Horse Owners Fear Zone Rule

By DOUG BEVINS
"Come saddle your horses, and call up your men," some lines penned by Sir Walter Scott in 1830, may well be the call going out to Manchester equestrians this weekend.

The reported master of local horsekeepers began recently when the town's Planning and Zoning Commission (PZC) announced its intention to promulgate zoning regulations regarding the keeping of horses, and the town planning office has been flooded with inquiries about the regulations. According to records of the town assessor, there are only about 30 horses in Manchester, but there are probably a lot more people who love horses. And it's those people who are expected to dominate a Monday night PZC public hearing on the proposed zoning regulations.

Dairy Prices Better

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Consumers can expect a slowdown in the rate at which most milk product prices have been rising, and may see some further drop in butter prices soon, the Agriculture Department predicted today.

MHS Senior Crowned Queen of Loyalty Day

Miss Linda Jeanne Clarahan of Green Rd. Friday night was crowned State Loyalty Day Queen and will reign Sunday at the Loyalty Day Parade in Middletown. Representing the Manchester VFW Post and Auxiliary, she vied with other Loyalty Day Queens from VFW units throughout the state for the title of State Loyalty Day Queen.

The daughter of Mrs. Shirley Clarahan, she is a senior at Manchester High School. Manchester marching units participating in Sunday's parade include the VFW Post and Auxiliary, American Legion, Marine Corps League, Young Marines, Army and Navy Club, Nutmeg Forest of the Tall Cedars of Lebanon, Silk Worm Pup Tent, Military Order of Coolees, of the VFW, and the Stewart Highlander Bagpipe Band. Edwin Edwards of Wells St. is deputy parade chairman.

The parade will start at 1 p.m. from the Pat Hickey Field on Huntington Hill Ave., off Russell St., in Middletown.

3 Held After Holdup

NEW HAVEN (UPI) — Three men sought by New York authorities for trying to free Black Liberation Army (BLA) members from the Manhattan House of Detention were arrested Friday after a holdup at a bank in New Haven in which two policemen were shot.

3 Held After Holdup

Later, they split up and hid in various nearby buildings until police convinced them to surrender several hours later. The three suspects, identified by New York police sources as Harold W. Simmons, 29, Michael Alston, 22, and James Hastings, all of New York City, were wanted in connection with the daring April 17 prison escape attempt in the Tombs, Manhattan's city jail.

News for Senior Citizens

By Wally Fortin

Well, Hello, thanks to you it's here, and that's what you see in our thank you advertisement. In our you're wondering, we are talking about a new bus. It arrived Wednesday afternoon, and went right into action going out on the route with passengers at 3:30 p.m. You'll have to keep your eyes peeled for the big blue and white bus. It's a super blue beetle, and it's a dandy. It's worth all the hard work.

The Rev. Russell E. Camp of 41 Walnut St., chaplain at the Somers and Enfield Institutions of the Department of Correction for the past 20 years, has recently been named a Fellow in the American Protestant Chaplains Association.

MCC Professor Author of Book

Sidney Lipshires, associate professor of history at Manchester Community College, is the author of a new book, "Herbert Marcuse: From Marx to Freud and Beyond," which has just been published by Schenkman Publishing Co. of Cambridge, Mass. The book will appear shortly in local bookstores in a paperback edition.

The study of Marcuse, often regarded as the guru of the 'New Left' students on college campuses both in this country and in Europe, grew out of Prof. Lipshires' doctoral dissertation completed in 1971. Modified sections of the book have already appeared as articles in "The Psychoanalytic Review" and in "Sociologia," an Italian sociology journal published in Rome.

Dr. Lipshires argues that Marcuse has failed to confront adequately the ideas of Freud, above all in regard to the Oedipus complex. General Lipshires' Corporation of Morristown, N.J., the distributor of the book, expects that the paperback edition will be adopted as supplementary reading in sociology philosophy, and psychology courses at various schools throughout the country.

Lipshires' concern with European intellectual history stems from his service as an interpreter with the U.S. Army in Paris during the Second World War. His research for the book included two trips to Europe during which he conducted interviews with Marcuse and some of his former associates. Dr. Lipshires, currently completing his eighth year at the college, resides in Hartford.

MHS Math Team Receives Awards

The Manchester High School Math Team was honored Wednesday at the sixth annual Capitol Area Mathematics League banquet at Willie's Steak House for placing second in the large school division.

Miss Sheldon also received the award for most valuable player on the MHS team. For perfect matches, certificates were awarded to Jerry Lombardo, with the second highest junior average.

Other team members are Dick Diamond and Pam Mellick seniors; Dale Sotherland, junior; and Wayne Kuehl and Donny Baker sophomores.

The MHS math team will compete May 10 in the New England Association of Mathematics Leagues contest in Worcester, Mass.

Approved Bills Go To Meskill

HARTFORD (UPI) - The Senate passed a number of measures Friday, including waiver of tuition for state Vietnam veterans at state colleges and increased mileage repayments from 10 to 12 cents for state employees. Those bills go to Gov. Thomas Meskill for signing.

Other bills passed by the Senate included provision for a November "advisory referendum" on public campaign financing, and a measure allowing municipalities to buy surplus land from the New Haven Water Co.

Vernon Yost Ordered To Vacate Site

BARBARA RICHMOND

A temporary injunction requested against a Vernon area builder-developer has been granted by Superior Court Judge Leo Parsky and will be removed when the developer complies with stipulations set forth by Francis McNulty, the town's building inspector and zoning enforcement officer.

The request for the temporary injunction was filed against Eldredge Yost of Tolland with the 7-11 Food Stores, Inc. and Garick Associates, lessees of the property in question, named as co-defendants.

McNulty, in his suit, said Yost leased space in the building located at the corner of Rt. 30 and Vernon Ave., without first obtaining a certificate of occupancy. The suit said that Yost disregarded a notice of violation from McNulty and also moved in the building himself.

Atty. Harold R. Cummings, representing McNulty, claimed in the suit that the defendants were violating state statutes and town zoning regulations. McNulty said Yost was conditionally granted approval of a site plan to develop an addition to an existing building at the Rt. 30 site. This was granted by the Zoning Commission which attached 19 stipulations to be met before certificates of occupancy would be granted.

The suit claimed that water from the Yost property flows onto the property of William Kania which is adjacent to the building.

In his decision, Judge Parsky ordered Yost to vacate the premises by 5 p.m. on May 9 or to pay a penalty of $100 per day if he stays, unless all of the stipulations are complied with.

The two other tenants are given until 5 a.m. 5 p.m. under the same penalty and stipulation.

The Rev. Mr. Purney is presently studying Islamism at Hartford Seminary Foundation in the Philippines, he taught Bible, physics, mathematics, philosophy and astronomy.

Born in Coloma, Mich., he received his BS degree from the University of Michigan and his master of divinity degree from Garrett Theological Seminary.

Today's Thought

God Bless God
This week I have talked of all that we have and wonders that God has wrought. So why can't we take just a few moments out to really thank God for our lives.

So take a moment and say a prayer and thank God for being God.

The Great Monetary Crisis

With the confirmation of William Simon, former energy czar, as secretary of the Treasury, it seems appropriate to pass on the dream we had when he was nominated.

It seems there is a lot of similarity between the energy crisis and the monetary crisis. In our dream, Mr. Simon acted accordingly.

