

GEO. M. BARBER CIVIL WAR VET PASSES AWAY

Death Takes Beloved Citizen After Heart Attack On Armistice Day — Funeral Services Tomorrow.

Manchester today mourns the loss of one of its most beloved citizens with the passing of George M. Barber, Civil War veteran and a direct descendant of William Bradford, second governor of the Plymouth Colony. Mr. Barber died at his Gardner street home at 3:30 yesterday afternoon following a cardiac collapse on Armistice Day. He was 85 years old.

But Three Remain
Mr. Barber's passing leaves only

George M. Barber

three members of Drake Post, No. 4, G. A. R., still living in Manchester out of an original membership of 254 comrades. They are commander Lucius Finney, Chas. E. Ellsworth and Albert B. Pierce. Isaac Quinn of New London and Frederick Baker of Stafford, are the only other two members of Manchester's division of the Grand Army of the Republic. Jared Pearl, another comrade, passed on earlier in the year.

Falling A Year

Mr. Barber had been gradually failing for about a year but suffered a heart attack on November 11. This marked his first absence from an Armistice Day celebration since the World War came to an end. He has not only always been present at the Memorial Day ceremonies but has taken an active part as well. His health was such that it was inadvisable for him to try and participate in the last Armistice Day program.

In a Coma

Consequently Mr. Barber remained at his home on that day. During the early afternoon, he suffered the heart attack and had been confined to his bed since. During the past few days he has been in a state of coma. The last time he recognized a member of the family was on Thanksgiving.

SAVANTS TO SEEK AMERICAN POMPEII

Believe Indian Dwellings Will Be Found Deep Beneath the Sands in Arizona.

Philadelphia, Dec. 4.—(AP)—The ruins of an "American Pompeii" will be sought in Arizona next year by an expedition of the University of Pennsylvania Museum.

This was disclosed today by Dr. Harold S. Cotton, professor of anthropology at the university and a member of the expedition the museum has had for several years in the field near Flagstaff, Ariz.

The ruins, Dr. Cotton said, are believed to lie beneath a layer of black basaltic sand 18 to 20 feet thick, which in turn is overlaid by centuries of drift sand deposits. Should the buried city be located it is expected that many relics revealing the habits and customs of the real American pioneers will be found.

TREASURY BALANCE

Washington, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Treasury receipts for December 2 were $5,266,847.59; expenditures $5,231,527.30; balance, $79,991,426.74.

OTHER PLANETS HAVE NO LIFE

This is Deduced from Long Study of 850 Meteorites Col- lected from Many Parts of the Earth.

New York, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Science now tells us we are the only living creatures in the universe.

This was deduced from a lengthy study of 850 meteorites, collected on many parts of the earth, by Dr. George Frederick Kunz, of the American Museum of Natural History, who has presented his findings to the New York Academy of Sciences.

Thirty-one of the 87 known elements have been found in these meteorites, he says, but in no case have they been found in the form which would indicate life on the stars and planets from which they came.

SEIZE 600 BOMBS IN LISBON'S PLOT

Plotters Planned To Blow Up Public Buildings — Three Officers Arrested.

Lisbon, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Lisbon police announced today that through the seizure of a large quantity of bombs and explosives in various parts of the city, a revolutionary plot which anticipated the blowing up of public buildings was thwarted.

A mysterious taxicab gave the police their first hint of the plot. The cab was stopped and found to contain a cargo of the bombs, destined for one of the depots of the revolutionaries.

Implicates Others

The driver confessed participation in the conspiracy and implicated Sergeant Joaquin Feliciano Freire and others all of whom were arrested except two lieutenants who escaped.

The police searched the homes of the conspirators and seized more than 600 bombs.

Those arrested included an unnamed captain of infantry, two sergeants and 20 civilians. Mala Monteiro, who was arrested and the freeman of a friend, Lieut. Floster jumped from a window and was injured about the head.

Police said the bombs were manufactured in Lisbon from dynamite and other explosives supplied by the freeman of a friend, Lieut. Floster.

HEROIC AVIATRIX SAVES COMPANION

British Girl Flier Swims Two Miles To Shore After Plane Is Forced Down.

Catania, Italy, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Miss Winifred Spooner, British girl aviator who was seeking to make a round flight from Crocydon to Cape Town, South Africa today, came down in the Tyrrhenian sea, near the toe of Italy's boot, and courageously swam ashore to save the life of her companion, Captain E. C. T. Edwards.

The plane, in which they had left Rome before daylight, fell in the water about three kilometers from Bel Monte Calabro but did not sink. Although it was still dark Miss Spooner, who is 23 years old, plunged into the sea and eventually reached the shore.

The beach was deserted but she walked a short distance to a small railway station where her appearance startled railroad employes. She was exhausted, but under their ministrations she was revived quickly and told them of Edwards' plight.

Attracts Fishermen

Meanwhile Edwards had been signaling from the plane and these finally attracted the attention of some fishermen who went to his assistance, took him off the plane and conveyed him to land. Others towed the plane ashore.

The plane left Crocydon early yesterday morning and reached Rome at 6:30 p. m. It departed for Catania at 8:30 p. m. at about midnight, while still 250 miles from Catania the plane's motor failed and it had to come down on the sea. The landing was easy and the plane was not greatly damaged, remaining afloat.

For two hours the two fliers shouted for help, and tried to signal boats near the shore but could not make themselves heard. It was then Miss Spooner decided to swim. It took her two hours to make the two miles to shore through heavy waves.

Miss Spooner said it would be necessary to abandon their flight.

The first thing the girl flier did after Edwards had been brought ashore was to peel off the heavy flying tights in which she had made the two-mile swim, and settled herself for a brief nap before both the

When Floods Swirled About French Capital

Waters of the historic Seine, swollen by continued autumnal rains, menaced Paris and drove 6000 persons from their homes in suburbs. This picture, taken while the flood threatened to assume record proportions, shows soldiers building a pontoon bridge to enable residents of Savigny, near Paris, to escape from the slowly rising waters. Navigation on the river was halted and sandbags were piled up at low spots in the dikes which flank the river's course.

FOUR SERIOUSLY BURNED BY EXPLOSION IN DARIEN

All Are Expected To Die In Stamford Hospital; Work- ing Among Fireworks In Shanty When They Go Off.

Stamford, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Four men were seriously burned in an explosion and fire in a small fireworks factory in Darien near the Stamford line shortly after 11 o'clock this morning. The Stamford hospital, where all were taken, reported that the men are all expected to die, having suffered second degree burns all over their bodies.

The property damage was estimated at $1,000. The four men are: 42, Nick Salina, 22, Aldon Salina, 21, 42, Nick Salina, 22, Aldon Salina, 21, all of Long Island City. The relation of the last three was not determined.

The factory was owned by Moses Delicio of Wetmore road, Darien, and located about 15 yards from his home. He was outside the building when he heard a slight explosion and saw the flames. Rushing into the building he led the four out, all blinded. He walked them to his house and called Stamford and Darien police and the Stamford hospital. The Stamford police sent an ambulance as did the Stamford hospital.

How Blast Occurred

Sfarno told him he was loading a fancy set piece with an explosive called "blue star." For some undetermined reason the material exploded in his hand. Delicio said the piece was dropped, landing in a pile of blue star. The star ignited immediately and the men being close together were awfully with it. The building was set afire in a number of places at once.

Delicio ran in, led the four out, beating out the flames with his hands. He suffered slight burns. He took the four to his home from where they were removed to the Stamford hospital.

So badly were all burned that it was impossible to identify any of them.

TARDIEU DEFENDS NATION'S POLICIES

Says France Has Suffered Less From Depression Than Any Other Nation.

Paris, Dec. 4.—(AP)—The Tardieu government was defeated in the Senate today on a vote of confidence based principally on its internal and financial policies.

The official check disclosed that the government had fallen by four votes. The vote was 149 to 145.

Paris, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Premier Tardieu, a stern and determined figure, today launched a personal defense of his government's internal financial policies in reply to the bitter attack which has been directed against him in a long time.

France, said he, has suffered less than any other country in a time of economic depression, which has the whole world by the throat.

He was defending the policies which Rene Henry, speaking for the opposition, had assailed in a long speech. Henry added the government with responsibility for the high cost of living and charged it had taken no step to end the

JUDGES' LEGALITY IS UP TO COURT

Governor Trumbull Says He Is Not Qualified To Pass On the Waterbury Cases.

Hartford, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Whether the appointment of City Court judges has been made in violation of the constitution as asserted in some quarters in New Haven, is a question Governor John H. Trumbull today does not feel qualified to pass on.

"It is the first time such a question has been raised," said the governor. "The appointment of the judges of the court of New Haven and the District Court of Waterbury are made in accordance with the particular charters granted those cities. All other judges are appointed on recommendations of the governor and approved by the Senate."

Must Make Test

"The question seems to be whether the charters granted the city of New Haven and the city of Waterbury are constitutional. This question could be decided only after a test has been made and the Supreme Court passes on it, or the governor, in such an event, he is appointed by the governor and approved by the Senate."

Deputy General Ernest Averill in an off-hand opinion, can see no reason for excitement over the appointment of judges. He declared without study of the charters of the cities concerned, that judges are appointed by the General Assembly on recommendation of the governor. He is of the opinion that the real concern might develop if the legislature should attempt to appoint as judges individuals not nominated by the governor. In such an event, he believes, there might be real cause for concern as to whether such appointments could rightfully preside in court.

LEAVE EINSTEIN ALONE

S. S. Reigeland, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Prof. Albert Einstein, on the way to the United States, is getting on this ship some of the privacy which he missed during the days immediately preceding his departure. Today he had a long talk about anti-Semitism with a representative of the Jewish Telegraphic Agency, but for the rest of the day he was left by himself.

Even in the main dining room the passengers respect his request that he be left alone. He spends most of his time at work in his cabin with a member of the crew guarding his door.

Frozen Light Exhibited; Monster X-Ray Machines

New York, Dec. 4.—(AP)—A beautiful form of light, preserved by freezing it at 312 degrees below zero was exhibited to the New York Merchants Association today.

Almost equally amazing was the sight of corn popping between two jars of ice water, its bursting due to the heat of the heated hearts of the kernels while the air about them was chilled.

The light was frozen at Schenectady, N. Y., yesterday brought here in a bottle of liquid at 312 degrees below zero and thawed out for exhibition to the merchants by L. A. Hawkins, executive engineer and E. L. Manning, physicist of the General Electric Company.

Wonders of new and powerful X-ray machines, whose possibilities are unfathomed even by their creators, are being unfolded here before scientists attending the convention of the Radio Logical Society of North America.

The greatness of these machines — an X-ray tube of 850,000 volts, said to produce more than fifty times as much power as all the radium known to exist — was exhibited today before the scientists last night at Pasadena by Dr. Robert A. Millikan, noted physicist.

This tube produces rays approximating in length those of the penetrating gamma ray of radium, and hence in some respects is capable of doing the work now done by the $5,000,000 worth of radium which the world thus far has yielded.

Break Into Matteawan Hospi- tal At Beacon, N. Y., Over- power Guards and Free Friends—Later Traced To New York City Where One of Them Is Seen Twice, Murderer and Pyromaniac Among Them — All Dan- gerous Men.

Berlin, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Communist disorders in various parts of Germany which already have resulted in two deaths, were in full swing in Berlin this afternoon in continuation of unemployment demonstrations.

A tremendous chorus of "We Want Work and Bread" and "We Are Starving" was heard at a demonstration of unemployed at Busch Circus held under the auspices of the Communist Party.

The demonstrators afterwards marched toward the northeastern working class suburbs, refusing to dissolve at the summons of the police who had their hands full in subduing the turbulent crowd.

Rocks were thrown at the police who wielded their clubs vigorously and fired in the air to keep their assailants at bay.

Shopkeepers along the route of the march hurriedly lowered their shutters but a number of vegetable market stalls were plundered.

Some of the rioters stopped to give battle as the police drove the mob through the streets but only ten of them were arrested.

Washington, Dec. 4.—(AP)—It looks more than ever as though Mr. Mellon will have to pay one per cent more on this year's income than on the last.

Secretary Mellon sees it that way. His annual report, addressed today to Congress, predicted a $180,000,000 deficit when the fiscal year ends next June.

SEARLES FACING 90 YEAR SENTENCE

Jury Still Incomplete As Court Adjourns At Bridge- port—Cops As Witnesses.

Bridgeport, Dec. 4.—(AP)—The jury still was incomplete and the panel exhausted in the first two hours today of the trial of Carleton Searles on charges of attempted murder. Court adjourned until 2 p. m.

From behind the griled pen as court opened stepped Searles, alleged gunman and bad man into a court room of armed officers and curious spectators, facing a possible 90 years in Wethersfield on three counts of assault with intent to murder.

Nine Greenwich policemen were present in the court room, besides other policemen and sheriffs. Two sheriffs flanked Searles, while a Greenwich armed police sergeant sat directly behind him.

A report came from the jail before Searles was brought to the court house that he would take his chances on "making a break" when he took the stand. Authorities heard of the report, but were non-committal on it.

Searles took his seat beside Public Defender Harry Silverstone at 10:15 and immediately thereafter the work of selecting a jury was in order.

Well Dressed
Searles was dressed in a light suit, and his hair was slicked down. Many of the spectators thought he was a lawyer instead of being the accused. He is charged with attempting to murder Policeman William Simpson of Danbury on September 19 and Policeman Healy and Teufel of Greenwich on November 22. Each count carries a maximum of 30 years in prison, making a total of 90 years he is facing.

Edgar Morgan, of New Haven, charged with driving the car in which Searles was riding when he shot the Greenwich officers, will be tried later, as will Harold Schiff, who is alleged to have been with Searles when two Danbury policemen were shot.

The two New Haven young women Agnes Berthelot and Myrtle Lewis, alleged to have been abandoned in this city by Searles and Carl Macario, of North Haven, and held by the state as material witnesses, were not present at the trial. The state's plans regarding the women have not been disclosed.

Macario, was reported yesterday, to be ready to take the stand as a material witness against Searles in the event he is needed. He is held on satisfactory burglary. He was not present, however, when the case opened.

LIPTON OVERCOME AT PRESENTATION

Famous Yachtman Unable To Read His Speech As Trophy Is Given To Him.

