Agenda for Town Meeting To Include School Plans

The selectmen decided at their meeting last night to ask town meeting to draw up a town meeting agenda with several items.

Approval of preliminary plans for the cafeteria-auditorium addition to the high school; approval of an appropriation of $28,000 to cover architect's fees for final plans and putting these plans out to bid; or approval of up to $247,000 for the addition.

Approval of an appropriation of $8,500 to cover the additional expense of using the Andover camp, approval of earmarking half a mill of the one mill set aside annually for capital and non-recurring expenses for park development and designation of an alternate to attend the Regional Council of Elected Officials when he is unable to attend.

The request that the town be given a chance to vote on an alternate method of financing the cafeteria-auditorium addition was made by the public building commission. It will also have to be approved by the board of education.

The $28,000 has caused consternation because some officials think that the town might vote the appropriation, then reject the bid and let the bids come in, thereby losing most of the $28,000.

The $247,000 represents the architect's estimate on the project. Town Treasurer Mrs. Shirley Riley says that it will take time for bonding attorneys to set up a bonding program before the town can vote on the sum.

Because of this delay, the town meeting will not be held soon, and selectmen could not predict when it would be held.

Mrs. Butterfield's Plan Mrs. Butterfield, in a letter to the selectmen, suggests that the original cafeteria-auditorium addition to the high school be constructed, together with some classrooms to house elementary school classes for the time being.

She said that it would be better to have the classrooms at the high school, and about half the size of the present plan, so the one Mrs. Butterfield is asking the town to consider. The classrooms would postpone the construction of a second elementary school for a few years.

Mrs. Butterfield wrote the letter as a member of the board of finance. That board is concerned about the town's exceeding its borrowing capacity on school construction, leaving nothing for town construction.

First Selectman Richard Morse, after hearing the letter, said that "it is always good to criticize, but seldom does someone come up with an alternate plan." He said he doesn't know how the board of education would like the plan, but he thought townpeople ought to be given a chance to discuss it at the town meeting.

The town could not adopt it, PRC Chairman Douglas Cheney remarked that educational specifications must originate from the board of education. He said that the preliminary plans for the addition, to be voted on by the town, meet the present specifications and have been passed by both the board of education and the PRC.

Dump Appropriation The additional appropriation for the dump brings the cost to $10,000 a year, and has been requested because Andover has had to convert to a more costly land-fill operation. The boards of finance of both towns will get together soon to determine whether a contract should be on a yearly basis, as it is now, or on a five-year basis, as Andover would like.

Morse said that it was very necessary to attend meetings of the relatively new Regional Council of Elected Officials. There are 27 towns and cities, he said, and every vote counts. He said there had been talk of changing the rules so that a majority of those present could pass a motion, not a majority of the membership.

He noted that at the last meeting a proposal to make low rental housing available in scattered areas in the towns for disadvantaged persons had been tabled. He had been against this proposal, and had been representing the only small town.

"Up until now," he said, "the small town hasn't been considered." Now they are being asked to solve the problems of the large towns, he said, with nothing in return. He suggested that the small towns get together to make their votes count.

NY Shoppers to Boycott Fancy, Sugared Cereals

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS Whether it be the alleged high price of fancy cereals or a legal point in supermarket promotions, little seemed to be escaping the housewife's gimlet eye today in the growing nationwide price protest movement.

Mrs. Armand P. Herreras announced plans in Williamsport, N.Y., for an indefinite boycott against what she called fancy cereals — sugar-coated or specially shaped — until the "price comes down."

Mrs. Herreras, one of the organizers of the "Housewives For Lower Food Prices" in the Buffalo suburb, also said the group would begin today a one-day boycott of area supermarkets offering "anything free as promotional gimmicks."

In nearby Lackawanna, the "Community Housewives Against High Prices" announced it would protest not only promotional games, trading stamps and prices, but also the quality of meat, poultry and vegetables.

The "We've Had It Club" members in Atlanta, Ga., called on State Atty. Gen. Arthur B. Bonbright to sue a supermarket games and sweepstakes.

The Democratic state machine has grown fat and careless in 12 long years of public power. The network of legislative and administrative favoritism by which it lives and breathes has grown too wide and too entrenched; patterns of influence need to be rooted up; and by new and not especially friendly means, need to be examined afresh, to see whether the public is truly being served, or being made to serve its politicians.

There is, in this campaign picture, an alternative to the Democratic state machine. The Republicans also have a party organization. It is headed by individuals who, in pursuit of their ambitions, have chosen progressive ideas and clean candidates for their approach to the people of Connecticut. The registration of Republican State Chairman Searle Finney has been a regime of preparation for responsibility, not a prep school for future political plunder. Every party organization which has a Governor in office inevitably shares in the governing of the state; such organizations are usually, speaking cynically, more zealous and honorable and careful when they are seeking preferment than they are after a long and easy period at the public trough. The machine of John Bailey and Katherine Quinn has been in power long enough, dangerously long, as disclosures of state insurance commissions have indicated. There are no spots on the Finney regime on the Republican side of the fence. There is ambition, but it is healthy and clean.

The things that are irreversibly packaged with Governor Dempsey, if he is to be re-elected, are a detriment to his candidacy. It is difficult to imagine how one would ever be able to say to a voter of Connecticut: "Go out next Tuesday and vote for Frassinelli and Bailey and Quinn."

The things that are associated with Clayton Genras—John Gerardo—the Finney state organization—are prospects that can be looked forward to with some positive, pleasurable anticipation.

Finally, there is the Republican nominee himself. By the normal standards of the political game, in which a candidate is supposed to be careful not to say too clearly what he thinks or doesn't think on a controversial issue, Clayton Genras has been something less than a smooth operator. But that is a gentleman of positive energies, enthusiasms, of imagination, and of executive drive and initiative, and that, if elected, he would be a stimulating and astute chief executive—these are judgments not even his political opponents would dispute.

It is, before 12 long years are extended to 16 longer years, time for a change in Connecticut, and Clayton Genras is a proper, highly qualified instrument for making it.

The pull of this positive alternative to the main factor determining the Herald endorsement of Clayton Genras.

The choice, in so far as it is a choice against Governor Dempsey, rejects not the man so much as it rejects what he has done.

In order to vote for John Dempsey to be Governor, the Connecticut citizen next Tuesday will also have to vote for one Arthur Frassinelli to be Lieutenant Governor.

This state election, for the first time, places the candidates for Governor and Lieutenant Governor on the same single voting machine lever.

This fact alone has inspired the Democratic state machine to offer a candidate for Lieutenant Governor of some experience and caliber—such as, say, the present Lieutenant Governor, Samuel Tedesco of Bridgeport, accepted Governor Dempsey's appointment to the Superior Court bench.

Dr. Lieutenant Governor Doody did not meet the machine's idea of the proper racial requirements, the Democratic party in Connecticut has numerous figures of Italian descent who have stature and talent to go with their blood.

