

PRICES RISE AGAIN IN STOCK MARKET

Trading Unusually Heavy and Many Advances of From $1 To $5 Over Sat- urday's Final Prices.

New York, Aug. 8.—(AP)—After a setback in the first hour, shares rebounded with renewed vigor in the New York Stock Exchange today.

Trading proceeded in heavy volume, and numerous advances of $1 to $5 over Saturday's final prices had been recorded before midday, boosting the general level of shares to the highest since March. Losses of $1 to $3 in the first hour were quickly regained.

Motors forged ahead in the most impressive manner in months. General Motors rising $2 to above a price of $18. Chrysler advanced $1.50 to $12. Nash rose $1 to $15. Radio and farm implements were also in the lead. Santa Fe rose more than $5 to a price of $48. Union Pacific regained an early loss of more than $3 to advance $3 to $66. Case regained a loss of nearly $2 to advance $4 to above $55. American Can rose more than $2 to well above $80. American Telephone advanced more than $3 to above $109. U. S. Steel crossed $43 for a gain of about $2.

Sales To Pick Up

It was the first emphatic upturn in the automobile shares since early in the year. While automobile production is being curtailed during August, Detroit dealers to Wall Street indicated that executives were hopeful of a good pickup in sales during the autumn, if upturns in the markets may be taken as evidence of a general restoration of confidence.

The farm implement and the railroad shares were again bid up on the theory that good crops, and the need of being taken to bolster commodity prices, should improve the general agricultural situation.

The stock exchange's trading machinery was again overwhelmed, and the ticker fell several minutes behind actual transactions on the floor.

Cotton was the most spectacular commodity in today's markets, rising $1.25 to a new high of $18.50. Early trading as traders responded to reports that a movement was under way to have the mill interests, with the aid of banking support, take over holdings of the Farm Board and the cotton cooperatives.

Other commodities generally strong, rubber, sugar and wheat making liberal advances. It was learned that Eugene Meyer, chairman of the Federal Reserve Board, would resume his conferences this week with New York bankers relative to plans for helping commodities.

Meanwhile, Wall street brokers beamed at the enormous increase in commission business. Many houses had called back employees recently laid off, and began the week with

HOLD CLERGYMAN IN WIFE'S DEATH

Minister Marries Young Girl Shortly Afterwards—Poison Found in Woman.

Muskogee, Okla., Aug. 8.—(AP)—The tangled romance of a 52-year-old minister and his 19-year-old bride was to be laid before a grand jury here today investigating the death by poison of the preacher's first wife.

Prominent in the evidence which County Attorney Philip K. Oldham had prepared for the jurors' examination were passionate letters and verses which Oldham said the minister, S. A. Berrie, admitted he wrote to his present wife before the death of his first last March.

Berrie was held in jail "for investigation" but Oldham ordered the girl-wife released in custody of her mother, saying he thought she was "the victim of circumstances."

MRS. MILLER NOT IN LOVE WITH ACCUSED MAN

Says She Is Fond of Him But Had Not Loved Him For Two Years—Weeps On Stand.

Miami, Fla., Aug. 8.—(AP)—Mrs. J. M. Keith-Miller testified at the murder trial of Captain W. N. Lancaster today that she had become "completely disillusioned" and no longer loved Lancaster nor the memory of Haden Clarke, her writer fiancé whom Lancaster is accused of slaying.

She said she was still very fond of Lancaster, to whom she was once engaged, but that she has not loved him for two years.

"Even if you have said you would die for Captain Lancaster?" State Attorney N. Vernon Hawthorne asked her.

"Would you lie for him?" "No," she replied back.

"Were you a traitor to him, if you have not loved him for two years, when you wrote him constantly of your love while he was on his western trip to get all the money he could for you?"

Mrs. Miller weeps. "You don't understand our situation," she answered.

The Australian aviator was recalled to the stand today after having testified last week as a court witness.

The state charges Lancaster killed Clarke, a writer, after the latter had replaced him in Mrs. Keith-Miller's affections.

Mrs. Keith-Miller was on the stand as she attempted to show Hawthorne how she could be very fond of Lancaster and still not be in love with him.

She had told Clarke many times before they were engaged she never expected to marry anyone, she continued, but she always felt that when Lancaster should be free from his wife in England "she would marry him."

Tokyo, Aug. 8.—(AP)—In accordance with the government's decision to unify Japanese authority in Manchuria under an army commander with extensive powers, General Nobuyoshi Muto was installed today as commander in chief of the Japanese forces in Manchuria.

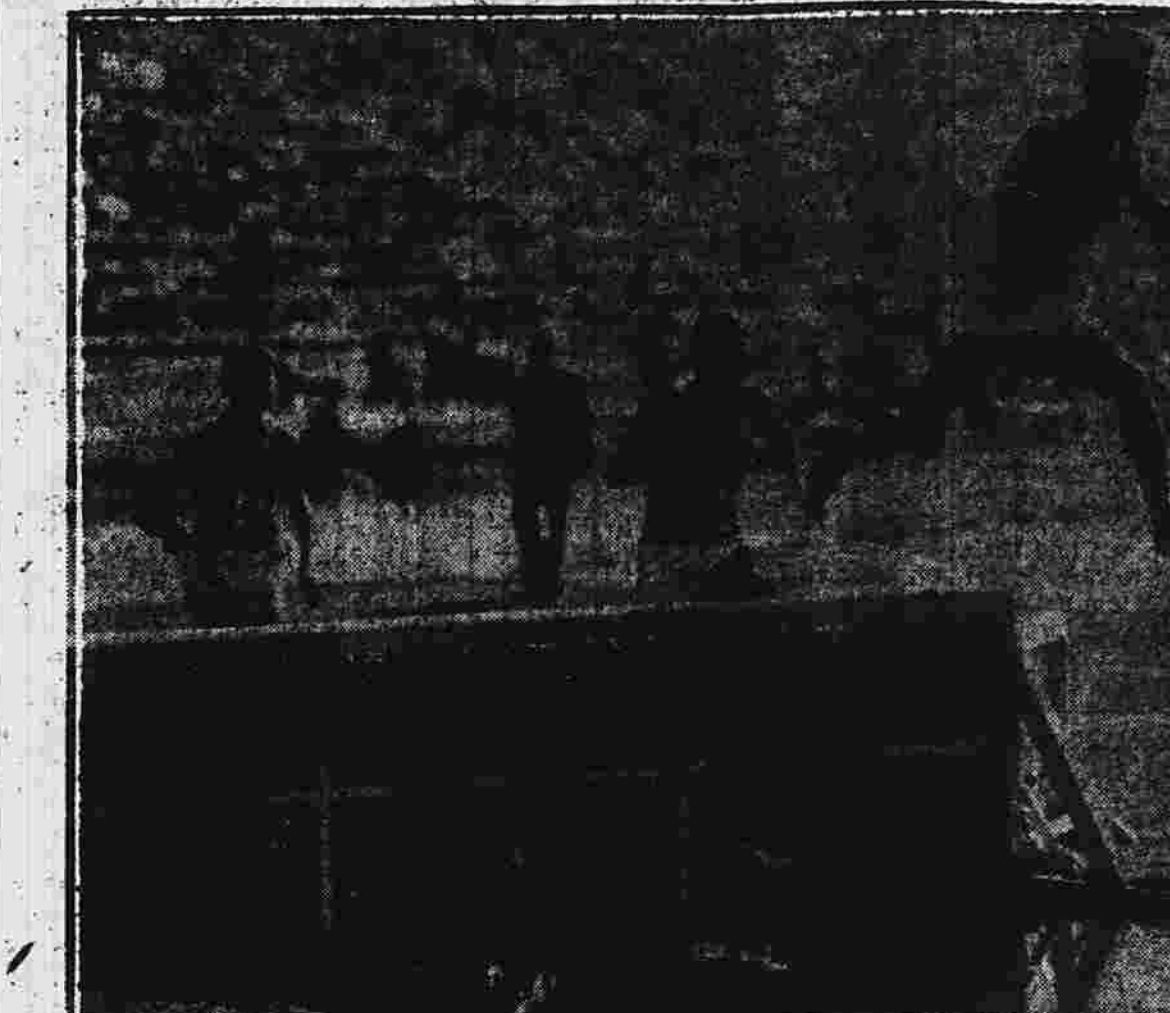

At the same time he was named "ambassador on special mission" to Manchuria, and appointed governor general of the Kwangtung leased territory.

The ambassador rank makes him the head of all the Japanese consulates in Manchuria, and Japan's spokesman in dealing with the Manchukuo regime.

The investiture, marking a significant change in the administration of Japan's Manchurian interests, was made in the presence of the emperor at the sovereign's summer palace at Nasu, north of Tokyo.

BINGHAM DEFENDS STAND ON WET AND DRY ISSUE

Tells Audience It Is Time To Stop Pussyfooting and Come Out In Open; Quig- ley Criticizes Gov. Cross.

Political campaigning got well under way over the week-end. There were a dozen or more outings or clam bakes by clubs or ward organizations. The chief among these was in West Haven by the John Ericsson (Swedish) Republican League at which U. S. Senator Hiram Bingham replied to critics on his 18th Amendment stand.

The Senator told the gathering it was time to stop "pussyfooting" on the liquor question and come out in the open. He reiterated his stand not only for repeal, for a big navy, for a peace backed up with adequate defense but his opposition to other matters in Congress. In order to let the Senator have full sway several others on the speakers' list gave him their time. He took opportunity to reply to opposition views which came to the surface last week in the form of possible independent campaigning against his re-nomination.

Cross Is Criticized
A partisan touch to the affair was given by Mayor George Quigley of New Britain, himself willing to be nominated for governor, when he said Governor Cross was like Nero fiddling on Capitol Hill while the Rome of Connecticut is seared with fire of depression.

LEADERS CONFER ON HITLER PARTY

Hindenburg Insists German Cabinet Must Not Be Ruled By Any Party.

Berlin, Aug. 8.—(AP)—Germany's most powerful political leaders began to gather in Berlin today for a series of conferences which are likely to determine the ultimate position of Adolf Hitler in the new government.

The National Socialists under Hitler today seemed more ready than ever to enter the government even though President Hindenburg insists the Cabinet must not be dominated by parties.