New York, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Sir Thomas Lipton was presented a cup for his sportsmanship today, but in the middle of his address accepting it he was overcome by the heat in the presentation chamber at City Hall and staggered into his chair without finishing.

"Unfortunately," he apologized as he was assisted to his seat, "I can't read as well as I used to." The rest of his address was read for him.

The "Cup of Good Will" for which thousands of Americans subscribed so he might have a token of America's good will in lieu of the America's Yachting Cup which he has tried so vainly to win, with his Shamrock vessels, was presented in the Aldermanic Chamber at City Hall by Mayor James J. Walker, who with the humorist Will Rogers arranged the public subscription for the cup.

Begins Speech

Sir Thomas began his speech of acceptance by saying, "I have never had a higher honor paid me in the whole of my life than that which has been bestowed on me by the people of America in the form of this most magnificent loving cup."

"For many years I have felt that I would be the proudest man in the world if only I could lift the 'America's Cup.' And now the object of your most wonderful kindness to me is that, although I have lost, you make me feel as if I had won. In short you have turned a loser into a winner in a most remarkable way."

CHURCHES PROPOSE NEW STATE PRISON

Would Have Convicts Build Structure On 1,000 Acre Tract To Be Purchased.

Wethersfield, Dec. 4.—(AP)—A proposal from the executive committee of the Hartford Council of Churches that a tract of 1,000 acres be purchased as soon as possible as a new site for the Connecticut State Prison today was before the governor's committee inquiring into the administration of the prison. This proposal was submitted yesterday to Homer S. Cummings, chairman of the committee as part of a revised statement of recommendations presented to the committee last week. The council recommends the construction of a new prison plant on the proposed new site, using prison labor as far as possible.

Examines Records

The governor's committee making what will probably be its final visit to the prison, yesterday questioned informally more than a dozen convicts at the institution. It then spent some time in a further inspection of the prison facilities and examination of its records.

Cummings indicated that future conference of the committee for the study of testimony presented by witnesses during the public hearings and for the preparation of its report to the governor would be held in Stamford, as a convenience to the three experts who have been named to assist in the inquiry.

ARMED MEN LIBERATE SIX INSANE CRIMINALS

Break Into Matteawan Hospi- tal At Beacon, N. Y., Over- power Guards and Free Friends—Later Traced To New York City Where One of Them Is Seen Twice, Murderer and Pyromaniac Among Them — All Dan- gerous Men.

New York, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Six insane criminals, one a murderer and another a pyromaniac, were hunted in New York City today a few hours after their escape early this morning from the Matteawan Hospital for the Criminal Insane near Beacon, N. Y.

Shortly after midnight three armed men overpowered four employees of the asylum, summoned the six inmates from their beds and carried them away in two motor cars.

About 5:30 a. m. Mrs. Frank Vanderkuylen heard a pounding on the door of her apartment in West Fifty-third street and answered the intruder. He said he was her husband, one of the six fugitives, and demanded admission. Frightened, she refused to admit him. He called Superintendent John C. O'Connell of the asylum. By the time New York police were notified Vanderkuylen was gone.

This and another circumstance convinced Kiehl and New York police that the men were making here.

Mad Butcher

Several weeks ago Harry Gordon, 38, Rochester's "mad butcher" who was in the criminal asylum for the slaying three years ago of two business rivals and the wounding of two men, was released by his wife. He told her, Mr. Kiehl said, "I'll get out of here some day if I can, when I do I'll take a boat for Poland right away."

Mrs. Gordon told of the incident to the district attorney of Monroe county, whom she reported it, tipped New York police at once to watch the steamship piers.

Record of Men

Vanderkuylen was committed to Matteawan last March from New York after trial for murder. Gordon, who was 38, had confessed and boasted of the killings for which he was found "not guilty but insane."

The other escaped men included: Anthony A. Almy, 41, of New York, listed as a dangerous pyromaniac.

John F. Gambill, 23, committed last year from New York for assault.

Joseph Kaylor, 35, committed last February from Nassau county, Long Island, for burglary and arson.

John G. Biggins, 30, of Brooklyn, committed last March after violation of parole.

All have longer criminal records. The leader of the gang which rescued the sextet was identified by Matteawan guards as a former inmate, William Nelson of New York, who escaped a fortnight ago after being sent to the asylum for burglary.

When the men in the rescue party entered the hospital grounds by back gate in today's early darkness they encountered a night watchman, Patrick McGrath, whom they took along with them. In the kitchen they met Clifford Coogan, night cook, to whom the six inmates said at the front of the prison building they picked up Joseph Brown, roundman. While one of the armed men guarded the three in a front office, the other two went to the dormitory where the six inmates slept with others. At least four of the men were watching, apparently, for their rescuers. They leaped from their cots and ran out. Gordon and another, apparently unprepared, followed in night attire.

The two cars in which they had departed in the direction of New York.

Thaw's Escape

Today's Matteawan escape recalled the sensational break of Harry H. Thaw from that institution seventeen years ago. He had been an inmate since February 2, 1908, when he was sent there for the slaying of the famous architect Stanford White.

A few minutes before eight o'clock a milk wagon drove into the yard. A guard stood aside to let it enter the gates. Thaw rushed past the milkman in a "trick," walked through the gate and climbed into a waiting automobile which departed hastily. A mile down the road Thaw changed to a larger car.

Being the next morning Thaw was recaptured at St. Herman, Glenside, Pa., and Deputy Sheriff B. H. Wiley of Colebrook, N. H., was credited with the capture.

Later in the day Vanderkuylen made his second appearance in New York. He walked into the rectory of St. Albert's church and talked with a priest. When the priest left the

ROCKVILLE

Fire Dep't. Get Together

The Rockville Fire Department and the bowling teams of the Toland, Ellington and Stafford Fire departments, had a get together at the Prospect street house last evening, and a buffet luncheon was served. The event marks the close of the first round in the bowling league which has been in progress for the past two months. The first round ended in a tie last week of the Stafford, Hook and Ladder and Fitch companies. These games have been rolled and on Tuesday night the Hook and Ladder team lost two games to Stafford, leaving the Fitch Company team the winners, the latter team winning over Stafford the previous night.

George B. Milne, chief of the Rockville Fire Department was awarded first prize for the highest score in a single game, and Otto Kasulke of the Fitch Company was awarded second prize.

There were remarks by the local chief, and Assistant Chief William Conrady, also by several of the visitors.

The second round of the bowling league will commence after the holidays.

Legion Planning Banquet

At a meeting of Stanley Dobosz Post, American Legion, held in G. A. R. hall on Tuesday evening, plans were discussed for the annual banquet, and a committee was appointed by the president, Thomas Shea, to make arrangements for same and report at the next meeting. The committee consists of George Taylor, Roy Sanford, Eldred Dowling and Charles Weber.

TRAFFIC LIGHT HABIT

Denver.—Stopping for red lights is getting to be a habit with motorists and horses. After an auto had struck a horse pulling a popcorn wagon here, the animal dashed wildly down the street in a runaway. A few blocks away a team of light fink blocks away from red. The horse, remembering its training, stopped for the light. Before it could resume its wild dash when the light turned green, a policeman had captured it.

KEMP'S STORE TO AID UNEMPLOYMENT FUND

To Distribute Radio Broadcast Tickets For Army-Navy Game At a Dollar Each.

A new plan to raise funds to relieve unemployment will be carried out locally by Kemp's Incorporated. Public dealer here at 768 Main Street, it was announced today. Mr. Kemp will put under way a new system of fund-raising—the distribution of "broadcast tickets" whereby residents of this city can contribute to the Salvation Army Radio Fund. These tickets, which it is hoped will bring one dollar from every contributor, will be the contribution of radio listeners for the privilege of listening in on Saturday, Dec. 13, to the broadcast of the Army-Navy game for the relief of the unemployed.

The game will be broadcast over the entire network of the National Broadcasting Company and of the Columbia Broadcasting System, with the three greatest sport announcers in the world at the microphone—Graham McNamee, Ted Husing and Bill Munday. Philco is sponsoring the broadcast and has paid the largest sum ever given for a radio broadcast for the tickets.

This sum has been donated to the Salvation Army fund. Fifteen thousand radio merchants throughout the country are distributing these Army-Navy "broadcast tickets" by means of which the Salvation Army hopes to collect hundreds of thousands of dollars for the relief of the jobless.

Tickets will be distributed by Kemp's, Inc. to every one anxious to help the cause. Those who receive the tickets are requested to make out a check or money order for one dollar, or more if desired, to the order of the Salvation Army Radio Fund care of Philco, Philadelphia, Pa. Contributors are requested not to send in cash.

"This is an opportunity for all of us who will hear this great charity football game in the comfort of our home to contribute our bit to the relief of the unemployed. I am sure that Manchester residents are not going to be behind the rest of the country in their support of this great cause." Mr. Kemp declared in announcing the drive. Tickets can be obtained at Kemp's, Inc., 768 Main street, or from Adjutant Joseph Eard, local officer in charge of the Salvation Army.

BOARD ADVOCATES AIRSHIP BUILDING

National Committee Urges That Dirigibles Be Built Much Larger Than Graf.

Washington, Dec. 4.—(AP)—An American "Airship Merchant Marine" was advocated today by the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics. Citing the "remarkable performances" of the Graf Zeppelin, the committee in its annual report urged support for the Navy's airship program, which calls for craft considerably larger than the German ship. The values of airships, the committee said, "should be developed thoroughly until they are fully demonstrated," and "airship lines should be established on a basis that will give to the United States an Airship Merchant Marine." The increase in operation of commercial aircraft and in the number of types of commercial aircraft developed was deemed the outstanding evidence of progress during 1930. "The industry was pictured as recovering from overdevelopment with promise of a sounder business and economic structure and a better appreciation of both possibilities and limitations of the airplane. Need of Research "The future, the committee said, depends upon the degree to which safety is increased and costs reduced—problems for persistent and well-organized research. Among the needs were cited larger airplanes, and especially larger flying boats, improved control for take-offs and landings, lower landing speeds, higher speeds in flight, increased comfort through reduction of noise and vibration, and high-powered engines. "The increase of 300 per cent in paid passengers over 1929," the report said, "is a most notable development for the year 1930 and gives assurance that the airplane is destined to become an important factor in transportation. "Accidents on scheduled air transport lines have been very few. The modern airplane operated over an established airway by a competent pilot is a reasonably safe means of transportation."

STEP ON THE "O" IN GLADI-O-LUS

New Haven, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Flower growers in other states may call the variegated lily shaped summer flowers what they wish, but Connecticut has decided that the blooms will be called Gladi-o-lus with the accent on the o, not the i. This word was one of the chief topics of discussion by the executive board of the Federated Garden Clubs of the state here yesterday. A school for flower judges was decided upon at the session and will be conducted here in March or April. Certificates will be awarded those who complete the course. The use of laurel, the state flower, for street decoration was disapproved by the board and it voted to send a letter of protest to the State Chamber of Commerce recommending that the state supervise the distribution of accredited laurel.

OPENING STOCKS

New York, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Shares prices were still on the downward grade at the opening of the Stock Market today. Atchison lost 1-2 points, and U. S. Steel, American Telephone, North American, Sears Roebuck, American and Foreign Power and Studebaker declined about 1 point each. Bethlehem Steel, Electric Power and Light, Public Service of N. J., and American Tobacco rose 1-2 to 3-4. Standard Gas, however, advanced 3-4. The decline slowed up after the opening but there was a downward drift of prices through most of the first half hour. Stock was not pressed for sale, however and trading remained very dull. Atchison extended its loss to more than 3 points and issues losing two points or more included Allied Chemical, Elgin, and Coca-Cola, Inc., Firestone and Coca-Cola. American Telephone and Air Reduction sold off about 1 1/2 points. Speculators for the rise were evidently disappointed over the market's lack of response to the increase in steel prices, but the small volume of stock for sale made bears cautious. Richfield Oil moved against the trend, raising more than a point. There have been various merger moves regarding this stock for several weeks. Foreign exchanges opened steady with sterling cables at $4.85 19-32 up 1-32.

Motor Hints

Timely Suggestions on the Care of the Car by the Automobile Club of Hartford.

Water Serves As Check

A battery that seems to be using up at too high a rate is more than cause for complaint on the part of the owner. It is evidence of trouble. Unusual or irregular water consumption is just as much a trouble tip as excessive gas consumption. Among other things it may be evidence of a leaky cell. This is usually the case if a great deal of water is needed in one cell while the others require additions only at the usual intervals. Unusual water consumption that shows up with fair regularity in each of the three cells is likely to indicate too high a generator charging rate. This may not be due to the generator charging any higher than other cars of the same make and model but rather to the fact that the owner makes long trips at too moderate a speed with a minimum of starter use.

Take Up the Tappets

In connection with adjusting the tappets for a little less clearance in colder weather it is well to avoid a trick of faulty reasoning. Motorists who use alcohol as an anti-freeze know that the boiling point is low—so low that the engine is not in proper condition it is likely to steam on a warm day in winter. Obviously it would not be good business to have reduced valve clearances where there is a possibility of overheating because that would tempt the valves to hold open a little. But that is only half the story. The point to keep in mind is the fact that the alcohol equipped car that boils over does not heat up as high as would be the case if the cooling system carried water or glycerine. Regardless, therefore, of what anti-freeze is selected the tappets can be taken up a little without risk, and in the interests of a better running engine.

Saves Reeling Brakes

There's a message of cheer for owners of cars with noisy brakes in recent development of various compounds which can be applied to worn brake lining. Thousands of motorists who have concluded they must have molded lining installed in order to obtain silent stopping will find that they can not only silence the present lining but make it even more efficient. Molded brake liners, one manufacturer finds, stop brake noises in a highly desirable way but lack the grip of woven lining. Molded lining is smooth, hard asbestos which cannot chatter or grab but which requires greater pedal pressure. For this reason motorist is at present endeavoring to make over worn lining into something of an ideal in brake material. It has been found that by treating such lining with plastic compounds the noises can be done away with without adversely affecting the efficiency of the material itself.

Right Gear Spares Clutch

Clutches burn out for a variety of reasons but the most common is not using the proper gear combination. Few drivers, however, ever consider this point. The clutch is simply a coupling between the engine and the driving mechanism of the car. In this capacity it is easily strained if the driver does not balance the power with the load. If he tries to start in high gear the engine has more work than it can handle comfortably with the result that the clutch slips and strains. The situation is equally as bad if the driver races the engine and uses the lowest gear unnecessarily. Here there is an abundance of power, misused. The clutch again suffers. Failure to shift to second going up hill, or sudden braking when the car is running in high, are just two additional situations when clutch strain is unnecessarily excessive.

