Named as "World Mother of the Decade" was outgoing Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir, who will accept the award later this month at a Washington, D. C. luncheon.

Swedish-U.S. Breach Healing

By Phil Newsom UPI Foreign News Analyst

With an exchange of ambassadors, the United States and Sweden are about to close a breach which never should have occurred in the first place.

It began in 1968 and if it proved anything it was that governments are made up of human beings.

"Few people are so pro-American as the Swedes," said Swedish Premier Olof Palme, and American travelers in Sweden can bear witness to his words.

Yet it was Palme with an extraordinary lack of diplomatic tact who contributed most to the chill. And it was two American administrations under Lyndon B. Johnson and Richard Nixon, reacting with extraordinary harshness against an ordinarily friendly nation, that sustained it.

Speak on World Affairs It was the more extraordinary since criticism even more harsh than that leveled against U.S. policy in Vietnam by Palme also had been voiced not only by the Soviet Union and China, with whom the United States was seeking friendly relations, but also by another supposed ally, France.

In no case was American retaliation so severe. It was the late Harry S. Truman who warned those who couldn't stand the heat to stay out of the kitchen. Palme not only never was in the Vietnam kitchen, he also never had to take his heat. His position was that even though neutral, Sweden still had the right to speak out on world affairs.

In the case of Vietnam, it led him: On Feb. 21, 1968, while Swedish education minister to march with the North Vietnamese ambassador to Moscow in a torchlight protest against the war in Vietnam.

On Dec. 23, 1972, to issue a statement condemning the U.S. bombing of North Vietnam as an "outrage" comparable to Nazi atrocities in World War II.

Cambodia Bombing On other occasions, Swedish spokesmen condemned "discriminate" U.S. bombing in Cambodia, and, after the overthrow of the Marxist Allende government in Chile, attacked the military junta and criticized American policy.

School books distributed in Sweden pictured Russians dolls on the volume dealing with the Soviet Union. The book on the United States pictured black children behind a fence, suggesting segregation.

Adding to American irritation was asylum granted by Sweden to more than 400 American deserters and a Swedish announcement even before the war had ended that $40 million in reconstruction and other assistance would be made available to North Vietnam.

After Palme's march with the North Vietnamese ambassador in 1968, President Johnson called home the American ambassador, William Heath, and for a year the post was not filled. Palme's strongly expressed views in 1972 led Nixon to withhold an ambassador and to tell Sweden a Swedish envoy would not be welcome.

Perhaps a better measure of U.S.-Swedish relations is the fact that cultural and business relationships have continued strong.

Diplomatically, it is possible that both sides over-reacted.

Committee Gets 'Book 1' Of Impeachment Case

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Only one day into its impeachment hearings, the House Judiciary Committee has been told that President Nixon may have been more intimately involved in Watergate than he ever has acknowledged.

The inference that Nixon had at least general knowledge of the Republicans' illegal plot to conduct espionage against the Democrats came behind closed doors from John M. Doar, the committee's chief impeachment counsel.

Metaphorically — in a session characterized later by Rep. Hamilton Fish Jr., R-N.Y., as "sober" — Doar read from a thick, black looseleaf notebook called "Book 1."

He presented evidence for two and a half hours to the first congressional hearing in 106 years into the possible impeachment of a president.

The event itself was undramatic.

But the hearing became one more source of pressure on a besieged Nixon.

On the hearings in Illinois Vice President Gerald R. Ford no longer claimed he could find no evidence of presidential wrongdoing in Nixon's Watergate transcripts.

And in Congress Republican leaders did not shy from discussing the consequences — on the party and the nation — of a presidential resignation.

In the high-ceilinged Judiciary Committee hearing room, Doar focused attention on events which occurred in the Oval Office before the June 17, 1972, Watergate break-in.

On March 30, 1972, Jeb Stuart Magruder, then running the Committee to Re-elect the President, met with John N. Mitchell at Key Biscayne, Fla.

Magruder testified later that Mitchell at that meeting approved a modified version of G. Gordon Liddy's "intelligence gathering plan."

Magruder then met with H. R. Haldeman, White House chief of staff, upon his return to Washington.

On April 4, Nixon met first with Haldeman, then with Mitchell, then again with Haldeman.

Three congressmen said Doar indicated Nixon might have been told of the Liddy plan — but not of plans for the actual Watergate break-in — at that time.

Nixon always has insisted he had no prior knowledge of the break-in.

The committee now may subpoena the April 4 tape — one that it already has requested. The White House said Tuesday it would give the committee no more Watergate evidence, feeling the panel has "the full story."

"We've got to get that tape," said one member after hearing Doar.

"It would determine whether the President was involved, it would reflect on presidential awareness," said another.

Said a third: "In my opinion, if Haldeman had conversations with the people who were putting together the intelligence gathering operation, and then Haldeman goes in to talk to the President, then there must be an inference that the President had prior knowledge."

Committee Chairman Peter W. Rodino Jr., at a briefing after the closed hearing, said the committee might discuss subpoenas next week.

Some members feel Nixon should be subpoenaed and cited for contempt of Congress if he refuses to comply. His refusal could be treated as grounds for impeachment, they say.

Over the objections of Rep. John Conyers Jr., D-Mich., the committee voted 31-8 to close the session to television and press coverage. Rodino said closed sessions were necessary because the evidence "may tend to defame, degrade or discriminate" some persons. He ordered the TV cameras wheeled out.

James D. St. Clair, Nixon's chief lawyer, was admitted but warned that he could convey what he hears in the committee room to only one outsider — Richard M. Nixon.

