

BUSINESS ORDERED TO HELP RECOVERY

Leaders Warned If They Do Not Act Quickly Themselves Government Will Take Over the Job.

New York, July 6.—(AP)—A government spokesman bluntly warned American business today that if it fumbles the opportunity for self-government under the National Recovery Act...

His warning message was contained in a speech to the Merchants' Association of New York in which he expounded anew the policy of the recovery administration...

There is no choice presented to American business, he said, between intelligently planned and controlled industrial operations and a return to the gold plated anarchy that masqueraded as rugged individualism.

There is only the choice presented between private and public selection of the directors of industry. If the privately elected boards of directors...

He assured his audience it was not his desire nor the purpose of the administration to politically socialize industry, but that this could not be avoided if business failed to do its part.

There can be no honorable exit, he said, for the slacker who wastes these precious moments with doubting and debate—who paralyzes the national purpose with legal arguments and appeals to prejudice.

There exists no constitutional right to do anything which is forbidden by this law. There is no constitutional right to compete unfairly; and there is no business competition which is more harmful to all the people than the competition of low wages and more hours, which the National Recovery Act seeks particularly to eliminate.

PARLEY PROBLEMS STILL UNSOLVED

General Review of What Was Expected When Delegates Convened in London.

By Associated Press. Dreams of an economic Utopia wherein fairly-priced goods would move freely and there would be few problems of debts and unbalanced currencies were brought to the world economic conference just 24 days ago by delegates from all parts of a suffering world.

Most of the European delegation was ready to abandon this huge assemblage, which in the words of the League of Nations' preparatory commission, was called to seek a comprehensive program of world reconstruction.

But from the start, the first point on the preparatory commission's agenda, the gold standard, was the stumbling block.

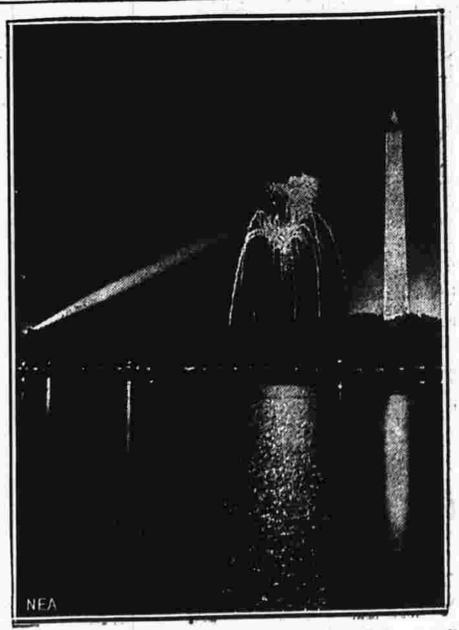

There is a brief outline of what the principal countries hoped—or at least were said to hope at the start—was accomplished.

SENATORS TOLD OF BIG PROFITS MADE IN STOCK

Cleveland Capitalist Sold at $170 a Share Stock Which Cost $52.50 Several Years Earlier.

Washington, July 6.—(AP)—Frank E. Taplin, Cleveland capitalist, told Senate investigators today much of the stock he sold to Pennrod Corporation in 1929 for $170 a share cost $52.50 several years earlier.

The stock in question was 222,930 shares of Pittsburgh and West Virginia Inc. sold to the Pennrod Corporation, Pennsylvania Railroad holding company, and had been accumulated over a period of years.

The entire block represented 73 per cent of the outstanding stock of the Pittsburgh and West Virginia, and Taplin said most of it was accumulated through a syndicate he formed in 1923.

Washington, July 6.—(AP)—Frank E. Taplin, of Cleveland, appeared before Senate investigators today to tell where he got a big block of Pittsburgh and West Virginia railroad stock he sold to the Pennrod Corporation in 1929 for higher than market prices.

The investigating committee gathered for the first time today to question Taplin, who failed to appear last week during the regular hearings.

Taplin said he was ready to give the committee anything it wanted. The hearing attracted little public attention, few spectators being present despite a comfortably cool day.

Chairman Fletcher of the committee presided, other Senators on hand being Republicans, Townsend of Delaware and Goldsborough of Maryland.

Brooksville, Fla., July 6.—(AP)—National Guardsmen hurried to Toole lake prison camp today in a determined offensive to smash an armed mutiny.

But Monetary and Tariff Matters Will Be Excluded; Decision Comes After Furious Battle and Is Victory for Sec. Hull—Gold Bloc Nations Favored Formal Conclusion of Conference.

London, July 6.—(AP)—The world economic conference will continue but monetary and tariff matters will be excluded, the steering committee of the parley decided this evening.

The decision came after a furious battle and was a victory for Cordell Hull, American secretary of state who, on instruction from President Roosevelt, had stoutly insisted that the conference must continue to solve pressing problems.

The morning session of the steering committee lasted three hours and a decision was reached on a proposed program of future activities for the parley.

The conference therefore will continue in session for the discussion of economic questions except tariffs. The agenda for the conference thus was substantially modified from its original form when the conference met June 12.

Official Communiqué. An official communiqué issued on behalf of the steering committee said: "Believing that the bureau (steering committee) is firmly convinced that the work of the conference should be carried on to all possible extent and as rapidly as possible, and in view of recent circumstances that countries on both sides of the Atlantic are obliged to declare that they cannot take part for the moment in any monetary questions."

The rescue of the Economic Conference from suspension comes as a surprise since at a meeting this morning agreed that the participating powers had come to an understanding that a two-months recess should be taken at once.

LAST DITCH BATTLE. The London delegation was waging a furious last-night fight today to save the life of the world economic conference against equally strenuous opposition on the part of the European gold bloc countries which consider that adjournment is necessary.

Acting under new orders from President Roosevelt, Secretary of State Cordell Hull carried the battle into the morning meeting of the steering committee or bureau which had been expected to pronounce the death sentence on the parley without any active opposition.

GIRL'S APPETITE PUZZLES M. D.'s

She Prefers Linoleum, Legs of Tables and Any Painted Article, To Ordinary Diet.

Kingston, Pa., July 6.—(AP)—A two-year old girl, whose name is kept a secret by a puzzled physician, is in a horrid plight because of an unusual appetite for anything painted.

Physicians said the child prefers linoleum, legs of tables, and woodwork generally. She was brought to the hospital suffering from lead poisoning.

Attendees said at first she refused all normal food and chewed off the leg of a painted doll.

Physicians asserted the child's trouble was traced partly to "pic" or an abnormal appetite. They expect her ultimately to acquire a taste for an ordinary diet.

ITALIAN AVIATORS NOW IN ICELAND

Battle Fog Most of Way from Ireland—Next Stop to Be Labrador.

Reykjavik, Iceland, July 6.—(AP)—After winning another fight with fog, 95 Chicago-bound Italian airmen rested today in anticipation of a second ocean hop to Labrador.