Timely Transmission Treatment

Whether or not cold weather is anticipated where the car is to be used during the winter months it is good business to use the reasonable changes as an excuse for flushing out the gears. They invariably suffer from oiler procrastination. Also they suffer from such questionable practices as thinning out gear lubricant with kerosene. This should not even be used for flushing. Thin out with ordinary engine oil if the lubricant gets so stiff as to make shifting difficult and use gasoline for flushing purposes. In some cases the stiffened action of the gears, due to the thickening of the chilled lubricant, is an advantage. This condition will, for instance, compensate for an inefficient clutch brake. Instead of making gear shifting more difficult the combination of cold and heavy lubricant occasionally produces just the opposite effect. Lighter Oils All Around In the process of preparing the car for cold weather driving nothing is more important than to consider the necessity of using lighter lubricants throughout the entire car. Too many owners simply consider the engine oil.

If the car is equipped with a pressure greasing system it is a good idea to go over all steering connections, shackles and spring bolts with a gunload of transmission oil. In the case of brand new cars it is even permissible to use ordinary engine oil on the chassis. This lighter lubricant will work into the remote parts of the wearing surfaces and will stay there because of the lowered temperature. Transmissions and differential gears will need lighter lubricants and if the owner does not drain off the old lubricant or cannot obtain new stuff of just the right consistency it is permissible to thin out with engine oil. Kerosene should not be used for this purpose. More passengers were transported by air in the United States last year than in any other country except Germany.

NEW LONDON COUPLE CHARGED WITH ARSON

New London, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Alleged to have set fire to their house at 45 Terrace avenue, at 2 o'clock this morning, Anthony and Anna Gerwatowski, were presented in the Police Court today, charged with arson. The case was continued until December 10 to permit state police Commissioner Robert T. Hurley to investigate the fire in his capacity as state fire marshal and the man and his wife were released in bonds of $2,500 each. The arrests were made upon the complaint of Deputy Fire Chief Calvin N. Edmonds who reported that he had found the rug and other articles of furniture saturated with kerosene when he reached the house in response to a telephone call from a person residing nearby. The fire caused damage of approximately $7,000 and, according to the fire chief, five persons were sleeping in the upstairs tenement when the downstairs tenants were aroused.

CORONER LAUDS JURY COMPOSED OF WOMEN

Chicago, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Headed by Jane Addams, international famous welfare worker, the first legal authorized jury of women in Illinois has been in action, and won the praise of Herman N. Bundezen, a coroner of Cook county. "I might say," the coroner said, "that it is gratifying to have a jury so alert as to bring out the material and important facts leading to an intelligent verdict in this case. The case was that of Mrs. Elsie Wasson, killed in the rear of her home when her son Edwin stepped on the starter of Mrs. Wasson's automobile, which inadvertently had been left in gear. The car leaped forward, crushing Mrs. Wasson. The death and the women jurors held it was an accident. "This inquest," the coroner said, "has demonstrated better than anything else that there is no sex in law and that men and women are equally interested in the enforcement of the laws of our state. "We are proud to enact this phase of citizenship and feel deeply our responsibility," Miss Addams replied.

How's She Hitting? PAID $100,000 A YEAR

New York, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Estimates that the police vice squad spends upward of $100,000 yearly to maintain stool pigeons were in the records of the Magistrates Courts inquiry today. Lt. Peter J. Pfeiffer testified before Referee Samuel Seabury that 120 policemen had expense accounts of $85 weekly for undercover information in vice cases. Special Counsel Isador J. Kresel said the figures were low and entered a statement that the total was between $50,000 and $100,000 in the Bronx and Manhattan alone. Kresel drew from Pfeiffer the admissions that the expense accounts often were much higher.

SENATORS LEARN ROPES

Washington, Dec. 4.—(AP)—The Senate's six new members are maintaining a discreet silence but keeping their eyes open to learn all they can. None has yet made a chirp on the Senate floor but former Secretary of Labor Davis, broke the ice by introducing the first bill. After his first full day, Davis said he liked his new job "first rate." Dwight W. Morrow, New Jersey, made no comment of his reactions as he fished his way around the corridors. A Senator's job is more interesting but has less responsibilities than a Cabinet officer's, said Senator Davis. As secretary of labor he sometimes started work at 6 a. m., and once in awhile slept on a table at the department in order to get an early start next day, he said.

LABOR HOLDS SEAT

London, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Labor retains its seat in the Commons representative of the White Chapel constituency as a consequence of Wednesday's by-election but by a greatly reduced plurality. Some quarters attributed the loss in votes to resentment at the labor government's attitude toward Palestine. James Hall, Labor, polled 8,444 votes; the Liberal runner-up 7,445 and Conservative 3,738 and Communist candidate 2,106. In the preceding election Harry Gosling, Labor, deceased, polled 13,701 votes, topping his combined opposition by 789 votes. This plastic packing is a composition material which can be pressed into the pump gland housing with the thumb or a small tool, and will fill up all dents, scores and grooves in the shaft. When this is done, the gland nut should be tightened up even more than is necessary under ordinary conditions. The motor should then be run, or the car driven, for a short time, and the gland nut should be tightened further to compensate for the filling of the grooves by the packing material. All through the winter this should be watched carefully, more plastic material added from time to time, and the gland nut taken up to keep the cooling solution from leaking through. If, however, leaking continues despite all this preparation, a new gland and new packing is the only cure.

WAPPING

The second regular meeting of the Blue Triangle Club or the Y. W. C. A. Girls was held at their club room, last Monday evening with ten members present. Miss Helen Hanley a teacher at the Rye street school and Miss Lydia Elmer, a teacher of the Wapping school, were the hostesses for the evening. Mrs. Louise Burnham is substituting at the Wapping school this week for Mrs. Ethel T. Boody, whose daughter, Miss Margaret Boody has been quite ill at her home, with a septic sore throat. The Pleasant Valley Club is to hold a food and fancy work sale at the Pleasant Valley school house on Saturday, December 13 at two o'clock. David Burnham's Filling Station at Pleasant Valley was broken into Friday evening and money from the cash register, boxes of cigars and several small articles were taken. The annual meeting of the Second Congregational church of Wapping will be held at the church next Thursday evening at 8 o'clock. The Y. M. C. A. Boys held a meeting last Monday evening, at the close of the Kiwanis banquet, and meeting which was held at the Wapping Parish House. Mrs. George A. Collins received word of the death of her sister, Mrs. Sarah Elizabeth Farnham of Collinsville, she was 78 years old, and had lived in Collinsville 56 years. She was born in New Hartford, the daughter of Sherman and Jane (Barnes) Beckwith. She leaves beside her husband, Charles A. Farnham, two sons, Professor Charles S. Farnham of Yales and Elmer Farnham of Norwich and a daughter, Mrs. Frank A. Cox of Collinsville, also three brothers, Seymour Beckwith of Westfield, Mass., Elmer Beckwith of East San Gabriel, California, and Willis Beckwith of Manchester, one sister Mrs. C. A. Collins of Wapping; also six grandchildren. The funeral was held from her late home in Collinsville Wednesday afternoon at two o'clock. Rev. William Ferriman, pastor of the Congregational church, of which she was a member, officiated. The burial was in the village cemetery. Mrs. Robert A. Boardman, who is ill at the Charter Oak hospital, is improving.

TEXAS GIANT SAILS FOR EUROPEAN TOUR

New York, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Jack Earle—eight feet six inches and 330 pounds of him—was headed for Europe today on a protesting liner. Earle, a spanking lad of 24 who calls El Paso, Texas his home, boarded the Hamburg last night—with difficulty. The first thing he bumped into was the eight foot ceiling of the pier elevator. He nearly banged himself rolling up the gangway, but his troubles had only begun. Research acquainted him with the fact the ship elevators, cabins, salons and enclosed decks all had eight foot tops. The carpenter took one look and started building a two foot extension to his berth and the steward put in a call for more elongated linen. Earle is a circus performer and is on his way to the London Olympia.

NEW TARIFF BOARD

Washington, Dec. 4.—(AP)—The Senate finance committee decided today to examine all six members of the new tariff commission Saturday. Possible contests have involved the names of Henry P. Fletcher of Pennsylvania, Republican, chairman; Edgar B. Brossard, Republican, Utah, and Alfred P. Dennis, Democrat, Maryland. The other three members are Thomas W. Page, Democrat, Virginia, and John L. Coulter, Republican, North Dakota and Lincoln Dixon, Democrat, Indiana. All six were given recess appointments. Their nominations were sent to the Senate yesterday. Senator Harrison of Mississippi, a Democratic member of the committee, announced yesterday a thorough investigation of the fitness of Fletcher and Brossard would be conducted. Some Republican members also want to question Dennis.

OBSERVE SAINTS' DAY

Turin, Italy, Dec. 4.—(AP)—The artillerymen and engineers of this important Army center, as well as their fellow corps members all over Italy, today paraded in full dress in honor of their legendary patron, St. Barbara. Just how that mystic maiden, converted to Christianity in the early centuries of the era and sent to a martyr's death by her own father, became the titular protector of soldiers wielding destructive devices is somewhat of a mystery. One explanation is that because her father, after beholding her, was struck by lightning in sign of divine vengeance, she became considered the logical intercessor in time of danger from thunderstorms and fire. Miners and firemen celebrate her feast as well as the soldiery. In Sicily in certain regions the virgin-martyr's aid is often invoked in times of earthquake, or during eruptions of Mt. Etna.

NO WOMEN ABOARD R-101 AS IT FELL

Nor Was There Intoxicating Liquor Aboard British Dirigible Sir Simon Says.

London, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Sir John Simon, chairman of the board of inquiry investigating the crash and destruction of the dirigible R-101 in northern France in October, denied today that there was a woman aboard at the time of the catastrophe, or that there were large quantities of intoxicating liquors on the ship. He also denied that the crew was not sober.

Sir John stated emphatically at today's session of the court of inquiry that there was no woman on the craft, adding that the woman mentioned as having been aboard "had now reached Rome on a flight she was undertaking."

The reference apparently was to Miss Winifred Spooner, British woman aviatrix whose plane had made a forced landing in northern France last night. News of the untimely ending of her flight not having yet reached the inquiry room.

Sir John said careful inquiry was made into reports that there were large quantities of liquor aboard and that crew and passengers were not sober and that "there was not the slightest shadow of a foundation for them."

OWEN YOUNG SUGGESTS PARLIAMENT'S HOLIDAY

New York, Dec. 4.—(AP.)—Economics and politics are in conflict and must be reconciled, in the opinion of Owen D. Young.

Speaking before the Lotos Club last night, following his return from England, the author of the Young plan for reparations said:

"The forces are violent and imposing. Some better way must be found of accommodating each to the other or they will destroy each other."

"In some European countries the question is being seriously discussed of providing economic Parliaments in addition to political ones in order that men especially qualified for the handling of these difficult economic problems may deal with them."

"It has even been suggested that if a holiday of armaments is good a holiday of Parliaments would be better."

America should be a tolerant creditor, he said in appealing for "adequate understanding by the greatest nation in the world in order that its privileges and responsibilities of leadership may not fail in these times and before it is too late."

BOY SCOUT NEWS

TROOP THREE Troop Three, instead of having a regular meeting, met Troop Eight, Manchester Green Troop, in an inter-troop contest at the Center church Tuesday evening. Troop Eight beat Troop Nine by a score of 21-8 but the score of Tuesday evening's contest was 25-2 in favor of Troop Three. The following events were run off: Scout Craft, Knot Tying, Morse Signalling, Chariot Race, Semaphore, Centipede Race, Flint and Steel, Skin the Snake, Patrol Rescue Race, Friction Fire, and the Obstacle Race. Troop Three won the first ten events, losing out on the last event. This being the first contest of Troop Three, we think that it was a good start off. Teddy Nelson, who won the Flint and Steel, made fire in quick time only taking one strike against the flint to get his spark. The contest was refereed by Arthur Anderson, former Scoutmaster of Troop Five. Art ran off the meet in a speedy fashion and in quick time. That's the proper way. The meeting closed with both troops repeating the Scout Oath and prayer led by Dave McComb.

Notes Troop Three was supposed to meet Troop Four of St. Mary's, but on account of difficulty did not. It will meet Troop Four at the next meeting night.

Three or four scouts of the troop are intending to become Eagle Scouts in the near future. Come on, scouts, step on it!

Troop Three hopes that Mr. Pratt and his worthy assistant, Cowles, will have better luck next time. We believe they will win the next contest.

E. Irwin, scribe.

TROOP 4 Troop 4 opened its meeting Tuesday evening by giving the Scout Oath and Laws. Dues were collected by the patrol treasurers and the roll called.

The remainder of the meeting was spent in practicing for the contest to be held with Troop 3 at our headquarters. First Aid will not be done in this contest. Several new contests will be introduced such as the Dressing Race, in which a group of scouts each dressed in a bathing suit will vie for first honors by being the first dressed in complete uniform. The Centipede Race will also be run off.

The meeting closed at 9:30 by giving the Oath and Laws.

Notes Troop 4 has sold many boxes of Christmas cards in an effort to earn money for the financing of a new cabin. Splendid work has been done by James Neff who has sold twenty-one boxes.

No meeting will be held Friday, but a special meeting will be held Monday evening so every scout is requested to be present.

TWO DIE IN FLAMES AS AUTO BURNS UP

Magnolia, N. J., Dec. 4.—(AP)—An unidentified woman and a middle aged man were burned to death and a Philadelphia motion picture theater manager was critically injured in an automobile accident on the White Horse Pike here today.

The young woman, believed to have been about 18, was burned beyond recognition. Papers found in the wallet of the dead man bore the name A. M. Freeman, but no address.

The third victim was identified as John T. O'Rourke, 24, manager of the Keystone theater, Philadelphia. He is not expected to recover.

The three were trapped in a small coupe, believed to have been driven by O'Rourke when it burst into flames after crashing into the rear of a milk truck.

