Nixon to Address Nation Tonight

Jaycees Build Salter's Pond Footbridge

Improvements of Salter's Pond Park on Lydall St. are well under way. Dr. Stephen G. Romeo, chairman of the Greater Manchester Chamber of Commerce Environment & Beautification Committee, reports.

The Manchester Jaycees this past weekend constructed a footbridge 30-feet long across Lydall Brook below the Salter's Pond dam with materials financed by a town appropriation.

Future plans call for a second footbridge to the east of the pond where Lydall Brook enters to complete a trail system all around the pond. Dr. Romeo said recently in outlining improvement projects for the park. The long-range plans, he said, will be implemented with the cooperation of many civic groups such as Boy Scouts, Girl Scouts, Jaycees, youth groups, Manchester Junior Women's Club and the Town Parks and Public Works Departments.

Among projects envisioned for the park are a nature area with trails around the pond and brook, fishing, and possibly picnic areas. Town plans call for a swimming pool (completed several years ago), paving of the parking lot which was done last fall and construction of basketball courts on the parking lot this spring. A paved path is planned this summer and landscaping around the pool will complete this year's activity.

Boy Scout Troop 362 with Scoutmaster James Jones and Raymond Dawson, troop advancement chairman, have made plans to conduct a cleanup of the area Saturday with Scout Michael Downs in charge. A dedication program is being planned for this fall to acknowledge all the groups and individuals who have taken part in the park development, Dr. Romeo said.

Fresh Account Of Watergate Affair Expected

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon will go on national television at 9 o'clock tonight for a fresh report to the people on Watergate and the congressional impeachment inquiry.

As part of the speech, the President will announce a proposal for verification of transcripts of subpoenaed Watergate tapes to be turned over to the House Judiciary Committee, White House officials said today.

The officials said Nixon would permit the committee chairman, Rep. Peter W. Rodino, D-N.J., and the ranking Republican member, Rep. Edward Hutchinson of Michigan to listen to the actual tape recordings.

The officials said Nixon also intends to make public the partial transcripts of the Watergate-related taped conversations subpoenaed in the House impeachment inquiry.

Presidential aides have indicated that only 35 of the conversations subpoenaed were transcribed, saying tapes did not exist for the other six.

Nixon's Watergate legal team has been working for several weeks in transcribing the tapes which later were edited to remove coarse language and matters considered irrelevant or of national security sensitivity.

Rodino and several other committee members have made it clear they would not be satisfied with transcripts, particularly edited transcripts — that they want the full, actual tapes.

Nixon's plan would be a compromise to permit verification and authenticity of the transcripts.

White House aides have stated publicly that they believe the transcripts will exonerate Nixon of any allegations of wrongdoing in connection with Watergate and the cover-up. Presidential counselor Dean Burch said Friday the evidence would be "compelling and persuasive," and would finally mean that "the end of Watergate is in sight."

In addition to the presidential speech, the White House is expected to release a "white paper" detailing Nixon's actions and knowledge of the Watergate cover-up since he said he first learned of it on March 21, 1973.

The President's new Watergate address will fall one day short of the April 30 first anniversary of another broadcast when Nixon disclosed that he had only recently learned of higher White House involvement in the Watergate break-in and cover-up.

He pledged to "get to the bottom of the matter," saying the truth should be fully brought out — no matter who was involved. It was in this speech that he announced the resignations of his top two aides, H. R. Haldeman and John R. Ehrlichman, and the firing of his legal counsel, John W. Dean III.

White House officials were openly elated over the acquittal of two former Nixon Cabinet officials, John N. Mitchell and Maurice N. Stans, in the Vesco conspiracy case. A spokesman said "the President was very pleased for their two families."

Nixon's chief of staff, Alexander M. Haig, said that during a weekend visit to Camp David, Nixon reached "a set of decisions" on how to proceed in his struggle against impeachment on two fronts — before Congress and the public.

Nixon had his calendar free of engagements today but was meeting with his top aides.

Kissinger Seeking Soviet Support

GENEVA (UPI) — U.S. Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger met Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko for a second time today to try to win Soviet support — or at least hands off — for American efforts to bring about troop disengagement between Israel and Syria.

The two men met in an L-shaped room on the penthouse floor of the Intercontinental Hotel at 10 a.m. (5 a.m. EDT) and were later lunching before Kissinger flies to Algiers this evening en route to his fifth mission in the Middle East since the October war.

"What do you want me to do?" Gromyko asked Kissinger as they stood smiling for photographers and cameramen under the lights in the lobby of the hotel when Kissinger went down to meet him, flanked by security men.

Spectators lining the balcony applauded them but were kept away by barriers lining the way to the elevators.

American officials said the two main subjects would be Kissinger's Middle East mission and a new agreement on limiting multiple warheads on strategic missiles (MIRVs) which President Nixon hopes to conclude when he visits Moscow in June.

Kissinger arrived Sunday night and drove to the Soviet Mission around the corner from the hotel to meet Gromyko for their first meeting which lasted almost two hours. American spokesmen described it as "friendly and constructive."

The secretary was trying to work out a troop disengagement agreement for the Golan Heights, where Syrian and Israeli troops have fought with increasing ferocity for seven weeks.

A senior official aboard Kissinger's plane said a failure to at least make some progress toward an accord could lead to full-scale hostilities, perhaps involving other Arab states as well as Syria.

Israel might have to make the first move to break the deadlock over disengagement, the official said.

The official said it would be hard to reconcile opposing Syrian and Israeli disengagement plans, but said the secretary thought the two sides realized compromise was necessary.

Israel was reported ready to withdraw from a 325-square-mile salient captured during the October war. It was not known, however, whether Israel would give up the Golan Heights, captured during the 1967 Middle East War and now the site of 17 Jewish settlements.

Syria was reported demanding the Israelis give up the Golan Heights' former administrative capital of Quneitra, now a ghost town, and promise the pullback would be only the first step toward a total withdrawal from the heights.

Diplomatic sources also have reported disagreement on whether there should be a United Nations buffer zone between the two sides or only U.N. observers along the truce lines.

The Soviet Union has been visibly worried and annoyed by Kissinger's solo diplomacy, which led to the separation of Israeli and Egyptian forces earlier this year.

The secretary hoped at best to get Soviet cooperation in persuading Syria to compromise in the negotiations. At the least, the American official said, he was seeking to prevent Soviet obstruction of the mission.

Kissinger was scheduled to spend tonight in Algiers to seek the help of President Houari Boumediene and then fly to Cairo Tuesday for two days with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat.

Directors Set Double Session To Adopt Budget, Hear Public

A doubleheader at different locations is on the schedule for May 7 for the Manchester Board of Directors — a twilight special meeting at 7 in the Municipal Building Hearing Room and a night regular meeting at 8 in the Keeney St. School Auditorium.

At 7 the directors will adopt budgets and tax rates for the 1974-75 fiscal year, to start July 1. At 8 they will conduct public hearings on a variety of proposals, including one for sanitary sewers in the Keeney St. area. Action on the public hearing items will be considered at the board's May 14 meeting.

The board will adopt budgets and tax rates for the General Fund, the Town Fire District and the Special Downtown Taxing District (the latter tax is paid by only by the property owners in the district).

Last year Weiss had proposed a 2-mill increase for the General Fund. Instead, the board cut the tax rate by 2 mills — actually cutting Weiss' proposal by 4 mills.

Weiss is recommending tax increases of 5.67 mills for the General Fund, 0.82 mill for the Town Fire District and 4 mills for the Special Downtown Taxing District (the latter tax is paid by only by the property owners in the district).

The proposal is a reduced version of one aired in December, when area property owners packed Keeney St. School Auditorium to object to the plans and the estimated high costs.

Bids were opened April 18 on the modified plan, with the apparent low bidder submitting a price of $91,367 for the project. Town Engineer Walter Senkow

Dean's Credibility Now In Question

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The acquittal of John Mitchell and Maurice Stans on conspiracy and perjury charges Sunday takes the two former Cabinet members off the hook. But at the same time it puts John W. Dean III on the spot and his credibility in question.

Dean, President Nixon's former counsel and since last summer his chief accuser in the Watergate scandal, was a government witness against Mitchell and Stans, who were involved in allegations of selling favors for political contributions.

Dean shocked the nation during the Senate Watergate hearings with his dry, measured accusation that Nixon fully was aware of the Watergate cover-up and actively participated in it. He has pleaded guilty to one count of conspiracy for participating in the cover-up.

At the Mitchell-Stans trial in a New York federal court, Dean testified that he spoke 19 times to Mitchell about the problems financier Robert Vesco was having with the Securities and Exchange Commission — the basis of a major perjury count against Mitchell, since Mitchell denied this.

The jury concluded that the government did not prove its case beyond a reasonable doubt, which means there was some doubt over the testimony of prosecution witnesses, including Dean's.

Sybil A. Kucharski, the jury forewoman, explained, "We had a reasonable doubt because of these witnesses and because we didn't feel the evidence was substantiated."

Asked specifically about Dean, she said, "Not only Mr. Dean but Mr. (G. Bradford) Cook and Mr. (Harry L.) Sears admitted perjury. We took all of this into consideration. As for Dean, he admitted guilt, possibly looking for favor."

The acquittal barely had been announced when a White House official, who would not allow himself to be identified, said of Dean, "The jury's verdict by implication makes him a liar, which makes one wonder how many other lies he's told."

Sen. James Eastland, D-Miss., president pro tempore of the Senate and chairman of its Judiciary Committee, agreed: "The jury in the Mitchell-Stans trial has passed on the testimony of John Dean. It did not believe him. It is interesting to note that the main accuser of John Mitchell and Maurice Stans is also the President's main accuser."

Senate Watergate Committee Vice Chairman Howard Baker, R-Tenn., said the Mitchell-Stans case has no bearing on the committee's work or Dean's testimony.

Court Accepts Fund Dispute

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Supreme Court agreed today to decide whether President Nixon has power to withhold from the states allotments authorized by Congress to finance water pollution control.

The court will hear arguments next fall or winter on two test cases and will decide them later by written opinion.

The issue concerns interpretation of the Water Pollution Control Act of 1972, passed over the President's veto. The law calls for federal allotments of $5 billion for fiscal year 1973 and $6 billion the following year to aid construction of publicly owned sewage treatment works.

Nixon cut the sums to $2 billion and $3 billion, respectively, on the ground that the larger amounts could not be spent wisely and the outlay would be inflationary.

Nathan Hale Fifes and Drums Perform

Taking advantage of the beautiful spring weather, hundreds of area residents went to the Nathan Hale Homestead in Coventry Sunday to take part in an informal program by the Nathan Hale Ancient Fifes and Drums, under the direction of Maj. John Foran of East Hampton.

Members of the Knowlton Rangers demonstrated musket and cannon firing and colonial handicrafts arts such as candlemaking and pewter button making were demonstrated by area craftsmen who are reviving the arts in preparation for the nation's Bicentennial in 1976.

Goodspeed Opera House

You know summer is just around the corner when the summer theater schedules start coming in.

Executive director Michael P. Price announces a summer season of musicals at the Goodspeed Opera House in East Haddam.

