Fourth bombing in 24 hours

Seabrook Post Office wrecked by explosion

SEABROOK, N.H. (UPI) — The fourth bombing in 24 hours within a 45-mile radius of Boston Friday wrecked the interior of the Seabrook post office.

The New Hampshire blast came at 10:45 p.m., 18 minutes after a male caller informed Deputy Fire Chief Ernest Sanborn a bomb had been planted somewhere in Seabrook, a seacoast summer resort astride the Massachusetts line with a population of 3,000 persons.

Explosions early Friday destroyed an Eastern Airlines plane at Logan International Airport, wrecked a National Guard truck at a Boston armory and damaged the Essex County Courthouse in Newburyport, Mass. The caller to Seabrook also claimed responsibility for the Newburyport blast.

The modest brick, one-story post office had been empty for hours and no one was injured, Sanborn said. There also were no injuries in the Massachusetts bombings.

Sanborn said he received a call at 10:27 p.m. from a man who "just informed there was a bomb in Seabrook. He didn't say where or what time it was to go off. He also claimed he was with some militant group but I didn't catch the name of it. He claimed his group was responsible for the Newburyport bombing, also."

Sanborn said the explosion at the post office was clearly heard at the fire station nearly two miles away. Arriving at the scene, Sanborn said he found "heavy smoke from the dynamite" and extensive interior damage which wrecked the main work area.

A federal official said it looked like the bomb was "placed outside the building."

Damage in the three Massachusetts bombings was estimated at about $600,000.

The FBI, which is involved in the investigations, said Friday it had feared further incidents would occur.

"There was an indication that this wasn't the end," FBI Special Agent Richard Bates said. "I am not optimistic that it won't happen again. We've been afraid of this. There have been rumors for months something like this might occur."

Security at Massachusetts' historic sites has been increased for the July 4th Bicentennial weekend. Many Massachusetts communities, expected increased tourism during the weekend because of the state's central role in the 1776 revolution and colonial America.

"We will utilize all resources and every available man at our disposal to increase security this weekend at historical shrines and monuments," Massachusetts Public Safety Secretary Charles Barry said Friday.

Federal Park Service personnel and local police departments also beefed up security.

The post office is about 1 1/2 miles from the marsh where the PSC plans to build a $1.6 billion nuclear power plant. The Atomic Safety and Licensing Board of the Nuclear Regulatory Commission approved a construction permit for the plant earlier this year. Environmentalists said they would continue their four-year legal fight against the plant proposal.

Seabrook also is the home of the largest of New Hampshire's three greyhound racing tracks.

Fireworks kickoff holiday weekend

Manchester's fireworks display went off as scheduled at Mt. Nebo Friday night despite the light rain. The display began promptly at 9:05 p.m. and the rain began promptly about a minute later. Most of the spectators put up with the wet conditions and stayed right to the bright, loud aerial finale. (Story on page 10) (Herald photo by Dunn)

Tall ships ready to lead big sail

NEW YORK (UPI) — The tall ships anchored near New York Harbor today, ready to lead more than 200 vessels in a July 4th sailing tribute to the nation's Bicentennial.

Leading the procession of 20 square-rigged ships from Newport, R.I., Friday was the 266-foot West German bark Gorch Fock, the winner of the Bermuda-to-Newport transatlantic race.

Next in line stretching about 10 miles was the four-masted Soviet bark Krusenstern, which stopped at Gravesend Bay in Brooklyn.

Coast Guard spokesman Dale Puckett said "easily a couple hundred" spectator craft lined up around Sandy Hook, N.J., to watch the sails come in, a breeze filling their sails and a bright sun glinting off the water.

On Sunday the ships will parade up the Hudson River to join Operation Sail, a celebration of the nation's 200th birthday expected to draw millions of spectators to the shoreline and numerous pleasure craft to the water.

The sailing vessels will share the spotlight with air displays from the U.S. and 24 foreign countries in the International Fleet Review.

Helen's birthday is extra-special

By BETTY RYDER

Family/Travel Editor
Helen Twigg of 115 Carpenter Rd. really personifies the "Spirit of '76." Born on July 4, 1900 in a small village in Canada, Helen has had "explosive" birthdays most of her life.

With six sisters and a brother, Helen says birthdays were always important to the Twigg family, but she adds, "Mine was always special because it was on the Fourth of July."

Helen, who lives with her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Francis A. Sullivan Jr. and their three children, came to the United States when she was four years old.

"When I was 17 we moved to Waltham, Mass. and I went to work in a watch factory," she said.

As a little girl, she can recall her mother feeding Indians who came to the door. Quick to explain she's only going to be 76 Sunday and that the Indians were civilized, not savage, Helen says, "They used to live in the woods and would come to my mother's door looking for flour and sugar."