Congratulated

Mrs. Clifford (Jean) Sullivan, supervisor at the Manchester Sheltered Workshop, receives congratulations from members of the Manchester Association for Retarded Citizens, Inc. as she was cited for 10 years of devoted service to the association. MARC Honors Mrs. Sullivan

By BETTY RYDER

It was a surprised and speechless Mrs. Clifford Sullivan who received a standing ovation Thursday night when the Manchester Association for Retarded Citizens, Inc. honored her for 10 years of devoted service as an employee of the association's Lincoln Center.

Mrs. John R. McElraevy, MARC president, presiding over the 22nd annual meeting at the Lincoln Center in East Hartford, cited Mrs. Sullivan for "her untiring efforts in behalf of the association."

Mrs. Sullivan, who has been employed as a supervisor at the Manchester Sheltered Workshop.

Keynote speaker Norman Fendell, Mrs. Sullivan's boss, offered his congratulations.

Fendell, who is also special education director for the Manchester school system, in addressing the membership, said that the time when we focus on the progress of our present programs and prospects for the future. Our association continues to serve the retarded of all ages.

"Information and referral services have been made available to parents — literature on mental retardation is available at Lincoln Center," Fendell noted, "and speakers at general meetings have discussed social security provisions for the handicapped children with emotional problems and other facets of special education."

Citing the McElraevys for their "dynamic leadership," Fendell said, "Parents and the community were mobilized for the gigantic task of renovating Lincoln Center. The result, 53 clients enjoy the surroundings of a first-class facility."

Commenting on the effect the closing of Iona Manufacturing Co. had on the work at the workshop, Fendell said the closing of the factory is indicative of a nationwide trend, and that automation is rapidly eliminating the traditional jobs done by hand and the challenge is to develop in new areas.

Along these lines he said, "We (the workshop) have been collecting wire coat hangers which are used again by laundering establishments. We also furnish cleaning rags to service and industrial establishments in the area."

Recognized by the executive director for their dedication were members of his staff including Mrs. Sullivan, Irene Morrisette, Rox Dymick, Lisa Lockhart, Bob Lovett, Bob Lindey, and substitutes Rosina Claderwood and Kathy O'Connell.

"The Adult Education Program at the Workshop is sponsored by the adult evening division of the Manchester Board of Education. During the past year, Mrs. Jean Harrington, a special education teacher, was responsible for the program."

In-closing, Fendell said, "Manchester might be the first community in the nation to have a training center for the handicapped located on a community college campus. As proposed, the training center, estimated to cost $1.4 million, is to be located on land off Bidwell St. Gov. Thomas J. Meskill signed special legislation for this land to be (See Page Twelve)

Resignation Demands Increase

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Richard S. Schweiker of Pennsylvania joined a growing chorus of Republicans and former supporters of President Nixon in calling for his resignation today as a service to "your country and the presidency."

The White House insisted that the President intends to stick out his term and called on Americans to give him "due process" like any other citizen.

Schweiker made public a letter to Nixon in which he said transcripts of the President's Watergate conversations "reveal a total disregard for the moral and ethical values upon which this nation was built," and provided evidence of "obvious moral corrosion destroying and debasing the presidency."

Mideast Settlement Optimism Reported

TEL AVIV (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger held more than three hours of talks today with Egyptian President Anwar Sadat, then flew into Tel Aviv where there was increasing optimism for an early agreement with Syria to end the fighting in the Golan Heights.

Shortly after Kissinger left Cairo, Egyptian officials said they expected Kissinger to engage in "very intensified" talks over the next four days so. This implied Kissinger had hopes of achieving a Syrian-Israeli disengagement agreement before returning to Washington.

Deputy Israeli Prime Minister Yigal Allon said in the day expressed optimism that a Kissinger-engineered agreement was in sight but said his government will offer no more concessions to Syria. American officials with Kissinger have been less optimistic although admitting some progress.

"I would not be surprised if we reach a separation of forces agreement with the Syrians soon," Allon said before flying to London for talks with British Prime Minister Harold Wilson.

He said Israel had given Kissinger the line behind which Israel is ready to deploy and "I don't expect any possibility of changes in that line."

Oil Refinery Proposed In Long Island Sound

HARTFORD (UPI) — If the state of Connecticut will lease the land a Massachusetts firm says it will build a major oil refinery near the mouth of the Connecticut River.

PEPCO International, Inc. of North Chelmsford, said Thursday it can begin building immediately if the state leases 1,200 acres of Long Island Sound shoals about three miles off Cornfield Point in Saybrook.

The facility would be able to pump an estimated 400,000 barrels of refined petroleum products daily through underwater pipelines to the mainland. The firm would pay a $5 million royalty annually.

Gov. Thomas J. Meskill said Thursday that his executive aide Robert Leuba is examining the firm's offer. Leuba is head of the governor's task force on refineries.

Chairman of the board of PEPCO is Peter M. Calos of New Britain, well-known in the oil additives field. Olympic Refiners, Inc., owned by Greek shipping magnate Aristotle Onassis, is reportedly interested in operating the proposed facility.

Former State Environmental Protection Commissioner Dan Lufkin said his first reaction is that such a refinery at that location would be an "environmental disaster." Lufkin said he wanted to study the plan more before commenting further.

Bruce F. Wilcox, chief operating officer of PEPCO, said the firm would be willing to post a $250,000 environmental protection bond to be forfeited in the event of an oil spill.

Wilcox also said the firm would install a $2.5 million system to prevent spills at the refinery and along the pipelines.

Wilcox said the refinery would result in lower petroleum prices for Connecticut and guarantee steady supplies of gasoline and heating oil.

"Unless Connecticut takes decisive and quick action, it will find it is still totally dependent upon federal allocations and its commerce and industry will suffer accordingly," Wilcox said in a letter to Meskill.