The George and Ira Gershwin musical "Lady, Be Good" will open the season June 3. Cole Porter's "DuBarry Was A Lady" begins a five-week run July 10 followed by a new musical entitled "Shenandoah. The Only Home I Know" opening Aug. 10.

The show, with a musical score by Gary Geld, is a story of a family farmer vowing to plow a straight furrow and keep his family together as the Civil War surges and ebbs across the countryside.

A free brochure on the three musicals available by writing the Goodspeed Opera House, or by calling 873-8658.

Summer Theatre III

Summer Theatre III will return to the Manchester Community College campus in June for its second season.

All shows will run Thursday through Sunday each week beginning with June 20 and continuing through July 28.

Opening the summer season is "The Fantasticks" playing June 23 and 27-30.

Following the musical will be

ATLANTA (UPI) — In what may be a departure from tying knots and helping old ladies across the street, an Atlanta Boy Scout troop is organizing the "Playboy Patrol."

Troop 61 of suburban Smyrna, Ga., decided the traditional patrol names such as Owl, Fox, Beaver and Wolf were a little boring, so they decided their troop would be known as the Playboy Patrol.

The Playboy folks said they gathered for its Spring Assembly were honored by the name. So Tuesday, four shapely Bunnies from the local Playboy Club and a personal emissary from Playboy head Hugh Hefner will present the troop with Playboy Bunny flags and patches as the first Playboy troop in the country.

Ted Bailey, director of support for the Atlanta area council of Boy Scouts of America, said the council headquarters didn't encourage it, but yet he doesn't want to get in the way of the boys doing their own thing. "He said the scout organization will just stay out of it."

"It's a personal matter between the boys and those people (Playboy personnel), and we don't want to get involved," said Bailey.

MACC News

Sr. Mary Patricia, S.N.D., Executive Director

Manchester was not the first and, it seems, will not be the last to promote a broader ecumenical effort in the Christian community. Attention is called very specifically to the Greater Hartford Council of Churches (GHCC) which will gather for its Spring Assembly on May 6. After a year and a half of careful consideration by its Department of Christian Unity, the GHCC formed a planning task force to continue the study/planning effort.

The study brought to recognition, among other things, that the church lives ecumenically in the secular world; that advisory committees of GHCC departments are either ecumenical (Protestant-Catholic) or interfaith (Christian-Jewish).

Next Monday's Assembly is of import to us in Manchester because the agenda carries recommended constitutional changes for the Greater Hartford Council of Churches which will create that type of body which we in Manchester are fostering: a Conference of Churches. (The word conference rather than council is used with fully ecumenical organizations.)

For this new conference to become a reality will require enthusiastic support by participation and vote by member churches — some of which are in Manchester. GHCC seeks input from all its members. Churches who have experienced the local conference of churches are certainly in a position to encourage this new development by their participation in the regional venture.

As a one-and-a-half-year Conference of Churches, we extend support and encouragement to the movement and joyously greet the ever-widening circle of Christians who reach out to their "brothers."

On the same day, May 6, Anglicans and Roman Catholics from all of Connecticut will gather at St. John's Episcopal Church in Waterbury to share a Day of Dialogue. Jointly sponsored by three Roman Catholic Dioceses and the Episcopal Diocese of Connecticut, the day-long program will take for theme: "The Priest and His Authority."

Easy To Lose Lbs. Fast With New Vitamin 'E' Diet

HOLLYWOOD (Special) — New scientific discoveries have produced a Vitamin E diet that quickly works wonders on overweight people, and reportedly is gaining great popularity across the country with glowing reports of easy weight loss "while still eating almost as much as you want."

Those who follow the simple Vitamin E diet report an average loss of at least a pound a day and even more without exercise or starvation. Nutritionists' files are bulging with happy testimonials from formerly overweight people who are now trim and slim again. Best of all, you can still eat almost as much as you want of the "forbidden foods" like steak, chicken, fish, sauces, gravies, bacon & eggs and still lose weight.

Cheewable (candy-like) vitamin E tablets, as used in the diet plan, contain a new scientific combination of ingredients that quickly curbs and controls the appetite, while also giving the wonderful benefits of Vitamin E which is so essential to good health.

The use of the new Vitamin E Diet tablets and foods prescribed in the plan will, through natural action, act to help your body use up excess fat. According to recent clinical tests, a person who is deficient in Vitamin E or Protein "will double the speed of fat utilization" with the use of Vitamin E.

E-DIET AVAILABLE — To get a copy of this highly successful diet and E-Tablets, send $5.00 for 10 day supply (or $7.00 for 20 day supply) or $10.00 for 30 day supply) to: Vita-E Diet, Dept. ## Battle of Millionaires

The "post-Watergate morality," combined with old-fashioned political rivalry, has turned at least one electoral contest into something of a circus.

One candidate's slogan seems to be, "Any taxes my opponent has paid, I have paid more of." To which said opponent replies, "I may be a rich man, but you're another."

This is in Ohio, where Sen. Howard M. Metzenbaum, appointed by the governor to serve out the unexpired term of former Sen. William B. Saxbe after Saxbe became attorney general, is battling for the Democratic senatorial nomination in the May primary with John H. Glenn.

Metzenbaum, whose name is invariably preceded in the public prints by the words "millionaire Cleveland businessman," is struggling to live down that suddenly embarrassing image under heavy pressure from Glenn, who just as invariably is identified as "the former astronaut."

Both men have clashed on the primary trail before, in 1970, Glenn has never forgotten how he was blitzed that year by Metzenbaum's lavish use of spot television announcements. (Metzenbaum later went down to defeat in November to Republican Sen. Robert Taft, Jr.)

This time, the rivals have been trying to prove which of them is the less wealthy. Both have made more or less complete disclosures of their finances and tax payments, which show that neither one is in any immediate danger of bankruptcy.

On a percentage basis, however, Glenn seems to have paid more of his income taxes than Metzenbaum. The latter also suffers from the facts that he paid no federal income tax in one recent year, because of business losses, and that a $188,000 tax claim has been brought against him by the Internal Revenue Service. Metzenbaum disputed the claim and has deposited the sum with the IRS pending the outcome of the case.

Lately, however, the incumbent has taken to attacking his challenger with his own weapons. Defending his affluence before a crowd of poor but honest Ohio State University students the other day, Metzenbaum pointed out that he worked long and hard for his money and that he has contributed to many worthy causes — including $500 to help pay off Glenn's 1970 campaign debts.

But since then, he charged, Glenn has become "an overnight millionaire," yet "nobody seems to rap him for it."

In the meantime, the question of which man could best serve the people of Ohio in the U.S. Senate has been all but forgotten.

What Did Adam Call Eve?

Having pretty successfully established "Ms." as a title conferring on women the same uncertainty as to marital status that men enjoy with "Mr.," feminists are now directing their attention to another aspect of this name-calling business.

Tired of having their identities subverted just because they marry, more and more women are reclaiming their maiden names or using them in combination with their husband's name, as in Smith-Jones.

Neither practice is new, of course, but up to now usually been indulged in only by professional people or the upper classes. One difficulty that suggests itself if hyphenating names becomes common, however, is what the daughters of such unions are going to do when they grow up.

Saying that young Judy Smith-Jones, offspring of the elder known as Judy Smith-Jones, marries a guy named Brown. Will she then be known as Judy Smith-Jones-Brown? This could get complicated after a few generations.

It has also been pointed out that even if a woman keeps her maiden name after marriage, or never marries, she's still submitting to the dictates of male egotism. Barbara Green, for example, whether she calls herself Ms. or not, is simply telling the world that she is the daughter of a man named Green — and that's nothing more than continuing to play the game according to the rules laid down by the chauvinists.

Thus some feminists are beginning to take their mothers' first name as their last name. If, for example, Barbara Green's mother is name is Betty, she calls herself Barbara Bettychild.

This has a certain euphuism, but here, too, things could get confusing since there are a lot of Bettys in the world who have girl-children.

All kidding aside, "Almost every woman I know seems to be changing her name to one thing or another," says Diana Altman, one of the directors of the Center of a Woman's Own Name, headquartered in Barrington, Ill.

The center has just published a booklet entitled "Booklet for Women Who Wish to Determine Their Own Names After Marriage," which covers the legal and other aspects of the situation.

The Almanac

United Press International British general who defeated Napoleon at Waterloo, was born April 29, 1769. On this day in history: In 1878, Boston newspapers ran the advertisement: "Telephone, three dollars guaranteed to work one mile. Five miles... five dollars. In 1881, President Herbert Hoover received the king of Siam, first absolute monarch to visit the United States. In 1945, American troops liberated 32,000 prisoners from the Dachau concentration camp in Nazi Germany. In 1964, Princess Irene of the Netherlands was married in Rome to Prince Carlos Hugo of Bourbon-Parma. A thought for the day: Catholic Bishop Fulton Sheen said, "Bacon is flattery so thick it cannot be true, and blarney is flattery so thick we like it."

Open Forum National Day of Prayer

To the editor: April 30, Tuesday, Congress has declared a day of national prayer and fasting. I hope that Americans of all faiths will take time to honor this decree. Even those of us who will not work can take time at lunch to pray for our nation. We have a wonderful country in which we now enjoy personal freedom. Why then should we pray asking God for mercy on our country? With the war in the Middle East posing a continual threat to world peace, we can pray God to keep us out of an atomic war. Recently devastating weather conditions have destroyed towns in 12 states, killing hundreds of people. More of this weather is predicted by the U.S. Weather Service. We can pray and ask God's protection on our country, on our loved ones.

Sincerely, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Sheftel, 25 Madison St., Manchester

Loyalty Means Liberty

To the editor: Loyalty Day, May 1, is a day to permit those citizens of the United States who may so desire to pause in their daily tasks and think about what it means to be an American; enjoying the blessings of freedom and justice, and in thankfulness to reaffirm their loyalty to the country and the flag which symbolizes it. Loyalty means true or faithful allegiance. It is one of the noblest words in the language of all races and symbolizes each of the most sublime virtues, ethical, and patriotic feelings of man; Loyalty to God, loyalty to family and loyalty to country.

We believe Loyalty Day to be in conformance with the great American ideal, a celebration which is strictly non-sectarian and non-partisan because love of country, loyalty to the Constitution, and allegiance to the flag constitutes the sole qualification for those who gather on this Loyalty Day. Men and women of all religions who meet as Americans. American ideals are an unmistakable answer to the threat and affront of Communism. As we build strength to avoid war, we must never forget that simple truth that in unity there is strength.

This men see, one after another, the American financial officials in whom they have confidence leaving government and being replaced by amateurs and unknowns. If my friend is correct in his analysis, this growing lack of foreign confidence breeds serious troubles both for the United States and for Western financial economic stability generally. For a lack of confidence among these men will endanger the dollar, U.S. ability to export and, indirectly, its ability to control inflation and reduce the unemployment to acceptable levels. When confidence begins to fall, foreign nations start to hedge. They look for alternative

TV Exploitation

WASHINGTON — Captain Kangaroo has stopped selling Kellogg's cereals. Some other cereals are taking place in an effort to rescue the Republic's offspring from exploitation by television, mostly thanks to the efforts of a small nationwide organization called Action for Children's Television.

