Expects '68 Nomination

LBJ Pins Chances On 'Great Society'

WASHINGTON (AP)—Conceding the going is tough, President Johnson has laid his 1968 re-election chances on the line of "Great Society" accomplishments and the fight against "naked aggression" in Vietnam.

The President left little doubt he expects to be the party's nominee next year when he told after a glittering Democratic dinner which about 2,000 persons said 2:30 a. m. Tuesday night: "If the Democratic party continues to serve by giving the greatest good to the greatest number, in the year 1968, as we come around the turn, we'll come home for the victory the people deserve."

Johnson told the cheering Democrats he believes the party's success depends on how voters react to efforts to shore up economic security of the elderly, curb crime, counter air pollution and secure rights for all citizens.

"That we demand of us at home and abroad the will, yes, the character, to persevere when the going gets tough," he said.

"It will take character to stand for freedom against naked aggression, and when some say it is none of our business to resist it."

This challenge faced two of the President's chief war policy critics, Robert F. Kennedy, D-N.Y., and J.W. Fulbright, D-Ark., lay elsewhere.

Kennedy was on his way to California, Fulbright, an object of caustic presidential remarks at a similar dinner last week, entered Walter Reed Army Hospital Monday for treatment of bronchitis.

Tongue in cheek, Johnson greeted members of "our party" completely unflinched.

He said it was incredible a word Fulbright has used in July describing some of the President's Asian policies—it also was traditional that Democrats like to fight.

Johnson called on the voters to turn back the Republican "wreckers" he said want to dismantle the "Great Society" program.

Vice President Hubert H. Hays, however, described Johnson as "our leader, if you will it, in the year 1968."

Senate Democratic Leader Hubert H. Humphries, who has opposed escalation of the Vietnam war, was not called upon for any remarks.

All in the Family Mom, Two Daughters Are Beauty Queens

MARBLEHEAD, Mass. (AP)—Mrs. John H. Procter, Miss Massachusetts in 1967, carefully raised two daughters to be good wives and quite accidentally they became beauty queens like their mom.

"I never encouraged them to enter pageants," Mrs. Procter said in a family interview. "But I think it's wonderful that they have. A girl who can do something with her life before her marriage can give much more to her husband."

Daughter Pamela, 21, is a Miss Massachusetts for 1967, the one who will be in Miami Beach this summer to compete for the Miss U.S.A. and Miss Universe titles.

Daughter Kathryn, 19, is Miss North Shore and Miss Danvers for 1967 and competes for the Miss Massachusetts title in July which is a preliminary to the state pageant.

"The idea," said Mrs. Procter, "is to train them to be ladies. The questions are to train them to think, to express themselves to be individuals."

"I make up questions like the ones I was asked as a finalist and I started them early." (See Page Twenty-Eight)

Senate Sets May 22 To Hear Dodd Case

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate will begin its investigation of the case of Sen. J. Dodd for financial misconduct on May 22.

The Senate's bipartisan ethics committee unanimously recommended April 27 that Dodd, a Connecticut Democrat, be censured for allegedly diverting to his personal benefit at least $100,000 in campaign and political testimonial funds and for collecting travel expenses from both the Senate and private organizations.

Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana and Republican Leader Everett M. Dirksen of Illinois announced the schedule to the Senate Tuesday.

Dodd, who has denied any wrongdoing, was notified in advance by Mansfield of the date set for taking up the censure resolution. "He raised no objection," Mansfield told a reporter.

Mansfield said Dodd had advised he could have counsel present on the Senate floor.

This was the practice followed in the Senate's last censure case in 1954, when the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy, R-Wis., was mitted or his parent body, the condemned for abusive conduct Senate Judiciary Committee.

Antiwar Group Remains Inside Pentagon Walls

WASHINGTON (AP)—A group of youthful antiwar demonstrators, who kept an overnight vigil inside the Pentagon, showed no sign today of giving up their protest.

