Portuguese Army Deposes Premier

BULLETIN

Portuguese Premier Marcelo Caetano, overthrown today by the army, handed his job over to Gen. Antonio de Spínola, the liberal-minded African hero whom Caetano fired for saying Portugal couldn't win the seemingly endless wars.

LISBON (UPI) — Rebel army troops protesting Portugal's endless colonial wars in Africa revolted today against Premier Marcelo Caetano and then launched a tank and machine gun assault against a building where Caetano and members of his government were reported defying surrender demands.

The assault climaxed a 4 a.m. uprising by large parts of the nation's armed forces against the Caetano government. It reflected unrest over what the rebels called the inability of the government to settle Portugal's 13-year-old anti-guerrilla wars in Africa and the lack of democratic freedoms.

Rebel units assaulted the downtown Carmo Convent where the para-military National Republican Guards have their headquarters after Caetano ignored a 2:30 p.m. (9:30 a.m. EDT) deadline to surrender.

Witnesses reported rebel units first fired light cannon and machineguns at the convent, then sent in a tank to knock down the gates. The tank was turned back. The witnesses said the rebels then used bullhorns to tell the Republican guards to "come out."

"We have plenty of dynamite," the rebels told those inside the building.

The rebels, who controlled Lisbon's radio and television stations, earlier said Caetano and several of his ministers were being held up at Carmo. They also claimed they had detained Adm. Americo Thomaz, the 79-year-old President, and were holding him at the Military Police headquarters.

Witnesses reported shooting from various points of the city. In the downtown Chiado district, security police fired machinegun salvos into a group of youths demonstrating their support for the rebels.

Many were hit and carried into a nearby security police station, witnesses reported.

The situation was described as "very confused" by a senior diplomat contacted by telephone.

A government spokesman, Pedro Eytro Pinto, director of the Information Service, said "the legal government is still in power and we are trying to control the situation." He did not comment on the rebel claim that Admiral Thomaz had been detained.

The rebels, who broadcast a promise of democratic reform and free elections, let a 2:30 p.m. (9:30 a.m. EDT) deadline for government troops to surrender elapse.

When it passed, they simply repeated the appeals without mentioning a deadline, saying they wanted to avoid bloodshed.

But 40 minutes after the deadline had passed, the rebel radio asked the population to evacuate three small sections of town, including the one where the machinegunning of the demonstrators had occurred.

The rebels said "dangerous" police and republican guards elements were holding out in the Camos, Rossio square and Largo do Garbo sections. The announcement appeared to imply that the rebels planned to take action.

The bloodshed at Largo do Garbo occurred just as three rebel tanks passed a security police station, witnesses said. A group of youths lustily cheered them on and jeered the policemen peering at them from the station.

At this moment, police opened fire. It was the second military rebellion in Portugal since March 17 when troops protesting the involvement in Mozambique, Angola and Guinea in Africa tried to move into Lisbon with tanks only to be halted without bloodshed by loyal troops.

There were conflicting reports on how much of the capital and the countryside the rebels controlled.

Government sources said the rebel claim of "domination from the North to the South" was not true.

It was a fact, however, that the rebels were in control of the Baixa downtown area where many government buildings are situated. Diplomatic sources also said many garrisons in the province had joined the uprising.

In earlier violence, at least two persons were seriously injured and possibly killed by gunfire or explosions near a railway station in the Cais de Sodre area.

Tonight — clear and cool with a chance of frost; lows in the 30s.

Friday — partly sunny and milder with highs 60 to 65.

Last Year For State Theater?

By SOL R. COHEN

This is the 50th year of continuous operation for the State Theater on Downtown Main St., and it may be its last — to join the old Park and Circle Theaters as only memories.

The Full Gospel Church of Manchester, an interdenominational group, is negotiating for purchase of the building at the corner of Bissell and Main Sts. It plans to use the theater for its church and to continue renting out the stores and offices. Under its proposal, the building, except for the area to be used as a church, would continue to be taxable.

Records in the Manchester assessor's office reveal the building (at 745-753 Main St.) is assessed at $108,030. It is owned by RKO-Stanley Warner Theaters Inc. of New York City.

The Full Gospel Church, which has about 400 members, has been meeting for the past five years in Orange Hall at 72 Center St. Its pastor is Rev. Philip Saunders.

The church has been negotiating with the owners for about a year. The original asking price was about $250,000. It now is down to an acceptable $150,000. The church, reportedly, has to the middle of June to obtain a $115,000 mortgage. It has raised $15,000 of its cash down payment and must raise $20,000 more. It's plan is to pay off the mortgage with income received from renting out the offices and stores.

The present tenants are: the State Barber Shop, Bray Jewelers, the Corner Soda Shop, Sound Ideas, Manchester Rubber Stamp, the Manchester Book Store, State Shoe Repair, the law offices of Garry, Walsh & Diana, and an office for the theater group.

The building was constructed in 1925 by Morris Posner, who sold it the following year to Hoffman Bros. In 1929 it was purchased by the Stanley Warner Corp., which owned it until 1960, when it was sold to the Connecticut Theater Corp. The latter, in 1965, merged with the Van Curler Broadcasting Corp. of New York City. It was bought by RKO-Stanley Warner Theaters in January 1969 for about $200,000.

Wilson said he first proposed the idea to the state before the energy shortage last year, but did not get anywhere. This time, he said, he has reasons to be optimistic. "The experience of the fuels shortage has emphasized the need for Connecticut to accept the responsibility for providing for its own needs at prices which it can afford to pay," he said. Besides, he said, the Federal Energy Office has urged New England to find ways of getting sufficient fuel.

Wilson's hopes are further bolstered by the fact that state officials are now willing to talk about refineries for Connecticut.

Last week Gov. Thomas J. Meskill announced the creation of a task force on refineries to gather information and advise him on the various aspects of constructing refineries in the state. Wilson's plans envision a deep water port located just south of Bartlett Reef in Block Island Sound.

The marine facilities would be connected to the shore by an underwater pipeline three miles long, and by an underground pipeline from shore to the tankage and manufacturing facilities "in the hills

Knight Gets Top Award Of Chamber

By FLOYD LARSON

Involvement was the key word at the 73rd annual meeting of the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce Wednesday night at The Colony in Talcottville. Involvement was the theme of brief talks by officers, guests, and the coveted "M" Award winner, N. William Knight, who could be called Manchester's own "Mr. Involvement."

The presentation of the award for outstanding community service climaxed the meeting and Knight, in his acceptance talk, summarized not only the need for involvement, but the fruits of it.

"Become involved with people and you'll find it is a wonderful experience," he said, citing his experience with instructors for the Handicapped, one of the many community involvements of the retired banker. He said the teen-agers who work in IOH gain from the experience and this is proven by the many who go on to social and rehabilitation work, continuing to help the handicapped.

In thanking the Chamber for the award, Knight said, "When I retired two-and-half years ago, I did not give up anything except the bank. I would urge all of you in business to become more involved and stay involved with people and needs of our community."

Mayor John Thompson praised the Chamber for its involvement in the problems of the community and the downtown area in particular. He urged it to continue its involvement and cited challenges in mass transit not only within the town but within the region; the need to consider a special swimming pool for IOH; and sidewalk ramps to assist the handicapped. He said May 1 has been set aside as "Awareness Day" in Manchester to focus on the problems of the handicapped.

The mayor plans to spend a day in a wheelchair to better understand the obstacles and problems of the handicapped, he reported.

Burl Lyons, chairman of the board, cited the Chamber's embarking on new goals during the past two years and pledged continued efforts toward achievement during his tenure. He praised retiring chairman Edward Kenney for his work and presented him with a plaque recognizing his Chamber service.

Kenney, administrator of Manchester Memorial Hospital, voiced his confidence that the Chamber would continue to strive to meet its goals, even though some may take as long as a decade.

Lyons also presented a plaque to Robert Nelson for his services as Chamber treasurer and vice president for finance.

In concluding his remarks, Lyons, publisher of The Herald, said, "Over the past two years the Chamber has embarked on a revitalization program which has made significant progress and has had a tremendous impact in Manchester. We want to assure you that the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce continues to be committed to the total liveability, health and vitality of Manchester," he said.

Richard G. Clark, Chamber president, reported the GMCC is receiving statewide recognition because of its aggressive and positive approach to community problems. He praised town officials for their contributions to the success of Chamber programs. "The chamber alone," he said, "cannot accomplish its goals without the cooperation of our civic officials, both elected and professional."

Clark said the Chamber faces great challenge ahead and pledged the full commitment of the professional staff to meet the community needs under the direction of Chamber leadership.

Kenney presented the "M" Award to Knight and recounted Knight's long-time service to the community.

Nixon Gets Extension For Subpoena Reply

WASHINGTON (UPI) — By a 34-4 vote, the House Judiciary Committee today gave President Nixon five more days to respond to its subpoena for tapes of 42 of his Watergate-related conversations.

Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., noting that the panel has been instructed by a 410-4 House vote to conduct an impeachment inquiry, said he hoped Nixon would not take the action as a sign of weakness.

"We will not be diverted," Rodino said. The President had asked for the additional time for the reply, which had originally been set for 10 a.m. today.

The 42 tapes cover 1,600 minutes of presidential conversations in the winter and spring of 1973 with top Nixon aides about the time when Nixon says he first learned of the involvement of close associates in the Watergate coverup.

Besides the extension of the subpoena deadline, the committee was prepared to approve dropping as many as 30 allegations against Nixon to focus on charges of criminal wrongdoing that will lead either to his exoneration or his impeachment.

By early summer, after studying evidence and interrogating witnesses, the committee will vote on each of the remaining charges as potential counts in a resolution of impeachment, which would then go to the House.