Refinery potential, he said, is nearly 13 million gallons of product daily.

By the time the refinery would be ready to operate, he said, in 1977, oil would probably be coming from under water drilling.

Manchester's 'Mr. Basketball' Will Clarke, 80, Dies

Wilfred J. Clarke, retired basketball coach and physical education director at Manchester High School for 34 years, died Thursday morning at Doctors Hospital in Hollywood, Fla. He was 80.

Mr. Clarke had suffered a massive stroke a few days ago. He was hospitalized more than two years ago in Manchester after having suffered a heart attack.

Mr. Clarke retired in 1963 and in 1968 the gymnasium at the high school was named the Wilfred J. Clarke Arena in his honor.

He continued to live in Manchester during the spring and summer and wintered in Florida.

During his basketball regime at South Manchester and Manchester High Schools from the 1921-22 season through 1952-53, Clarke-coached teams won 323 games and lost 248 games. Red and White teams qualified for state tournaments 12 times during that period.

Clarke once said, "When tournaments first began in Connecticut, we had to play and beat three teams in one day — Middletown, Norwich and Meriden — just to get into the tournament."

Any good years Clarke had before the mid-1930s were just layers of the cake waiting to be iced. The topping was applied by the 1937-38 squad, which won 22 and lost 2 games in capturing the Central Connecticut Interscholastic League, state and New England championships. During the season, the team scored 577 points to its opponents' 49.

Although his name was almost synonymous with basketball in town for more than 30 years, he was in on the revival of high school football in the early 1920s. The sport had been abandoned in 1906.

Farm Land Preservation Plan Offered by Lufkin

By MAL DARLOW

Dan Lufkin spoke of farm, land taxes and geese in his speech Thursday night at the second annual dinner meeting of the Manchester Land Conservation Trust, Inc. (M.L.C.T.).

Lufkin, 42, was the first head of the state Department of Environmental Protection (DEP). He is a Republican and active in the present campaign of Nick Panuzio of Bridgeport for governor.

He told a story of a country campaigner and geese that broke up the gathering of 100, as well as made one of his major points.

The campaigner came to the town green and saw in its center a large pond with geese. He went up to a man sitting on a bench watching the geese and sat down next to him.

"Aren't those geese lovely," he said. "They are great assets to our environment." But the geese, fella," Lufkin said, "they bite the children, make noise and mess all over." The shocked campaigner moved on.

"You lost my vote," the campaigner was very upset by this but went over to another man on a nearby bench and sat down next to him.

"Aren't those geese lovely," he said. "They are great assets to our environment." But the geese, fella," Lufkin said, "they bite the children, make noise and mess all over." The shocked campaigner moved on.

"All including the environment," Lufkin said.

Coventry School Budget Cut

MONICA SHEA
The Board of Education budget has been cut $91,759 by the town council.
The board's budget presented tonight will represent a 9.7 per cent increase over last year's $4,200; operation of plant, $2,400; insurance, $3,000; computer, $1,000; and proposed budget called for a tuition, $7,000, for a total of 13.9 per cent increase and $90,000.
The other $20,000 will be extended the Sequential Learning Program into the second and remaining accounts.
Of this increase salaries will account for $132,000. Other large increases are: transportation, $28,000; heat, $14,000; utilities, $4,200; operation of plant, $2,400; insurance, $3,000; computer, $1,000; and proposed budget called for a tuition, $7,000, for a total of 13.9 per cent increase and $90,000.
The board's original multi-year plan would have allowed the board to extend the Sequential Learning Program into the second and remaining accounts.

*And After All This,
 We Still Don't Know*

In all the endless hurly-burly of the Watergate scandal, one crucial element has, astonishingly, been lost sight of. Final crucial responsibility for the June, 1972 Democratic burglary of the Watergate headquarters never has been fixed. And it now seems evident that even President Nixon and some of his former key aides do not know.

Along the way, the President, his onetime counsel John Dean and others had some quite specific ideas about how the critical guidance for the break-in might have been given. But they were never altogether certain, and seemed either unwilling or unable — or both — to pin down the blame.

We must remember that for our own guidance we have only the editor's transcribed versions of conversations on Watergate which the President held with Dean and others over a period of many months, starting in this instance from Sept. 15, 1972. Obviously, there were earlier conversations, but analysts and the public have no access to them.

In summary, from a reading of pertinent passages in the released transcripts, it can be said that Mr. Nixon and others came to feel — after much searching discussion — that White House pressures exerted by former aide Charles Colson and/or Gordon Strachan (acting clearly in the name of Mr. Nixon's top aide, H.R. Haldeman), may have provided the decisive impetus for the Watergate break-in.

Many times the name of Election Committee chairman John Mitchell is brought in, but in early conversations it is largely dismissed. Later on, however, there is a judgment that, somewhat weary at battling (as he has always said) bizarre intelligence-gathering plans, he may at long last have bowed to represented White House insistence and said "go ahead," without a clear idea what that would mean.

On March 21, 1973, the day the President inappropriately describes as the first time he had any knowledge of real White House involvement in Watergate and covering, Dean told him that in February, 1972, Colson telephoned Jeb Magruder, a top executive at the re-election committee where intelligence work was centered for certain purposes, and said:

"You all either fish or cut bait. This is absurd to have

High Courts Nonruling

WASHINGTON — Members of the liberal community here have been snapping at one another for two weeks and by now the innocent bystander thinks twice before mentioning the Supreme Court's nonruling in the case of a law student named Marco DePuis Jr.

This would be THE DePuis, who sued the University of Washington because he was refused admission while 36 minority students with lower grade averages and test scores were admitted. The Court evaded the constitutional issue by ruling the case was moot because DePuis was allowed to enroll in the law school pending final adjudication and will graduate next month.