Instead, the machine, for machine reasons of its own, chose Frassinelli to be the man to be locked on the Governor-Lieutenant Governor voting lever with Governor Dempsey.

This choice would have been of considerable concern to many Connecticut voters whether or not there had been any campaign disclosure about the candidate's unpaid real estate taxes in his own home town. His publicity seeking antics in the Department of Consumer Protection—the post-the-Democratic machine had awarded him as heart balm when, in a previous state convention, it had refused to yield him a place on its state ticket—had already established the stature of the man throughout the state.

There is, of course, a similar linking of nominees on the Republican side of the campaign. The running mate, for Clayton Genras is John E. Gerardo, experienced public servant, clerk of the House of Representatives, a gentleman of intelligence and wit as his campaigning has testified, and, in sum, an individual whose presence in the position of next-in-succession to the Governorship itself can be contemplated without undue nervousness.

Whoever detested that the voters of Connecticut couldn't have Dempsey without having Frassinelli in the position of his legal successor for the next four years was, in reality, no friend to Dempsey, or to the state.

Responsibility for that choice goes to the Democratic state machine.

And that is the second thing that comes with Governor Dempsey. The Presidential nomination is a fact, only one spotlight sample of its waves, and of its way of placing the party's business ahead of the public good.

Genras For Governor
 The Herald supports, as very vital to the immediate future of the state of Connecticut, the candidacy of Clayton Genras for Governor.

It chooses the Republican challenger not out of any sense of ingratitude to Governor Dempsey for the time and affection he has given his state in high office. Nor does the choice involve any personal criticism of Governor Dempsey. He has been a pleasant, sincere man for six years as Governor. He would be the same for another four years.

The Republican candidate, on the other hand, offers Connecticut a dynamic chance to fling out of its present rut, not all of which are as pleasant as the Panglossian oratory of the incumbent would make them seem. Mr. Genras arrives on the scene not through the promotions of politics, but as a volunteer from the peak of a successful business career. His campaign has brought to the people of Connecticut an urgent and imaginative outline of future things to be done, and a glimpse of the kind of leadership which gets things done.

The pull of this positive alternative to the main factor determining the Herald endorsement of Clayton Genras.

The choice, in so far as it is a choice against Governor Dempsey, rejects not the man so much as it rejects what he has done.

In order to vote for John Dempsey to be Governor, the Connecticut citizen next Tuesday will also have to vote for one Arthur Frassinelli to be Lieutenant Governor.

Inside Report

by Rowland Evans Jr. and Robert D. Novak

LOS ANGELES, Calif.—At a black-tie dinner party the other evening one of California's most eminent citizens whispered a suggestion to Ronald Reagan, the actor-turned-politician who leads Gov. Edmund G. (Pat) Brown in the race for governor of California.

"Two days later, he was pleasantly surprised to discover in the newspapers that Reagan had grabbed the suggestion and made it the heart of one of his speeches.

This little incident points up the most intriguing question in high Republican circles here today: If Reagan wins, as now expected, from whom will he accept advice on handling one of the most complex and difficult governing jobs in the world?

"We can all talk to Rommie," an upper-bracket Republican moderate told us, "but we don't know who the really listens, or what he really thinks. None of us has ever had a pillow talk with him."

During the long primary campaign, and now throughout the campaign against Brown, Reagan's only intimate advisers have been the political management team of Spencer-Roberts and Associates. Reagan has not done what John Kennedy did early in his national political career—build a stable of intimate advisers highly qualified in politics and issues, ready to take over powerful posts in the government.

That quiet and conflicting pressures are beginning to build among the broadly-based political supporters of Reagan to influence his choice of advisers—and particularly the key post of state finance director—when he is sworn in as governor.

Obviously the stakes both for California and the Republican Party are enormous. For that reason, one set of high-level Reagan backers who sensed positions on his campaign executive committee—such men as Leonard Firestone, John McCone, Thomas Pize—is quietly pressing Reagan to move closer to the Republican center and away from the right if he becomes governor.

What these members of the California establishment really want is to cement a strong working alliance between Reagan and Robert Finch, the respected candidate for lieutenant governor. Finch is running so far behind Reagan that as of today it is doubtful that he can beat Democrat Glen Anderson, the incumbent lieutenant governor, although he could come in on a Reagan landslide.

Reagan is just now waking up to the importance of Pinch winning. If Anderson continues as lieutenant governor, Reagan would have to kiss good-bye to any possibility of a presidential run in 1968, the first Republican governor in eight years; he could not risk turning over the state to a Democratic successor for the last two years of his term.

Thus, Reagan was recently persuaded to allocate a fat $50,000 of his own television money to Bob Finch, for a major last-minute effort to elect Finch. Joint billboards are now being erected, linking Reagan and Finch together.

But win or lose, Finch is re-

"Let's Delay The Vote" To the Editor:

As one wanders through life brother whatever be your goal keep your eye upon the doughnut and not the hole. It is rather let the leaders in Hartford and its local citizens who comprise one of the wealthiest cities for its size in the United States begin to solve its own problems in education including "Integration"; before it appeals to its neighbors some of whom who already have over-crowded conditions including our own school in the South End of Manchester.

Today 65 from Hartford are being bused here, an outer core area. This is no problem for us and a good beginning experience for all—but the precedent is being established. Will that figure rise to 500 or 800 being bused out in 1975?

Let's delay the vote in Manchester on the Globe Hollow School until our neighbors in Hartford demonstrate conclusively that they are going to move ahead with a forward plan in education for the City of Hartford.

"My First Ballot"
To the Editor:
As a senior in college having just reached the voting age, I feel confident in casting my first ballot for G. T. LaBonne, Republican candidate for State Senate.

Having been employed by Mr. LaBonne for the past six summers, I have found him to be a genuine leader, a man who readily accepts a challenge, new ideas and suggestions, consistently meeting success. He is a man involved in every aspect of our society—business, political and social—yet he never loses his awareness of the people he is serving in each of these capacities.

Respectively,

Tolland Selectmen Discuss CD Post And New Rules at the Dump

The board of selectmen informally discussed several items from last night's meeting at the dump during last night's meeting, including civil defense, the town dump, and a request from a resident to set traps in Crandall's Pond.

David Hussey, former president of the Tolland Volunteer Ambulance Association, attended the meeting to express interest in the vacant position of Civil Defense director. He told the selectmen he had the backing of the association which could serve as a nucleus for a civil defense organization.

First Selectman Carmelo Zanghi said another resident had also expressed interest in the position and agreed to arrange an interview with him shortly. He added that perhaps the two candidates could serve as director and assistant director, and work together to set up a "good, active organization."

Zanghi, who is temporary acting CD director, told of a supply of Civil Defense equipment stored in the town hall since 1964, for the use of the town in an emergency, including stretchers, blankets and medicine. The town health director takes a periodic inventory of the material, Zanghi said.