The new deadline demands that Nixon surrender the tapes by April 30—one year to the day after H.R. Haldeman and John D. Ehrlichman were 'deposed' from their high White House positions because of Watergate disclosures.

Four liberal Democrats voted against giving the President more time to answer the subpoena, contending he had had plenty of time to prepare the tapes since Feb. 25, when they were first requested.

Durante Takes A Bow From His Wheelchair

NEW YORK (UPI) — There was the same buskiness in the voice, but the words came out slower. The crushed felt hat was tilted to one side as always.

Jimmy Durante

More than 1,000 people sat listening so silently that the slightest tinkle of glass seemed to thunder across the ornate Grand Ballroom of the Waldorf Astoria.

The Special Guest He was the special guest at the Banquets luncheon, an annual event at the convention of the American Newspaper Publishers Association.

William Randolph Hearst Jr., whose Hearst Corporation is host for the lunch, presented the one-time Coney Island piano player with the Banquets "Silver Lady" award in recognition of his long career.

Durante, seated in his chair on the main floor with a group of friends, spoke slowly in thanking the Banquets, where he had appeared numerous times in the group's 33-year history.

And then, in the glare of a spotlight, cutting the smokes-filled room and with the Meyer Davis orchestra playing softly, he started slowly at first, faltering on some words, pausing before others and then growing stronger.

There was a long, standing ovation and then another when Jimmy sang "Young at Heart."

"Thank you, folks," he said after each wave of applause, nodding eyes twinkling.

Bolton Health Director Resigns

DONNA HOLLAND
Correspondent
646-4375

Dr. Robert Butterfield, Bolton health director, has submitted his resignation, effective April 30, to the selectmen.

Dr. Butterfield, in reference to the position's budget request of $5,475, for the 1974-75 fiscal year, said it is a more realistic figure than in the past and hopefully will enable the selectmen to carry out his recommendation, some of which he said he unsuccessfully tried to persuade the selectmen to implement.

Dr. Butterfield's recommendations are as follows:

- 1) A feasibility study for a sanitary sewage system for Bolton.
- 2) The formation of a District Health Department with qualified personnel heading all departments, that is, health director and sanitarian.
- 3) An impact study of the proposed DeCo project in Coventry on the health, environment and welfare of the Town of Bolton.
- 4) Call for a moratorium on all new apartment complexes until a town sewage system is available to service them.

Reveal Saturday, "The Entertainers", a full length musical comedy revue, will be presented at the United Methodist Church Saturday at 8 p.m.

The show is being directed by Kenneth Woods and Mitchell Grayson.

Choreography is by Dottie Gibson Perrett. Set designs and costumes are by Ruth McEtray.

A cast of nine singers and dancers will take a nostalgic look at the 1920's and 1930's. Admission is $1. The public is invited. Refreshments will be served.

The Entertainers and social hour are part of the church's 150th anniversary celebration.

Ted Urges Kremlin To Allow Emigration

MOSCOW (UPI) — Sen. Edward M. Kennedy wound up a week-long visit to the Soviet Union today, urging the Kremlin to permit the free emigration of Soviet citizens in exchange for U.S. trade credits.

The senator said at an airport news conference before flying to Washington he told Soviet leaders a "magnanimous action" by them on the emigration issue would be reciprocated by the United States.

"I haven't changed my views on the Jackson amendment," the Massachusetts Democrat said in response to a question. The amendment to the Nixon administration's trade bill before the Senate would credit to the Soviet Union unless Moscow permits the free emigration of its citizens, Kennedy was a cosponsor of the amendment.

All comments relating to the school system will be welcome. What direction the session's findings will take will depend entirely upon the people in attendance.

Lawrence Shaw and Ronald Soares will act as moderators. Coffee will be available.

To Discuss Schools

A group of Bolton parents has scheduled an informal public hearing for Thursday, May 2 at 7:30 p.m. at the Town Hall to discuss the school system.

All Bolton residents are urged to attend this meeting. School administrators, town officials and Board of Education members have been invited to attend this meeting.

Grasso Pushes Corrections Bill

U.S. Rep. Ella Grasso, D-Sixth District, today voiced strong support for a measure she has co-sponsored — to provide a $50,000 payment to the survivors of policemen, firemen, correction officers, prison guards and other public safety officers killed in the line of duty.

The measure passed the House of Representatives Wednesday by a 205-94 vote and now will be considered by the Senate.

"These dedicated officers who daily risk their lives should be provided with the assurance that certain compensation will be provided to their families, when hazardous duty results in their death," Mrs. Grasso said in a statement prepared for House debate on the bill.

In her statement, Mrs. Grasso reported that last year 131 local and state law enforcement persons and 170 volunteer and professional firemen were killed in the line of duty.

She also noted that the known as the Public Safety Officers' Benefits Act — has the support of police, fire and corrections officers in Connecticut, as well as the Connecticut VFW.

Mrs. Grasso called on her colleagues to approve the measure "in the interests of justice and fairness."

School Budget, Cuts Subject of Hearing

VIVIAN KENNESON
Correspondent

Residents will have an opportunity to express their feelings at the education public hearing tonight at 8 at Tolland High School.

Robert Dean, Board of Education chairman, said the board will present its entire $3,135 million budget, even though the total budget presided by the town manager reflects a $193,441 cut.

Dean said that a cut of that size will set the school system backwards with the elimination of 7 teachers, 4 aides, existing programs, and will allow for no new programs.

Dean said that a telephone poll of 200 persons was conducted, and only 38.5 per cent wanted the budget cut as presented by the town manager or Board of Education.

The school administrative staff met shortly after the town manager's recommendation cut was announced to determine areas to consider for cuts.

Superintendent of Schools Dr. Kenneth MacKenzie made the list known at Wednesday's Board of Education meeting.

At Parker School $25,331 could be cut by eliminating an all-day kindergarten program ($9,170); Kindergarten through Grade 2 music position ($9,170); and the proposed joint gifted program with Hicks School ($5,244).

At Hicks School $3,329 could be cut by eliminating the reading position ($1,185); art position ($1,000); gifted program with Parker ($4,523); part-time health position ($4,250); and an instructional aide ($2,400).

Cuts to consider for Middle School total $35,330, derived by eliminating foreign languages program ($9,480); math/science position ($2,047); music position ($9,000); library aide ($3,200); instructional aide ($2,400); and equipment rental ($2,200).

At Tolland High School $57,551 could be cut by eliminating an English position ($9,046); work experience position ($10,547); industrial arts position ($10,187); music position ($9,500); math position ($9,000); and two English electives ($300).

Systemwide cuts of $40,727 could be considered by eliminating the interschool program ($18,230); special education position ($11,547); new and replacement library books ($8,000); standardized testing program ($1,800); and field trips ($1,000).

If all of these cuts were approved by the Board of Education; however, the total would still fall short of the $193,441 cut by the town manager by $4,165.

The Board of Selectmen will meet tomorrow to decide on the final budget, which will be presented at the May 7 town meeting. Although the town manager and selectmen can determine the amount to cut, the school budget, subject to approval at a town meeting, only the Board of Education has the power to determine where the cuts will be made.

Frogmen at Suez

U.S. Navy frogmen, who arrived to help train Egyptian personnel in the art of clearing mines from the blocked Suez Canal, check their equipment at Port Said Wednesday. The 18,000-ton helicopter carrier USS Iwo Jima, first American warship to enter Egyptian waters in 16 years, sent helicopters into action along the canal to search for mines blocking the waterway. Bay State Obscenity Laws Ruled Invalid

BOSTON (UPI) — For the first time in more than 200 years, there are no laws on the books in Massachusetts that restrict obscenity in the state.

The state Supreme Court this week struck down the state's old laws, voting 4-3 in three separate cases that the laws were vague and unconstitutional.

Justice Herbert P. Wilkins, in his majority decision, said the supreme court judges "decline further to engage in the function of saving judicially a statute which is of great ambiguity on its face."

"People are entitled to know what they may or may not do under the threat of imprisonment or fines. Our general obscenity statutes do not furnish any guidance."

"If there is to be regulation in the commonwealth in the area of the sale or showing of pornographic works to adults, it must be achieved by explicit new legislation," the opinion said.

It added that any statute passed by the state legislature must "specifically define" the kind of sexual conduct and activity that may not be shown or described.

Joining Wilkins in the majority were Chief Justice G. Joseph Tauro and justices Edward F. Hennessey and Benjamin Kaplin.

The cases involved the showing of the film "The Devil in Miss Jones" at Boston theaters and the selling of allegedly obscene magazines in a Quincy bookstore.

Judge Kaplin, in a separate concurring opinion, said any attempt by the legislature to enact new laws might raise new constitutional questions because of arguments that the First Amendment protects adults who "knowingly and willingly seek out a pornographic work."

Kaplin added that judges could be freed from "serving as literary and artistic constablers" if the state constitution construed pornography as "a communication which the free press guarantee protects" among adults.

No Circuses Please

It might be a case of getting the cart before the horse but there are some who are beating the drums for televising impeachment proceedings in the Senate if the House should vote a bill of particulars demanding such. Perhaps it would be better to make this decision now, prior to the event, rather than after the act.

While any impeachment proceeding should be given full press coverage, the concept of live television coverage injects an element into the procedure which may not be in the best interests of justice.

We must remember that impeachment is a trial and the accused is entitled to full protection of his rights as he would be in any other legal procedure.

Yet, impeachment is political enough to make it doubly difficult to adapt it to standard court procedure. The jury, for example, is the Senate and has already been selected. We suspect a goodly number have already made up their minds one way or the other if the Senate should have to try President Nixon.

