaign expenditures of $1,000 or more be approved by the chairman of the candidate's national party committee.

One Committee It would require all candidates for federal offices to designate one central campaign committee to collect and disburse funds and to report on their finances.

Those provisions were part of a larger campaign reform bill whose prospects in Congress are not bright. But the restrictions on campaign committees, generally supported by politicians of all persuasions, may find life in other legislation if the Senate bill goes down.

In addition, it would be a brave candidate who would set up a CREEP-type independent campaign committee in the near future.

It seems very likely that political candidates of both parties, while probably using personal committees, will make sure that party organizations are fully plugged into their campaigns, until the virtually complete separation that existed between the Committee to Reelect the President and the Republican National Committee.

Our See-Thru Meat Tray...clearly better in every way

More than a year after we introduced our see-thru meat tray, it's still bringing compliments from our customers.

The tray is an open paper grill that lets you see both the top and the bottom of the meat you're buying. It also allows refrigerated air and oxygen to reach the meat, protecting its original freshness longer than other see-thru trays. And our grillwork tray is completely biodegradable, too!

Of course, you can freeze meats just as they come in our see-thru trays. For best results, we recommend you place the package upside down in your freezer. Seal it in freezer wrap when storing more than two weeks.

To thaw frozen meat, remove film wrap and allow package to stand bottom side up about 15 minutes to help melt release more easily. If you're in a hurry, run bottom of package under hot water a few seconds, or place it in a warm (150°) oven a few minutes.

Bolton Teachers Air Smoking Rules

DONNA HOLLAND
646-0375

Bolton Board of Education members last week conducted a lengthy discussion on smoking at the high school that ended with the superintendent being directed to appoint a committee to review and discuss the issue and report all possible alternatives.

The committee is to consist of administrators, faculty members, parents, school board members and students.

A complete report on the smoking issue was presented to board members by Fred Audette, chairman of the faculty committee on smoking. It compared past policy to present policy and gave recommendations for a future policy.

Committee members assisting Audette were Mrs. Leslie Dubaldo, Mrs. Irene Tabasky, Miss Sheila Cronin and David Gibbons.

Board member Marilyn Breslow said that the board had expected a report on smoking conditions at the high school and a possible remedy, not an entirely new policy.

A student attending the board meeting said he rarely uses the bathroom because it is thick with smoke and has sustained the same vandalism.

Norman Shaw, high school principal, said that there are usually 15 or more kids in the bathroom at one time. He said it was difficult to catch the smokers because of guard system the students use.

In the guard system, at least one student is watching for teachers and administrators at all times.

Mrs. Marion Nicolay, art instructor, said she is sick of policing the bathrooms to find students. She said she felt very strongly that something must be done about the situation.

Mrs. Nicolay said many teachers are willing to accept the committee's proposal policy, and they would be happy to enforce the proposed rules.

The smoking policy in the past, as late as 1969, called for an automatic three-day suspension from school for students caught smoking. It was against the rules in possession of smoking materials.

The policy was abolished in 1969 because it resulted in a

Candidates Urge GOP To Fight Democrats

United Press International

Republican candidates for governor and urging party members to stick together and "fight Democrats, not Republicans."

Three announced candidates for the GOP nomination attended a breakfast for 300 party faithful in Burlington Sunday, 7:30 a.m. until 11:30 p.m., and after that time in areas specified by the administration.

The punishment for being caught smoking is: First offense, one-hour detention; second offense, two-hour detention; third offense, two-hour detention; fourth offense, three-day suspension.

On each occasion a letter is sent to parents.

Committee members felt that penalties should be increased to: First offense, one-day suspension (in school if possible and a letter home); second offense, two-day suspension; third offense, suspension for three days; fourth offense, suspension for five days.

No passes to the laboratories would be issued to students who were caught smoking.

Creation of an outside smoking area to permit students to smoke at specified times was mentioned.