Dr. Brüning's Centrists, who heretofore have been opposed to participation in the government by the Nazis, now seem inclined to insist that Hitler's party must show, by its entry into the Cabinet, how many of its campaign promises it can fulfill.

Before the week is over Germany is likely to know how the new government will look and how the forces will line up in the Reichstag.

The early morning hours today brought additional disorders, principally in East Prussia, but there were no serious injuries.

Hand grenades were thrown and there were street fights in half a dozen cities. Violence over the week-end resulted in one death and numerous injuries.

NEW MEMBER OF HOOVER CABINET TAKES HIS POST

Roy D. Chapin Declares Bet- ter Tone Now Prevails In Industry — Upturn Will Come Soon.

Washington, Aug. 8.—(AP)—Gratification at the "unmistakably better tone that now prevails in our industries and markets of trade" was expressed today by Roy D. Chapin as he was sworn in as secretary of commerce.

The Detroit automobile manufacturer took the oath as successor to Robert F. Lamont, who retired to re-enter private business.

Lamont, who was present, told Chapin he was certain every American businessman approved President Hoover's selection. In reply, the new Cabinet member said:

"Naturally, like every other American, I am gratified at the unmistakably better tone that now prevails in our industries and markets of trade."

"Concerning the future trend I will not be so bold as to venture a prediction now, but one thing is very certain; we must all exert ourselves to the utmost, striving to strengthen all favorable factors and to make the inevitable turn come as soon and with as much security as possible."

The facilities of the Department of Commerce, designed solely to help business, should prove a potent instrument in aiding an advance along the upward road.

Later at a conference with newspapermen, Chapin expressed himself as "hopeful" that the general business situation would show a continued improvement. He declined to make any prediction.

"There is no man," he said, "whose judgment in that respect can be accurate."

MEYER DESCRIBES FARM BOARD PLAN

To Get Rid of Surplus Cotton Within Year Without Low- ering Prices.

New York, Aug. 8.—(AP)—Eugene Meyer, governor of the Federal Reserve Board, is expected this week to resume conversations with New York bankers looking toward the evolution of a comprehensive plan for the orderly marketing of Farm Board holdings of surplus cotton.

It was said today that Mr. Meyer had broached a tentative marketing plan last week. The amounts involved were not estimated with any claim to accuracy by local bankers, but in the cotton trade it was believed the holdings of surplus cotton, both in the stabilization corporation and the co-operative organizations, approximate 8,500,000 bales.

In dollar terms would exceed $100,000,000.

Initial study of the proposal has aroused considerable enthusiasm among certain bankers. The banking viewpoint may be described as follows:

1. In order to have lasting value, any plan that is evolved must provide for the gradual working off of the Farm Board's surplus holdings over a period of at least one year.

2. Any proposal for a pool designed solely to boost cotton prices would be rejected. Its effect, bankers hold, would be purely temporary, and would merely pass the burden of financing present cotton holdings from one set of business interests to another.

3. Some leading cotton brokers expressed frank skepticism as to the worth of the idea, stating today that a major objection lay in the possibility that it would interfere with the marketing of the new crop while the mills were taking care of the Farm Board's surplus left over from previous crops.

"But in banking circles it was said that the idea should not be minimized, that it is extremely important and that it is in no sense a mere government venture into the field of speculation but envisages something more lasting than that."

Outline of Plan tentative form, the plan would provide that governmental authorities encourage the cotton mills to order cotton for about one year in advance at a price

PLAIN TALK NEEDED TO DISARM EUROPE, SAYS SEN. SWANSON

NEAR FINAL WEEK OF TRADE PARLEY

Great Britain To Revise Treaties With Dominions At Next Sessions.

Ottawa, Aug. 8.—(AP)—A prospect that the Imperial conference will limit itself to the bilateral agreements between the Dominions and leave the rest of the agenda over for the coming world economic conference at which the United States will sit, appeared as the final week today.

The general belief was that Great Britain will do something to open wider her doors to products of the Dominions but that in doing so she will be inclined to confine herself to measures looking to an international revival of trade, than to purely Empire benefit.

It was recalled that the Prince of Wales, on the eve of the opening of the conference referred especially to the undesirability of damaging the Empire's world trade.

For the most part, it was expected today, the new trade alignments made here will be considered as revisions of most favored nation treaties rather than an attempt to treat the rest of the world, particularly the United States, as competitors.

On the average the United States has bought almost $200,000,000 worth of rubber each of the last five years from the Straits Settlements, $150,000,000 worth of guano and newspapers from Canada, $100,000,000 worth of timber, $85,000,000 worth of jute from India, $55,000,000 worth of tin from Malaya and from $15,000,000 to $30,000,000 worth of wool, hides and skins from Australia, New Zealand and South Africa, respectively.

Americans have more than $5,000,000,000 invested in the Empire and they buy from Canada more than 15 times as much as all the nations of the Commonwealth together.

VETERANS OF STATE BACK FROM MARCH

Leader Says Connecticut Did Not Care Whether They Got Back Or Not.

Hartford, Aug. 8.—(AP)—Four members of the Connecticut "For" who, with thirty of their companions arrived from Johnston, Pa., last night, asked Governor Cross today to provide means for establishing a camp somewhere in the state.

They were Archie L. Brown, leader of the Connecticut group, William McGorriston, Ralph P. Carleton and John Cavanaugh.

Brown asked Governor Cross to provide tents and land. There are now 21 members at the Veterans' Home in Rocky Hill, and about 70 in the Connecticut group. A camp should be established, at least 200 are expected to join. Brown declared the majority of the men do not want to stay at Rocky Hill, where they were fed, clothed and housed last night, but want a camp of their own, together they can keep the "B. E. P." together.

Against Camp Idea
Governor Cross told them he was not enthusiastic about the camp idea, and thought they should stay at Rocky Hill until jobs could be secured. He told them to return at 2:15 this afternoon, after he had conferred with Benedict M. Holden, chairman of the Veterans' Home Commission. Brown had nothing but praise for New Jersey and New York police and citizens. He told how other states had provided means of transportation from New York to the homes of various groups, and how a New York policeman, the president of a trucking company, and the proprietor of a restaurant fed the forty Connecticut men and furnished a truck to carry them to Hartford.

With a telegram from Governor Cross in his hand, addressed to Brown at Johnston, the Connecticut leader declared "Connecticut didn't seem to give a damn whether we got back or not."

PLANE FORCED DOWN

New Britain, Aug. 8.—(AP)—While flying to his home in Providence, R. I., from Westhampton, L. I., where he had spent the week-end, Royal Little was forced to bring his airplane down in a corn field owned by Leon Ailing in Kensington this morning. During his trip Little flew low because of clouds. When he saw he had a bird's foot landing as he approached this day he decided to land. The plane remained upright and Little was unharmed. He planned to take off as soon as the weather cleared.

Barrie and a woman passenger were unhurt. They continued on to Hartford by bus. The wrecked plane was taken to a garage in Avon.

RECENT LAUSANNE AGREEMENT ON REPARATIONS WILL GO A LONG WAY TO HELPING PO- LITICAL SITUATION, DECLARES MEMBER OF AMERICAN DEL- EGATION.

Washington, Aug. 8.—(AP)—

Some "plain talk" and improved political conditions in Europe will be necessary, Senator Swanson said today to bring fulfillment of the promises of arms reduction made at the recent Geneva conference.

Swanson, a member of the American delegation and ranking Democrat of the Senate Foreign Relations committee, is hopeful about the outlook. He believes the recent Lausanne agreement virtually abolishing German reparations will go a long way in helping the European political situation.

Although declining to discuss war debts revision, the Virginia Senator agreed with Senator Borah, of Idaho, that the world is in need of an economic conference, but he looked upon lower tariffs as the main method of inspiring resumption of international trade.

Expresses Alarm
In his first extended discussion of the Geneva parley and the international situation, Senator Swanson expressed some alarm over recent leanings in Germany toward an increased army and said if carried out this would destroy hopes of disarmament success.

He dismissed as inconsequential the amount of dissatisfaction in Europe over territorial assignments after the World War provided by the Versailles treaty, contending that less than 10,000,000 of the 450,000,000 people in Europe were displaced on this score.

Conditions Favorable
"I think conditions in Germany are more favorable than many people believe," he said. "The agreement on reparations and Germany's adherence to the Franco-British agreement of consultation indicates the disposition on the part of Germany to cooperate with Europe. This lessens a great deal the declarations made by the Hitler and National Socialist parties. I think Germany has settled finally the reparations problem and this removes one of the most troublesome questions, politically and financially, in Germany."

To Reduce Arms
"If the pledges and promises of the Geneva conference are fulfilled there will be a very large reduction in armaments. The extent to which these promises will be fulfilled of course depends largely on political influences in Europe when the conference reconvenes and the vigor which the effort is pushed. I think it will take strong efforts and real plain talk to gain substantial achievement."

Swanson was pessimistic over the prospect of the proposed world agreement for further naval limitations, blaming the attitude of Japan in this respect.

In addition to tariff revision throughout the world, Swanson saw as an immediate need the establishment of a more stable international exchange and an improvement of the price of silver.

STARVES TO DEATH IN ECUADOR JUNGLE

American On Return Tells How He Dug a Shallow Grave To Bury Comrade.

New York, Aug. 8.—(AP)—Back from an Ecuadorian jungle where he buried his comrade in misfortune in a shallow grave hacked out with a pocket knife, Harold Ford of Quantico, Va., arrived on the liner Santa Clara today.

He told of being lost for days with Thomas J. Walsh of Chicago, who finally died of exhaustion and starvation.

"I chopped out a little grave with my knife and left him there," Ford told Walsh's parents, who met the Santa Clara, "it was all I could do."

Ford and Walsh had worked together in a Peruvian mine but after leaving that employment had started for Monzon, Ecuador, on a scientific expedition in a canoe. On the Huallaga river the canoe was wrecked and they started through the tangled jungle afoot.

By July 21 they had been several days without food and Walsh was almost dead with exhaustion. Ford said he shot a small bird which he gave his companion and they passed further into the jungle in search of game which he believed would sustain them.