It is not these senators that we are concerned about however.

The ones who are still undecided may be influenced more by public reaction to the proceeding than by the evidence submitted by the President's accusers and defenders.

This is where televising either the House or Senate portions of the impeachment procedure could be dangerous.

At their worst, the proceedings could become a circus in which debate is aimed at the huge news audience, rather than on the issues at hand. If the House and Senate members could self-discipline themselves to exercise restraint and the Ervin Committee hearings pointed out the difficulty of this the procedure could well become a big bore of legalities and counter-legalities.

It is our thought that the Congress, with the exception of lapses for special committee probes has wisely refrained from televising its day-today activities. To televise impeachment proceedings would appear to be an overt attempt to politically exploit an historic action which by its very nature should be as non-partisan and as judicial in its nature as humanly possible.

The trauma of an impeachment proceeding is not in the proceeding itself, nor in its outcome but on the motives behind it, the conduct of the proceeding and the degree to which it becomes a political springboard into issues not germane to it.

We believe televising impeachment would be a temptation to political exploitation that House and Senate members cannot, if past performance is any criteria, resist.

The federal courts do not allow televising of trials including the current Mitchell-Stans trial. The impeachment, should it come, is also a trial and in fairness to all, the accused and the accusers, every effort must be made to keep it in the confines of traditional judicial practice.

If it is televised, we see no reason why the jury (the Senate) should be sequestered as is now done by the courts in many jurisdictions in order to protect the defendant from outside influences.

The Senate is bound by the Constitution to sit in judgment based on the facts presented to it and not by popular opinion which may be influenced by the dramatic abilities of participants.

Because of this danger, the House and the Senate should decide now before the House Judiciary Committee makes its recommendation to the full House on impeachment, that the proceedings will not be televised.

This decision should be made before any votes are taken because this decision, in the light of its implications, should be a matter of record. Then those faced with the fateful series of votes that could eventually lead to impeachment, will do so knowing the proceedings will or will not be televised.

Timely Warning

Secretary of State Kissinger's speech at the special United Nations Assembly on economic problems of the poorer nations was very well received even though it did not contain promises of any great increase in American bounty, except in food.

He particularly warned the Third World nations of the folly of emulating the oil producers who have quadrupled crude oil prices in the past years and accelerated inflation which is hurting all nations, but particularly the poorer ones.

Excessive pricing of natural resources, like inordinately high protective tariffs, is a double edged sword which can quickly rebound and overcome short term profits.

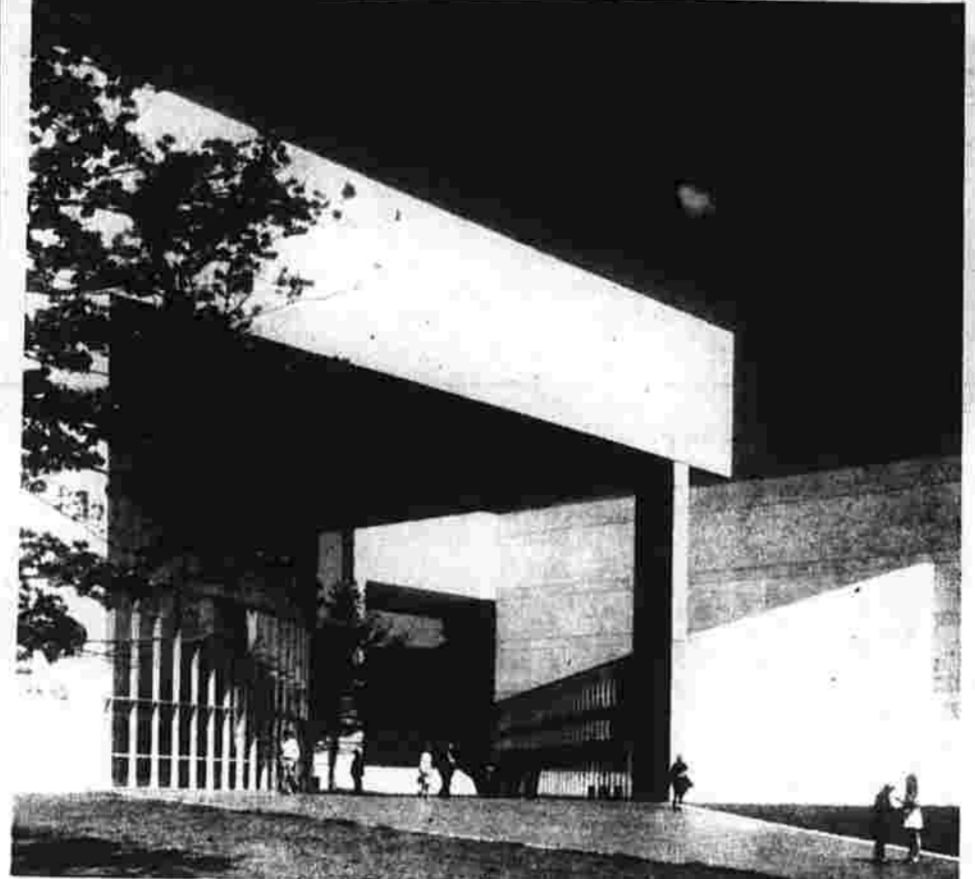

The vast increase in the price of oil has aggravated greatly the economic problems of the poorer nations who have little foreign exchange to use in oil purchases, or even more importantly fertilizers to raise food. The fertilizers are often petroleum derivatives.

Action of the oil exporters to set up aid programs for the poorer nations, with whom they express great solidarity and sympathy, has not been met with any great enthusiasm.

The promise of aid for nations suffering from shortages of currency purchased oil, even if unanimously supported, is far from magnanimous. Saudi Arabia was much more realistic in suggesting that lower oil prices might be a better answer.

The overriding message in Dr. Kissinger's remarks is that we are all part of one world and the community of nations. Short term gains through excessive prices will injure all nations in the long run.

Two Russian Prophets

NEW YORK — Scarcely has the Politburo thrown Alexander Solzhenitsyn out of the front door when in the window comes Andrei Sakharov. "Nature, expelled with a pitchfork, ever returns," ran the copybook maxim. It is the nature of thinkers and writers to return to their innate condition as truth-tellers, whatever the risks.

Solzhenitsyn will resume his assault, somehow, from wherever he is. That is one certainty the Soviet leaders must reckon with. But Sakharov is still inside Russia, not outside. It isn't a matter of false heroes: Both men are the stuff of authentic heroes. They are willing to face the consequences of their struggles, with the stakes on one side the continuance of a dark power elite and, on the other, the freedom of a people.

Sakharov's new long statement is couched as his own ruminations.

The Senate is bound by the Constitution to sit in judgment based on the facts presented to it and not by popular opinion which may be influenced by the dramatic abilities of participants.

Because of this danger, the House and the Senate should decide now before the House Judiciary Committee makes its recommendation to the full House on impeachment, that the proceedings will not be televised.

Today's Thought

On this Earth Day, 1974, you and I pause to consider the warmth and comfort which comes from the feel of the very ground under our feet. We walk over so many different kinds of paths in life, but always there is that earth, that precious earth, underneath.

There are people who cynically scorn all attempts to clean up the environment. Actually, we have no choice: either we are all to become "environmentalists" and work together for clean air, rivers, areas, and seas, or our ways as a species are numbered on earth.

Early we each learned the pain. "The earth is the Lord's."

Now, of late, we see how important it is to believe it. Submitted by Mrs. Harriet Hillier Center Church

Rotting New York

WASHINGTON — Here in this mecca of politicians and planners, experts ponder the plight of our cities and make mewing noises pleading that something be done to revitalize urban life. They'd better hurry up with some psychiatric gimmicks because every survey shows that our cities are rotting because the people who live in them don't care.

What is happening to New York City could be an ill omen because New York is the epitome of the city, and something has gone wrong with its people's character during the last decade. New Yorkers don't act like New Yorkers anymore. They'll take anything, but they seem to have forgotten how to dish it out.

Those eight million New Yorkers used to be the most aggressive in the world, not likely to suffer the slightest indignity without at least talking back to traffic cops, city councilmen and even (occasionally) cab drivers. Now, the helping hand can do is to sit back and suffer ill-meaning politicians and civil servants.

Consider the recent threatened subway and bus strike. Literally millions of New Yorkers, battle-weary from the gasoline crisis, gripped themselves to cope with the worst. Then, just in time for the 10 o'clock news, the dispute was settled.

Well, New Yorkers breathed a sign of relief and seemed to feel that the transit workers actually had done them a favor by staying on the job. Of course, the honeymoon didn't last forever. The sheeplike commuters who were so grateful to the transit men during the morning's rush hour were already cursing and grumbling by 5 p.m., once they realized that subway service would be as dreadful as ever.

An example of the decline of the New York character was last November's mayoral race.

nan, British and U.S. joint naval exercises have been disrupted and Pentagon approval to arrange for supplying Iran with new, high-technology weapons systems. These were specially designed to handle guerrilla infiltration.

The Middle East has been highly publicized. But even more important in the long run is the behind-the-scenes mission, now being carried out whereby the United States hopes to build up islands of strength in the Mideast world.

The objectives are: — To insure that no Russian-backed armies or guerrillas are able to overthrow friendly governments and replace them with Moscow-oriented client regimes.

— To build closer relationships with traditional allies and thus insure regular deliveries of petroleum. In part, this requires providing our friends with the strength they need to keep vital sea lanes open for the shipment of oil.

The dollars earned from this considerable American assistance and cooperation will make it possible in part to pay for the increasingly expensive oil.