When it became apparent the Federal Reserve's Arthur Burns was going to continue his tight money policy, which is similar to Saudi Arabia restricting the production of crude oil, Mr. Simon immediately began allocating the money available based on the amount of money the various states used in 1972 before the money crunch hit.

Banks were required to post interest rates and the IRS began monitoring to prevent interest gouging. Some states, which do not produce money of their own, sent their governors to Washington to plead their hardship cases. Mr. Simon ordered several emergency allocations and shortened the lines at the drive-in bank windows.

He appeared on television talk shows morning, noon and night, to encourage monetary conservation by the people so that the country could keep going despite the shortage.

People were asked to cut back their credit expenditures by 10 per cent and cut out Sunday spending except for church contributions. The banks soon limited the hours they were open and reduced-price crockery, appliances and other promotional items disappeared. There were complaints of course that some of the big banks had created the crisis to drive up interest rates.

President Nixon urged patience as Henry Kissinger negotiated an entente with Federal Reserve, the Congress and Howard Hughes, who was alleged to be hoarding most of the nation's money, hoping to drive up the price of the dollar.

Finally, it was announced that Mr. Nixon, Mr. Simon and Mr. Burns would appear on television with Dr. Kissinger, to conduct a press conference following the television show and announce the end of the monetary crisis.

The President defended his two previous vetoes of emergency monetary bills because Congress wanted to roll-back interest rates which the President said would discourage rather than encourage production of new money. He went on to urge Congress to pass the several bills he had presented them to make the country monetary self-sufficient by 1980.

Mr. Burns puffed on his pipe a lot, nodded, and said Federal Reserve's tight money policy had paid off. The crisis was over, additional money would be allotted in time for vacations, the big money demand season. He cautioned the people however against going on a spending binge.

Mr. Simon urged conservation and asked Congress to push efforts to find alternatives to money because our dependence on it alone could mean another crisis at some future date.

Needless to say this caused concern among environmentalists who were alarmed about the pollution aspects of bartering animals, the threat to endangered species from a revived hide trade, and the lack of a 100 per cent guarantee that the nation's ultra-high speed, nuclear power, money printing press was safe.

Mr. Kissinger's press conference on the details of negotiations which had resulted in the Administration Congressional detente; the Administration-Congressional entente with the Federal Reserve Board, was interrupted by a hurry-up call to negotiate a disengagement between Iceland and England in the newly-erupted Codfish War.

At plane side, he did say the key to the agreement was making all the streets in Washington, D.C., a United Nations buffer zone to keep the Administration, the Congress and Federal Reserve from sniping at each other.

Dan Rather and several other commentators wanted to know the implications of the shift of the President's television address from the three major networks to the Hughes Sports Network but Mr. Kissinger merely smiled and bounded up the gang way.

Is America Really All That "Wasteful?"

Americans are so used to being criticized, or to criticizing themselves, for their affluence that they have come to take it almost for granted that they alone of all the world's peoples are guilty of reckless exploitation of the world's resources.

Rather than being a credit to our technology, ingenuity and energy, our high standard of living has lately become something to reproach ourselves for, a sign of national selfishness—or so some critics would have it.

Yet if affluence is now to be equated with waste, America may actually be among the least "affluent" of nations. For while we may consume a disproportionate share of the world's resources, our consumption on the whole, is efficient, is conducive to even greater efficiency, and is a contribution to the progress of the world.

Paradoxically, a nation like India, surely the world's poorest for its size, becomes in these terms truly "affluent."

In that country, millions of sacred cows roam the cities and countryside, consuming resources not adequate to feed the human population, to which 13 million are added each year. There, too, the inefficiencies of a government committed to thorough-going control of every aspect of the economy have barely enabled India to hold its own in the face of population growth.

The spectre of mass famine looms again in the subcontinent, and once again it is the "wasteful" United States, which sent $10 billion in aid between 1950 and 1971, that India is again calling on for help.

Chile, once one of the most stable countries in South America, was brought to the brink of economic collapse by the wasteful socialistic experiments of the late President Allende.

Those countries which practice slash-and-burn agriculture, turning forestland into desert after a few years, or which pour money into prestige items like steel mills or armies while having to import the basic necessities, are guilty of far greater waste than Americans, with all their air-conditioners and high-powered cars.

Even the Soviet Union, after a half-century of supposedly rational state control of the means of production, has still not begun to approach the ability of the American farmer to utilize the land efficiently, and despite its vaunted technology is still unable to provide its people with the kinds of consumer

Democratic Nonsense

WASHINGTON — Heaven knows the Nixon administration had completely fouled up the battle against inflation, but Democrats in Congress should be thankful there's no law against talking rot, nonsense and balderdash.

Democratic demands for a tax cut to treat a recession that may or may not occur can only be described as an exercise in political expediency aimed at winning votes in the November Congressional elections. With the cost of living soaring out of sight, they would add fuel to inflation by giving consumers more money to spend, although as William E. Simon reminded them, "Our problem is shortage of supply, not deficient demand."

Simon, our new Secretary of the Treasury, put the tax cut campaign in proper perspective before the Senate Finance Committee studying his nomination. Cutting taxes "might be good politics temporarily, but it's lousy economics," Simon said bluntly. "A tax cut would come just at the wrong time, it would exacerbate inflationary pressures."

On a day when it was announced that the annual cost of a typical basket of foods produced on U.S. farms rose another $15 to $17.47 in February, you'd think the opposition party would be aware of the grim facts of life in the marketplace. But Democratic Sens. Teddy Kennedy and Walter Mondale are pushing a tax-cut plan that would release another $9.9-billion a year into the economy.

Sadly, this plan has been endorsed even by Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, horse-sense type, Rep. Wilbur D. Mills, D-Ark., now says he no longer is firmly against quick action to legislate a tax cut. The only significant Democratic opposition comes from Sen. William Proxmire, who says a tax cut would be "stupid."

Meanwhile, having killed a standby wage-price controls, the Democratic Conference in the Senate voted unanimously to change its collective mind and try to restore them. Apparently, some spy in a supermarket had passed the word that prices were still going up. Simon, who is not afraid to describe himself as a "financial conservative," has admitted he has no "magic cure" for inflation. But he said his job would be to try to increase supplies of food, fuel and other scarce commodities, and to keep federal spending under control. Unlike a tax cut, this policy is not spectacular politics, but it confronts a present problem, not the danger of a recession which is still only a small cloud on the horizon.

And Simon had better get on his horse. Cost of Living Council director John T. Dunlop, who deals in facts rather than fantasies, says inflation in the second half of 1974 will be worse than either the economists or the Nixon administration had predicted. In Dunlop's expert, insider's view, the inflation rate for the second quarter will be about the same as the 10.8 per cent rate for the first quarter. After that, he says, inflationary pressures might abate, but will not drop to the 5 or 6 per cent level forecast by Nixon's tame economist.

The administration's problem is that it has lost credibility in this field. As Sen. Abe Ribicoff, D-Conn., told Simon: "We have been hearing economic predictions from men in the Treasury of high integrity—like yourself—for a dozen years, and they have nearly all turned out to be wrong, whether they were Democrats or Republicans."

Lyndon Johnson, of course, did absolutely nothing about inflation—even while fighting a major war in Vietnam. And Richard Nixon's on-again, off-again controls have kept the economy off balance, and business and labor alike in a state of utter confusion. Even a bad policy sometimes works if it is pursued relentlessly.