Committee members noted that the current smoking ban, which has had almost no effect on the number of students who continue to smoke.

The faculty committee feels it would be deleterious to the school program to rigorously enforce a stiff smoking policy now.

The negative effects would include a large increase in school suspensions and an increasing negative feeling toward the school by a sizable number of students.

Repeal of the current policy would also take teachers away from their professional responsibilities.

The faculty committee recommends establishing a smoking area outside the school where students who feel they must have a cigarette would be allowed to do so in a particular area at a particular time.

Students who were caught smoking in the school after the establishment of a smoking area would be subject to penalties shown under committee views.

Audette noted that during a study last he discussed the committee recommendations toward the both student smokers and non-smokers. He said they feel all agreed to the committee recommendations.

State Police Arrest UConn Protestors

STORRS (UPI)—At least 100 protesting students, mostly black, were arrested by state police today after refusing to leave a University of Connecticut library reading room they occupied since midnight.

The students took over the room in the Wilbur Cross Library to dramatize their demands for better opportunities and studies for blacks.

State troopers loaded the protesters, some of whom had to be carried, on to waiting shuttle buses.

Except for minor scuffles there was no violence.

Most of the students faced criminal trespass charges and were being processed at a location set up near the school.

The arrests came after the students refused an order issued by school president Glenn W. Ferguson to vacate the building. The students had stated they would not leave the building until they met with Ferguson and other school officials.

The number of protesters sent to the university was not disclosed but a delegation of state police officials reportedly entered the library to talk to the students.

Ferguson earlier issued a statement to the students that if they refused to leave they would be considered "to be in violation of university regulations prohibiting interference, disruption and trespass."

He said failure to vacate the building "will render all persons still present subject to university disciplinary process and penalty and subject to arrest."

The student statement said: "Faced with inadequate facilities, the black students of the University of Connecticut came to occupy this library, not only to get a more definitive and specified response to our demands but also to dramatize our urgent need for a cultural center wherein we may study together and come together as a group unified in our ethnicity culture."

Black students last week presented letters of protest to Ferguson after they marched on the executive office to criticize his reply to their earlier demands.

UConn Sit-In Ended

State Police had to carry some of the 150 black students who were removed this morning from the Wilbur Cross Library at the Storrs campus of the University of Connecticut which they occupied overnight in a protest against certain UConn policies. (UPI photo)

PZC Commission Told Sewer Plant Capacity May Limit Town Growth

By DOUG BEVINS

Manchester Planning and Zoning Commission (PZC) members were confronted Monday night with what they termed "startling information" about the town's sanitary sewer system, and they agreed they'll have to study the matter with an eye to restricting future development.

The "startling information" was a report that the town's three-year-old Secondary Sewage Treatment Plant has been operating near capacity and couldn't handle effluent from future development unless the town's sewer system is repaired.

Town Planner J. Eric Potter, explaining the problem to the PZC, suggested that the commission may have to consider rezoning sections of town to limit development and insure that the treatment plant can meet the demand.

If present town zoning permits development which would overtax the sewer system, the PZC must consider updating the Comprehensive Plan of Development and rezoning certain areas to hold the line on development, Potter said.

Potter said the treatment plant difficulties apparently stem from substantial subsurface water infiltration into the sewer system. He said the excess water is probably seeping into older sewer lines which may have faulty pipe joints.

PZC member Clarence Welle, a civil engineer, said the treatment plant operates very well except when heavy rainfall causes large water infiltration into the system. When that happens, Welle said, the large amounts of water upset the balance in the treatment plant, causing improper processing of sewage.

The report that the plant is operating near capacity may also be affected by incorrect measurements of flow in the flow, Welle said. "The monitoring has been questionable," he said.

Whatever the cause of the sewer system problems, the PZC must concern itself with maximum sewer capacity when considering zone changes, Potter said.