To date, the closest relationships have been built, or are in the process of being built, with Iran, Saudi Arabia and Jordan. Equally quiet, persistent but unpublicized talks have been going on with Egypt. As with the Saudis and the Iranians, the approaches to Egypt's President Sadat have frequently been made through unofficial channels.

The wide extent of these American relationships with Iran and Saudi Arabia have not been publicized.

An estimated 3,500 American military and civilian advisers are in Saudi Arabia. The U.S. Air Force is understood to be actively advising the Saudis on air defenses. We have more than 1,500 advisers in Iran. Ira-

Dr. Fowles Co-Authors Article on Ed-TV

The unique qualities of educational television are explained in an article co-authored by Dr. Barbara Fowles and Dr. Gilbert Voyat, presented in the current issue of "The Urban Review."

Dr. Fowles is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Richmond of Sipsic Lake Rd., Ellington. She is associate director of research for the Children's Television Workshop, New York City, producers of Sesame Street and The Electric Company.

She said she feels Sesame Street and The Electric Company have done well in teaching, through repetition, alliteration, rhythm, rhyme and music, the simple associative links between arbitrary symbols such as letters and numbers.

Sesame Street is geared to teaching the pre-school children whereas The Electric Company is designed to teach reading to a target audience of children in Grades 2-4.

Dr. Fowles and a team of researchers started about four years ago to develop a curriculum for the reading program, consulting individually and in seminar groups, with more than 100 specialists in fields relating to reading.

Citing the unique capabilities of television, Dr. Fowles said, "For instance, television can easily show the reversibility of many processes and relationships by showing a film forwards and backward."

She added, "It can objectively mental manipulations through animation, can animate the inanimate, can juxtapose exemplars of the same concept normally so widely separated in time and space, and it can create magical experiences which compel the viewer to examine his assumptions."

She termed the challenge for educational television as being "designing sequences, using the wide range of visual and audio-visual tricks which can elicit active responses from the children and contribute to major changes in the cognition structure."

Noting that Sesame Street has led a number of educators to concede that television can serve real educational ends, Dr. Fowles said, however, "More significant shifts in our thinking may still be in order."

Widows' Tax Break Ruled Legal

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court upheld on a 5-3 vote Wednesday the Florida law giving widows, but not widowers, a $500 tax break on grounds that society is inhospitable to working women.

Justice William O. Douglas wrote the majority decision, citing the generally lower economic status of women as a proper basis for the law.

"There can be no dispute that the financial difficulties confronting the lone woman in Florida or in any other state exceed those facing the man," Douglas said.

"Whether from overt discrimination or from the socialization process of a male-dominated culture, the job market is inhospitable to the woman seeking any but the lowest paid jobs."

Douglas said the Florida tax law was "reasonably designed to further the state policy of cushioning the financial impact of spousal loss upon the sex for whom that loss is a disproportionate or heavy burden."

separate dissents, and Justice Thurgood Marshall endorsed Brennan's views. White and Brennan both said the Florida law was too broad because it failed to require women to demonstrate financial need for the tax break. "It may be that most widows have been occupied as housewives, mother and homemaker and are not immediately prepared for employment," White said. "But there are many rich widows who need no largess from the state; many others are highly paid and have held lucrative positions long before the deaths of their husbands."

CBT Managing E. Howard Hunt Investments

HARTFORD (UPI) — The Connecticut Bank and Trust Co. (CBT) said Wednesday its trust department is managing an investment account for Watergate conspirator E. Howard Hunt Jr.

Norman E. Armour, chief administrative officer of the bank's trust department, said the account was set up by William F. Buckley Jr. to manage the account previously handled by Hunt's brokerage firm.

The Los Angeles Times had said Tuesday Buckley had recommended the bank because it was used by his family. The Bucksleys have a home in Sharon and relatives live in the Hartford area.

The bank confirmed the account is being held under the name of "Johnson and Co.", a nominee name assigned at the request of the owner to conceal the identity of the actual owner.

"When I awoke I had the sensation of not being able to breathe. The room was dark and there were flames about one inch high on the sides and across the top of the television."

State Changes Town's System Of Food Checks

A planned statewide food service certification program going into effect next January will result in several changes in Manchester's system for inspecting restaurants, according to Ronald Kraatz, the town's environmental services officer who has been conducting many of the inspections.

The planned program, mandated by an amendment to the state Public Health Code, calls for all municipal inspectors to use a standard 58-item inspection form. Inspectors throughout the state must be certified by the state Department of Health by Jan. 22, 1975, implementation date.

The new inspection procedure will be very different than the system now used in Manchester, Kraatz said, and will be a lot more objective. Under the new system, which covers all aspects of food service inspections, restaurants will be graded on a point score of 100. A score of 80 is required to pass, and failing food service establishments with a lower grade must correct violations within two weeks of the inspection.

State Changes Town's System Of Food Checks

The new inspection program going into effect next year also requires certification of the inspectors, and the state has launched a large-scale training program for municipal inspectors.

Kraatz is one of three Manchester town employees who have already begun work toward certification. The others are James Fogarty and Larry Jean, who also conduct sanitary inspections throughout town.

Skylab Still Orbits

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Skylab space station that was abandoned in January remains stable in orbit with earth's gravity keeping it from tumbling as it circles earth 18 times a day, the space agency said Wednesday.

If the big orbiting laboratory remains steady, NASA said astronauts on some future space mission might be able to rendezvous and dock with it to examine the station's interior and retrieve a "time capsule" of several items left aboard.

Skylab supported three crews in space from last June to January and was de-activated shortly after Skylab 3 astronauts Gerald P. Carr, Edward G. Gibson and William R. Pogue left it in January.

Shortly after the last pilots left the lab, ground controllers positioned it by radio command so that it was vertical with respect to earth's surface. In this manner, the slightly different pull of gravity between the lowest portion of the lab and the top part keeps the station stable.

NASA has estimated that Skylab will remain in orbit until 1975.

Allion New Trial Ruling Under Study

NEW HAVEN (UPI) — Convicted murderer Guillermo Allion must wait until at least May 10 to find out if he will get a new trial.

Attorneys will have until then to file final briefs with the court before a decision is made.

Testimony has ended in Allion's bid for a new trial. He was convicted last September in the 1972 slaying of his estranged wife and her wealthy parents in their North Haven home.

The 35-year-old former social worker based his appeal on the claim that trial judge Simon Cohen talked to a juror outside the presence of the prosecutor and the defense attorney.

Defense Attorney Howard Jacobs told Superior Court Judge John F. Shea of Manchester that after the alleged improper conversation, the juror returned to the deliberation room and told the others "We are staying."

At that point, the jury had deliberated for almost two days.

The judge's comment, according to Jacobs, carried the weight of an official court order, since the juror had just returned from talking to Judge Cohen.

In the appeal, Jacobson also questioned the failure of Assistant States Attorney Gerald Barnett to call Judge Cohen as a witness.

Prisoner Return Rate Below Average

NEW HAVEN (UPI) — The rate of return of Connecticut prisoners to jail is 20 to 30 per cent less than the national rate over a five-year period says state Corrections Commissioner John Manson.

Manson, in an interview with a New Haven radio station WHCT, said nationally, 80 per cent of prisoners released are behind bars again within five years.

In Connecticut, he said, 50 to 60 per cent released over the same time period return.

Manson said he would not support the unionization of prisoners in Connecticut.

"Union membership in an organization for inmates is not to be expected very soon," he said.

"The only state which accepts that is Rhode Island," he said. "I don't think the compatibility with the inmate is comparable to the private citizen working for an employer on the outside."

Bank the free way?

So what's the catch?

If you're one of the unbelievers who think there's no such thing as free, take a good hard look at Hartford National's new free Favorite Person Account.

Your first reaction might be, "Great, but there's got to be a gimmick. Some tie-in. Some minimum balance somewhere."

Well, better start believing. Because "free" is what the Favorite Person Account is all about.

That means no fees whatsoever. No service charges ever again. No minimum balances to maintain in your checking or your savings accounts.

Check out the benefits. Right off the bat you get a Favorite Person Card. It speeds up check cashing at all 64 offices of Hartford National. And guarantees your Hartford National check at over 2500 participating stores all over Connecticut. So you can even cash checks at night and on weekends.

Then you get absolutely free checking with free personalized checks included. No bounce checking that lets you write loans from your own checkbook. Your own Master Charge. Lower rates on most personal loans and a whole lot more.

"What's in it for Hartford National?" you might ask. Very simply, it's good solid long range planning on our part. We know we'll attract more customers. Customers who year in and year out will do all their banking at Hartford National.

So, fill out the coupon. Or visit any office of Hartford National. Become a Favorite Person and bank the free way.

From Your Neighbor's Kitchen

By Vivian F. Ferguson

Andrea Brazier grew up in Indiana. "Cooking, I guess, is a style there more than, say, the ethnic type," she says. "It's a meat and potatoes thing."

"When I was growing up, my mother made a dish which she called 'company casserole.' It wasn't until I got out here that I realized I had been eating lasagna. Mostly, the people are farm and country people."

"There was corn meal mush — we had it for breakfast. After it had been cooled, it was cut into squares, fried and served with syrup. Grits were another thing."

"They cook the devil out of most vegetables. Take green beans — they'd go for about 2 1/2 hours. You take the fresh beans, add water, then bacon or bacon drippings. I use four or five slices of bacon strips. I know it's not supposed to be good because you lose vitamins but I still love them that way."

Because Andrea became accustomed to eating vegetables well-cooked, she finds a pressure cooker will give her the same texture without excessive cooking.