The most successful camping period in the history of the Kiwanis Kiddies Camp at Hebron ended this morning as forty-four girls were transported to Manchester after a two week's vacation that passed all too rapidly in the opinion of the girls. The first two weeks of camp were devoted to forty-three boys, making a total of eighty-seven campers during the month.

Camp Director Helge Pearson was greatly pleased with this year's camp. Not one accident occurred to mar the pleasure of the children. Practically everyone at camp gained weight and all enjoyed themselves to the utmost. Mr. Pearson had high praise for the efficiency of his camp staff and also for the splendid manner in which the children conducted themselves while at camp.

The children were brought home at 9:30 o'clock this morning in automobiles driven by Kiwanians Fred T. Blish, James Nichols, James Turnbull, Charles Burr, George Glenny and Thomas Ferguson. The camp staff remained at Hebron to put the camp in order.

COTTON PRICES UP $5 ON THE BALE

Federal Report On Small Crop Sends Prices Soaring On Exchange.

New Orleans, Aug. 8.—(AP)—Cotton prices on the local exchange soared fully $5 a bale over Saturday's close, today when the government's report indicating a yield of 11,806,000 bales proved about a million bales under expectations.

Washington, Aug. 8.—(AP)—Cotton production this year was estimated today by the Department of Agriculture in its first forecast of the season at 11,806,000 bales of 500 pounds gross weight, as compared with 17,096,000 bales ginned last year.

The forecast was based on the condition of the crop Aug. 1 which was 65.6 per cent of a normal, compared with 74.9 a year ago and 66.4, the 10-year average.

The indicated yield of lint cotton was announced at 149.6 pounds per acre as compared with 152.2 pounds last year and 161.4 pounds, the 10-year average.

The estimated total production was determined by application of the indicated acre yield to the acreage in cultivation July 1, which was 37,190,000 acres, less the 10-year average abandonment in each state after that date. The average abandonment for the country for the ten years was 3.1 per cent. The acreage, after deduction of the average state abandonment, is placed at 36,161,000 by the department. The acreage this year is the smallest since 1922.

LIBBY REYNOLDS TO GIVE SELF UP

Expect Torch Singer To Surrender in North Carolina This Afternoon.

Winston Salem, N. C., Aug. 8.—Benet Polkoff, attorney for Libby Holman Reynolds, said today she would surrender to North Carolina authorities at Wentworth, N. C., fifty miles from here this afternoon.

Polkoff said the former torch singer would immediately appear before Judge A. M. Stack and seek her release on bail. She is under indictment in the fatal shooting of her young millionaire husband, Smith Reynolds, here a month ago.

Ab Walker, indicted jointly with Mrs. Reynolds was released Saturday under $25,000 bond.

Polkoff is one of two Winston Salem attorneys retained last week by Alfred Holman, father of Mrs. Reynolds, to represent his daughter.

No indication was given as to whether Libby will come to Winston Salem before going to Wentworth. Neither would Polkoff reveal how she is traveling or in whose company.

It is generally believed here that the trip to North Carolina is being made by automobile and that Libby is accompanied by Myron Kahn, of Cincinnati, her brother-in-law.

Scene Is Changed
Superior Court adjourned here last week and Judge Stack and Solicitor Carlisle Higgins transferred to Wentworth, where a term of Rockingham County Superior Court begins today.

This is why Libby's plea for bail must be made in the remote little Rockingham county town instead of in Winston Salem.

Solicitor Higgins did not oppose bail for Walker, giving rise to the impression here that he would not seriously contest the petition of Mrs. Reynolds.

Higgins, however, has refused to commit himself and said Saturday his course in the Walker case must not be taken as an indication of his probable attitude toward Libby's plea. It is considered probable here today that Libby and Walker will go on trial for young Reynolds' shooting during the week of Sept. 5.

Fred Hutchins, county attorney, today asked Governor Gardner to order a special term of court for Forsyth county on that date. The special term would run for two weeks.

Hutchins based his request on grounds of a congested docket. He said such requests are more formalities and that the governor is certain to comply.

It was considered likely the Reynolds shooting will be called at this term, although it was possible a continuance may be requested and granted.

WEDDING MUST WAIT BANKRUPTCY DECISION

Trustees Named by Court Will Have Right To Rent Hall For Celebration, 50 Plans Are Held Up.

Stockholders in the Polish Corporation have not as yet been informed who has been named as trustee of the bankrupt store. It is a matter of some concern to the stockholders that there is a wedding planned for the celebration of which was to have been held in the hall in the building. The arrangements for the wedding were under way before the store was closed and before the petition in bankruptcy was filed. A trustee is named who might give permission for the use of the hall for the wedding celebration the arrangements for which will be held up.

LIBBY REYNOLDS TO GIVE SELF UP

Expect Torch Singer To Surrender in North Carolina This Afternoon.

Winston Salem, N. C., Aug. 8.—Benet Polkoff, attorney for Libby Holman Reynolds, said today she would surrender to North Carolina authorities at Wentworth, N. C., fifty miles from here this afternoon.

Polkoff said the former torch singer would immediately appear before Judge A. M. Stack and seek her release on bail. She is under indictment in the fatal shooting of her young millionaire husband, Smith Reynolds, here a month ago.

Ab Walker, indicted jointly with Mrs. Reynolds was released Saturday under $25,000 bond.

Polkoff is one of two Winston Salem attorneys retained last week by Alfred Holman, father of Mrs. Reynolds, to represent his daughter.

No indication was given as to whether Libby will come to Winston Salem before going to Wentworth. Neither would Polkoff reveal how she is traveling or in whose company.

It is generally believed here that the trip to North Carolina is being made by automobile and that Libby is accompanied by Myron Kahn, of Cincinnati, her brother-in-law.

Scene Is Changed
Superior Court adjourned here last week and Judge Stack and Solicitor Carlisle Higgins transferred to Wentworth, where a term of Rockingham County Superior Court begins today.

This is why Libby's plea for bail must be made in the remote little Rockingham county town instead of in Winston Salem.

Solicitor Higgins did not oppose bail for Walker, giving rise to the impression here that he would not seriously contest the petition of Mrs. Reynolds.

Higgins, however, has refused to commit himself and said Saturday his course in the Walker case must not be taken as an indication of his probable attitude toward Libby's plea. It is considered probable here today that Libby and Walker will go on trial for young Reynolds' shooting during the week of Sept. 5.

Fred Hutchins, county attorney, today asked Governor Gardner to order a special term of court for Forsyth county on that date. The special term would run for two weeks.

Hutchins based his request on grounds of a congested docket. He said such requests are more formalities and that the governor is certain to comply.

It was considered likely the Reynolds shooting will be called at this term, although it was possible a continuance may be requested and granted.

MONDAY, AUGUST 6
JUST BLANDED
 A letter to the Hartford Courant signed by Woolsey M. Johnson of Andover, on the subject of the Bonus Expeditionary Force, so-called, indicates a belief on the writer's part that the Washington administration did wrong in not employing force, almost at the beginning, to drive the bonus boomers out of the national capital. He says:

Of course the right of a body of men to petition is inviolable, even under a czar, and plainly does not apply to the present republic. But after the Bonus Army had with all dramatic front-page publicity made its petition and saw it denied by vote of the Senate . . . it was under the circumstances a sedulous act to continue the march on Washington. Thus it would seem that the administration did wrong in cajoling the men and coaxing them to go home. For there are times when a brutal sincerity is the kindest thing in the world.

We assume from this that Mr. Johnson's idea of correct treatment of the situation would be to notify the veterans to get out, give them a day or two to comply, and then turn loose the army against them.

Since there are a good many superficial thinkers, largely among those who are neither veterans nor destitute jobless, whose thoughts in such matters run just about like Mr. Johnson's, the latter's letter would not be liable to attract much attention if it were not for a statement he makes in its opening paragraph:

The presence of 30,000 men trained to arms with a common grievance in our national capital was equivalent to a threat of rebellion. All that was needed to start a war was a grim and eloquent leader and arms.

This is a declaration that should not be permitted to stand without challenge. It is absolutely unfair and in conflict with the whole history of the E. F. Every observer of that movement is agreed that at no time did it take on, in the smallest degree, the character of rebellion nor was there anywhere present the spirit of rebellion. The violence that did occur, at the end, was in no wise indicative of revolt against the established order but was merely born of the fact that the men believed their legal right of petition was being assailed and themselves denied an ethical and legal right to remain in their own capital city. Which, by the same token, is a view shared by more than a few persons in the official and legal world.

To assert, without shadow of proof, that all these men needed was a little successful incitement and guns in their hands in order to attempt to destroy their government is a gratuitous insult not only to the bonus boomers but to the whole great body of ex-service men. It is not too strong language to describe such assertions as malicious.

The E. F. was ridiculous, if you please; it was unreasonable and wrong headed; it was the anti-performance of men whose mental childishness was only equalled by their spontaneity of action. But that there was ever anything sinister or diabolical in it the facts themselves disprove. Those veterans deserve, at least, to be free from the tongue of unbridled slander.

VERDUN
 Those Americans who are perpetually losing patience with France for her persistence in insisting on security first, then measures for world peace, disarmament, etc., afterward, would do themselves no harm by taking note of the dedication of the Douaumont monument to the Verdun dead, which took place yesterday, with 101 generals of France and representatives from every French regiment in the World War present.

That memorial was erected in honor of the memory of 400,000 Frenchmen who died in the Verdun struggle during that terrible struggle. In a region scarcely more extensive than the area including Hartford at one end and Manchester at the other, a great host of boys just entering manhood, virile citizens in the flush of their best vigor, fathers of families, men in whose heads and hearts the white of approaching winter had begun to show—a vast procession of France's best blood, equal in numbers to the entire adult male population of a huge city of two million people—lay down their lives that the invaders should not pass.

Four hundred thousand men—like to all the men of a populous state such as Connecticut—dying and leaving hundreds of other thousands of widows and orphans, in the defense of a dozen sacred miles of France! And still the world expresses surprise that the credo of the French puts forth security as its first and dominant principle.

What wonder that in the presence of that ghostly multitude Paul Boncour said: "It is sentimental verbiage to call for peace without organizing its institutions. It is useful to believe that conflicts can be peacefully arbitrated if the arbiter cannot impose his decision on a nation which rises above the common law. Let us fortify ourselves in the double task devolving upon us, to maintain our security and organize peace."

