Nixon Rests for Moscow Trip

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon, midway through a whirlwind diplomatic effort in the face of threatened impeachment, set aside time to relax with his wife at Camp David today on their 34th wedding anniversary. White House officials said Nixon probably will stay at the Maryland retreat through the weekend to rest up after his rigorous Middle East trip and to get ready for summit talks next week with Soviet leaders in Moscow and meetings with U.S. allies at NATO headquarters in Brussels. The First Family planned a small party later today to mark the Nixon's wedding anniversary. Tricia Cox was with her parents at Camp David, and daughter Julie, along with her husband David Eisenhower, were expected to be on hand for the occasion. Soviet Officials: But before leaving Washington early Thursday evening, Nixon put in a hectic day at conferences with congressional leaders, Cabinet members and the National Security Council to brief them on his 10-day visit to five Middle East nations and to discuss his upcoming negotiations with NATO leaders and Soviet officials. Senate Democratic leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said Nixon assured the members of Congress that no secret U.S.-Soviet agreements have been made prior to his Moscow trip. Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said earlier this week he feared the administration had already arrived at a nuclear arms agreement without telling Congress. Mansfield and Senate GOP leader Hugh Scott said Nixon also assured the congressional group that agreements he made during his recent trip to provide Israel and Egypt with nuclear safeguards attached to prevent use of reactors or nuclear fuel for weapons purposes. But assistant Senate Democratic leader Robert Byrd of West Virginia told reporters: "I sometimes wonder why we provide these nuclear reactors which are for the purpose of developing peaceful uses of atomic energy when we ourselves have not been very successful in this area."

Arms Control: The President is scheduled to fly to Brussels Tuesday and to arrive in Moscow Thursday for wide ranging talks likely to focus heavily on trade and arms control. White House spokesmen have maintained repeatedly that Nixon's decision to undertake important foreign policy activities at this time was made without regard to his domestic political problems, especially the House Judiciary Committee's investigation into possible grounds for his impeachment. But some presidential aides have acknowledged privately that the timing was perfect and that they expect Nixon's popularity at home to start rising as a result of his attempts to play the part of a world statesman in search of peace.

Colson Sentenced To Jail

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former White House special counsel Charles W. Colson was sentenced today to a prison term of one to three years for obstruction of justice in the Watergate break-in case. U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Gesell turned down an impassioned plea by Colson's lawyer that his 42-year-old client not go to jail. With Sen. Harold E. Hughes, D-Iowa, and other members of Colson's prayer group sitting in the front row of the courtroom with heads bowed, Colson said in a long statement to the court that he had always "tried to use every minute to maximum advantage." "I had one rule: to get done what the President wanted done now. I never really questioned whether it was right or wrong." Colson had said after pleading guilty to the obstruction count June 3 that if he grew out of his conversion to Christianity. He could have received up to five years' imprisonment and a $5,000 fine. In exchange for his guilty plea and a pledge of cooperation with Watergate prosecutors, Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski agreed to drop conspiracy charges against Colson in the 1971 break-in of the office of the psychiatrist of Pentagon Papers defendant Daniel Ellsberg, as well as other charges in the Watergate cover-up case. Colson admitted "devising and implementing a scheme to defame and destroy the public image and credibility" of Ellsberg. After being sentenced by Gesell, Colson's wife, Patricia, went forward and she and Colson embraced for long moments. The courtroom had filled 35 minutes in advance of the 40-minute proceeding. Colson, who once said he would walk over his grandmother to get President Nixon re-elected, told the court that he had been pictured as "arrogant, self-assured and in the pursuit of power." He said that was not an accurate characterization.

Other diplomas were presented by Mrs. Carolyn Becker and Paul Greenberg, both members of the Board of Education. With sober expressions, the group sang for the last time all assembled, their class song composed by AnnMarie Civitillo, and the MHS Alma Mater. With tassels reversed, they marched off the field to waiting friends and families. The professional and recreational were provided by Miss Karen Krinjak, organist for the occasion, a 1968 graduate of MHS.

Impeachment Panel Probes Nixon Taxes

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Judiciary Committee is taking a second look at President Nixon's income tax problems today, having learned the Internal Revenue Service quietly imposed a penalty of about $13,000 on him for preparing his returns negligently. The committee staff told members Thursday that the revenue service had, with no public announcement, imposed a 5 per cent negligence penalty, amounting to about $13,000. The White House has not confirmed or denied this. Members of the impeachment inquiry said they also learned that while Nixon has paid his overdue taxes for 1970 through 1973, he has still not paid back taxes for 1969. Since the statute of limitations had expired for the 1969 taxes, the President could not be required to pay them, but he said previously he would voluntarily pay up. The IRS' figure for 1969 is secret, but Congress' Joint Committee on Internal Revenue Taxation estimated the 1969 underpayment at $171,055. After being sentenced by Gesell, Colson's wife, Patricia, went forward and she and Colson embraced for long moments. The courtroom had filled 35 minutes in advance of the 40-minute proceeding. Colson, who once said he would walk over his grandmother to get President Nixon re-elected, told the court that he had been pictured as "arrogant, self-assured and in the pursuit of power." Court Sets Hearing On Parking Dispute

By DOUG BEVINS A court hearing has been scheduled for next Thursday on an appeal by several downtown interests to gain an injunction to stop the state from installing parallel parking on Main St. (State Rt. 83) in Manchester. The Court of Common Pleas hearing, scheduled by Judge Norton M. Levine, will summon representatives of the state Traffic Commission to "show cause" why an injunction shouldn't be issued. Plaintiffs in the legal action, represented by Atty. Philip Bayer of Manchester, are several downtown property owners and businesses. The attempt to gain a temporary injunction is part of their appeal from the Traffic Commission's order to change on-street parking to parallel parking in several locations. Emergency Order Denied: Bayer said he attempted to gain an emergency "stop order" from the court—because the parallel parking system was implemented Thursday—but the court declined to take that rare action. Instead, the judge decided he would hear all the facts in the case, Bayer said. The parallel parking system installed Thursday involved repainting of lines for parking spaces on some parts of downtown Main St. The switch in parking arrangements brought the loss of about 30 parking spaces, and downtown merchants maintain that the loss will hurt business. Named as plaintiffs in the lawsuit are Watkins Bros. Inc., Regal Man's Shop Inc., Economy Electric Supply Co. Inc., and Marlow's Inc. Individuals Opposed: Also, several individuals are plaintiffs: Phillip Harrison, owner of Harrison's Stationery; Irving Bayer (Phillip's brother), head of the Main and Eldridge Corp.; Robert Weinberg, president of Economy Electric; and Sadye Apter, wife of Regal Man's Shop President Louis Apter. Next Thursday's hearing before Judge Levine is set for 2 p.m. at the Hartford County Courthouse.