A Democratically controlled Congress, which so far has contributed little more to the fight against inflation than hot air, now has an opportunity to go state-sensible and knock off talk about cutting taxes. But don't hang by your thumbs waiting for such an eventuality. Everybody's too busy running for something, from the Presidency to cemetery commissioner.

Trust Dinner Thursday

Dear editor:
On behalf of the Manchester Land Conservation Trust Inc., I would like to urge interested conservationists to attend the Trust's second annual dinner meeting at Willie's Steak House on Thursday, May 9. A social hour is scheduled for 6:30 p.m. and dinner at 7:30 p.m. Baked stuffed shrimp is $6 and hip steak is $8.50. Reservations and checks should be sent to the Trust Office at 257 E. Center Street by May 7 at the latest. We are pleased to have Dan W. Lufkin as guest speaker. As former state commissioner of environmental protection, he is planning to speak on land use and abuse.

We urge all Land Trust members and conservation minded residents to attend this important meeting.

Douglas H. Smith, M.D. president M.L.C.T.

I UNDERSTAND THAT THERE ARE SOME PLANS TO MAKE BUDGET "CUTS" AND TO "HOLD THE LINE" ON TAXES.

Wage-Price Controls End

The first experience this country had with peacetime wage and price controls ended with the nation under the worst inflation since World War II.

The biggest jump in the minimum wage in the annals of the country, one the one hand, and response to demand for goods, on the other, augurs still higher inflation for the immediate future. But the better economy predicted for the second half of the year should bring inflation down and with it prices.

Inflation is hitting an annual rate of 11 per cent. Neither Congress nor the Administration has shown an effective plan to arrest the rise. The Administration is reshuffling its economic policy makers, in the hope that the new team will have the answer.

Labor and business, conservatives and most liberals, opposed a renewal of the Economic Stabilization Act and let it die upon its expiration. What feeling there was for extension of the act was political—to give members in an election year a vote against inflation.

But better judgment prevailed and wages and prices returned to decontrol. Now the old law of demand and supply will rule, and the betting is, it will work better.

BICYCLE SAFETY

In Manchester

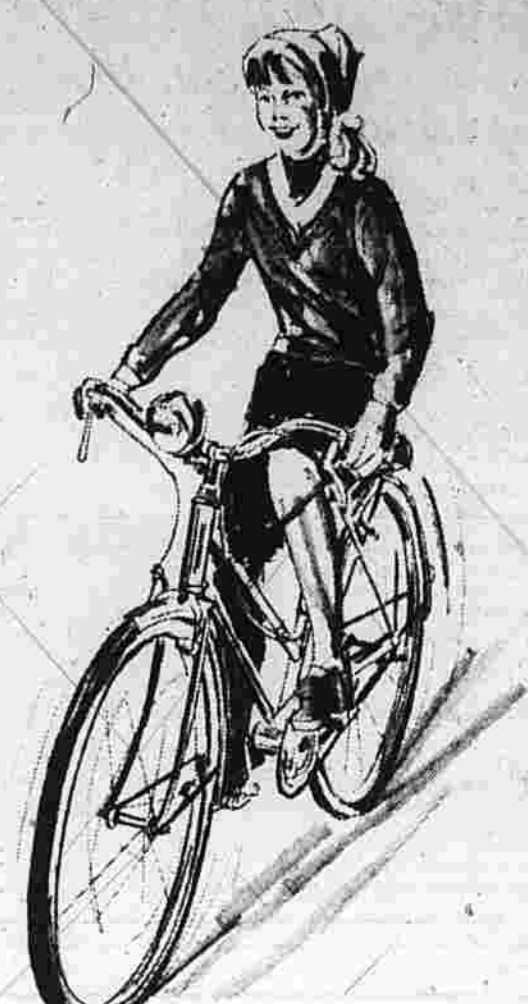

The increasing incidents of bicyclists either having accidents or narrowly missing having accidents as they ride in the Town of Manchester has become a safety problem for the residents who travel about by automobile or by foot.

The main fault lies with the lack of education that the bicyclist must obey all of the vehicular laws of the State of Connecticut. The Public Safety Advisory Committee has been attempting to bring education on bicycle safety to our public school students up through the 8th grade. But until the parents are made aware that they are liable for their children's conduct on bicycles, I am afraid that we have not gotten the message across.

I have taken the initiative to inform the citizens of Manchester that in order to make our streets safe for all traffic, including bicyclists, I will instruct the police officers to give citations to all persons conducting themselves in an unsafe and illegal manner with any vehicle. The parents of minor children will be thus held responsible for such conduct of the children.

The safety of all persons in Manchester is a very serious business and as the Chief of Police, I take my job seriously in preventing accidents before they happen. I, therefore, ask all people to help in our effort and become aware of the rules of the road in regards to bicycling.

Signed: James M. Reardon

The Bible Speaks
by Eugene Brewer.
In a recent issue of Christianity Today, a writer deals with a dilemma long plaguing Christendom. It is the tension between fidelity to the Scriptures and love for fellowmen. How far will one's loyalty to God's Word allow him to suffer his fellowmen to veer from the Bible without drawing a line of Christian fellowship?
As the foregoing writer points out: "...the purifiers who are weak on love and the utilitarians who are weak on faithfulness are wreaking havoc with the image of God seen by the lost world." It is tragic to make personal preferences into tests of fellowship; but it is equally deplorable to lamely tolerate false doctrine on the erroneous assumption that love requires it.
When one negotiates where the Bible clearly has legislated, he vacates the basis for logical rejection of any teaching as un-Christian.

Goals in Sports as in Life

"You have got to have goals in sports, just like in life. ... You can't be content to be average. Guys who were just average in sports you will find are just about average in life."

The former East Catholic High football coach, now in his 11th year on the UConn staff, added that football players at UConn get better grades during the season.

"Boys your age are super," Baylock continued and the young griders' attention flicked.

"You can say you are athletes, but you have got to show me," he added. "We must sacrifice individual talents. No one is more important than a team. You must earn the respect of those around you. Respect is not handed out, it's earned."

Dave Wigin, Manchester High director of athletics, who headed up the program, summed up Baylock like this. "He's genuine and a believer in people."

The tall former New Britain High and Central Connecticut State College athlete is just that in addition to being the top recruiter on the UConn sports staff.

"As I have said in print before, if I was starting an athletic program, the first man that I would approach to head it up would be Andy Baylock. He's got a lot on the ball and is without question one of the biggest assets the UConn athletic staff can boast."

Notes Off the Cuff

The tennis bug has got to Ron Keuch, former minor league catcher and ex-varsity baseball coach at Rockville High.

The local man is still one of the best golfers in the Manchester Country Club membership.

Alex Hackney, Country Club pro, reports several top-flight new men are in the membership this season including Bill King, Dick Cronin, Mike Rothman and Dave Kaye.

King, a member years ago, had been playing regularly in Florida and Cleveland in recent seasons.

Remember the days when the Manchester Country Club had two tennis courts and hardly anyone ever used them?

The courts were torn up and a swimming pool built on the site. A number of members are now anxious to have tennis courts installed on club property once again.

Celtics' One-Two Offensive Punch, Cowens, Havlicek Just Too Much

BOSTON (UPI) — Where would the Boston Celtics be without Dave Cowens and John Havlicek?

Nobody knows, but the Milwaukee Bucks sure would like to find out.