The 24 seaplanes arrived in perfect order late yesterday from Londonderry, Northern Ireland, 980 miles from here. They conquered wind and fog—so bad at times they had to fly a few feet above the water.

Their leader, Air Minister Italo Balbo, said he expected to stay several days before continuing the seven day cruise with a flight to Cartwright, Labrador, 1,600 miles distance.

130 Miles An Hour. On yesterday's flight the squadron averaged better than 130 miles an hour, arriving at 5 p. m. (1 p. m., a. s. t.) after leaving Londonderry six hours, 50 minutes before.

Thousands crowded the hills around the landing port of Vatnagarður, near here, to greet the Italians.

RUTH HITS HOMER IN ALL STAR GAME

Nearly 50,000 Fans Witness Contest; Americans Lead 3 to 0 End of Third.

Comiskey Park, Chicago, July 6.—(AP)—Babe Ruth threw the nearly 50,000 spectators in the National and American League show in an uproar this afternoon when he paced a home run high in the right field bleachers, in the third inning, to make the score 3-0 in favor of the American League team.

Previous to the screaming homer by the Babe, Lefty Gomez, team captain of the Boston Red Sox, dropped a single in short right centerfield to score Dykes with the first run of the game.

First Inning, National League: Martin grounded out, Cronin to Gehrig, which went out the innaway. Cronin made a fine running, on handed catch of Klein's short fly.

Second Inning, National League: Hafe's pop fly fell safe for a single back of second as Gehrig missed it after a hard run backwards. Terry hit the first pitch for a single to left, Hafe stopping at second. Berger lined to Dykes who threw to Gehrig to double Berger. Bertall struck out on three pitched balls; missing Gomez's curves by a wide margin.

Second Inning American: Simmons flied high to Barber. Dykes walked. Cronin also walked, stroking on a count of four to one. The National League infield gathered about Hallahan as McGraw waved two pitchers into action in

FUNDS FOR ROADS NOT YET ALLOTTED

State Highway Officials Say No One Knows Yet Where Money Is to Go.

Hartford, July 6.—(AP)—State highway officials were inclined today to take exception to some of the statements of Mayor John W. Murphy of New Haven on the subject of Federal highway funds to come to the state under the National Recovery Act.

Deputy Commissioner Elmer C. Welden stated that neither the highway department or anyone else yet knew how and where the money was to be spent. He mentioned particularly the mayor's assertion that 75 per cent of the $2,864,740 allotted to Connecticut was to be spent at the discretion of Highway Commission John A. Macdonald.

All expenditure, though under the supervision of the highway department, were to be subject to the approval of the Federal Bureau of Public Roads, he said. Counties, populations, unemployment and other factors were to be taken into account in allocating the fund, he added, and 25 per cent was to go to municipalities, 50 per cent to Federal aid roads and 25 per cent to eliminating highway hazards.

COMPLETE PROGRAM FOR STATE PARLEY

Governor Cross to Address Delegates at Dry Convention on July 11.

Hartford, July 6.—(AP)—The state convention which on July 11 will place Connecticut among the states ratifying the repeal of the 18th Amendment will probably close with an address by Governor Cross, according to a program being arranged by Secretary of State John A. Danaher.

The secretary of state, and not the governor, will be the king-pin of the repeal convention, the governor being excluded legally from participating in the proceedings unless invited by the delegates. This invitation, Mr. Danaher said today, most likely will be extended to the chief executive so that he may address the delegates.

COLLECTED $476 FOR FIREWORKS

Committee May Arrange Another Program in Order to Appease Big Crowd.

The last list of contributions to the American Legion fireworks fund was announced today. The total collected reached $476.44 with this final list. Aldo Pagan, treasurer of the fund, told The Herald today that a complete statement of the committee's expenditures would be made as soon as it can be prepared.

Because of the disappointment caused by the delay in setting off the fireworks Tuesday night and the rainstorm that came just as the program started the local committee hopes to be able to make arrangements to give a free program in connection with one of the weekly band concerts soon.

Members of the committee in discussing the program at the Old Post links the night of the Fourth of July were inclined to blame the fireworks concern for the entire trouble. They were not ready with sufficient men to erect the set pieces after the order to proceed was given and they had but one man to set off the pieces. This made it impossible to go on with the show until all the pieces were in the ground.

- Any who have contributed and whose names have not been published are asked to get in touch with Treasurer Aldo Pagan. JIMMY MAHORNEY, 'LUCKY' BAT BOY, SENATORS' CHARM

Cleveland, O.—(AP)—It's out of the bag. The reason the Washington Senators are in their 15-year-old bat boy, Jimmy Mahorney. Suspecting something of the sort, reporters here sought out Jimmy, and here is the evidence they found: Jimmy once won an Ebbetts dog by the turn of a wheel. That makes him lucky, to begin with. And if there isn't something to it, why does Pitcher Alvin Crowder do part of his warm-up before every game by pitching to Mahorney? Mr. Kittle, the team's mascot, says, "Jimmy wears a ten-cent badge, and every time things look bad Pitcher Bill McAfee says, 'Shine it up, Jimmy.'"

RUTH HITS HOMER IN ALL STAR GAME

Los Angeles, July 6—(AP)—(AP)—Skippers of the winged motors which have been roaring over the municipal airport for five days will make their last attempt today to annihilate time in postponed events of the National air races. A ruling of the contest committee, holding that Col. Roscoe Turner technically violated the rules in the 100 mile closed course race Tuesday, gave to the New Orleans pilot, Jimmie Wedell, victory in the event and top prize money. Wedell, plane designer, had earnings of $7,875 for the series of races which started last Saturday with the cross country dash from New York in which Turner set a new east-west record of 1 hour, 30 minutes. Roy Minor of Hollywood was second with $6,677 and Turner third with $6,175. Wedell and Minor still hoped to pick up some $700 apiece in the postponed events. Today's events included speed dashes for women in which Mrs. Martie Bowman, Los Angeles; Mae Hatfield of St. Louis, and Gladys O'Donnell of Long Beach, Calif., will attempt to better the 193 miles an hour set for this meet by Mrs. Bowman. Mrs. Hatfield is co-holder of the women's speed record of 222. Amelia Earhart, trans-Atlantic flier late last night postponed an attempt to set a new trans-continental speed record for her sex as her final salute to the 1933 races. Thunderstorms near Flagstaff, Arizona, led her to put off her try until around midnight. She proposes to stop enroute only at Wichita, Kansas. Ruth Nichols of Rye, N. Y., society aviatrix, may take off on a similar attempt at the same time.

LAUNDRY TOWELS CAUSE DISPUTE

State Board Listens to Arguments Concerning Those Used at the Capitol.