Andy and her husband Geoffrey have moved five times in the past seven years. "We never had an awful lot of time, until these last few years to do anything with our hobbies." An engineer, Geoffrey came to work at Pratt & Whitney Aircraft five years ago and the couple moved to Manchester about three years ago.

Andy's major hobby, silk-screening, has led her into a little business of her own. Operating at home under the name "Calico Prints," she sells note paper, stationery, cards, book marks and the like. Attractively boxed and moderately priced, the stationery can be had in several colors. The paper can select from a variety of the silk-screened designs — ladybugs, mushrooms, a kitten peeping out a hedgehog, a nutcracker or chickadees. Each box holds a tiny piece of genuine calico under the trade name.

There are also silk-screened landscapes, matted, suitable for hanging as is or ready for framing. About the house, Andy's handwork is evident in watercolors and other artistry. She now faces a major decision. Shall she go forward, enlarging her business or continue with it as a hobby on a small scale?

In a corner of the dining room, Andy's creativity is evident in a partially completed macramé seat for a ladderback chair. Neatly by her feet which she plays from time to time. The house will resound with music this weekend when a friend will visit from New York bringing her harp along.

Two coal black cats with lovely golden eyes have a special perching place. Using a portion of a tree trunk with branches, Geoffrey made them their own private indoor tree which stands in a large tub in a corner of the sunroom. Placed at strategic spots among the little trees are three resting places, little nests where the pets can sleep, or look down upon the passing scene.

The Braziers are avid skiers, have just returned from Salt Lake City where Andy says the skiing is "great."

Andy's recipes are midwestern. Her grandmothers and her mother have passed theirs along. "When I first got married, I cooked a little different than I do now. Geoffrey and I both gained weight.

Once we got it off, we revamped our entire eating habits. I still like to make these delicious things and my interest is still there but I just can't do it," she says. "When my grandmother says 'butter' in a recipe, she means butter."

Butterhorns: 1 cake yeast plus 1 tablespoon sugar creamed to a paste Beat in three eggs, one at a time. Add one cup warm water 1/2 cup sugar 1 teaspoon salt 1/4 cup melted butter or margarine

Work in 5-6 cups flour depending on size of eggs. Work dough until smooth and elastic. Grease bottom of "rising bowl" and place dough in. Then turn over to greased side of dough is up. Cover and let rise in warm spot for approximately 45-60 minutes. Dough is ready when it is almost 1 1/2 its original size. Punch down and get out air bubbles.

Divide dough into three sections and roll out into circles. Butter each circle generously, then cut into pie-shaped wedges. Roll up each wedge starting with large end and place on a lightly greased baking sheet. If desired, sprinkle with cinnamon and a combination of white and brown sugar, after buttering. Raisins may also be used.

Bake at 350 approximately 10-12 minutes or until light golden brown.

Note that butter is underlined. This recipe will not rise as well when using a substitute for butter.

Wilted Lettuce Salad 4 hard boiled eggs 4 strips bacon, fried crisp and drained. Combine 4 tablespoons bacon grease 4 tablespoons brown sugar 4 tablespoons vinegar 4 Bring last three ingredients to a hard boil. Using Boston lettuce, wash carefully and break into small pieces. Pour hot dressing over lettuce. Dice eggs which have been cooled. Combine with salad once dressing has been added. Mix well and serve with bacon crumbled on top.

Perminon Fudging 1 cup perminon pulp (put perminon through colander or Foley food mill) 2 cups granulated sugar 2 cups all-purpose flour 3 eggs beaten 2 tablespoons butter 1 teaspoon soda, mixed in a little water 1 quart whole milk

Bake in a pan with deep sides, such as the depth of an angel food cake pan. Bake 1 1/2-2 hours at 350. Stir about every 15 minutes while baking until consistently dark throughout.

Note: This makes a firm pudding, with a texture thicker than that of pumpkin pie. Serve with rich heavy cream, either poured over or whipped.

1 1/2 cups flour, unsifted 1 egg 1/2 cup shortening 1/2 teaspoon salt 1/2 cup sugar 1/2 cup water

Combine shortening, salt and flour. Add baking powder and egg. Then gradually add water until mixture becomes like pie-dough. Roll out dough and cut into 2" squares. Keep broth at rolling boil and drop dumplings in. Cook anywhere from 10-20 minutes depending on desired doneness.

Broth: Chicken broth gives dumplings the best flavor as opposed to water, but chicken broth plus a chicken bouillon cube or two is by far the most flavorful. Parsley and a little dry mustard can also be added to the boiling broth.

Woman's View

By GAY PAULEY
UPI Women's Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — Some observations on the American fashion scene:

One observant man in our office, a confirmed girl watcher, thinks today's women are concerned with their pantsuit wardrobes and "outlandish" shoes. He's referring to legs in hiding.

On the first day of spring, he was heard to mutter something to the effect, "Ah, now we'll get some better scenery on Main Street U.S.A. and in the offices. We'll see ankles again. The girls will get into dresses."

The weeks went by and he continued muttering; the girls were still wearing trousers. Further, they were still wearing shoes he abhors—chunky heels and exaggerated platform soles with the pants. Uglier, he calls them.

"Whatever happened," he finally said to me, "to the high heeled pumps which did more to enhance the looks of female feet and gracefully shape women's legs than any shoe style before or since?"

Little Enquirerment

"What in the world are you women doing to femininity anyway? Looks to me as if you're deliberately destroying it."

"I know, there are such reasons as health—high heels bad for the feet and posture—and low heels good. But I also know I'm not the only woman who thinks it's a shame the spike heels have gone out of fashion."

There was little encouragement I could offer him and other leg watchers of the world. The footwear industry sees no spike heels in the seasons ahead. A little more height is being added on some styles but

Secretaries Honor Three Area Students

Miss Karen-Marie Cronin, 59 E. Middle Tpk. and Miss Robin Douglas, 106 Hollister St., were honored earlier this week at the kick-off luncheon for Secretaries Week, sponsored by the Hartford Chapter of National Secretaries Association, at the Hartford Hilton Terrace Room.

Miss Cronin, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Cronin, was the recipient of a $400 scholarship. She is a student at East Catholic High School and plans to attend Bay Path Junior College, Longmeadow, Mass.

She is a member of the Future Secretaries Association, the Village of Charm Chapter of East Catholic High School. She is also a member of the East Catholic Drill Team, a Yearbook staff, appeared in the gymnastic show. She also danced in Hartford Junior Ballet dance productions. She has worked in the Department of Community Affairs in a secretarial/clerical capacity.

Miss Douglas, resident of the Avila M. Kellogg Chapter of FSA of Manchester High School, was recognized as a high scorer on this year's FSA exam and is now eligible to compete in the International Scholarship exam.

She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Douglas, 108 Hollister St., and a student at Manchester High School. She has been accepted at Bryant College where she will participate in the two-year program. She is planning to major in either the executive or legal secretarial program. She is also active in the Student Assembly, Round Table Singers, Ski Club and is captain of the cheerleading squad.

Miss Barbara Tardiff, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Rudolf J. Tardiff of East Hartford, is also eligible to compete in the international competition. She is a senior at East Catholic High School, and plans to attend Briarwood School of Business in September to pursue a career as a legal secretary. Barbara works part time as a nurse aide at a local convalescent home and also volunteers as a catechism instructor.

Smith-Perron

Robin Elizabeth Perron of Manchester and Leon Frank Smith III of South Windsor exchanged wedding vows April 20 at St. Mary's Church, Manchester.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Perron of 32 Benton St. The bridegroom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Leon Smith Jr. of 647 Foster St., South Windsor.

The Rev. George Nostrand of St. Mary's Church performed the double-ring ceremony.

The bride, given in marriage by her father, wore a gown of sata pea and reemboiered Alencon lace designed with a high neckline, fitted camisole bodice, A-line skirt with lace panels, forming a redingote effect on front skirt. She wore a chapel-length mantilla edged with reemboiered lace. She carried a cascade bouquet of white butterfly roses, white carnations and baby's breath with natural foliage.

Miss Cherie Perron of Manchester was her sister's maid of honor. She wore a crepe gown in romance blue styled with a squared yoke of lace and lace trimmed puffed sleeves. A-line skirt with wide self belt. She wore a matching picture hat trimmed with lace. She carried a colonial bouquet of white and blue miniature carnations with white sweetheart roses and baby's breath with accents of blue satin ribbon and streamers.

Bridesmaids were Miss Sandra Smith of South Windsor, the bridegroom's sister; Mrs. Paul Lutz of Greenbelt, Md.; and Miss Jill Weir of Manchester. They wore gowns similar to that worn by the honor attendant except in light blue. They carried similar bouquets in spring blue accents and streamers.

Miss Danielle Burke of Manchester was flower girl.

Mrs. Leon F. Smith III

Her gown and hat matched those worn by the other attendants and she carried a nosegay of miniature carnations. Steven Welch of South Windsor was best man. Ushers were Robert Perron Jr., Scott Perron and Jeffrey Perron, all of Manchester, and all brothers of the bride; James Smith of South Windsor, the bridegroom's brother; and Stephen Shaw of Manchester, the bride's cousin. A reception was held at D & D Caterers, Rt. 85 in Bolton, after which the couple left on a trip to the Pocono Mountains in Pennsylvania. Mrs. Smith is employed by W. T. Grant in the credit office. Mr. Smith is employed as a machinist by Le-Mi Corporation.

Thoughts APLENTY by Len Auster. Clutch relief pitching by senior right-hander Dave Bidwell along with the timely hitting of Bill Munroe paced Manchester High to an 11-5 baseball win over CCIL Ice Hall yesterday in bone-chilling West Hartford. The win boosted the Indians ledger to 5-1 and a tie for first in the league standings with Windham, which lost 3-2 to Platt yesterday.

