A Historic Decision

The Supreme Court has spoken. Its decision in ordering President Nixon to surrender certain subpoenaed materials to Federal Judge John Sirica is undoubtedly judicially sound. In this case, because of Judge Sirica's integrity, we are confident he will release only those portions of the material which are relevant to Special Prosecutor Leon Jaworski's criminal investigations.

The court, we think, made it quite clear that executive privilege is a valid presidential prerogative except where criminal matters are concerned. Obviously, the court recognized that any president, regardless of guilt or innocence, is not the best person to judge what is or is not relevant to a criminal investigation. The president is an officer and yet the embodiment of an office also.

We hope that all those who are concerned for justice will begin now to work on the mechanics for implementing the decision in the future so that it will be a tool of justice rather than a potential political weapon for harassing presidents.

Our system is working, even if at times it appears to be agonizingly slow. The decision has historic ramifications and whether it is for good or evil will lie not in the decision but how we apply it in the future.

assessment made by the executive, judiciary and the Congress to develop a system of safeguards that will prevent any abuse of subpoena powers against a future president.

This will be particularly true should Congress decide to create a permanent special prosecutor's office which could conceivably be used to personal or partisan advantage.

But of particular importance is the need to make as certain as is humanly possible that when presidential records are subpoenaed legitimately, the judge who does the screening for relevancy is of the highest moral and judicial character. Today we are fortunate this judge is Judge Sirica, but who knows next time, if there is one, the judge could be a Judge Kerker.

Winding Down The Wind

Ever since the Wright Brothers built the first one to test airfoil shapes, the wind tunnel has been an indispensable tool of the aircraft designer. Now architects and construction engineers are putting entire buildings in wind tunnels — in miniature, of course.

As buildings reach greater heights, they deflect downward the faster winds encountered aloft. In some cases — most notably one involving a skyscraper in Boston — the high winds have torn off portions of the structure's facade and broken windows. In high winds, ground-level doors may be difficult to open and wind paths are created around corners and along sidewalks that are uncomfortable or dangerous to pedestrians.

The wind effects on a 40-story office tower and pedestrian plaza planned for downtown Seattle were recently determined by Calspan Corp. engineers in a specialized wind tunnel simulating the earth's turbulent atmosphere.

An area of downtown Seattle about one-half mile in diameter was reproduced on an 88-inch-diameter turntable. Models of existing city structures surrounded the 16-inch-high tower in its center. By rotating the turntable, the model city was subjected to wind flow from 36 directions, from less than one mile an hour to more than 60 miles an hour.

By tracing the wind paths created and by making modifications on the model, the engineers were able to show architects how to improve their design.

Open Your Eyes to More Serious Problems

To the editor: A young mother recently complained to me that, "We are being surrounded by pornographic movie houses and no one is doing anything about it."

Another source, high in the councils of the Committee to Re-elect the President, added another reason for Nixon's decision to tape conversations in his office: "It was a form of protection against those around him," this source said. "He wanted to have something on (John) Ehrlichman and (H.R.) Haldeman and that in case they decided to go over to the enemy... Ehrlichman was Nixon's original domestic advisor."

Why, then, did Nixon reject advice that he destroy the tapes when the Watergate scandal broke? Because, said the White House aide, "The President was absolutely confident that the tapes would prove his innocence of any wrongdoing. He's still confident that the American people, if not the Congress, will so interpret his words on the tapes."

At any rate, according to this source, Nixon originally believed he would have time to go over the tapes at his leisure after he left the White House and separate the wheat from the chaff. "The President wanted to write the definitive history of his administration, and therefore, he wanted these tapes as evidence that his history was the truth," the source said.

"In the President's place, I'd have burned all those damn tapes," said the White House aide. "But I wouldn't have had Richard Nixon's supreme confidence that it is okay to hang them all out. Even now, you'd never know by talking with him that he was in any trouble. I've never seen a man so secure in the belief that he is right."

Increasing pressure is being exerted on Congress to take some form of action. Members of Congress, however, have treated amnesty as a taboo subject and have been more than pleased to leave the issue on the White House doorstep.

A recent Gallup poll explains the reluctance of most politicians to take sides on the explosive issue. According to the poll, a narrow 58 per cent of Americans are opposed to unconditional amnesty.

At the opposite end of the spectrum is the argument by various pro-amnesty groups that the war was illegal and immoral and those who refused to serve in it should be granted total and unconditional amnesty.