Or that President Lebrun said: "France wishes peace. But let no one ask her to abandon her concern for security as long as the spirit of peace does not reign everywhere and as long as the world has not established the foundations of a general security which all nations, large and small, will find an assured refuge."

It is easy to call France militaristic and blame her for spending hundreds of millions on the erection of frontier defenses rendering future Verdun impossible. But then it is easy, when one is not French, to forget the 400,000 sons of France who died to hold Verdun.

THEIR BEST BET
 In the news stories dealing with the stop-Bingham movement sprung in a New Haven business office a few days ago we have seen mention of the Anti-Saloon League, the Women's Christian Temperance Union and one or two other organizations as components in the anti-Bingham forces, besides Professor Levitt's cuts little watch chain of an Independent Republican Party; but no mention has been made of the most useful of all possible groups to such a political enterprise as this, the League of Beer Running Mobs.

It would be interesting to know whether this omission is intentional, a mere inadvertence or—fantastic notion—whether the good souls who are opposing Senator Bingham because he advocates a workable liquor law are serenely unaware that their most zealous friends and co-enemies of mischief are the furniture gentry whose trucks dot the roads of nights and whose plethoric backlogs are the fruit of prohibition as is.

It is next to incredible that these anti-Bingham droids do not realize that the only source from which they can expect any voting support of any consequence is that reservoir of ballot controlled by the beer racketeers; and that if they are to get anywhere at all it must be through direct liaison with the shrewd, powerful and heavily capitalized barons of the beer line. Still, they are a naive lot, these old ladies and gentlemen who are going to put Bingham in his place, and it may after all be just possible that they don't know with whom they are lining up.

Really, to be kind, somebody ought to tell them.

LANDLORDS
 Hartford is beginning to realize that the must do something about the business of paying rents for the unemployed. Finding herself up against a drain upon her resources, from this item alone, of $360,000 a year, the Capitol City is casting about to learn what other cities are doing. She finds that instead of automatically taking over the rent obligations of objects of relief as soon as they are three months overdue, as she has been doing, some communities demand proof that the applicant for aid has actually been served with eviction papers; in which case the community fixes the amount of rental it will pay at one-half the regular rental, with a maximum allowance much smaller than that permitted to landlords in Hartford. In the face of an impending deficit rapidly approaching the million mark, our neighbor city is beginning to wonder if it hasn't been more liberal in its dealings with landlords than it can possibly afford to be.

To expect to get through a period like the present one without desperate injury to some class or group, or to several classes or groups, is about like expecting to win a great battle in the defense of the nation without suffering any casualties. That there are to be many casualties from the depression is quite certain. The landlords of the unemployed cannot be protected from the bullets behind the massed bodies of the taxpayers.

That it is a pretty tough situation to be the owner of rentable property on which one must pay mortgage interest and taxes and for which one is receiving too little rental to meet these charges is not to be denied. But the city that undertakes to wholly relieve the plight of such a landlord will very shortly find itself so deeply involved that it cannot raise the money to feed its hungry.

IN NEW YORK

New York, Aug. 5—Every big circus carries a sideshow. And so for the odds and ends of Manhattan, but chiefly the odds: The one-legged woman who seeks alms in Broadway now appears during the theater hours in a dinner dress . . . And finds the crowd there is responsive . . . And a thousand girls staged a near-riot trying to get a $12-a-week job . . . Whereas a fellow dickering for a young millionaire's yacht learned that it would cost $1,000 a week to operate decently . . .

A gent by the name of Kelly asked to have his name changed because of prejudice . . . Yet the latest telephone books show more than 10,000 friendly Kellys listed in some five solid pages . . . Oh, well, a gal by the name of Moran became Helen Morgan and another by the name of Harlan became Jean Harlow . . . Willie Mann Goldberg became Eddie Robinson. So what?

"Lucky seat" cafes spring up . . . Which means that if you sit in a certain chair, the seats are on the house . . . An attractive young woman perched in a twenty-something story window, amused herself by sniping at a cop with B. E. shots . . . And a fellow who carelessly tossed a lighted cigaret from a window set fire to a baby carriage below . . . And Atlantic City summer spot offered Rudy Vallee $11,000 for a week . . . And a fellow who had decided that art had nothing left to offer an artist ended it all—broke!

Near beer signs appear everywhere since the adoption of a national plank. And look for the world, like the old-time real thing . . . A blimp still strives fruitfully to use the oft-mentioned mooring mast on the Empire State building . . . An erudite young chap of my acquaintance has been struggling along for several years as publicity man for a book firm . . . To help matters out, he knocked off a book of which he was so heartily ashamed that he signed a scottish name . . . The movies, of course, bought it and he's on easy street.

"Stuttering" Roscoe Ates rarely stutters unless there's money in it . . . And Frisco, who gets his income and fame from stammering, has to be coaxed to stutter when out in public among his friends . . .

In the Cards
 But the funniest to come to my attention in a week concerns the auctioning of properties seized in and upon the village of swanky wet spots in the Frisians. The place had been decorated with some $50,000 worth of sculptures, paintings, rugs and such . . .

But when the bidding began the group of society ladies and gents, together with an enormous crowd of individuals, showed slight interest in the elegant fixtures. They waited until a card index filing cabinet went under the hammer. It was a cheap affair, such as might be picked up in any second-hand store for a small sum. Yet the bidding was brisk and the price went up and up.

What did anyone want of a card index filing cabinet? Well, I overlooked mentioning that the names and addresses had not been removed. Other speakers wanted this very select list so that they could circulate the ex-customers of the defunct restaurant.

And there were those who wanted to make sure that certain names didn't fall into the hands of the wrong people. And there were those who didn't want certain others to know that they frequented whisper-logs.

If you're inclined to be inventive, it isn't a bad idea for a short story plot. With farcical complications, of course.

The tale goes of two famous violinists, both of whom were pupils of the late Leopold Auer. One, a prize pupil, had expected to be invited to play at the funeral services. The other got the invitation.

"I should think you would be bothered and hurt," a friend said to the neglected one.