Cowens and Havlicek almost took the Bucks apart by themselves Friday night as the Celtics pressed and harried Milwaukee into costly mistakes for a 95-83 victory and a 2-1 lead in their NBA championship series.

Cowens and Havlicek keyed a first-quarter blitz of the Bucks which all but finished the game. Cowens scored nine of his game-high 30 points in the period and Havlicek, who had 28, scored eight as Boston raced to a 22-13 lead.

The two combined again in the third quarter for all but two of the Celtics' 26 points, with Havlicek picking up 10 and Cowens 14 points. Henry Finkel, who played most of the second quarter after Cowens picked up his third foul, had 18 points in the period.

Finkel, who had been used sparingly in the playoffs, turned in a fine second-period performance with six points and three rebounds, outrebounding and outscoring Kareem Abdul-Jabbar.

"Finkel did a helluva job," coach Tom Heinsohn said. "When Dave went out, we didn't know what Hank would do." Havlicek said, "but he hit the outside shot and kept our offense alive."

The Celtics opened the game — as they have the past two against Milwaukee — with a tight full-court press. The press forced the Bucks into 11 turnovers, good for 16 Boston points, as the Celtics led by as much as 21.

"It was the press and everybody hustling on the press. It was a super defense," Heinsohn said.

Bucks coach Larry Costello cited his team's 17 turnovers in the first half as the key to the loss. "There's no question but that was the difference," he said. "There's no way we can win playing like that."

The two teams meet again in Boston Sunday.

"It makes them look sensational, but I don't think they're playing that great. We're making them look good," he said.

"The Celtics' strategy of pressing and playing Cowens outside to draw Abdul-Jabbar away from the basket appeared to work perfectly. The Bucks could not handle the Celtics' outside shooting in the first period and simply got tired in the late stages of the game. Abdul-Jabbar led the puntless Bucks with 26 points.

"I think they were tired in the third and fourth quarters. They missed some easy shots and that's when you can tell the pressure is getting to them," said Don Chaney, who combined with Jo White to hold Milwaukee's Oscar Robertson to six points in the first half.

"It was a typical Celtics game," Heinsohn said. "Everybody had to contribute and everyone did contribute."

The two teams meet again in Boston Sunday.

Likely Opening Starter

Ex-Big Leaguer With Moriarty's

By Earl Yost

When Moriarty Brothers launch their Hartford Twilight League baseball team in Mt. Nebo on Tuesday night, June 2 the likely starting pitcher will be Gary Waslewski.

The much-traveled tall righthander had several stops in the major leagues including New York, Boston and Oakland in the American League and St. Louis and Montreal in the National League.

Now out of organized ball and living in his native Connecticut, Waslewski has informed Manager Gene Johnson of the MB's that he'll take his regular turn on the mound.

"Unless something comes up that we don't know about, Gary will pitch our opener at Nebo," Johnson said.

Once again the Gas House Gang will be loaded with former pro players in addition to Johnson, Bob Carlson, Leo Veleas, Pete Sala and Lev Spencer.

The biggest addition will be Mike McDonald, a fine catcher.

Back again will be Jim Balesano, a home-town product, who was named the league's most valuable player last summer.

The versatile Balesano is at home at any one of eight starting positions — all but behind the plate.

Any local player wishing a tryout may contact Johnson at Moriarty's.

THREE STRAIGHT TENNIS WINS FOR EC GIRLS

Three straight victories have now been tallied by the East Catholic High girls' tennis team this season. The latest victim was South Windsor Thursday afternoon.

Results: Singles - Robidoux (E) def. Ostrowski (SW) 6-3, 6-0; Phelan (EC) def. Goodwin (SW) 6-2, 6-4; Anderson (EC) def. McCormick (SW) 6-3, 6-1; White (EC) def. Martin (SW) 6-0, 6-0. East doubles teams of Robidoux-Phelan, Anderson-White and Furlong-Leonard each swept their matches in straight sets.

PHILADELPHIA (UPI) — The New York Yankees and the Philadelphia Phillies Friday night swapped pitchers Mike Wallace and Ken Wright in a winner-take-all duel.

The Phils had signed Wallace, a 23-year-old leftfielder, with a 1-0 record outright to the Yankees Syracuse Chiefs farm club. The Yankees in turn assigned Wright to the Philadelphia Toledo Mud Hens farm club.

NET SEMIFINALS

MONTREAL (UPI) — Defending champion Bob Lutz and Stan Smith face Australians John Newcombe and Owen Davidson in the semifinals tonight of the 1960 Rothmans World Tennis Championships.

In the other semifinal match, American Arthur Ashe and Roscoe Tanner take-on the strong South African pair of Fred McMillan and Bob Hewitt.

"I do believe the ingredients are here for this franchise," said Maravich. "If the people do support it and give it patience. I think we can bring exciting professional basketball to this state and to this community."

He said he felt the American Basketball Association's New Orleans Buccaneers folded a few years ago because it did not have the right ingredients.

Rosenfeld said the negotiations with Atlanta began about a month ago.

"It was easier than we expected," he said. "There was an immediate understanding of one another's needs."

Anything But Spellbound were the Celts and Bucks Last Night. Finkel, Abdul-Jabbar, Dandridge, Nelson, Robertson and Davis Watch Ball at Boston.

Yankees Get Gift Win On Pair of Hit Batters

KANSAS CITY, Mo. (UPI) — Joe Hoerner made an outright gift of a game Friday night to the New York Yankees.

As Kansas City Manager Jack McKeon said. "That's the first time I ever lost a game by hitting two guys in a row." That's exactly what Hoerner did.

With two out and two on in a 4-4 game in the seventh inning, Hoerner worked the count to 3-2 on Ron Blomberg, who hit him on the hip. On the very next pitch, he ricocheted one off Graig Nettles' back to force in the winning run.

"It just goes to show," said a chastened Hoerner, "when you're going bad, you can always find somebody to contribute to it. And I definitely contributed tonight."

The 54-year-old Yankee pitcher was their third in a row and their fourth in the last five games. The Royals lost for the fifth straight time.

"I don't understand it," said the left-handed reliever. "I felt super. I made some good pitches to Blomberg and he fouled off two or three. I was just trying to throw it right down the middle and hoping that he hit it at somebody."

"I was saying, 'Here it is' and it wasn't even close. I was throwing the ball good, then all of a sudden I hit two guys in a row."

Nettles, who also stroked a two-run double in the first, picked him off, killing Kansas City's lead. "That's a result of Hoerner's pitch."

"You can say I wasn't expecting that," he said. "Nettles also was responsible for shutting off a Royals' threat in the seventh. Hal McRae doubled with one out and took third on a deep fly. But catcher Thurman Munson picked him off, killing Kansas City's last chance."

"McRae was taking a pretty good lead," said Mutschers. "Graig saw it and singled. He had taken a pretty good lead off second, too, and I was pretty leary of him."

Munson's throw was on the mound and McRae was an easy out.

"McKeon wasn't in a good humor after the loss."

"Whatever I say sounds like a bunch of alibis," he said. "But we're gonna get our share of the breaks one of these days. We find a different way to lose every night."

Table with 4 columns: Team, W, L, Pct, GB. Includes American League East, West, and National League East, West.

Major League Leaders table with columns for Player, Team, and various statistics.