PZC member John Hutchins

Grievance Hearing Aims Keeney School Problem

By JUNE TOMPKINS

In a grievance hearing Monday night at a Board of Education meeting, the fifth grade teachers at Keeney Street School complained that their classes were oversized making it difficult, if not impossible, to administer proper personal supervision and teaching to the students.

In reply to the grievance, Superintendent of Schools Wilson Deakin Jr. said simply there were no funds available at this time. He said the board did not deny an additional fifth grade teacher would be an asset. He explained the placing of an aide in the second grade at Keeney because "we felt the second graders needed smaller size groups because of their inability for independent study as there is in larger classes in upper grades."

The Board of Education has an obligation under contract to make a decision on the request within five days.

Chamber To Present 'M' Award

The "M" Award, the highest single tribute and most coveted award of the Chamber will be presented Wednesday evening at the 7th annual meeting of the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce at the Colony in Talbotville.

The "M" Award recipient is chosen each year for his or her outstanding record of accomplishment in the service in leadership capacities of many of Manchester's most contributing groups.

The Chamber's Annual Meeting Committee has the responsibility for carefully studying outstanding citizens in Manchester. Careful evaluation is given to the long list of accomplishments of all considered candidates.

The Chamber has presented over the past a total of 16 "M" Awards.

The recipient of last year's "M" Award was Dr. Charles E. Jacobson Jr. Others receiving the awards in the past were such individuals as Robert P. Fuller, William H. Sleith, Judge Charles S. House, Edson T. Bailey and Mrs. Elnor B. Bailey.

The "M" Award recipient is a citizen of Manchester who has distinguished himself in his or her field of endeavor and whose work has benefited the community.

Others who have urged a tax cut include Sens. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., Hubert H. Humphrey and Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., House Speaker Carl Albert and Ways and Means Committee chairman Rep. Wilbur Mills.

Court Rejects White Student's Claim Of Racial Discrimination

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Supreme Court today rejected the claim of a white law student system to assure the rights of minorities, threatens to spit out a jet of water.

In a seven-page unsigned opinion, with four justices dissenting, the court said the student, Marco DeFunis, would have completed his law school studies regardless of any decision this court might reach on the merit of this litigation.

DeFunis' lawsuit attracted wide attention in legal circles because of its impact on many recently developed programs to provide a legal education to blacks who cannot qualify under normal entrance requirements. He won a state court ruling admitting him to the law school but the Washington State Supreme Court ruled against him on March 8, 1973.

Today's decision vacated the State Supreme Court judgment and sent the case back there for such proceedings as by that court may be deemed appropriate.

"As long as it is free, it could put my home and property under water."

Nixon Tackles Economic Issues

WASHINGTON (UPI)—His administration is against an income tax cut, although leading Senate Democrats have said recently they will work for a tax reduction in order to stimulate the economy.

Nixon called a meeting for late this afternoon of his top five economic advisers: Treasury Secretary-designate William E. Simon, Council of Economic Advisors Chairman Herbert Stein, budget Director Roy L. Ash, Cost of Living Council Chairman John T. Dunlop and Federal Reserve Board Chairman Arthur Burns.

Burns said Monday inflation is a "dangerous problem" and indicated a tax cut would only aggravate it.

The day before, Nixon's domestic affairs adviser, Kenneth R. Cole, said, "...we think that a tax decrease at this particular point in time will inflame that problem rather than resolve it."

The calls for tax cuts came after Friday's government report that inflation is worsening at a rate unparalleled since 1951.

Joining the group of congressional Democrats urging a tax reduction, Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield Monday warned, "We are on the verge of recession. I think we better do something and do it now."

Mansfield said a tax cut "is one way to take care of the people who pay the most and get the least."

Others who have urged a tax cut include Sens. Edward M. Kennedy, D-Mass., Hubert H. Humphrey and Walter F. Mondale, D-Minn., House Speaker Carl Albert and Ways and Means Committee chairman Rep. Wilbur Mills.