Helen's late husband, John Twigg, was a master plumber until he retired in 1957. She has lived in Manchester 13 years, and on Carpenter Rd. almost three years.

Mrs. Sullivan is a teacher at the Lewis Fox Middle School in Hartford and her husband is a sales representative for Corning Glassware. Helen is especially proud of her three grandchildren: John, a student at East Catholic High School; Mary Beth, who is a sophomore at Mt. St. Joseph Academy; and Mike, who attends St. Thomas Seminary High School.

Memorable birthdays include one she celebrated two years ago with a large family gathering.

"She (her daughter) made everything so beautiful for me," she said.

This year, Helen is going to Canada to visit family and friends there.

She belongs to the Manchester Senior Citizens, but admits she doesn't go to the Center very often.

"Today your time is always limited no matter what you do."

Reflecting on the Bicentennial celebration, Helen said, "This is the year they've talked about the most. But we always used to have fireworks or go somewhere else to see them." Helen likes the quiet neighborhood in which she lives and keeps busy around the house.

She recently joined Weight Watchers and is going to concentrate on that project for a while.

As for the future, Helen said good-naturedly, "I hope I have a few more years."

Bicentennial America

Independence Day, John Adams wrote to his wife on July 3, 1776, one day before the Declaration of Independence was officially adopted by the Continental Congress and five days before its first public reading in Philadelphia, "ought to be solemnized with pomp and parade, with shows, games, sports, guns, bells, bonfires and illuminations, from one end of the country to the other, from this time forward more."

And so it has been, on every July 4th since that watershed event in human history that took place in Philadelphia in 1776, in peace and war, in calm and crisis, in prosperity and decline, by each succeeding generation. And so it is being celebrated throughout the land this weekend, but with added emphasis, as Americans mark the 200th anniversary of their country's birth.

The "Comprehensive Calendar of Bicentennial Events," published by the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration, lists more than 5,000 separate events scheduled on or about July 4.

They range from the largest parade ever staged in the nation's capital, followed by the most brilliant fireworks display in U.S. history, to a sail-by of most of the world's remaining great sailing ships in New York harbor, to a cowboy reunion in Stamford, Tex.

America, in short, is not having one big Bicentennial celebration but as many different ones as there are communities in the country. It has turned out to be a do-it-yourself Bicentennial, and we like to think that is something John Adams and his contemporaries would have approved of.

A few years ago, when people first began thinking about how the nation might properly observe the Bicentennial, all

When the Continental Congress approved Richard Henry Lee's resolution that the colonies ought to dissolve our union with Britain, the eldest John Adams wrote to his wife: "The second day of July 1776 will be the most memorable epocha in the history of America. I am apt to believe that it will be celebrated by succeeding generations as the great anniversary festival. It ought to be commemorated, as the day of deliverance, by solemn acts of devotion to God Almighty."

It is so happened that it was two days later that Congress approved the powerful Declaration of Independence that Thomas Jefferson had drafted. The fourth of July, the day when Congress informed the world that an independent United States of America was being formed, was therefore chosen to be the day of celebration.

A great debate over independence had been raging in many private circles, in Congress and in the press. The role of newspapers in bringing the debate to culmination had been great. John Holt of the New York Journal wrote that "It was by means of the Newspapers that we received the Notice of the Declaration of Independence. Designs formed against America, and kindled a Spirit that was sufficient to repel them."

Without the active and determined Patriot press the movement toward independence would certainly have been delayed and perhaps shunted aside.

When action had finally been taken, news of the Declaration (as well as the text) was printed in the papers as soon as it was received. Usually there was little or no explanatory comment by publishers, allowed Jefferson's eloquent document to speak for itself.

In stirring up support for a cause, and the Declaration of Independence is in considerable part trying to do that. Jefferson realized that it was wiser to direct attacks against the king rather than against the impersonal legislature. Jefferson, a master propagandist, was engaged in waging war against us. "Did this not constitute sufficient reason to break away from Britain?"

Here in the United States there was mixed reaction. While some rejoiced when the Declaration was adopted, many and many lukewarm Patriots were encouraged to support the cause, there were others who were bitterly opposed to the formal break with Great Britain. Few Loyalists, if any, were persuaded to support independence, either by the Declaration or by the threats, attacks in the press, tarring and feathering and social ostracism. Most stubbornly hung to their beliefs, sincere in their attachment to Britain.

It is quite sure that all of the charges against George III could not be proved, and that some of them had little or no basis in fact. Equally true is the fact that Jefferson's political theories have not stood up under the scrutiny of modern scholars. If the Declaration was partly defective in content and argument, it has nevertheless stood the test of time and been found to be morally valid.