American League Roundup: Wood solves problems using Allen's videotape. Chicago wrapped it up with seven runs in the third inning while beating Clyde Wright. Brian Downing's three-run homer was the key blast of the inning.

Home Run: Horton's three-run homer in the sixth inning paced the Tigers to a 4-3 triumph over the Twins. Horton's sixth homer scored Mickey Stanley and Bill Slayback, who singled. Slayback went six innings to get the win and John Hiller got the save.

Angels 2, Orioles 0: Young Frank Tanana allowed only three hits for 8 2/3 innings but needed help from two relievers to give California the victory over Baltimore. Tanana was lifted after he gave up a walk and a single in the ninth and had a 2-0 count to Brooks Robinson. Dick Selma came on to complete the walk to Robinson but Rudy may return Eds Cabell for the final out.

Bassett, Thomas Duel for Pin Title

Finalists for the first time, Bob Bassett and Ken Thomas will battle for the Town 10-Pin Bowling Tournament championship in the Men's Scratch Division Sunday afternoon at the Parkade Lanes. Rolling starts at 1 o'clock.

Also at stake will be the titles in the Men's and Women's Handicap Divisions. Sally Granato will place her crown on the line against challenger Sandy Dezzette while Larry Briggs and Ed Brennan will vie for the men's handicap laurels.

All matches will be best of five.

Thomas posted the fourth best qualifying score after topping the field a year ago. Bassett was second to Leo Nelson in the 1974 qualifying, Nelson was ousted in the semifinals Tuesday night.

Going into the title match, Bassett boasts a 194.2 average in quarterfinal and semifinal play. Thomas averaged 185 for his two head-to-head tests. Earlier this season in a South Windsor League, Thomas rolled a perfect 300 game.

His public is invited.

Soccer Exhibition Today Starts at 5

Professional soccer will be unveiled this afternoon when the highly touted Connecticut Wildcats step out against the Connecticut Senior All-Stars in a benefit exhibition at Memorial Field starting at 5 o'clock.

The game was arranged through the efforts of Manchester Mayor John Thompson.

Proceeds will go to the Manchester midwest soccer program and the Manchester High Athletic Department.

Tickets at $2 a copy will be available at the gate.

This will be the Wildcats final tuneup before opening American Soccer League play following Saturday at Dillon Stadium in Hartford against Syracuse.

Player-coach Rene Koreman will field his regular squad against the American selections, Tim Hunter and Franz Innocent, Fitzgerald, Matton Stet.

STUFFED BEEF MENU FOR SPORTS NIGHT

Roast beef will be the main course on the menu Friday night for the first annual Army & Navy Club Sports Night at the clubhouse.

Principal speaker will be Ron Johnson, star running back of the New York Giants.

Dinner will be served at 8 o'clock. Tickets are available at the club.

STAFFORD SPEEDWAY

Bugs Stevens, the winner of the Stuffer Sizzler April 7, is the man to beat tonight, when Stafford Speedway reopens for the 1974 season.

It will be Permatex Night in honor of that company's contribution to the Stafford Drivers and Owners Point Fund. It will be the third year Stafford has honored both owners and drivers and it remains one of the most popular NASCAR sanctioned tracks.

Ron Bouchard, defending champion and runner-up in the Sizzler, and Fred Decker, whose Sizzler hopes were dashed by a first lap crash, will be out to do just that in the 30-lap NASCAR modified feature. Action starts at 8 o'clock.

RIVERSIDE SPEEDWAY

The Massachusetts-Connecticut battle for supremacy is a 22 deadlock after the April warfare in the modified stock car competition at Riverside Park Speedway.

The knot will be untied tonight as the drivers shoot for the points and prizes in the 50-lap main event. Post time is 8 and following the modifieds will be the usual wild skirmish of the feature.

Los Babone of Holyoke and Jack Lecuyer of Springfield are the Bay Staters who own feature victories. The Connecticut winners have been Jim Cash of Prospect and Ron Wyckoff of Southington.

There will be three Saturday 50-lappers before the second 100-lap marathon of the season comes up on May 25.

EVERETT LOSES

One of the Fighting Everests, Ronnie lost a three-round decision in the Lowell, Mass. Silver Mittens Tournament last night. Dave Ramallo of Lowell got the duke. Steve Everett won the strong South African pair of Fred McMillan and Bob Hewitt.

Also today, Manchester Community College hosted Newwalk Community College at Mt. Nebo in the home finals. Play started at 11 o'clock.

Tonight, East Catholic High returns to Middletown to face Xavier High at Palmer Field 8:30.

Posey Car In Mishap

LIME ROCK (UPI) — Peter Gregg of Jacksonville, Fla., posted the best qualifying time of 93.785 miles per hour Friday for Saturday's 200-mile Trans-Am event.

Gregg took his Porsche Carrera to the top time on the 1.53-mile Lime Rock circuit, besting a Chevrolet Camaro driven by Carl Shafer of Wyoming, Ill., who was timed in 93.166 mph.

Top race favorite Sam Posey of nearby Sharon, Conn., was involved in an accident after posting the fourth fastest qualifying time. Posey suffered brake failure and heavily struck an earthen embankment which rolled the car three times. He was uninjured and will compete Saturday if his car can be repaired in time.

Elliott Forbes-Roberts of La Canada, Calif., posted a speed of 95.658 mph. hour, nosing Tom Reddy of Bronxville, N.Y., to capture the pole position for Saturday's 1.2-mile VW Golf Cup Series race.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE WITH MAJOR HOOPLE

WIN AT BRIDGE

'No-fault' covers North-South. The bidding has been: West North East South...

As for the final contract, it had to be a good one. If East had bid 3NT, I would have finally played a low bid, but the slam would have gone up with his king.

We also have no criticism of South's play. Almost any one would have played the jack. We do want to commend East. It takes a really good player to see the need to duck when the spade is led at him and to duck quickly enough so as not to give away the location of the ace.

The bidding of the hand strikes us as quite good. Certainly, North should be interested in a slam after South's jump to two spades to show a 19- or 20-point hand. We assume that North's bid of four clubs was made with the intention of finding out if South really had a club suit.

Fire Calls
The Manchester Fire Department was called late this morning to the parking lot of the Sanitary Refuse Co. on Perrett Pl. due to the spillage of over 60 gallons of gas from the company's gas pump. The pump had a malfunction, according to the fire department. The firemen washed the gas away and treated the ground to reduce the fire hazard.

Another gas "wash down" was reported Friday about 9:43 p.m. at the corner of Spruce and Bissell Sts. by the fire department.

Local Man Arrested In Thefts

Brian McAuley, 20, of 186 New State Rd. was charged in a Superior Court bench warrant served Friday with embezzling nearly $25,000 from the Hartford Insurance Group.