Steve Dunfield Killed

Steve Dunfield, 19, of 59 Harlan St. was pronounced dead at Manchester Memorial Hospital Thursday night after a two-vehicle, head-on crash on Spring St. near Timrod Rd., Manchester Police said. Dunfield was a passenger in a car driven by Roy C. Garey, 22, of 42 Seaman Circle, which was in collision with a car operated by Paul M. Landolina, whose age and address were unavailable today. Landolina was listed in serious condition this morning at the intensive care unit of Manchester Memorial Hospital. Garey and two other passengers in his car—Tim Donahue, 21, of 26 Walnut St., and Matthew Dunfield, 17, of 59 Harlan St.—were reported in satisfactory condition at the hospital. Manchester Police Capt. George McCaughey, pointing out that the accident investigation isn't completed, said he believed the Landolina vehicle was also involved in a hit-and-run collision on S. Main St., near Hackmatack St., minutes before the fatal crash on Spring St. McCaughey reconstructed the accident this way: A car driven by Edith P. Gaskell, 40, of 22 Montauk Dr., Vernon, was struck twice by another car on S. Main St. at about 9:30 p.m., and the unknown vehicle left the accident scene at a high rate of speed. A few minutes later, a fast-moving car driven by Landolina—headed east on Spring St.—crossed into the left side of the roadway and collided head-on with the Garey vehicle, headed west on Spring St. The fatal accident was reported at 9:44 by a Spring St. resident, and the hit-and-run crash was reported at 9:49 by an unidentified caller. A 1973 graduate of Manchester High School, Steve Dunfield was born Feb. 21, 1955 in Hartford, son of Robert and Margaret Matthews Dunfield, and had lived in Manchester all his life. He also graduated from Iling Junior High School and was a member of Second Congregational Church. He had been employed at Rosken Enterprises in East Hartford. Survivors, besides his parents and brother, are a sister, Mrs. Nancy Norton of Manchester; another brother, Robert Dunfield of Hebron; and his maternal grandfather, John Matthews of Guilford, Fla. Funeral services are Monday at 11 a.m. at Watkins Funeral Home, 142 E. Center St. The Rev. Felix Davis, pastor of Second Congregational Church, will officiate. Burial will be in East Cemetery. There are no calling hours at the time. The family suggests that any memorial contributions may be made to the Manchester Scholarship Foundation.

Gardening
 with FRANK ATWOOD

The first thing you notice about Antonio Leone's vegetable garden as you approach the house on Birch St. is that it is a family garden covering two 66-foot lots. There are 50 plants, he tells you, and tomatoes are the one commercial crop he grows in what is otherwise a family garden. There is no garden here when the Leones bought the property on Birch St. The lots next door were vacant and were covered with trees and brush. The soil, his neighbors told him, was just a sand bank and he would be wasting his time and energy trying to grow a garden there.

Nevertheless, he cut the brush and trees, grubbed out the roots and planted vegetables. He got the 50-foot lots for $500 and it was a good investment. There are plenty of vegetables for "Grampy" Leone, as the neighbors call him, and his son and daughter, both unmarried, who occupy one side of the house with him, and for the family of his married daughter who occupies the other side.

There is a cash income from the sale of ripe tomatoes to Pero's stand, and "Grampy" has an occupation that keeps him active on early mornings. He says the house is 75 years old and he is glad to have so convenient a way to dispose of unwanted wood.

Variety of Vegetables
 Mr. Leone makes a concession to modern ways in buying his tomato plants from a grower with a greenhouse. They are Jet Star variety and he takes off all the "suckers" as the plants grow, leaving two main branches. He ties them with a hand sprinker and the job takes many trips back and forth with a jug from the spring several dry days come together.

The house has town water and Mr. Leone could water the garden by hooking up a hose, but he doesn't trust "city water." Nothing is as good for plants as rainwater, he is convinced. In the garden, he puts the water on the plants with a hand sprinker and the job takes many trips back and forth with a jug from the spring several dry days come together.

Comment Session

A Weaver Rd. property owner wants the town to enclose the brook which runs through that area, claiming it is full of litter and is a hazard because it draws children.

He was one of two persons who appeared at a Board of Directors' comment session Thursday night — named by Pascal Prignano.

He complained, also, of the condition of the railroad crossing at Woodbridge and Oakland St. He said it rattles and is bumpy and is in need of repair.

The other person who appeared is a woman resident of Brainerd Pl. She repeated a complaint she filed in April, claiming the storm sewer backs up into basement of her home. She said the house is 75 years old and never had the problem until The Herald built its addition.

She said, also, she is opposed to construction of housing for the elderly at Brainerd Pl. and Johnson Ter, because it might aggravate the storm sewer problem.

Delightful Opening For 'The Fantasticks'

By JUNE TOMPKINS

A perfectly delightful opening of summer theater's second season took place Thursday night in the beloved "The Fantasticks" at Manchester Community College.

The fanciful musical which has been entertaining New York audiences for 14 years off Broadway uses a philosophical theme for its story, but dolls it up with comical characters, haunting songs, and memorable melodies.

It would not do to describe the whole play for it would be like serving the cake without the frosting. Briefly, the story tells of a boy and girl romance, which by moonlight is beautiful and full of unrealistic dreams. Exposed to sunlight, the realities of life become not so beautiful at times and bring hurts which, according to the story, make life more meaningful.

The fathers of the boy and girl theorize it is better to plant a garden when you plant a turnip, you get a turnip. "But your progeny may turn into a tragedy," they sing.

The mute, a clown who does well at pantomime, and provides clever props for the scenes, is played by Linda Clerget.