TO PROBE PRIMARY

New York, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Senator Gerald F. Nye and a Senate committee were here today to open an inquiry into campaign expenditures in the New Jersey primary, which led to the election of Senator Dwight W. Morrow.

Twelve witnesses, representing wet and dry factions, were scheduled to appear at the hearing.

Senator Nye has estimated that $150,000 was expended to elect Senator Morrow and that $100,000 was used in the campaigns of Franklin Fort and Joseph S. Freylinghuysen, his defeated opponents.

The New Jersey law prohibits the expenditure of more than $50,000 by a candidate for a Senatorial nomination.

STATIC EXPERIMENTS

Toronto, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Experiments to determine whether radio static is caused by the Northern Lights and to discover means to eliminate it are being conducted under the direction of Prof. J. C. McLennan, head of the Physics Department of Toronto University.

Apparatus and instruments have been set up at Blacksmith Rapids, where photographic and spectroscopic studies of the Northern Lights are being made. Blacksmith Rapids, which is in the center of the government's coal fields was chosen because of the unusual clarity of the atmosphere.

The experiments will be conducted through the winter. The government is cooperating in the work.

FIRE IN BRIDGEPORT

Bridgeport, Dec. 4.—(AP)—A spectacular blaze which started in the cellar destroyed the two-story wooden frame home of Patsy Aronick, Trumbull avenue this forenoon, causing damage estimated at $6,500.

Aronick's 77 year old mother discovered the fire and ran a block to a neighbor's home to spread the alarm.

Delay in relaying the alarm to fire headquarters and the distance which the building lay from a fire hydrant enabled the fire to gain headway.

Police discovered the remains of a still in the cellar after the blaze.

18 OIL TANKS AFIRE; LOSS REACHES MILLION

New York, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Streams of flaming oil pouring from the Pratt works of the Standard Oil Company illuminated the Brooklyn waterfront early today.

The fire which threatened for a time to wipe out the entire plant was stemmed by forces working by land and by water after a vigorous fight of three hours.

More than 200,000 gallons of gasoline, crude oil and turpentine stored in 18 tanks were destroyed. Piers, barges, a fireboat and a tanker were damaged as the fire mass poured into the East river between the Williamsburg and 59th street bridges.

Fire officials said the loss may reach a million dollars.

The fire started with the explosion of a crude oil tank.

4,860,000 JOBLESS

Washington, Dec. 4.—(AP)—American Federation of Labor estimates today showed 4,860,000 laboring men out of work in November.

This figure was given out by William Green, president of the Federation with a warning that at the rate of increase for the past month, February would see seven million jobless.

Neither figure covered unemployed office workers or farm laborers.

The estimate was based on reports from unions in 24 cities, checked against statistics of the Department of Labor and other employment agencies.

THURSDAY, DECEMBER 4.

OLD AGE PENSIONS

If constant agitation of a subject is capable of compelling action on it, then it is probable that the Connecticut Legislature will have to consider old age pensions during its coming session. We are somewhat fearful of the outcome.

The peril in this matter of pensions for the indigent aged lies not, it seems to us, in the proposition itself but in the liability of the Legislature to go off at half-cock in disposing of it. And this liability may or may not be diminished by the appointment of a special commission to study the subject over a period of two years. Only an extremely competent commission would be able to arrive at any adequate understanding of the subject in that length of time. And for the Legislature to take any positive action prior to the making of such a study would be to court almost certain failure and quite possibly result in a great deal of harm. The latter, almost certainly, if any inadequate old-age pension legislation were to provide for the disestablishment of the existing almshouse system.

We all see very frequent printed assertions that there is nothing new and untried about old age pension systems. We are told how many foreign countries have such a system and that it is already in operation in eleven or twelve states of the American Union. Very true—but how much does that mean? How much illumination is there in the fact that Colorado has an old age pension law under which an old man or woman of 65 or more, provided he or she has no other income and no responsible relatives, may draw six or eight dollars a week from the county—when there are counties in the state that have never expended a nickel of money under that law?

What bearing on the Connecticut situation is there in the fact that in Great Britain a necessitous person of similar age may draw up to, but not in excess of ten shillings a week from the public purse?

What does it mean to say that the average cost of maintaining poor people in American almshouses is $334 a year and that half of this goes for administration? Does anyone imagine that it follows that on the other half of $334 an old man or woman can be self supporting in a home of his or her own?

It is a reproach upon our civilization that men and women who live moral, useful, industrious lives, indulging very little in luxuries or expensive recreation, who are reasonably thrifty and self denying, can and frequently do find themselves in their old age with their earning capacity exhausted, their savings used up and themselves without means of support. Practically everybody will agree that there is something wrong about that. But the universal admission of the wrong does not constitute a solution of the problem. Nor does the mere agreement that there ought to be some sort of a pension system, whereby such people can be supported without destroying their self respect and rendering them utterly unhappy, solve it.

This is, as a matter of fact, a very tremendous subject, and one to which there has never been given one hundredth part of the thought it deserves.

If Connecticut does approach the problem it is to be hoped that the finest intelligences and the noblest hearts in the whole state will be enlisted in the effort to find the answer. We should get nowhere by merely copying the well intentioned but sickeningly futile things that have so far been done by other states and other countries in this business—in most cases the most slovenly salving of half numbed consciences.

When Connecticut does something in the old age pension line let it be something for the rest of the world to take off its hat to, and not a miserable gesture.

SPREAD OF PRICES

There are hundreds of thousands of people, if not millions of them, in the United States who, though in very few instances actually starving, have not known, in many months, what it was to have food in abundance and in the proper variety to sustain full health. At the same moment we hear the Secretary of Agriculture warning the farmers of the country that unless they curtail production they will ruin themselves.

The strange part of this anomalous thing is that Secretary Hyde may be right, or at least partly right. It is undoubtedly true that the growing of wheat and cotton and perhaps some other crops has been developed to a point where the channels of distribution are clogged with the products and where the returns are unprofitable to the grower. Yet we seem to be living in a queer sort of betwixtland when from the point of view of the agriculturist the total of food in the country has become a menace to the solvency of the farmers and at the same time there are any number of human beings who never have quite enough to eat.

Perhaps some day, after this irreconcilable situation has grown sufficiently acute to impress itself as a major interest upon the consciousness of our statesmen, government will begin to concern itself with the question of the spread of prices between producer and consumer. When the farmer gets three cents for a cauliflower and the consumer pays thirty-five cents for the same identical vegetable, and when something more or less approaching that condition obtains in the distribution of any number of food commodities, there is obviously a maladjustment that cannot be rectified by the simple process of cutting down production.

MORE WISDOM

It isn't every author who has the state of Connecticut for a publisher and who is in a position to decide that his own work is good enough to send to the printers at the taxpayers' expense. That very special situation seems destined to make Robbins B. Stoekel, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles, the most widely read writer among Connecticut readers—provided they read all that he publishes.

Mr. Stoekel's latest philosophical effort—for which the state of Connecticut is paying—is a monograph on the early training of children to prepare them for the perils of the highway. It deals with "traffic personality," "altruism" and "introspection." It is very erudite. It has more class to it than a church wedding with six bridesmaids and the ushers in morning coats and spats. It will add much kudos to the already towering literary fame of Mr. Stoekel. But we somehow doubt whether it will prevent many kids from being killed by speeding automobiles.

IN NEW YORK

New York, Dec 4.—It's an old, old legend of the theater: the show must go on! Wind, weather, death, no matter! The show goes on. And so, upon a recent evening, a typical first night crowd gathered at the entranceway of a typical mid-town showhouse. There were ermine wraps and silk hats; taxis that cluttered the streets and dancing rivers of gold made by the reflection of bright lights upon the rain-soaked pavement.

An hour later an audience rocked with laughter. Great farce hits! Laugh! Hit for Sam Harris. Lucky Sam Harris! Two laugh hits in a year.

But where was Sam? He ought to be around somewhere celebrating, receiving the congratulations.

Yes, the show went on.

Late on that same afternoon, a man worried himself to fever pitch; clung to a phone he naughted a hospital. His wife had been ill for some days, but now had come word of a change for the worse.

And just as the first lights of Broadway began to twinkle in an early dusk, Mrs. Sam Harris died suddenly.

The crowd left the theater in the manner that Broadway crowds do—a theater. Many were still laughing at the ludicrous situations of a final scene, the little groups stopped to chatter about this amusing incident and that. Gaminus suddenly appeared from everywhere—getcha taxi, mister..... getcha taxi! Taxi runners clung to the runnings of cars, looking for their tips.

The show was over. And about one or two in a crowd of thousands knew that the man who had provided this side-splitter was somewhere in the great city—with grief in the front row.

The other night I was reminded again of Bob Garland's commentary to the effect that New York is a town filled with celebrities that no one ever heard about.

It was at one of the bigger and better openings. There were Hollywoodese flood lights and all the rest. A lobby broadcasting set-up had been installed, and the shadow of Beverly Hills fell over the entire procedure. But the announcer was a newcomer, who didn't know his celebrities.

And he introduced Percy Hammond, the critic, as George Jean Nathan. And did they laugh!

Speaking of broadcasting reminds me that, for one reason or another, the leading band maestros seldom, if ever, use batons when directing in a broadcast studio. The congestion of the bands in studio rooms, I believe, has something to do with it.

Guy Lombardo uses a hand-carved stick given him as a Christmas present several years ago; Paul Whiteman wields a young bluegone about a foot long, which somehow resembles a policeman's nightstick; Mark Wainwright uses a yellow lead pencil, which he casually takes from his pocket; Vincent Sorey insists on swinging his violin; Freddy Rich prefers his bare hands; Claude MacArthur merely takes out his fountain pen; Nat Brustoff waves his fiddle bow—and so it goes.

One of the major smiles of the week is afforded by a book dedication conceived by Mayer Porter, one of the several scribbling publicity gents, in his opus, "Not to the Swift."

WORLD COURT VOTE

The result of a survey of daily newspaper opinion on the ratification of the World Court protocols has just been issued by the American Foundation, which conducted the inquiry. It shows that 1,337 newspapers with a circulation of 26,993,906 favor ratification, while 265 newspapers with a circulation of 10,537,317 are opposed. Fifty-eight newspapers declined to take a stand on the question and the replies of fourteen are listed as impossible to classify. Of all the newspapers questioned 342 did not answer the question.

In no state in the Union are there so many newspapers opposed to ratification as there are in favor of it. Senator Borah's state of Idaho comes the nearest to an even division of sentiment. Illinois shows many of its newspapers in opposition, though still a minority, and California journals reflect the Hiram Johnson antagonism by registering in considerable numbers as being in opposition.

Every Connecticut newspaper replying to the questionnaire with the exception of two joined the list of World Court advocates. The exceptions, the Naugatuck News and the Winsted Citizen, reported "no stand." The only dailies which did not reply were the Bridgeport Post and Bridgeport Telegram, the Norwalk Hour and Norwalk Sentinel and the Willimantic Chronicle.

It is highly probable that the opinions of these newspapers, for and against World Court ratification, represent public opinion in just about the proportionate measure of their respective circulations—that is that, in round numbers, for every 27,000 persons in the country favorable to the Court there are 3,500 opposed to it with another 3,500 indifferent.

FARMER AND GAME

A brand new idea has been advanced at the annual American Game Conference which, if adopted, might mark the end of the era of free hunting which has existed ever since the settlement of this country.

So far as the Game Conference is concerned, the policy has already been adopted, having been approved after a long discussion. But whether the various states will follow up with legal action remains to be seen. Probably not soon.

The proposed policy contemplates the granting of some sort of compensation to the farmer as an inducement to restore and increase wild game resources. It would recognize the land owner as the custodian of public game, protect him from the irresponsible shooter and compensate him for putting his land in productive condition. Make game management a partnership to which the land owner, the sportsman and the public each contribute.

Obviously sportsmen of the future must adjust themselves to some sort of change. Else the waters will be fished out and the coverts will be shot out, despite the best efforts of associations and state governments, and the sports of the field and stream will become a memory.

But what a magnificent row there will be, and what a long and wearying one, before the American gunner or angler becomes reconciled to the idea of paying a farmer for the privilege of hunting or fishing on his land!

HEALTH AND DIET Advice

CAULIFLOWER AND BROCCOLI

Cauliflower is the most easily digested member of the cabbage family. As Mark Twain said, "Cauliflower is only cabbage with a college education." The succulent compact white head of cauliflower which you obtain so readily at the market represents many centuries of patient cultivation and selection. It was grown for hundreds of years in the countries around the Mediterranean before it found its way into England and Holland where it received its final degree of culture.

Broccoli is probably the original form of cauliflower. Both of these vegetables may be considered as cabbage blossoms which have been developed into pleasing and nourishing foods by cultivation.

In selecting a cauliflower, choose one on which the outer green leaves appear crisp and fresh and the head of a smooth white texture. Yellow, dark or green spots or a rough surface represent an inferior quality. Broccoli has a stronger flavor than cauliflower and is a little more difficult to digest, but makes a good winter green, and many people find the flavor excellent. It is very pleasing when boiled in a small amount of salted water and served with olive oil. In preparing either vegetable soak it about a half hour in salt water to kill and separate out any small insects which may be present. The vegetable may then be rinsed and cleaned in fresh running water. Cauliflower will cook in about twenty minutes in a closely covered pan. Broccoli takes about five minutes longer because it is more fibrous. Care should be taken not to cook these vegetables too long or some of the vitamin B, of which they both contain a good amount, will be destroyed. Broccoli, in addition to vitamin B, also contains a good amount of vitamins A and C. The C vitamin is also destroyed with too much cooking. In order to conserve the vitamins which are destroyed by heat it is a good plan to occasionally serve these vegetables raw in a salad, especially during the winter months while other fresh vegetables are not plentiful.

Cauliflower looks as though it were a starchy vegetable, but as a matter of fact it does not contain any more carbohydrate than cabbage, but does contain more protein. The principal mineral matter consists of potassium, phosphorus, magnesium and sulphur. In broccoli the principal elements are phosphorus, sulphur and potassium.

Baked Cauliflower

Clean and separate cauliflower into small pieces. In a baking pan place a layer of Melba toast crumbs, a layer of cauliflower, and a small amount of any other fresh vegetable on hand, such as string beans, carrots, celery, etc. Place another layer of Melba toast crumbs, then another layer of cauliflower. Place in the oven and bake. When nearly finished sprinkle grated cheese on top.