Unfortunately for most teenagers fall to move from this childish waste of time to an intelligent application to meaningful priorities. They must be overtly involved in some sort of activity, regardless of its merit, or we bear them say, "I'm bored!"

Exactly how many David's there are who dodged the draft or deserted the military and are now living either underground in the United States or in voluntary exile is open to question. Although some pro-amnesty groups maintain the number is well over 100,000, official government figures place it considerably lower. According to the Department of Justice and Defense, 6,000 men have been convicted of draft evasion since 1965; 5,000 — most of whom are in hiding — are under indictment; and another 10,000 cases are under investigation.

In addition, nearly 30,000 deserters are still at large. Although questions of pardon and amnesty following years historically have been the prerogative of the President,

President Wanted Tapes for History

WASHINGTON — A White House aide close to President Nixon has "explained" why Nixon made those notorious tapes in the first place and then rejected advice that they be destroyed.

First, according to the staff member, Nixon "wanted to be in a position to confound historians with the recorded truth if they published a lot of lies about his tenure in the White House."

Another source, high in the councils of the Committee to Re-elect the President, added another reason for Nixon's decision to tape conversations in his office: "It was a form of protection against those around him," this source said. "He wanted to have something on (John) Ehrlichman and (H.R.) Haldeman and that in case they decided to go over to the enemy... Ehrlichman was Nixon's original domestic advisor."

Wings Of Evening

One of the most amazing stories I ever heard was about a Roman Catholic archbishop in Paris who was addressing a convocation of young people. He began with an account of three irreligious youths who were standing on a street corner on a Good Friday making scurrilous remarks as they watched the people going to church. They spoke of "the superstitions" of the faithful, the "follishness of prayer," religion as "the opiate of the people," "the fear of dying" that drove the older people to worship.

As their remarks became more insulting the worshippers hurried by to get out of earshot. Finally one of the three spoke to the leader: "Why not say these things to priests?" "Why not?" "Let's go," was the reply. "The three entered the church and, while the third made his challenge to the clergyman, the others watched. With fire in his eyes the priest demanded: 'Why do you say these words on Good Friday of all days?'

"Well, then, accept this dare. Go into the sanctuary, stand in front of the crucifix and say 'Christ died for me and I don't give a damn.'" "Why not?" he shrugged. He walked down the aisle, made the statement and started to saunter away. "Again!" came the command. "A little reluctantly he turned again to the crucifix, gazed at it for a few minutes, then blurted out, 'Christ died for me and I don't give a damn.'"

Quickly he started for the door. "Stop!" shouted the priest. "Say it once more." Very slowly the young man faced the crucifix, stood there for more than five minutes, then turned and said: "Father, I am ready to make confession." The archbishop who was telling this story paused, waited for the complete attention of the crowd, then dramatically announced: "I was that young man." Contrast his response with G.A. Student-Kennedy's poem, "Indifference." This poet was a popular minister, "the King's cleric." I had the privilege of hearing him speak at more than one student conference. Here is the poem:

"When Jesus came to Golgotha they hanged him on a tree. They drew the great nails through hands and feet, and made a Calvary. They crowned Him with a crown of thorns, red were his wounds and deep. For those were crude and cruel days, and human flesh was cheap. When Jesus came to Birmingham, they simply passed Him by. They never hurt a hair of Him, they only let him die. For men had grown more tender, and they would not give Him pain. They only just passed down the street, and left Him in the rain. Still Jesus cried, 'Forgive them for they know not what they do.' And still it rained the winter rain that drenched Him through and through. The crowds went home but left the streets without a soul to see, and Jesus crouched against a wall and cried for Calvary."

Our chuckle for the week comes from the prayer of a nine year old. His father, a minister friend of mine, had invited the Board of Deacons for dinner. Perhaps to show off of his son's precocity he asked him to say grace. As all reverently bowed their heads he prayed: "O God, we thank you for this food which Mama has prepared, and for our strong stomachs. Amen." He did not understand the smiles on the faces of the deacons.

Americans have been brought up to doers. How often we hear: "Don't just think about it. Do it." Sometimes this is the best advice but there are other times when it is more important to be than to do. Let me illustrate. When I was a young minister in Vermont I was called up to a funeral. The casket was closed and I had never seen the woman past eighty, lying on an old-fashioned brass bed. Leaning on one elbow, she asked urgently: "What good am I? Why should I keep on living? What can I do for God now?" — then she asked: "Is there a problem I had not considered before but suddenly the answer came to me and I said: 'You are asking the wrong question. It is not 'what can I do' but 'what can I be for God?' Look at the Beatitudes. They are matters of being — meek, poor in spirit, merciful, pure in heart. All these you can be in your bed with your illness. Further, consider the last week of Jesus' life on earth. Through His trial and suffering He was able to be — forgiving, steadfast, prayerful, faithful, obedient."