Race Wide Open

At this juncture of the baseball season the Central Connecticut Interscholastic League (CCIL) race is wide open. Pre-season favorites Manchester High and Bristol Central both have already tasted defeat, the latter twice. Windham High with a 5-1 ledger at this printing heads the standings with the Indians.

Definite Threat

Coach Harold Parks' Indians are a definite threat. The pitching which broke down Monday against Platt yielding 19 runs, is sturdy and will rebound in future outings. A surprise has been the pitching of junior right-hander John Koepsel. Parks didn't know what to expect from the junior performer, but he and everybody else have been pleasantly surprised. Koepsel could become the ace of the staff before the season gets much older.

Top-Notch Affair

Nettles Setting Pace In AL Home Run Derby

NEW YORK (UPI) — We all knew — even before the season began — that Mickey Vernon would quickly establish 1974 as "the year of the home run." What we didn't know was that Graig Nettles would come from out of nowhere to push the American League into the home run-hitting sweepstakes.

But there he is: Graig Nettles, steady, if not spectacular New York Yankee third baseman, boasting a league record-setting 10 home runs for the month of April — 23 full games ahead of Roger Maris' season's record pace of 6 in 1961 and 15 ahead of Babe Ruth's 6 in 1927.

Bucks Next Obstacle for Celtics After Ouster of Defending Champs

BOSTON (UPI) — The sign on the blackboard said: "Practice tomorrow at 11 a.m."

That seemed to sum things up for the Boston Celtics, who had just eliminated the defending champion New York Knickerbockers from contention in the National Basketball Association playoffs in a 105-94 decision that waxed from brutal to poetic.

It was the first time the Celtics had won the Eastern Division playoffs since 1969 but there was no time to savor the victory because the Milwaukee Bucks, with 7-foot-2 Kareem Abdul Jabbar, loomed over the locker room like a specter.

The two teams meet Sunday afternoon in Milwaukee to open the best-of-seven championship series.

"This will be a message-practice. We get one measurand practice for winning," said Boston Coach Tom Heinsohn. "Then we get down to business."

Boston led 52-45 at the end of the first half, with neither team able to control play for any length of time. The officials called 31 fouls in the first half, most of them under the boards, where elbows and hips were turned into nearly lethal weapons. The defense on both sides was frantic and aggressive, especially in the first quarter when the two teams managed only 41 points between them.

"The game was won in the first half," said Boston's Don Chaney, who took control of the game in the second half, scoring 12 of his 19 points. "It was a real tough half and the Knicks were tired when they came out for the last half."

What are the Celtics going to do to contain the Bucks, a team which compiled the best record in the league? "Don't ask. Give me a day to think about it," pleaded Heinsohn.

Rangers Hoping Home Ice Will Help Against Flyers

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Rangers, faced with the distinct possibility of being blasted out of the playoffs for the first time by an expansion team, were hoping that the return to home ice and the possible presence of team captain Vic Hadfield would help them break through the fierce-checking Philadelphia Flyers tonight.

The Rangers, beaten and battered in the first two games of their Stanley Cup semifinal series at Philadelphia, have to win tonight or face a virtually hopeless situation by falling three games down in the best-of-seven series. The fourth game also will be played in New York Sunday.

In the seven years the Flyers have been in the National Hockey League, they have been able to win only one game in New York while losing 12 and tying six. In addition, the games while Emile Francis was the coach, Philadelphia in 16 games while Emile Francis was the coach, Philadelphia in 16 games while Emile Francis was the coach, Philadelphia in 16 games while Emile Francis was the coach.

An emotional lift might also be provided if Hadfield can return to action. He suffered a badly sprained left ankle in a game at Detroit April 6 and although he tried to play

Tampa Gains NFL Franchise, One More City to Be Picked

NEW YORK (UPI) — Expansion and inflation, two concepts that typify modern America, will take another staggering step outward and upward as part of the National Football League's tribute to the country's bicentennial.

The NFL, which already has gone from 12 teams to 26 since 1960, will expand further in 1975 with the definite addition of Tampa, Fla. At least one other city, and possibly more, will be selected later this year to join the burgeoning fraternity.

These cities under consideration are Seattle, Phoenix, Honolulu and Memphis, all of whose bids were discussed at this week's NFL meeting.

The price of admission is a cool $16 million, almost double what the National League charged for its last group of expansion franchises just a few years ago and the largest in sports history.

But no one concerned with the Tampa bid so much as blinked an eye at the inflation fee. The only emotion they showed was relief at gaining the privilege to pay the price.

"I'm sure that the people who are bidding for the franchise have certainly evaluated the situation and know there will be a return on it," said Leonard Levy, chairman of the Chamber of Commerce Task Force that has worked for six years to bring the NFL to Tampa.

"This is inflation now, we're paying more for everything we do."

Levy said that some 13 groups have expressed an interest in taking over the Tampa franchise. One of the strongest groups is headed by Harry T. Mangunjar, whom Levy said "has been the most viable and active" force in bringing a team to Tampa.

Bill Marcum, a member of the Mangunjar group, said that money would not be a factor if they won the bid.

Knicks' Future Cloudy

BOSTON (UPI) — Wednesday night marked the end of the 1973-74 season for the New York Knickerbockers as they bowed in the fifth game of the NBA Eastern Conference championships to the Boston Celtics.

For several of New York's players, Wednesday night also marked the end of their careers as age and injury leave the Knicks, last season's NBA champs and last year's NBA runner-up, in a serious contender this year with a very uncertain future.

Veteran Dave DeBusschre and Jerry Lucas have turned in their uniforms. DeBusschre has a lucrative position as general manager of the ABA New York Nets awaiting him next season; Lucas plans to turn to his business concerns. DeBusschre's frontcourt mate, Bill Bradley, probably will play next season but it should be his last since he is planning a career in politics and center Willis Reed's knees may never permit him to play regularly again.

"I don't know yet when I officially join the Nets' organization," said a weary DeBusschre in the Knicks' locker room. "It'll be a big adjustment but I've been preparing myself to retire for some time. I realize now that it's difficult to accept when it does finally come though."

Despite the hometown frenzy surrounding the Boston win, the significance of the game as DeBusschre's last contest was not lost upon the 15,321 fans in the Boston Garden. When the game with 8:40 remaining, he received a standing ovation from the crowd, and when he left the game for the last time with 1:20 remaining, the Boston fans gave him an extended salute.

"It was very nice, very very heartwarming," DeBusschre said. "I appreciated it, and I'll always remember it. It's nice to have, even in such strong anti-Knickerbier."

Bradley's future is less certain. "I'm not thinking about next year at all right now," said New York Coach Red Holzman.

"I'll wait until everything is over and things calm down a bit. My immediate plans are to catch the plane, get home, and sit down with a couple of scotches."

Star guard Walt Frazier believes New York will remain a contender in the NBA.

Maravich Traded To Expansion Club

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — Pistol Pete Maravich is a straight shooter, his attorney said, and that's why the Atlanta Hawks star is perturbed because he was not informed of a deal to send him to New Orleans, an expansion team in the NBA.

"Pete is very distressed — and so are we — that he was not told beforehand about the switch," attorney Lester Zitrain said. "We thought a meeting we had with Hawks officials April 15 about Pete's case was successful and would clear the air."

Zitrain, his colleague and attorney Art Herkowitz, and Maravich met with Hawks General Manager Pat Williams and John Wilcox, principal front office Maravich and Fitts' contract issues had been settled with the Hawks. He said last Monday Williams would give Pete to meet with Coach Cotton Fitzsimmons and they would settle their differences," Zitrain said.

"There was no mention of Pete going to New Orleans," Zitrain said.

Tuesday evening Williams called Herkowitz again, saying a deal had been brewing for months with New Orleans and that Pete was making the switch. "This flabbergasted Herkowitz."

"Atlanta wanted Pete's approval. Pete has a clause in his contract saying he cannot be sent to another team without his approval. Pete holds to that clause — he's a straight shooter."

Zitrain said Pete said he had made no decision and that he was "upset and undecided."

Two League Meeting Tonight at West Side

Will adult Twilight League baseball return to Manchester this summer?

Tonight the answer will be known shortly after 7 o'clock when interested teams meet with Carl Silver, program director of the Recreation Department, at the West Side Rec.

If the proposed four-team circuit gets off the floor — will it operate two or four nights a week at Mt.Nebo? Two nights would give each team one game a week. Playing four nights would find each club playing twice weekly.

Apartheid Policy Leads

JOHANNESBURG (UPI) — Prime Minister John Vorster's ruling National Party took an early lead today in a whites-only election expected to endorse South Africa's apartheid policy of racial separation. Early returns from the nation's 2.2 million white voters indicated a six per cent increase in Nationalist strength, giving Vorster's party about a two-thirds majority in the 171-member assembly.

Mitchell Trial Resumes

NEW YORK (UPI) — The government finishes today its year-long drive to send two former Nixon Cabinet members — John Mitchell and Maurice Stans — to prison for what the federal prosecutor described as an attempt to "use political power to influence justice." Mitchell and Stans could get 45 years each on conviction. It appeared the case would reach the jury tonight.

'Took Part Willingly'

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — An 18-minute tape recording, reportedly the voice of Patricia Hearst, was given to a city community relations policeman Wednesday. In it she said she willingly took part in a bank holdup April 15 and she referred to her father as "pig Hearst."