A holy writ
For the Patriots of the revolutionary period, for countless school children and other Americans over the years, the Declaration of Independence has come to be regarded almost as holy writ. Those who have believed that traditions had been broken, American rights violated, and justice threatened, Jefferson had stated the case brilliantly.

Although the Declaration did not make clear what kind of government the Americans would create, it did assert unequivocally that they were not going to tolerate injustice. After a period of trial and error, the people did learn more of what was needed to establish a government that would guarantee the human liberties promised in Thomas Jefferson's immortal Declaration of Independence, make known to the world 200 years ago this week.

the determination of Congress to form a new government for a sovereign nation. Jefferson wrote in general and not always accurate terms. But this was necessary so. There were uncertainties of the time that forced the author of the Declaration, for the sake of its effect, to use a number of un-historical statements. For example, the document was called "The Unanimous Declaration of the Thirteen United States of America," but not all colonial delegations to Congress had voted for the Declaration and the signing of it dragged on for nearly six months.

In his treatment of George III as a tyrant "unfit to be the ruler of a free People," Jefferson was weakest of all. No serious historian pictures the British king in that light today; he was a rather dull monarch who was trying to wield power by manipulations in Parliament. The American colonists, having disobeyed Parliament's laws, were declared to be outside the king's protection. These facts did not indicate, however, that George III was trying "to establish an absolute tyranny over these states," as Jefferson stated in the Declaration.

For a number of years the colonists had been complaining about the legislative acts of Parliament and the policies of the British ministry. In their opposition Patriots had "formed a Committee of Safety" which did not have the right to pass laws regulating the internal affairs of America; Parliament was an older legislature in the British Empire, but it was not superior in power to the colonial assemblies. Opposition to British rule prior to the Declaration of Independence had been directed mostly against Parliament, and as well as the text) was printed in the papers as soon as it was received.

Usually there was little or no explanatory comment by publishers, allowed Jefferson's eloquent document to speak for itself. The press did, however, note the ceremonies and celebrations — life in military parades, cannon fire, the pealing of bells, civic banquets, and bonfires.

While Americans celebrated the Declaration of Independence, British authorities at first paid little attention to it. They regarded it as merely another piece of rebel propaganda, which the Declaration was in considerable part trying to do that. Jefferson realized that it was wiser to direct attacks against the king rather than against the impersonal legislature. Jefferson, a master propagandist, was engaged in waging war against us. the ruler and the ruled protected these rights; and subjects owed obedience to a government that safeguarded these rights. If the ruler should break the contract by acts of tyranny, it was the right and the duty of subjects to rebel. Following this line of reasoning, Jefferson asserted that the colonists — after much "patient suffering" — were now obliged to "throw off" the government of George III.

Natural rights ridiculed
Most Loyalists and the British ridiculed this philosophy of natural rights and the contract theory; later political scientists have discarded it as invalid, too. But for the Patriots in 1776 Jefferson's assertions were an attractive and logical way to justify the American War for Independence.

In Britain the ministry founded nothing logical about the Declaration of Independence, but the British public — increasingly annoyed by the American conflict — soon referred to the war in America as the "King's War." Other European monarchies, for all that they were happy to see Great Britain embarrassed, could hardly look favorably upon Jefferson's justification of rebellion.

Here in the United States there was mixed reaction. While some rejoiced when the Declaration was adopted, many and many lukewarm Patriots were encouraged to support the cause, there were others who were bitterly opposed to the formal break with Great Britain. Those who have believed that traditions had been broken, American rights violated, and justice threatened, Jefferson had stated the case brilliantly.

Although the Declaration did not make clear what kind of government the Americans would create, it did assert unequivocally that they were not going to tolerate injustice. After a period of trial and error, the people did learn more of what was needed to establish a government that would guarantee the human liberties promised in Thomas Jefferson's immortal Declaration of Independence, make known to the world 200 years ago this week.

"Bombs bursting in air"

County Lake reflects this multi-stage rocket shot from an island in the lake and seen from the Lisitke Beach Friday night. Police Chief Robert Kjelquist said there were about 3,000 cars in the lake basin area for the display. There were no accidents related to the cars coming and going. The traffic was normal within 45 minutes of the display's grand finale. He received many complaints of illegal fireworks. One blast went off on Lisitke Beach in front of the guard's stand. A light rain failed to dampen either the display or spirits. (Herald photo by Barlow)

Tennis court fees debated

South Windsor
The Town Council this week debated a fee for persons using lights at the local tennis courts. Recreation Directors James Snow suggested four alternatives. "The town could offer a season pass of $5 per person. Snow said this was the easiest but it would not return a large amount to the town. One problem with the program was that season pass holders could repeatedly go to the courts and find them occupied. A court fee of $1 per person would present a pass to the tennis court monitor. Rain and winds fail to halt fireworks