Hussey pointed out that he is a qualified and acting first aid instructor, as are several other members of the association, and that all members of the association had agreed to donate their services if the new one was put into effect last month. He questioned the wording of the new ordinance which stated the hours would be amended, rather than repealed.

Zanghi assured him the new ordinance cancelled out the previous one and that the legal dump ordinance was repealed Thursday, Saturday and Sunday from 8 a.m. to 7 p.m.

He warned residents of the town that the regulations were established for their benefit. "If the people don't want to comply it will cost them more money in taxes to guard the area."

He is now covering the dump, as required by the state for land fill operations and is digging out fill to make the operation workable.

Referring to Vernon's dump problem, Zanghi stated, "We're lucky we have our 29 acres."

The request of a resident to continue a practice of setting water traps for muskrats in Crandall's Pond was referred to the board of recreation and town council.

Although he has been trapping at the pond for 18 years when it was owned by Miss Lily Crandall, he now needs town approval since the purchase of the property by the town last week.

Zanghi also reported that the contractor hopes to pour the footings for Tolland's new industry, FEPCO, very soon. The town has been filling and grading the property located in the town owned Amiot Industrial site on Rt. 30.

The Ballistic Board Election Aides Meet
 Election officials will meet at the Town Hall Saturday at 10:30 a.m. for instructions for election day Tuesday. The machines will then be checked and locked for use on Election Day. Voting machine mechanics for this election are Robert Kaylor and Russell Stevenson.

Stocks in Brief

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market rally foundered at midday with trading heavy early this afternoon.

In early dealings it looked as if the market was mounting a genuine assault on the Sept. 16 recovery high.

By noon, however, the gains were erased for the overall market even though certain areas of strength remained.

Among these were aerospace issues, electrical equipments and a wide range of selected stocks.

The trend was lower among autos, steels, rails and chemicals.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks at noon was unchanged at 284 with industrials up 7, rails off 3 and utilities off 3.

The Dow Jones industrial average at noon was down 2.39 at 307.34. Earlier it showed a gain of 2.66.

Boeing up a couple of points, continued to pace the aerospace group. General Dynamics, United Aircraft and Douglas Aircraft were fractional gainers.

General Electric maintained a gain of about 2 points. Westinghouse Electric (ex dividend) and Du Pont were up about a point.

Raytheon and Control Data were fractional losers. IBM held a 2-point gain. Polaroid and Sperry Rand were up fractionally.

Anacosta slid more than a point. Texaco was down about 1/4. Standard Oil (New Jersey) fell nearly a point.

Rails reacted from recent gains. Pennsylvania Railroad slid about 1/2. New York Central was a fractional loser.

Prices rose in active trading on the American Stock Exchange.

"Gilding The Lily"
 Do you know Rudyard Kipling's story of the dying pagan? He had been attacked brutally, and now lay dying. Before he passed away, in words reminiscent of our Savior, he forgave his slayer, Peter and Paul, and overheard his words of forgiveness, one asked of the other, "Shall we baptize him?" Peter answered "Do you think he needs more like us to commend him to God?"

What do you think? I think Kipling missed the main point but his view certainly needs expressing.

Hebron Fellows Wants More Funds For Resources, Schools

Douglas M. Fellows, Republican candidate for state representative from the 2nd district (East Hampton, Marlborough, Hebron and Columbia) has urged party workers on to greater effort in the final week of the campaign to assure for the residents of the district "a voice in the legislature on election day what he termed a political power structure even before the votes are counted."

Fellows told workers to stress the "major" issues of the campaign and the stand he takes on many such issues. He outlined his stand on six of them. He said he would legislate a "maintaining better communications with them through my personal representative program, grant which can also keep any man's helmet" to display in his classroom.

ZBA Denies Atkinson Bid

The Zoning Board of Appeals voted unanimously to deny the request of Marcus Atkinson for permission to replace an old bedroom town for industrial use of the district.

22,472 Listed As Electors For Tuesday

Manchester has 22,472 voters eligible to cast ballots in Tuesday's state elections, with Republicans holding a slim 229 lead, the lowest in the town's history.

The figures, released today by the registrars-of-voters' office, show 9,000 Republicans, 8,771 Democrats and 1,468 unaffiliated.

Until this year, Manchester had two state representatives, each of whom was elected at large.

The voting machines in each voting precinct on Tuesday will show the names of the Democrat and Republican running for the State Assembly from that district only.

Negro Voters Show Increase in South

WASHINGTON (AP)—Negro registration soared up sharply in the South in the last year and probably increased considerably in the country as a whole.

Negro ballots could weigh heavily—perhaps be pivotal—in some of this year's major election contests if a high percentage of registered Negroes vote.

Precise figures on the number of U.S. Negroes qualified to vote are unobtainable because most states do not keep registration figures by races.

The Democratic National Committee uses the figure six million in news releases which have occasion to mention one. This is the same figure it used in 1964.

However, Louis Martin, deputy committee chairman, a Negro who works particularly in this field, says he believes it is actually considerably higher.

For the South alone, he estimates the current total at 2.5 million.

The Republican National Committee says it has no current figures.

The Justice Department's civil rights division reports that Negro registration rose from 487,000 to 1,016,800 between Aug. 6, 1965 and last Aug. 6 in these five states: Alabama, Georgia, Louisiana, Mississippi and South Carolina.

The 1966 date is that on which President Johnson signed the Voting Rights Act of 1965 which permitted the dispatch of federal registrars to states where all registrars to states where the attorney general found discrimination to exist.

Aside from actions by federal registrars there has been an increase due to registration drives by civil rights groups.

Outside the South, the principal questions with respect to Negro voters are whether the state organizations geared to ward capturing 1968 electoral votes in an uphill contest against Johnson's expected re-election bid.

Although Democrats don't believe it will turn out that way, some GOP strategists envision their party's occupancy of the governor's office in such key states as New York, California, Michigan, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Maryland and Massachusetts in 1967.

To do this, the GOP would have to hold its seats in six of these states and add California, Minnesota and Maryland. Democrats are in space experiments and explosives.

1968 GOP Hopes Rest On Governors' Races

WASHINGTON (AP)—Republicans are staking most of their hopes for widening the bag of their 1968 challenge to President Johnson primarily on the outcome of governors' races in next Tuesday's balloting.

It is in these contests for control of statehouses that Democratic strategists privately concede they are considerably more vulnerable than they believe they are in the 430 House and 95 Senate contests to be decided at the same time.

From the current low point of 17 governors, Republicans hope for a substantial gain that will give them a chance to build state organizations geared to ward capturing 1968 electoral votes in an uphill contest against Johnson's expected re-election bid.

Although Democrats don't believe it will turn out that way, some GOP strategists envision their party's occupancy of the governor's office in such key states as New York, California, Michigan, Ohio, Pennsylvania, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Maryland and Massachusetts in 1967.