Farm Home Threatened By Mole

WINNIPEG, MAN. (UPI)—A mole, slightly larger than a field mouse, is causing sleepless nights for Fred Orchard, whose farm is seven miles west of flood-ravaged Carman, Man.

His home and his yard are protected by a dike holding back up to five feet of water.

But a stubborn mole consistently burrows into the dike, causing a leak which quickly erodes into a jet of water.

"Four times during the night my men and I had to plug the leaks caused by the mole," said Orchard. "I set traps for the mole, but so far I've been unable to catch it."

"As long as it is free, it could put my home and property under water."

Vernon Instructor Uses 'Devil' to Teach

Proving that necessity is the mother of invention, Mrs. Debbie Lamont, a resident of Vernon, and an instructor in the Dental Assistant Program at the University of Connecticut School of Dental Medicine, designed a visual aid to show her 15 students the muscles of the face.

The odd-looking face looks like the devil in need of an exorcist. Mrs. Lamont said the idea for the face using a feltboard and swatches of felt of different colors, came from a student teaching experience she was required to undergo while training to be a hygienist.

She said, "I was teaching second graders and needed a colorful and simple way of showing a cross-section of a tooth with its different parts and a feltboard turned out to be the perfect solution."

On the model she is using to distinguish the various facial muscles she cut out swatches of colored felt stands for a different muscle.

Mrs. Lamont admits that her group of students in the dental assistant program, have liked the teaching technique as much as the second graders did.

She commented, "It may look like the devil, but the results have been heavenly."

Air Crash Kills 107

DENPASAR, Bali (UPI)—Airborne rescue teams found no signs of life today in the scattered wreckage of a Pan American World Airways jetliner that crashed into jungle mountainside on the island of Bali with 107 persons aboard.

Search and rescue coordination headquarters on the resort island said by nightfall 96 passengers and a crew of 11 aircraft officials said before approaching the airport several Pacific states, carried 96 passengers and a crew of 11. Bali airport officials said they could detect nothing on the plane was lost.

Among the 96 passengers were 26 Americans, one of them the pilot reported he was hampered by low clouds and did not land, rescue headquarters said.

Police said the jetliner apparently struck Mt. Mesehe about 320 feet below the summit. The plane would have had to pass between Mt. Mesehe and the nearby Mt. Tinggaling before approaching the airport at Denpasar, Bali's main city.

Rescue teams which flew over the area reported seeing smoke rising from the pieces of debris. An Indonesian army spokesman said military rescue teams were among the parties trying to reach the wreckage.

Fair weather prevailed in Manchester over the weekend, providing kids with an opportunity for springtime play. Here, in a pig pile, are (top to bottom) Jeffrey Nodden of David Gahagan of 588 E. Tolland residents and taxpayers will have an opportunity to provide input at a public hearing tonight at 7:30 p.m. at the Tolland Middle School on the $1,146,000 general budget proposed by the town manager.

Although the Board of Selectmen met with the town manager April 18 to go over each budgeted account, residents weren't allowed to sit in on the executive session. They will, however, be allowed to ask for information on budget items tonight.

The proposed budget, $1,146,000 is set aside for debt service while $772,222 is for town operations. Distribution of the proposed budget is: Personal services, $331,464; contractual services, $613,701; commodities, $29,456; capital outlay, $85,848; and capital improvements programs, $24,000.

Irish Toll Reaches 1,000 Mark

BELFAST (UPI)—Inspector Herbert Norris reached for a piece of chalk to change the official death toll on the blackboard at police headquarters.

"It has reached four figures now," he said. "I wonder how many more."

Shortly after 3 p.m. Saturday, James Corbett, a 20-year-old Roman Catholic, became the 1000th person to die in nearly five years of Northern Irish violence.

His body was found dumped in a ditch on the outskirts of Belfast after being shot twice in the face.