Yanks Game Back, Set for Red Sox

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York Yankees were playing the Milwaukee Brewers Friday night but they had the Boston Red Sox on their mind.

The Yanks doubled the Brewers 5-1 to move within one game of the first place Red Sox and they to Boston Saturday night to start a three-game series.

The third game Monday night will be televised nationally and the Yankees think all three of them are critical since they are 0-4 in Boston this year and 1-12 in Fenway Park over the last two years.

Pat Dobson, who allowed nine hits in 7 2/3 innings to get credit for the victory, said, "It's only July but this is still a big series. It's a fact that we haven't won up there and we've got to get over that hump. We could be psyched out a bit up there."

National League Roundup

Seaver on Beam Blanking Cards

NEW YORK (UPI) — Tom Seaver was worried Friday night and it wasn't about the pennant race in the National League East.

Seaver, making his first start since July 7, pitched a four-hit shutout as the New York Mets handed All-Star pitcher Lynn McGlothen his fourth straight loss by downing the St. Louis Cardinals 3-0. It was Seaver's first complete game since June 1.

Seaver, who has won the coveted Cy Young Award twice, has been bothered this season by a sciatic nerve in his right hip, a constriction of the muscles that he thinks may have been caused by jamming his heel into the ground after each delivery.

Doctors ordered Seaver to take a 10-day layoff in which he wasn't allowed to run, throw or for that matter, "do anything." Seaver began throwing on the mound after each delivery.

The Mets, the defending champions in the NL East, are currently in the division cellar, eight games behind Philadelphia. When asked what his return meant to the Mets in terms of the pennant race, Seaver was a bit reserved.

"It's got to be a big lift after we lost a doubleheader yesterday," Seaver said. "But that wasn't the main thing in my mind tonight."

Giants 5, Reds 4 Steve Ontiveros and Ken Rudolph each singled home a pair of runs during a five-run third inning to lead the Giants over Cincinnati.

The Giants collected four hits and took advantage of three walks, one intentional, by Ron Gullett in the inning to snap his five-game winning streak.

Tony Perez collected a single and a two-run homer for the Reds. The two hits gave Perez 19-for-51 in his last 13 games.

Pirates 3, Expos 0 Bob Robertson ripped his 10th homer and Dock Ellis combined with Ramon Hernandez for a five-hit shutout as Pittsburgh blanked the Expos. Ellis needed ninth inning relief help from Hernandez after allowing one out singles to Ron Hunt and Larry Lintz. Hernandez got Willie Davis to fly out and struck out Ken Singleton as Ellis picked up his sixth win against eight defeats.

Cubs 10, Phillies 7 Billy Williams' eighth career grand slam homer highlighted a five-run sixth inning for the Cubs and produced a victory over Philadelphia, ending the Phils' winning streak at three.

Williams' homer, his 19th, came off the third pitcher in the inning, Jesus Hernandez. Bill Madlock and Don Kessinger singled off starter Jim Lonborg with two out and Mac Scarce then gave up a run-scoring single to Roger Metzger in the inning. Jesus Hernandez came in and Jesus Cardenas singled to fill the bases before Williams hit his homer.

Reggie Cleveland Did Flirting, Coleman Walked Off With Prize

DETROIT (UPI) — It was just an old love story. Reggie Cleveland did the flirting and his rival, Joe Coleman, walked off with the prize.

Cleveland teased a no-hitter along for six innings Friday night but the steady Coleman wound up with the prize when Jim Northrup singled with one out in the bottom of the 11th inning.

The hit brought Gary Sutherland in from second base with an unearned run, enabling the Detroit Tigers to defeat the Boston Red Sox, 1-0, and snap a four-game losing streak.

Cleveland pitched perhaps his best game of the season but still was slapped with his ninth loss in 16 decisions. He walked seven, struck out five, but only gave up three hits.

His brazen approach looked great for the first six innings. He only had one ball hit off him that looked anywhere near a hit and a doubleplay got him out of the fourth after he walked a pair. But Jim Nettles rapped a solid double with two out in the seventh to spoil Cleveland's immortality thoughts.