Cavagnaro Backs Tax Relief for Elder Citizens

MANCHESTER (AP)—Tax relief for elder citizens is necessary, says Steve Cavagnaro, Manchester state representative and Democratic candidate for reelection from Assembly District 18, and he promises to draw up a bill to present to the next Legislature to grant our elder citizens property tax relief based on income, tax assessments, and Connecticut citizenship, if he is re-elected.

The full text of Cavagnaro's statement follows:

"It's tough to be old in America. Government statistics show that at age 65 and over, 23% of the old-timers live on charity; 27% are dependent on pensions, social security and relatives; 19% are retired and living on investments and savings; and 31% must still work.

"This is a disturbing statistical report which should make us all realize the situation that confronts our elder citizens today. The younger persons should and must help to relieve our elder citizens of the added pressures placed upon them by mounting property taxes — mostly for services that apply to the younger generation.

"This elder citizen group has its obligations over the years, especially during the population explosion era. This group, born a little too early, captive employees to their jobs, worked really the high wage earners. Most retired with no pension provisions, or mightily little; and, even in the future years with larger pensions, the higher cost of retirement living will level off any increase of pensions.

"In effect, by helping the old and over group, we will be helping ourselves. We give instinctively to our youth, and rightly so; we are reticent in our help to the aged. None of us will be young again and we all down Tuesday by pieces of the 23-foot aluminum blade, some of them more than 100 yards from the crash site. Twelve of the injured were hospitalized, including a civilian workman struck while aboard the carrier Forrestal, berthed across the pier from the Guadalcanal at the Norfolk Naval Shipyard.

Board Urges Town Vote School Bonds

All school authorities, including both political parties of the Board of Education, have joined in unanimously urging passage of the South School bond issue at a Tuesday referendum.

Following is the school board's official statement, written by its chairman, Boston Shaffer:

"On November 8 the question of authorizing the Town of Manchester to sell bonds to finance the construction of an elementary school for the South School District will be on the voting machines. A favorable vote will permit the termination of transporting children in the fourth, fifth and sixth grades of that district to other districts. A yes vote will also eliminate the overcrowding of youngsters in Grades K-3 currently attending South School. South School will continue to serve the District but at its present capacity.

"Approval of the school will mean the 'checker-board' area for Manchester's South School children will virtually be ended. School district lines will again have some meaning and transportation of elementary children will not be required because of lack of an adequate school in a school district.

"There is concern among some Manchester residents that the proposed school may have some relationship to the school system of Hartford. This concern is completely unfounded. The need for a proposed school in the South School District was identified by the Superintendent of Schools in 1962. A study of the need for a school was emphasized in the Superintendent's 'A Study of Enrollment Trends, Plant Capacity and Future Needs,' submitted to the Board of Education in January 1965. In it he stated, 'The construction of a new elementary school in the Spring-Gardner Street area is the number one critical situation in our need for additional elementary school facilities in the community.'

"The need for the new school, comes from population changes within the District. With an affirmative vote, a new school will be built to meet the need that need only."

New School Would Shift Pupil Load

If the wave of a magic wand were able to provide Manchester with a new Globe Hollow school tomorrow, school administrators theoretically could fill it to overflowing with 301 pupils.

They could do this by placing at Globe 62 of the pupils now overcrowding the South School, and by shifting back into South District 239 children who really belong there but who attend outside schools.

At the same time, construction of the new school would set off a chain reaction whereby the populations of nine elementary schools would be lessened.

These are some of the conclusions reached by William Scott, assistant superintendent of schools, as the result of studying enrollment at the various schools, updated to Oct. 1.

Not only would building Globe Hollow solve the South District's own problems of where to house its pupils, but it would provide educators the "elasticity" of educational spaces they need in order to juggle school districts.

The juggling is necessary, according to Scott, to bring several surrounding schools within their "rated" or most desirable capacities and to do away with makeshift or substandard classrooms.

In addition, Scott says, redistricting would make it possible to establish more economical school bus routes. "We should revise routes every year but we haven't been able to for several years because there is no 'give' in the available spaces.

According to the study, schools other than South that would send pupils to Globe Hollow are: Washington, 106 (all South Schools' 4th, 5th and 6th grades now go there); Nathan Hale, 80; Highland Park, 79; and Keeney, 6.

Then, because a total of 239 spaces would become available at these schools, further shifting of pupils to them from other schools could take place.

Affected in the shifts would be these schools and numbers of pupils: Buckland, 9; Wadsworth, 8; Lincoln, 4; Green, 20; Verplanck, 60; and Nathan Hale, 8.

Finally, substandard classrooms at Nathan Hale, Green and Lincoln could be abolished, and returned to their intended use. At two of these schools, for example, classes are held in boiler cafeterias.

Once the shifts were made, Scott says, the school would have under their rated capacities by an average of 26 pupils.

This seemingly spacious and pleasant room hold key to overcrowding at South School. Now a first grade, it is also cafeteria, a noontime, all furniture is pushed to end of room so dining tables (dark vertical lines at right) can be set up for serving lunches. Stacks at left rear is no longer used and there is no other auditorium.

A Visit to South School Shows Need for New One

How badly is a new elementary school needed in the South District, where the South School is located now and where a new Globe Hollow School is proposed to be built off Dartmouth Rd.?

This question was debated by Manchester voters in advance of next Tuesday's referendum, when they will be asked to approve a $275,000 bond issue to finance construction of the new 12-room school which authorities say will relieve overcrowding in the district.

A first-hand visit to the tiny, five-room school off South Main st., which was meant to house only four classes, reveals that the district's need for additional school facilities is not only pressing, but almost desperate.

"By taking some of our pupils out of this school, and all of them from schools in other districts they now attend, we could fill a new school to capacity today if we had it," says Mrs. William Shaffer, South's principal.

Badly overcrowded South School is almost literally bursting to the seams—154 children are crammed into classrooms designed to accommodate 100. This means the facility is operating at 65 per cent above its normal capacity.

In addition, 121 children that should go to South School are being bused to schools outside the district because space for them at the school is non-existent.

Furthermore, in the event a new school is not built, another class next year will have to be transported out of the district, Mrs. Shaffer points out. Three of South's six classes are overcrowded, according to recommendations set down by the Board of Education.

The recommended ratio is 25 pupils per teacher. But the 21-term kindergarten has 27 one and the room. Then in children, Grade 3 has 29, and bles built into one wall can be lowered and the facilities are set up for serving lunches.

"Though the children are very good about helping and maintaining order, there's always a certain amount of confusion, and, of course, they lose time from their learning," said the principal.

"The worst time," she said, "is on rainy days." Because there is no other place for the children to go, they are assigned to "double up" in adjoining classrooms, and teachers try to keep them entertained during lunchtime recess.

Mrs. Virginia Phillips daily prepares about 40 hot lunches in a small kitchen adjoining the first grade room, where the clutter of dishes and interruptions for deliveries of foodstuffs often mingle with the children's activities.

Every child who is not bused to school must walk home in weather or foul, declared the principal.

"We have to abide by this rule because of the lack of space. But the parents are very understanding about it," he said.