Despite rain and the threat of show-stopping winds, the fireworks at Mt. Nebo field went off last night to begin this Bicentennial weekend. The crowd, estimated at 10,000 by Manchester police, came early. Even at 8:15, nearly an hour before show time, the display was under way. Spring St. and it took 15 minutes to find a parking place. Many of the people brought lawn chairs or blankets to sit on. Few youngsters took a high, but unsteady, seat on the football goalposts. People living close to the field sat on their front lawns for a less-crowded view of the skyworks. A carnival-like atmosphere prevailed at Mt. Nebo. There were plenty of children, balloons and popcorn. An occasional gust of wind blew while the crowd continued to file in. Though the breeze was fairly noticeable, it did present a threat to the show. The display operator, who asked to remain nameless, said wind, when blowing hard enough, makes it difficult to control where the debris from the fireworks land. "Some of the things in the display don't burn as fast as others. With too much wind, there's the danger of something still lit landing in the crowd," he said. "If the winds slack off, though, we can put on the show," he said, shortly before 9 p.m. last night. And the winds did. At 9:05, the first ground display was lit, an action greeted with applause and some cheers. The second ground display was a "Welcome" sign that spit off sparks and smoke. The aerial shots lit up the audience in various shades of green, blue and red. Some of the more impressive air fireworks drew gasps from the crowd and received extended applause. Not all the fireworks were set up from the fenced-off display area, however. More than a few shots were launched by members of the audience who had brought their own "mini-displays." Shortly after the display began, the

MILWAUKEE (UPI)—Bobby Darwin says Milwaukee never gave him the chance that Boston has since acquiring him in a trade with the Brewers a little more than a month ago. Given that chance, Darwin might have won some games for the Brewers the way he won one Friday night for the Red Sox. Darwin hit a home run in the second inning to give Boston the only run they needed to defeat Milwaukee. The 35-year-old outfielder sent the first pitch former teammate Jerry Augustine threw at him 380 feet to the left field bleachers to start Boston on its way to a 3-0 win. The hometown crowd of 13,744 booed the man they call "The Boomer." "No matter what happened, I never quit," Scott said. "It's just a matter of getting it together. I know I will. I'll be right back at them tomorrow. I've been struggling all year, and I'm still not doing that bad."

Boston had four double plays, the most for the team this season. "I guess we had double-play pitching on the mound," said Red Sox manager Darrell Johnson. He said he took winning pitcher Dick Pole (4-4) out because "he was started 'struggling.'" Catcher Bob Montgomery got a hit and threw out a runner who attempted to steal. "I guess you could say I had a good game," Montgomery said, "but anytime I get to play it's a good game for me."

But Hobson got on with a single, moved to third on a single by Fred Lynn and scored on a sacrifice by Jim Rice. Carl Yastrzemski sent Lynn to second on a single, and Bill Castro replaced Augustine. Castro hit Darwin with his first pitch to load the bases and then walked Dwight Evans to score Lynn. The Brewers' George Scott, formerly of the Red Sox, got a shot-four of them, in fact. He struck out twice and hit into double plays that ended two times at bat. The hometown crowd of 13,744 booed the man they call "The Boomer." "No matter what happened, I never quit," Scott said. "It's just a matter of getting it together. I know I will. I'll be right back at them tomorrow. I've been struggling all year, and I'm still not doing that bad."

End of the line Sears will handle New England Patriot football tickets again this season. Ticket service will be available at the local Sears store in Parkville. Springfield Civic Center will host the NCAA College Division basketball championship March 18-19. Tickets are now on sale and must be purchased in pairs, one for each date. Laugh Department: Today's women's tennis is more interesting than men's because we have a woman and the men don't. "Winning the men's tennis will never measure up to men's for interest and spectator appeal. Two entries in local slow pitch softball play books underscored records. Davis in the Feline League and Looking Glass in the Dusty League, each with 94 records. Have a nice holiday weekend.