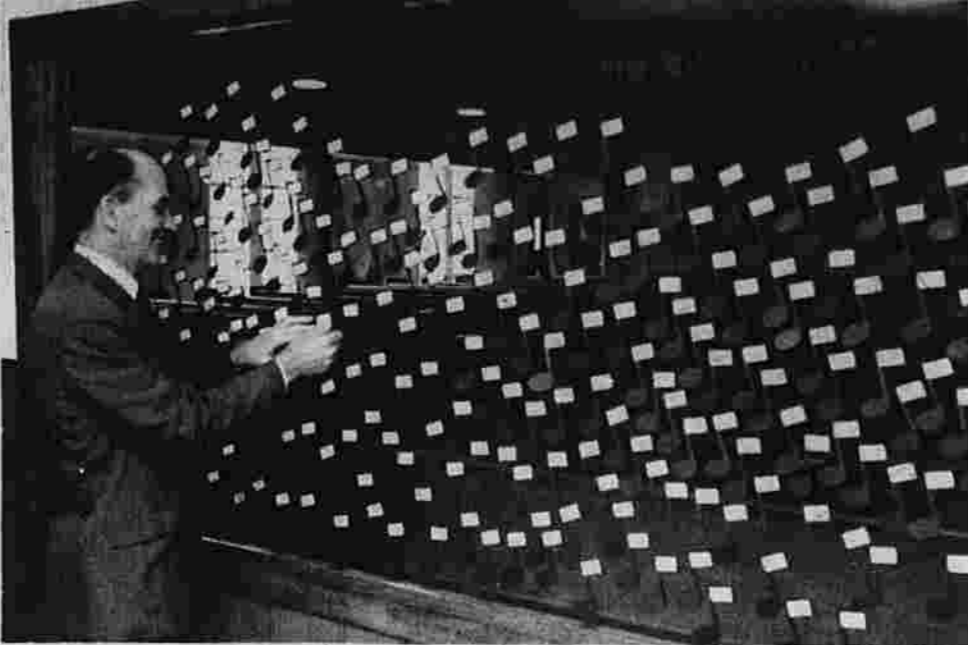

McAuley reportedly was a clerk employed with the insurance company.

The warrant charged him with three counts each of first-degree larceny and first-degree forgery. Authorities said McAuley actually obtained $26,223, mostly by filing false applications for loans on life insurance policies and then forging clients' names on the loan checks.

The largest case involved $9,623 taken against the life insurance policy of a man who died in 1954, the bench warrant says.

Authorities said the Hartford Insurance Group was paid back about $14,000 of the money, including the value of a 1974 Lincoln Continental automobile McAuley assigned to the Hartford Group.

McAuley posted $1,000 bond pending a May 15 appearance in Hartford County Superior Court.

10th Year in Present Building

The Church of Christ Sunday will mark the 10th anniversary of the move into its new building at Lydall and Vernon Sts.

The anniversary will be observed by the culmination of an attendance drive that began a month ago. An effort is being made to attain attendance goals set for both the 9 a.m. Sunday School classes and for the 10 a.m. worship service.

The theme of the attendance drive is "Attend To Be Noted." For each person committed to attend on Sunday, a silhouetted musical note with his name has been mounted on a display in the church foyer. In addition, smaller notes have been worn by members to promote the occasion.

A hymnsing is scheduled for 3 p.m. This is a monthly event among Churches of Christ in Connecticut, being hosted by various congregations in turn. After the hymnsing, there will be a period of fellowship with refreshments served by the women of the church.

The public is invited to any or all of the day's activities.

About Town

A car wash will be conducted Sunday from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. at Dec's Drive-in on Center St. by Lenny Gauba and Brian Young. All proceeds will benefit the Organization of the Handicapped. The fee is $1 per car.

The annual meeting and potluck of the Episcopal Churchwomen of St. Mary's Church will be May 13 and not Monday as reported in Friday's Herald.

The conservation and safety committee of Manchester Junior Women's Club will meet Monday at 10 a.m. at the home of Mrs. John Hanley, 5 Hawley St.

Steele Urges Participation As Cure to Government Ills

BARBARA RICHMOND
Admitting that the national mood is not a very cheerful one, Republican Congressman Robert Steele of Vernon, speaking to the Greater Vernon Board of Realtors Friday outlined what is going on in Washington and the rest of the country and what he feels should be done to improve things.

"In addition to all of our continuing problems, such as pollution, crime, drugs, poverty, racial injustice...we have the Watergate scandal, a pending vote on the impeachment of the President, a serious energy problem...record breaking food prices, shortages of everything from wheat to plastics, and a spattering economy," he said.

He blamed the Watergate affair for depressing the national spirit and creating the disillusionment with the political system. He cited some of the recent headlines appearing in newspapers. They concerned impeachment, high prices, crime, business slumps, and kidnappings.

He said all of these problems together have created a degree of frustration and discontent with government "that we probably have not seen in America since the 1930's."

"There is an unmistakable feeling abroad in the land that government is losing control; that there is a lack of effective leadership at all levels of government; and that government just can't seem to get things together any more," Steele commented.

He cited the need to take a look at ways that the nation's spirit and the public attitude toward government can be improved.

"We must begin by putting today's problems in perspective," he said noting that this is not the only year the country has faced a flood of problems which the government or the society has seemed unable to solve.

He listed problems that made the headlines the past two years...skyjackings, the oil embargo, POW's, war in the Middle East, and the deflation of the dollar.

"What all of these problems have in common is that they have been solved or dealt with in a reasonably effective way," Steele explained.

He said there was not one case of skyjacking in the United States in 1973; "we have extricated ourselves from Vietnam; we obtained the release of our prisoners of war; the strength of the U. S. dollar has increased greatly; U. S. diplomacy succeeded in obtaining a cease-fire in the Middle East; and an end to the oil boycott has been obtained."

Citing other accomplishments such as ending the draft, work to conquer cancer and many others, Steele said it was by no means a comprehensive list of what government has accomplished in the past couple of years. He said rather it is meant to provide some perspective to today's problems by illustrating the nation's ability to deal with them.

"But problems do not solve themselves, people solve them. And if we are to meet the problems that lie ahead, we must have greater citizen participation in the affairs of government," he said.

Urging the public to become more involved in the governmental process, Steele said, "Nothing gives one a better appreciation of the strengths and weaknesses and the successes and failures of government than participation in government."

He expressed concern that many Americans are, because of Watergate, jumping to the conclusion that all politics is a dirty game and that most politicians are corrupt.

"If this belief continues to spread, our two-party system and our democratic form of government will be deeply in trouble," he cautioned.

Steele, who is seeking the Republican nomination for Governor of Connecticut, in his announcement speech called for reforming campaign practices and said he would not accept more than $100 from any individual or organization, will have no dummy front organizations, and will report on his finances once a month.

"If we are to prevent future Watergates we must begin by reforming the campaign practices which made Watergate possible and that means purging our electoral system of the corrupting influence of too much money and too little regulation," he said.

Steele has introduced, in Congress, The Clean Elections Act which would establish a new and independent Federal Election Commission with full

FitzGerald Asks For Lobby Probe

The attorney for the Committee for the Preservation of Coventry is seeking an investigation by state authorities and the Internal Revenue Service of alleged illegal lobbying activities of Peter Libassi, president of Greater Hartford Process-DevCo.

Devco is attempting to build a planned community in northern Coventry for as many as 20,000 people. The preservation committee is trying to prevent the community.

The committee's attorney, John R. FitzGerald of Manchester, wrote Thursday to Robert K. Killian, state attorney general, requesting an investigation to determine whether illegal lobbying work was done as reported in recent news articles. The articles covered the new town referendum bill which would have prevented the DevCo community without approval by town referendums. The bill was defeated and articles in area newspapers said Libassi lobbied against the bill.

FitzGerald also wrote to Mrs. Gloria Schaffer, secretary of state, requesting she take "appropriate sanctions should you determine that an unregistered person has engaged in lobbying activities."