She pointed out that some of the children at the outdoor walking limits must travel nearly four miles to and from school each day regardless of the weather.

The list of space limitations at South School could go on and on; they carry over to almost every area.

The lack of storage facilities is especially critical. So is the scarcity of space for conducting out-of-class activities.

The principal's office measures about 11 by 14 feet. Cramped into it are Mrs. Shaffer's administrative office, her administrative office (she also teaches kindergarten), the school secretary, the school nurse's supply cabinet, a reading nurse's bookshelf, and so forth.

Here the surplus must examine pupils because there is no separate health facility.

Curtis Explains Reasoning Behind Proposal for School

William H. Curtis, superintendent of schools, has issued a statement explaining the school administration's position on the need for a new Globe Hollow elementary school.

In addition he discusses some of the reasoning that led him and the board of education to propose the school, and answers several questions regarding the proposal which are most frequently being asked by townpeople.

Curtis' statement follows:

"Laid in 1961 the board of education requested the superintendent to make a thorough study of future enrollments and the need for additional facilities. This study was completed in 1962 and the board spent considerable time reviewing it. At that time, the board and the administration expressed concern over the pupil-teacher ratio at the elementary school level to be maintained in the future. The answer to these and other similar problems, as school people see it, is to get the Globe Hollow School built without delay.

World Start Plans

Its construction would serve a triple purpose, according to Mrs. Shaffer. Not only would it relieve the pressures on South School (which could then use its existing spaces for their intended purposes), but the more than 120 pupils now being bused outside their own district would be placed at Globe Hollow.

All the 4th, 5th and 6th grades, which now attend Washington School, would be placed back in the district, as would other South School children who now go to Keeney, Nathan Hale, and Highland Park Schools.

The new classroom spaces at Globe Hollow would thus set off a 'chain reaction' of school officials say, whereby districting lines at other outlying schools would be affected. They could then re-shuffle classes at Verplanck, Buckland, Lincoln and Manchester Green Schools as well.

Finally, South School would be utilized as a supplement to Globe Hollow school, becoming a true neighborhood school by serving only primary-grade children within its walking limits.

Snow, Not Stars Falls in Alabama

The Air Force sent its giant B-52D Superfortress to drop 200 tons of snow on the state of Alabama today, and to three inches of snow fell in portions of northern Alabama.

Snow flurries have been predicted for the northern Georgia mountains later today and tonight, with low temperatures in extreme northern portions of Georgia and Tennessee expected to drop to the high 20s.

The Weather Bureau issued forecasts today in its search for 'Viet Cong' gunners who lobbed 25 rounds of 75mm recoilless rifle fire into the heart of Saigon Tuesday night.

The latest casualty figures listed eight deaths from the attack, but reports the injured ranged from 27 to 30. One American was killed and four were wounded.

The U.S. Navy plane, an A4 Skyhawk from the carrier Franklin D. Roosevelt, was shot down by the attacks of the north and the pilot was listed as missing. It was the sixth American plane reported as missing in the air war in the north.

Air Force flyers hit 30 miles southwest of Hanoi at the Viet-Ti railroad yard and destroyed the complex and then moved to plaster the area with explosives, spokesman said.

Roosevelt dropped 500-pound bombs on a missile site only five miles north of Hanoi, and reported destroying two missiles and their launchers and damaging the radar control van.

Four springs firebombs leaped into the sky as one missile exploded on the ground.

The 1st Cavalry action was part of Operation Thunder 2, in which a total of 186 enemy troops have been reported killed and 10 captured since Oct. 26.

About 80 men, dropped into an area seven miles southeast of Bong Son shortly after midnight Monday and immediately ran into heavy opposition. They were relieved as the fighting continued and by dawn today, when contact was broken, more than 200 captives had been taken, an estimated 500 of the enemy.

Viet Skies Clear, U.S. Attacks Mount

SAIGON — South Viet Nam military units at one station (AP) — Clearing skies left American war planes increase their punches against North Viet Nam Tuesday and ground troops in the south also picked up steam. Two major operations killed 66 enemy soldiers, some of them within eight miles of Saigon.

U.S. pilots flew 122 missions against targets near Hanoi, Hanoi and in the southern panhandle of the Communist north the action lasted for the first time in several days.

The bombs fell on rail lines, airfield sites, storage and staging areas, and a surface-to-air missile site. The attacks were also double the number issued by President Johnson against targets near Hanoi, Hanoi and in the southern panhandle of the Communist north the action lasted for the first time in several days.

In the south, the U.S. 1st Cavalry, Alameda, and other units offered moderate casualties—meaning it was hard hit—as it took the lead in ground fighting. The helicopters were reported 37 confirmed enemy dead in almost 24 hours of hard mountain fighting.

The 1st Cavalry battle was about 200 miles northeast of Hanoi, closer to Viet Nam—sometimes within 8 or 10 miles—troops of the U.S. 1st Infantry Division in a series of actions.

Public support of this new project will insure continuation of this forward looking approach on the part of the community in meeting its educational requirements."

The statement has been made that the busing program involving 62 youngsters from Hartford has created the need for this school. This is not true. As stated previously, the need was identified as early as 1962. The need has been substantiated by the studies mentioned previously, by independent studies by board members and by the staff and parents of the South School District. These studies indicate clearly that the busing program is not related to the

400,000 Viet Troops Predicted by January

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pentagon sources predict U.S. manpower in South Viet Nam will surge to 822,000 by the end of December and move past the 800,000 mark in January.

Plans for this expansion from the 238,000 troops now in the Southeast Asian country are considered all but definite.

Behind early 1967, however, the view is less clear and the Pentagon is in the process of calculating what it believes future military needs will be.

Sources said latest additions to the war will likely be elements of the 9th Infantry Division which was activated last year and has been training for duty since January.

The 9th, with a strength of about 17,000, is virtually combat ready. In addition to it, a number of support-type units with thousands of troops have been tapped for duty.

When and where the infantry division will deploy is secret for security reasons. There have been reports it would be sent to South Viet Nam's rice-rich delta region, now defended largely by South Vietnamese troops.

Military officials say the Pentagon is at a crossroads in mapping out the course of the war beyond early 1967. One reason: This is budget planning time and the services lay out their monetary needs.

Moreover, the Saigon command has recommended a buildup to at least a half million men, while at home Congressional predictions on the required forces have gone as high as 600,000.

A spokesman for the Navy, 127,000, said: "We're at a crossroads. It's anybody's guess whether the next move as far as manpower goes is up or down."

The Air Force now has 87,000 men, 41,800 higher than originally planned for the end of fiscal 1967, and a source said: "We'll probably send about a half dozen more air squadrons to Viet Nam by next spring, so our expansion won't be much."

The Air Force already has over 40 squadrons stationed in Southeast Asia.

A spokesman for the Marines, now 280,859 worldwide and about 1,500 higher than the target level, said there was little indication of a further expansion of the corps.

But, he added: "We're about halfway to the goal."