This set the career liberals at each other's throats, one side arguing that each individual must be judged on his own merits and the other that longstanding racial discrimination demands some form of compensatory help for blacks and other minorities. There was even a rumor that Sens. Teddy Kennedy and Jack Javits were no longer on speaking terms.

Actually, there was only one possible opinion and that was rendered by Justice William Douglas, one of the four dissenters. Douglas twisted the issue, declaring that any policy that is not administered in a "racially neutral way" is in violation of the Constitution's equal protection clause, no matter how well intentioned.

DePuis, who is a member of the University of Washington's law school, said that he was "in a Federal court and ultimately again to this Court."

Of course one could say, as David Brinkley did on TV, that the Court refused to hand down a meaningful decision because it was "too hot" to do so. One could say that, but I don't. I prefer to believe the Court's decisions are based on the law, not on fear.

barriers, not their creation in order to satisfy our theory as to how society ought to be organized... If discrimination based on race is constitutionally permissible when those who hold the reins can come up with "compelling" reasons to justify it, the constitutional guarantee acquire an accordion-like quality.

The university's policy not only was — and is — racially discriminatory, it favors certain minorities by giving special consideration only to black, chicano, American Indian and Filipino applicants. What about the poor white student from Appalachia who shows promise of becoming a good lawyer? What about the poor Chinese and the poor Bulgarian? After all, blacks compose only a little more than 10 per cent of the country's population.

But of course, the blacks are better organized and — quite properly — louder and more articulate in proffering their demands. Anybody who thinks the University of Washington's admissions policy was not influenced by this lobby will buy the proposition that J. Paul Getty is a hardship case. Helping blacks, which should be a community duty, instead has become an "in" cause, politically and socially.

At any rate, the Supreme Court's waffling out of this one seems almost incredible. As Justice William Brennan, another liberal, noted in his dissent: "Few constitutional questions in recent history have stirred as much debate, and they will not disappear. They must inevitably return to the Federal courts and ultimately again to this Court."

Of course one could say, as David Brinkley did on TV, that the Court refused to hand down a meaningful decision because it was "too hot" to do so. One could say that, but I don't. I prefer to believe the Court's decisions are based on the law, not on fear.

Columbia
Town Receives Permit For Landfill Area

The selectmen's office has received a permit from the state Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) to establish a solid waste disposal area.

The DEP granted a permit for the disposal of solid waste by the trench landfill method within the area defined on "plan of proposed excavation for refuse disposal" drawn up by Lenard Engineering of Storrs. It was submitted to the DEP by the town pursuant to the provisions of the temporary permit issued to the town, which expired April 30.

The permit also allows for the establishment of a tire storage facility within the area as well as the establishment of glass and paper storage bins at the site.

The permit was granted with several conditions. It is recommended that upon completion of the existing trench, demolition debris and brush must not be disposed of in the area.

A sanitary landfill method of operation involving spreading, compacting and covering of all solid waste must be carried on daily. There will be no open burning at the disposal area. A minimum of five feet of clean fill must be maintained between the bottom of the refuse disposed of at the site and the high ground level or ledge rock.

No septic tank waste or other liquid, or sludge or dustrial waste may be deposited unless specific disposal methods are approved by the DEP. Disposal operations shall be carried on by a competent operator in a manner to conserve, improve and protect the state's natural resources and environment.

Public Strike Alternative Needed

A strong stand is being made in California against strikes by governmental workers. Gov. Ronald Reagan has said that any state employee who strikes will be replaced by a strikebreaking worker.

Article 1903 of the state government code reads, "absence without leave, whether voluntary or involuntary, for five consecutive working days is an automatic resignation from the state service, on the last day that the employee worked."

California courts have ruled that strikes of public employees are illegal, although there is no specific state statute.

Gov. Reagan has also refused to submit state employee grievances to binding arbitration. His argument is that he does not have authority since the responsibility of raising the taxes to meet such demands is that of the people's elected representatives.

The governor's strong stand has been made because of threats of a strike by the California State Employees Association, principally brought on by wage demands.

Los Angeles County presently is facing the possibility of such a strike by about 60,000 employees. Such strikes affect every facet of public life even down to hospitals and possibly police and fire departments.

Many large cities in the nation have been hit by strikes of municipal workers. We all have seen pictures of trash and garbage piling up until it was a serious nuisance and a threat to public health.

Hence politicians are often hesitant to take the stand which they should, knowing that they may be the target of a voting campaign the next time they come up for election.

As a rule governmental employees have many benefits not always enjoyed by the ordinary worker. They usually have many more holidays, strong pension plans, sick leave benefits, etc.

Gov. Reagan may have a hard fight on his hands. But we think he is following a sound principle. A strike against the public is contrary to our concept of government. They should not be permitted on any governmental level.

these guys over there and not using them. If you are not going to use them, I may use them."

Later in that chat, the President says Colson "may well have been the trigger man where he just called up and said now look here Jeb go out and get that information. And (Gordon) Liddy and (E. Howard) Hunt went out and got it at that time."

At this juncture in the March 21 talks, Dean disclosed for the first time that Liddy and Hunt both were in Colson's office when the call to Magruder was made. He told Mr. Nixon he was so informed by Colson himself.

Liddy, of course, was an intelligence gatherer for the committee and Hunt had a White House cubbyhole office as an operative hired by Colson for the so-called "plumbers" unit.