He also wrote to John D. LaBelle, state's attorney for Hartford County, requesting his office look into the matter "to determine whether any criminal violations have occurred."

LaBelle is the DevCo attorney in the new town matter.

In FitzGerald's fourth letter, he requests the Internal Revenue Service "investigate the tax status of both Greater Hartford Process and DevCo in view of these reports in the public press concerning apparently illegal lobbying activities by nonprofit and tax exempt organizations."

Tolland Joslin Would Cut Hike in Taxes

VIVIAN KENNESON
Correspondent
Selectman Stewart Joslin said Friday that in reviewing the budget detail approved by the Board of Selectmen last week he, "has found several significant adjustments that will reduce the required mill rate from 53 to 50. This reduced mill rate will represent an increase of 5 mills over 1973-74 rather than 8 mills previously considered necessary" Joslin says.

He says, "These adjustments relate to the revenue side of the budget only. Citing the growing opposition to the budget by both those who believe it to be too high and those that believe it to be too low, he adds that he hopes verification of these adjustments will place those that were against an increase of 8 mills. By the same token, he hopes that those that are considering the rejection of the budget in order to obtain an increased appropriation will reconsider this move."

Joslin did not specify what revenue adjustments he is referring to.

He said that "rejection will not guarantee that a revised budget would be significantly changed. I, for one, would favor resubmission of essentially the same budget to another budget meeting," he said.

He says the amount of money provided for both the Board of Education and the general town government in the proposed budget represents a significant increase over the current year's budget and should provide for improvements in both systems, well beyond the loss due to inflation, and further that regardless of the resulting mill rate it represents, the appropriate level of spending for the year."

Let's Visit an Acting School for Talented Dolphins

The dolphin schoolrooms are rows of pools with a pair of dolphins in each pool. The bottle-nosed dolphin is the type that is trained to do tricks such as jumping through hoops. These dolphins can do about 25 tricks and their show will last for around 17 minutes. They usually put on six shows a day. Photo courtesy Charlotte News.

Would you believe a school with 24 dolphin students, all studying to take leading roles in dolphin shows throughout the country? Quinland's Dolphin School, outside of Charlotte, North Carolina, is the only one of its kind.

The dolphin schoolhouse is a long building. The school rooms are round pools of water with a pair of dolphins in each pool. Each dolphin has a real name, but when show time comes, they take on their show names of "Skipper" or "Dolly."

The school day begins with breakfast at 8 o'clock. There are six rehearsals a day, each lasting for around 40 minutes each. Between rehearsals, the hardworking dolphins get a 30-minute recess.

The dolphin school year starts in November and ends in early April. This schedule keeps the dolphins in school during the cold winter months. In the warmer months, the stars will perform in amusement parks around the country.

A Dolphin Interview

by Minnie Page
(a real news hound)

Q. How are you trained?

Skipper: "Using a tasty fish as a guide, the trainers lead us through a trick. When we do the trick right, we get a fish. The trainers use hand signals we can see. They also call out commands we can hear. They try to make training fun. We love to do tricks."

Q. Tell us about your trainers.

Dolly: "We usually have the same trainers all the time and they travel with us to the amusement parks. We feel that they are our buddies and we learn to trust them. All the trainers at the school use the the same commands. If necessary, a new trainer can take over and we'll still know what to do."

"Trainers must have a lot of patience. We are in the water and they aren't, so it's hard to discipline us."

Q. How do you travel?

Skipper: "We can stay out of the water as long as 30 hours, if our skin is kept moist. We are carried in special vans with sprinkler systems."

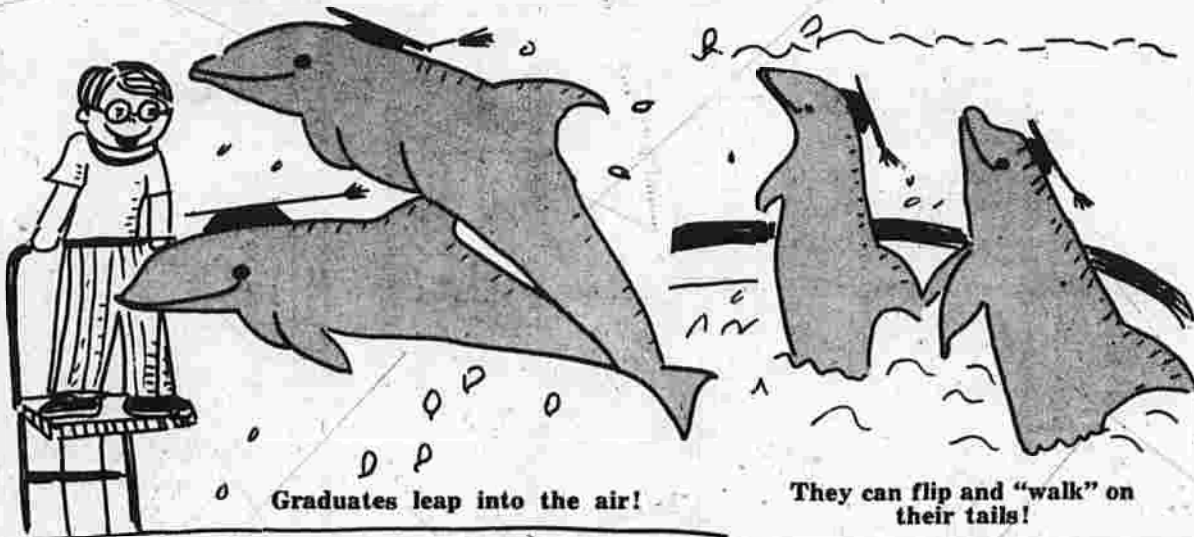

Hello, Dolly!

Q. When did you come here?

Dolly: "Most of us were brought here straight from the ocean when we were around two years old. It takes time for us to learn to trust humans. We must be treated with love or we will not perform. We also have to get used to eating fish that has been frozen, instead of live fish. We eat about 15 pounds of fish a day."

If you see a performing dolphin this summer, it might be Skipper or Dolly, one of the graduates from this most unusual school!

Graduates leap into the air!

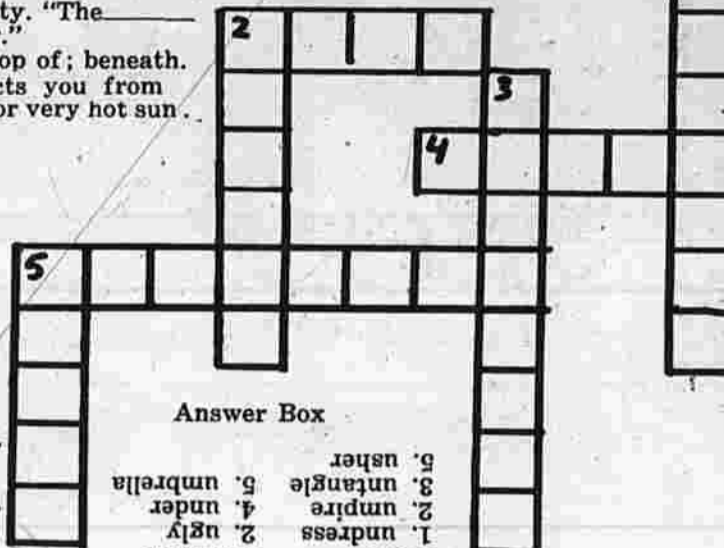

They can flip and "walk" on their tails!