Broccoli and Tomato Salad

Wash and clean fresh broccoli, chop fine in a chopping bowl, mix with a little olive oil and salt and allow to stand in the ice box for about ten minutes, then mix with fresh cut tomatoes and serve on lettuce.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS (Rheumatism)

Question: I. C. asks: "Does articular rheumatism attack both sexes?"

Answer: The amount of rheumatism between both males and females seems to be about equally divided, except that there are more women at the menopause who develop various forms of rheumatism than with the male at approximately the same age.

Daily WASHINGTON LETTER

By RODNEY DUTCHER
 NEA Service Writer.

Washington.—The significance of the new conciliatory attitude of administration Republicans in Congress is that they had a splendid chance to be as dumb as politicians ordinarily are supposed to be—and deliberately neglected the opportunity. It is quite true that no one had to be especially foxxy to perceive the advantages of capitulation, but the attitude of sweet reasonableness suddenly displayed by Chairman Bert Snell of the House Rules Committee and Floor Leader Jim Watson of the Senate had not been commonly expected.

There is also the sound thought that the supposed will of the voters, as expressed in November's elections, will be partially effective in this short session even though the newly elected Congress does not sit for another year. For it is the realistic specter of that next Congress which now premises to persuade the Republican House machine to permit 435 representatives to vote on the Norris Muscle Shoals bill, the lame duck amendment, the Wagner unemployment bill and other legislation supported by Republican progressives.

Mr. Hoover and other regular Republicans would be just happy—perhaps happier—if the Seventy-second Congress never met at all. The thought of calling it into special session before its time, with its anti-administration majorities, is indescribably abhorrent. A combination of Senate insurgents and Democrats presumably could force such a session, so from that standpoint alone a willingness to allow certain legislation to come to a vote in the House might seem a small price to pay.

With the set-up as is and as is to be the anticipated backdown of the Longworth-Snell-Nixon triumvirate seems a highly strategic retreat from every point of view.

G. O. P. Now Has Majority

In the present lame duck House, the administration Republicans have a large actual majority—about 100 seats. In the next House they will at best have a bare paper majority which will be worthless insofar as legislative control is concerned and the Senate will be even more uncontrollable than it is now.

Obviously, if there is any legislation which the administration wants to influence, now is the time rather than in the next regular or special session. For one thing, it is now able to exert persuasive pressure on the lame ducks, many of whom would appreciate appointive federal jobs. And where as it might be able to pass or defeat measures in accordance with its desires now, that possibility will be non-existent when Congress meets.

Snell believes that a House majority favors the Norris Muscle Shoals bill for government operation, and the same is probably true as to some of the other measures which now seem likely to be voted upon. Nevertheless, there is little to be gained by delaying such votes and there is something to be lost. There is also more chance now of exacting compromises from the other side than there will be later.

Voters Will Forget

Another point is that it will be much more difficult to override presidential vetoes in this Congress than in the next, both because of the present G. O. P. strength and the fact that the session is so short and crowded.

Then there's the political viewpoint. That next Congress will not do any real business before the beginning of 1932, a full election year. There will then be another legislative jam, complicated by campaign considerations. It will be much easier for many members to vote on controversial issues in this session, as passage of a year makes a vote so much less effective on an issue against an incumbent. Also, any sensible president who wants to veto a power or labor measure would rather wait until the year in which he comes up for re-election or re-election or both.

JUST A SAUNT

London.—Setting off with as much concern as we would walking to the corner, C. McCrossin and Patrick Fryer have started to walk around the globe. They plan to walk 25 miles a day and expect to reach the trip in two years. They will work enroute to earn enough to meet expenses.

HUGE FARM LOSS ON BASIC CROPS TOLD IN REPORT

Washington, (AP).—The 1930 report of the secretary of agriculture is a chronicle of farm losses running through almost the entire category of agricultural enterprises. Livestock producers are estimated to have lost more than $500,000,000 and cotton growers more than $400,000,000.

While he set no figure for the total loss on wheat, Secretary Hyde pointed out that the August price was 37 cents a bushel less than a year ago at the same time.

Even the potato crop, which is expected to be the smallest since 1925, sold in August at $1.09 a bushel compared with $1.39 for a larger crop last year.

Estimated at $9,950,000,000 or 16 per cent below that of 1929, the aggregate gross income from 1930 production is expected to be the lowest for any season since 1921.

As a further blow to the farmer, the wholesale prices of farm products have fallen off 21 per cent while the prices of non-agricultural commodities, which include the things the farmer buys, dropped only 10 per cent.

Exports of agricultural commodities in the year ended June 30, 1930, were the lowest since 1915.

Farm real estate taxes, continuing to rise, now equal the interest which farmers would pay at 6 per cent in a mortgage indebtedness amounting to 25 per cent of the full value of real estate, as compared with about 11 per cent in 1913.

The average decline in value per acre of real estate for the entire country was 1 per cent.

The borrowing power of the farmer was much reduced in 1930. Bank loans based on the shrinking security of farmers' equities in their land were difficult to liquidate. More than 4,000 banking institutions in the agricultural areas have closed their doors since the post-war depression began.

The total farm mortgage debt of the United States now represents about 28 per cent of the value of all farms, compared to only 10 per cent in 1920.

ASSOCIATION SUSPENDS 4 SOUTHERN COLLEGES

Atlanta, Dec. 4.—(AP)—The Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools of the southern states today suspended the University of Mississippi, Mississippi A. and M., Mississippi State College for Women and Mississippi State Teachers College from membership in the association.

Under the terms of the suspension resolution, it will be effective until the association reinstates the schools by vote.

The report of the executive committee which was adopted, attributed the suspension to "the wholesale dropping of scores of officers and teachers (from the suspended schools last summer) without warning, without charges and without opportunity of defense."

The suspension action was taken at the association's annual meeting here today.

PAID INSURANCE TOPS TWO BILLION IN RECORD YEAR

New York, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Life insurance companies in the United States paid approximately $2,200,000,000 to policy-holders and beneficiaries this year—the largest in the history of the business.

This was reported to the annual convention of the Association of Life Insurance Presidents today by James Lee Loomis, president of the Connecticut Mutual Life Insurance company and chairman of the convention.

The amount paid out this year, he said, was $238,000,000 more than in 1929, the previous record year.

He estimated that new life insurance amounting to $18,500,000,000 would be purchased by the people of the country during this year.

These huge disbursements Loomis said, had lessened the effect of the nation-wide depression, and represented the full value of every contract obligation without diminution.

"Of the total of $2,200,000,000 the sum of $1,325,000,000 will have been paid to living policy-holders as dividends, matured endowments, annuities, disability benefits and cash surrender values," he said.

"The amount paid in each surrender value will be larger than usual this year. Occasions will arise, particularly as in the current year, when all other resources have failed, the policy-holder turns to the surrender value of his insurance."

"But even here we must recognize—conscious as we are of the loss to the protection involved—that life insurance is serving pressing needs. The balance of $875,000,000 will be paid to the beneficiaries of deceased policy-holders."

Loomis emphasized that the rapid growth of policy disbursements to the $2,200,000,000 paid out this year was double the amount in 1923.

Alluding to his forecast that new life insurance this year would touch $18,500,000,000, he pointed out that this sum would exceed by $1,100,000,000 the average yearly purchase for the preceding five record-breaking years, and was less than 4

BEER BOTTLE PLACED IN IMPERIAL CROWN

Berlin, (AP).—There is a beer bottle inside the great golden imperial crown of Germany in the Kaiser's former palace in the Unter Den Linden, says Vorwaerts, quoting the son of the man who put it there 36 years ago.

It is the son's story that Wilhelm, annoyed by the scant observance by the populace of "Busstag" (Day of Repentance) which falls in November, issued a homily to his people exhorting them that all work should cease on that day, so that they could devote it to religious exercises.

It so happened that the white marble hall of the palace was being renovated, and the four crowns of the House of Hohenzollern, the Margrave, the Brandenburg, the Prussian Royal and the Imperial German Crown, being fixed to the ceiling. The Kaiser was anxious to have the hall ready for a court function, but found that if no work was done on "Busstag," it could not be completed in time. So he decreed that in this particular instance, the observance order should not apply.

Vorwaerts greatly daring, printed some ironical comment on the affair, with the consequence that the issue in which it appeared was confiscated by the police. One of the palace workmen secreted a copy, put it inside a beer bottle and embedded it securely in plaster inside the crown.

It is still there, Vorwaerts asserts.

ASKS STEEL PROBE

Washington, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Investigation by the Justice Department of an increase of more than $1 a ton in the price of steel announced yesterday by steel companies was demanded in the Senate today by Senator Norris, Republican, Nebraska.

Norris said he believed the price increase involved a violation of the anti-trust laws. He called attention to the vast amount of steel to be used in the public buildings program being speeded to provide employment.

"In the face of this patriotic movement we are faced with the announcement that the great steel companies, including the United States Corporation, have agreed upon announcing an increase that amounts to more than $1 a ton," he said.

"It looks to me like a violation of the anti-trust laws. I hope the department of Justice will take notice of it."

DECLARE DIVIDEND

Hartford, Dec. 4.—(AP)—The City Bank and Trust Company directors yesterday declared an extra dividend of 5 per cent and the regular quarterly dividend of 5 per cent. This dividend makes payments for the current year 25 per cent.

ELECTED TO BOARD

New Haven, Dec. 4.—(AP).—The pictorial supplement of the Yale Daily News, undergraduate publication, today announced the election of Woodford C. Thoades of Montclair, N. J., and Howard S. Foster, of Pelham Manor, N. Y., to the board.

DOG'S FALSE TEETH

Sydney, Australia.—Charlie, pet dog of Mrs. Jane Fisher, was injured in an auto accident, and his jaw was broken. The dog's teeth were also lost. So Mrs. Fisher called in a medical and dental surgeon and the two devised a false plate for the dog. Charlie had a hard time getting used to the false teeth, but he now uses them nearly as well as his old ones.

ICE CREAM TREE

Memphis.—One tree in the greenhouse of Mrs. M. A. Hora here is very popular with the children. It bears a fruit that "tastes like strawberry ice cream and looks like corn." It takes the ears 18 months to ripen, according to Mrs. Hora, who got the tree from a St. Louis florist six years ago. The kernels are soft and mushy and very rich.

NEW MODEL ENGINE

New Haven, Dec. 4.—(AP)—A new experimental roller bearing equipped locomotive weighing 417,500 pounds which with its driving rods disconnected, can be pushed by three men on a level track was placed in service last night on the N. Y., N. H. & H. Railroad. The first run of the locomotive which will be freight and passenger service during December, was on the New Haven-New Bedford freight train. It arrived here Monday but had to be equipped with automatic train control devices before it could make the first run on the Shore Line.

OFFER $10,000 REWARD

Boston, Dec. 4.—(AP)—A reward of $10,000 was offered today for the discovery dead or alive of Mitchell H. Kaufman, Boston manufacturer who disappeared Nov. 5 while on a hunting trip in Maine.

Announcement of the reward which would be paid by Albert H. Wachsler, Kaufman's brother-in-law and an official of the Converse Rubber Company, which Kaufman headed, were distributed with descriptive posters by Boston police.

In their efforts to solve the mystery surrounding Kaufman's disappearance, relatives said today they have a private detective in search of clues in the territory where Kaufman vanished but denied they were convinced he had met with foul play.

CATHEDRAL OF NOTRE DAME

Napoleon I Was Crowned Emperor in 1802 In This Famous Church—Bell Weighs 16 Tons

The Cathedral of Notre Dame at Paris is the most celebrated of the many churches dedicated to the Virgin Mary.

The cathedral is a gothic structure, in the form of a Latin cross, and has a length of 420 feet, a width of 155 feet and a height of 110 feet. It was founded in 1163, its cornerstone being laid by Pope Alexander III, then a refugee in France. It replaced two churches which had been built several centuries before.

It was in Notre Dame that Napoleon I was crowned emperor on Dec. 2, 1804. Here also Mary Queen of Scots and Napoleon II were married, although not to each other.

The facade, which for simple dignity has no superior in France, is flanked by two 223-foot towers, one of which contains the great Bourdon de Notre Dame, one of the largest bells in the world, weighing 16 tons. The clapper alone weighs nearly 1000 pounds.

Weird-looking little gargoyles, which adorn the building, are an unceasing source of attraction for visitors.

The towering church still commands the finest view of the modern metropolis which has grown up around it.

The interior is adorned with bas-reliefs, sculptures, paintings and stained-glass windows depicting scenes from sacred history.

Notre Dame was converted into a "Temple of Reason" during the French revolution. The church was closed in 1794, but was re-opened by Napoleon in 1802. The building was restored about 1865 at a cost of $1,000,000, but was desecrated by the Communists in 1871.

This striking picture shows the cathedral of Notre Dame illuminated at night.

PRESIDENT SUBMITS

ANOTHER ESTIMATE

Transmits New Message Asking For 150 Millions To Start Building Program

Washington, Dec. 4.—(AP)—President Hoover today transmitted to Congress a supplemental estimate of $150,000,000 for public building construction and Chairman Woods of the House appropriations committee immediately introduced a bill to authorize the expenditure.

The President's message read: "I have the honor to transmit herewith for the consideration of Congress an estimate or appropriations for the fiscal year 1931, amounting to $150,000,000 for an emergency construction fund to enable the chief executive to accelerate construction projects already authorized by law so as to increase employment.

Already Authorized "In my annual message to the congress, I requested that an appropriation of $100,000,000 to $150,000,000 be granted for this purpose and this estimate is in furtherance of that request. As I stated in that message, the application of this money to work already authorized by the Congress not only limits its application to work already directed by Congress but assures its use in directions, the economic importance of which has already been determined by Congress.

It also avoids the long delays incident to selections of new projects by Congress and the further long delays in technical preparation which new projects would require, both of which would render such action of my purpose in emergency relief of unemployment.

Cabinet Committee "I suggested in my message that the allocation of the monies between the different authorized projects should be made only within the limits of a committee of the Cabinet. Such a committee should comprise the secretaries of the Treasury, War, Navy, Commerce and Agriculture, and may be established in the terms of the appropriation or appointed by me.

"The test of the value of such relief is the ability to pay wages between now and the end of the fiscal year, and I therefore urge that this estimate be given early consideration.