ACT recently completed a week-long symposium at the Kennedy Center here, where representatives from broadcast advisers, the Federal Communications Commission, educators, parents and children talked about ways of dealing with some of the abuses prevalent in juvenile television programs. ACT showed how other countries are coping, and ran some of the children's programs shown in Canada, France, Czechoslovakia, and the Soviet Union. Canada has announced it is eliminating all commercials on children's programs, a bold if not admirable precedent.

By the time the average child in the U.S. finishes high school he has spent 11,000 hours in the classroom and 14,000 hours watching TV. Children were subjected to 16 minutes of advertising per hour (until ACT got it reduced 12) as opposed to the adult's dose of only eight to 10 minutes on prime time. Children see up to 24 commercials on Saturday morning network TV, and the majority of them are for sugared candies, snacks and cereals which not only have no nutritional value but can be harmful to children's teeth and health.

A recent survey of 10 to 13 years old indicated that almost half their allowance was spent on sugared snacks influenced by TV ads. Doctors also established a definite correlation between hyperactive children and the consumption of "junk cereal" and a steady diet of sweets. The Surgeon General found a direct relationship between violence on TV and aggressive behavior in some children, and says Saturday morning cartoons are the most violent form of programming. Although most parents try to regulate which programs young children watch, many are either not aware, or not able to do so, through ignorance or the ACT went to work on the advertisers. It has been remarkably successful in a few short years. Among other things, CT has (a) forced a reduction in the number of commercials that can be shown per hour; (b) ended the sponsorship of products by host figures (little kids particularly tend to identify with Captain Kangaroo as heroes); (c) influenced the broadcasters to appoint vice presidents to oversee children's programming; (d) been instrumental in eliminating vitamin advertising directed to children. Many broadcasters are reexamining their programming for children, and advertisers are voluntarily abstaining from exploiting the small fry. I have no doubt that the Federal Reserve system, and former Treasury Secretary David Kennedy. The list is short. Shultz is leaving. So apparently is Stein. Kennedy and Kennedy are long gone. Only Burns remains. No men of comparable stature seem likely as replacements. However, in the Kellogg cereal ads there are no superstars or baseball cards or children gobbling Fruit Loops. Instead there is simply breakfast—orange juice, bacon and eggs, a large glass of milk, several pieces of toast and a medium sized bowl of cereal, with a five-second tagline saying "This was brought to you in the interests of good nutrition by Kellogg's." That's progress. A little.

sources of imports, for substitutes for the dollar. They increase trade barriers to protect their positions. It is no news of course, that financial instability in this country translates into instability through much of the Western world, and a friend brings bad news indeed from Western Europe, the Middle East, and South America. The danger is that every nation will run for cover, leading to a virtual economic anarchy. The absence of economic leadership in the United States all the more serious in that West Europe, the Middle East, Japan and Asia and Latin America have no place else to turn. As one prominent but despairing top foreign official put it to a friend recently, "The United States, for all its weakness, will be the world's economic and financial leader certainly for my lifetime."

The world's top financial men are a tightly-knit clique. Highly intelligent and sophisticated, they men run or largely determine the economic and financial policies of their own governments — which include most major nations. They talk seriously among themselves but with few others.

Vernon Committee Comments On Audit Measures

The audit subcommittee of the Town Council, reviewing recommendations in the recent audit report for the town of Vernon, commented on recommendations already corrected and action being taken to correct others. To one concerning the Board of Education computer input and output documents not being properly filed and safeguarded from fire, the committee commented that this provision will be included in the proposed new addition to the high school. To the comment that the school board and general town finance department are not always in agreement on records maintained for special education grants, the committee said the school board personnel is tracking grant money and bookkeeping details with the town treasurer signing checks and reconciling accounts. Steps have also been taken to make all of the school activity fund accounts uniform and to be modeled after the system used at the Lake Street School. The auditors also commented that part-time employees who are handling cash are not bonded. The committee said it

Andover Jazz Concert Set for May 3

The Andover Rural Music Committee will present a Jazz Evening with Jazz featuring Roman Derydyne and his Four Pieces Combo May 3 at 8 p.m. in the Rham auditorium. Roman Derydyne is an acoustic pianist and also plays the electric piano. Born in Natchez, Miss., Derydyne has played professionally for 25 years. He teaches privately in Colchester and Hartford. Accompanying Derydyne will be Louis Molloy on string bass, Randy Colburne on the drums, and Robert Kolb playing tenor and alto saxophones, flute and clarinet.

The evening's program will trace the style of jazz from the past to the contemporary sounds of today. Tickets are $2.50 for adults, $1 for students, and $1 golden age card holders. Tickets may be purchased in advance from Jane Carberg, School Rd. or Nancy O'Neil, Bunker Hill Rd. The Andover Rural Music Committee is funded by the Connecticut Commission of the Arts and their primary goal is to develop an audience for live music in the area and to encourage local musicians. Chairmen of the music committee is Gordon MacDonald of Andover.

Back Andover: The Andover Democratic Town Committee at its monthly meeting announced endorsement of Thomas Anderson of Andover for the 55th Assembly District seat. The committee also endorsed Valdis Vinkels of Andover for the Probate of the towns of Bolton, Columbia, and Andover. There were two speakers at the meeting. Frank Curran who is running for sheriff of Tolland County against Nicholas Anderson of New Milford who is seeking to gain the 2nd Congressional District seat vacated by Robert Steele.

Interim Pastor: The Rev. Roland G. Ewing, of Nathan Hale Drive, Coventry, is serving as interim pastor of the First Congregational Church of Andover until a new minister is called to serve the church. Rev. Ewing is a retired United Church of Christ minister, and has served churches in Woodbury, Torrington and New Milford, Conn. as well as serving the

Coventry GOP Criticizes School Board

MONICA SHEA, Coventry, Republican town committee member, criticized the school board for its decision to increase the school budget by 5 percent over last year's budget and wishes those funds to be applied to present contracted commitments. The town committee also censured the school board for hiring an administrative assistant after the voters mandated that this position not be created. The town committee said they were displeased and upset that many programs are suffering because of the huge cost of the Sequential Learning Program. The resolution strongly protested the school board action of proposing a large salary increase for Dr. Donald Hardy, superintendent of schools, and for increasing travel expenses for Hardy and his administrative assistant, Dr. Donald Nicolette. The town committee endorsed Bob Steele's candidacy for governor.

South Windsor Grand List $127,632,210

JUDY KUEHNEL
Correspondent
Tel. 644-1364

South Windsor Assessor Bert McNamara announced Friday that the next taxable Grand List for Jan. 1, 1974 is $127,632,210. This amount reflects an additional $8,000,000 over the prior list of Jan. 1, 1973, or an increase of 6.7 per cent.

The gross Grand List totals $129,672,430 as follows: real estate, $99,225,780; up $6,440,700; personal property, $17,950,140; $47,050, up $1,411,970. Exemptions to the veterans and blind amounted to $2,000,700.

Major additions to the real property list include Monsanto Company, Central Record and Tape Distributors, Smyth Business Systems, G and R Valley Plumbing, Merwin Mason Supply, State Vending, completion of Candlewood and Pleasant Valley Apartments, Cinnamon Springs, Samsel Bussinger Funeral Home, Douglas Johnson's new office buildings, 65 new homes, additions to the SWEF plant, Nassau Furniture warehouse and Dynamic Controls.

Notices of assessment change for 1974 property and real estate have been mailed. The motor vehicle list is available for inspection at the assessor's office.

The Board of Tax Review will meet May 7 and 9 from 7 to 9 p.m. and May 11 from 10 a.m. to noon to hear any property owner aggrieved by the valuations of the assessor on the Jan. 1 Grand List.

South Windsor School Board Waits Data Before Cutting Its Budget

JUDY KUEHNEL
Correspondent
644-1364

Despite an opportunity to cut $21,000 from its $6,489,000 budget, the South Windsor Board of Education will submit its annual budget request to the Town Council for consideration.

Information of an additional $31,000 supposedly available to the school board comes after officials have drawn up this year's 1974-75 fiscal year, which represents an increase of $315,000 gross over last year's budget.

However, the board's net after an increase in the state's Average Daily Membership (ADM) grants and a council cut of about $30,000.

The $31,000 is expected to come in the form of reading grants, grants for handicapped children, a savings in insurance rates and custodial salaries.

The reason the school board has not cut the salary by $31,000, officials said, is that it would rather wait to see if the state grants—which represent about $24,000 of the $31,000 savings—come in.

Officials are "99 per cent certain" the grants will be received, but the one per cent uncertainty is the reason for the hesitancy on the part of school officials.

The Town Council has reviewed the school board budget and offered residents an opportunity to discuss their views on the matter recently.

That public hearing resulted in a straw vote being taken, during which only two of the 30 residents present wanted additional funds reinstated in the board's budget, and nine people said to cut the budget further.

However, during the public hearing almost no controversy—or even discussion—came from the audience in regard to the school budget.

Instead, four residents voiced concern over the controversial Family Life and Human Development curriculum which has been the subject of at least four school board meetings thus far this year.

Residents appear to be heavily opposed to the course—which includes sex education—and Mayor Robert Smith said officials are under the impression that if the council cuts the school board budget this will put the $20,000 course in jeopardy.

No matter how many cuts are made in the school budget, the Board of Education has the final say as to what areas are deleted or trimmed, officials pointed out.

Earlier this year the board accepted the curriculum with the understanding the program—drawn up a few years earlier—would come under heavy revision prior to its implementation. Board plans call for the course to be offered to all students over a three-year period.

If the school board budget passes as proposed, it will be the least-trimmed education budget Mayor Smith has ever seen, he said, saying that, despite the council's $30,000 cut, if the $31,000 in additional revenues comes as expected, the difference will be around $10,000.

The council will hold a second hearing—this one on the $3 million administrative budget—on Tuesday at 8 p.m. in Town Hall.

Once the two hearings are completed, the council will set the new tax rate, expected to remain at 55 mills this year, Mayor.

South Windsor Mrs. Gezelman To Head GOP

JUDY KUEHNEL
Correspondent
Tel. 644-1364

The Republican Town Committee has elected Mrs. Jean Gezelman its new chairman. Mrs. Gezelman will succeed Robert Stenar. She defeated Donald J. Marra in a 42 to 1 vote with Joseph J. Carino obtaining in the roll call.

Mrs. Gezelman was nominated by Board of Education member Joan Cushman, was commended for being a "highly qualified, enthusiastic party worker."

Other officers elected without contest were Larry Blakely, vice chairman; Deborah Ann Bachman, recording secretary; State Agriculture Commissioner Fenton "Pat" Faltner, treasurer; and Elsie Plank, corresponding secretary.

Victory Gardens
Town Manager Terry V. Sprekel announced Friday that 52 garden parcels have been prepared for use by South Windsor residents for the non-profit growing of vegetables for home use.

The parcels, which have been plowed, harrowed and delineated are located on Avery St. on the town-owned Pero Orchard property. Individual garden parcels measure approximately 25 feet by 40 feet.

Residents wishing to sign up for the assignment of a garden parcel may do so, on a first-come first-served basis by calling the Town Hall.

Upon confirmation of residency a parcel number will be assigned for use. The garden parcels will be assigned only to South Windsor property owners and in no case will more than one parcel be assigned.