Surprising Padres trail by half game

NEW YORK (UPI)—The San Diego Padres, who have never finished better than fourth place in the National League West, moved to within a half game of second-place Los Angeles in the National League West Friday night with a 6-3 victory over the Dodgers. And how does one explain this sudden turnaround? In a word, pitching. Foster and Butch Metzger limited the Dodgers to seven hits as San Diego defeated the Dodgers for the sixth time in seven meetings this season. The pitching has really come along," Manager John McNamara said. "We got Dave Freisenback back from Hawaii and Metzger's done an outstanding job all season long in the bullpen. Part of our success is that we're getting a lot of complete games out of Freisenback and Jones." Doug Rader belted a solo home run to ignite a two-out, three-run fourth inning rally off Don Sutton, 7-9, to carry the Padres past the Dodgers. Steve Yeager hit a two-run homer for Los Angeles. In other games, Houston swept a doubleheader from Cincinnati, 10-8, in a 14-inning first game, and 3-3 in the second, Atlanta whipped San Francisco, 5-1, in 10 innings, and Philadelphia, 10-9, in 10 innings, and St. Louis blanked Montreal, 3-0. Astros 10, 3 Reds 8, 2. Cesar Cedeno pounded out seven hits in 11 at bats and drove in four

Darwin hit a home run in the second inning to give Boston the only run they needed to defeat Milwaukee. The 35-year-old outfielder sent the first pitch former teammate Jerry Augustine threw at him 380 feet to the left field bleachers to start Boston on its way to a 3-0 win. The hometown crowd of 13,744 booed the man they call "The Boomer." "No matter what happened, I never quit," Scott said. "It's just a matter of getting it together. I know I will. I'll be right back at them tomorrow. I've been struggling all year, and I'm still not doing that bad."

Boston had four double plays, the most for the team this season. "I guess we had double-play pitching on the mound," said Red Sox manager Darrell Johnson. He said he took winning pitcher Dick Pole (4-4) out because "he was started 'struggling.'" Catcher Bob Montgomery got a hit and threw out a runner who attempted to steal. "I guess you could say I had a good game," Montgomery said, "but anytime I get to play it's a good game for me."

Fran Healy and Thurman Munson (15) offer congratulations After Chris Chambliss eluded three-run, first-inning home run for Yankees

Vida Blue shelled by Royals, loses

NEW YORK (UPI)—Vida Blue usually doesn't give up six runs when he pitches. But then he usually doesn't go three weeks between starts. However, Friday night Blue made his first mound appearance for Oakland since his controversial no-sale to the New York Yankees last month and was shelled by the Kansas City Royals for an 8-5 loss. Blue gave up five runs on six hits in the first two innings but settled down to retire 10 batters in a row. He was pulled in the sixth inning with the score tied, 5-5, after John Maberry led off with double. "I can't say I expected too much of myself but I thought I would be better than that," Blue said. Stan Bahnsen came in to relieve but the Royals pushed home two runs on an aborted slide squeeze and a wild pitch to saddle Blue with his seventh loss against six wins.

Yanks check losses, 10th win for Hunter

CLEVELAND (UPI)—Chris Chambliss' three-run home run in the first inning and a two-run shot by Lou Piniella in the third helped Jim Hunter pick up his 10th victory Friday night as the New York Yankees snapped a three-game losing streak with a 7-1 triumph over the Cleveland Indians. The Yankees, who increased their East Division lead to seven games over the second place Indians, chased Cleveland starter and loser Rick Waits, 2-1, with a four-run outburst in the first inning. Mickey Rivers led off with a double and took third on Roy White's bunt single. Thurman Munson's first of four singles drove in Rivers and after Piniella struck out, Chambliss drilled his ninth homer over the right field fence to run his RBI total to 52. Piniella hit his third home run off reliever Tom Buskey in the third and George Hendrick spoiled Hunter's shutout bid with a second inning homer, his 13th. Hunter, who has now gone the distance in 11 of his 19 starts, scattered six hits and struck out six in running his season mark to 10-7. "I can't say I expected too much of myself but I thought I would be better than that," Blue said. Stan Bahnsen came in to relieve but the Royals pushed home two runs on an aborted slide squeeze and a wild pitch to saddle Blue with his seventh loss against six wins.

Ilie Nastase, left, and Bjorn Borg in finals

Nastase slight choice in Wimbledon finals

WIMBLEDON (UPI) — There is no question Ilie Nastase can handle a tennis racket well enough to win Wimbledon and join Chris Evert in the elite threesome of 1976 singles champions. The question is whether Nastase can handle his temper, as well, when he meets Bjorn Borg in the men's final of the three-year Wimbledon championships today. The third-seeded Nastase has been installed as a slight favorite to beat the fourth-seeded Swede. Evert won the singles title for the second time in three years Friday with a dramatic 6-3, 4-6, 8-6 victory over Evonne Goolagong. It was the first time Evert has ever beaten her Australian foe on grass and it

Legion in shutout win over Enfield

Going with its best, the Manchester Legion baseball team blanked Enfield last night at Enfield behind the three-hit pitching of Bruce Ballard. Ballard struck out out of a dozen batters and didn't issue a single base on balls and was in complete control in going the distance. The win was the fifth in eight games and set a new record for the Legion. All the scoring came in the third inning. Kevin Hanlon started the rally by drawing a walk. Tom Jones sacrificed and after a second out, Jeff Backelen singled to right to plate Hanlon. Ray Gilting tripled down the leftfield line for a second run and Ballard added his own cause with a one-base blow to right. Mike Rook took the loss in going the route on the mound. He gave up six hits and except for the third frame matched Ballard pitch for pitch. He fanned eight and walked two. Defensively, shortstop Bob Healy came in with two great plays, one a