Talivaldis Paups, a former singer with Fred Waring and his Pennsylvanians, played the narrator, or handoff, who represents the diabolical forces of life, the temptation which induces one to pursue wild adventures "out there" in the world. Much of his narration is in song. He introduces the story with a favorite song from the show, "Try to Remember."

Natalie Dame plays an Alice-in-Wonderland sort of girl with lots of animation and poise. Her boyfriend is enacted by Michael Morissette in healthy, re-blooded L'il Abner type of character. Both have excellent voices and sing some catchy duets.

Charles Kelly and Dwight Martin do a marvelous interpretation of the two fathers who sometimes quarrel, but most of the time agree and scheme to unite their children in a love match. Rehearsal of a couple of top-class vaudevillians, they do some amusing numbers with words and dances.

J.D. Dunning and Jay April as the old actor and "the man who dies" are typical imaginative creatures who literally appear from a trunk and spice the story with impossible situations.

Admirable musical accompaniment is provided with a piano, an electric piano with a harp effect, and percussion, directed by Robert Richardson. James Quinn has directed a well-organized show with excellent talent which should fulfill anyone's desire for fine summer entertainment.

"The Fantasticks" plays through Sunday night and again next week, Thursday through Sunday. Tickets are available at the door. Curtain time is 8:30 p.m. Enjoy!

Antonio Leone cultivates his vegetable garden on Birch St. with a wheel hoe. The garden is 100 by 100 feet. Mr. Leone will be 89 years old in December. (Herald photo by Pinto)

Mr. Leone has several kinds of lettuce, carrots, beets, an Italian variety of summer squash, eggplant, garlic, onions, peppers, escarole, cucumbers, green beans and a little sweet corn. He has a few hills of sugar pumpkins for pumpkin pies.

Root vegetables that are to be kept for winter are placed at the bottom of a hole one foot deep in the garden. They stay fresh and firm until spring.

On the wall in Mr. Leone's kitchen is a painting of the garden as seen from the kitchen window, with Mr. Leone at work there. It is titled "Grampy Leone's Garden" and is the work of Sister Marie Alice LaGace, who is staying with her aged mother in the house behind the Leone home.

"Sister," as the Leones call her, has been a missionary in Cameroon and Ghana, Africa; when she started a small garden in her back yard, without much experience, "Grampy" showed her what to do and how to do it. The picture was painted as a surprise and a gesture of thanks. "Grampy" is pleased and proud to have it.

Today's Thought

God's Paradise
 A field — a child in happy play
 Green grass — flowers in glorious array
 Rare beauty — wings away to skies
 So wondrous blue — a child's bright eyes;
 The sun with tender warmth breathes down
 All flowers seem to wear a crown.

The child with treasured flowers in hand
 Stands like a king with precious wand
 He touches everything in view
 He's made my world of dreams come true —
 I close my eyes — know God is here
 His paradise I see though childish tear!

Agostinelli Bows Out

With the withdrawal of Manchester's Nathan Agostinelli from the Republican contest for the gubernatorial nomination, the field has been narrowed to two leading contenders, 2nd District Congressman Robert Steele and Bridgeport Mayor Nicholas Panuzio.

Regardless of who winds up with the party nod, Agostinelli stands to strengthen the state ticket as he now intends to seek renomination and reelection to the job of state commissioner.

While he has given his endorsement to Steele in the bidding for the nomination, we are sure that whoever wins it can count on Nate along the campaign trail after the convention.

We know many of Nate's supporters are disappointed at his decision to drop out of the governorship race but he is still relatively young and the exposure he had in his bid will strengthen his try for reelection and future political efforts.

It was a tough decision to make but a realistic one when you consider the former Manchester mayor was pitted against two strong contenders who were outdistancing him in the polls.

But such is the game of primary politics and next month both parties must make a choice.

Whatever divisions may seem to be apparent now will quickly heal, or so the leaders of both parties hope, as the main event gets under way.

And despite indications of Agostinelli's sure-fire chances of reelection, we know he will conduct a vigorous campaign for himself and his party this fall.

Revenue Sharing Welcome

A U.S. Senate study shows that general revenue sharing has helped hold down state and local taxes. But because federal grants were cut back, revenue sharing doesn't offer the promise of "new money" for other jurisdictions.

The survey was taken among 14 states and also 16 counties and 15 cities. The Government Operations Subcommittee on Intergovernmental Relations made the investigation. It was released by Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, Maine Democrat, chairman.

The outstanding impression made on the committee was that state and local officials still overwhelmingly support the general concept of revenue sharing.

For instance, Pennsylvania, one of the states surveyed, reported that the dispute problems in some areas, the counties viewed new sources of federal aid as new money. It did not agree with the subcommittee's finding that the counties suffered from grant cutbacks.

In general, counties welcomed revenue sharing. So do the states. However, Pennsylvania indicated no direct effect on tax levels from revenue sharing. This state used the new funds for transportation subsidies in school districts, aid to counties to pay court costs, mass transit and day care. If it were not for revenue sharing, programs for the aging would have suffered also.

Taxes in Pennsylvania were cut $300 million last year, leaving a sizable surplus. The state reported that revenue sharing has helped but there would have been a surplus anyway.

It would seem that states with surplus revenues would not accept revenue sharing. But that is not the way of politics. Revenue sharing is based on population, not on need. Politically, it would not have passed Congress if it had been.

The Public Has A Right to Know

To the editor:

In the continuous hassle over the Main Street parking issue, it is time that the public was given all of the facts.

No. 1: The State Department of Transportation (DOT) has only one interest, namely the quick safe movement of vehicular traffic. We too, believe this is a proper interest. However, as in all things, a proper perspective must be adhered to. To speed up auto traffic at the cost of destroying our Main Street is ridiculous. The big stip about the increased traffic on Main Street does not hold water. According to the DOT's own survey, the traffic count on our Main Street has remained constant for several years. The threatened completion of I-94 is about ten years away, if it happens at all.

No. 2: Another bugaboo that has been raised is the accident rate increase caused by angle parking. The state survey and police records show the

Andrew Tully Capital Fare Baseball Declining

WASHINGTON — I fear I must go along with the experts who keep proclaiming that baseball is declining as a spectator sport. The chances of a player getting killed in that effete exercise must be at least a million to one.