Liddy sometimes is portrayed as feeling uneasy and, in Nixon's side H.R. Haldeman's words "pushing to get something done" — and as saying on other occasions that he was pressed "without mercy" by Magruder to dredge up

Disappointed Scout Leader

To the editor:
 Where have all the Catholic Girl Scouts gone? April 29 was set aside for all Catholic Scouts to come together for worship, breakfast and renewing of our promise, with singing of new and old songs at East Calverton High School, and only a handful came. The women of the Combined Mothers Circle and the Ladies of Columbian got together on their Sunday morning to prepare for you but where were you? Oh yes, the local Senior and Cadet scouts came with their guitars as we could have music to sing our songs, but where were you?

Sure I know 8 o'clock is an early hour to get up for mass but I'd bet a dollar if you were going to the beach you would have thought nothing of the early hour. But to give up just a little time in thanksgiving for the many blessings you have received, by attending mass with your sister scout, you were not there.

I would like to thank the ladies of both groups for their time. Mrs. Riel Wicks for the program, the scouts that played their guitars for singing and a pleasant morning. My thanks also to Sister Margaret Mary and Father Saunders for giving those born on this date are under the sign of Taurus.

Hebron
Town Meeting Set Monday

The annual Town Meeting and budget meeting of Hebron will be held on Monday at 8 p.m. at the Hebron Elementary School. Five items appear on the agenda.

The voters will decide whether to authorize the Board of Selectmen to appoint a committee to draft administrative policies for operation of an ambulance service and prepare specifications and obtain bids for an equipped ambulance.

They also will decide whether to establish a Town Office Building Addition Committee to obtain preliminary plans and cost estimates for an addition to the Town Office Building and appropriate the sum of $1,000 from the Town Office Building Addition reserve fund to the committee for this purpose.

The residents of Hebron will receive and take action on the budget document for the fiscal year 1974-75 as recommended by the Board of Finance.

They will determine the method of payment of taxes to become due in 1974-75 on the Grand List of Oct. 1, 1973.

And finally, the residents of Hebron will act upon the Town Reporters for the fiscal year 1972-1973 as printed.

Productivity Drop Ominous

An ominous trend in the nation's economic woes has been revealed by the Department of Labor in a drop in productivity by American workers. This is per se a strong contribution to an inflationary trend.

A drop in productivity by hourly wage earners means that they are producing less items in the same number of hours. Since hourly wages are probably the biggest cost factor in the manufacture of any product, the cost of the items produced will therefore rise.

In short we are getting less goods for the same amount of money.

We will grant that there are times when a drop in goods produced is not entirely the fault of the worker. When sales fall off and there are less orders to produce, it is often necessary to keep skilled workers on a payroll, even though there will be less items to produce.

Gardening

with FRANK ATWOOD

Heinz and Rosemarie Saur grew up in Germany and were married there. The house they found in Vernon, after several years in the Hartford area, has a spacious sunroom with wide, high windows on opposite sides and it is an excellent place for the plants that Mrs. Saur loves.

The windows are filled with greenery and flowers, and three of the plants are reminders of her home in Augsburg, near Munich, in Bavaria. She had tucked three slips into her handbag at the last minute before she left home to cross the ocean and all took root, when given a chance, and are doing very well.

One plant, resembling a Christmas cactus as the long, notched leaves droop over the sides of the pot, was a wedding present 20 years ago. After seven years in Germany for the original plant and 13 years in the United States for the daughter plant that she grew from a slip, it is blossoming this year. Mrs. Saur has been calling it a cactus, but the Plant Science Department at the University of Connecticut, where I took a leaf for identification, thinks it is an Epiphyllum. The pot has to be set on a raised base so that the leaves may hang naturally over the side. It has pink flowers along the edges of the leaves.

Another plant, a Bavarian origin is a crown of thorns, which blossoms "all the time." Another is a vine which grows outdoors in Germany and is known to the Sauras as "wilderwein." The University calls it Rhoissus antarctica and says it has the common name of kangaroo vine. Why it is named for the kangaroo is not explained.

A plant given to Mrs. Heinz (Rosemarie) Saur as a wedding present 20 years ago has blossomed for the first time at the Saur home on Overbrook Dr., Vernon. Just one blossom is visible here but more were coming. (Herald photo by Richmond)

My garden encyclopedia says it is a "vigorous climbing vine," a quality which it demonstrates. It fills the upper half of a large, wide window. Mrs. Saur pointed out some clusters of tiny buds, which she said will blossom and then set very small berries.

"You could use them to make wine if you wanted to take the trouble," she says.

A pot set on the floor contains an asparagus fern, bought in Manchester which will blossom and then set very small berries.

One morning, when she had not written any note, she heard him coming up the stairs, opened the door and said "Two milk, please." When he answered with a cherry "Yes, ma'am," she realized that she had made herself understood, for the first time, in this new language. She still blesses the milkman for not saying "what!"

Daffodil Show

The warm weather was unkind to daffodil growers preparing for the annual state daffodil show at Elizabeth Park last weekend. Early varieties had passed their blooming period and all that could be shown were late-blooming daffodils. Some of these had been kept in refrigerators for several days before being exhibited. The trick is to cut them, place them in water, and keep them at 40 degrees, but it must be in an old-fashioned refrigerator, the bulbs up from frost. For some reason the new self-defrosting refrigerators cannot be used.

There were entries from Pennsylvania, Long Island and Vermont as well as many Connecticut towns but none from east of the Connecticut River.

Ice Storm Survivor

When the ice storm in December left her house at sub-freezing temperatures for a week, Mrs. Louise Johnson of Highland St. thought her orchids were gone. She did lose some of them but a white cattleya has recovered.

Three buds, close together, have opened into blossoms. They are off-season and smaller than usual but they demonstrate that the plant is alive.

Mrs. Johnson will divide it when warm weather comes and make two plants of it in two pots.