South Windsor Five Awarded Prizes For Craft

Five first prize winners in South Windsor Woman's Club's annual Arts and Crafts exhibition also won blue ribbons in the Federation's District Day Competition April 16 at the Holiday Inn in Hartford.

They will be eligible to enter their crafts in State Day Competition next month in a 3-day program at Ramada Inn in East Windsor. Federated Woman's Clubs from all over the state will participate.

Now—an organic hair remover

Hair's off in minutes, stays off for weeks.

Leaves skin beautifully smooth, free from hair... without shaving, waxing, using smelly creams or foams or resorting to electrolysis.

There is now a way to remove unwanted hair from face, arms, thighs and legs, and keep it off longer. You use a gentle, odorless, organic compound, called Delia, and the results are simply great.

Delia actually fills out the whole hair from the follicle... leaves your skin beautifully smooth and free from hair for weeks.

The little extra time Delia may take at first won't matter once you find you can really forget about hair removal... yes, for weeks.

There are no blunt ends. No prickly stubble, no nicks or cuts. And there's no gritty black wax, there is using razors or creamy or foamy depilatories. When hair eventually comes in, it seems sparser and baby soft.

Delia™ Natural Organic Hair Remover. Ideal for teenagers, too. $5.95 at our cosmetic counter.

Bolton Class Plans Reunion

Plans are underway for the five-year reunion of the Bolton High School Class of 1969. All but four of the classes 96 graduates have been found.

The reunion committee is still seeking class members Cheryl Detamore, David Loyd, Karl Nickse and Gail Peltier.

Anyone having information as to the whereabouts of the above names is asked to contact Mrs. Thomas Carpenter (Noreen Nichols), 10A Hillcrest Rd., Bolton, 646-6882.

Not To Be Drunk
Amethyst comes from two Greek words meaning "not to be drunk." It was believed that the violet-blue variety of crystalline quartz would keep the wearer sober. Drinking cups were also made of amethyst.

Manchester WATES will meet Tuesday at the Italian-American Club. Weighing in will be from 7 to 8 p.m. The program will include a cake bingo. Members with names beginning with A through C are reminded to bring items for a fruit basket.

Scholarship Applications Now Open

The Manchester High School Guidance Department announces applications are now available for two local scholarships—the Robertson Scholarship and the Eaton-Reed Scholarship.

The Robertson Scholarship is available to a senior or graduate of MHS who is furthering his or her education. Preference is given to applicants who reside in the Eighth Utilities District.

Under the will of the late Grace Robertson, four funds were set up: two to provide aid to a boy and a girl for continuing in high school, and two to provide financial assistance to a boy and a girl attending college.

The Eaton-Reed Scholarship is available to any senior or graduate of MHS who is furthering his or her education. This scholarship was established by the late Edith Eaton, a long-time resident of Manchester and teacher in the local school system.

Applications for these scholarships are available in the MHS guidance office and completed applications must be returned to the guidance office by June 18. Scholarship recipients will be chosen before the July 1.

Woman's View

By GAY PAULEY UPI Women's Editor NEW YORK (UPI) — Parenthood is doubly so, because of the additional financial burden it often imposes on the mother or father.

Statistics estimate that there are 8 million such parents—divorced, separated, or with partner deceased—who have the dual assignment of holding a job and making ends meet, plus planning for the children's future.

Most of the single parents are women and about 9.3 million children reside only with their mothers compared with approximately 810,000 with their fathers. And the numbers are increasing—39 per cent more with single parents today than in 1970.

Many Disadvantages Single mothers, not always job holders, start off with many disadvantages in the working world. Only about 15 per cent have some college education. The comparable portion for fathers is 30 per cent.

Even with a college background, the median income for women falls below that of college-educated men.

This is part of the discouraging picture drawn by W. Scane Bowler, chairman and executive officer of Pioneer Western Corp., a national financial services organization.

Refresher Courses First, a woman's skills often are obsolete and may have never worked.

Coventry PZC Sets Dates for Hearings

MONICA SHEA

The Planning and Zoning Commission set May 17 as the date for the public hearing on the Inland Wetlands regulations.

The hearing will be held at 8 p.m. in place to be announced. The copies of the regulations will be available at the meeting.

The commission also established the date for the public hearing on amendments to the present regulations. This hearing will be held at a regular PZC meeting on May 13 at 6 p.m.

The hearing will cover several amendments. One will amend the regulation to allow tennis courts and swimming pools as an accessory use of a golf course.

Another amendment would forbid the use of accessory buildings for home occupations. It would require that not more than 25 per cent of the finished living area be used in the home occupations and that no more than two persons not housed on the premises be employed in the home occupation. The amendment would also allow goods not made on the premises to be sold on the premises.

At Goodin's request to the commission about its proposed two-acre zoning, he said under two-acre zoning, the land cost of a home would be $15,000 and the total cost of the home would be between $60,000 and $70,000.

He said this would preclude anyone being able to buy these homes as their first homes.

Goodin also asked that the commission seriously consider putting certain parts of South Coventry into two-acre zoning so that North Coventry would not become the elite part of town to the exclusion of South Coventry.

He also said that when the highway goes through South Coventry this would put great building pressure on that part of town.

Tom Welles spoke to the commission about the status of the application of Frank Hayes to join two buildings and to pave the parking area at the site of these two buildings on Lake St. Welles stated that water runoff from this property was contaminating his well and flooding his basement.

Steve Loyzim, chairman of the commission, said that the developer, but the commission is insisting on as much information from the developer as is allowed by law.

The commission has voted to request a full public investigation of the earth removal operation that was conducted on the property of Fred White, Pine Lakes Shores.

This gravel was removed to the track-sooner complex and trucks were seen removing gravel and transporting it to Mansfield.

White has said that he was not aware of the operation and that he did not have a key to the chain that crossed the road.

He said that under the present state statutes the commission couldn't insist on this kind of study being conducted by the developer, but the commission is insisting on as much information from the developer as is allowed by law.

Coventry Town Salary Hikes Criticized

MONICA SHEA
Correspondent
Tel. 742-9495

About 100 residents attended public hearing last week on the proposed budget for the General Government portion of the annual budget.

Most of the citizens who spoke were concerned with budget increases particularly in the salaries of management positions and in the car allowances granted to these employees such as the town planner and road crew foreman.

Several times it was mentioned that sums of money were being allotted to people for the purchase of books and periodicals that residents felt should be purchased by the employees themselves.

The police budget came in for close scrutiny and it was mentioned that Tolland, with a population similar to the Town of Coventry, was allowing only $37,450 for its police budget, while Coventry was allowing $152,638. Even so this figure is about $40,000 less than the chief requested.

The council explained that the proposed lieutenant for the department would not be adding an extra man but would be a patrolman promoted from the ranks to assist the chief in supervising the department operations.

The council explained that the proposed budget was a salary position and that the man would not be eligible for overtime, that is the reason a lieutenant was chosen over the position of a sergeant who would be eligible for overtime under the union contract.

The chief's salary under the proposed budget would include a nine per cent wage increase to $14,200, while the lieutenant would be paid $12,000. The average salary for a patrolman would be $10,233.

The budget proposes adding a dispatcher to the garage employees and this came under attack by several residents who claimed that the paper work of the department should be done by the supervisor in the garage.

The annual Town Meeting will be at the high school May 10 for a vote on the revised proposed budget.

The council met Saturday morning to make cuts in the budgets that were presented earlier this week.

Group Criticized

The Committee for the Preservation of Coventry has issued a statement concerning the closed meeting held by the Coventry Citizens Advisory Group last week.

"The Committee for the Preservation of Coventry is astounded that the Coventry Citizens Advisory Group would hold its last meeting and bar the citizens of the town."

"The meeting is billed as a work meeting but then, so were all the other meetings."

"Representatives of CPC have attended every single meeting and politely listened to hours of fruitless, unproductive and meaningless discussion."

"Now that the culmination of these discussions is imminent, we are shut out. We question why?"

Vernon Fire Department Budgets On Town Council Agenda

The controversial fire department budgets are scheduled for discussion by the Vernon Town Council tonight at 7:30 in the Memorial Building, Park Pl.

At the public hearing on the general town budget and the Board of Education budget last week, most of the discussion centered on the Vernon Fire Department's budget.

Several of the firemen called for increased pay, more money for training purposes, and a full-time fire marshal.

Mayor Frank McCoy cut $137,377 from the request of the Vernon department (District 2) with his recommendation being $107,869.

Cut from the budget was a request for $100,000 for purchase of an aerial truck with a platform and $200,000 for a four-bay addition to the Vernon Center Firehouse.

Also included in the budget was an amount of $9,500 for a recommended position of a full-time fire marshal. The mayor recommended $1,300 for a part-time marshal.

Mayor McCoy suggested that the amount for the truck and the station addition, if considered, should be in the capital improvements budget as they should be bonded.

A request in the budget of the Rockville department (District 1) for a $65,000 aerial truck was also cut by the mayor. The recommended budget for this company is $116,142.

The council will discuss all of these items at tonight's meeting.

Salaries for all town employees are yet to be approved. Union negotiations have not been settled for the police and public works departments. The council has until Thursday to wrap up the general government budget for presentation to the annual town meeting scheduled for May 21.

Also at tonight's special meeting, the mayor may announce the appointment of a new director of administration. Former director Richard Borien left last December to take a job as town manager of another town.

The candidates took written and oral exams conducted by the state and the results of the tests were turned over to Mayor McCoy who in turn gave the council's personnel subcommittee for its recommendation.

Coventry DevCo Delays Sewer Petition

MONICA SHEA
Correspondent
Tel. 742-9495

DevCo has withdrawn its petition requesting a hearing for the establishment of a sewer district in the northwest corner of Coventry.

The district was composed of mostly DevCo land with a few other parcels included in the district at the request of the owners.

The petition was withdrawn because of procedural difficulties, because DevCo claimed that the notice of the meeting was not posted in time under the state statutes.

The Town Council in a meeting on Saturday morning canceled the hearing.

The petition for the establishment of the sewer district will be resubmitted within a week to 10 days, according to Peter Libassi, president of Greater Hartford Process, the parent group of DevCo.

Libassi admitted that the sewer district lines may be revised in the resubmission of the petition but he said that this wasn't being done in response to charges that the district lines were gerrymandered to exclude those who might vote against the establishment of the sewer district.

The original district included almost all of the DevCo property, but certain other parcels were excluded. These parcels didn't belong to DevCo.

The withdrawal of the present petition does not resolve the basic issue of who gets to vote on the establishment of the district.

Town Attorney Abbot Schwebel has advised the council that in his interpretation of State Statute 7-325, the council would have the power to disapprove the district.

In the last sentence of the notice posted by the council, the council claims, "the purpose of said meeting is to have the town council consider approval or disapproval of a petition of certain residents to establish a sewer district."

DevCo's attorney, John LaBelle, maintains that the petition, this question of who gets to vote on the establishment of the district is sure to arise again.

Senior Citizens The Coventry Senior Citizens Club will take a bus trip tomorrow to Central Village, Plainville, and Mystic marine Life Aquarium.

The bus will leave the Meadowbrook Shopping Plaza at 9 a.m.

The Board of Selectmen cut $17,700 from the town operations budget; added $45,700 to the school operations budget; together with a fireman's salary of $473,247 to total a budget of $4,115,626.