Hartford, July 6—(AP)—The State Board of Finance and Control today passed in its deliberations of when next to meet, to hear a story of laundry towels.

It was one of the most exciting stories told the board members in many weeks and at its conclusion the board voted confidence in Comptroller Anson T. Keeler, himself a laundryman, and who by virtue of his office in the state government is charged with the duty of supplying hand towels in the state capital and state office building.

The matter came before the board when Attorney Vins F. Parmelee, representing the Hartford Apron and Towel Supply Company, protested against the action of the comptroller in awarding a contract to the New Method Laundry for supplying towels for the ensuing year.

He declared his company had the business for more than 16 years, and recently made a voluntarily reduction in the price charged for the service. He also charged that he had twice attempted to see the comptroller in the matter but without success, and asserted that a letter given to Commissioner of Finance Edward F. Hall for the board had been refused.

SEVEN HURT IN BAD CRASH AT TOWN FARM

Dodging of Fallen Branch Brings Wallingford and Bay State Cars Together.

A fatal accident was narrowly averted at 3 o'clock Wednesday morning when seven people were injured in a head-on collision on the Rockville-Crystal Lake road. The accident occurred at the Vernon Town Farm close to the Hartford turnpike highway. Two automobiles were involved. The occupants were holiday parties.

The collision occurred when a car driven by Miss Mildred M. O'Neill, 33, of Wallingford, swung out into the highway to avoid hitting a fallen tree limb which was lying across the road. Before she could regain the right side of the road she was struck by a car driven by Anthony Mirabile, 19, of Framingham, Mass., collided with the O'Neill auto.

Four passengers of the Mirabile auto were taken to the Rockville City hospital in White's ambulance. They were treated for body bruises and lacerations. The four were Mrs. Josephine Curtinello, 33; Miss Gretchen Mirabile, 21; Anthony Annesi, 17, and William Annesi, 21, all of Framingham, Mass.

The O'Neill car was Helen Browning, 31; Helen O'Neill, 36, and Charles Wynn, 41, all of Wallingford. They were all taken to the Manchester Memorial hospital for treatment and later left after receiving treatment. Anthony Mirabile was also taken to the Manchester Memorial hospital where he remained to have X-rays taken.

Both automobiles were badly damaged. They were hauled to the Rockville Garage after daybreak.

Want Longer Hours
The four "package stores" in Rockville have petitioned the Board of Common Council for the enactment of a special city ordinance permitting the sale of liquor until 9 o'clock instead of 7 o'clock as is now fixed by the state.

The state law permits municipalities to fix hours for the sale of liquor. Four names are signed to the petition presented to the Council on Wednesday evening, as follows: Bernard J. McKenna, Oliver J. Morin, George C. Rider and Allen F. Beckendorf.

Upon motion of Alderman George C. Scheets the matter was placed in the hands of the ordinance committee, headed by Acting Mayor Roger J. Murphy to investigate and report at a later date. The ordinance committee is to confer with Corporation Counsel John E. Fisk.

Acting Mayor Roger J. Murphy, who is presiding as president of the Board of Common Council in the absence of Mayor Albert E. Waite, asked to be temporarily relieved of his duties last evening for a period of ten days.

Acting Mayor Murphy is expected to leave for Chicago on Friday morning and as no charter provision has been made for an executive of the city of Rockville in the absence of the Mayor and president of the Common Council, Acting Mayor Murphy asked that some member of the Board of Aldermen be elected. The honor fell to Mr. Scheets without opposition.

Woods Property Burned
The fifteen room house on the farm owned by Frank O. Woods of Ellington was totally destroyed Tuesday night with a loss of about $12,000, partly covered by insurance.

After an explosion of an oil tank in the cellar the home went up in flames with practically nothing saved. No one was injured.

The Woods farm is now operated by Frank Clark of Ellington who lives nearby but the house was occupied by two families. Living up stairs were Cecil McCullough and George Brookes. In the McCullough part of the house three persons were in bed while five persons in the Brookes apartment had retired. No one lived on the ground floor of the house.

A small amount of furniture was saved by the McCullough family.

The Woods farm is located some two miles from Ellington center and close to the Windsorville town line. The Ellington Fire Department responded but were unable to do anything for lack of water and because of the fact that the fire had gained such headway. The fire started in the basement and gained much headway before being discovered.

The families at the Woods house stayed at the Clark home for the night.

Installation Tonight
The newly elected officers of Court Foresters Pride, Juvenile Court, Foresters of America, will be installed with ceremonies tonight at Foresters Hall. The installing officer will be former Mayor Joseph Grist.

The following are the officers to be installed: Chief Ranger, Michael Nantak; Sub-chief Ranger, Thomas Burns; Financial Secretary, Albert Uitsch; Recording Secretary, Kenneth Gayton; Senior Archer, Herman Dowling; Junior Archer, Norman Schuey; Senior Beadle, Arthur Hewitt; Junior Beadle, Warren Reynolds.

Receipts from Beer Licenses
The town of Vernon is to materially benefit from the sale of beer in the city of Rockville due to the fact that the $50 fees for each permit is to come back to Town Treasurer John B. Thomas.

Records at the present time show there is over one thousand dollars now due the town for the twenty-two permits at $50 each, netting $1,100. Several other applications are now before the State Liquor Control Commission.

The regular meeting of the Common Council was held last evening with Acting Mayor Roger J. Murphy in charge in the absence of

Lends car for test - Gulf-lube cuts oil costs 28 1/2%

MR. AND MRS. LOU MOORE, Ambassador Hotel, Indianapolis—owned one of the six cars borrowed for this daring test. Gulf-lube cut this car's oil consumption 28.3%, as compared with all other oils tested.

New motor oil amazes AAA Officials*

In 6 borrowed cars, representatives of the Contest Board of the AAA tested 4 of America's leading brands of 25c oils... And, when the 4-day run on the famous Indianapolis Speedway was over, Gulf-lube had beaten every oil in every car!

To the amazement of the Officials, the average of all the figures proved this: Gulf-lube went 28 1/2% farther than its competitors before a quart of oil had to be added—a clear-cut saving of over one-fourth!

Switch to Gulf-lube and start saving 2 ways! First, you'll use less oil. Second, you'll pay less for repairs—for the oil that gives bigger mileage is a better buy. Prove it! Get Gulf-lube at any Gulf station.

THURSDAY, JULY 6.

CLEARED GROUND.
 The "catastrophe little less than a tragedy" which President Roosevelt saw in a potential failure of the London Economic Conference has been averted by the device of a recess of two months—probably the very best solution of the situation that could possibly have been evolved. But even if the parley had broken up in a row, if it had ended without hope of resumption, it should be very clearly understood that these would have been no words upon America of those words "catastrophe" and "tragedy" nor of the conditions they imply.