One of the group said 13 demonstrators were fasting. The three who chose to eat were giving the Pentagon's canteen, he said.

Two Cabbies Brave Politics To Aid Police

NEW YORK (AP)—Two taxicab drivers braved bullets and oncoming one-way traffic Tuesday night to help police subdue a hoodlum suspect who, police said, had shot a drugstore cashier minutes earlier.

Poltz Inspector William J. Averill commended cabbies John Perry, 26, of the Bronx, and Stanley Aronson, 26, of Queens, for their alertness and help and patrolman Robert Morrison for the actual capture.

Averill gave this account: At 6:15 p. m. a man later identified as Oliver McBride, 20, robbed the Columbus Circle pharmacy of $137 after shooting the cashier, Morris Kaplan, 40, of Queens, giving the $137 to the gunman. Police said they found $210 in cash on the floor of the store, apparently dropped by the robber.

Kaplan's leg, wounded in the chest and arm by the single bullet. When a confederate, Julie Knauer, 40, of Queens, gave the alarm, McBride fired at him but missed.

House Unit OKs Hike in Salary For Legislators

HARTFORD (AP)—The powerful House Rules Committee unexpectedly gave a favorable report today to a bill that would double salaries of state legislators.

It was not immediately clear what action the Senate Rules Committee had taken on the bill.

Originally it was reported that the bill had been given a joint favorable hold, which means that there would be more discussion on the measure.

The measure would increase legislators' salaries from $1,200 to $2,400 for the biennium. It would increase their expenses from $750 to $1,500.

U.S., Soviet Vessels Sideswipe Off Japan

Red Ship Warned Off, U.S. Reports

WASHINGTON (AP)—A U.S. Navy destroyer and a Soviet destroyer scraped together in the Sea of Japan today, the Pentagon said.

From the Pentagon statement it appeared that the Soviet ship was harassing an American vessel.

The Navy destroyer was the USS Walker, assigned to an anti-submarine task group.

The Pentagon said the collision, a minor one, occurred when the Soviet destroyer attempted to overtake and pass the U.S. destroyer.

For an hour and a half before the accident, the Pentagon said, the Soviet destroyer had been operating in close proximity and was repeatedly warned "to avoid such dangerous maneuvers."

The Soviet vessel "made several close approaches to the ships of the task group including at least two which came within 50 feet," despite repeated warnings, the Pentagon said.