South Windsor Five Chosen To Attend Boys State

JUDY KUEHNEL
Correspondent
644-1364

Five South Windsor boys will represent the high school at the 1974 American Legion Boys State to be held on the campus of the United States Coast Guard Academy in New London from June 16 to June 22.

Timothy Deffley, son of Mr. and Mrs. H.J. Deffley of 238 Graham Rd., has been a member of the varsity basketball and baseball teams and on the freshman basketball team. He is a member of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes, Catholic Youth Organization, and played in the World of Life Basketball Tournament. Tim works as a referee in the town recreation department and plans to go to college to study business administration.

Paul Doocy is the son of Mr. and Mrs. F.J. Doocy, 2099 Ellington Rd. He has been active in school government, serving as treasurer of his freshman class, vice president of the junior class, and is a member of the National Honor Society.

He was on the freshman basketball and football teams, played junior varsity basketball, and has been a member of the varsity football, basketball and track teams. Paul is also a member of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes and the Catholic Youth Organization and has played in the World of Life Basketball Tournament.

He, too, works as a referee for the recreation department. In addition to athletics, he is involved in the Church Youth Group, Bible Study and is Tri-Lambda member of the Fellowship of Christian Athletes. Brian plans to attend college after graduation next year.

The boys, who have been chosen on the basis of leadership and citizenship are selected by faculty nomination. At the conference, the students will be given the opportunity to set and to experience in practical operations the responsibilities of good government.

South Windsor representatives are sponsored by the American Legion, Imperial Oil and Plumbing Co., Industrial, Inc., Mitchell Fuel Co., and the Rotary Club. The sponsors have assumed financial responsibility which enables the students to participate in the program.

Call Your Mother

(the smart way)

Mother's Day means cards and flowers and, of course, thousands of long distance calls. And last year it meant so many calls that if your Mom lives outside of Connecticut you may have had trouble getting your call through.

So this year, take these tips from The Phone Store. Get Mom's number from out-of-state Directory Assistance before Mother's Day. Just dial 1 plus the area code plus 555-1212. And you might even beat the rush by phoning Mom ahead of time. On Saturday.

Follow these tips and you'll have the best chance of getting through to wish her a "Happy Mother's Day!"

Sweeney Renamed By Police Union

Manchester Police Detective James Sweeney has been promoted to his third one-year term as president of the Manchester Police Union, Local 146.

Sweeney was challenged for the post by Patrolman Edward Tighe at union elections Wednesday night, but he won re-election by an overwhelming majority.

Other officers elected Wednesday night were Ptl. James Taylor, vice president; Sgt. Robert Galano, secretary-treasurer; Ptl. Jon Hawthorne, recording secretary; and Sgt. Eli Tambling, Det. Vito Perrone, and Ptl. Gary Wood, directors.

Retired policeman Samuel Maltempo, who was instrumental in formation of the local police union in May 1969, was named special adviser to the president, a new post.

Maltempo, who retired from the force last year after a quarter century of service, had served as president of the union for its first four years. Sweeney succeeded him in May 1972.

Sweeney, 27, has been a member of the police department for nearly six years. A graduate of Manchester Community College's law enforcement program, he was instrumental in forming the local police union in May 1969, was named special adviser to the president, a new post.

A native of East Hartford, Sweeney now lives at 202 Woodbridge St. with his wife and two children.

The Manchester Police Union, which represents about 75 members of the local police department below the rank of captain, was formed in 1968 to replace the former Manchester Police Association.

Confident Panuzio Says He Could Win

Bridgeport Mayor Nicholas Panuzio predicted Thursday, if given the Republican nomination for governor, he could beat any candidate nominated by the Democrats, "especially if it is someone not keying in on the issues someone like Rep. Ella Grasso."

Panuzio, one of four announced candidates for the Republican nomination, held a cocktail party Thursday night for the GOP state convention delegates at alternates from Manchester and East Hartford. It was at the new Holiday Inn in East Hartford. About 100 persons attended—20 to 25 of them from Manchester.

Panuzio avoided mentioning the other three GOP candidates—U.S. Rep. Robert Steele, State Comptroller Nathan Agostinelli and House Speaker Francis Collins—except to say Steele would make a good U.S. senator and Agostinelli a fine state comptroller.

Panuzio emphasized his executive ability, gained from his job as mayor of a large city, and predicted he would draw substantial votes in traditionally Democratic areas.

"I am the only Republican who has won in a Democratic city since Watergate," he said.

Panuzio won re-election last November in a city where registered Democrats outnumbered Republicans 2 to 1.

"I'd give it an open government," he nominated and elected, he said he is a firm believer in the availability of elected officials to the public.

To prove his point, he distributed to the delegates and alternates the phone numbers and home addresses of his campaign headquarters.

Town Democratic Club Endorses Ella Grasso

The Democratic Club of Manchester Wednesday night endorsed Sixth District Congresswoman Ella Grasso for the Democratic nomination for governor.

In a follow-up action, it agreed to back whatever candidate wins the nomination at the July 15-20 Democratic State Convention.

Mrs. Grasso's opponents for the nomination are State Atty. Gen. Robert Killian and former Norwalk Mayor Frank Zullo.

The endorsement of Mrs. Grasso results from a preferential poll of the club's 110 members. Returns were received from 105, with 11 expressing no preference.

Of those who had a preference, 61.7 per cent (58) chose Mrs. Grasso, 35.1 per cent (33) chose Killian, and only 3.2 per cent (3) chose Zullo.

Following a report by the club's political action committee—expressing concern over discrepancies in released figures relative to the capacity of the town's sewage treatment plant—a committee of four was named to study the figures and come up with a conclusion.

The committee consists of Robert Blechman, Dan Cole, Tim Moynihan and Joann Costello.