The details concerning these estimates are set forth in the letter of the director of the Bureau of the Budget, transmitted herewith."

MCMINCH QUALIFIES

Washington, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Close scrutiny of the members chosen by President Hoover for the new power commission was assured today by the regular dividend of one, Frank E. McMinch of North Carolina, already under investigation.

Senator Overman, Democrat, North Carolina, was seeking to determine if McMinch is a Democrat. The Senator said he understood the chairman of the commission, Mr. Hoover in the 1928 campaign.

"I favor Mr. McMinch, if he is a Democrat," said Overman. "I also want to make certain Mr. McMinch and other appointees have no connection with the power trust."

Chairman of the Interstate Commerce commission intends to call an early meeting for consideration of the five nominees.

RAPS RED IMPORTS

Washington, Dec. 4.—(AP)—The threat that construction of a proposed terminal at Baltimore to store Russian crude oil would be met with congressional action was made today by Chairman Fish of the House Communist committee.

"If Baltimore officials agree to take that money from the American taxpayers to benefit Russia to the harm of our country, they must face the consequences," he said.

"The Americans are protected from Russian wheat importations by a stiff duty, but there is no protection for lumber and crude oil."

SLIGHT HARTFORD FIRE

Hartford, Dec. 4.—(AP)—A two alarm fire broke out in the blowing of city factory whistles caused more excitement than damage at 3 o'clock this morning, when flames were discovered in a vacant room on the second floor of the Hartford National Bank and Trust Co. building at 38 Pearl street.

Damages to offices recently vacated and under repair was slight. The lavatory where the fire first started was badly damaged. Other loss was caused by heat blistering the walls.

A-A-A-CHEO

Berlin—There's no excuse now for staying in bed after the alarm clock goes off and then going back to sleep. A new German clock recently invented takes care of that. It has a novel device attached to it which, at the given moment, explodes a cartridge containing a pungent gas. This causes the sleeper to sneeze himself awake.

HINES ORDERS PROBE

Washington, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Brigadier Frank T. Hines, veterans administrator, today ordered an investigation of protests that veterans were being released from the soldiers' homes at Leavenworth, Kansas.

Some veterans telegraphed that many of 285 who will be released by Monday lack funds and transportation.

General Hines said there had been no order for releasing veterans with minor disabilities. He explained that the policy at the homes was to release those considered cured or with insufficient disabilities to warrant their remaining.

MARINE BADLY HURT

New London, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Private Ernest Hilton, U. S. M. C. whose home is in Bremen, Ga., was fatally injured this morning when struck by a mail truck while doing guard duty on the military highway near the Submarine base in Groton. He received internal injuries and died shortly afterwards at submarine base Sick Bay. The truck which was carrying mail from this city to Jewett City was driven by Frank Czereszuski of that place and he was arrested by State Trooper Eric Swanson of the Groton State barracks on a technical charge of manslaughter.

The energy of two million men is now produced by a single steam turbine unit.

Carpenter

For many years Mr. Barber had been a trustee of the Methodist church. He was also one of the directors of the Manchester Lumber Company and one of the three trustees of the Masonic Lodge with F. Verplanck and R. LaMotte Russell. During his earlier life after returning from the war, Mr. Barber worked as a carpenter and later became a contractor. He had an active part in the planning and erection of many of the Cheney homes.

In 1913 he retired from active business, his contracting work being purchased by the firm of Barber and West.

Held Age Well

Mr. Barber made countless friends with his modest and genial disposition. His youthful appearance despite his advanced years won him hearty congratulations from those with whom he came in contact. He was for years a familiar figure driving back and forth from his home in his Ford automobile alone. The car, a 1910 model that had to be cranked every time before starting, has been missed along Main street for the past few years, however.

War Service

Commander Lucius P. Pinsky of Drake Post said this afternoon that Comrade Barber enlisted in the First Connecticut Light Battery from Hebron on August 14, 1862 when he was 17 years old and five months old. His unit took part in twenty engagements, sixteen of which were at Petersburg and Richmond. Comrade Barber took part in practically all of the engagements and was fortunate enough to escape being wounded. He had the rank of corporal. His discharge papers are dated June 11, 1865. At the time of his death, Comrade Barber was both adjutant and quartermaster of the Drake Post. Commander Pinsky said that only two of the five remaining members of the post will be definitely able to attend the funeral tomorrow. They are Comrade Pierce and himself, although it is possible Comrade Baker will be able to come here from Stafford. The other two members, Com-

redes Quinn and Ellsworth, are in New London and Florida respectively.

Funeral Tomorrow

In compliance with Mr. Barber's wishes, the funeral service will be simple with no Masonic or G. A. R. rites. The service will be held at his home at 3 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Rev. Robert A. Colpitts, pastor of the South Methodist church, will officiate. The bearers, all close friends of the deceased, will be R. LaMotte Russell from the Masonic Lodge, George B. Keith, trustee of the South Methodist church, Nathan B. Richards, president of the Manchester Lumber Company, Edmond B. Soranston, a nephew and Harold C. Alford and Richard G. Rich. Burial will be in the family plot of the East Cemetery.

KAPLAN'S BROTHER HELD

New Haven, Dec. 4.—Noah Kaplan, 23, a brother of Louis (Kid) Kaplan, the boxer, and two other Meriden young men, Frank Karbinski and Cosmo Angilette, were arrested here last night by police who found them acting suspiciously in the vicinity of a drug store. Two loaded revolvers were found in their car. They were held in $5,000 bail on a charge of idling. Police here are trying to connect them with a recent $3,000 raid on a crap game.

FIREMEN'S SETBACK

Another sitting of the South Manchester Fire Department's subcommittee held at Hose Company No. 4's house with Schaub and Humphrey hit with 121 points. Next week Wednesday the firemen will convene at No. 1's. The totals last night and for the season follows:

No. 1—596—2400.
No. 2—559—2389.
No. 3—881—2433.
No. 4—578—2315.

CLERICAL APPOINTMENTS

Hartford, Dec. 4.—(AP)—The following clerical appointments were announced today in the Catholic Transcript: Rev. Henry J. Coleman from St. John's church, New Haven, to St. Michael's church, Beacon Falls, administrator; the Rev. Thomas F. Henahan, to St. Augustine's church, Bridgeport, assistant.

SUSPEND EIGHT COPS

FOR FRAMING GIRLS

New York, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Eight patrolmen were suspended today from the New York police force following testimony before an appellate court inquiring into the actions of Magistrates Courts accusing them of complicity in a vice extortion ring.

At the same time Lieut. Peter J. Pfeiffer was transferred from district supervisor of plain to be sent to inside duty and a ninth patrolman was sent to duty in an outlying section of Queens.

The eight men suspended today included John F. McHugh, William O'Connor, John J. Stiglich, John F. Drake, Peter F. Lamb, George J. Treubert, Sidney D. Tait and Eugene Baccaglioni, all alleged by witnesses before the appellate inquiry to have arrested women and trumped up immorality charges and turned them over to bondsmen and lawyers who mulcted them of money for fees for "fixing" their cases.

Today's were the first suspensions from the force. The twenty men will be tried forthwith. Commissioner Mulrooney said, on charges of becoming and pre-judicial conduct and violation of police regulations. More than a dozen police mentioned in testimony already have been transferred to other posts.

PROBE STRANGE DEATH

Bridgeport, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Coroner John J. Pheasant today was seeking to determine the cause of the death of Miss Georgina Banks, 59, of Greenfield Hill, Fairfield who was apparently only slightly injured in an automobile accident last night in Westport.

The automobile which Miss Banks was driving was struck by a car driven by Police Officer George Allen of Westport and overturned throwing her into the street. After the car was upright, Miss Banks, apparently suffering only from slight injuries, drove to her home.

Later in the evening Miss Banks became unconscious and Dr. W. L. Weadon of Fairfield was summoned and removed her to a Bridgeport hospital where she died three hours later. Dr. Weadon stated she sustained a slight brain injury and could not determine the cause of death.

STRIKE PERIL PASSED

London, Dec. 4.—(AP)—The grave peril of a national coal strike which has hung over British industry for a long time was at least temporarily removed today when a miners' conference voted by a narrow margin to reject a strike proposal.

The proxies cast were 230,000 against and 209,000 for calling a strike. Then the delegates went out to lunch without making any official statement. However, A. J. Cook, their secretary, said it looked as though the miners would find a way out of their trouble.

When the session resumed the conference settled down to work out some way to arrange the objectionable "spread over" working schedule which is at the bottom of the difficulty. Meantime 70,000 coal miners in Scotland continued the strike which began on Monday.

TO SUSPEND CLASSES

Springfield, Mass., Dec. 4.—(AP)—The unemployment situation which has deprived many students at the International Y. M. C. A. college here of the opportunity to assist themselves through college by part time work has resulted in a decision to suspend classes December 12 in order to allow a longer period than usual of holiday employment for the students. The curtailment of college work will be made up at the end of the school year.

SEC. MELLON EXPLAINS WHERE GOLD PIECES GO

Washington, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Secretary Mellon reminded people today why they can't get new $2.50 gold pieces to give for Christmas.

Congress discontinued that coinage last April, because the pieces were in demand almost exclusively for use at Christmas, generally were returned to the Treasury or disappeared from circulation and served no business need but caused much difficulty in the making.

COMMITTEES FILLED

Washington, Dec. 4.—(AP)—The Republican committee on committees of the Senate today filled vacancies on various standing committees for the short session.

Senator Morrow, of New Jersey, was assigned to the military, post office, public buildings, education and printing committees.

Senator Davis, of Pennsylvania, was assigned to naval affairs, banking, civil service, manufactures and inter-oceanic canals committees.

Senator Carey of Wyoming was assigned to the banking, District of Columbia, civil service, military and irrigation committees.

Vacancies left for the Democrats to fill were one place each on the banking, military, naval and post office.

NOON STOCKS

New York, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Another slow decline in stock prices followed the earlier trading today. However, offerings slackened around midday and a steadier tone appeared, permitting partial recovery of one to three point losses in utilities and industrials. The turnover was small.

Rails were heavy. Atchafalou 3, and St. Louis, San Francisco, New York Central, Jersey Central and Lackawanna one to more than two. American Telephone regained half of a point drop. U. S. Steel, Westinghouse, Sears Roebuck, Auburn Auto and Shattuck, at their low prices, were off 1 to 1-1/2. Bethlehem Steel was steady.

Call money renewed at 2 per cent.

AUTOIST IS FREED

New Britain, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Matthew Skinner, aged 30 of 120 Smith street, was freed in police court today when he was presented on a charge of manslaughter in connection with the death of his sister-in-law, Miss Stella Sadowski, aged 19 of 33 Smith street, in an accident on Thanksgiving night. He was driving toward Hartford when his car turned over on East Main street and Miss Sadowski was killed.

TAX REFUNDS

Washington, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Tax refunds totaling more than $19,500,000 were recommended today to be made public through the office of Representative Garner, Democrat, Texas.

The refunds all for over assessments, included: to the estate of Payne, New York City, $15,986,258 for 1927; estate of Fred M. Woolworth, New York $1,465 for 1923; Union Traction Company, Philadelphia $883,037 for 1922 to 1926; and estate of Sol Rosenbloom, Pittsburgh, $331,495 for 1917, 1920, 1921 and 1922.

NEW PRISON CELLS

Hartford, Dec. 4.—(AP)—The State board of finance and control today approved an additional appropriation $15,000 for 24 additional cells at the State prison to be located in building recently vacated when women prisoners were moved to Niantic.

Broadcasting celebrated its 10th birthday the other day. And there's no denying our improved radios gave it a fine reception.

LATEST STOCKS

New York, Dec. 4.—(AP)—A listless downward drift of prices was extended without interruption into another session of the Stock Market today.

Losses again ranged from 1 to 3 points. A few of the rails penetrated new low levels, but the list as a whole held well above the bottom prices touched last month. Trading was extremely slow.

Shares losing 2 to 3 points included American Telephone, Allied Chemical Air Reduction, Electric Auto Lite, North American, Sears Roebuck, Macy, Eastman, Delaware and Hudson, Underwood Elliott, Gillette, Western Union, Coca Cola and Atchafalou.

While issues losing a point or more included U. S. Steel, Radio, National Biscuit, Woolworth, Electric Power and Light, Proctor and Gamble, New Haven, New York Central, and Rock Island, Lehigh Valley was firm, reflecting declaration of the regular dividend. Electric Oil had an upturn during the morning, but then lost its advance.

Failure of the market to make any bullish response to the announcement of higher prices for plates, shapes and bars by leading steel producers in view of the highly constructive interpretation placed upon it by some observers, evidently encouraged a little bear selling, but the scant volume of trading made bears cautious.

With several retail sales reports for November now available, it appears that the dollar volume for most organizations was relatively the poorest of the year, although this comparison is probably distorted by the decline in retail prices, which has been extensive, if not yet as great as the average drop in wholesale quotations. Furthermore, there were only 24 business days in November of this year, against 25 in the same month a year ago. December has an extra day, which would help it by comparison with year ago.

Woolworth reported November sales 7 9-10 per cent off from last year, against an aggregate decline for the first 11 months of only 4 9-10. Kresge's November sales 4 3-10 for the entire 11 months. It would appear from these that Montgomery Ward's November report, showing a drop of 25 per cent, reflected an individual situation, rather than general trade conditions. It is recalled that the company opened several new stores a year ago, at which special sales efforts were made.

The monthly report of automobile production showed a decline of about 5 1-2 per cent from October, although a little better showing than expected, in view of the stepping up of production by one of the large low-priced car makers. Reports that the other leading low-price maker may close down entirely for two weeks in December does not augur well for this month's total output.

As had been expected, Burlington directors declared an extra dividend of $5, which will help Great Northern and Northern Pacific, which share ownership of most of Burlington's stock. The Interstate Commerce Commission's report suggesting ending of the recapture of excess railway earnings was regarded in rail circles as encouraging.

Call money held at 2 per cent, with an easier undertone. Secretary Mellon's request for authorization of new bond issues was a further step in the government's plan to take advantage of the current low interest rates for refunding some of its indebtedness.

SEIZE RUM BOAT

New York, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Coast Guard headquarters was notified today that a sixty ton schooner, the Clinton, of New Bedford, Mass., was seized last night southeast of Ambrose Lightship by patrol boats.