Aurelio Rodriguez beat out a hit to short leading off the 10th for the other Detroit hit.

Meanwhile, Coleman was getting in and out of trouble all night. Mickey Stanley vaulted onto the fence and reached into the stands in the fourth to rob Rico Petrocelli of a home run. Nettles nailed Petrocelli at the plate trying to score from second with two out on Rick Burleson's single to left in the seventh.

Coleman also buzzed his only fastball of the game past a startled Petrocelli with Tommy Harper on third and two out in the top of the 11th.

"It was the only pitch I was afraid to throw all night," Coleman said. "It'd been giving flaco nothing but breaking balls all night so I was hoping the last thing he'd be looking for was a fastball."

Thus Petrocelli must have felt like the man who'd just blown $100 in two races at the track and the last thing he probably wanted was what he got—a ground ball.

Sutherland's grounder leading off the 11th didn't quite come up as much as Petrocelli's glove did and it skittered behind him for an error.

Old pro Al Kaline then demonstrated that one of the reasons a guy can hang around long enough to get close to 3,000 hits is because he knows how to play the game by laying down a perfect sacrifice bunt.

Northrup got his up and in pitch, lined it over a first baseman's head, and Cleveland was down and out.

American League Roundup

Birds Rock Perry In Extra Innings

NEW YORK (UPI) — The trouble with being an All-Star pitcher is that you can't count on relief very often.

Gaylord Perry of Cleveland and Steve Busby of Kansas City found that out the hard way Friday night.

Perry, who started for the American League in last Tuesday night's All-Star Game, was two outs away from achieving his 18th victory when he gave up a single to Rich Coggins in the ninth. The Indians' right-hander, who had been rocked for a double by Brooks Robinson earlier in the inning, was obviously losing his stuff but Manager Ken Aspromonte elected to stay with his big star rather than go to his bullpen.

The result was disastrous, both for Perry and eventually for Cleveland. Paul Blair followed Coggins' hit with a homer to tie the score at 5-5 and the Orioles rallied for four runs in the 11th inning to defeat Perry and the Indians 9-5.

Coggins' fifth hit of the game, a double, drove home pinchrunner Al Bundy with the go-ahead run in the 11th and Tommy Davis capped the rally with a two-run homer as the Orioles pinned Perry with his fourth loss against 15 victories.

"Gaylord just lost his rhythm early in the game. He found it in the middle innings and lost it completely in the ninth," said Aspromonte.

Busby, also a member of the AL All-Star squad, carried a 3-1 lead into the last of the ninth inning against California when the Angels loaded the bases with one out. Forced to pitch out of the trouble on his own, the young right-hander struck out Joe Lahoud then walked rookie Bruce Bochte to force in a run before getting Bobby Valentine to hit into a forecourt with a hard smash to third.

"I never had any intention of taking my pitcher out," said Royals' Manager Jack McKeon. "I would just as soon have him out there in that situation as anyone in the league."

"If he did take me out, he would have been justified," said Busby, who walked seven and hit two batters in the game, one of the wildest performances of his career. "I blew my composure and he gave me a chance to calm down."

Rangers 10, White Sox 6 Cesar Tovar doubled twice and scored twice to spark the Rangers' 16-hit attack which broke Jim Kaat's seven-game winning streak. Jeff Burroughs had three hits for the Rangers while Alex Johnson, Mike Harrowe and Tom Grive each had a pair. Carlos May drove in four runs for the White Sox with a pair of homers.

A's 5, Twins 3 Bert Campaneris' two-run single climaxed a four-run sixth inning rally which carried the A's over the Twins. The triumph boosted Oakland's lead in the AL West to seven games, their largest of the season.

Double Talk Questioned

Aaron's 'Berries' Right on Target

ATLANTA (UPI) — Although his 40-year-old legs have slowed in the final season of his unmatched 23-year career, the wrists and reflexes that made Hank Aaron baseball's all-time home run champ are as quick as ever—as one strawberry soaked sports writer can attest.

"Hank made a great move with the strawberries," said Atlanta Journal sports writer Frank Hyland, after Aaron rendered his opinion of a Hyland article by squashing a small carton of strawberries in Hyland's face in the Braves' dressing room Friday night.

"I still don't know if he hit me right or left-handed," said Hyland. "but it was flush in the face."