Olympic walkout good possibility

MONTREAL (UPI) — The International Olympic Committee and the United States Olympic Committee have decided to speak softly but keep a hold on the big stick they wield in the wake of the Canadian government's denial of the participation of Taiwan in the Montreal Olympic Games. The Olympic Games are a sports field and not a political arena, Killian said. "They were conceived with a view to assembling the youth of the world and not to differentiate between regimes." The IOC said if the Canadian government kept the Taiwanese team out of the Olympics, it might withdraw its sanction from the Montreal Olympic Committee Friday said if the IOC resorted to such a course, it would mean no ceremonies and no official Olympic medals, it

Twins to remain

BLOOMINGTON, Minn. (UPI) — Clark Griffith, vice president of the Minnesota Twins, Friday denied rumors the team plans to leave Minnesota because of poor attendance. "The Minnesota Twins are here to stay," Griffith told news conference. "Club management likes the area. We like the people and we want major league baseball to remain a part of this area."

Tennis complexes at saturation point

BOSTON (UPI) — The popular belief is that indoor tennis operators need a two-fisted grip to carry their net profits to the bank. According to a recently released market survey of the tennis industry, though, indoor facilities have reached their saturation point and the addition of more courts will lead to increased losses. Although the sport is booming, the crush for courts is leveling off during certain hours. In the middle of the day, courts and operators go begging. The revelation was made at a seminar last week that spotlighted the New England and Greater Boston regions and sponsored by the N.E. Regional Indoor Tennis Association. The marketing study, researched over the last two years, was conducted by Professor W. Clazy Hamner of Northwestern State University.

Pair of 66 rounds for Fuzzy Zoeller

MILWAUKEE (UPI) — Fuzzy Zoeller would like nothing better than to win a golf tournament as a wedding present for his fiancée. And the way he played Friday, he may in a position to provide one — the $130,000 Greater Milwaukee Open. Zoeller, a second-year pro from New Albany, Ind., shot a second round 66 on Friday to take a one-stroke lead over veteran Dave Hill. Hill shot a five-under-par 67 and was at 133. "It would make a hell of a wedding present," commented Zoeller, who said he was getting married Aug. 21 to Dianne Thornton. Both Zoeller and Hill raced past the first-round leader Ken Still, who shot a one-over-par 73 after his blazing eight-under on the opening day. The qualifying mark was 146, which was one-over-par, and 83 golfers made it. Still, who won here in 1969, was tied for fifth with four other golfers while Johnny Jacobs and Mac

Four share leadership in LPGA

BLOOMINGTON, Ind. (UPI) — Fifth-year pro Kathy Martin overcame a twisted muscle in her back Friday to tie three of the LPGA's top money winners for the opening round lead in the $50,000 Bicentennial LPGA Classic. Martin, of Thousand Oaks, Calif., joined JoAnne Carner, Sandra Post and Kathy Whitworth, with 688, for a one-shot lead over Kathy Ahern and glamor girl Laura Baugh in the four-over-par Lake Monroecountry course. The winner of the tournament will get $70,000. Martin and Post, No. 11 on the money list, tied for the low round of the day with 31 on the back nine of the 6,000-yard par 71 layout. Both turned the final holes with four birdies after going one over on the front side. Carner, who is runner-up in money winnings, and Whitworth, who ranks 10th, both posted steady rounds of 34. Five players shot 70 and seven south of the Indiana University main campus.

IN CONGRESS, JULY 4, 1776.

JULY 4, 1976

Signed today by these

Country that does exist.

The unanimous Declaration of the thirteen united States of America.