GOP Campaign Film for TV Distorted, Say Democrats

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democrats charge that a Republican campaign film scheduled for nationwide television showing Sunday contains "highly distorted and misleading material."

The charges were made by Democratic National Chairman John M. Bailey in a letter Tuesday to the Democratic National Committee.

Republicans thanked the Democrats for giving them publicity but contended that a final version of the film has not yet been made.

The committee said only that it had received Bailey's letter. The film, entitled "What's Going On Here" and narrated by actor Raymond Massey, is scheduled to be televised Sunday on the National Broadcasting Co. network. It was produced by the Republican Congressional Committee in New York City.

Film clips are said to include shots of American soldiers being fired on in Viet Nam and of rioting in the streets of American cities. At one point, President Johnson is reportedly quoted as saying "we only have legislation under the Democrats."

Al Mark, director of information for the Democratic National Committee, said he knew of no top Democratic officials in-charge of the film. He said he had actually seen the film, based on material "pulled together from various sources."

Paul Tosta, director of publicity for the Republican Congressional Committee, said the film "is not yet anywhere near its final form." He said he had seen a rough script for the program.

As the final six days of campaigning, he said, there were these other highlights:

President Johnson left Asia behind and prepared for a scheduled speech this morning in Anchorage, Alaska, where he was expected to push for reelection of major Democratic candidates.

Reports from Los Angeles, Phoenix and San Antonio, while unconfirmed by the White House, said Johnson was in campaign Saturday in Oregon, northern California and Salt Lake City; Sunday in southern California and Arizona; and Monday in Albuquerque, N.M., and San Antonio, where stops were also possible.

Former Vice President Richard M. Nixon said in a letter Tuesday, Minn., that if Republicans unseat Minnesota Gov. Karl F. Roalvaag and Sen. Walter P. Mondale, "it would be a very serious blow to the (Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey's) chances for reelection on the ticket in 1968." In Newark, Ohio, Nixon said another "Johnson Congress would raise taxes and trigger a recession."

Nixon also forecast big victory margins for three men mentioned — along with Nixon — as possible Republican presidential nominees in 1968. He said Ronald Reagan would become Governor of California by 1969, 600,000 to 700,000 votes, Charles H. Percy would win the Illinois state race by 1970, 600,000 to 150,000 votes, and Michigan Gov. George Romney would win a third term by 1970, 600,000 to 200,000 votes.

Groobert Favors More Aid In Road Land Acquisition

Manchester State Rep. Paul Groobert pledged today that, if re-elected on Tuesday to the State Legislature, he will fight hard to eliminate hardships and inequities present in the acquisition of private land for new highway construction, such as the new Rt. 6 through Manchester.

Groobert, a Democrat, running for re-election from the 19th Assembly District, said that "people are actually being forced to surrender their homes for the benefit of society" and "for such a sacrifice society should itself benefit over backwards to guarantee to the individual economic justice."

Groobert's full statement follows:

"Phase one of the fight for Rt. 6 concluded with an appropriation by the General Assembly of over $30 million dollars in 1965.

"We are about to enter another phase, the acquisition of land necessary for the construction of the new highway. Soon, the highway department will begin to exercise its right of eminent domain, so that Rt. 6 can be a reality in the foreseeable future.

"Although the Legislature has attempted to protect property owners whose property lies in the path of highway construction, it is my opinion that much more can be done to guarantee to everyone, regardless of economic status, just compensation under our Constitution. We must never forget that most condemnations are involuntary and that people are actually being forced to surrender their homes for the benefit of society as a whole. For such a sacrifice society itself should bend over backwards to guarantee to the individual economic justice. Consider the many inequities and hardships to which the individual is subjected. He is forced to give up his home, although he is entitled to the fair market value of his home at the time of the condemnation, this value may be more theoretical or es-

Short Disrupts Service to SNET

A short in a battery system about 9 a.m. this morning in the basement of the Southern New England Telephone Co. disrupted telephone service between the public and company service representatives for about 45 minutes.

"Under our system, one who is in the path of a highway is called upon to sacrifice for the sake of all the people. All of the people-in turn should guarantee to those individuals a system whereby economic justice is not denied."

Company branch manager Lyman Hoops said today he did not know who discovered the short. He said the trouble did not affect regular telephone service, but only those persons trying to call company service representatives.

"We apologize for the inconvenience of anybody who tried to call us during that time," he said. Hoops praised firemen for their fast response and for their "usual fine job."

He added: "Everything's under control."

Varied World Reaction To LBJ's Asian Journey

World reaction to President Johnson's trip and the Manila conference runs the gamut from optimism through doubt to pessimism.

There is evidence from an Associated Press survey of capitals not on the Johnson itinerary, and from a cross-section of opinion at the United Nations.

There Frank Aiken, foreign minister of Ireland, told a reporter: "I would say it appears to have been a very successful trip for the President."

As for the prospects for improvement in the Southeast Asian situation, Aiken said: "The trip has provided a chance for the ministers to coordinate their views."

At the other end of the opinion scale, Tanzanian Ambassador J. W. Mwalwala observed: "As far as clearing the path for peace, the trip has accomplished nothing."

This African delegate added: "The communique issued in Manila means very little. What concerns us now is what is going to happen after the fighting stops but how to stop the fighting."

Ambassador Jose Pineda of Chile said: "I don't think it had any direct contribution to peace. I don't think President Johnson had that idea in mind. It was an effort of countries participating in Viet Nam to close ranks. From that point it appears successful."

Chief S. O. Adebayo of Nigeria: "I have always been a firm believer in confidential diplomacy. I would have preferred to see them announce after the Manila conference that they had agreed on certain proposals which they would transmit to the other side and relay confidentially to U. Thant, and let it stop there. This would have given the whole thing an aspect of respectability."

Ambassador Gerardo B.O. Collier of Sierra Leone: "Just the nature of the exercise precluded any serious attention being paid to it. It was a visit to friends and the result was as expected. It would be childish to expect anything else."

Ambassador Liu Chieh of Ne-

disappointment at what emerged at Manila. But Davanlal Patel, a leader of the rightist Svastika party, said: "I welcome Johnson's visit. It leads to understanding and understanding leads to solutions."

Handy, said the two men, "I have been arrested on charges of espionage for the Soviet Union. West Berlin police reported today."

They said the two men, "I have been arrested on charges of espionage for the Soviet Union. West Berlin police reported today."

But a leading member of the governing Congress party, speaking with the understanding that he would not be identified, said Johnson "could have done something electing at Manila, like an unconditional cessation of bombing, instead of repeating the same formula in a different form. People had a right to expect that Manila would break new ice."

Major Japanese newspapers were unanimous in the Manila conference produced nothing in diplomatic and allied military establishments whom they dated.

Gen. Frapras told his weekly news conference this was indicated by the return Monday to Bangkok from Phnom Penh, Cambodia, of United Nations peacekeeper Herbert de Ribbing.