An additional $28,000 added to the school budget will be reimbursed by the state ADM grant. At the time the general budget was $5,100 by the fire department, which would have been used for partial reimbursement of volunteers' expenses. Selectman Charles Luce moved that the entire $9,000 be cut from that account, but Harkins pointed out that the fire marshal inspector's and fire chief's allowances, totaling $900 last year, were included in the total figure.

Selectmen Kevin Cavanagh and Helen Wanat, in favor of keeping the $9,000 ended up almost arguing with Luce, who was backed by Selectmen Ted Palmer. Mrs. Wanat, saying that the fire department is "cheap insurance" for the town, said, "You can't consider $200 being paid."

Palmer felt that a reimbursement to volunteers would set a very bad precedent, and that he himself had traveled to Kingfield four times last week. Cavanagh told Palmer that the charter allows for selectmen to be reimbursed for their expenses.

John Burakas, board chairman, read a chart submitted from former Ambulance Association member Bob Cohen which showed surrounding towns did not reimburse their men in 1971-1972. Luce asked, "Have we ever had a fireman not show up for non-payment?" The vote for the $8,100 cut was supported by Luce, Palmer, Stuart Joslin, and Burakas.

The town manager's budget was increased by $1,100 by the selectmen, for a salary raise. In the town council account, the retainer fee was reduced from $5,200 to $3,500, still $1,700 over this year. A total of $5,000 for special bond costs and fees was eliminated, and selectmen suggested that fees continue to be paid from bond sales.

A $2,000 cut from the building inspector fee payment was supported by Democrats, with Luce and Joslin against the cut. The cut will not affect the present inspector, whose agreement will remain until his term expires this summer.

A motion by Cavanagh to increase the Board of Recreation by $3,000 was supported by the board, with the decision of where to spend the additional funds left to the rec board's discretion.

The position of road inspector was eliminated from the budget, making a cut of $5,000.

School Budget Cavanagh, "impressed tremendously by the list of proposed cuts" to the education budget, moved to restore $175,000 to that budget. The motion died due to lack of a second.

Cavanagh then proposed that at least the $28,000 additional ADM expected be added to the town manager's figure, which was okayed by the board. However, Cavanagh was the only selectman to question a motion by Joslin to add the $17,700 cut from the general budget to the school budget.

Joslin noted that the town manager's cuts cut into the school's current budget by $30,000, but Cavanagh questioned that the $17,700 might be needed for a shortage in the general fund.

Board of Education chairman Robert Dean said that the meeting will be held Wednesday to determine just what cuts will be necessary to total the $147,711 cuts recommended by the selectmen.

Dean also said that he will work to have the budget defeated at the May 7 town meeting.

Parade Marshal

James R. Wagner has been named parade marshal of the Memorial Day Parade to be held Monday, May 27. Full parade details will be announced later.

Wagner was discharged from the Marine Corps in 1952 and was employed by the United Aircraft. He is currently a claim investigator for the Connecticut Department of Transportation.

Wagner is vice president of the Army & Navy Club of Manchester and is commander of its marching unit. He is attached to the 235th S&S Battalion of the Connecticut National Guard Headquarters in Hartford. He is also a member of the Manchester Lodge of Elks.

Wagner resides with his wife Maryanne and their four children at 11 West St.

Any groups that are interested in marching in the parade are invited to do so by making contact with the parade marshal as early as possible, or they may contact Mrs. Frederick A. Baker 643-5007 or Mr. Walter Von Hone 643-0076.

South Windsor Citizens Asked To Learn About Plum Gulley Plan

Tel. 644-1364

Mayor Robert Smith, citing the need for citizen participation, today urged all concerned voters to attend the public hearing on the Plum Gulley concept tonight at 7:30 p.m. at the South Windsor High School.

Those who have seen the proposal are generally reacting favorably to it.

Because of the scope of the project and because the mayor feels misinformation often circulates around such large undertakings, he urges every citizen to take advantage of the public hearing in order that questions may be answered and that they may have the opportunity to voice their criticism or praise of the Plum Gulley proposal.

Smith is concerned with the large number of voters who do not come to meetings and let the council know what they are thinking. The council feels that this public hearing is the opportunity for the citizens of South Windsor to be heard.

Rec Dept. The South Windsor Recreation Department announces that there will be a registration for girls' softball on Tuesday, April 30, 7:30 p.m. at the Timothy Edwards School cafeteria.

All girls ages 10 to 15, inclusive, are invited to register. A parent or guardian must be present to sign a permission slip.

Celtic Pressure Destroyed Bucks

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — John Killilea is the assistant coach and chief scout for the Boston Celtics. He spent some time watching the Milwaukee Bucks demolish the Chicago Bulls in the second round of the NBA playoffs and what he saw turned the trick for the Celtics Sunday.

Boston beat Milwaukee 98-83 to take a 1-0 lead in their best-of-seven National Basketball Association championship series.

"I could tell the Bucks have problems at guard, with Lucius Allen out," Killilea said, "and Oscar (Robertson) isn't that young anymore and I'd like to see pressure them and destroy their offensive patterns."

His strategy worked so well that Bucks guard John McGlocklin admitted, "We didn't run a third of our plays today. They just took everything away from us."

It became increasingly obvious as the game wore on that the Bucks were getting tired while the Celtics, who take to running like a duck takes to water, just kept the pressure on.

Robertson, 35, worked so hard getting the ball up the court he could only manage two field goals in 15 attempts. Bob Dandridge hit on just 6-of-17 and that just about tells the story for the Bucks. They must get point production from those two in order to win.

"We just got a great effort from everyone," Boston Coach Tommy Heinsohn said. "We went to a pivottish offense and it upset the Bucks' defense. They couldn't make the switches fast enough."

Marshall 'Book' on Expos Turned Out 'Best Seller'

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mike Marshall's "book" on the Montreal Expos turned out to be a best-seller. Marshall, a studios, offtimes out-spoken relief pitcher who spent the last three and a half seasons with Montreal before being traded to Los Angeles last winter, gave the Dodger pitchers some tips this weekend on how to pitch to the Expos' batters and saw his teachings get positive results.

The 31-year-old righthander, studying for his Ph.D. in kinesiology at Michigan State, even conducted quizzes on his tips with the Dodger starters before each game. They must have scored perfectly because the results were a three-game sweep for Los Angeles during the Montreal batters collected only 11 hits.

Not so surprisingly, Marshall himself had a hand in two of the victories.

Last Friday night Andy Messersmith limited Montreal to three hits in a 7-1 victory, on Saturday night Al Downing and Marshall combined on a fourhitter in a 5-2 triumph and Sunday Doug Rau and Marshall tossed another four-hitter as Los Angeles made it six victories in a row with a 4-0 triumph.

Marshall, openly critical of many of the Montreal players during an in-season interview, was the perfect exponent of his teaching principles during his two appearances. In 4 1/3 innings against the Expos he allowed only one hit.

Marshall has not been hit very well by anybody thus far. Of the 21 games the Dodgers have played, Marshall has appeared in 13 and has allowed only five earned runs in 21 1/3 innings. Last year with the Expos, Marshall set a major league record by appearing in 92 games while posting a 14-11 record.

Faces in the News Yankees, Rangers Happy with Split

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Texas Rangers and New York Yankees were in the unusual position Sunday of being happy to split a doubleheader. Ordinarily, splitting a doubleheader gives both teams a "what's the use?" feeling but that wasn't the case Sunday when the Rangers rebounded from an 11-2 opening game loss to win the second game, 8-5.

Individual exploits which may have long-range effects made the split palatable to both teams.

The Rangers were happy because Ferguson Jenkins, acquired from the Chicago Cubs during the winter, raised his record to 5-1 by going the distance in the nightcap. And the Yankees were happy because hot-hitting Graig Nettles tied the major league record of 11 homers in April when he connected for a two-run shot off Jenkins in the seventh inning.

The Rangers know they can't go far in the American League West unless Jenkins, rumored to have a lame arm after six 20-game seasons in the National League, becomes their season-long staff leader.

And the Yankees realize they're unlikely to challenge for the AL's Eastern Division title unless Nettles, considered a disappointment in his first season with New York in 1973, has an outstanding campaign.

The Baltimore Orioles defeated the Oakland A's 4-3, the Boston Red Sox scored a 5-13 inning victory over the Kansas City Royals, the Detroit Tigers beat the Chicago White Sox, 6-4, the Cleveland Indians romped over the California Angels, 10-2, and the Minnesota Twins shamed the Milwaukee Brewers, 6-5, in other AL games.

Jenkins, who slumped to 14-16 last season after his six-year winning streak with the Cubs, has now pitched 53 innings for the Rangers, allowing 37 hits and striking out 35 while walking seven. The Rangers clinched Jenkins' 300,000th career strikeout with an outburst which chased Sam McDowell.

Nettles' 11th homer of the month came on one in the seventh inning and tied the major league record set by Willie Stargell of the Pittsburgh Pirates in 1971. The previous AL mark of 10 was held by Frank Robinson of

Increases Golf Earnings Miller's Success Hard to Believe

RANCHO LA COSTA, Calif. (UPI) — Johnny Miller, the new legend boy of pro golf, finds it hard to believe what he has done himself.

By winning the $200,000 MONY Tournament of Champions by one shot over little Buddy Allin and John Mahaffey Sunday, the 1973 U.S. Open champion pocketed $40,000 and increased his PGA earnings for the year to a whopping $192,877. It was his fifth victory in 11 starts in '74—a sparkling 45.4 batting average.

Hubert Green, the No. 2 moneymen on the tour this year, has less than half Miller's earnings—$96,984. Jack Nicklaus, who is coming off back-to-back $300,000 seasons, has won $83,676.

The mod ball swinger from the Silverado Country Club at Napa, Calif., was asked what he would have said if he'd been told by people on Jan. 1 that he'd have nearly $200,000 in the bank by the end of April.

"I would have said it would be possible for the whole year," Miller replied. "But for this time of the year, I would have told them they were having a pipe dream."

For 72 holes, he was eight under par, 280, and won on the final day with a three-under 69. He carried a five-foot putt for a par on the 18th hole—a par four, 423-yarder into the wind—while Allin, the leader here after 36 holes, and Mahaffey, finishing second for the third time this year, finished with bogeys.

Chief and Tribe Overrun Hawks

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Chief and his tribe simply overran the Black Hawk band in a night raid.

While the Black Hawks, on the verge of retiring to their Chicago reservation, slumbered on the Boston Garden ice Sunday night, John "Chief" Bucyk and his Boston Bruins warriors plundered defenseless goalie Tony Esposito for a 6-2 win. The victory gave the Bruins a 3-2 edge in their best-of-seven Stanley Cup semifinal series, with Game 6 set for Tuesday in Chicago.

In other semifinal play, the New York Rangers beat Philadelphia, 2-1, to even their series with the Flyers at two games each. The fifth game will be played Tuesday night at Philadelphia, where the Flyers won the first two games of the best-of-seven set.

Bucyk, nicknamed "Chief" because he is part Indian, scored Boston's first two goals as the Bruins fired four unanswered markers. Phil Esposito scored twice in the second period, and Gregg Sheppard and Dallas Smith added the other goals.