It is not surprising, therefore, that the hustlers seeking a fast buck are now selling pure and simple violence. Any day now, I expect to pick up my favorite morning newspaper and learn that they're throwing marbles to some hungry lions out at Washington's Robert F. Kennedy Stadium, and call Ticketron to reserve your seats.

In Philadelphia, that splendid City of Brotherly Love, the hero of the ice hockey champion Flyers was a brute named Dave Schultz, who spent the season committing expert mayhem on members of opposing teams. The coach of Washington's new team promised prospective "fans" what he called "rock-em, sock-em hockey."

Meanwhile, at spring practice, Coach George Allen of the football Redskins was bellowing at the players to "hit, hit, hit!"

Now such homicidal contests have been joined by something called box lacrosse, which may be the fan's best opportunity to watch an athlete die in combat. "You've gotta be mean to play box lacrosse," shriek the ads. "You've also got to have a death wish, because box lacrosse consists mostly of one player carrying the ball in an elongated net pouch while six other players do their vicious best to slay him. I've seen more brutality in a barroom brawl than I see in this sport."

Poor dear baseball, with its ballet-like movements and those long pauses while the pitcher tries to avoid flinging the ball toward the batter. It's an age that glorifies the judo throw and the hockey stick to the head.

In baseball, the hard slide into second base is considered the height of violence. True, the competitive urge sometimes results in mass fist fights, but these battles are carefully staged by the participants to ensure that nobody gets hurt. Like tennis and golf, baseball emphasizes an assortment of skills, and thus is too genteel for the fan who wants blood. When the box lacrosse fans say

Members of the osteopathic profession, who observe their centenary this month, might well say that the first 100 years were the hardest.

It was on June 22, 1874, that a frontier physician named Andrew Taylor Still presented what was then a radical concept to the medical profession. He proposed that rather than treat specific disease symptoms, doctors should learn more about the interdependence of the body's systems, particularly the musculoskeletal system.

Today, there are more similarities than differences between D.O.s and M.D.s. In fact, it is now official policy of the American Medical Association to assimilate osteopathic physicians into the M.D. mainstream.

Many D.O.s are fiercely proud of their separatism, are resisting this new "ecumenism," though — after 100 years — they welcome cordial relations with M.D.s.

Along with everything else they established in 1787, the "Founding Fathers" made a "common market" out of the United States. The "Commerce Clause" was intentionally inserted into the Constitution to remove trade barriers between the states, which had been one of the principal grievances of the former colonies.

you give LIFE when you give BLOOD!

About 400 pints of blood will be needed every day this summer in the area served by the Little Red Cross Blood Program. It takes so little time to give blood, usually less than an hour. Most anyone aged 18 through 65 and in reasonably good health may be accepted as a donor. There's a great satisfaction in knowing that your contribution may save a life.

J. Colin Pushee, principal at Rham High School, has announced that seniors Cheryl Lyman, Cheryl Griffing, Nancy Persing, Pamela Mills, Robin Williams and Fred Schoen are the top ranking students of the graduating class of 1974.

Although it was previously decided that only the three top students, along with two to be selected by the senior class, would be participating in the graduation exercises, Pushee reported that there were ties for each of the top three rankings.

The two top students were Miss Lyman and Miss Griffing. Miss Lyman will be one of the speakers at graduation, whereas Miss Griffing will not be participating as she is presently taking her senior year in Brazil as an East Hampton Rotary Exchange Student.

The daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Lyman of Wall St., Hebron, Cheryl was the recipient of the English Academic Award, the science award, the Connecticut Association of Women Deans and Counselors Award.

Following graduation, Nancy plans to attend the University of Connecticut in the College of Liberal Arts and Sciences.

Pamela, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Mills of Flood Rd., Marlborough, is also a member of the National Honor Society and a recipient of the French and mathematics academic awards.

She was also a delegate to the Mock United Nations Meeting and to the Connecticut Association of Boards of Education as well as a Laurel Girls State representative and Student Council representative.

Historic Ideas

A ride in a horse-drawn cart is only one of the features of a visit to Sherbrooke Village, a restored 100-year old historic village on Nova Scotia's Eastern Shore. Vacation On A Farm In Nova Scotia

If you're longing to get back to the soil, if only for a brief respite from city life, then perhaps a week-long farm vacation in Nova Scotia will satisfy your needs.

Nova Scotia's lush Annapolis Valley is the perfect setting for such a rural holiday and this year, for the first time, farms in the area have formed a group called the Farm and Rural Vacations assoc. and are opening their doors to guests.

The program is sponsored by the Kings County Federation Agriculture.

The association's printed brochure lists the farms offering this special vacation. Each farm listed has something different to offer prospective guests—some are fruit and vegetable operations (the Annapolis Valley being most famous for its apples)—others raise livestock while some have riding stables with ponies for the youngsters.

Two of the farms would prefer to have children only—offering the parents a unique opportunity to tour Nova Scotia while their kids have the time of their lives enjoying all the activities of the farm.

Prices are standard: $70 a week per adult and $45 for each child. This rate, of course, includes all meals. On the farm where the children remain without the parents, the adult tasks they are encouraged to try during their week on the farm. They'll grow up with an appreciation of farm life and have a greater understanding of the importance of the farmer to our economy.

A vacationing family won't want to spend all their time on the farm—beaches, golf courses and opportunities for sport fishing will entice them away for a few hours. From anywhere in the valley, it's only a short drive to the Bay of Fundy coast where the highest tides in the world occur.

And then there's a summer-long series of special events, beginning with the Annapolis Valley Apple Blossom Festival in the first weekend in June and continuing until mid-September with the Hants County Exhibition in Windsor. It's the oldest agricultural fair in North America. In mid-July, there's a chance to sample French-Canadian culture at the Acadian Festival of Clare, and attend the Western Nova Scotia Handcraft Demonstration and sale in Annapolis Royal. While the rest of the family enjoys these events, dad can take off for a day's striped bass fishing at the Annapolis River causeway.

This year's visitors to the Annapolis Valley have a special treat in store. For three days, July 18-20, the famed Bolshoi Ballet will give nightly appearances at the Theatre Arts Festival International, an annual extravaganza of theatre, dance, classical and pop music held at Acadia University in Wolfville. Dates for the festival are July 17-21.