Guardsmen said they believed she was heavily laden with liquor. She will be brought to the Barge pier here.

Murder At Bridge

By ANNE AUSTIN author of "THE BLACK PIGEON" and "THE REDDISH" and "THE SACRILEGIOUS" and "THE SACRILEGIOUS"

BEGIN HERE TODAY
When SPECIAL INVESTIGATOR DUNDEE is summoned to the house of NITA SELIM, murderess at bridge party, he orders the guests to take the places they held during the playing of the "dead hand" when NITA was killed. RALPH HAMMOND, in love with NITA, is the only guest missing.

FLORA MILES says she was in the guests' lavatory, but Dundee finds her bridge tally on the floor of Nita's closet, proving she is lying. She admits she went to the closet to recover a note sent to Nita, which she thinks is from her husband. Nita comes in while she is in the closet, and Flora, hearing a bang or bump, fears she is to be discovered and faints, recovering consciousness when KAREN MARSHALL screams on discovering the body.

Dundee, finding it suspicious that CLIVE HAMMOND stayed in the solarium with POLLY BEALE, his fiancée, instead of coming in to speak to his hostess when he arrived, asks him when he last saw his fiancée prior to the party. Hammond refers to Polly Beale. Dundee says he knows the answer.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

CHAPTER XIII
"Then why ask me?" Hammond shrugged, but his chest-brown eyes flickered toward Polly Beale. "I thought perhaps you could give me a little additional information," Dundee soothed him. "You see, it happens that I saw you, Mrs. Beale and another young man come into the Stuart House dining room about half-past one today, just when I was thinking of lunch for myself."

"The mysterious 'other young man' was Nita's brother, Ralph Hammond," Polly Beale cut in brusquely. "Your decision to lunch with your fiancée and his brother was quite a sudden one," Dundee asked courteously. "Just when did you change your mind about Mrs. Selim's luncheon party at Breakaway Inn, Miss Beale?"

"The tall girl threw up her hands, dropped her head. "There is nothing at all sinister or even queer about it, Mr. Dundee! when I decided to drive past Nita's house, on the chance that she might like me to drive over." "Then you didn't know that Mrs. Dunlap had already arranged to meet Mrs. Selim downstairs this morning and to take her to the Inn?" Dundee asked, with his greatest tact.

"No, I didn't hear of the arrangement," Polly answered decidedly. "You were a close friend of Mrs. Selim's, perhaps?" Dundee probed. "Not at all," Dundee said not keeping her from doing my hostess a courtesy. "It was about a quarter to one when I got here, I should say. Nita wasn't here, nor was her maid, but I saw Ralph's car parked in front of the house."

"Ralph Hammond's car?" a woman squealed, but Dundee let Polly continue. "I rang and he answered the door. Said he was waiting for the house, going over the premises at Judge Marshall's request," Polly said evenly.

"That's right—that's right!" Judge Marshall agreed hastily. "Nita's Mrs. Selim—wanted the unfinished half of the gabled top story finished up. Wanted a maid's room and bath, and a living room and bath added to the guest quarters already completed. I gave the commission, for an estimate, at least, to the Hammond firm, of course, since they had built the house originally for Crain—Penny's father."

"I see," Dundee agreed. "And you sent your brother, Mr. Hammond?" "He was the natural one to send," Clive Hammond retorted. "Small job. All he had to do was to get together an estimate on additional furnace lines and radiators, electric wiring, plumbing, plastering, etc."

"Go on, Miss Beale," Dundee directed. "Thanks!" There was sarcasm in her brusque voice. "But that's really about all I have to tell. Ralph complained that he was hungry and charged me with giving him too little of my time—the usual thing. I picked up Nita's phone, called Clive and made the date for the three of us. Then I called Breakaway Inn, canceled the luncheon party, and the bridge party with Nita, and Ralph and I drove back to Hamilton."

Dundee studied her strong, clever, almost plain face for a long minute. Certainly Polly Beale did not look like a liar—but he was sure she had taken his oath she was lying now. Or rather not revealing the real truth behind the actual facts of her movements that day. For instance, could a simple plea of her future brother-in-law make her do so discourteous a thing as to break a luncheon appointment, especially when such a course would not only disappoint her hostess and her friends, but disarrange the seating plan of a rather formal party?

Hints On How To Keep Well by World Famed Authority

INSURANCE APPLICANT IS GIVEN RIGID EXAMINATION OF HEART.

(This is the first of four articles by Dr. Fishbein on health requirements in insurance examinations.)

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN, Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

When a man comes to be examined for life insurance, the examiner nowadays pays a large part of his attention to the condition of the heart and the blood vessels.

A failure by the examiner to appraise correctly the state of these tissues may cause the life insurance company to pay out a large claim long before the man has completed even a few payments of premiums.

Dr. Theodore Thompson, who is chief medical officer of a half dozen important British insurance companies, points out that both in Great Britain and in the United States heart disease is the outstanding cause of death and the mortality from diseases of the heart and blood vessels is more than the combined total from tuberculosis and cancer.

The life insurance examiner is very careful to find out whether or not the person who wishes insurance has suffered previously from rheumatic fever, syphilis, gout or any of the infectious diseases.

The reason is, of course, that rheumatic fever is one of the commonest causes of disease of the heart. If the person affected in childhood has been five to seven years without any symptoms and his heart appears normal at the examination, he is likely to be passed as a first-class risk, because those who have rheumatic fever in childhood and survive seem less liable to contract the disease after passing the age of 25.

If the person concerned has had rheumatic fever, the examiner will give more than the usual attention to the examination of the heart. Syphilis and gout are also likely to affect the heart, as well as severe attacks of influenza and diphtheria.

The person who suffers with heart disease may have fainting spells. If he is very young, the person who is applying for life insurance may faint because of fright or a nervous disorder, but a man past 40 years of age who faints is perhaps to be considered a bad risk on the possibility of heart disease.

Nearly everyone realizes that only through comfort does real beauty come. But once in a while, a certain pair of lovely slippers is reduced, the best of us may fall for them, though they are just a little too short.

Second, the too-high heel is not beautiful. No woman can look her graceful best tilting along at an impossible angle, atop ridiculously high, slender heels. They may look beautiful for dancing, or for wear at the opera, where she merely steps over your limousine to your box. But never for the street.

Cleanliness Is Important
These precautions taken, there are certain daily rituals that all feet are entitled to. Beginning these, your feet should be scrupulously clean. You should keep a brush dedicated to foot cleanliness and bathe your feet daily with warm water and a good soap. After this they should be thoroughly dried with water. Nothing makes them harder and protects them like this cold dash to close all the pores.

Neglected even for a short time, the sweat glands situated between the toes develop sections which are odorous. If you have developed this kind of trouble, try an alum foot bath of an Epsom salts bath nightly for awhile, with particular care taken to spread your toes apart while in the bath. Dry your feet carefully and between your toes paint the space with a good antiseptic.

If you have an especially difficult time trying to wear a bit of cotton between the toes for a few days and treat them each night. Also dust

GLORIFYING YOURSELF

BY ALICIA HART ©1936 BY NEA SERVICE, INC.

You may not be a barefoot girl, but every woman today likes to have her feet look right when she appears on the beach in bathing attire. Or in beach pajamas, with barefoot sandals. More than that, your feet show more than you realize, right through your shoes. Nobody can harbor bunions and think the world doesn't know it.

Therefore, the very first advice to those who want beautiful feet is to have your shoes large enough. It is a precaution scarcely needed today. Nearly everyone realizes that only through comfort does real beauty come. But once in a while, a certain pair of lovely slippers is reduced, the best of us may fall for them, though they are just a little too short.

Second, the too-high heel is not beautiful. No woman can look her graceful best tilting along at an impossible angle, atop ridiculously high, slender heels. # YOUR CHILDREN

By OLIVE ROBERTS BARTON

There isn't any truer saying on earth than that we walk over the haystacks and stumble over straws. Apropos of the children we are so busy tripping over the molehills of little faults that we ignore the mountains of good behavior.

We have to talk to children, to correct them, to remind them—that is all true—but we can carry any or all of these things to the point where they eclipse everything else.

If we see children generally trying to do right it is enough. We have to allow for that growing age when accidents happen, impetuously comes before reason, and experiment as natural as the heads on their bodies.

Every house is a miniature government. It has certain rules that must be observed. We should train children early to observe them.

Besides, every home should have a certain code of conduct, not too severe, but that is elevating and fine. But here we cannot say that the children "must" observe them, for this field is an intangible one in which a thousand things have their influence.

All we can do is to be sure these ethical rules are fair, and help the children "try" to obey them. There is a difference.

And the majority of children will try if they feel that the things expected are reasonable and right. For children not only think, but they have an uncanny intuition that searches out falseness of standard.

I dislike seeing a fine boy or girl with normal happy impulses continuously hectorated about some little break-over or other, with never a word about the splendid things he or she is doing. Leaving out the effect that discouragement has on character, it just is not fair.

Where Credit Is Due
So many parents have a conviction, probably from strain of responsibility, that in their duty to reprimand fault instantly but that it is only right and natural to accept the main part of good behavior.

Why can't a fault be corrected somewhat like this? "John, you are lazy. You won't get up on time, and your shoes are never clean because it is too much trouble to hunt up a cloth and clean them. You are such a fine boy, John, such a gentleman in other ways, and I'm so proud of the way you helped Mrs. Smith out of trouble today with her dog. But I hate people to get the idea that you are too lazy and careless to keep your shoes clean."

A little talk like this occasionally will do much more good than daily naggings and scoldings. At any rate, it is paramount to keep in mind that children need praise and guiding more than they need constant uncompromising dictation and correction. And if we want their respect and co-operation we older people must be object lessons ourselves too.

WET BLOCK IN HOUSE PREPARES FOR ACTION
Washington, Dec. 4.—(AP)—The wet block of the House has opened wide its membership book and is asking for new members. At a caucus yesterday the wets decided the present was an excellent time for any member who may have changed their views since last session to come over and declare themselves.

Repeat moves were left to a later date in the new wet campaign program, but meanwhile the members decided to exhaust parliamentary tactics in opposing application for denatured alcohol with poison and to petition the judiciary committee for approval of a bill to authorize the manufacture and sale of beer.

No decision was reached on whether to oppose the $2,000,000 increase for the Prohibition Bureau, but the militant chairman Lintihum, Democrat, Maryland, was set for an individual fight on this item.

While these plans were being laid, a resolution was adopted by the executive committee of the Federal Council of Churches declaring for an educational campaign to promote prohibition.

THIS AND THAT IN FEMININE LORE

Mrs. Arra Sutton Mixer, of the home service department of the Hartford Gas Company, entertained and enlightened more than a hundred local women at Center church house last evening with witty remarks and culinary hints and cooking demonstrations. She was assisted by Mrs. Irene Ellis Kennedy, also in the employ of the Gas company. Mrs. Mixer's subject last evening was "Christmas Cakes and Confections," and she prefaced her lesson with stories of the customs in various places, particularly among the women of Pennsylvania towns, of remembering their friends at Christmas with a choice assortment of fancy cakes, as many as eight or nine in a package all beautifully decorated in colors, usually on a white icing.

The expert mixed and baked during the demonstration a supply of Christmas cakes with marshmallow icing, also Swedish butter cookies through a tube, recipes for which we will give today or Saturday. She also made chocolate fudge by a new method, and when the time came to serve it was a real party for everybody.

A portion of the cakes baked during the evening, the fudge, potato cocoanut candy, Parisian Sweets, made of fruits and nuts without cooking, also candied fruit peel. Several of these dainties Mrs. Mixer prepared through a tube, and called attention to them.

She advocated the use of thermometers in making candy or jelly and in all baking. Where there is no attachment on the range an oven thermometer may be used. The range used for the demonstration was one of the latest cabinet models in green, with stainless steel slide covers, drawers for utensils and other conveniences, a most attractive piece of kitchen furniture. The mixing bowls and stevens used in the lesson were of green glass and green enamel.

Mrs. Mixer told the housekeepers of an interesting new item recently introduced by the manufacturer of the Bromadiary products—colored cocoanut. She used it in rolling the Parisian Sweets, and remarked that it was very decorative for Christmas cakes and candies and saved coloring it at home or brown the cocoanut in the oven. She also suggested the use of colored granulated sugar in decorating Christmas cakes.

The program was arranged for by Center Church Women's Federation, and it was announced that Mrs. Mixer would appear again on two different occasions later in the season.

A few of the recipes are given today. Saturday I will give a recipe sent to me by one of our good English cooks. It is for Yorkshire sanded pudding and is especially nice when you are having a poultry dinner.

How Old Are You?
Gloriously Alive At 45
My Friends: Correct Your Eating Faults and Lose Your Fat With Kruschen Salts

Yes! I'm forty-five today—but I like a race horse, my friends say, and I know I feel 10 years younger than I did three months ago—and I'd hate to tell you how much fat I lost with Kruschen.

I call Kruschen Salts the "magic salts" because when I was fat and fatigued, despondent and half sick, all the time—it took only one bottle that I bought for 85 cents at North End Pharmacy; South Manchester Agents, Packard's Pharmacy—to give me up-put ambition and energy into me, make me feel years younger and with the help of change in diet show me how to lose the fat I was so ashamed of.

Cut out pastries and desserts—go easy on potatoes, cream, cheese, and butter—eat lean meat, chicken, fish, vegetables and fruits and never fail to take one half teaspoonful of Kruschen Salts in a glass of hot water before breakfast every morning.

Every drug store worthy of the name in the World sells Kruschen Salts in 85 cent bottles. Last 4 weeks—not much to pay for buoyant health.—Adv.

This Game % GOLF

In connection with the retirement of Bobby Jones from all formal competitive golf, and with his contract to make twelve reels of instructive talking pictures on golfing shots and methods, it occurs to me that two points are especially worthy of consideration.

First, I have from Bobby himself that his decision to retire from competitive, or championship, golf was made in his own mind after he won the United States Open championship at Interlachen last July.

Here is Bobby's own statement concerning his movie contract and the definition:

Personally, I am in agreement with Norman Boss of the Royal and Ancient Golf Club; at least as much of a sticider for strict amateurism as our own U. S. G. A. His opinion is that writing copy of an instructive nature for movies is precisely the same thing, so far as amateurism is concerned, as illustrating them through the movies.