Evidence Backs Rebozo

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A check of the $100 bills making up the $100,000 package given to Bebe Rebozo by Howard Hughes in 1970 shows serial numbers proving the money was printed before 1970, and supports Rebozo's testimony that he kept the money untouched in a bank for three years. The Watergate probe is now reportedly concentrating on income tax records of Rebozo, Rosemary Woods, President Nixon's brothers, and associates of Hughes.

Equal Fuel Prices?

BOSTON (UPI) — The six New England governors said Wednesday the region pays a "disproportionate price for heating fuel and gasoline and asked the Federal Energy Office to develop plans to equalize the cost of energy throughout the nation. The governors asked for an FEO reply within 30 days.

Espionage Charged

BONN (UPI) — Federal police arrested one of Chancellor Willy Brandt's top aides and another five persons on charges of espionage for East Germany, a spokesman said today. The top aide, 47-year-old Guenther Guillaume, reportedly admitted he was a ranking officer in East Germany's National People's Army.

Dragnet Scaled Down

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Operation Zebra, the city's massive hunt for the black killers of 12 white persons, was scaled down today after police admitted the random stop-and-question dragnet was ineffective. Protests over the police procedure spilled into court, where a federal judge heard arguments that the dragnet was unconstitutional.

CONN. SALVAGE CO., Inc. alias The GLORIOUS EMPORIUM CORNER OF HARTFORD ROAD & PINE ST., MANCHESTER - 649-7782

Now that the local courts have ruled "Deep Throat" obscene, (you can't see it any more) our Glorious Emporium has come in to its own as the best show in town. We always said we were second only to Sex and now we're number one. For years we waited patiently in the wings, taking a back seat, played second fiddle, hiding our time, awaiting this great day. In celebration we're going to look the other way no matter how many sugars you use in the coffee!

WHAT KIND OF A PICTURE DID YOU EXPECT US TO RUN, ANYWAY?

Lots of things to peddle this weekend — a few hints: Coasters and candles, sponges and screen houses, windshield cleaning pads, garage brooms, 9' and 15' extension cords, Lane's insecticides, D-Con Insect spray, and lamp shades in addition to disposable diapers, I.O.-carpet, furniture, queen and king size bedding, stereo speakers, automatic record changers, brushes and hundreds of things I can't even remember all at actually less than dealers themselves pay!

So come visit and enjoy the delicious complimentary coffee while you look. We'll really enjoy seeing you. Remember that we sell with a real "no-hard-time" money back guarantee if your purchase does not please you in every way. And my wife says, "Don't forget your wallet!" Remember our Exhausting Hours: Thurs. Eve (11) 6 to 9, Fridays 10 to 9 and Saturdays 10 to 5. We're resting less!

'Inevitable'

Tom Wicker, an associate editor of the New York Times, says a political scandal like Watergate "would have occurred sooner or later" because of the unchecked power of the federal executive.

China Tour Set

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. — Country-Western singer Buck Owens, star of the nationally televised "Hee-Haw," Wednesday announced provisional plans to travel next year in the People's Republic of China. The tour is set for January, but Owens did not reveal its length or the itinerary.

Connecticut News Roundup

Primary Costs

HARTFORD (UPI) — A primary to select 70 city delegates to the Democratic state convention will cost the city $18,000 if it is held. City officials said funds for the primary, which is expected to be held May 23, will come from a contingency account. Attorney General Robert K. Killian is circulating petitions to force the primary in order to get delegates favorable to his bid for the party gubernatorial nomination. The town committee has already endorsed a delegate slate favorable to Rep. Ella T. Grasso, D-Conn.

Sub Building

GROTON (UPI) — The Groton Zoning Board of Appeals has granted a variance to General Dynamics' Electric Boat Division to build a submarine fabrication building. The variance, granted Tuesday night, was needed because of the excessive height of the proposed building.

Survivor Dies

NEW BRITAIN (UPI) — John J. Sabinski, 56, a survivor of the Japanese attack on Pearl Harbor in 1941, died Wednesday at West Haven Veterans Administration Hospital. Sabinski, a soldier, escaped the Pearl Harbor attack uninjured and went on to numerous battles in the Pacific Theater.

Named Dean

STORRS (UPI) — Dr. Philip Rice was named Wednesday to succeed Dr. Thomas Malone as dean of the University of Connecticut Graduate School.

Ask Approval

HARTFORD (UPI) — Law enforcement union representatives urged the Connecticut congressional delegation to vote Wednesday in favor of a $50,000 death benefit survivors payment. Law enforcement chapters of the Connecticut State Employees Association urged passage of the Public Safety Officers Benefit Act that would provide $50,000 to widows of police, fire and correction officers killed in the line of duty.

Music Boosters To Meet Monday At Rham Cafeteria

ANNE EMT, Correspondent
Tel. 228-3971

The Rham Music Boosters Club, Inc. has scheduled a complete membership meeting for parents, students and friends for Monday evening at 8 in the school's cafeteria.

Items on the agenda include plans for the 1975 European trip to Germany and Holland for which a positive decision must be made on the specific proposal to be presented; discussion of the music boosters letter to the superintendent of schools regarding the music program in the district; and nomination of officers for the coming year.

In his letter to the superintendent, the club requested the consideration of three items. First, that a specific program be promoted this spring to make elementary students aware of the music program that has been available up to the present time.

Although the elementary bands have been dropped, the Rham Symphonic Band and Rham Chorus have been performing at all the elementary schools.

Secondly, that the superintendent or central office committee make plans for coordinating and implementing a music program in the three

Bolton Business Class Hears Guest Speakers

DONNA HOLLAND, Correspondent
646-0375

Students in the practical business for seniors class and the cooperative work experience class heard three guest lecturers at the end of units pertaining to their related topics.

Anthony Muro spoke to the students about the importance of life insurance and what to consider when purchasing life insurance. He is an insurance agent for the Mutual Life Insurance Co. of New York.

Muro is a member of the Hartford, Connecticut and National Life Underwriters and of the Manchester Jaycees. He is a graduate of LUTCI II and is presently enrolled in American College of Underwriters CLU.

Muro's family resides in Bolton.

The classes also listened to Miss Sheila G. Green who works for Executive Services. Miss Green spoke to the class about applying for jobs, proper job selection, what to consider in a job and the current job market.

Henry Toman, stockbroker from Merrill, Lynch, Pierce, Fenner and Smith, spoke to the classes about the stock market and developing an investment portfolio.

The class will be purchasing stock with Toman their stockbroker.

The senior office practice class heard John Broedevre talk about the importance of telephone techniques. Broedevre is with the Southern New England Telephone Co.

Mrs. Leslie Ann Dubaldo and Mrs. Brenda Briggs are the instructors.

Poultry, Eggs To Be Cheaper This Spring

WASHINGTON (UPI) — An Agriculture Department report today said broiler chickens, eggs and turkeys will be cheaper this spring than in 1973.

Department economists said poultry and egg production will rise this spring, although the margin over year-ago levels will divide for poultry meat.

They predicted chicken and egg prices "will run weaker than a year ago, while turkey prices will be down sharply."

Looking into the summer, economists predicted broiler prices would rise to keep pace with beef and pork.

But, the specialists added, the broiler increase will probably be smaller than the normal seasonal gain which comes when summer weather spurs demand for chicken on backyard barbecues. As a result, summer prices should average "well below" a year earlier.

For the second half of 1974, specialists writing in a "Poultry and Egg Situation" summary said poultry and egg

Vernon Hot Meals for Elderly Eligibility Explained

An appeal for greater awareness of the hot meal program for retired persons, was made this week by Mrs. Eileen Fritz, chairman of the Health and Food Services Committee for the retired persons department of the Hockanum Valley Community Services Council.

Mrs. Fritz said she fears a wrong impression has been created as to who is eligible for the program which is federally funded.

The hot meals are served five days a week at Franklin Park housing project for the elderly and at the High Rise project in the redevelopment area, Court St.

The meals are made available to all persons over 62 years-old and who live in Vernon, Tolland, or Ellington. Income has nothing to do with being eligible for these meals, Mrs. Fritz said.

Also a small percentage of the meals can be taken to those unable to travel but persons have to make their own arrangements for pickup and delivery. However, Mrs. Fritz

Investment Chatter
NEW YORK (UPI) — The stock market is suffering from inflation, interest rates, impeachment and indifference, according to E. F. Hutton. "But while it breaks the alliterative sequence," the firm says, "it should also be noted that the market looks more and more solid out, or to put it another way, most potential sellers appear to have been already satisfied." The market is in a good position to respond to positive news, the firm adds, and the next major move should be upward.

Despite discouraging economic news—a decline in the Gross National Product, rising interest rates and a sharp fall in production—the U.S. economy will convalesce slowly, says Angus Research Corp.

"Over the next four quarters, the inflation rate will decelerate," it predicts, in the absence of dollar devaluations, the oil embargo and agriculture shortages. By the final quarter of this year, "real output will be in the vicinity of its long-term growth trend, the firm adds.

Sharply higher interest rates have depressed bond prices and scared capital away from needy firms, says the Dines Letter. "Wall Street houses that aren't making much money in stocks these days have now discovered a new way to compound their losses with bonds," the letter continues. In the wake of plunging bond prices, the letter says a major bank or brokerage failure on Wall Street would not be surprising.

Democrats Fight for 3rd District Seat

With the announcement Wednesday by East Hartford State Rep. George W. Hanson Jr. that he is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for the 3rd District state senator, it appears there is a four-way fight among Democrats for the seat now held by State Sen. Harry Burke, a Democrat.

South Mrs. Decker To Primary

Two veteran South Windsor politicians will battle it out in a Democratic primary for the 14th District state representative seat when Mrs. Cile Decker challenges Abraham Glassman May 23.