For detailed information on the farm experience and are thrilled with even the simplest tasks they are encouraged to try during their week on the farm. They'll grow up with an appreciation of farm life and have a greater understanding of the importance of the farmer to our economy.

Travel

By MURRAY J. BROWN
UPI Travel Editor
NEW YORK (UPI) — Young Americans on tight vacation budgets can still find ways of beating the high costs of traveling abroad this summer below—the bustling downtown, neighboring city of Dartmouth, busy harbor and the blue Atlantic beyond it. Inside the fortress walls, interesting museums depict the history of the city.
Because the area between the harbor and the Citadel was first to be settled when the city was founded in 1749, most buildings of historical interest are located here.
Waterfront buildings that once bustled with the activities of dingy buildings, poor restaurants, high prices, meagre nightlife and the infamous VE day riots.
They would hardly recognize the "new" Halifax.
Many of the old buildings still remain, but they have been carefully restored, revealing a charm that years of dirt and grime had obliterated. Many have historic value and are being restored to their original use as restaurants, small offices and art galleries.
Now they stand in the shadow of sleek new high rise buildings—housing offices, apartments and hotels. Or they compete for space with sprawling shopping centers, giving the city a sense of history flavored with modern efficiency.
Farm vacation brochures are also available from the Tourist Council of Central Nova Scotia, Truro, Nova Scotia, which lists farms still hosting guests in that area of the province.
For general travel information on Nova Scotia, write the Travel Division, Department of Tourism, P.O. Box 130, Halifax, Nova Scotia.
If you are 23 or under, you might save money by going to Europe via Canada. While the United States abolished the brain-busINESS student-youth transatlantic fares last Jan. 1, they are still being offered by Canadian airlines.
For example, the lowest round-trip fare on scheduled airlines between New York and London during the peak summer months is $413 for stays of at least 22 days but no more than 45 days.
Special Fares
The Canadian youth fares at this writing, are $313 from Montreal and $335 from Toronto and your ticket is valid for one year from the date of departure. But don't forget to figure the cost of transportation to and from the Canadian cities. Incidentally, there are even more substantial savings over regular fares for shorter and longer stays abroad.
A visitor to Halifax is wise to check the program at the new Dalhousie University Arts Centre; he's almost sure to find something happening there, whether it's a rock show or symphony concert. Or it may be an evening of bare racing at nearby Sackville Downs, which boasts a dining room, lounge, and parimutuel for the enjoyment of spectators.
Daytime can be filled with golfing (there are several championship courses in the vicinity area), swimming at bus or boat tours, or the unique opportunity to cruise under sail for three hours on a 150-foot schooner, Bluenose II.

Historic Halifax

It has taken 30 years for Halifax, Nova Scotia's capital and the largest city in Canada's Atlantic Provinces, to shake off its dismal war-time image.
In the minds of many servicemen, stationed here prior to embarking for European war zone in the 1940s, this east coast port still recalls memories of dingy buildings, poor restaurants, high prices, meagre nightlife and the infamous VE day riots.
They would hardly recognize the "new" Halifax.

Prof. Oakley Authors Book

Francis Oakley, professor of history at Williams College in Williamstown, Mass., is the author of a recently issued book, "The Medieval Experience," published by Charles Scribner's Sons of New York.

The author is married to the former Claire-Anne Lamezo, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John B. Lamezo of 19 Jean Rd.

Aimed at the general reader, the book argues that the roots of much that is unique about modern Western civilization lies in the Middle Ages.

Prof. Oakley has been a member of the Williams faculty since 1961. Born in Liverpool, England, he graduated in 1953 from Oxford University and received his master's degree there. He did post-graduate work at the Pontifical Institute of Medieval Studies in Toronto.

He taught history at Yale University for two years and received an M.A. and a Ph.D. there before joining the Williams faculty as a lecturer in history.

He became a full professor in 1970.

Earlier this month, Prof. Oakley delivered the Baccalaureate address the morning of the 185th Williams Commencement exercises.

Equal Rights Bill Dead in Louisiana

BATON ROUGE, La. (UPI) — A legislative committee Wednesday apparently killed any chance Louisiana will ratify the Equal Rights Amendment to the U.S. Constitution.

"It's dead, dead, dead, dead, for good, across the nation," predicted Rep. Louise Johnson of Berne, the leader of the opponents to the ERA. "That's the end of it."

A House Judiciary Committee voted 10-7 against ratification. The ERA was defeated on the House floor in 1972, but the amendment's supporters thought they had enough votes to get it through this time.

During the two-hour committee hearing the resolution was supported by the Louisiana AFL-CIO, the NAACP, the League of Women Voters and a number of women's organizations.

But Mrs. Johnson and her forces argued that the amendment would give the federal government control over family laws, disrupt marriages and make women subject to the draft.

Veterans of Hospital Ward Share First Spot in LPGA

SUTTON, Mass. (UPI)—The 88 entrants in the LPGA Championship here are all scratch golfers but the two leaders carry an additional handicap.
Both Sandra Haynie and Mary Mills, who shot four-under-par 68 in Thursday's opening round, are veterans of the hospital ward and have learned to overcome nagging physical problems.
Miss Haynie, 31, of Dallas, Tex., was struck by a car two years ago in South Africa and underwent surgery on her right wrist in 1973. Even now, she takes whirlpool treatments and, when home, dips the forearm in paraffin to loosen the tendons.
Miss Mills overcame back surgery 15 years ago and is bouncing back from surgery two years ago on her left hand. The back surgery led to her being able to drive the ball about 20 yards less.
But injuries or not, their scores on the opening round were healthy.
"On this course, you want to make the fewest mistakes possible and take advantage of every birdie opportunity," said Miss Haynie, who practiced her preening with five birdies and just one bogey.
"You can't make mistakes here or you will be penalized severely," said Miss Mills who also had five birdies and a bogey. Four of the birds came on the final Forming the Bantams' squad are Chris Plumley, Kevin Dickenson, Peter Pires, Ed Gillis and Ken Del Giudice. Sharon McElhannon, Cheryl Garino, Diane Connors, Jolene Rivers and Janet McElhannon will join the Juniors and Cindy Colgan, Laurie Banavice, Paula Skrabat, Paula Rivard and Denise Wisienki with the Seniors.