When in the course of human events, it becomes necessary for one people to dissolve the political bands which have connected them with another, and to assume among the powers of the earth, the separate and equal station to which the Laws of Nature and of Nature's God entitle them, a decent respect to the opinions of mankind requires that they should declare the causes which impel them to the separation. We hold these truths to be self-evident, that all men are created equal; that they are endowed by their Creator with certain unalienable Rights, that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of Happiness. That to secure these rights, Governments are instituted among Men, deriving their just powers from the consent of the governed. That whenever any Form of Government becomes destructive of these ends, it is the Right of the People to alter or to abolish it, and to institute new Government, laying its foundation on such Principles and organizing its Powers in such form, as to them shall seem most likely to effect their Safety and Happiness. Prudence, indeed, will dictate that Governments long established should not be changed for light and transient causes; and accordingly all experience hath shown, that mankind are more disposed to suffer, while evils are sufferable, than to right themselves by abolishing the forms to which they are accustomed. But when a long train of abuses and usurpations, pursuing invariably the same Object wins a design to reduce them under absolute Despotism, it is their right, it is their duty, to throw off such Government, and to provide new Guards for their future security. — Such has been the patient Sufferance of these Colonies, and such is now the necessity which constrains them to alter their former Systems of Government. The History of the present King of Great Britain is a History of repeated injuries and usurpations, all having in direct object the establishment of an absolute Tyranny over these States. To prove this, let Facts be submitted to a candid world. — He has refused his Assent to Laws, the most wholesome and necessary for the public good. — He has forbidden his Governors to pass Laws of immediate and pressing importance, unless suspended in their operation till his Assent should be obtained; and when so suspended, he has utterly neglected to attend to them. — He has refused to pass other Laws for the accommodation of large districts of People, unless those People would relinquish the right of Representation in the Legislature, a right inestimable to them and formidable to tyrants only. — He has called together legislative Bodies at places unusual, uncomfortable, and distant from the depository of their Public Records, for the sole purpose of fatiguing them into compliance with his measures. — He has dissolved Representative Houses repeatedly, for opposing with manly firmness his invasions on the rights of the People. — He has refused for a long time, after such dissolutions, to cause others to be elected; whereby the Legislative Powers, incapable of Annihilation, have returned to the People at large for their exercise; and the State remaining in the mean time exposed to all the dangers of invasion from without, and convulsions within. — He has endeavored to prevent the Population of these States; for that purpose obstructing the Trade for Naturalization of Foreigners; refusing to pass others to encourage their Migration hither, and raising the conditions of new Appropriations of Lands. — He has obstructed the Administration of Justice, by refusing his Assent to Laws for establishing Judiciary Powers. — He has made Judges dependent on his Will alone, for the tenure of their Offices, and the amount and Payment of their Salaries. — He has erected a multitude of New Offices, and sent hither Swarms of Officers to harass our People, and eat out their Substance. — He has kept among us, in Times of Peace, Standing Armies without the Consent of our Legislature. — He has affected to render the Military independent of and superior to the Civil Power. — He has combined with us to subject us to a Jurisdiction foreign to our Constitution, and unacknowledged by our Laws; giving his Assent to their Acts of pretended Legislation: — For quartering large Bodies of armed Troops among us: — For exercising them, by a strict Drill, from Time to Time, for the convenience of their Marches upon our Borders: — For cutting off our Trade with all parts of the world: — For imposing Taxes on us without our Consent: — For depriving us in many Cases, of the benefits of Trial by Jury: — For transporting us beyond Seas to be tried for pretended Offences: — For abolishing the free System of English Laws in a neighbouring Province, establishing therein an Arbitrary Government, and enlarging its Boundaries so as to render it at once an example and fit instrument for introducing the same absolute Tyranny into these Colonies: — For taking away our Charters, abolishing our most valuable Laws, and altering fundamentally the Forms of our Governments: — For suspending our own Legislatures, and declaring themselves invested with powers to legislate for us in all cases whatsoever. — He has abdicated Government here, by declaring us out of his Protection and waging War against us. — He has plundered our Seas, ravaged our Coasts, burnt our Towns, and destroyed the Lives of our People. — He is at this time transporting large Armies of foreign Mercenaries to complete the works of death, desolation and tyranny, already begun with circumstances of cruelty, perfidy and insensibility, in the most barbarous age, and totally unworthy the Head of a civilized Nation. — He has constrained our fellow Citizens taken Captive on the high Seas to bear Arms against their Country, to become the Executioners of their Friends and Brethren, or to fall themselves by their Hands. — He has excited domestic Contentions among us, and has endeavored to bring on the Insults of our Countrymen, the merciless Slaves of Africa, whose Habitation is an undistinguished Destruction of all ages, sexes and Conditions. — He has incited the Native Americans to war against the States, that they are bound to the most humble Terms: — Our repeated Petitions have been answered by repeated Injury. — A Prince, whose Character is thus marked by every act which may define a Tyrant, is unfit to be the ruler of a free People. — Nor have We been wanting in attention to our British Brethren. We have warned them from Time to Time of Attempts by their Legislature to extend an unwarrantable Jurisdiction over us. — We have reminded them of the Circumstances of our Migration and Settlement here. — We have appealed to their native Justice and Magnanimity, and we have conjured them by the ties of our common Kindred to disavow these Usurpations, which would in every other Respect be insupportable. — They too have been deaf to the Voice of Justice and of Consanguinity. — We must, therefore, acquiesce in the necessity, which denounces our Separation, and hold them, as we hold the rest of Mankind, Enemies in War, in Peace Friends.