In Friday afternoon's Journal, Hyland had written that Aaron told the press he was not interested in succeeding the fired Eddie Mathews as Atlanta manager. Then, Hyland wrote that Aaron is "developing a habit which is getting down on me one time and another the next," he wrote. "The difference is, this time, it caused a national furor."

While waiting for Friday night's game with San Diego to be called because of rain, Hyland went to the locker room to see another player. Someone told him that Aaron wanted to see him about the alleged "double-talking" of written and broadcast media.

Rodriguez Out Front

TORONTO (UPI) — Juan "Chi-Chi" Rodriguez, on the strength of a record-tying 63, today held a one-stroke lead going into the third round of the $200,000 Canadian Open.

Rodriguez equaled the mark set only minutes earlier by St. Louis pro Larry Ziegler. Rodriguez had a two-round total of 131, nine under par, and Ziegler was hot on his heels with a 132.

The previous competitive record for the 6,708-yard Mississauga Club course was 64, set in 1962 by Canadian pro Alvie Thompson.

In all, 38 of the original field of 150 had sub-par two round totals. Fifty-six players had scores in the 60s Friday.

The low scoring prompted several pros to criticize the placements as "too easy" and not worthy of a major national tournament.

Seventy-three players made the cut, which was set at a relatively low 141 because of the many low scores.

Dick Rhyan, a virtual unknown pro from Indianapolis, was third at 133 and Bobby Nichols was fourth at 134.

Jack Nicklaus and Lee Trevino were bunched with eight others at 135. Larry Wise and Dale Douglass had 136 each. Seven other players were at 137; another seven totaled 138 and five others were at 139.

Only two Canadians made it to the third and fourth rounds. Ben Kern with a 140, and Wilf Homenkai, at 141. Rodriguez, the Puerto Rican native who is 36th in winnings this year on the pro circuit said his round was the best he had shot in years.

Both he and Ziegler shot eight birdies. Nicklaus, Trevino and Tom Weiskopf, who shot a 65 to give him 137, were all critical of the placements, which they said made the course "too short."

Weiskopf said the placements "belittle the golf course." Nicklaus said the shortness of some of the holes was not worthy of a national tournament.

Trevino added the course was "set up too easily for a national championship." Tournament officials

Davis and Sharp Win Eighth Doubles Title

Eight times the names of Jack Davis and Win Sharp have been recorded in the record book for winning the Men's Senior Mixed Doubles Tournament in the Neipsic Tennis Club membership.

The latest conquest came this week when the team of Davis and Sharp defeated Dave Warren and Harvey Pastel in straight sets, 6-4, 6-4.

LOCAL BASEBALL

SIXTH SHOTOUT PITCHING BY Jim Balsano gave Mike and Ernie's All-Stars a 9-0 win over Dick's American last night at Robertson Park. The winners formerly played under the Army Tavern banner.

Steve Longo, Bill Peoples and Tom Happy each had two hits for the winners and Jeff Maxwell's two blows paced Dick's.

CHARTER OAK Four hits by Mike Riccio paced Crispino's to a 15-3 decision over Army & Navy last night at Fitzgerald. The winners had 20 hits including three each by Mike and Don Soicior while three others (not named) had two safeties.

Best in defeat were Larry Morrison with three hits and Buzz Ames and Dave Krijnak with two each.

ALUMNUS JUVIOR Groman's failed to show last night at Cheney and Army & Navy was awarded a forfeit.

Deadline was the result of Brian Daigle raced home on a slow ground ball in the last of the seventh to enable the Puters to gain a tie after the Bankers went ahead in the top of the frame on a fielder's choice.

Daigle had a bases' loaded triple in the second inning and Bob Russell tripled for the Bank.

Steve Pyka of the Bank fanned nine batters while walking two and Glen Cobb went the route for Moriarty's.

No visible signs of entry into the building could be found. But inner doors were broken open in various ways.

Wapping Traffic Detoured

Judy Kuehnle

South Windsor residents and commuters will experience traffic delays in the Graham Rd. area for the next five weeks due to sewer construction.

Also complicating traffic flow is sewer construction on Nevers Rd., a local alternate route to avoid Graham Rd. delays.

Town officials have recommended that residents and commuters use Griffin Rd. to Brookfield or Rye St. as an alternate route to from Sullivan Ave. and John Fitch Boulevard (Rt. 5).

Abby Rd. Niederwerfer Rd. and Barber Hill Rd. represent alternate routes to and from Wapping, Manchester and Vernon areas.