De Ribbing arrived last August as a personal representative of U.N. Secretary-General U Thant to attempt a reconciliation between Thailand and Cambodia still appear to be running into difficulties.

2 Suspects Held In Assault on U-B Students

BRIDGEPORT (AP)—Police have two suspects in hand in connection with assaults on three University of Bridgeport students by a gang of local youths.

Raymond Orta, 24, of 24 Washington Ave. was held in lieu of $500 bond on a charge of assault. The other suspect, who was under 18, was turned over to juvenile authorities.

Police said the two were part of a gang of six youths who roamed through the University of Bridgeport campus Tuesday night looking for trouble. One student, 17-year-old Bruce Novak, was knocked unconscious and robbed of his wallet. Novak was reported in fair condition at Park City Hospital.

An unidentified coed was hit several times by the gang and another male student was also assaulted, police said. Neither required hospital treatment.

Veteran Engineer Dies In Erie's Worst Wreck

DOVER, N.J. (AP)—Arch. He rolled back M. Speer, a 67-year-old engineer, was killed when a 200-ton switch-engine unit broke loose and rammed against his cab. (AP Photos)

Speer, of Clifton, N.J., a 45-year veteran of the line, apparently was killed instantly.

Tracks were cleared and repaired for diesel traffic and officials hoped to have electric-powered trains running again by the morning rush hour.

The crew was described as the worst in more than 30 years of the Erie. Dover is about 30 miles from the track at Millville, N.J., where a New York train crashed at between 50 and 60 miles per hour.

Banker Disappears Again

RIALTO, Calif. (AP)—Relatives sat in the moist white frame home groping for insight into Roger Lee Williams' disappearance. "We just can't understand why Roger would do anything like this," said his father, "Ev."

"It was so conscientious, such a good father and a hard worker," said his wife, Joanne. "There was no indication any thing like this would happen."

Williams, 27, an assistant bank cashier, disappeared July 14 with his two daughters. At the same time $38,000 disappeared from the bank, and Williams was charged with bank larceny.

Then on Halloween, the FBI said, Williams rented a motel room three blocks from his house, hired a lady-sitter to take his daughters home, and disappeared again.

With the help of accounts from the daughters, Kelly, 4, and Rosebelle, 3, FBI agents added pieces to the puzzling picture.

"Daddy had a suitcase full of money," said Rosebelle. "He bought a new white car, bought me lots of dresses and toys and bought himself some new suits."

Recalled Kelly: "We just kept driving all the time. Once on a trip, a long time ago, we went in a little place. We went a long, long way."

"Then we stayed in a hotel by the beach and went swimming. All the time it was steak, time except when daddy cooked in our motel."

"We cried a lot and told daddy we wanted to go home," said Rosebelle. "He told us he would take us to Mommy as soon as he finished the vacation."

She described how her father had dressed her and Kelly in Halloween costumes and made her before the latter took in her home.

Euadorean Plea

NEW YORK (AP)—About 20 latecomers were retained Sunday night at the Metropolitan Opera House for the entire performance of Richard Strauss' one-act "Elektra."

Despite the shortness of the opera—an hour and 40 minutes—and protests by those barred, the management refused to break its new policy of not admitting latecomers.

James Heisterman, the house manager, said he told the latecomers that "they had an eight-minute leeway since the opera before they couldn't get there in time."

Star's Death Causes Probe Of Accidents

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — The recent drowning of Eric Fleming on a film location in Peru has prompted the Screen Actors Guild to express concern for the safety of its 17,000 members.

This month the Guild's board of directors called on industry leaders for a full-scale investigation of the increasing number of production accidents involving actors. "While commending the industry's Labor-Management Safety Committee, the board stated: "A number of producers and directors and other management personnel are not carrying out their obligations to insure the safety of persons working before the camera in action shots. Failure to use an adequate number of doubles and stunt men and necessary equipment is responsible for far too many accidents involving motion picture players."

President Charles Heston detailed the Guild's concern in an interview. He is an actor well acquainted with the perils of action scenes, having survived everything from broadsword battles — "Ben-Hur" — to chariot races — "Ben-Hur" — to a Peruvian river while on location of "High Jungle."

The film was to be a two-hour feature made by MGM for the ABC network. "Our preliminary investigation indicates the accident took place during the filming of a scene," said Heston. "Apparently there was no rigging to prevent the boat from capsizing. There were no flotation devices in the boat for the actors, who had heavy boots on. There was no other boat in the river for a pickup, no ropes or poles on the shore."

Fleming was swept into the raging river when his canoe overturned Sept. 28; his body was recovered three days later 15 miles downstream. Another Hollywood actor, Nico Minar, also survived the accident. "Most Hollywood producers take considerable pains to insure the safety of actors and other members of the company," Heston said. "But there are some marginal operators who work so close to the budget that they can't afford stunt men and action directors like Yakima Canutt, who knows how to shoot action safely."

"Many times an actor, particularly in a television show, will come in for a one-day part that calls for action. Too often he lacks the time to prepare for a difficult stunt. Or he has to work with inexperienced stunt men because the producer can't afford good ones."

"In the films I've had experience with, I had the most meticulous preparation for action scenes. Yak Canutt gave me two months of chariot training before we started the 'Ben-Hur' race. Actors need that kind of preparation. We can't remove all the hazards from action filming. But the Guild wants to make sure enough precautions are being taken."

Area Weather
WINDSOR LOCKS (AP) — The U.S. Weather Bureau says a period of unsettled weather is over Connecticut and will stay for the next several days.

A strong southerly wind flow extending into the upper levels of the atmosphere is pumping mild and very moist air into the region.

Meanwhile, to the west, less intensely cold air. These two air masses are separated by a frontal system. These systems are in a delicate balance and little change is anticipated.

A low pressure disturbance is over Georgia this morning and will move northward along the front today and tonight.

There will be generally cloudy weather through Thursday with perhaps a little sunshine late this morning and early this afternoon. Showers are a possibility this morning but should end before afternoon.

With the low pressure system approaching tonight, a more general rain is likely. Rain will end but sleet will remain cloudy Thursday. Little variation in temperature is likely through Thursday.

Five Day Forecast
Temperatures in Connecticut Thursday through Monday are expected to average near to slightly above normal. Cool the first half of the period and becoming milder thereafter.

The normal highs and lows are Hartford 56 and 36, Bridgeport 56 and 36, and New Haven 56 and 35.

Precipitation may total more than 1/2 inch with rain Friday and possible showers toward the end of the period.

CLASSY THIEVES
CLEVELAND, Ohio, (AP) — Thieves with expensive tastes grabbed 45 cases of Scotch whisky from a state store but left less expensive whiskey on the racks.

Police said 120 cases of cheap liquor were found outside the store.

First Shot Successful In Man-in-Space Series

U.S. Fires Multi-Shot Satellite

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP)—The United States today fired the opening shot in its plan to develop a military man-in-space program by hurling an unmanned modified Gemini capsule over a scorching suborbital path. Then the same Air Force rocket engine that powered the Gemini capsule will have to crawl through a protective shield of fire to launch a batch of satellite decoys.