We, therefore, the Representatives of the united States of America, in General Congress, Assembled, appealing to the Supreme Judge of the world for the rectitude of our Intentions, do, in the Name, and by Authority of the good People of these Colonies, solemnly publish and declare, That these United Colonies are, and of Right ought to be, Free and Independent States; that they are absolved from all Allegiance to the British Crown, and that all political Connection between them and the State of Great Britain, is and ought to be totally dissolved; and that as Free and Independent States, they have full Power to levy War, conclude Peace, contract Alliances, establish Commerce, and to do all other Acts and Things which Independent States may of Right do. — And for the support of this Declaration, with a firm Reliance on the Protection of divine Providence, we mutually pledge to each other our Lives, our Fortunes and our sacred Honor.

Ask Kleiner

By Dick Kleiner

Barbara, who is 69, hasn't worked in the last three or four years. But she's seen around Hollywood from time to time, and still looks great. She's an actress, not a "western person"; in fact, she's originally from Brooklyn.

DEAR DICK: Do you remember a kid show a long time ago called Pinky Lee? Didn't at one time Red Buttons play the part of Pinky Lee? JOHNNY MILLER, Iowa Park, Tex.

Pinky and Red are distinct individuals. It's possible that at one time, when

Tall ships

Britain's tall ship, the Sir Winston Churchill, has an all-female crew.

Capt. Leonard Peck of the Frances Minot, a tug from Cotuit, Mass., helped jockey smaller boats.

Long lines wait to see the tall ships at Newport, this one the Norwegian bark, Christian Radich.

Glory of Greece was rooted in a coin

By RUSS MacKENDRICK

The glory that was Greece had its roots in this coin. The googly-eyed beauty is the famous Owl of Athens. The other side has a head of the goddess Athena and the owl attests to her wisdom.

The coin, a silver tetradrachm, is shown in detail here, but it is actually no larger than a nickel. It was the first widely accepted currency in the trading marts of the world, and it held sway for two centuries from 500 B.C. It can be thought of as the first legal tender (same as if).

It is not scarce as a numismatic item since vast hoards have been found all around the Mediterranean. Imitations were many, as far afield as Central Asia and Arabia.

The symbols stand for the first three letters of "Athens." The olive leaves and wig, and the waning moon, are meant to celebrate the great naval victory over the Persian fleet at Salamis.

It has been stated that this triumph was a direct result of the outpouring of silver

Stamps and coins

from the nearby mines at Laurium. This made possible the construction of more than 300 fighting ships. In the meantime Athens had forbidden the coinage of silver by any of her vassal cities — so the "owl" attained worldwide (for then) circulation.

The picture is timely right now as this coin is the badge of the office of the secretary of the Smithsonian Institution where Queen Elizabeth II and Prince Philip will visit this coming Thursday. First there will be a big dinner at the British Embassy (with President and Mrs. Ford on hand), then they will all lie themselves to the "castle," Smithsonian's oldest building, where they will honor the founder.

James Smithson, English chemist and numismatist, was never on this side of the Atlantic, but because he had been irked and nettled by slights of certain of his countrymen, he left his entire fortune "for the increase and diffusion of knowledge..." — in the United States.

The booty was delivered in 1838 as bags of gold sovereigns. Almost all were melted down and recoined (to the tune of $508,318.) At least two of the original pieces were rescued, however, and may be seen in the national collection at the Smithsonian.

Hang onto it!

Hang onto your copy of the June 16 Coin World. In case you didn't notice — it is the 13th Book Edition with 11 pages of titles and prices of numismatic material published in the U.S.A. There are 52 listings, such as Coins of the Americas, Coins as Investments, Commemoratives, Confederates, Heraldry, Medals, Tokens, and so on. A fabulous book. The highest price shown for a book is $450, for Browning's "Early Quarters..."

A warning

That "$20 gold piece" offered by ads in the Sunday supplements and other publications, is the size of a thin dime and contains all of $4.68 in gold. It has been thoroughly squashed by the American Numismatic Association and the USPS. Mail addressed to the sellers — Columbia Mint, Washington, D.C. — may now be intercepted.

On the Fourth

Tomorrow at New Britain, 11 to 5 — the NEBPEX '76. Chairman Al Larson will put on an affair with exhibits, bourse, and a special show cancellation. Admission is free. Place: Johnson Motor Inn, 65 Columbus Blvd.

Also in New Britain on the 4th you can get lobby service at the post office with a pictorial handstamp to mark the date of the nation's birthday. The Hartford PO can give you a cancellation on that day but just a plain Jane handstamp with no picture.