No other nation among all those represented at London has had so little directly to lose or gain as the United States from either the failure or the success of the Conference. Yet this was the only country, at least among the major conferees, that entered upon the discussion either with the vision or in the spirit necessary to the achievement of important international benefits.

There is no question but that the suspension of the conference was brought about by the uncompromising message of the American President. That message, so shocking to the "diplomatic" sensibilities of pussy-footers everywhere, is likely to go down in history as the most candid and at the same time the most helpful document ever presented to an international conference. It has absolutely cleared the ground. It has made as plain as a plowshare the fact that the United States, in this or any other foregoing of the nations for mutual economic benefit, will not tolerate the bedeviling of international economics by and for the great pawnbrokers and money jugglers of the world.

It is now known, beyond possibility of doubt, that the whole policy of the United States is based on conditions which automatically eliminate the pawnbrokers from political control—and that there is no such thing possible as tricking this country into a restoration of the old state of affairs.

It was impossible for Europe to sense the change that has come to the United States. There has been no such revolution of ideas over there. It became necessary for President Roosevelt to blast the hidebound conservatism of the "gold bloc" nations with a verbal dynamite charge in order to let realization be planted. This he did and the Conference ever since has been holding onto the ropes and trying to realize just where it was hit.

There was, of course, considerable risk that the Conference would break up in panic flight immediately after the explosion. That would have been regrettable—but the resulting losses would have been Europe's, not ours. As it is, the best conceivable thing has come to pass. The nations can now go home, sit down and digest the significance of this brief interlude. Two months hence they will, no doubt, return to the conference table with their minds completely disabused of all notions that the United States is just one of a team of horses and that the international bankers are sitting in the driver's seat.

Then, perhaps, we can have a real Economic Conference. We never could have had, so long as the dollar-pound-franc-guilder swappers imagined they could constitute the purposes of that gathering to their own infinitely mean, petty and sordid ends.

MOVE IT ALONG!
 Perhaps something will have to be done about the Fourth of July. When the "singers" siddled with the business of declaring America's independence of the British crown from the middle of May until the Fourth of July they may have been saying to themselves that this signing of the declaration was likely to be the biggest of anniversaries in the life of the nation then born; and may have been stalling along until a time of the year when the whole country could celebrate outdoors without being half frozen. If so, there would appear to have been no good reason for putting the matter off any longer. Surely, if we were ever to have settled weather, it may have seemed to them as though we ought to have it by the fourth day of the seventh month.

Yet look at it. Only four years ago—or was it five?—it was so cold here on the Fourth that the fireworks audience at the North End made so much noise with its chattering teeth that Colt's Band gave up trying to make itself heard and went home. The correspondent who writes us enquiring whether it is true there was skating here on the Fourth in 1907 has been listening, as the Indians are supposed to have said, to singing birds. No, it is not true—the ice wasn't quite thick enough. And then this last demonstration of what the weather can do to Independence day!

Ready, we'd better move the day along. Maybe if we observed it just a month later, during the first week of August, we'd be safe from frosts. Particularly if we are going to celebrate it by chipping in our pocket money and letting weather-busy committees spend it on fireworks. After-dark celebrations like that of Tuesday evening may be all right when it's real summer weather, or even when they come off somewhere near on time. But if ten thousand people are going to be called on to sit on the ground and shiver for ages and ages and ages, and then to get only the stimulation to be derived from some five-and-ten pinwheels, two or three animated set-pieces that don't work and an assorted dozen or so of excellent aerial bouquet bombs, then we feel quite sure it would be better to shift the Fourth over to the one pretty-sure-weather month of the year. We can any of us stand bum fireworks or we can stand winter, but the combination is pretty scarce.

BAY STATE METHODS.
 The peculiar methods of the Massachusetts criminal courts, which have frequently attracted the puzzled attention of the people of other states, appear to have run against a snag in the case of Herman Snyder. Snyder, together with another man, was convicted of the murder of a Somerville gas station attendant in a holdup. During his trial, when the court and jury visited the scene of the crime, the court denied Snyder's application to be taken along. Now United States Supreme Court Justice Brandeis has granted a stay of execution of the death sentence pending a review of the case on Snyder's claim that he was deprived of his constitutional rights. The Constitution provides that:

In all criminal prosecutions the accused shall enjoy the right to a speedy and public trial, by an impartial jury of the state and district where the crime shall have been committed, which district shall have previously ascertained by law, and to be informed of the nature and cause of the accusation; to be confronted with the witnesses against him; to have compulsory process for obtaining witnesses in his favor, and to have the assistance of counsel for his defense.

On the face of it, to deprive a defendant of the right to view the scene of a crime, when the jury and court are made familiar with it, is to prevent him from being as cognizant as they are of the nature of the evidence and the accusation. It would seem patent that the policy adopted by the Massachusetts court must imperil the validity of a conviction. And yet Snyder could get no redress in Massachusetts and had to go to the United States Supreme Court. Justice Brandeis holds that the implication of a denial of constitutional rights is strong enough to warrant the bringing of the case before the full court.

GERMAN WAR PLANES.
 There is not, and for obvious reasons is not likely to be, any official verification of a report that the German Reichswehr Ministry very recently ordered from a British airplane construction company a number of fighting planes and that the British Air Ministry, by employing pressure, had prevented the filling of the order. Clearly this is the kind of thing which, if it were true, would not be admitted by the British government, since it would not be in "good form" to say anything about it openly—that's the way they operate over there.

Now there is the best of reasons for believing that the Hitler government proposes to have fighting planes, the Treaty of Versailles to the contrary notwithstanding. The recent nonsensical canard about "swoxy" planes "riding" Berlin, followed promptly by a very chorus of yelps demanding the right to maintain protective aircraft, indicates that clearly enough. But that the Germans would go to England to buy such planes, when they could build themselves, is a little more than most folks will believe. Not even an explanation that the planes were ordered in Great Britain in the hope of influencing that country to wink at new German air armament would seem to carry any conviction.

Germany already has a great fleet of German-built commercial planes translatable into bombers at practically a moment's notice. There isn't the slightest reason for doubting that she could build any number of combat planes as good as any she could buy abroad—nor, by the same token, any substantial proof that she hasn't done so already.

THE DRYS DRY OUT.
 As the dries dry out and decrease in volume they increase in intensity, like old iodine and some other chemical bodies. The fewer of them that remain the more virulent the concentration of their bitterness.

Southern California was one of the garden spots of the nation in the prohibition development. When the state voted on repeal the other day, however, the Los Angeles region turned, if not quite as wet as Frisco, at all events all a-drip.

Now the concentrates of the Southern California Methodist Conference has shown just how concentrated they can be by adopting a resolution ordering the expulsion of any member of the church not in complete accord with the policy of prohibition. Any communicant, though he might be a saint in his private life, an utter subscriber to the Methodist discipline, a teetotaler in practice and a steady voter of the prohibition ticket, who might sign a druggist's license petition as an endorser of character, would be thrown out of the church without benefit of clergy.