Bucyk converted a Smith pass from his favorite left side position at 15:31 of the opening period and scored on a breakaway at 4:47 of the middle period.

"I don't like breakaways," Bucyk said. "I'm uptight on them. I was a little nervous on this one (a 26-footer that went into the top right corner after a fake to the other side), but I saw a good spot."

None of the Black Hawks seemed to have Boston goalie Gilles Gilbert solved and none tried to find a solution Sunday. The Hawks shot just 21 times, with Stan Mikita and Dick Redmond getting four each. Only two goals came after Boston had taken penalties—Cliff Korol scoring in the second period and Pit Martin in the third.

In New York, being in the right place at the wrong time paid off for the

Tallahassee Open Golf Copped by Allen Miller

TALLAHASSEE, Fla. (UPI) — Allen Miller of Pensacola held off a raft of challengers Sunday to win the $90,000 Tallahassee Open by one stroke with a 14-under score of 274.

Miller played his poorest round of the tournament, turning in a final 71, but his early challenges, Dan Sikes, Jack Ewing and Jim Simon.

The victory was Miller's first tournament triumph and the $18,000 first prize money brought his winnings to $24,700 for the year.

Miller's best prior finish was a tie for second in the Memphis Open in 1972 and a tie for 12th in the Tucson Open this year.

The key to his win was a birdie on the long par five 17th hole. Pearce had just birdied the hole ahead of him to give a tie for the lead with Miller, but a two-footer after getting on from a bunker.

"I played a very strange round," Miller said. "I was probably a little uptight when I started, and those two bogeys sort of got to me on the front side, especially when I threeputtered on the ninth green."

There were only two bogeys among the top 10 scorers Satur-

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — The Birmingham Classic would have been a perfect spot for a letdown for Jane Blalock, coming the week after she barely missed winning the LPGA's biggest payoff ever. But the 36-year-old never came.

Miss Blalock won the $8,000 first prize in the Classic Sunday, after a round of 71, followed by three strokes and Sandra Haynie by four. She finished with a 54-hole total of 176 under par 211, including a 70 on the final day.

Picturesque Fourth Hole at Country Club Course, Like All Others, Has Been Getting Heavy Play of Late

Head Pro Alex Hackney Watches Tee Off at Country Club. Assistants Ralph DeNicola and Joe Diminico Join In Outside Pro Shop

MCC Membership Grows over Years

By Earl Yost

Sparked by the progressive leadership of William Oleksinski, now serving his second year as president, the Manchester Country Club has grown with leaps and bounds since its birth in 1917.

While 50 made up the first membership list 57 years ago, approximately 500 are listed in good standing today.

Many major physical improvements have been made to both the clubhouse and the course in recent years and today it's an attractive, well-grounded 18-hole championship course.

While for many years only one professional was employed, today there are three. Alex Hackney first arrived on April 1, 1949, which makes this the popular pro's silver anniversary in the position as head pro.

Hackney's first lieutenant is the popular Riph DeNicola, who has been a familiar figure for nearly a decade, and Joe Diminico, now in his second season.

Current club champion is Woody Clark in the Men's Division and Esther Burnham in the Women's Division.

One of the men behind the scenes who has done much to improve the physical aspect of the course is course superintendent Ken Keliber. Considered second only to the Sammy Davis Jr.-Greater Hartford Open is the Manchester Open, set again for Saturday, Sept. 7 and Monday, Sept. 9.

Each of the original nine holes at the Manchester Country Club in 1917 had a special name. They were:

1. Elbow
2. Hill Top
3. Crown
4. Roll
5. Punch Bowl
6. Point
7. Fern
8. Triangle
9. Longfellow

Par on the original nine holes and the yardage distance were as follows:

No. 1—5-47 1/4, No. 2—4-290, No. 3—4-310, No. 4—5-408, No. 5—5-429, No. 6—3-189, No. 7—4-306, No. 8—4-260, No. 9—6-600.

Par was 40 and the total yardage was 3,266.

Local rules in 1917 read like this:

Hole No. 1 Ball driven in or across road is out.

Hole No. 3 No problem.

Hole No. 4 Ball in tennis court is out of bounds.

Hole No. 5, 6, 7 Ball in pond is out of bounds.

Hole No. 8 Ball in garden is out of bounds.

Hole No. 9 Ball in or across road or in tennis court is out of bounds.

The current course cost is $635-65, established by DeNicola, set in July 3, 1971. Par is 36-36-72 for the 6,234-yard course.

With each passing year, Minnechaug has been increasing in popularity. Reservations may be made for weekend play — Saturday and Sunday one week in advance. Pro Bill Ellison reports. The first full-time pro the course ever had, Ellison is now in his seventh season.

Par is 36-35-71 at the 6,300-yard layout.

An attractive combination clubhouse and pro shop now adorns the grounds and golfers no longer have to make way for bulldozers or be disturbed by the whining of chain saws that were familiar sights and sounds to golfers who tried out Minnechaug a quarter century ago.

The owner first took up golf maintenance work while living in Ohio. During a two-year learning period, Clark also managed to get in a little golf and won the Southern Hill Country Club championships in 1932 and 1933. It was while working on the Ohio courses as a young man that he made up his mind that someday he would build his own course.

The lifetime ambition became a reality and Clark has never regretted one day getting into this field.

Clark vowed when he opened his course that it would remain public. He has kept that promise.

First Local Course Was in Cow Pasture

By Earl Yost

According to local historians, the royal and ancient game of golf was first introduced in Manchester in the year of 1894.

Credited with starting the game here were H.G. Cheney, Robert Cheney and A.Y. Pulsifer. The trio laid out a course in the pastures of Frank and Ruth Cheney on Hackmatack Street.

There were seven holes in all, five in the pasture and two on Sunset Hill.

No traps and bunkers were needed as there was plenty of natural hazards consisting of young pine trees, bushes and fences.

There was no expense in the upkeep. No mowing was necessary as the cows in pasture kept the grass down.

Several of the so-called putting greens were enclosed with a wire fence but this was dispensed with soon after. Tin cans were used for holes on the putting greens.

Golf clubs in those days cost about $1.50 each with the best going for $2 a copy.

Approximately a dozen golfers played on the first Silk Town court and it went out of existence in 1896. John Cheney was one of the original members and the man who forwarded this information some years ago.

In the year 1896 after abandoning the Hackmatack Street golf field, there were enough people in Manchester interested in playing golf and a nine-hole course was constructed off East Center Street, the current site of the Memorial Field tennis courts and the baseball, football and soccer playing areas.

This course was 2,100 yards long and satisfactory for the

Dream Realized for Graham Clark

Minnechaug Course Notes 25th Birthday

Twenty-five years ago, Graham Clark officially opened his nine-hole public Minnechaug golf course to climax a long-time dream.

Today the one-time 130-acre dairy site is one of New England's most popular 18-hole public courses.

Located on Manchester Road, just over the town line in Glastonbury, Minnechaug — an Indian name — was developed into a top-grade course which was designed and built by Clark, a one-time three-handicap player as well as an airplane pilot and aircraft engineer.

The original clubhouse was a milk room.

While employed as a crew chief in the experimental hanger at Pratt & Whitney Aircraft in East Hartford, Clark purchased the Hale Farm in 1948. For three years, Clark had been looking for a suitable place to build a golf course.

The farm lands were dotted with rocks and trees but at the same time offered natural hazards. When the first man teed off in 1949, there were still many rough spots on the course but through hard work and long hours, Clark, and his small crew, managed to get the operation off the ground.

People Turn, Stare at Masters King Elder Because He Resembles Taller Flip Wilson

ATLANTA (UPI) — When Lee Elder strolls through an airport, people turn and stare. They don't stare because they know he's a professional golfer. Elder doesn't have the instant recognition of an Arnold Palmer or a Jack Nicklaus. They stare because he looks so much like television comic Flip Wilson, a taller, heavier Flip Wilson. Although people still won't recognize him on sight, the name Lee Elder has gained a lot of recognition the past few days. Elder put his name in the headlines when he won the Monsanto Open. There were a lot of golfers at Pensacola who would have attracted little attention by winning. But Lee Elder is a black golfer, the first to earn an invitation to the Masters. Elder has been an unofficial spokesman for black golfers in the seven years he's been on the PGA tour. He and

Charles Sifford, winner of the 1969 Los Angeles Open, have been the leading critics of Masters policy which has prevented a black from playing at Augusta. But Elder agreed that he, or any other black, should not be invited to the Masters except on merit. He wanted to earn a berth in that tournament and not be invited only because of his race. That's been the stand taken by Masters chairman Clifford Roberts ever since the issue came up. Roberts' position was simple: if a black golfer wants to play in the Masters, he needs only meet the tournament's qualifications and he'd be welcome. There are 13 such qualifications. Two are based on previous Masters performance and thus are closed to newcomers. Ten of the others involve specific events — the U.S. and British opens, the U.S. and British amateurs, the PGA championship, the Ryder Cup and the Walker Cup. Until a few years ago, regular PGA tournaments did not count and that's why Sifford was not invited to the 1970 Masters. But now, there are 40 other tournaments, including the Monsanto Open, where the winner earns an invitation to the Masters and, like Cliff Roberts pointed out more than a year ago, it was only a question of time before one of the black golfers on the tour came through. Elder, 39, confessed that he had begun to feel that he might not make it. He came close a couple of times in 1972 and 1973, finishing second at Sutton, Mass., both years and losing in a playoff to Lee Trevino at Hartford, Conn., in '72. "It entered my mind that I might never win," said Elder. "You have to think about those things." The Masters helped Lee Elder win at Pensacola. Because the Monsanto Open was bracketed by the Masters and the Tournament of Champions, most of the "big names" didn't play. Only three of the top 21 moneywinners so far this year were on hand and not having to worry about the likes of Jack Nicklaus, Johnny Miller, Trevino and Gary Player gave Elder a psychological boost. Despite his earlier fumbling about not being invited to the Masters, Elder turned cagey when the question came up again after his victory. He indicated at a post-tournament news conference that he might turn down a Masters invitation. He later said he "would be happy to play at the Masters," but toned down that little touch of enthusiasm by noting, "there are a lot more tournaments in between and I'll have to wait and see." Although that other golfing Lee, Trevino, refuses to play in the Masters, it's doubtful that Elder will turn down an invitation. Maybe, when asked later why there was any doubt, Lee Elder can borrow a phrase from his look-alike, Flip Wilson, and reply: "The Devil made me do it."

Ovian Brothers, Michael and Karney at Tallwood

Golf Play Begins at Dawn, Ends at Dusk at Tallwood

Golfing begins at dawn and ends at dusk at the Tallwood Country Club in Hebron, owned by Michael and Karney Ovian. Designed by Michael Ovian, who served previously as greens superintendent at Hop Meadow for the last 10 years. The biggest improvement this season is a new challenging course after opening just four years ago come July. The brothers are united for the first time this season, Karney having served as greens superintendent at Hop Meadow for the last 10 years. The biggest improvement this season is a new clubhouse, located near the ninth and 18th holes. This will enable golfers to start out from vantage points for either nine or 18-hole rounds. Like a number of area courses, Tallwood was once a dairy farm. The name Tallwood was selected because of the many tall trees surrounding the course. The championship tee distance is 6,650 yards, 6,300 yards for men and 5,850 for women. Tallwood was open for nearly 11 months last season due to favorable winter and spring conditions. It is open to the public.