NEW YORK (UPI) — It isn't very pleasant to hear someone saying that the business you have given your life to may go out of business, and that's the way Harry Markson, retired president of Madison Square Garden Boxing, felt Thursday when the corporation indicated it would be dropping the world and boxing in a year if the old racket proved unprofitable.
Getting in his feet, Markson said in a shaking voice: "I'm sorry, I'm a boxing man, and no offense, you're a bottom line man."
Markson continued, "but Madison Square Garden means boxing throughout the world, and I want to see Garden boxing remain in the main stream of the sport."
Extra work was also the order of the night as the Chiefs edged the Brewers in two overtimes, 3-1.
Jon Kim gave the Brewers an early lead in the first stanza but Bill Masse found the nets in the fourth for the Brewers. Glen Bognini and Bruce McKenny tallied in the overtime.
SENIORS
Second half goals by Glen Wilson and Bob Moreau paced the Astros to a 2-1 decision over the Apollos. One each came in the third and fourth sessions.
Don Rolo's last period score averaged a blank for the Apollos. Jim Perry had a big night in the nets for the winners with Ben Hemmigan also playing a fine defensive game with Mike Diana best on defense in defeat.

Each side tallied one goal in each half last night and the result was a 1-1 deadlock between the Astros and Apollos. Stu Harkins scored in the second period for the Astros and Mike Saunders kicked the count in the third session for the Apollos.
Neither side was able to tally in two overtimes.

Golf

AKRON, Ohio (UPI) — Did success spoil Ray Floyd?
"Yes," said the first round leader of the $170,000 American Golf Classic.
Floyd, who shot a five-under-par 65 in Thursday's first round, with a record-setting 29 on the front side, is having his best season since 1969 when he won three tournaments, including the PGA championship.
During that year he also won the Jacksonville Open and this season's American Golf Classic, setting a 54-hole course record in the process with a 12-under-par 268 for 72 holes.

Jim Hunter at Best in Important Games

NEW YORK (UPI) — Putting your money on Jim Hunter for a "big" game is like investing in blue-chip stock.
Hunter is fast gaining a reputation as a "money" pitcher—the kind who performs under pressure in an important game—and the 28-year-old right-hander feels most comfortable in such a situation.
The Oakland A's ace pitched an important game against the red-hot Kansas City Royals Thursday night and came through with a five-hit shutout in leading his club to a 4-0 victory that preserved the lead in the American League West.
"I enjoy pitching in a game which calls for some bearing down. You like to throw in an important game and over a long season there just aren't that many of them," said Hunter.
Of course, winning a big game is nothing new to Hunter. Last season he pitched a shutout against Baltimore in the decisive fifth game of the crucial sixth game of the World Series against the New York Mets. And the year before, he won two games in the World Series, including the decisive seventh game when he worked in relief after starting the second and fifth games.
The A's, who had been in a slump of late and had seen their lead in the West Division dwindle to one-half game over Kansas City, increased their lead to one and a half games after Thursday night's victory. Kansas City had entered the game with six victories in their last eight outings, while Oakland had lost eight of its last 11.
"You can't ask for a better guy to be out there on the mound when you need a big win in the opener of an important series," said A's Manager Alvin Dark.
"He's the best money pitcher in the league," added Oakland third baseman Sam Rice.
Hunter, who picked up his first victory in nearly a week, struck out four and walked none in boosting his record to 9-8. Only one runner got as far as third base.

This Streaker A Pro Florida League Features Woman

LAKELAND, Fla. (UPI) — A woman streaker, who dabbed across the infield during a minor league baseball game, told newsmen she's a professional, but the home club said she's an amateur and Florida State League officials were uncertain.
It was the second streaking incident in a week during a game between the Lakeland Tigers and Tampa Tarpons. The first incident occurred a week ago during a game at Tampa.
Lakeland team officials said the Wednesday night streaker closely resembled the Tampa streaker of the previous week.
George MacDonald Jr., president of the Florida State League, said Thursday he was at Wednesday night's game and "everything was on the up and up."
MacDonald said the league would investigate if a complaint was lodged, but he would first have to find out whether the allegation that the streaker was paid was true.
"Just because she said she was hired doesn't make it so," MacDonald said. He said that a deputy sheriff attempted to catch the streaker but she escaped.
The streaker, who declined to give her name, told sportswriter Robert Brakes of the Tampa Times after the incident that she escaped from the deputy sheriff because "it was supposed to be that way."
Banes said she told him she had streaked at the Tampa game and afterward General Manager Mike Kavanaugh of the Lakeland Tigers "said he'd like for me to be there for the Tuesday night game in Lakeland and that he would give me $20 or so."
When that game was rained out, she said, the streak was rescheduled as part of Wednesday night's doubleheader.
Kavanaugh had had any advance knowledge of the streak.
Witnesses said the woman shed her clothes in a small room off the stadium and entered the diamond through a gate opposite third base during the third inning of the second game of the doubleheader.
She raced to the pitcher's mound, paused to kiss pitcher Pat McCormack on the cheek, and ran through a gate along the right field foul line. She disappeared into the batting cages behind the dressing room. There she rechecked herself in garments apparently brought there by an accomplice, witnesses said.
When asked what the league would do if it learned its clubs were hiring professional streakers, MacDonald said, "We would not condone this."

Blow Deal to Boston Arena Plans

BOSTON (UPI) — The Storer Broadcasting Co., owners of the Boston Bruins and their antiquated home, Boston Garden, has apparently dealt a death blow to city plans to build a new arena, Peter Storer, president of the firm, said Thursday the plan was not feasible and offered to sell the Bruins and the Garden to any contractor willing to invest in the project.
"The overall cost of $24 to $28 million is unfeasible as far as our company is concerned," said Storer in a news conference at the Garden.
"If there are parties who feel they can better serve the interests of greater Boston, we will listen to any serious offers from financially responsible parties to purchase the stock of New Boston Garden Corp., including both the Garden and the Bruins, as they seem inseparable as things now stand."
Storer refused to disclose how much it would take to purchase the National Hockey League team and its 45-year-old home Washington Capitals in a straight cash deal.
"Mohs, who has played defense and at wing parts in only 28 games for Atlanta last season—most of them in the first half of the year. He scored no goals but had three assists. During his NHL career, Mohs has scored 246 goals.