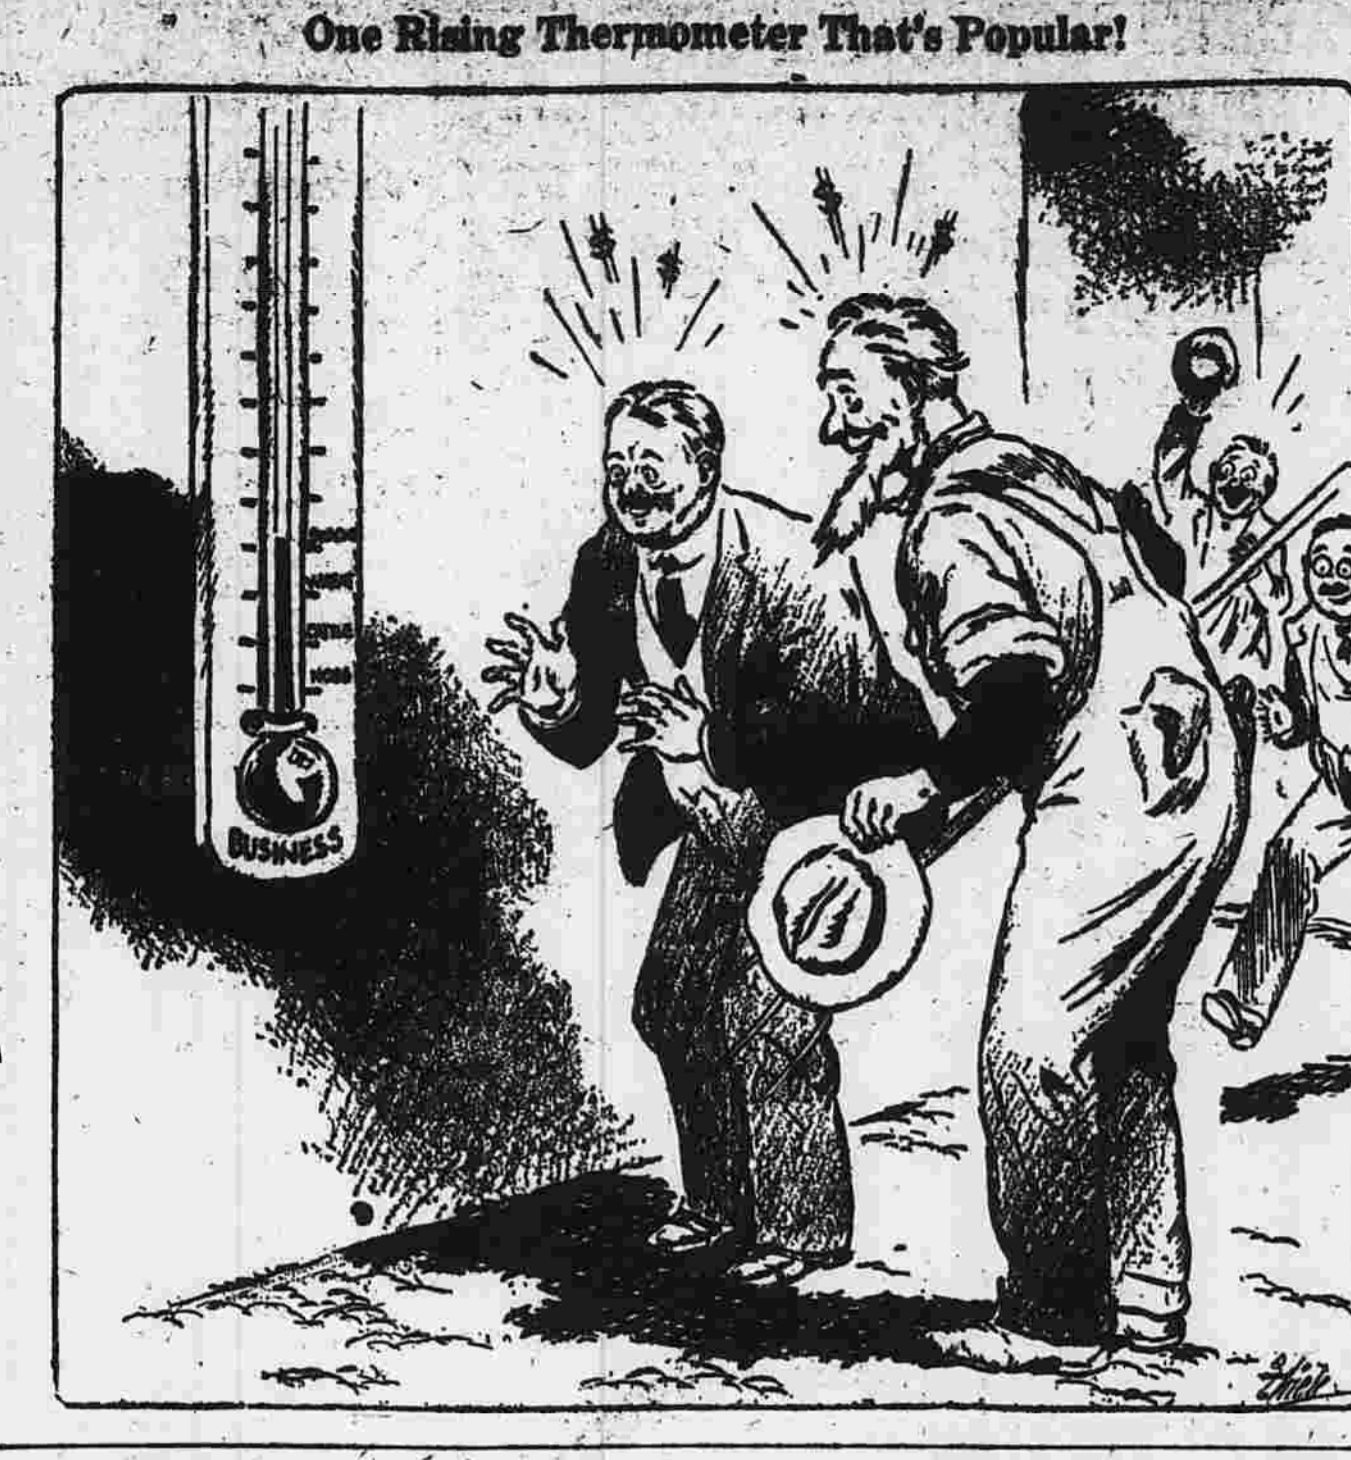

"Not at all. This is the first time I've listened to his playing without having to applaud."

MEDICINE BALL STOPS 'HINK'
 Cincinnati.—(AP)—Tossing a 6-pound medicine ball 500 times a day, the last 50 times from a position flat on his back, worked wonders for Bob Asby, Cincinnati catcher. Asby had a "hink" in his throwing arm which has now disappeared. As a result he will give Ernest Lombardi some catching relief.

EXPLODER DIES
 Prague, Czechoslovakia, Aug. 5.—(AP)—Wenzel Voitek, who shared the danger and hardships of Admiral Richard B. Byrd's expedition to the South Pole, met his death yesterday in a rowing pit on the Elbe.

His boat capsized and Voitek, stunned when his head struck the gunwale, was unable to save himself.

MARVELOUS MANHATTAN
 BY WILLIAM GAINES

New York.—A ginger ale "set up" for 35 cents, sandwiches for 15 and coffee for a dime are offered in a unique Greenwich Village night club. With these revolutionary prices, the proprietors say they are making money.

The clientele is not from rough-neck ranks, either. It is composed of Villagers who manage to keep themselves washed, even though many of them are far from flush. These patrons entertain themselves. Their floor shows are operas, forums, literary discussions, and musicals. But Friday there is "whoopie night" and Saturday "double whoopie night"—when no one is permitted to be serious on any subject from the floor. They dance to a radio, substituted for an orchestra to keep down expenses.

Even on weak nights, when expensive clubs are not making enough to pay the light bill, this place is jammed. The proprietors tell me they expect their profits to hold up, with the requirements except that the minimum bill must be 25 cents, with a 25-cent cover charge added on Saturday night only.

They say they doubt that the experiment would work successfully in any other part of town. It works in the Village because actual Villagers long have wanted such a place where they might get together en masse for sociable evenings.

Most everybody knows and talks to everybody else. So far the up-towners haven't started looking to the place. They may not be encouraged to if the Village trade hangs on.

The evolution of this club is an interesting story.

Cafeteria To Night Club
 A year or so back it was the custom of a little group of artists, writers, and more conversationalists to assemble around the table in a neighborhood cafeteria and discuss weighty matters of art and philosophy until the wee hours.

But the time came when somebody connected with the cafeteria suggested that they might as well have a hall for their discussions.

Paul DeMiko, a writer, formerly an officer in the Austro-Hungarian navy, solved the problem for his friends. He rented a little place on Woodstock street and established a rendezvous. With more room and freedom from the suspicious gaze of cafeteria-going burghers and hausfrau, more Villagers went to Paul DeMiko's small cafe.

Recently DeMiko looked around for still more space. A holey-toilet night club on Eighth street was closed—probably the result of charging too much for too little offered in return. Paul looked at it and discussed a new venture with one of his friends whose last name, oddly enough, corresponds to DeMiko's first.

The friend is Boris Dupont Paul, once a cavalry officer in the imperial Russian army, more recently editor of a financial magazine, and still the operator of an art gallery on Fifty-seventh street.

The two Pauls went into partnership and took over the club property. They are known to about every one in the Village, so all they had to do was pass the word around to get the crowd.

Hostesses in Fajinas
 Lee Harrett, a lecturer, conducts the open forums. My Sigel, a poet, gives oral reviews of books and discusses on poetry. Anyone, even a stranger, can get the floor at any time for sniping or debating.

Fajinas-clad hostesses serve the tables, then sit down and chat with the guests. Several of them are pretty models and show girls, who get a bit of extra change.

HOOPER, ROOSEVELT JUST SHADOW BOXING NOW, BUT FUE WILL FLY LATER.
 By RODNEY DUCHENE
 NEA Service Writer

Washington.—This part of the political season, on the surface, is always devoted to shadow-boxing and getting into position for the campaign.

The campaign cannot be considered officially opened until President Hoover is notified of his re-nomination and delivers his speech of acceptance on Aug. 11. It can hardly be regarded as actually begun until Governor Roosevelt has made his first campaign speech in New Jersey on the 27th. And it won't really be warmed up until around the middle of September when the fur begins to fly.

Lay Groundwork Now
 The candidates meanwhile, make a few vague passes at each other such as Roosevelt and Hoover exchanged in their telegrams about the St. Lawrence power project, but the important preliminary now in progress consist not of such minor public exhibitions but of the intensive efforts of the party managements to lay solid groundwork for themselves and grease the skids for the other fellows.

Hoover, throughout his administration, has seen eye to eye with the important preliminary effort to attract the support of the business men and the politicians of the east. It is especially determined on the part of the Roosevelt leaders because they were led to believe, after the Chicago convention, that Roosevelt's big peril was the enmity of the conservative element which dominates politics, industry and finance in the states which have the largest electoral votes.

Too Many Laughs Mean Extra Worry In Filming Of Hollywood Comedies

Hollywood—Often the big problem in a feature comedy is not the assembling of funny material, but the paring down of excess matter to make the story filmable.

Mack Bennett, who had nearly a dozen different writers laboring over his new feature, "Hypnotized," for months, found this situation apparent to an exceptional degree.

In fact several large water sequences involving sharks, whales and a lion, already completed in advance, may not be used in the final production, but will be seen, no doubt, in future comedy releases.

Virtually all comedians, notably Chaplin and Harold Lloyd, find themselves in the same predicament and are forced to discard much funny stuff for footage that is unusable.

Meanwhile, "Hypnotized" is under way, inaugurated with a trip to Eisenstadt, which gave Charlie Mack (of Moran and) a chance to get married. So everybody, especially Mack, is happy at last.

Especially, too, it might add, the silver-haired Bennett himself, who works harder than anyone else on his lot, and is toying like a fond parent with each scene of this pet brain-child of his.

Health and Diet Advice
 By Dr. Frank McCoy

SOME EXPLANATIONS ABOUT TUBERCULOSIS
 Tuberculosis was at one time the most dreaded disease in the civilized world both because of its frequency and because of the number of deaths it caused. Tuberculosis is still the most prevalent disease in the world but the death rate is decreasing gradually but surely each year. However, there is still an appalling needless loss of life from this disease which could easily be prevented if the fundamental causes were better understood.

What is the meaning of the gradual decrease in tuberculosis? In the first place the onset of this disease is usually very gradual and one has time to observe its steady approach and, before it is too late, use measures for bringing about a normal state of health. The fear of tuberculosis has been so instilled in the minds of people that at the first approaching signs of pulmonary tuberculosis, at least, such as the persistent cough, night sweats, increased weakness, etc., the sufferer is frightened into taking better care of himself.

An encouraging thing about tuberculosis is that it is almost always curable unless very advanced indeed. The drawback is that the cure requires much time and great caution on the patient's part, even after the disease is arrested, a period of several years of careful living is necessary before the cure is completed. Tuberculosis of the lungs is the most frequent type, but this disease may attack any part of the body and frequently affects the bones, and central nervous system.

The fact that tuberculosis is easily cured is proven by the examination of adults, as almost everyone who lives in cities with new children tuberculosis lesions in the lungs. It has been estimated that 75 to 80 percent of everyone has at some time or other contracted tuberculosis and in most cases the vitality of the body was able to overcome the disease even without the affected one's knowledge. Usually, the disease is fairly advanced before it becomes noticeable enough to alarm the one who has it. With our present tuberculin treatment, a diseased patient will begin his treatment as soon as it is recognized, recovery should take place in almost every case provided the patient is willing and able to follow directions implicitly. There is very little fear of adults catching the disease.

At one time tuberculosis was believed to be very infectious for everyone, but doctors now realize that few people except children are infected. A child has not had time to build up an immunity against this disease and consequently is very susceptible and should be kept away from the vicinity of anyone who has tuberculosis. Adults do not have to be so cautious, but, of course, any discharge from a tuberculosis lesion or any sputum raised should be destroyed by burning in order to prevent a spread of the tubercular bacilli. Once children are infected the germs may remain in the body for years with no perceptible symptoms until the conditions are ripe for the development of the disease or until the body has been weakened by other causes.