The launching of the Gemini craft over a 38-foot ballistic course was the first test of hardware to be used in the manned Gemini program. The Gemini program, which expects its first manned flight in 1968, is designed to demonstrate what military duties man can perform in space.

The Air Force reported the Gemini survived the punishing trip and parachuted into the Atlantic about 8,000 miles southeast of Cape Kennedy, seven miles from the aiming point.

Recovery planes and helicopters were on hand to retrieve the capsule under a 100-foot parachute. Within minutes, three crewmen dropped from a helicopter and attached a flotation collar to the bobbing vessel.

State and Vernon police confer with bank employees after a robbery this morning at the Rockville branch of the Vernon National Bank. Three employees were herded into a small room (arrow) by one man while another scooped up money from cash drawers. (Herald photo by Sateris)

Pair Rob Branch Of Rockville Bank

Police in a six-state area are searching for two men, one armed, who held up the Rockville branch of the Vernon National Bank at about 9:50 this morning. They escaped with $25,440 wrapped in a flowered, red print, old table cloth.

The bank branch is located in the busy Rockville Shopping Plaza on W. Vernon St. near Union and Elm Sts., almost exactly in the center of Rockville. It is next door to the Town of Vernon Administration Building which, before consolidation last year of Rockville and Vernon, housed the Rockville Police Station.

The descriptions of the robbers, circulated by Vernon and State Police within minutes of the holdup, are:

Two white males, one aged 35 to 38, six feet tall, wearing a khaki Army field jacket, a red flannel plaid shirt, and heavy shoes. He has brown curly hair and is wearing a wide gold wedding band and glasses with brown frames. This is the man who was carrying the gun.

The other man is 30 to 35 years of age, about 5 feet, 11 inches tall, of stocky build, wearing a green raincoat and heavy shoes. He has dark brown hair. He needed a shave at the time of the holdup.

According to Vernon and State Police, the two men appeared very calm as they approached the bank.

HARTFORD (AP)—"Absolutely ridiculous" is the way Gov. John Dempsey described the Republican prediction that he would take the place of Sen. Thomas J. Dodd in the Senate.

Dempsey said, "These reports that are being circulated that I am running for a full four-year term as governor of Connecticut," he said, "and with God's help, I will complete that term."

Such assurances did not deter a Hartford area Republican from keeping alive the speculation that Dempsey might end up as senator.

"Every voter," said the GOP candidate, "I think that we should have a full four-year term as governor of Connecticut."

The blackout Nov. 3 extended from northern Ontario to Florida and from the Atlantic Ocean to the United States Midwest.

About 35 million people, including those in the New York City area, were affected.

On Tuesday of this week, Gen. Frassinelli, who is not made in accordance with the Merit System, but Corning of his own fitness," said the state consumer protection and national Democratic chairman Wednesday.

Republicans have apparently tried to make Frassinelli the major issue of the campaign in the final week.

The GOP gubernatorial candidate, Clayton Gregas, has of his political prominence.

Frassinelli was hospitalized in Hartford, suffering from what his doctor called exhaustion. He was discharged from the hospital over the weekend.

Jail Again!

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—A 40-year-old man who spent most of his adult life in prison is being returned to Georgia where he escaped in 1923.

J.P. Keel, released after serving 42 years in prison for murder conviction in Michigan, volunteered to return to Georgia and serve four years of a 10-year sentence for armed robbery.

Harold Burton, director of the Georgia Corrections Department, said Keel, known in Michigan as Roy Logan, is being returned on a retainer filed with Michigan authorities more than 40 years ago.

LBJ Signs Series of Major Bills

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Johnson signed into law today a series of major bills passed by the 89th Congress.

Among them two calling for $9 billion in federal aid to education over the next three years.

Johnson also signed a $164-million health planning bill to establish a flexible approach to state public health programs.

The arrangement of a second conference to sign the demonstration cities bill—one of his favorites—and another to help clean pollution from streams.

The elementary school bill limits to 99 days the time the commissioner of education can defer funds from segregated schools while holding a hearing and determining whether the school district is or is not in compliance with the civil rights law.

Johnson was at the White House today, but not for long. He is expected to open a fast-paced, final round of campaigning Friday to urge the election of Democrats in next Tuesday's state and congressional elections.

A joking word about the weather was Johnson's only direct reference to the campaign at his formal welcome home.

Johnson said America's task in Viet Nam is far from done, but he said Asians—the people closest to the arena of conflict—know that Communist aggression there must be defeated.

"They know that it is their duty to help the United States keep these areas from spreading," he said, "and that effort will be increased."

And he said: "Those of us who met at Manila know the road may be long and difficult. We know that each of us will make mistakes. But if our countrymen will stand with us—if we will try to travel this difficult road together, I think that we will come out well at the end as America always has."

There was campaign criticism, too, from former Vice President Richard M. Nixon, in Charleston, W.Va. He said Johnson should announce a new strategy designed to win the war.

"Once an honorable peace is achieved, then we will be prepared to withdraw," he said, "if we are in war in Asia five years from now."

Nobel Award Given Chemistry Professor

STOCKHOLM, Sweden (AP)—The 1966 Nobel Prize for Chemistry was awarded today to Prof. Robert S. Mulliken of the University of Chicago.

Mulliken, born in Massachusetts in 1896, was awarded the prize for his fundamental work concerning chemical bonds and the electronic structure of molecules.

Mulliken received the Ph.D. in physical chemistry at the Florida State University, Tallahassee, Fla., during the winter months, said.

"Well, anybody would be pleased and I wouldn't have given it to myself necessarily. If somebody else thinks that I should have it I guess I wouldn't refuse it. I wouldn't have proposed myself. That's roughly how I feel about it. I don't think I'll refuse because other people think I should have it."

Mulliken, 70, is distinguished professor of chemical physics in the Institute of Molecular Biophysics at Florida State, where he normally spends four to six months a year. An 18-year-old daughter, Valerie, is a freshman at the school.

Mulliken, who introduced the concept of a molecular orbital method to the development of which modern computers have greatly contributed, opened a way for purely theoretical studies of small molecules, inaccessible to experiments, such as intermediate states of chemical reactions and molecules of interest to space research.

He organized the laboratory of molecular structure and spectroscopy at Florida State, Fla., during the winter months, said.

Earlier in the day, the Nobel Physics Prize for 1966 was awarded to Prof. Alfred Kastler of Paris.

Mulliken, who teaches at Florida State University, Tallahassee, Fla., during the winter months, said.

Bulletin

R. I. WORKERS HOME PROVIDENCE, R. I. (AP)—Hundreds of Rhode Island state employees staged a strike from work today in support of demands for an immediate pay hike. John H. Chadwick said he would seek an injunction to order the employees back to their jobs. "I'm sure that the workers at state institutions, ferry crews, and highway workers are among those staying at home."