REAL ESTATE CORNER

By RALPH PASEK

Ninety percent of your problems as a buyer or seller must be solved before you can logically go to your lawyer. For these problems you need a real estate counselor, not a lawyer. This is because your lawyer is expected to know the law, but he is not presumed to have specialized knowledge of real estate problems, and normally does not possess such practical knowledge and experience. Furthermore, most buyers secure mortgage money to help them buy and the lending institution taking the mortgages insist upon their own attorney searching the titles and preparing closings. Therefore, your lawyer can help you as purchaser in only one area of your many problems, and usually only at one time.

Buy Hickey's Grove, Rec Board Tells Town

By EARL YOST
Possible use of a portion of Hickey's Grove for outdoor recreation facilities has been suggested by members of the Park and Recreation Advisory Commission and Thursday night town meeting.

Speaking at the regular monthly meeting of the commission, chaired by Joe Sylvester, Janenda said that an appraisal value of the rear area, or that bordering Union Pond, had been made and a rough figure was $2,000 per acre.

Church of Christ D-3 Polling Place

Manchester's registrars of voters have designated the Church of Christ, Vernon and Lydall Sts., the new polling place for voting District 3.

It replaces the Northfield Green Community Center on Ambassador Dr., the last polling place used by the district, and the Marine Corps League Building on Parker St., chosen several weeks ago as the new polling place but never used.

The registrars explained the Community Center failed to meet standards for polling places and the Marine Corps League building has insufficient parking and could cause traffic problems.

They said the church is during the 20s and 30s, comprising 15.3 acres. Janenda added that the possibility of a zone change would increase the property to $5,000 an acre and if changed to industrial, it would go as high as $10,000 an acre with a limit of $10,000 an acre.

A major problem for any change in zoning, it was said, would be a serious sewage problem as the area is lower than Oakland St. sewage lines.

The commission voted unanimously to recommend for a second time to the Board of Directors that this property be purchased as soon as possible for a recreation complex.

Sadat Appeals to Nixon To Halt Israeli Raids

By United Press International
Egyptian President Anwar Sadat has sent an urgent letter to President Nixon asking him to pressure Israel into halting raids on Palestinian refugee camps in Lebanon, government sources in Cairo said today.

Israeli soldiers meanwhile began efforts to seal the 50-mile border with Lebanon and stop guerrilla attacks on its settlements. Terrorist raids in the region already have killed 52 persons since the October war.

Sadat's letter said three consecutive days of jet attacks on guerrilla camps in southern Lebanon this week might have left as many as 50 Palestinians dead and 60 others wounded.

Report 30 Killed
But Palestinian spokesmen said 30 persons were killed and 100 wounded, most of them women and children.

Cairo's weekly newspaper Akhbar El Yom quoted government sources as saying Sadat condemned the Israeli attacks and asked Nixon to "take a firm stand against these aggressions."

Sadat's letter said he was "deeply shocked" by the repeated aggressions on Lebanon and is prepared to take the necessary measures to deter the Israeli attacks, the letter warned.

Other Developments
• The State Department called Friday for both Lebanon and Israel to end the cycle of violence and retaliations.
• Syrian President Hafez Assad met in Damascus with the entire 14-man leadership of the Palestinian guerrillas and assured them of Syria's "unwavering support," Damascus radio said.
• Palestinian guerrilla chief Yasser Arafat asked ambassadors from Arab countries at a Beirut meeting to supply the refugee camps with an air defense system — apparently Soviet-made surface-to-air missiles — and ordered the construction of air raid shelters in all camps.
• Lebanese Premier Takiyeddin Solh conferred about the raids with Arab ambassadors and said the question of Lebanon's calling an urgent session of the U.N. Security Council was "still under discussion."

Nixon Lawyer Questions Grand Jury's Authority

WASHINGTON (UPI) — White House lawyer James D. St. Clair has told the Supreme Court a grand jury had no constitutional right to name President Nixon as an indicted conspirator in the Watergate cover-up case.

In a 149-page brief filed with the court Friday, the presidential attorney argued that the only way to call a president to account for alleged wrongdoing was through the impeachment process in Congress.

St. Clair's brief went on to complain that Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski tried to use the grand jury process to obtain evidence against Nixon which then would be turned over to the impeachment inquiry. That, St. Clair said, constituted an abuse of the judicial system and an invasion of Congress' exclusive impeachment domain. He went on to say that when word leaked to the press that Nixon had been named as an indicted conspirator, that constituted "a direct and damaging assault on the fairness of the House impeachment proceeding" and an attempt to "nullify the presumption of innocence" with respect to the President.

Jaworski's Courts Must Decide
Jaworski replied in a 169-page, two-volume brief that the listing of Nixon was proper.

Also before the court is the issue of whether Nixon could claim executive privilege to withhold tapes and other evidence Jaworski has subpoenaed for use in trials of Nixon aides accused of conspiring to cover up the Watergate break-in.

Jaworski said the President could not be the judge of what evidence must be produced, "when that evidence may have a material bearing on whether he is impeached."

Jaworski said executive privilege was for the courts to decide, not the President. St. Clair argued that the courts did not have the power to rule on executive privilege because it was a matter that should be determined by the House Judiciary Committee's impeachment inquiry.

Oral Arguments July 8
"There has been fusion of two entirely different proceedings; one, involving various individual defendants, and the other the impeachment proceeding involving the President," St. Clair said. "The first lies in the courts; the second lies in the Congress."

Each side will file rebuttal briefs, and the court will then hear oral arguments July 8.

In other developments:
• The (New York) Daily News said Colson told House Judiciary Committee staffers last week that he warned Nixon in January, 1973, about Attorney General John N. Mitchell's alleged involvement in planning the Watergate break-in. Nixon has said that he didn't hear about it until March 21, 1973.
• The House Judiciary Committee ended its six-week closed door review of impeachment evidence Friday. Next week it will consider the calling of witnesses and possible issuance of subpoenas against the White House.
• E. J. Connelley, former head of the White House "plumbers," was released from federal prison after serving four months and one week in connection with the burglary at the office of Ellsberg's psychiatrist.
• Jaworski filed a federal court brief opposing a bid by California Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke to obtain tapes and documents from the White House to defend himself against charges of lying to senators in connection with the International Telephone and Telegraph case.