LPGA Tour Richer Under Erickson

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Bud Erickson, the likable executive director of the Ladies Professional Golf Association, refuses to take any of the credit for the LPGA's success. "I just happened to take over at a good time," the 51-year-old czar of women's golf smiled. "I'd be the last one to claim I did anything special." But the fact is that Erickson has done an outstanding job since taking over his post in February, 1970. In 1970, the LPGA tour offered prize money of $500,000. The ladies are playing for $1.9 million four years later. At Palm Springs, Calif., last weekend, 51 LPGA members played for $300,000 in the Colgate-Dinah Shore Winners Circle tournament. At Pensacola, Fla., the male pros played for $150,000 in the Monsanto Open. "The Dinah Shore means we're major league now," "I guess," said Erickson. "Women's golf has come a long, long way from the heyday of Patty Berg, the grand old lady of the tour today."

Kathy Whitworth on 16th Tour

18-Hole Tourney At Skungamaug

Site of the third annual 18-hole golf tournament Saturday, May 4 will be the Skungamaug River Golf Club on Foley Lane in Coventry. Play starts at 7:30 a.m. - weather permitting - and competition will be open to players from all area towns. Entry fee is $5 which includes greens fees. The Callaway system of handicapping will be used. There will be $200 in merchandise offered for the first five low gross and low net scores. Also, for the first time, there will be a low gross prize for women. Roger Barrett is serving as tourney chairman for the Coventry Young Republican Club. A hole-in-one contest and a driving contest will also be staged. Rain date will be Sunday, May 5. Golfers interesting in competing may call 742-9348 for preferred starting times.

Women Golf's First $500,000 Career-Money Winner Kathy Whitworth Dominant Figure

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Kathy Whitworth is objective about her status as the Jack Nicklaus of ladies' golf. Her 72 victories rank second only to Miss Wright's 82. At 5-9 and 140 pounds, she is consistency personified. "My career's been a fantastic thing," she smiled. "Each year has seemed better than the last. I'm very grateful for all that has happened." Despite her modesty, Miss Whitworth has given the LPGA a dominant figure for the Laura Baughns coming up to shoot at. She will be hard to bring down, too. "I think I've got at least six good years left," she declared. "That doesn't mean I'll stop playing after six years but I'm not unrealistic. I know as I get older it will be harder to win. "But winning is just as important as it ever was to me today. I hope the day never comes when I won't be concerned about winning." Miss Whitworth looks on her new half-million dollar accomplishment with pride — not for herself but for the LPGA. "It's a milestone that will be broken," she said. "But it was nice to be the first one there."

She admitted there was "a possibility" she would crack the $1 million mark before she was through. "It's not a goal," she said, "but it's a possibility. It certainly would be nice, though. That really would be some milestone." Lady golf's No. 1 player has been frustrated in her bids to win a U.S. Open championship. Her second-place finish in 1971 was the closest she has been. "I'm almost positive it's become a mental thing," she offered. "I don't stomp my feet or anything like that but I get up too much and then I generally play terrible. "If I win it before my career is over, fine. But I'm not going to lose any sleep over it, though." In the $200,000 Colgate-Dinah Shore Winners Circle tournament at Palm Springs, Calif., last weekend, Miss Whitworth finished in a tie for 15th place with a 296 total for 72 holes, seven shots behind the winning score. She won $2,675. She has won one tournament this year. Miss Whitworth found the $200,000 prize money offered at Palm Springs "staggering."

"It's hard to believe," she said. "It's staggering. To the people who have been on the tour as long as I have, it's a dream come true." But, she added, she hopes the LPGA players keep "things in perspective." "By that," she said, "I mean I hope money doesn't become the only thing out there. On the men's tour, there is a percentage of players who care only about finishing in the top 60 for the money. I hope the players on our tour always play for the sport."

Lack of Big Money on Tour Brings Protests from Women

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Beneath the soft-spoken exterior, some of the members of the Ladies Professional Golf Association are incensed. The problem is money. Or rather, some of the women say, the lack of it. The U.S. Open for the ladies at La Grange, Ill., July 18-21 will carry a $40,000 price tag compared to the $225,000 purse at the U.S. Open for men at Oakmont, Pa., June 21-24.

"The U.S. Open is supposed to be our most prestigious event, but it isn't," said Jane Blalock, of Highland Beach, Fla. "Our Open is just a shadow of the men's Open. The men will play for nearly six times the money we will play for. Is that fair?"

The former school teacher from New Hampshire and the other lady pros played for $200,000 at Palm Springs, Calif., last week. First prize in the Coigate-Dinah Shore Winner's Circle tournament was worth $32,000. "I'd rather win the Dinah Shore," said Miss Blalock. "It has more prestige. It makes the U.S. Open look like Podunk."

"I think," said Jo Ann Prentice, of Miami, "we should be playing for more money. We do draw better than the purse indicates."

Miss Prentice won at Palm Springs, earning $32,000 and a new car in a sudden-death playoff with Miss Blalock and Sandra Haynie, from Dallas. The playoff losers each got $17,500.

"I agree exactly with Jane," said Miss Haynie. "I'd say, to me, the Dinah Shore and the LPGA (at Sutton, Mass., June 20-23) are the most important tournaments on the tour."

LPGA Executive Director Bud Erickson said his organization met with U.S. Golf Association officials at the Masters in Augusta, Ga., this month. "The USGA insists that $40,000 is all that their budget allows," Erickson said. "We had a very pleasant meeting with them, though. From out of that meeting, we agreed to set up meetings on a regular basis. In the past, our two groups have met whenever somebody felt a meeting was necessary."

"I think the USGA feels that LPGA participation in the U.S. Open is the key to the success of their tournament. I'd also hate to see our players do anything rash."

Golf Car Rental Service Big Business for Carlo

Chief cook and bottle washer, as well as president of Golf Car Rental Service in Bolton is Nick Carlo.

Seven years ago, Carlo and Bill Prindle joined hands and formed the golf car rental business. The pair started out with 20 electric carts. Today, Carlo who assumed sole ownership this year, reports he now has 400 carts out to various golf clubs in Connecticut on a permanent rental basis.

Clubs in this area serviced by Carlo's organization include Blackledge, Cedar Knob, Glastonbury Hills, Twin Hills, Tallwood, Minnechaug and Manchester Country Club.

"We carry a complete line of parts in our service department," Carlo said. "We handle sales, service and leases and have the franchise for Cushman, Pargo, Club Car, Marathon and Mexel carts."

The fleet at the Bolton office, the old Rosemount Restaurant, includes a tractor-trailer and a flat bed used for transporting the carts to various clubs and special golf functions around the state.

Carlo's fleet of golf carts is one of the biggest in New England. It handles the needs of both private and public courses. Five servicemen are on the staff and are kept busy 12 months of the year. Several of the state's golf courses require that all players use carts and this has resulted in heavier requests for rentals from the Bolton company.

Twin Hills Family Affair

Check in at the fast-growing and popular Twin Hills Country Club in Coventry and you could very well run into one McDermott, maybe two, or three, or four, or five or even six.

The six McDermotts — George, his wife, Vi, and their children, Mike, Frank, Robbie and Dawn, have worked side by side in producing Twin Hills on farmland acquired off Route 31.

McDermott designed the course for the weekend golfer with just three sand traps on the course. Par is 35 for the nine holes which cover 2,911 yards.

The family all pitched in from scratch and helped in the bulldozing and cutting down of trees and brush and after many long hours and weeks, and years-eight years to be exact—the course was officially opened to the public Memorial Day weekend in 1971.

With golf's potential and popularity far from reached, Twin Hills has been able to offer a challenge to area golfers.

People Who Hurt Palmer Most are His Friends, They Want to See Him on Top Like Old Days

Golfing All-Time Great Arnold Palmer

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) — The people who hurt Arnold Palmer most are his friends.

They don't really mean to. Their motives are basically good. They want to see him win and be on top again the way he used to be. They are so fervent in their zeal, so overanxious to identify with Arnold Palmer, King of the Hill once more, that they try to convince him he's every inch the golfer he used to be, his game is the same it always was and he's capable of going out there and winning any time he wishes.

His friends can fool themselves, but they can't fool Arnold Palmer. He knows better.

Palmer had an excellent wrap round of 67 in the Masters, a round which created a feeling among some that maybe, somehow, he had finally recovered his old lost putting touch, but Palmer sensed it was only momentary and he probably was right.

Talking about the round, he revealed he had held his putter a little more loosely, and immediately some suggested to him that might be the key he had been looking for all along.

Arnold Palmer didn't have the heart to disillusion them. "You never can tell," he smiled agreeably. "Hubert Green told me he found himself holding his putter a little too tight," said Palmer. "He thought maybe I could be doing the same thing, so I tried holding the putter a little more. Later, though, Palmer elaborated a little more.

The first flush of excitement over his fine 67 had passed. All right, he had finished with his best round in 12 years; his 72 hole total of 284 would turn out to be only six strokes back of 72 hole winner Gary Player, and he had putted only 29 times in the final round.

Arnold Palmer wasn't kidding himself about having found the "key" though, by the way he had handled his putter. "I've tried this before," he said. "It's nothing really new. Same old stuff."

Somewhere along the line, Arnold Palmer has picked up a bad habit, a terrible one for someone trying to make his living at golf.

He has become a defensive putter, which is almost the same thing as a defensive hitter in baseball. A defensive hitter doesn't brim over with confidence when he walks up to the plate. Generally all he does is guard it, and that's the same way Palmer usually walks up to his putts.

Defensive hitters rarely make much money in baseball, and you can make what you want of the fact that Arnold Palmer, who always was 1-2 on the money winnings list, isn't even among the first 100 now.

If there was only one thing in the world he could possibly have which belongs to someone else, Arnold Palmer says he would take Bob Charles' putting stroke.

"He's unbelievable on the greens," Palmer says of the skinny New Zealand lefthander. "He's the greatest putter in the whole world — bar none."

Bob Charles smiles understandingly upon hearing Palmer would love to have his putting stroke.

"It's not for hire," he laughed. "I have to play this game, too. You take my putting away, and I wouldn't be able to make a living on this tour."

Charles came here directly from Greensboro, N.C., where he finished first and won $44,066. He played with Palmer in the second round at the Masters and failed to make the cut with a 73-79-152. Palmer had a 71 but still evoked Charles' sympathy.

"I felt sorry for him," said the New Zealander. "He just never made a putt. It was kinda sad because if he had his old confidence, his 71s today would be his 67s of yesterday."

"He was as fine a putter as there was in the game, and actually his stroke doesn't look any different now, but he just isn't starting the ball out in the right direction. Putting is 90 per cent mental and 10 per cent physical. Your eyes line up the blade and tell you where to stroke the putt. It's possible your eyes can change with age."

Arnold Palmer is 44 now and has been wearing eyeglasses for two years. He still is not completely comfortable with them, but one important thing — he sees better with them. He doesn't squint.

Ordinarily the touring pros think first of themselves, but Bob Charles, like so many of them, couldn't really find it within himself to be very upset if Arnold Palmer should somehow happen to win one more big one sometime soon.