Harold Hilton and Darwin, I believe, earn their living that way. And no question has been raised by their amateur standing.

I am unable to see and difference in doing straight golf stuff for the movies.

As one of my friends well put it, his conduct straight through his career and in its conclusion has been that of the "immaculate amateur."

ONE-POINT JINX BOTHERS TROJANS

Coach Jones Working Hard To Develop Toe Artist Before Rockne Arrives.

BY PAUL ZIMMERMAN Los Angeles—(AP)—Something like a funeral dirge, University of Southern California followers are chanting three little words—goal kick failed—wondering if the "Men of Troy" can shake this jinx when they meet Notre Dame here Saturday.

Three of the four times the Ramblers and Trojans have met, the Coach Howard Jones combination lost because of a missed goal.

The other contest ended in a 27-14 victory for the far westerners in 1928, but even then the Trojan kick missed one point after touchdown.

Coach Knute Rockne opened relations with Southern California here in 1926 with a 13-12 defeat for the Trojans. Two goal kicks failed that time for the Californians to one for the invading Irish.

Notre Dame duplicated its victory the next fall at Chicago, 7-6. Last fall the Ramblers edged out a 13-12 triumph at Chicago.

The jinx has plagued the Trojan trail this season. Washington State defeated Southern California, 7-6 when a point after touchdown might have permitted a tie for the Pacific Coast championship.

But Coach Jones has done something about this point-after-touchdown business of late. Johnny Baker, running guard, Jimmy Musick, fullback, Marshall Duffield, sub fullback, and Orville Mohler, sub quarterback, have tried their toe on place kicks in effective fashion.

More than that Duffield and Al Maloney, a third string quarterback, have been doing some drop-kicking in effective fashion.

Win, lose or draw, Yale football coaches perhaps have less to worry about so far as their jobs are concerned, than 90 per cent of their teaching brethren.

The Ell system is not badly predicated upon a winning streak. Nevertheless three successive setbacks about the hair of their jobs are concerned, than 90 per cent of their teaching brethren.

Stevens was a star with Memphis Bill Mallory's 1923 eleven, an undefeated Blue array that rolled up 40 points against Princeton and Harvard.

Stevens will remain as head coach for 1931, but it will not be surprising after that to see Yale depart from its ancient policy and select Adam Walsh, one-time captain of the "Four Horsemen" of Notre Dame, as his successor.

As a matter of fact, the selection of Stevens was a semi-departure from the Ell graduate system. "Mac" had only one year of varsity football eligibility left when he came to Yale to get a degree, then enter the medical school. He began his college career at Washburn, Kansas, starting in four sports before shifting his activities to New Haven.

Wood also is a star at hockey and baseball, to which he adds unusual talents as a tennis player.

BLOCKING MAY DECIDE BATTLE

Carideo's Kicking Also Vital-ly Important In Saturday's Big Grid Feature.

BY WILLIAM BRAUCHER NEA Service Reporter

Some of the boys tell a story about dear old Troy and how certain Greek scouts got inside the impregnable walls of the city by hiding themselves in a huge wooden horse.

The Irish of South Bend, led by that scion of County Mayo, Knute Rockne, are going to try to repeat the famous horseplay at Los Angeles, Dec. 6, when they will grapple with the powerful University of Southern California war machine.

The Pacific Coast is willing to concede it's a good trick if you can do it.

The Rockne idea is that a continuation of plays perfectly executed is bound to score. Oddly enough, Howard Jones, director of the Trojans, has subscribed to similar ideas.

General Rockne has entrusted the duties of master-minding asstid to Frank Carideo, an amazingly persistent person. Francis is not one to walk off the field disgusted if the first play of the game doesn't result in a touchdown.

Each team has a marvelous offense, with the shift as an important element. In timing, Notre Dame may be found to have a slight edge on the Trojans. It is like a lesson in music to watch the South Enders de their cadences. The Troy offense, with either Duffield or Mohler carrying the ball behind wonderful blocking, is an inspiring thing to watch.

The game may be decided by defense. On the basis of the Southern California defeat at the hands of Washington State, the Trojan defense does lack a little something somewhere. Also, scores have filtered through the Irish defense, but in regarding the Notre Dame team it is hard to forget the ferocity of that goal line stand against Northwestern.

If you rate the two teams as equal from a standpoint of offense and defense, there is one factor that may logically force you to give the edge to the Irish. In case of a free-scoring tie game, Notre Dame might win by the margin of a point or two converted after touchdown. That would be because Frank Carideo doesn't know how to miss place-kicks.

Judge Makes World Record In Fielding

Only Commits Two Errors In 1,119 Chances During 1930 Baseball Season, Official Averages Reveal.

Chicago, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Joe Judge, veteran of the Washington Senators, was officially recognized today as the greatest fielding first baseman of all American League baseball history.

Official fielding averages for the 1930 campaign, released today, clinched Judge's fame by revealing that he had led his league rivals in defense for the eighth season—probably a world record for any circuit of baseball.

Judge accepted 1,117 chances in 117 games and was charged with two errors, an average of .998. His performance was two percentage points better than his leading record of 1929.

The Champion Philadelphia Athletics again topped the league in team fielding, the official statistics disclosed. They fielded at a .975 clip, the same as in 1929, and made but 145 errors while making 1,648 assists and 4,107 putouts.

In addition to Judge the fielding averages and averages during the season were: Second basemen—Charles Gehring, Detroit and Oscar Melillo, St. Louis, .979; third basemen—Marty McManus, Detroit, .966; shortstops—Joe Boley, Philadelphia, .970; outfielders—Al Simmons, Philadelphia, .969; and catchers—Mickey Cochrane, Philadelphia, .968.

Eleven pitchers had perfect fielding records. They were: Ad Liska, Washington; Coffman and Collins, St. Louis; Rommel and Quinn, Philadelphia; Sullivan, Herring, Cantrell and Page, Detroit; Gomez, New York and Weiland, Chicago.

Cleveland and Washington infielders broke the world record for assists, the Indians making 22 on June 2 and the Senators tying the mark on July 3. On April 27 John Canev, White Sox, went through a nine inning game without having a chance at firstbase, a record in the American League and the second record of the kind in major league baseball history. Melillo of St. Louis established a new league record by making 572 assists in 143 games. Melillo also had seven putouts and seven assists on June 10, which was high for a single game during the season.

NOTRE DAME LOSES ANOTHER FULLBACK

Moon Mullins, Savoldi's Understudy, Out With Injured Knee; Howard In.

Tucson, Ariz., Dec. 4.—(AP)—The task of filling fullback Larry Mullins shoes added to Coach Knute Rockne's worries today as he marshaled his Notre Dame football team for their final workouts for the game against the University of Southern California.

Rockne said yesterday that Mullins would not be able to play against the Trojans because of the failure of a knee, badly wrenched in the Army game, to respond to treatment. The loss of Mullins, who replaced "Galloping Joe" Savoldi, dismissed from school for his venture into matrimony, was a sad blow to Notre Dame's hopes of victory.

Dan Hanley who jumped into a certain amount of fame during the Drake game, and Al Howard, a member of the "shock troop" squad, were drilled to replace Mullins. Both subs have considerable ability but with the big game only three days away Rockne's worried.

It makes the outlook dark, Rockne said. Mullins was a great defensive player in addition to his great ability to carry the ball, and we'll miss him.

After today's workout the Notre Dame squad planned to board its special train for Los Angeles arriving there Friday.

GLOOM AND JOY Los Angeles, Dec. 4.—(AP)—Gloom and joy continued their battle as the University of Southern California went into the final stage of their preparation for Saturday's game with Notre Dame.

Manchester's Prospects Best In Several Years

FIGHT TO FINISH IN BASEBALL WAR OVER DRAFT PLAN

Five Non-Draft Leagues Tighten Defenses But Majors Plan To "Starve Them Into Surrender."

Montreal, Dec. 4.—(AP)—The five non-draft leagues sought to tighten their defenses today in preparation for what is expected to be a long drawn out struggle with the majors on the draft question.

All relations between the two rival groups—The American and National League on the one hand and the Intercollegiate, Pacific Coast, American Ass'n Western and Three I Leagues on the other, were at a complete standstill at least temporarily, and there were no indications that their differences could be patched up in the immediate future.

The majors insist they be given the right to select or draft at a fixed price players in these five leagues just as they do in other minor circuits.

They backed their demands with a drastic action—complete severance from Dec. 1 of business relations with the non-draft leagues until they accept the draft.

The five leagues affected offered to reopen the question with a view to possible settlement provided the majors rescinded this action within fifteen days but replies from President Heydler and President Bernard of the National and American leagues indicated there was no chance of the majors doing this and the war was on in earnest.

Anticipating that there will be no move toward an amiable settlement at the joint major league meeting in New York next week, the non-draft minors planned to confer on ways and means of carrying on without the majors. The most pressing problems was the always troublesome question of where first grade players to be obtained in sufficient quantities. It was generally regarded that the minors would make no further move toward peace at least at this time.

Another of baseball's sore spots cropped out at the first session of the 29th annual convention of the national association of professional baseball leagues. Branch Rickey, vice president and business manager of the St. Louis Cardinals, largest of the major league clubs in the country told to convention that the majors were ready to come to the aid of those minor leagues which may be running into financial difficulties but no further moves in that direction unless some further "protection" was given the majors.

Largely because of the draft dispute, trading has been very light so far. A score of deals have been completed but none of outstanding importance.

Five Regulars Back From Last Year's Team, Tierney, O'Leary, Smith, Turkington and McCormick; East Hartford Opening Opponent.

Manchester high school's basketball prospects for 1930-31 appear to be the brightest in several seasons. The opening game will be played tomorrow evening at the School Street Recreation Center gymnasium against East Hartford and will be a Central Connecticut Interscholastic League contest. The same two teams will clash the following week in East Hartford.

Manchester will enter tomorrow night's fray favored to win so if it can get away to a double victory over Johnny McGrath's sharpshooters, the Silk Towners will have gotten away to a nice lead in the C. C. T. L. pennant race. Last year East Hartford had the misfortune to lose every game it played, but several of the defeats were by the closest margin possible.

Coach Wilfred J. Clarke announced today that he will use two full teams against the visitors, changing the entire lineup at the end of the first quarter. This is in line with his past policy which has often been very fruitful especially in early season games.

Jimmy O'Leary will start at forward positions, Howard Turkington at center with Domenick Squarito and Johnny Hedlund bringing up in the rear. The second crew to get into action will be Kerr and Smith at forwards, McCormick at center and Lerch and McHale at guard. Fraser and Werner will also see some duty. Coach Clarke said.

O'Leary, Tierney, Smith, Turkington and McCormick were on the regular team last season, so it may readily be seen that Clarke is not sadly in need of more or better talent as the season gets underway. The second team which will meet East Hartford's scrubs in the preliminary will consist entirely of last year's Freshman five which made such a fine showing. McParland and Enrico will be in at forward, Tedford, center, and Mahoney and Sator in the backcourt.

Manchester's schedule includes no newcomers who were not on the slate a season back. Here is the list of games to be played:

FIRE THREATENS GAS STATION; DAMAGE SMALL

Place of Business Next To Hose House Scene of Blaze—Confined To Cellar.

Fire, believed to have originated through an overheated furnace, broke out at 10:30 o'clock last night in the Bergen and Berman Battery station at Main and Hilliard streets. The Manchester Fire Department being right across the way the fire was soon under control with a chemical line from the Hose Company until No. 1 holding the flames in check until No. 2 arrived with a hose, the pumper standing by. Battery was confined to a number of second hand tires and heavy smoke from the burning rubber damaged furniture and fixtures. Damage to the building was considered slight. An alarm from No. 22 was turned in from the boiler room of the firehouse.

CHRISTMAS SAVINGS HERE TOTAL $85,000

Checks Mailed Out This Week — Slight Decrease Noted This Year.

Manchester people saved $85,000 through Christmas Club contributions during the past year, it was learned today from The Manchester Trust Company and The Home Bank and Trust Company which handled a total of more than two thousand accounts. There was some decrease owing to the general business depression but nothing of a serious or pessimistic nature. The Manchester Trust Company yesterday sent out checks for $65,000 saved by about 1,650 persons during the past year. This figure is $15,000 less than a year ago. The Home Bank and Trust Company handled 577 accounts and mailed checks Tuesday afternoon for $20,000 which is $7,000 less than last December.

The most popular accounts were those of either one or two dollars per week, although the range was much wider, extending from twenty-five cents to twenty dollars. During the height of the business depression there were numerous cancellations but many of those who dropped behind in their payments, later came in and settled up before the accounts were closed. In a few needy cases, the banks refunded the money, although according to the regulations, they were entitled to hold the money until the end of the year. While the cancellations were greater than a year ago, the deduction was less than two per cent which, comparatively speaking, is very small.

New clubs will start at The Manchester Trust Company during the week of December 9, and those wishing to join should do so on that day if possible. The Home Bank club started this week and already has many members. Many homes were made happy today when the checks for the small weekly savings came in today. In some cases the money seemed like a gift.

DEPLORES THE MISUSE OF DANGER SIGNALS

Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Stoeckel Says Red Lights Should Be Employed Only As Warning.

Red lights should be used only near the highway only as danger signals, Commissioner of Motor Vehicles Robbiss E. Stoeckel said in a bulletin issued this afternoon. "A red light," the bulletin said "has become identified in the minds of everyone with danger and necessity for caution. When a red light is seen, the operator of a car makes it a point, or at least he should, to discover what danger is present. "A somewhat unusual, but nevertheless definite, misunderstanding is caused by the use of a red light, or red lights for advertising purposes along the highway in Connecticut. This is not good practice. The use of a red light to indicate a filling station or a lunch room or any other enterprise distracts the operator's attention from the road in the degree of attention he must divert to finding out why the red light is there.

"The advertiser of course wants the motorists to slow down and see the sign, and perhaps stop and buy something, but the use of a red light for this purpose is a misuse of a danger signal and ought to be stopped. There is no Connecticut law which prohibits it. Whether there ought to be, or whether one could be drafted which would be inclusive enough to be effective, is a broad question.

"Red lights, identified with danger, ought to be intensified in their use to a point where they are absolutely distinct. Every time one is observed there should be no cause for misunderstanding or mistake. When there is a red light, it should be an indication of a situation in which there is danger and that care is necessary."