One may wonder just what the internal per-lick pressure of this dry hatred will get to be about the time when Bishop Cannon and Dr. McBride constitute the sole remnant of the prohibition forces.

IN NEW YORK
 By JULIA BLANSHARD

New York, July 6.—Luncheon guests at the Colony Restaurant these days get a miniature "dog show" thrown in quite free of charge, and unexpectedly.

Tied to every available table, chair and dressing table leg in the women's lounge and in the main lounge the other day were pampered pets of eminent people. They bring them along from the country or their town houses and pack them with the maid while they eat.

Upon entering, one practically tripped over the two cute little dachshunds that Mrs. Arturo Ramos (the former Countess Milliet Rogers Salm) brought back with her from Europe recently. Anchored to two legs of the reading table were Mrs. William Paley's two Scotties, "Angus" and "Duncan," and Grace Moore's handsome wire-haired terrier, "Sonny," was leashed to a chair. Away over by himself in regal splendor, attached to the coat rack, was the Princess Hohenlohe-Schillingfurst's gorgeous Austrian bloodhound, "Puckie," the only one of his blue-blood kind in this country. Looking very foreign and more diminutive than ever, Fannie Hurst's toy Peking, "Lum-mox," was curled up in a big easy chair.

Perhaps it was the pleasant cooling system in the rooms, or perhaps society dogs have society manners. Anyhow, there wasn't a snarl or a growl from the lot during a long lunch hour.

Worry Takes Wings
 Gustav Beckstein, author of "Lives" and other books, had about as hard a time managing to get abroad this summer as anybody in America. He couldn't book passage until he had arranged for someone to take care of his 30 canaries and one huge macaw which he keeps in his chemical laboratory, along with a grand piano in Cincinnati. His sister finally consented to care for them during his absence. So he has just sailed from here for Athens to finish another book.

Beckstein, an amazing scientist of 48 who looks to be in his teens, is an authority on cockroaches. A doctor, a dentist, plays Beethoven constantly, speaks Japanese, has lectured in an insane asylum, is accused of preferring mice, cats, pigeons, turtles, canaries and other birds to people, does his best writing with his 30 canaries singing, and his macaw on his shoulder. He can't bear to kill even a fly!

Drama of the Street
 The old Brewster Hotel's swanky little side-walk cafe on Fifth avenue, with its three little tables hidden discreetly behind three little clumps of green, in green tufts, and gay awnings over it all, is facing stiff competition in a neat little three-table sidewalk cafe. At three little green privet clumps, opened just across Fifth avenue from the Brewster by the corner drug store, is a new place.

Village artists, proverbially low on funds, get a kick out of sitting at the drug store sidewalk cafe, and drawing sketches of the way the uniformed waiters across the street present disdainfully upturned noses when they happen to glance across.

HEALTH--DIET ADVICE
 BY DR. FRANK MCCOY

Questions in regard to Health and Diet will be answered by Dr. McCoy who can be addressed in care of this paper. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, for reply.

TEETH REQUIRE EXERCISING
 In the most ancient human skulls that have been discovered the teeth are strong and the jaws heavy resembling somewhat the formation of the gorilla of today which was evidently a necessary provision of nature, for mankind at that time had to chew tough vegetables and raw meats in order to obtain nourishment. The skulls of a later age, considerably after the discovery of cooking food show a change in the form of the teeth and jaw. This change was apparently brought about because mankind no longer had to chew the tougher vegetables and cereals but instead used them in their softer cooked form.

In the earlier types of skulls the teeth were sometimes well worn down by the constant grinding of food, but they were rarely missing. The art of cooking undoubtedly brought many advantages in the varieties of foods that could be eaten and in improving their flavor, but it certainly has not benefited human teeth for it is very rare nowadays to find a middle-aged adult who has not lost several teeth. Even the vegetables which we use in the raw form as in salads have become less fibrous through the process of cultivation and require very little effort on the part of the teeth to eat them. The earlier forms of the same vegetables.

There is no doubt but that the chewing of hard foods assists in supplying a better circulation of blood to the tooth root and pulp cavity. It is more resistant to decay than teeth which are not exercised in this way. Then, too, the soft mushy foods which are so commonly eaten have a tendency to cling in, around, and between teeth, forming a film in which and forming bacterial readily develop. The acids formed by these bacteria actually combine with and dissolve the calcium and other mineral elements in the enamel of the teeth. The soft foods that require little chewing do not sufficiently stimulate the salivary glands so that some form of indigestion is almost universally prevalent. The acids that form around the teeth would be neutralized and washed away by an abundant supply of salivary secretion. It is easy to see how a vicious circle is started by a lack of fibrous food in the diet; first, the teeth are not exercised; second, the salivary glands are not stimulated; third, indigestion and acidosis result; fourth, the acidosis makes the salivary secretion less protective so that more indigestion results.

Dentists have been very ingenious in devising methods for replacing the teeth that are injured by our past dietetic indiscretions, and they are now turning their attention to investigating the relation of diet to good teeth. This is a very fortunate and praiseworthy field of endeavor and one which I believe will become increasingly important.

While diet is a most important factor in preventing tooth decay, it is also necessary to keep the mouth and teeth thoroughly clean and free from destructive bacterial germs. This can be accomplished through cleansing the teeth daily with gauze and dental floss. Many people have tender gums so that hard tooth brushes should not be used, but softer ones are of value. Chewing some raw food after a meal is also of assistance in mechanically cleansing the teeth, carrots, celery, cucumbers, etc., being useful. I also urge that the teeth receive dental care at the first indication of decay. Often a small cavity may be prevented from turning into a larger one and the tooth may be saved from further breakdown by the early dental attention.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS
 (How Milk Diet Cures)
 Question: Oliver T. writes: "Kindly explain the principles of the milk diet and how it cures disease."
 Answer: The milk diet may be of some benefit in curing disease if the patient is really un-nourished, but, as most of those who take the milk diet for the cure of disease are really over-fed before they start, they do not get from the milk the anticipated benefits. More sickness is met from over-eating than from under-eating. In some cases the milk diet is beneficial because it is a simple diet, and, if only three or four quarts a day are used, there is a beneficial effect upon the whole alimentary canal. This is mostly because of the rest from other foods and from faulty food combinations which are so commonly used. The thing to keep in mind is that the body cures itself, and whatever diet is taken, it must be one which will not interfere with this natural cure.