Jigsaw Puzzles

Jigsaw puzzles were invented over 200 years ago.

A printer named John Spilsbury put a map on wood. Then he used a jigsaw to cut it into sections. This was then used to teach children geography.

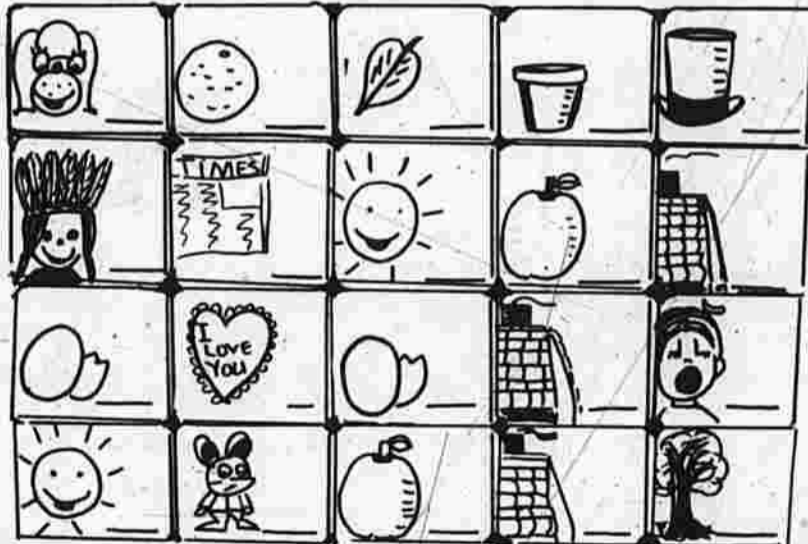

Today, most jigsaw puzzles are made of cardboard and cut into pieces by machine.

Puzzles for adults and children are popular today. Perhaps the largest puzzle was a specially made one of a West Point scene. It had 10,000 pieces and was about five feet by six feet in size.

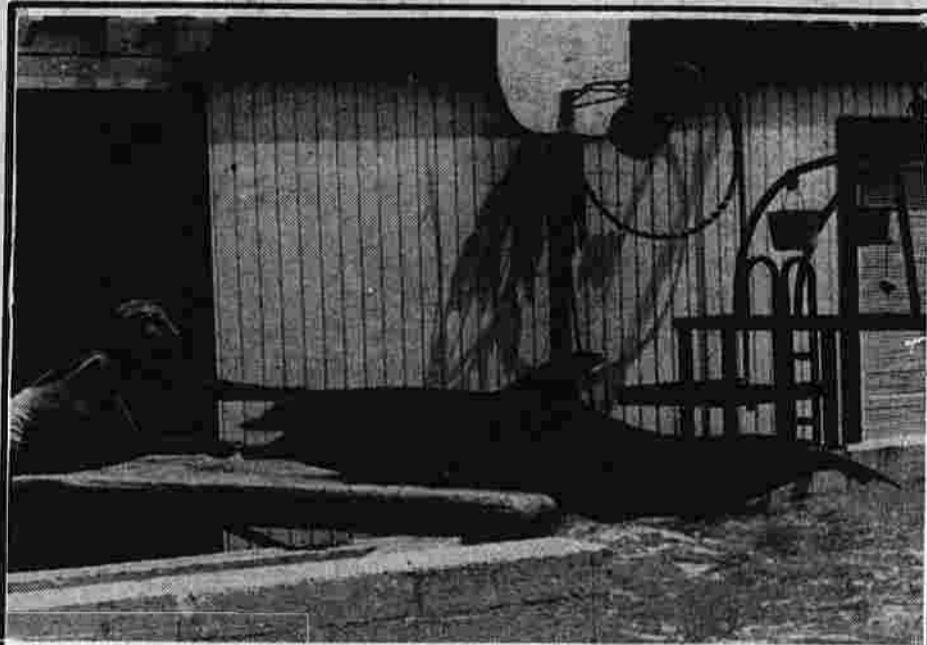

True or False

Read the first page and the story on this page. Write down the beginning letter of each picture in each block. See if what it says is true or false.

Answer: TRUE Dolphins are smart.

DEBNAM

Some bottlenosed dolphins are trained to flip out of the water onto a stretcher. Notice the basketball goal in the background. They also enjoy this game. A porpoise is not trained to do tricks.

Dolphin or Porpoise?

It's hard to tell a dolphin from a porpoise. One way is to open their mouths and peep inside. If you see pointed, cone shaped teeth, it's a dolphin. If you see spade shaped, flattened teeth, it's a porpoise.

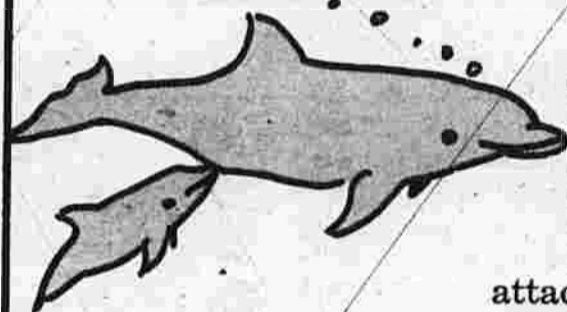

Usually, a dolphin's snout is long and beaklike. The porpoise snout is short and blunt.

A dolphin is friendly, while a porpoise is shy, nervous, and hard to capture.

The show performer you see flipping around doing tricks is the bottlenose dolphin, not the porpoise. Few porpoises have survived for any length of time in this country.

Both dolphins and porpoises have "blowholes" and must come up for air. Dolphins can make sounds through their "blowholes." Some have been reported to the mimic the human voice!

Bottlenosed Dolphins

Bottlenosed dolphins are said to be as intelligent as dogs. They could be as smart as chimps. They have feelings and can become very attached to one another.

Dolphins have "sonar." They make sounds man cannot hear. The returning sound makes an echo. This is called "echo-location." Even blindfolded dolphins don't bump into things.

The baby dolphin is born tail first. When the baby is about to be born, the mother picks another female or "aunt" to help her. For a few weeks, the females swim side by side, with the baby in between.

The baby gets milk from glands near the mother's tail. The mother squirts milk into the baby's mouth.

Super Sport: Kyle Rote, Jr.

In a recent "Superstars" sports event, 23-year old Kyle Rote, Jr., shone the brightest. He finished first in tennis, swimming, and bowling, second in golf and bicycling, next to last in the half-mile run and last in baseball hitting. His total score earned him a top prize of $50,000. He was competing against such superstars as O. J. Simpson, Pete Rose and Franco Harris. Kyle plays professional soccer for the Dallas Tornado team. His father, Kyle Rote, Sr., was an outstanding pro football player with SMU and the New York Giants. Kyle, Jr., is studying Theology. He gave much of his earnings from the Superstars contest to charity.

Mini Do: Butterfly Mosaic

What you'll need:

- construction paper scraps
- light blue construction paper, size 12"x18"
- black construction paper, size 9"x6"
- scissors and glue

What to do:

1. Cut the butterfly body out of black paper. Cut out the antennae.
2. Draw butterfly wings on the blue paper.
3. Cut or tear construction paper scraps of many different colors and paste them on the butterfly shape. Try to make the pattern match on each wing. You can use colored tissue paper also, if you wish.

Make sure you turn the water all the way off each time you use it. Wasting water is wasting money.