This present sewer construction is one of the last phases of the town's $2.75 million sewer project.

Meters
measure distance

1 Meter
1 Yard

A meter is a little longer than a yard.

Using a meter stick which is a little longer than a yard stick, a student gets ready to measure a classmate's height.

Liters
measure space occupied

A liter is a little larger than a quart.

Common prefixes

A prefix is a part of a word added to the beginning of another word, to change the meaning.

For Good Measure from the National Bureau of Standards Washington, D. C. 20234

The measurements are shorter than actual size.

The United States is switching to the metric system of measuring because most other countries already use it. This will help in world trade.

Also, educators feel that the metric system will be easier and more accurate to use than our present method since it is based on the number 10, just like our money and number systems.

 2. A small animal.
 3. What a train says.
 4. Would you like a potato _____?

ANSWER BLOCK NMOD

Animal of the Week:

The Beaver

Beavers are smart engineers. With their strong teeth, they gnaw down small trees to build their beaver dams.

The beavers' flat tail is useful. They use it as a rudder when they swim. By slapping it up and down on the water, they warn other beavers of danger.

Beavers usually choose one mate for life. From two to eight babies, called "kits," are born in the spring. The babies stay with their parents for about two years.

Metricated Recipe

Many recipe books will have to be changed. Below is a metricated recipe.

Orange Frost

- 180 milliliters of frozen concentrated orange juice
- ¼ liter of milk
- ¼ liter of water
- ½ liter of sugar
- 6 to 8 ice cubes

Place the mixture in a blender and blend until ice is crushed. This serves 4.

• 180 milliliters = 6 ounces • ¼ liter = about 1 cup
 • ½ liter = about ½ cup

Compare the Two Systems

Look below and see the most important units in the metric system and compare them with the old system.

Old Way Metric

Smaller sizes
 Millimeters will be used in place of inches. As an example, a 6-mm wrench will be used in place of a ¼ inch wrench.

Larger sizes
 The meter will be used in place of the foot and the yard. A 3x4 meter rug will be sold instead of the 9x12 foot rug.

Great distances
 Instead of using miles, we will use kilometers to show distances. A kilometer is a little longer than half a mile.

Small weights
 We will use grams instead of ounces.

Larger weights
 We will use kilograms for larger items, such as meat. A kilogram is a little more than two pounds.

Volume
 When your dad gets gas, he will order liters instead of gallons.

Speed
 Speedometers will show kilometers per hour. 80 kilometers per hour will replace a 50 miles per hour speed limit.

Super Sport: John Lucas

At a time when most athletes are specializing in one sport, John Lucas is excelling in two.

He is an All-American who played on Maryland's nationally ranked basketball team last winter. In the spring he won the Atlantic Coast Conference singles tennis championships.

John was a member of the Junior Davis Cup Tennis Team. He was an outstanding student in high school in Durham, North Carolina. His father is a school principal.

Largest U.S. Hailstone

The biggest U.S. hailstone on record was 44 centimeters (17½ inches) around and weighed 766 grams (1.67 pounds).

In September of 1970, a bad hail storm struck Coffeyville, Kansas, dropping hailstones as large as grapefruits. These hailstones crashed through buildings and put huge dents in automobiles. Fortunately, no one was killed. The people of Coffeyville collected the stones and put them in their refrigerator freezers until they could pack them into dry ice and shipped them to scientists for study:

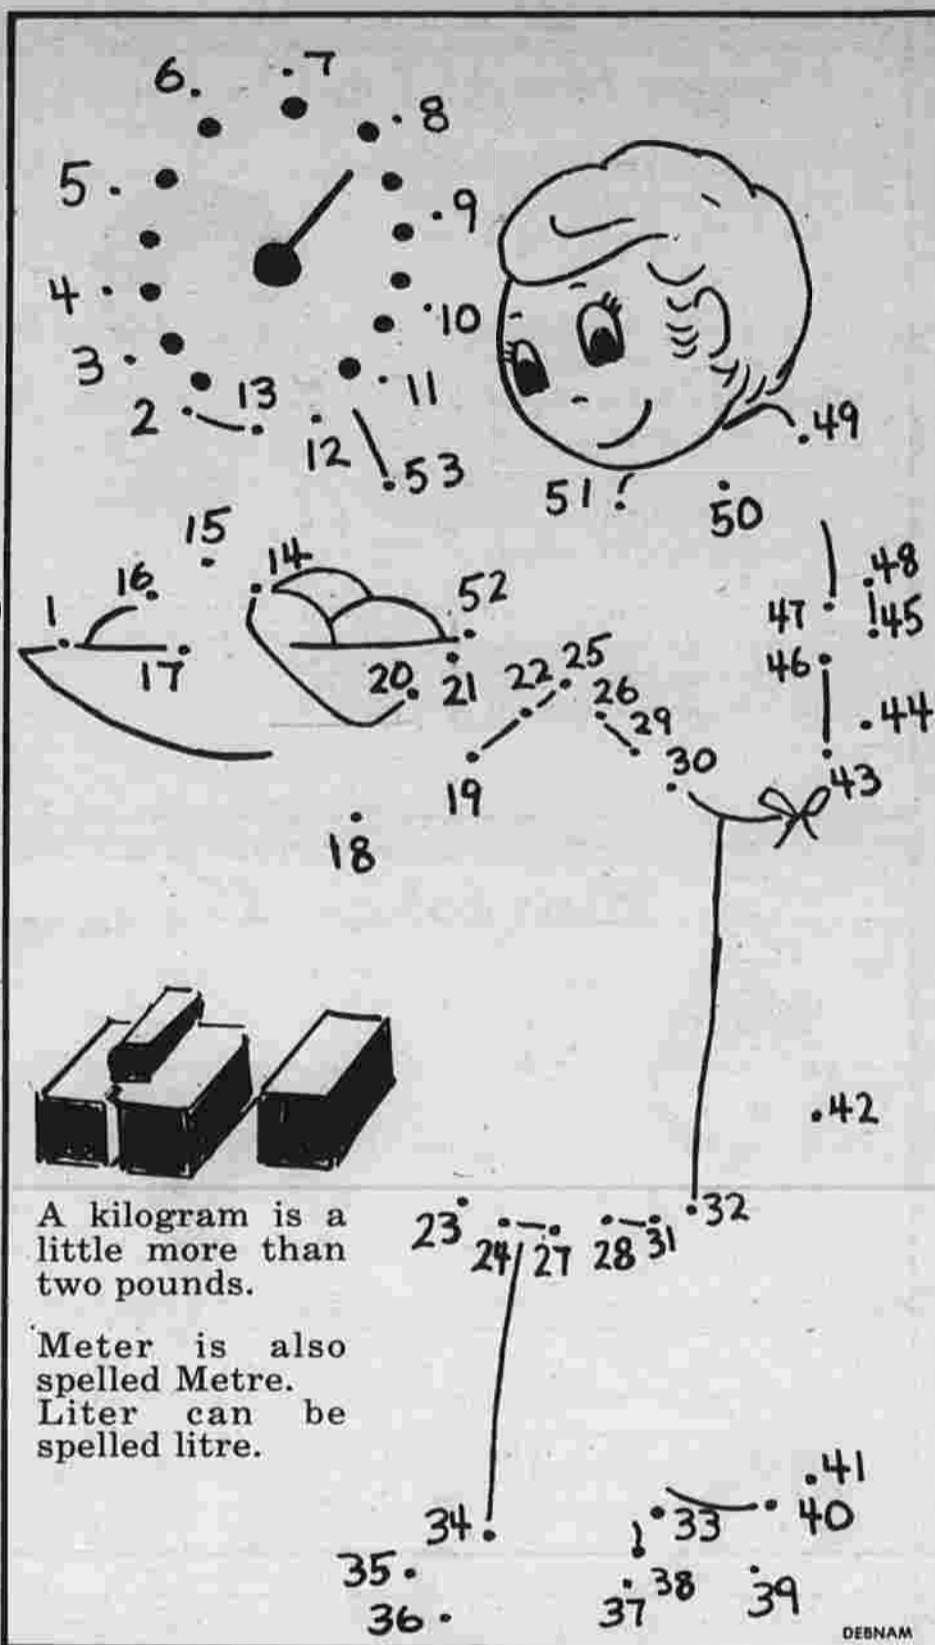

Hailstones cause a lot of crop damage each year. Scientists at Boulder, Colorado are trying to find out more about them.

Scientists At Work

Scientists keep hailstones in freezers or in specially built cold rooms at their lab in Boulder, Colorado.

The scientists wear heavy coats, hats and gloves while working inside a "cold lab" because the temperature is kept at -15° Celsius (5° Fahrenheit).