(What Causes Boils?)
 Question: Mrs. Paul W. writes: "My husband has just had a seige of boils on the back of his neck. I maintain that they are caused from his blood, but he argues that they are infections in the roots of his hair and have nothing to do with the blood. Will you tell us, please."
 Answer: You are both right. The boils start from an infection which often enters at the root of a hair. Only a small pimple would result if one's blood were in a clean condition, but, where the blood stream is sluggish with morbid material, a boil may develop and, through more infection, spread so that there will be a whole crop of boils from the first infection. To stop them from forming, the blood must first be made pure—the soil in which the germs grow must be removed through a cleansing diet and the stimulation of all of the excretory and eliminative functions.

Ex-Governor's Job
 A ripple of laughter swept through the Department of Agriculture Building when it was announced that Theodore Bilbo, the remarkable ex-governor of Mississippi, had been appointed to the Agricultural Readjustment Administration from newspapers, magazines and other public sources—which meant to cut clippings.

Even though hundreds of experienced employes, some very valuable, had just learned they were about to be fired. But it wasn't the first time they had laughed.

"How's Senator Brookhart getting along?" a mischievous reporter asked Co-Administrator Charles J. Brand at a press conference, referring to the famous Iowa lame duck who has a job promoting farm exports to Russia.

"You know I used to smile about that myself, said Brand earnestly, "but he's really doing some good work."

A Thought
 For the Father Himself loveth you, because ye have loved me, and have believed that I came out from God.—St. John, 16:27.

The great lever by which to raise and save the world is the unbounded love and mercy of God.—Beecher.

Market seems to be substantiating the rumor of a big rise, but personally we don't take any stock in it.

RIDDLES THAT FACE SCIENCE
 A little more than 80 years ago a prominent scientist announced that the great day of scientific discovery was over. Henceforth, he said, scientists would check and amplify the old discoveries but they would not make any very important new ones. Today, for all the knowledge it has acquired, science is chiefly excited about the new fields that are to be conquered. The achievements that looked so final to this physicist of the 1880s are now seen to be only a scratching of the surface of knowledge.

"Major Mysteries of Science," by H. Gordon Garbedian, considers the riddles that are pending to be solved—and finds them breath-taking in their size and implications.

What are some of the things that haven't been done, but probably will be done in the coming century?

Well, a new source of energy to replace the vanishing coal deposits must be found. Wireless transmission of cheap electric power is theoretically possible. A great era of synthetic foods, synthetic fuels, synthetic metals, synthetic woods and synthetic fibers is not far ahead of us. The whole mechanical era has hardly begun to develop as yet.

Medicine hopes to increase our life span and conquer such ills as cancer and pneumonia. Physicists plan to find out about the atom, perhaps to unlock its energy, to learn what cosmic rays really are and what effect they have. Geographers aren't yet sure that Everest really is our highest mountain. No one knows anything about the interior of the earth. The deep sea holds monsters that make whales look like pygmies.

And so on... a fascinating and deeply exciting look at the things published by Covici-Friede, and it costs $3.75.

GILEAD

Saturday night after attending a dance at the local hall some Marlborough fellows attempting to make the turn at the Four Corners ran their automobile onto the lawn at Winthrop Porter's and hit the house occupied by C. W. Hutchinson and family. The veranda was considerably damaged and the plaster was cracked in some of the rooms. They continued with the bumper dragging which caused sparks of fire and made considerable noise. Mr. Porter and Mr. Hutchinson started in pursuit and overtook them in Hebron. They promised to pay for the damage done. The writer understands that the driver's name is Holcomb, and is a Hartford resident, spending the summer in Marlborough. The turn towards Hebron is dangerous for fast driving. There have been several accidents there.

Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Foote accompanied their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Way and their son, Irving to Williamsburg Sunday to visit Mrs. Foote's mother, Mrs. Elizabeth Ellis, who is ill and to Crystal Lake, Middletown, to visit Mr. Foote's niece, Mrs. James A. Masterton, who is seriously ill, having recently suffered a shock.

Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Fogli and their daughter, Patricia, are spending this week at Mr. and Mrs. Leon Fogli's cottage at Point O' Woods.

Mr. and Mrs. Fred Way and their children of Hartford are passing the summer at the Wells-Whitcomb house. They entertained guests over the Fourth and had a large display of fireworks in Hebron.

The Ladies Aid Society met Wednesday evening at the hall.

Louis Silver and family who returned for a few years at the farm now owned by Rev. Nell of Manchester, motored from New York and spent the week-end in Amston and called on their former neighbors and friends in this locality.

The Fourth was ushered in by the ringing of the church bell and other noises. Young men of this and surrounding towns gathered here. About forty of them were in the group. They removed barn coors, breaking hinges, obstructed a highway with wagons and sleds, overturned grindstones and flower receptacles and left wagons, carts, wheelbarrows, carriages and lawn chairs in various places.

Mr. and Mrs. William Brainerd and their sons of Hartford spent the week-end at Mr. and Mrs. Winthrop Porter's.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Fogli of South Manchester passed the Fourth with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Fogli.

Miss Viola Dingwell of Meriden spent the week-end and Fourth at Mr. and Mrs. N. J. Warner's.

Miss Doris Ruberlied and Jules Ruberlied of New Britain are spending some time at Mr. and Mrs. Winthrop Porter's and at Mr. and Mrs. W. N. Ellis'.

Monday Mrs. E. E. Foote accompanied D. L. Buell and family to Ocean Beach where they enjoyed a shore dinner and a ride to Niantic and Giant's Neck. The bathing, they omitted, on account of the temperature.

Mr. and Mrs. C. R. Perry, Lawrence Perry and Shirley Fish motored to Hampton the Fourth and Mrs. Perry's mother, Mrs. E. W. Buell, accompanied them on their return for a visit here.

Mrs. Charles Gantar of Marlborough spent part of the Fourth with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. E. W. Buell.

Mr. and Mrs. D. L. Buell and Irving Buell returned to their home in Berlin, N. Y., Tuesday afternoon after passing a few days with relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Hutchinson and their daughter, Mrs. W. N. Hills and Homer Hills attended the Grange affair in Andover the Fourth. There were several seats and decorated automobiles in the parade which were very attractive.

The Rev. H. Hutchinson of Hartford went the Fourth with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Hutchinson.

Miss Doris Hutchinson of Manchester spent Monday night with her grandmother, Mrs. Lovina Hutchinson.

Miss Edith Ellis of Hartford spent the Fourth with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Ellis.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Hutchinson and their children, Everett, Evelyn and Alfred, motored to Manchester the evening of the Fourth to see the fireworks.

Mr. and Mrs. Colliotti are moving from the Brown house into the Post house and Mr. and Mrs. Norman Lyman will move into the Brown house. Mr. Colliotti and Mr. Lyman are employed by J. L. Way.

Richard Hubbard, Shelton Hubbard and his daughter, Ruth, of New York City, spent the week-end and the Fourth at the Hubbard farm and their mother, Mrs. Bertha Hubbard, joined them there.

Winifred and Harriet Miller returned to their home in Milford Sunday after visiting their grandmother, Mrs. H. B. Buell.