The virulence of the tubercular bacilli is very low and I am convinced that the bacillus could do no harm in the human body unless the body has been previously weakened by certain conditions.

I have had practical experience in diagnosing and treating thousands of cases of pulmonary and other types of tuberculosis, and I am convinced that these fundamental causes must be present before the disease can obtain a foothold.

In tomorrow's article I will explain some of the underlying causes of tuberculosis.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
 (Loose Cough)
 Question: Mrs. W. writes: "My little girl has had a kind of loose cough for about four years. The cough is in the morning and in the evening. I would like to know what causes it, and what would cure it."
 Answer: Your child is probably suffering from bronchitis or some kind of catarrhal disorder of the upper throat or nose. Try having her eliminate all highly starchy foods, sugars and fats for a few weeks and see if she does not improve.

(Cucumbers and Ice Cream)
 Question: Mr. Orville T. writes: "While at the beach I saw a small girl eating a large cucumber, peel and all, and in the other hand was an ice cream cone. Can that combination be eaten without causing illness?"
 Answer: Ice cream may be used in combination with any non-starchy vegetable, or with any fruit, provided no starchy food is used at the same time. Cucumbers and milk or ice cream make a good combination, but, when bread is added, there is liable to be serious digestive disturbance from the bad combination.

(Synovitis)
 Question: F. K. writes: "I will be exceedingly grateful if you will kindly inform me of the cause, symptoms and cure of synovitis."
 Answer: Inflammation of the synovial membrane may develop in any joint. It would be necessary to know the cause. Such disorders often come from injuries, and need to be treated with hot towels or the application of a deep therapy lamp or treated with the diathermy current.

A BOOK A DAY
 BY BRUCE CATTON
 SAYS REAL TEST OF RED RULE IS STILL TO COME.

The fate of Communism in Russia, says Wald Frank, is not bound up with the success or failure of the Five-Year or any other plan. The real test of Communism will come when the task of providing every Russian with enough food and clothing, a suitable lodging and a fair share of life's luxuries has been accomplished. Then, and then only, can it be discovered whether or not Communism is a false philosophy or a way of living that will sweep the world.

Mr. Frank makes these remarks in "Dawn in Russia," a record of observations made during a recent tour of the land—and, incidentally, one of the very best commentaries on the situation there that has yet been printed.

What Russia has now, Mr. Frank points out, is not real Communism; it is a species of state Socialism, operating under abnormal conditions, striving frantically to build the foundations for a Communist society. Only after all the industrialization and collectivization programs have been completed will the ground be ready for Communism's real test.

Meanwhile, Mr. Frank finds much of interest in the Russian scene.

He sees a land in which hardship and discomfort are horribly prevalent, but in which nobody really seems to mind them; a land where the profit motive has been almost entirely eradicated; a land in which apparent chaos provides the best of all forcing grounds for communal effort. It would be hard to praise his book too highly, and if you start to read it I am sure you will finish it.

"Dawn in Russia," published by Scribner's sells for $1.25.

Do You Remember?
 One Year Ago Today—Charley Kocis of Detroit, unknown 16-year-old amateur golfer forced Tommy Armour, British Open and former National Open champion, to sink a 46-foot putt on the 72d green to gain a tie at 288 for the Michigan Open title at Grand Rapids.

Five Years Ago Today—Chance Shot, J. E. Widener's Fair Play colt, rated best of the 2-year-olds, and Anita Peabody, Mrs. John D. Anita Peabody ran third behind former Queen and Bateau in the Miss Schuylerville Stakes at five and a half furlongs.

STAR REACHES SWEDEN Stockholm, Sweden, Aug. 5.—(AP)—A hundred policemen, reinforced by strong-armed dockhands, were required to restrain thousands of ardent admirers of Greta Garbo when the liner Gripsholm arrived here this noon.

True to the legend of elusiveness, Garbo did not make an appearance until long after the gangplank was lowered. Swedish and American flags flew from the pier in the great popular welcome and dozens of small craft swarmed around the vessel as she steamed up the harbor.

Her non-appearance gave rise to report that she had left the Gripsholm at sea and come in by speed boat, but a quarter of an hour after every one else had left the ship Miss Garbo came ashore.

Presidential Pets Washington, Aug. 5.—(AP)—The President and Mrs. Hoover are receiving considerable pleasure nowadays from friendly pets.

A little Norwegian elk hound "Weeje" and "Pat," a German shepherd, along with two elk hound puppies are the only animals of the White House—a considerable reduction from the previous administration when three dogs, two feline cats, a cat, several rabbits, two lion cubs and a pet squirrel variously were quartered at the executive mansion.

Guests returning recently from a week-end at President Hoover's Rapidan Camp in the Virginia mountains reported that "Pat" and "Weeje" had caused excitement when both suddenly yelped and streaked from some brush into the open.

Lawrence Richey, Mr. Hoover's secretary, and Captain Joel T. Boone, the White House physician, fearing a snake might be in there, armed themselves with sticks and beat into the brush. The fanger proved to be a beehive, however, and both were stung.

GLADIOLUS SOCIETY SHOW IN HARTFORD THIS WEEK

Annual Exhibit To Be Held In Old State House Thursday and Friday, Aug. 11 and 12.

Hartford, Aug. 8.—The old historic State House on Main street in Hartford, will become a veritable shrine of beauty when the Connecticut Gladiolus Society holds its seventh annual flower show next Thursday and Friday, August 11 and 12. Limited space makes it impossible for the society to make a show as spectacular as some, yet the quality of the huge display is expected to be unequalled.

More than $300 in cash prizes will be offered for the best exhibits and specimens of this favorite late summer flower. Other prizes include numerous bulbs which have produced prize winning flowers. The Seabank Nursery Challenge Trophy, a huge cup awarded annually for the most artistic expression of baskets, vases and coronas of gladioli, is the favorite prize which draws keen competition each year.

Mrs. J. R. Lewis of Hartford, was last year's winner of this trophy. There is no admission charge to the exhibition as the show is sponsored by and for those who appreciate the beauty which this flower has added to practically every garden in Connecticut. Upon entering the State House, the visitor will be greeted by a fragrance and a mass of color which at first seems almost unbelievable. The commercial plants will be found to be the most colorful while the individual displays in baskets, vases and jars will show up the larger and more popular varieties. Clear colors and shades will be present in every conceivable plant and will vie with each other for the most favored content.

Competition in the color classes is the joy of every gladiolus fan. Eighty such classes are offered this year and competition is sure to be keen for the Connecticut Gladiolus Society numbers among its members many who annually import the choicest bulbs from Australia, New Zealand, Scotland, Canada and Continental Europe.

Officers of the society are President, Arthur Adams, a former resident here, and his son, Curtis, of Whittinsville, Mass., have returned from a trip to Boise, Idaho, where they spent two or three months. Mr. White, who suffered rheumatic troubles, was much benefited by the climate and expects to return to his home in the winter. They visited friends at Burroughs Hill and vicinity while here.

Felix Count Luckner, Countess Luckner, Gorzum Borghum, Jr., son of the noted sculptor, and Gosta Engstrom, secretary, from the yacht "Sirenia," stopped at the Sky Line Camp on Post Hill, when on their way from New York City to Waverly, Mass., spending the night Thursday at the tiny cabins owned by Ludius W. Robinson, partaking of a leisurely breakfast Friday morning, and motoring on to Waverly where Count Luckner was scheduled to make an address. The Count was a conspicuous figure in the World War in the naval forces, fighting against the Allies. He was sometimes known as the "Sea Devil." Sky Line Camp is on the highest elevation anywhere about here, and commands a remarkable view of the surrounding countryside. It is located on the site of the old toll gate on the Willimantic road close by the boundary line between Hebron and Columbus. The pump which is operated by the road side, marks the old toll gate well used in turnpike days for the refreshment of man or beast. It is still the best well on Post Hill, never going dry.

The selection of the town will be in charge of an auction sale at the Dr. Roath's. The physician was shot down in front of a home where he had been summoned to treat a patient yesterday.

PROBE PLANE CRASH

Springfield, N. S., Aug. 8.—(AP)—Coroner's jury was called today to investigate a fatal airplane crash, in which Miss Marjorie Horton, 17-year-old daughter of Rupert Horton, was killed.

She was killed last night when a plane piloted by Ross Carr of Cornwall, Ont., fell at North Wallace, struck a cottage and burst into flames.

Carr was seriously injured, but braved the flames to lift the girl out of the cockpit.

His clothing caught fire. Finding the girl dead, he left her on the grass, ran 300 yards to the beach and jumped into the water.

Mrs. G. A. Sproule, a sister of Miss Horton, was burned about the face and hands when she tried to beat out the flames in the girl's clothing. She occupied the cottage which the plane hit.

Her husband, Dr. G. A. Sproule, treated her and Carr. Carr had a broken jaw, severe cuts and burns, but was reported out of danger today.

LUMBER YARD BURNS

Timmins, Ont., Aug. 8.—(AP)—The Fisherton Lumber Company's yard today was a heap of blackened debris, as a result of a spectacular fire which broke out Saturday and completely destroyed 5,000,000 feet of lumber. Officials of the company estimated the damage to be $150,000.

It was believed a spark, from yard machinery, ignited the lumber. Timmins Fire Department, numbering 60 men, worked steadily to prevent the flames from spreading. When it became apparent that water could not extinguish the blaze, the fire was left to burn itself out.

SHAW CRITICIZED London, Aug. 8.—(AP)—Adverse London criticism of George Bernard Shaw's new play gave the veteran playwright a Shavian laugh today.

"As usual," he said, "the majority of the critics have not been equal to the occasion. I cannot help being about fifty years ahead of them."

The play was first seen in England at Malvern festival Saturday. The critic's views were typified by the criticism of the Sunday Express, which said:

"It is Shaw's despairing effort to be modern and it puts him, a dusty relic, forever on the shelf."

FINDS BODY IN BAG New York, Aug. 8.—(AP)—Joseph Miller, returning home at 3 o'clock this morning, stumbled over something in a burial bag which had been tossed into the middle of the street.

It was a dead man. Police found the man, about 85 years old, well dressed and well groomed, had been stabbed 20 times through the heart, apparently with an ice pick.