Mrs. Decker has announced her intentions to win the seven delegate votes she lost to Glassman April 4 in the Democratic caucus here. She lost those delegates by about 25 votes.

Mrs. Decker, chairman of the Board of Education, ran for the 4th District seat two years ago on the George McGovern ticket and lost by 125 votes. She faced her second defeat last month when Glassman, a former mayor here, edged her out for the delegate votes to the state convention.

Up until Tuesday night Mrs. Decker has been on the fence as to whether she would primary, although she did take out primary papers earlier this month in the event she did decide to run.

EPA Order Halts Sales Of Pesticide Sprays

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) Wednesday issued a rare emergency order to halt the sale of thousands of cans of pesticide sprays containing vinyl chloride.

The order, which takes effect immediately, covers 28 aerosol products intended for use in the home, hospitals, where food is handled or other enclosed areas. Outdoor sprays are not affected but the EPA said manufacturers are recalling them anyway.

An estimated 19,000 cans are covered by the ban as believed to be on the market, and an unknown number of others are likely to be in the hands of consumers.

Coventry Rid Litter Day Saturday

MONICA SHEA Correspondent
The Coventry Beautification Committee is again organizing the Rid Litter Day Program to be Saturday from 9 a.m. to noon.

Sandwiches and soda will be available for those assisting in the program and will be served at the Miller Richardson Field on Plains Rd. after those who are working have completed the area assigned to them.

The committee has been contacting residents to assist with picking up roadside litter along their own streets. Service groups have been contacted. Interested citizens who would like to assist may contact Mrs. Ronald Baker, Rid Litter Day Chairman, to volunteer their services or for further information.

The committee urges all residents to clean up along their own properties in order to make the job easier for those who will be cleaning an entire road.

Hatch Act Alters Political Plans For Two Leading GOP Aspirants

By EDWARD BUTLER
HARTFORD (UPI) — Two of Republican Gov. Thomas J. Meskill's political appointees have stumbled over the federal Hatch Act on the road to bigger and better things in Connecticut politics.

The latest casualty is Motor Vehicle Commissioner Edward J. Kozlowski, the Milford Republican who once wanted his own full-dress uniform complete with epaulettes to wear around the office.

Rather than lose his big money job, Kozlowski decided Tuesday against challenging Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff, D-Conn., in the fall elections. (The vacuum left by Kozlowski was immediately filled by Rep. James H. Brannen, R-Colchester, who in the last election ousted long-term Democrat Rubin Cohen, the so-called "Dean of the House.")

Like Kozlowski before him, Brannen, who is a black commercial jet pilot, filed Senate candidacy papers with federal authorities. The Hatch Act bars state and municipal employees from seeking office or politicking for their friends if their jobs involve handling federal funds. Kozlowski administers federal highway funds.

Only last Friday the Hatch Act cropped up in the political life of Ruben Figueroa, the Hispanic appointed by Meskill to head the Department of Community Affairs, which handles millions of federal dollars. Figueroa, apparently unlike Kozlowski, decided his election chances were pretty good. He relinquished his $27,837 a year appointment for a race against Democrat William Cotter in the Hartford Congressional District. Kozlowski undoubtedly heeded a warning from his boss in announcing second thoughts about an admitted long-shot campaign against Ribicoff, Connecticut's senior senator. "I was not prepared to take six months off," the commissioner said.

Kozlowski probably would have been forced out of his job with the resulting loss of a half year's salary, between now and the November election. He makes $29,991 annually. Meskill sent a clear message for all ambitious commissioners while commenting on Figueroa's resignation last Friday. "I'm not going to subject this administration to the criticism of being in violation of the law," the governor told newsmen. Figueroa's resignation came after Sen. Wilber Smith, D-Hartford, told the U.S. Civil Service Commission about Figueroa's campaign activities.

Portuguese Junta Solidifies Control

LISBON (UPI) — Gen. Antonio de Spínola, head of the seven-man military junta that seized power in an almost bloodless coup Thursday promised today to free political prisoners, and press censorship and call elections "in the shortest possible time."

Within three weeks, Spínola said, a provisional government will be composed of civilians of different political tendencies. He also said secret police will be disbanded except where it was needed for military intelligence functions in guerrilla areas in Portugal's African territories.

New Garbage Bids Pose Problem for Officials

It may require the wisdom of a Solomon for Manchester officials to determine whom to award a garbage and refuse pickup contract for the period starting July 1.

Because of the apparent failure to meet bid specs by one of the Jan. 29 bidders, Town Manager Robert Weiss rejected all bids and new ones were sought.

The apparent low bids today on all alternates (whether for a one-year contract or four-year) all were lower than those submitted Jan. 29.

Bids were submitted today on many alternate methods of collection by Trash-Away Inc. of East Hartford, the present contractor; Sanitary Refuse of Manchester, a previous contract holder; Nutmeg Sanitary Service of New Britain; and Albrechts of Torrington.

Today was the second time the town sought bids on the many alternates for either one-year or four-year contracts, with each broken down again into once-a-week or twice-a-week pickup, and broken down still further to with or without the curbside collection of newspaper.

Bids had been opened previously on Jan. 29, when only Trash-Away and Sanitary Refuse submitted bids with Trash-Away the apparent low bidder then for a one-year contract and Sanitary Refuse the apparent low bidder for a four-year contract.

Because of the apparent failure to meet bid specs by one of the Jan. 29 bidders, Town Manager Robert Weiss rejected all bids and new ones were sought. The apparent low bids today on all alternates (whether for a one-year contract or four-year) all were lower than those submitted Jan. 29.

Nutmeg Sanitary is the apparent low bidder for a one-year contract (once-a-week or twice-a-week pickup). Trash-Away is the apparent low bidder for a four-year contract for once-a-week pickup and Sanitary Refuse for twice-a-week pickup. They are the two alternates which interested the directors the most. In its low bid for a four-year contract for twice-a-week curbside pickup of garbage and refuse, and identical $1,500,000 prices for a four-year contract for twice-a-week curbside pickup of garbage, refuse and newspaper.

Nutmeg Sanitary's prices for a one-year contract ranged from $300,000 for once-a-week pickup of garbage and refuse to $350,000 for twice-a-week pickup of garbage, refuse and newspaper.

The Board of Directors indicated in March it looks favorably on a four-year contract for twice-a-week pickup of garbage and refuse at the curb—the alternate which finds Trash-Away and Sanitary Refuse tied in their bids. The board indicated also it favors a one-year experimental program for curbside pickup of newspaper.

Trash-Away and Sanitary Refuse submitted identical $1,460,000 prices for a four-year contract for twice-a-week curbside pickup of garbage and refuse, and identical $1,500,000 prices for a four-year contract for twice-a-week curbside pickup of garbage, refuse and newspaper. They are the two alternates which interested the directors the most. In its low bid for a four-year contract for twice-a-week curbside pickup of garbage and refuse, and identical $1,500,000 prices for a four-year contract for twice-a-week curbside pickup of garbage, refuse and newspaper.

Oil Imports Upset Balance of Trade

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The deficit in the balance of trade was the first for any month since Jan. 1972. The merchandise trade figure is part of the balance of payments, which includes the value of services as well as goods.

Plane Crashes into Home

ASHFORD (UPI) — A light plane slammed into the roof of an ramblapype house today, injuring the pilot and lone occupant of the dwelling, near the shore of Lake Chalet.

The United States exported goods worth $7,873 million, but imported $7,862 million for a deficit of $11.3 million. Petroleum imports totaled $1,866.3 million last month. The first quarter import value of $4,613 million for petroleum products was nearly double the value of the first quarter of 1973.

Police said pilot John Sullivan was forced to land on the estate late Thursday afternoon when the plane's throttle cable snapped. He was hospitalized in a local hospital. Sullivan had reportedly started on a recreational flight from Westchester County Airport, just across the New York State line.

Another Commerce report said its composite leading indicators continued to rise in March despite negative growth in the Gross National Product. The index traditionally has been used to forecast whether the economy will expand or decline. It has been suggesting robust economic growth for the past 14 months, but the actual performance has been considered modest.

House members Thursday killed the proposal by a vote of 85-53, following more than an hour of debate on whether the income tax issue should be left up to the legislature or placed before the voters in the form of a constitutional amendment. Connecticut is one of only eight states in the country which enacted income taxes to find a tax levied on their incomes.

Rep. Joseph M. Pugliese, R-Plainville, chairman of the legislative Government Administration and Policy said the resolution would have eliminated any "fear" among residents of waking up one day to find a tax levied on their incomes. He said the state sales tax has been criticized as regressive and could be eliminated, raising the possibility of an income tax.

Rep. William R. Hatchford, D-Danbury said the proposal would "have cluttered" the state's constitution, which he said had been a model for other state constitutions. Rep. Joseph M. Rep. David J. Sullivan, KR-Bridgeport, urged House members to leave the power of taxation where it belongs—to the General Assembly. Stalberg said the legislature could be faced with the task of studying real tax reform, and

Meskill Visits Martin School For Arbor Day Ceremonies

Arbor Day was observed in Manchester today, with the appearance of Gov. Thomas J. Meskill at Richard Martin School. He read the proclamation.

The governor explained his visit was stimulated by a March 12 letter from Mrs. Dorothy Krause's fourth grade class and signed by Linda Weiss. He said he was impressed by the phrase, "It would be the most exciting assembly our school would ever have."

Anti-Income Tax Proposal Voted Down by House

HARTFORD (UPI) — The proposed amendment could hamper the legislature in that task. Rep. William R. Hatchford, D-Danbury said the proposal would "have cluttered" the state's constitution, which he said had been a model for other state constitutions.