In a last-minute action, following a report by Town Director Phyllis Jackson, a member, the club voted its criticism of Town Manager Robert Weiss for a statement he made Tuesday night.

Weiss said the directors were "not picking," when they balked at a bid waiver for a sand spreader (under a lease-purchase arrangement) that could save the town about $1,000.

He cited the directors "for implying there is something immoral" about his request for the bid waiver. The sand spreader, he explained, could be purchased for $2,400, with the $1,000 already paid in for its rental to be applied against the cost, thus requiring only $1,400 additional. The cost of the sand spreader has gone up to $3,400, he explained.

Weiss was replying to criticism by Republican Director Vivian Ferguson, who objected to the bid waiver and cited past requests for bid waivers under lease-purchase arrangements.

A letter will be sent to Weiss by the Democratic Club of Manchester, criticizing him for his reply Tuesday night.

Woodstock Assault May Be Connected To Pocket Mystery

HARTFORD (UPI)—State Police speculate that there may be a connection between the assault this week on a 5-year-old Woodstock girl and the disappearance last year of 7-year-old Janice Pockett from her Tolland home.

Because of the location and the general nature of the two cases, troopers said there could be a connection. However, police said there are no definite factors linking the cases because of the nearly total lack of evidence in the Pockett case.

Police Thursday asked anyone who might have information about the latest incident to come forward. Identification would be held in confidence, officers said.

Troopers are looking for a white man in his 20s who was driving a gold compact car with a brown interior.

The description was provided by little Mary Patrone, who was picked up by the man Wednesday afternoon. The man hit her on the head and she apparently "made such a commotion," police said, that the assailant threw her out of the car.

She told officers that the man said her mother had asked him to bring her home. The location was less than 20 miles from

The meeting will be May 30 at 7:30 p.m. in the Municipal Building Hearing Room.

One of the priority items to be discussed is the proposal for town control of the mile-long strip of Main St. from the Center to Hartford Rd.

Today's automobiles are quite different from those O.C. first remembers in Manchester. Called "horseless carriages," they were just that except there were no shafts or thrills for hitching up a horse.

The high wheels were solid rubber tires. A lever was used for steering instead of a hand wheel.

A Mr. Couch on the west side of town had the first one we saw. For many years, he and one who was owned by one of the Cheney ladies (O.C. thinks Miss Mary). That one was driven by electric batteries. It was necessary to have apparatus in the garage for recharging them.

Some were driven by little steam engines. Even after the design of cars was like the modern ones there were Stanley Steamers and White Steamers. They were great hill climbers and quiet compared with the first gasoline buggies.

Walter Cheney also had a little red "roadster" without any top. Quite sporty. He gave O.C. a ride home from Hartford one night and we got stuck in the sand on Silver Lane. He carried a shovel under the seat so we got out O.K.

When O.C. told of that ride next day all the other kids were attacked by the green eyed monster. That was the beginning of raising exploit. We may have had a top speed of almost 20 miles an hour. The wealthiest men's cars had to be hand-cranked to start.

The first "self-starters" came out in the 1911 Cadillac but we still cranked most of our cars by hand. O.C. started driving in Michigan in 1915 with a model T Ford. And that it was several years after that when he tried the first starter.

Barney Oldfield was racing in those days and one of O.C.'s friends bought one of Barney's old track cars. It had plenty of oomph on a track but too much for the crooked dirt roads. It was a lot of fun riding with that fellow, but looking back to it now O.C. realizes it was no place for a man with a family of dependents.

Drivers were not required to be licensed in Michigan or Ohio. Only your car was licensed. After driving several years in both states, O.C. returned to Connecticut and had to take tests to get a driver's license. That's as it should be.

O.C. is not so sure about something else being O.K. He left Connecticut just before the 21. When of age in New York state he was allowed to vote in a presidential election. Later he voted in another presidential election in Michigan. And then another in Ohio. But when he returned to his native state, Connecticut, he was not permitted to vote in the next presidential election because he had not been here long enough.

The springs in the old cars were not too good and there were no shock absorbers. Driving north over Tracy's Hill on S. Main St., O.C. took the 'bank-you-mam too fast. A man in the back seat went up with his head against a bow of the top so hard it about knocked him out.

Tires were a real problem then. It was quite a job to get those "clecher" tires off and on again to stick a patch on the inner tube and then pump it up with a hand and foot pump. You didn't take the wheels off then so you couldn't carry a tire ready mounted.

Bolton

Ambulance Service To End July 1

AMBULANCE service to Bolton residents will be discontinued by the Town of Andover as of July 1 according to a letter Bolton fire commissioners received at their meeting Tuesday from the Andover Board of Fire Commissioners.

The Andover commissioners said the service would be resumed under mutual aid when Bolton has its own patient carrying vehicle.

The decision was reached by the Andover board at its meeting April 1.

The Bolton commissioners are recommending to the selectmen that a committee be appointed to do a study on whether or not an ambulance service is needed in Bolton.

Further, the study should include whether or not residents are willing to pay for such a vehicle, how much the service would cost, manpower and volunteer help that would be needed.

The commissioners also recommended that selectmen, fire commissioner, member of the Bolton Volunteer Fire Department, member of the Women's Auxiliary of the BVFD and a representative from all other civic groups in town be included on the committee.

School Menus
The following cafeteria menus will be served May 13-17 to Bolton Elementary and Center School students.
Monday: Hamburg on roll, tossed salad, potato chips, brownies.
Tuesday: Juice, egg or peanut butter and jelly sandwich, cheese wedges, applesauce cake.

Wednesday: Hamburg gravy over rice, buttered carrots, chocolate fuff.
Thursday: Shells and meat sauce, green beans, jello with topping.
Friday: Fish plate, French fries, cole slaw, cookies.