A clothline was drawn tightly about his neck. The knees were doubled to the chin, and bound tightly, with the arms strapped to the sides.

HOPE OF CIVILIZATION

Oxford, Eng., Aug. 8.—(AP)—Eminent lawyers from all parts of the world issued today a warning of danger to the present world order unless a regime of peace is definitely established. Lord Balfour, borough, president of the International Law Association, issued the warning in a speech before a conference of that organization. "We will be upon our own heads," said he, "if we accept the complacent conclusion that the world order as we know it will still go on unshaken, or perhaps a little modified, in the possibility of maintaining the occurrence of war is diminished to an empty dream."

"Unless a new world order for peace is definitely established, it is too much to say that the western world order may pass into the hands of the east."

Sir John Simon, the foreign secretary, spoke no less emphatically. "World peace," he declared, "is the only hope for the survival of civilization."

RIGHT TURNED TO DEATH Chicago, Aug. 8.—(AP)—Eight persons perished in two fires in Chicago and nearby Waukegan Sunday.

Two Chicago firemen were killed and two seriously injured when the wall of a warehouse as which they were fighting a fire collapsed. Six men died in a rooming house fire at Waukegan.

Thirty other roomers escaped from the Waukegan blaze, the cause of which was not determined.

Officials Make Queer Blunder In The Steeplechase

RACE TIGHTENS UP IN THE NATIONAL

Daily Five Games Between First and Fifth Place; Leaders Drop Two To Braves; Yanks Far In Front In American.

By HERBERT W. BARKER

The New York Yankees continue to coast far out in front of the rest of the American League pack but there are prospects of another tight duel in the National.

Where the Yanks lead by eight and one-half games with no sign of a slump, the National League race has tightened up to a point where only five games separate the league leading Pittsburgh Pirates and the fifth place Brooklyn Dodgers.

Pittsburgh dropped a double bill to the Boston Braves yesterday 2-1 and the Cardinals have now dropped nine games in a row since opening their eastern invasion with six victories out of seven games against the New York Giants.

Cubs Advance

The Chicago Cubs holding second place picked up a full game of the leaders by defeating two with the Giants and now trail by only a game and a half. Lou Warren, sensational Cub rookie, stopped the Giants in the opener and won 8 to 2. Waite Hoyt scattered eight hits as the Giants won the opener 5-1.

Brooklyn's Cincinnati also split two games the Dodgers taking the first 6-1 and the Reds the second 9-5 as Ernie Lombardi drove in five runs.

The Cleveland Indians whipped the Washington Senators 7-4 and 6-3 and moved into second place, two percentage points ahead of the Philadelphia Athletics in the American League. The A's got no better than an even break with the White Sox as Ted Lyons outpitched Lefty Grove in the opener 4-1.

Freddie Alexander held the Sox to three hits to win the second game 1-0.

The Yanks meanwhile battered out 29 hits against the St. Louis Browns pitching and won two games, 11-0 and 9-4.

Johnny Beckwith homered with one on the seventh gave Detroit a 3-1 verdict over the Boston Red Sox.

LOCAL LEGION AGAIN BEATS STAFFORD NINE

The Manchester Legion ball team won their eighth game of the season Saturday when they defeated the Legion team from Stafford Springs by a score of 10-1.

Their previous opponent Manchester emerged victorious by a score of 3 and 1.

Manchester's new infield combination which has been working wonders lately pulled off two snappy double plays Saturday. Fred Murphy had the second baseman in a crouch well in hand allowing but five scattered hits and walking but one.

Young Eddie Raguskus proved to be a valuable man when it comes to hitting in the pinches. With two out and two men on base E. Raguskus stepped up to the plate and connected for a single which brought in the two runs. Dempsey, Stafford Springs star center fielder, was injured when he was struck on the knee by a poorly batted ball.

A. Raguskus, Smith and Katchewek were the big guns for Manchester. This trio made six out of the total eight hits made during the game. Dempsey and Lorenzetti were the outstanding players for Stafford Springs.

GREEN IN VICTORY OVER COLORED NINE

Defeats Giants, 7-5, At Jarvis Grove Yesterday; Collect 11 Hits, Allow only 6.

The Manchester Green team continued their winning streak with a win over the Colored Giants Sunday at Jarvis Grove, 7-5. The Giants scored their runs in the first and final frames, the Green tallying enough to win in the first five innings, two in the third and four in the fifth.

Grandi and Viot who divided the pitching assignment for the Green struck out 16 Giants between them, eight by Grandi and seven by Viot. Borello and Hutchinson for the Green were the heavy hitters, getting three out of four hits apiece. The Green collected 11 hits, Borello and Robinson and the Giants were only able to tally six hits off the Green hurlers.

SWEDEN CAPTURES WRESTLING BOUTS

Wins Four Individual Titles In Greco-Roman Class; The Other Winners.

Los Angeles, Aug. 8.—(AP)—Winning four individual titles, Sweden today held the Greco-Roman team wrestling championship of the 1932 Olympic games.

Germany, Italy and Finland each captured one. American grapplers did not compete in this style of wrestling, which permitted holds only above the waist.

Champions crowned are: Bantamweight—Jakob Brendel, Germany.

Featherweight—Giovanni Goszi, Italy.

Lightweight—Eric Malmberg, Sweden.

Waterweight—Ivar Johansson, Sweden.

Middweight—Vaino Kohkinen, Finland.

Light Heavyweight—Rudolf Svensson, Sweden.

Heavyweight—Carl Westergren, Sweden.

Kohkinen successfully defended his 1928 title. Johansson became a double winner, having won the middleweight catch-as-catch-can championship last week. Johansson, a Swedish policeman, passed up his victory ceremony at the Olympic stadium last Thursday to take a reducing bath and he shaved off 11 pounds to make the waterweight limit in the Greco-Roman class.

Westergren, a bus driver in Sweden, established somewhat of a record in winning the heavyweight title. He captured the Olympic middleweight crown in 1920 and the light-heavy belt in 1924. Four years ago he was injured in a heavyweight match and was forced to withdraw.

Only Woman in Olympic City

This may hurt your pride, girls, to know that Olympic Village at Los Angeles, where the athletic teams of nations competing in the Olympics are quartered, is barred to all save one woman. Mrs. Jean Bewick, shown here, Mrs. Bewick is director of house services at the village. One of her duties is checking laundry, as she is shown here with Tom Law, an employee. There may be solace to the girls in the fact that it was found necessary to have one woman around, anyway.

INTENSE INTEREST IN MCCLUSKEY RACE

Herald Office Swamped With Phone Calls On Steeplechase; Joe Finishes Third.

For a period of three hours Saturday night, a battery of telephones in The Herald office rang continuously as hundreds of interested persons sought information on the results of the 3,000 meter steeplechase final, in which Manchester's famous contribution to the tenth Olympics was a competitor.

As early as 7:45 o'clock the telephones began to ring steadily, although it had been announced previously that the result would not be obtained before 9 o'clock. However, the Associated Press bureau in New Haven received a flash report at 8:15 o'clock, which was immediately flashed to The Herald office.

The report stated that Iso-Hollo, the Finnish star, had won the event by 75 yards ahead of Tom Evanson of Great Britain, who placed second, and McCluskey to the tap by two yards to win second place.

It was nearly fifteen minutes later before additional information was obtained, containing the starting fact that the runners had traversed an entire lap over the regular distance, without knowledge of the judges and other officials. Iso-Hollo's time for 3,400 meters was given as 10:38, far above his Olympic record time of 9:14.6, set in the trials.

This information made it much more difficult to answer the telephone calls which were now swamping The Herald office, as it was impossible to give much detail. In most cases it was merely stated that McCluskey had placed third. When a request was made for other details, the meagre facts were imparted.

From 10:30 o'clock on, most of the callers desired to know whether or not the race would be run over again, which information was not available. Bulletins were placed in store windows at prominent spots along Main street and news of the race spread rapidly through Manchester.

Most callers expressed regret that McCluskey did not win the event, many were surprised that he did so well, and all expressed the wish that the steeplechase would be re-run to give the local boy another chance, believing that he could place better than third.

When notified of the result of the race, Joe's mother, Mrs. John McCluskey, of Foster street, was more concerned over her son's physical condition. "Poor boy," she said, "it must have been a very hard race."

Refuse to Run Again
After a long conference the runners decided against accepting an offer to run the race over again. It would have been necessary to run the steeplechase yesterday, since the track and field championships were completed Sunday. It was felt that it would be too soon to attempt another such grueling test.

McCluskey was accorded a thunderous ovation for his sportsmanship in accepting third place, and officials also added their praise. As the records stand today, McCluskey remains the greatest steeplechaser in the United States.

McCluskey was also congratulated by the British star, who placed fourth, George Bally of Great Britain was fifth, Glen Dawson of the United States was sixth, Walter Pritchard of the United States was seventh, Giuseppe Lippi of Italy was eighth, Verner Tolonen of Finland was ninth, and Nello Bartolini of Italy was tenth.

FRANCIMORE-HORNER ON SANDY BEACH CARD

Meet In Feature Bout At Crystal Lake Tomorrow Night; Ten All Star Matches.

Jimmy Francimore the rugged lightweight from Thompsonville meets Jackie Horner of Broad Brook in the feature bout at Sandy Beach Arena, Crystal Lake tomorrow night. This bout will head a card of ten all star bouts featuring the leading spongers from Connecticut and Massachusetts.

The star bout between Horner and Francimore will be a return bout as a few weeks ago at the Arena Francimore lost a close decision to Horner. The Carpet City boy has been clamoring for a return and is out to turn the tables on his clashes with the mill towns blonde tomorrow night. Both are hard hitters and willing mixers which means a battle not to be missed in store for the fan.

Another bout that will provide action is that slated between Mike Murphy the East Hampton midget and Young Grifo of East Hartford. Little need be said as to the ability of either boy as they have attracted the house of fans by their following score: Points, 28; handicaps, total 87; medal, 78.

John Williams was second with the following score: Points, 28; handicaps, total 86; medal, 80.

Judge William S. Hyde defeated John McMahon in a third round match of the Chamber of Commerce tournament Saturday afternoon. The score was 3 and 2. Dr. Boyd and Harry Benson met in the next match and then Harold C. Alvord and Fred J. Benda played and the winner of the Dr. Boyd-Harry Benson match will meet Judge Hyde.