Miss Beatrice White is a guest at Mr. and Mrs. Edward Miller's in Milford.

Joseph Warner of California is at his old home here, the guest of his nephew, Norman J. Warner.

BEHIND THE SCENES IN Washington

ROOSEVELT WAS HEADY TO STOP RAIL WAGE CUT
 Proposal for Reduction Made in Dead Earnest, Says Correspondent

By RODNEY DUTCHER

Washington, July 6.—People who always insist that the surface facts are not the real facts and that there's a big bug under every chip are now telling us that the astounding demand of the railroads for a 22 1/2 per cent wage reduction was only a bluff.

They just wanted to stall off a demand for wage increases at a time when the administration was out to raise them, according to that yarn.

As a matter of fact, the railroads were in dead earnest. They thought they could get away with it, regardless of the fact that it was in sharp conflict with the administration program. They knew this was their last chance to make a $200,000,000 labor saving. It would have added 12 1/2 per cent to the temporary 10 per cent cut already accepted by the railroad unions.

Roosevelt promptly gave Federal Co-ordinator Joseph Eastman the job of bringing the railroads into line. As soon as the carriers realized that Roosevelt was ready for even stronger intervention if necessary they gave up all hope and signed the agreement, under which neither side will demand a wage change before next February.

Richberg's Work
 The man who drafted and submitted the agreement was Donald R. Richberg, Chicago, attorney for the unions and authority on public utility rate regulation, who rapidly is becoming one of the most important men in the United States—now that organized labor is getting such big inroads in Washington.

Working behind the scenes, Richberg drafted the original "Perkins amendments" to the Black 30-hour bill which first brought minimum wages into the plans for industrial control. With Gen. Hugh Johnson and one or two others he worked out the National Recovery Act itself and then sold it to the pro-labor members of Congress. He also wrote and helped put through the "labor freeing" amendment to the railroad act.

Working Watchdog
 Roosevelt insisted that Richberg take an important post in the recovery administration, not only because of his own esteem but because he knew the man's presence would create confidence in the recovery act among a large section of his own liberal supporters.

Then the railroads demanded the wage cut and Richberg dashed for Chicago, refusing to become chief legal adviser to the recovery administration until he was sure his first duty wasn't on that front with his unions. Now he is on the job with Johnson—and will be worth watching.

1,700 WAR VETERANS ON VERMONT PROJECT

Mobilize Crew to Work on Flood Control—Expect 5,500 There Before July 15.

Moving with the speed that characterized its mobilization, ahead of schedule, of 18,000 soldiers in the President's Conservation Corps are eighty-three work camps in the New England States, the First Corps Area command of Major General Fox Conner neared its objective today in the enrollment of the special New England contingent of approximately 1,700 war veterans for a flood control project along the Winooski river in Vermont.

Indications are, General Conner said, that the entire contingent of 5,500 to be made up of veterans from the First and Second Corps Areas will be mobilized in Vermont ahead of schedule, now set at July 15.

Although enrollment of the special contingent was commenced only ten days ago, Colonel Albert W. Foreman, 13th E. Infantry, commanding officer at Fort Devens, where veterans from the six states are being concentrated for conditioning training, reported that upward of 1,900 men already have been enrolled.

In the face of this report, Corps Area officers look for the completion of the veterans enrollment project by tonight, nine days ahead of the schedule set by the War Department.

With the organization of the New England veterans contingent near complete, the first veterans unit left Fort Devens yesterday to occupy camps at Barre, Vermont. They included the 1108th, 1107th and 1133rd Companies. Nearly 500 men were on the special train which reached Barre yesterday afternoon.

BARGAIN BRIDE

KATHARINE HAVLAND-TAYLOR

BEGIN HERE TODAY.

BARRETT COLVIN, back in New York after years abroad, falls in love with ELLINOR STAFFORD. He is 35 and she is 20. Ellinor returns his affection but her jealous scheming mother, LIDA STAFFORD, breaks up the romance by convincing Barrett that Ellinor was only flirting with him.

When Vance learns she will not

When Vance learns she will not divorce her husband, BENTWELL STAFFORD, he shoots Bentwell. It is uncertain whether the wounded man will live or die.

Barrett does not give Miss Ella's

Barrett does not give Miss Ella's money but can not give it back to the rightful inheritors because of their attitude. Suddenly a plan of all to him. He tells Ellinor that if she will marry him and live as a guest in his home for a year he will give her the entire sum to be divided between her relatives. Knowing the Colvins had attended for years.

Twenty minutes later Palmer,

Twenty minutes later Palmer, a pleasantly athletic type of man with keen, kind eyes, rose from behind a littered desk. "What's up?" he asked. "Another trip to Gobi?" "Better than that!" Barrett answered, dropping his hat and gloves to the one cleared space on the desk. "Will you marry me tomorrow at noon?"

"Will I? Great hat! Of course

"Will I? Great hat! Of course I will. Who's the girl?" Barrett sat down and told him. "Know her?" he asked. "My old friend nodded slowly. "I know her," he said. "I've always looked on you, Barry, as one of the finest men I know but I'm darned if you aren't lucky. I've never understood how Miss Stafford could be the sort of girl she is. She hasn't had much to help her but she's beautiful inside as well as out. I'm glad for you, Barrett."

"Thanks, awfully."

"Did it happen suddenly?" "Rather." "And for her, too, I suppose." "She seems to think I'm all right," Barrett answered, thinking. "If she did I might play the credulous fool again but—she doesn't."

Arthur Palmer wondered whether

Arthur Palmer wondered whether Ellinor Stafford knew of the existence of his friend's ward and the truth of that matter. He hoped so. Otherwise the facts could so easily be misunderstood and lead to difficulties. He had seen Gerald at Barrett's request. He had helped Barrett find a new home for the youngster and had been struck by the fact that the boy resembled Barrett so closely.

Arthur Palmer considered speak-

Arthur Palmer considered speaking of all this but dismissed the thought. He would mention it later, he decided. "Noon, you said?" he asked, flipping the leaves of an engagement book. "Yes, that suits you."

"Great, hat, you know you can

"Great, hat, you know you can have your wedding when you want it. I'd do anything to make our matters suit. Want to be married in the church?" "I would," Barrett said slowly. "If that's what she wants."

"Why not telephone her?"

"Why not telephone her?" Palmer suggested, pushing the instrument forward. Barrett called the number. (To Be Continued)

(HAD THE STORY, THEN COLOUR THE PICTURE)

The lasso man had lots of ropes, and Scoutly said, "I am in hopes that you will entertain us with some stunts that are brand new."

"I'm still provoked about that trick, but if you prove that you are slick, I guess I will forgive you. Now, let's see what you can do."

"You see, I am a real Boy Scout. I know what lassoing's about. I've learned the way to twirl a loop through which a lad can jump."