Tiant's Bag of Tricks Too Much for Yankees

BOSTON (UPI) — Luis Tiant dug into his bag of tricks and rediscovered the lost art of changing speeds on the batter. And he used his previously abandoned art to great advantage Thursday as he snapped a personal three-game losing streak while pitching the Boston Red Sox to a 2-0 win over the New York Yankees, upping his record to 2-4. Tiant, mixing curves, fastballs and changeups, had Yankee hitters lunging at the ball all night as he allowed only three hits. Only one of the three was solid, a second-inning single off the left field wall by Fernando Gonzalez. "I've been trying to throw the ball by everyone up until now," said Tiant. "I wouldn't change speeds like that before. When you're in a slump, you have to ask yourself when you're doing... and then make adjustments."

Dodgers' Pitching Staff Best to Date in Majors

NEW YORK (UPI) — Say all you want about Johnny Sain, Whitey Ford and George Bamberger. The best pitching coach in baseball is Los Angeles' Red Adams, according to Dodger right-hander Don Sutton. Adams, of course, has reason to be prejudiced, but there is no denying that Adams has developed the major leagues' most imposing pitching staff so far this season. Thursday night it was Sutton, who after two successive bad outings, came through with the third one-hitter of his career, stopping the San Diego Padres 6-0 to boost his record to 5-2. The shutout was the sixth turned in by the Los Angeles staff this season and the second by Sutton. "It felt good to be back. I was off in Philadelphia and my pitching coach, Red Adams, is the greatest pitching coach in the world," said Sutton. "He got hold of me a couple of days ago and said I was off mechanically. I was off my tempo and now I think I got it."

THEATRE

Thespians Make TV Debut 'Junie Moon' Opens Tonight

On Friday, April 26 at 10 p.m., Channel 24, CPTV, Soek 'n Buskin made its first television debut. This was a milestone in the group's theatrical history as none of its members had ever acted before a television camera. Nonetheless, the group did a fine job and must be commended for their efforts.

The last part of the show consisted of the first scene of Soek 'n Buskin's present production to be performed this and next weekend in Bailey Auditorium, "Tell Me That You Love Me, Junie Moon." Performers consisted of Linda Claranah, Stephen Ide, George Sweetnam, Stuart Flavell, Sandy Goodwin, and Barbara Swann. Although much of the original script had to be changed for the situation promptly and put on one of their finest performances.

Shortly after rehearsal ended, the taping began and ran through the entire show without pause. Lighting, camera and sound started off the half hour show with a program that seemed like more of an advertisement than anything else. The long wait began. Ms. Gill directed the

Editorial: Educational Suppression

Recently two articles and one poem have appeared in the High School World pointing out some of the fallacies of modern education. These articles brought out very good points, but I would like to bring out another set of facts. Aside from the system being out of date, not relevant in today's world, there is the idea that despite the fact that schools were set up for people to learn in, they have become little more than institutions of suppression.

Get Registered

If you want to have a say in your government... If you're tired of sitting on the sidelines... If you think you have a "betting idea"... Then Gloria Schaffer, the Secretary of State, invites you to "get interested, get involved, and get registered!"

Please Give Blood

Do you know someone that suffers from iron poor blood? Why don't you help this anemic individual and yourself as well as those who need it?

S.A. Elections

As we all know, the Student Assembly elections are rapidly approaching. This year, I feel that the ninth graders will be from Hill and Bennet Junior High Schools who plan to attend MHS next year should be allowed to vote.

Guidance Notes

The University of Hartford will again next year have its Advance Enrollment Program. This program makes it possible for high school students to take courses at the University of Hartford, without tuition fees, in areas which are not available in the high school curriculum.

Art Students Visit New York

At 7:30 a.m. April 19, about 30 bright-eyed and excited art students, boarded a bus that was to take them to New York City for the day. The main purpose of the visit was to see the Metropolitan Art Museum and the Museum of Modern Art.

They're Polishing Up Their Performances

Students of St. Bernard School Rockville, "The Delta Dawn Group," rehearse for their act which will be one of many to be presented in the "Fun and Frolics" variety show Saturday at 7:15 p.m. at the Vernon Middle School.

Vernon Joins Bicycle Crusade

Craig Hewitt of Rockville is one of three youths who will be cycling 3,000 miles across the country to amass pledges for the 1974 Cancer Crusade.

Girls' Tennis Team Downs East Hartford

Monday, in the opening match of the season, the varsity girls' tennis team defeated East Hartford High by a score of 5-2.

Honor Society Fete Successful

The annual National Honor Society banquet was held Thursday, May 2 at the MHS gym and cafeteria. Starting at 4:00 p.m. various activities were opened up.

MHSers Sing in All-State

Nine Seniors traveled to UConn last Thursday and Friday to sing in the All-Connetquot Chorus at the Twenty-Eighth Annual All-Connetquot High School Music Festival.

Tribe Victorious

The Tribe upped its record to 9-2 this week, tying Windham for the OCHL lead. Victories this season are:

Two Win Art Awards

The HSJ is pleased to announce that MHS has had two winners in the 1974 Scholastic Art Contest. This year, gold medal awards went to Alice Bojarski and Mary Shalita.

WIN AT BRIDGE

Both sides in the team game reached five diamonds and both South players failed to make it.

The first one couldn't help himself. West's king of clubs beat this contract. He visualized the possibility of ruffing the ace of trumps. After that he just led his deuce of clubs and once more dummy's good hearts went to bed.

The second declarer had a chance. East played the jack of clubs at trick one. West huddled; decided it was a suit preference call for a spade lead and led one.

The queen was played from dummy but East did not cover with the king. At this point South should have romped home. All he had to do was to lead a heart to his partner.