The victory of the 30 year Argentine whose swift pace broke the hearts of a half dozen favorites, carried him home 300 yards ahead of Sam Ferris, Briton veteran, S. Frelander, another Briton, two Argentinians and an American were next at the line of finish. This race capped the climax of eight days of athletic competition unparalleled in world history.

Still More Events
There is many an Olympic battle still to be fought along a rapidly widening front, with California's new engaged in the defense of American eight oared honors, the Yankee honors sailing brisk skies, and U. S. swimmers challenged already by Canada's steadily rising stars. It will be a long time before the thrills of breaking records, and the official "hotter" of the track and field championships are forgotten. There now has been a combined athletic show for men and women like it. Furthermore from the outset not only were the spectators to be made acquainted with the sport, but the spectators forgot all about the main event during the race but were completely good to watch the last of Nurmi's Olympic antics with the record state. What a race! There have been none yesterday in the Marathon is something else a stunner. The British runner, Fred Lonsdale, was the only one to finish at his

Racers Forced To Run An Extra 440 Yards

McCluskey Really Was Second At End of Correct Distance But He Refuses To Take Position From Tom Evanson, the Great Britain Runner.

A blunder unparalleled in the annals of athletic history brought an unsatisfactory ending to the 3,000 meter steeplechase on the seventh day of the tenth Olympic games Saturday afternoon, and as a result Joseph P. McCluskey, the Manchester boy who rose to the heights of running fame in three years, finished third in the event behind Iso-Hollo of Finland and Evanson of Great Britain.

A substitute lap scorer was responsible for the error which caused the runners to negotiate 440 meters, or one lap over the regular distance of 3,000 meters. Volmar Iso-Hollo proved his right to the title of the world's greatest steeplechaser by traveling the 3,440 meters in 10:33.4.

When he passed the legitimate finish, Iso-Hollo was clocked in 9:18.4, a time that was over his previous mark of 9:14.8. However, the Finnish star did not begin his sprint until the extra lap. When he finished the 75 yards ahead of Tom Evanson of Great Britain, who earned second place by winning a thrilling battle with McCluskey, who finished but two yards behind him.

Little Tom Evanson was too much for McCluskey. He was running second at the end of 2,000 meters but the additional 440 meters proved beyond his strength and his usual finishing drive was lacking. McCluskey led Evanson in the back stretch but the British star, who was the first to 75 yards ahead of Tom Evanson of Great Britain, who earned second place by winning a thrilling battle with McCluskey, who finished but two yards behind him.

SENSE AND NONSENSE

THE MEASURE OF MAN

Q—How did he die? —But—
 A—What did he give?
 Q—What did he gain? —But—
 A—What did he give?
 These are the units to measure the worth of a man, as a man regardless of birth.
 Q—What was his church?
 A—What was his creed?
 Q—Has he befriended those really in need?
 A—What did the sketch in the newspaper say?
 Q—But "How many were sorry when he passed away?"

Congress spends about $1,000 a week printing speeches that never are delivered, and about three times that much in printing speeches that should not have been delivered.

Harold—Where did you learn to kiss, dear?
 Gladys—Dragging heavy malted milks up a straw.

Efficiency, Economy, Energy, Endurance. Apply these. It's now—they lead to Ease later.

Client—I know the evidence is strongly against my innocence, but I have $5,000 to fight the case.
 Lawyer—As your attorney I assure you that you'll never go to prison with that amount of money. And he didn't, he went there broke.

People are now being urged to become thrifty, no doubt on the theory that they will again be able to make some bogus investments.

Mr. Padget—You must be saving. Think of the future. If I should die, where would you be?
 Mrs. Padget—I'd be all right. Where would you be?

If we had but one prayer to offer it would be this:
 Oh God when we commence to die from the chin up, may it please you to cause us to immediately die from the chin down.

Perplexed Male Shopper—I want to buy a camisole or a casserole. I'm not sure which is the correct name.
 The Clerk—It all depends, sir, on what kind of a chicken you want to put in it.

Cohen—My clothing store! My clothing store!
 Friend—What happened to your clothing store—burn down?
 Cohen—No, I set on a nail. My clothing's tore! My clothing's tore!

Young Man, figure out some definite place to go in life. The world will step aside and let you pass if you know where you are going.

Wife (on their return from the party)—Do you realize what you did?
 Husband—No; but I'll admit it was wrong. What was it?

Landlady—There is a hole burned in this sofa cover, and I expect you to pay for it.
 New Lodger—Certainly not. I don't smoke, so you certainly can't blame me for it.

Landlady—What impudence! You are the first lodger for three years who has refused to pay for that hole.

QUESTION VALIDITY OF PARTY CHANGE PAPERS

Registrars Hold Up Applications of Voters When All Are Signed in Same Handwriting.

While it was announced Saturday that the registrars of voters had recorded only four changes of party affiliation for primary registration purposes, it now develops that these were not the only applications for new registration received. A number of others came in but were rejected by the registrars because there was no assurance that they were legitimate applications. It was noticed by the registrars that several names of voters apparently applying for a change of registration from one party to another had been signed to applications in the same handwriting. All such applications as were not in proper form were therefore held up. The registrars intend to take legal advice as to the validity of applications obviously not signed by the applicants. The matter under consideration are signed to applications for transfer from the Republican to the Democratic primary lists.

TOWN SWIMMING MEET AUGUST 20

Eddie Lithwinski and Anne Arson To Defend Their Titles At Globe Hollow.

The annual town championship swimming meet will be held at Globe Hollow, Saturday afternoon, August 20, it was announced today. The program will start at 7:30 o'clock, with Eddie Lithwinski and Miss Anne Arson defending their boys' and girls' title respectively. It is expected that more than 2,000 persons will witness the meet, which consists of two hours of varied and interesting swim events. Raymond Mosser, last year's junior champ, will move into the senior class this year and is expected to provide Lithwinski with plenty of competition; as is Edward Mackley, runner-up to the champion last year. Miss Arson is the outstanding swimmer in Manchester but it is possible that Miss Dorothy Gaylor will furnish her with enough competition to make this part of the meet interesting. Others who participated in the water carnival last Friday evening were Sully Squatrito and Walter Mosser, who did many difficult stunts on the bars, and also Eddie Lithwinski, Eddie Mackley, Ewald Stochols, Frank Sobjoral and Anne Arson performed difficult diving feats that brought much applause from the huge crowd. Those who plan to enter the swimming meet are requested to make their entries at once by calling 5627, the telephone number of the Globe Hollow canteen. Seventeen boys and girls passed their beginners test. The boys were, James Coleman, Victor Tomm, Allen Ferris, Paul Finkbein, James Crough, James Hickey, Harold Symington, Sherwood Goslee, Raymond Peterson, Billy Gallivan, Fred Tedford, William Adamson, Harold Gates, Woodrow Trotter. The All-Time Stars, with such luminaries as Jimmy Leggett, Jimmy Taggart and Dave Addy were victorious in a hectic struggle that was not decided until the last inning, when a single by Bill Leggett, followed by Jimmy Leggett's double brought in two runs to win the game. Other star performers were "Cig" Kittle, young John Leggett and the Phillips twins. The tennis matches were very exciting. CATCH FRUIT THIEF IN ACT, FINED $25

West Middle Turnpike Retailer Found Taking Cases From First National Store.

Max Kramer, of 105 West Middle Turnpike, pleaded guilty to the theft of a case of oranges and one half of a case of lemons from the First National Store, in town court this morning and was fined $25 and costs by Deputy Judge Thomas Ferguson. Prosecutor Charles R. Hathaway told the court that the First National store manager at 302 1/2 Main street had missed fruit at various times, and a watch was maintained for several mornings to try and surprise the thief at his early morning game. Superintending Policeman James P. Heron saw Kramer, who is a local fruit and vegetable retailer, drive up to the sidewalk and take the cases of fruit at 5 o'clock this morning. He followed him to the Center and down Center street, overhauling him under the street cases, which had been previously marked. The cases of fruit were valued at $8.94. Chief of Police Samuel Gordon suspended Kramer's peddling license immediately upon his conviction. Kramer denied the charges at the Globe Hollow water carnival Friday. Antony Krusinski, 40, of 29 East Main street, Rockville, paid $10 and costs for a Sunday night spree. He was found in the woods at the other end of Henry street, drunk, by Sergeant John McGilton at midnight last night, after residents in the section complained to police. Henry Savario, of 125 Ponango street, Port Chester, N. Y., charged with permitting a minor to operate a motor vehicle was not able to appear for trial this morning. Savario allowed Frank Sarno, 15, of 49 Pearl street, Port Chester, to drive his car which was involved in an accident Saturday night at 6:30 on Tolland Turnpike when in attempting to pass another car, the boy crashed into a utility pole, damaging the car and injuring the owner so severely he could not appear in court. Young Sarno came all the way from Port Chester, N. Y., a distance of 107 miles in order to appear in court this morning. The motor vehicle violation in this case was charged against the owner of the car who permitted a minor to drive. William Dalton of the Dalton Radio Store, has returned to business after two weeks spent in Maine with the Connecticut unit of the state police, which was in that state for a two week's encampment.

PLATE GLASS IMPERILED BY OLD TIME RUNAWAY

Ice Wagon Bore On Wild Rampage Nearly Missing Automobiles, Show Windows.

The Main street business area was treated to that novelty, a runaway, Saturday afternoon—one with thrills. A delivery wagon horse, owned by the Foley Brook Ice Company was being unhitched at the Bisell street stables of the company when it took fright and bolted, taking the wagon with it. One of the shafts had been unlatched and as the animal ran down Bisell toward main the loose shaft flailed it at every jump, frightening the horse into a frenzy. The runaway barely missed several parked automobiles on Bisell street, swung around into Main street with a broad left turn, dragged the thundering wagon onto the sidewalk through the narrow space between a pole and a parked car and became entangled with the lowered awning at Kamy's Music store. It was plunging frantically and threatening to crash through the plate glass windows of the store when John Fitzgerald of the State Service Station across the street arrived on a hot sprint, grabbed the bride and subdued the animal.