"When you have staged your little show, I'll gladly show you what I know. It will not take me long to prove that I am not a chump."

The man replied, "Hurray for you! But I can show you something new!" And then he tossed one rope in the air and made it jump and fall.

"That's clever," Duncy shouted. "See, be careful you don't lasso me." "Of course it's good," the man replied. "But, wait, that isn't all."

"When in the loop you think you'll all, I was you to jump right through it. See, Duncy did, and Mister Lasso Man, too." "That was slick!"

"That was a big one," cried Scoutly. "Then to Duncy, he said, 'Help me with my trick.'"

"When in the loop you think you'll all, I was you to jump right through it. See, Duncy did, and Mister Lasso Man, too." "That was slick!"

Miss Bonnie Martin of Edwards street is spending the week with friends at Conimout, R. I.

The family of E. J. McCabe, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce, is at their cottage at Old Orchard Beach, Maine, for the summer.

Miss Helen Viertel of Coburn Road left yesterday for Camp Aya Po, the Y. W. C. A. camp at Somers, where she will spend her vacation.

Mrs. George S. Johnson and children of 47 Bigelow street are spending the month of July at Misquamicut. Mr. Johnson spends the weekends with his family.

Mrs. Arvid Gustafson and children and the family of Willard P. Law, both of Coburn Road, are spending a short vacation at Mason's Lodge, Lake Tripp, Mechanics Falls, Maine.

Mr. and Mrs. J. R. Foster and family, of 383 South Main street, will return home Sunday, after spending a week at Giant's Neck.

There will be no meeting of the Manchester Improvement Society this month and no meetings are scheduled until October, unless there should arise some matter that is considered important when a special meeting will be called. Because of the vacation period, with many of the members away at different times, it has been decided not to hold regular meetings during July, August and September.

Mr. and Mrs. Allan Coe of Henry street have as their guests Mrs. Sherburn Bailey and small son David, and Miss Harriet Coe, of Oneida, N. Y.

Terryville Luther Leaguers have invited the Luther League of the Concordia church to attend their field day program, Saturday. A bus will leave the church at 1:15 p. m. Saturday and all who desire to go should get in touch at once with Walter Klein or Fred Werner. There will be tennis matches, baseball games and a variety of other sports.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Lester Brown and daughter, Shirley May, who have been spending two weeks with Mrs. Brown's sister, Mrs. S. E. Green of Spruce street, left yesterday for their home in San Diego, Cal. They plan to spend some time at the World's Fair in Chicago, en route.

Services at the Concordia Lutheran church will be omitted the next two Sundays, with the exception of the Sunday school session at 11:15. It is expected that the new pastor, Rev. Carl Richter of Buffalo and his family will arrive in town about July 18 and that he will preach on Sunday, July 23.

The quarterly business meeting of the Swedish Congregational church will be held tomorrow evening at 7:30.

Miss Rebecca and Miss Sarah McNeary, formerly of this town, but now living in New York City were renewing acquaintances in Manchester today.

NINTH DISTRICT'S ANNUAL JULY 12

Will Be Necessary to Lay Tax Rate This Year—Officers to Be Elected.

Rev. Watson Woodruff, Miss Mary Cheney and John H. Hyde, committee of the Ninth School District of Manchester, have issued the call for the annual meeting of the district which is to be held Wednesday evening, July 12. The meeting will be held in High School Hall and will be called to order at 8 o'clock p. m., d. s. t., when the reports of officers of the district will be given, which includes the district committee, treasurer, auditors, recreation and library committees.

Because of the change that was made in the terms of the officers last year there will be two members elected to the school committee to hold office for a term of one year from July 15, 1935, three members to hold office for two years from July 15, 1933 and two officers to hold office for a term of three years from July 15, 1933. A clerk, to serve one year, a treasurer to serve a like term and two auditors, also for a one year term, are to be elected. Appropriations to cover the current expenses of the district in its recreation and library work and any other expenditure that the meeting will authorize are to be made.

The question of a tax will also be considered by the district. Last year there was no school tax and as the district maintains the recreation work both at the Recreation building on School street and on Cedar street, the two playgrounds and the swimming pool, there will be need of an appropriation to cover these expenses. The usual appropriation has been $18,000. This does not cover all that is spent, which runs to about $40,000, but returns that are received bring the net cost to about $18,000. The recreation work. There is no case of the library which was so large this year as was last year when higher rates and the cost of moving were paid.

CRANE, PICKED TO BE 'WOUNDED', GETS IT

Manchester Soldier Injured at Camp and First Aid Work Becomes Real.

Private Hugh L. Crane, 20, son of James Crane of 11 Essex street, this town, ruptured muscles in his left leg yesterday morning while engaged in mimic attack in a battalion maneuver at Camp Cross, Niantic. The accident happened when the Second Battalion in command of Major Irving Partridge was in the vicinity of the Bush Farm. Company G in command of Captain James H. McVeigh was taking part in the maneuver. Crane and another man were supposed to have been wounded so that the medical unit serving with the battalion could demonstrate first-aid in the field. In the course of the action Crane tripped over a large stone in the rough field and suffered the injury to his leg. Real first aid was then given by Private Arnold Hoffman of the medical unit, and the injured man was carried to the ambulance by Privates Harold Larson and Harold Cynoski after his leg had been set with a rifle splint. The injured member was attended to by Captain Norman E. Giesler of Middletown, in command of the Medical Battalion, and the prompt service given enabled the transfer of Crane to the emergency room of the Lawrence and Memorial Hospital, New London, an hour after the accident. Crane will be inactive for several weeks due to the injury. The manner in which the medical unit performed its duty in the field was praised by officers of the regiment. Ill luck has followed Crane in his two trips to Camp Cross. Last year he was in the hospital with appendicitis. He enlisted with Company G, May 17, 1932.

CAR STOLEN FROM MAN WHO HAD BORROWED IT

Joseph Bars Lets Brother-in-Law Take Auto And It Is Taken From Hartford Home.

Joseph Bars, of 98 Woodbridge street, employed at the Community Press, had an automobile that was in good working order on July 3, but now it is in a garage where several repairs will have to be made before it is again in working order. On Monday evening he loaned the car to his brother-in-law who lives on Franklin avenue, Hartford. It was left standing at the curb in front of his brother-in-law's home and sometime during the early part of July 4 the automobile was stolen.

Yesterday the car was found against a pole in Farmington, badly damaged. A set of golf sticks that were in the car and owned by the brother-in-law were taken as were two blankets. The car was brought to Manchester and is being repaired. A new mudguard, wheel, running board, headlight and a few more things will be necessary to get the car in running order.

The regular monthly meeting of the directors of the Red Men's Building Association will be held tomorrow night at 8 o'clock in the Red Men's clubrooms on Brainard place.