What better way for Mr. and Mrs. Nels Johnson of 196 Scott Dr. to be surprised on their 25th wedding anniversary than with a brand new Cadillac? A ticket bought for a South Windsor Rotary Club clam bake entitled the purchaser to a chance on the car. Johnson was the winner. (Herald photo by Larson)

They Won New Cadillac On 25th Anniversary

It was beyond Mr. and Mrs. Nels Johnson's wildest dreams they would ever own a Cadillac, according to their daughter, Mrs. Sharon Burnham.

They had bought a $100 ticket to the South Windsor Rotary Club clam bake Saturday which gave them a chance at the raffle for a brand new Cadillac.

When they returned from the clam bake to their home at 196

Scott Dr., friends and relatives surprised them with a 25th wedding anniversary party.

As the party began to break up about 10 p.m., a member of the Rotary Club came to the door and presented Johnson with the keys to the 1974 Cadillac—a perfect ending to a special event. Johnson had bought the winning ticket No. 50 which had been drawn at the end of the clam bake.

The Johnsons were married June 18, 1949, in Wethersfield. The party was given by their children: Mrs. Burnham, Harry W. Johnson, Marybeth Johnson, Nels Johnson Jr., and Jill Johnson.

Johnson is head of the Nels Johnson Insurance Agency.

Bolton High Commencement Conducted for 53 Seniors

Friday night commencement exercises were conducted at Bolton High School. The procession was headed by junior class marshals Robin Murdock and Kurt Cowles. Diplomas were granted to 53 seniors.

Many proud parents, relatives and friends of the graduates were seated in folding chairs and on the bleachers in the high school gymnasium behind the graduates.

The speaker's platform was back by a huge "Class of 1974" sign in the class colors, blue and white.

On Friday morning, class members set up seating arrangements outdoors, but due to the rainy weather the graduation had to be held in the gym.

Principal Norman Shaw was master of ceremonies for the school's eighth annual commencement. The invocation by the Rev. J. Stanton Conover of Bolton

Kissinger Briefs Senators

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger privately has briefed members of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee on details of a possible U.S.-Soviet agreement banning some underground nuclear tests.

Kissinger declined to repeat for newsmen what he told the senators at a closed meeting Friday, but several senators said that subject was discussed. There has been speculation since an agreement might be reached when President Nixon goes to Moscow for summit talks next week.

Partial Test Ban
The United States and Soviet Union already have banned nuclear tests in the atmosphere, space and under water. But underground tests were exempted from the ban because they were hard to distinguish from earthquakes without on-site inspection — which the Soviets opposed.

The smaller the explosions underground, the harder it is to identify them with seismic instruments.

What is being discussed now, the senators said, is a partial underground test ban forbidding tests above a certain "threshold" of explosive power.

Committee member Frank Church, D-Idaho, called the proposal "window dressing." Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine, said that "without knowing what threshold would be discussed," the proposal "disturbs me very much."

There also were reports that the United States and Russia privately have modified their 1972 agreements limiting strategic arms on each side.

Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., told newsmen Friday "interpretations and agreements" which would raise the ceilings for Soviet numbers of missiles and lower them for the United States have been negotiated privately.

Boston Told to Integrate Schools in September

BOSTON (UPI) — A federal judge Friday accused the all-white Boston School Committee of violating the U.S. Constitution by creating a "dual school system" — one for whites, another for blacks. He ordered the city to comply with a lower court order to integrate classes by September through forced busing.

School Committee Chairman John J. Kerrigan said the ruling by U.S. District Court Judge W. Arthur Garrity directly to the Supreme Court.

The high court already has before it a similar case before it involving segregated schools in Detroit. A ruling in that case could come as early as next week.

Garrity's ruling stemmed from a suit filed in 1972 by the NAACP. The school committee was represented in the case by President Nixon's Watergate lawyer, James D. St. Clair, then a member of the prestigious Boston law firm of Hale and Dorr.

Garrity said the school committee had engaged in series of "pervasive practices which were intentionally

House Considers Limit On Loans to Cattlemen

WASHINGTON (UPI) — House members plan to limit individual loans to $50,000 in a proposed $3 billion government guaranteed loan program designed to aid distressed cattlemen.

One congressman conceded the proposed loan limit was a move to make the program more palatable to consumers.

Farm bloc congressmen Friday decided to put the $50,000 ceiling on individual loans in a forthcoming bill of their own. A similar bill comes up for a vote in the Senate Monday afternoon. That measure would set individual loan ceilings at $1 million, but the congressman conceded "we might have trouble with city votes" with a ceiling that high.

"Big loans can be justified in this business," he explained, "but it's an emotional thing — somebody would be sure to characterize it as a millionaire's bill."

Under terms of the Senate bill private lenders would be guaranteed against default on up to 90 percent of loans made to "bona fide livestock producers—poultry and dairy as well as beef and pork producers.

The loan measure is one of a series of actions planned by Congress and the administration to help cattle and hog producers out of a price slump which has caused a financial crisis in the domestic livestock market.

Other possible moves include import quotas, reopening of Canada to American beef, and encouraging special sales in supermarkets.

A report from the Agriculture Department Friday confirmed earlier forecasts that farmers are reducing pork output in an effort to end their losses by cutting market supplies.

Court Cases

CIRCUIT COURT 12
Manchester Session
Richard Forsyth, 19, and John Connors, 25, both of Brockton, Mass. pleaded guilty to second-degree larceny Thursday in connection with their theft of a Brockton car, its abandonment in Coventry on Barnsee Lane, and their unsuccessful attempts to steal six cars in the neighborhood.

They were arrested while trying to hitchhike after police received complaints from the neighbors about the attempts on their cars. In their company was a 14-year-old girl who was turned over to juvenile authorities.

The second-degree larceny charge concerns the theft of the Brockton car. All other charges against the men were nolle by the prosecutor. They were criminal attempt to commit larceny (six counts), tampering with a motor vehicle (six counts), second-degree burglary, and hitchhiking.

Sentencing of the two men was delayed until July 25 pending a pre-sentence investigation.