"I don't know of anybody who has done more for the game," Charles says of Palmer. "He has the manner, the personality, the charisma, to attract people to golf courses who aren't even golfers. That makes a difference in everything — atmosphere, interest, prize money. You take what happened to me at Greensboro, for example. I wouldn't have been able to win $44,000 there if it wasn't for Arnold Palmer. He has increased the prize money for us everywhere as a fellow professional. I'm grateful."

Ten Commandments of Golf Courtesy

1. Do not move, speak or hail a friend when a player is making a shot. Silence is golden, especially at a golf tournament.
2. Leave your camera at home or in the clubhouse. Snapping shutters while a player is making a shot or a putt can make a player jump and unhappy.
3. Since it is almost impossible to see every stroke made in a particular group, spectators should watch the putting on one green, then move to where fairway approach shots may be seen. On other holes the drives could be watched for a while.
4. Do not stampede for vantage points immediately after the last putt has been holed. Your anxiety is psychological. The moment you start to run, a thousand others will do the same.
5. Avoid applause until the last player has holed out.
6. Walk around the greens, never cross them. Ladies should never walk with high heels on greens and fairways.
7. Do not go through bunkers. Walk around them. Footprints in sand can cost a player dearly.
8. Allow players to pass through and reach the next tee. Do not forget that when following one match you may be in the way of another. Give players near a large gallery a fair break.
9. In the course of play, do not approach or speak to a player, no matter how well you know him. Give him a chance to concentrate on his game.
10. If you stay behind the fairway ropes, everyone will have a better view of the play.

Awards Presented for Art

The ninth annual Arts and Crafts Show recently held by the Coventry Republican Women's Club was well attended.

The show included oils, pastels, acrylics, photography, pottery, plants, woodworking, silk screening and block printing.

Many hand-crafted items were for sale, such as toys, candles, leather goods and stuffed toys and animals.

The Best of Show award went to P.T. Novack of Norwich for an oil painting.

Blue ribbons were won by D.A. Welch of Portland, Scott Rhoades of Coventry, Wilma Ayes of Mansfield Center, Karen Badger and Linda Regan, both of Andover.

David Linton of Manchester won the People Choice award for his oil painting "Sunrise."

And honorable mention went to A.S. Griswold, Richard Gordon, Marilyn Dixon and Douglas Smith.

In the student arts, Debra Kinsey of Norwich was awarded the best of show, the David Rappe Award, for oils.

Sharon Buzzell was presented with the Republican Women's Club gift certificate for her pottery, brown bottle.

Students honorable mention awards went to Laurie Braun, Brett Hussey, Sarah Estru, Roy Kinsler, Diane Smith, Lynn Quisadamo, Patricia Trombly, Peggy Beaulieu and Sue Rowland.

Bill Fickett, a black cowboy known as "the Dusky Demon," is credited with inventing the sport of bulldogging. He died in 1932 and has been installed in the Cowboy Hall of Fame, Oklahoma City.

Comments from students who saw the filmstrips ranged from "informative" to "boring" with an almost unanimous majority of students giving positive comments about the V.D. education program.

School board members approved the V.D. program as part of the regular school curriculum. They said future programs should be similar to this year's in time and scope and an outline of the program must be presented to them each year for reviewing prior to implementation.

Each of the six winners received a $75 check and a citation from CBIA. The presentations were made by Daniel E. Gold, general manager of WFSB-TV.

The six were judged the outstanding members of the Class of 1974 at state regional vocational-technical schools and at one of the state technical colleges.

Mainville is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Mainville, 903 Center St.

The event was sponsored by Channel 3-WFSB-TV and by CBIA.

Landfill Site Safe

VIRGINIA CARLSON, Correspondent, Tel. 228-9224

A geological survey indicates the 26-acre site on Rt. 4, east of Lenard's initial engineering investigation disclosed a substantial portion of the parent soil and cover substance consists of gravelly material.

The summary states ground water flows toward the small surface brooks at the eastern and western boundary which in turn discharge into Hop River.

Robert Victor, chairman of the Solid Waste Commission, said 2,000 window stickers will be delivered May 2 and will be distributed to residents through the town clerk's office.

He said he would distribute them personally at the landfill site on Saturdays. Car registration must be shown to obtain a sticker, he added.

Lenard said the survey proved water will never flow across Rt. 6 to endanger any wells there.

Watergate Transcripts Made Public President Defends Watergate Role

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A black station wagon was loaded with transcripts of edited versions of many of President Nixon's Watergate conversations and then transported to the Capitol Hill building for use by House impeachment investigators.

The automobile, bearing private license plates, left the White House at 9:20 a.m. EDT, in plenty of time to deliver the voluminous documents, as Nixon promised in a television address Monday night, to the House Judiciary Committee by the 10 a.m. EDT deadline for his response to a committee subpoena.

But while announcing Monday night that he would supply 1,200 pages of edited transcripts, Nixon refused to comply with the impeachment panel's subpoena for actual tapes of 42 of his conversations.

He said the transcripts "if read with a fair, open mind" will prove him innocent of any wrongdoing in the Watergate break-in and cover-up and show "the President has nothing to hide in this matter."

Eight male members of the White House staff loaded bulging brown envelopes — one for each of the 38 members of the committee — into the station wagon parked in front of the west wing of the executive mansion.

They pushed three four-wheel cars carrying the transcripts to the curb at the end of its 10-minute journey from downtown and White House aides carried the transcripts to an elevator in the hotel and up to the second floor room where the investigators work.

Besides one brown envelope for each committee member, there were four letter cases, three black and one brown, presumably containing bound copies for Rep. Peter W. Rodino Jr., D-N.J., the committee chairman and Rep. Edward Hutchinson, R-Mich., the ranking GOP member of the committee.

Nixon said these two men could listen to the actual tapes to confirm that transcripts are accurate.

In his gamble against impeachment, Nixon decided to give not only committee members but the nation a look at his private conversations within the Oval Office — transcripts which he says will embarrass him but clear him of any part in either the Watergate break-in or its cover-up.

He said the transcripts — portions not relevant to my knowledge of actions with regard to Watergate — include delivery was carried out routinely this morning.

Nobody on the impeachment staff met the car at the end of its 10-minute journey from downtown and White House aides carried the transcripts to an elevator in the hotel and up to the second floor room where the investigators work.

In his gamble against impeachment, Nixon decided to give not only committee members but the nation a look at his private conversations within the Oval Office — transcripts which he says will embarrass him but clear him of any part in either the Watergate break-in or its cover-up.

He said the transcripts — portions not relevant to my knowledge of actions with regard to Watergate — include

"the rough as well as the smooth" and with other materials provided the committee "will tell all."

Saying "every day absorbed by Watergate is a day lost from the work that must be done, with the great problems that affect your prosperity, affect your security, that could affect your lives," Nixon told Americans:

"The materials... will provide all the additional evidence to get Watergate behind us and to get it behind us now."

The transcripts begin with conversations on Sept. 15, 1972, the day indictments were returned against seven persons — five who were arrested at 2:30 a.m. on June 17, 1972, inside the headquarters of the Democratic National Committee in the Watergate office (See Page Twelve)

Richard Houser, a member of Nixon's legal staff for several months, sat in the passenger seat in the station wagon.

The documents were not actually delivered to the House Judiciary Committee offices. They went instead to the old Congressional Hotel, which John M. DeLoach, the special counsel for the committee's impeachment inquiry, and his staff have taken for use in the inquiry.

A scheduled closed meeting this morning of the Judiciary Committee was canceled for an announced reason. A spokesman said Rodino "may have a statement" later in the day on Nixon's refusal to meet the subpoena demands for the full tapes.

Unlike the fanfare that accompanied delivery last month to the committee investigators of a Watergate grand jury subpoena and a sealed envelope containing material used in the grand jury's investigations, the people are tired of new disclosures, new offers and counter offers, new admissions and counter admissions."

Berte said, "I believe the President's decision to give the House committee hundreds of pages of transcripts represents a significant step toward resolving the questions surrounding Watergate."

"And I think that once the transcripts have been made public, as the President said he'll do, the questions the American people have had concerning the President's relationship to Watergate will be answered."

"I am also very hopeful that we may see, in the very near future, a just conclusion to the entire Watergate matter."

Kissinger was bought in his efforts Monday by a pledge by Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko to join him in using Soviet and U.S. influence to win a peaceful settlement in the Middle East. Kissinger met with Gromyko, co-chairman of the Geneva peace conference, Sunday and Monday in Geneva.

Before getting on his special plane, Kissinger told newsmen: "I told President Boumediene in extensive talks of the U.S. decision to make a major effort in this field and to achieve a solution based on justice which both sides can accept."

"President Boumediene showed understanding and support of our intention," Kissinger said.

Kissinger said the discussions were aimed at achieving "a positive contribution to the most immediate problem — suspension of fighting between Syria and Israel."

The U.S. official, accompanied by his new wife, Nancy, left in their Boeing jetliner for Alexandria at 1:30 p.m.

President Richard Nixon, conceding that his refusal to surrender secret White House tapes had "heightened the mystery about Watergate" and caused suspicions about his own role, said Monday night he would send edited transcripts to the House Judiciary Committee that is considering his impeachment. He is shown with the transcripts in his office following his nationwide television address. (UPI photo)

George Bush, GOP chairman, called it "a major step in putting impeachment proceedings behind us" and Senate GOP Leader Hugh Scott welcomed the "wealth of material," he said was being given the committee.

The White House itself reported the initial public reaction running 5 to 1 in favor of Nixon, according to telephone calls through the White House switchboard.

Sen. Howard H. Baker Jr., vice chairman of the Senate Watergate committee which previously exposed much of what was expected to be on the released transcripts, said he was pleased with the Nixon decision but "I wish he had done it a year ago."

Some Democratic critics came not on Nixon's offer, but on the forum in which he made it. (See Page Twelve)

The National Weather Service said the reading came at 4:49 p.m. and shattered a record for April 29 that had stood for 63 years.

The previous high for the date was 85 degrees recorded in 1911.

The weather service said increased cloudiness today could be expected to keep the temperature in the mid 80s with a strong possibility of cooling showers tonight.

The unseasonable heat was caused by a thrust of warm, humid air from the Gulf of Mexico into the region, meteorologists said.

Very warm this afternoon and this evening, with a chance of showers and thunderstorms accompanied by locally strong gusty winds and heavy rain high around 80. Showers and thunderstorms likely tonight and early Wednesday morning, becoming partly cloudy, breezy and cooler Wednesday afternoon. Low tonight 55 to 60. High Wednesday 70 to 75.

When the Manchester Board of Directors on April 16 approved improved retirement benefits for police personnel (part of the contract package negotiated by Town Manager Robert Weiss and the Police Union), it took the first of two required steps.

The second will be approval by the Board of Directors of the Pension Plan, to implement the improvements.

The Town Pension Board Monday after discussing the improved benefits, vote to instruct the towns council to draft the amendments and to return the draft to the Pension Board for its review. Following the review, they will be placed on the Board of Directors' agenda — for a public hearing and action.

In discussing the changes, the Pension Board neither approved nor disapproved them — on the basis the directors already approved by the town. They are part and parcel of the negotiated labor contract.