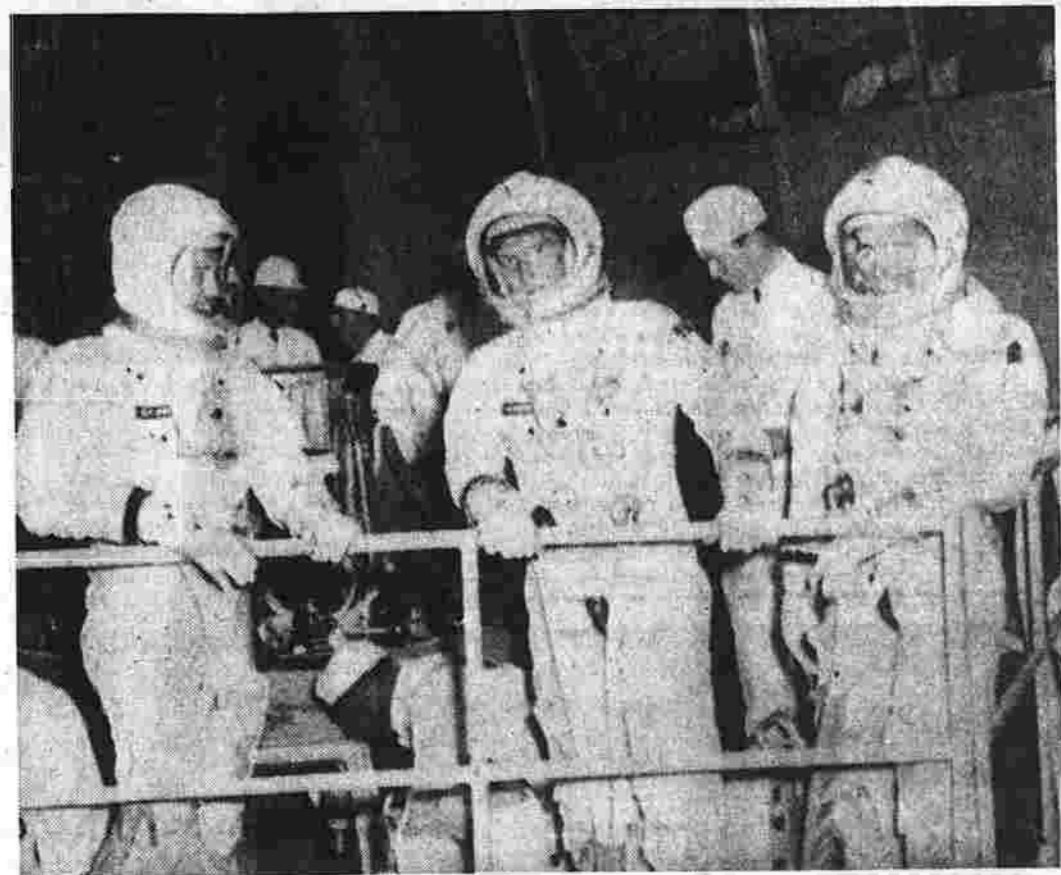

According to reports, no one was injured and there was only minor damage to the ships.

The Pentagon said the Soviet destroyer apparently was trying to observe training maneuvers of the American anti-submarine task group.

No further details on the incident were given.

The Walker is commanded by Cmdr. S. W. McClintock of Santa Barbara, Calif.

While the Pentagon made no comment on the incident, it seemed likely that the United States would view with seriousness the potential repercussions of such an American-Soviet confrontation.

Carrier-Based Bombers Hit Haiphong Airfield

SAIGON (AP)—A powerful strike force from three U.S. aircraft carriers bombed a MIG airfield just outside the North Vietnamese port of Haiphong today and two of the city's electrical power plants, including one inside the city limits.

The raid just after noon cost one Skyhawk jet shot down by Red gunners—the 50th U.S. combat plane reported lost over North Vietnam. The pilot was missing.

The two power plants had been hit before on April 29 but day but reported 34 Marines killed and 19 wounded.

The jets that raided the Haiphong area streaked off the flight decks of the carriers Enterprise, Hancock and Kitty Hawk.

A U.S. spokesman said the nighttime raids had good weather and the pilots reported their bombs on target. However, there was no immediate assessment of bomb damage.

Following the previous raids on the power stations, pilots reported the lights of North Vietnam's major port went out for one night.

The power plant inside Haiphong, in a northwest sector of the city, is part of an industrial complex which includes a cement plant that also has been limited. The other power plant is just east of the Haiphong city limits.

The coordinated strikes from the three carriers were among the heaviest raids ever made on the Haiphong area.

The Kien An airfield is a secondary base for the North Vietnamese. It is selling microfilm containing information that the six forces jets, spokesman.

GOLDTOWNE, Tex. (AP)—Eight persons were killed, including a trucker and an Alabama couple and five of their children, in a central Texas car-truck crash Tuesday night.

Three other children of the Alabama couple and a second person in the truck suffered injuries.

The proposal—initial step in a year-long Pentagon drive to streamline the Reserve forces—is expected to encounter stiff opposition from powerful members of Congress.

No Connecticut units are listed in the 15 Guard divisions expected to be eliminated under the new plan.

The 21-member Reserve Forces Policy Committee voted last week. The regular Army, the Guard and the Reserve drew seven representatives each on the panel.

Pentagon officials have classified details as secret. The Army said details include information on force structure, training and

Andover

Town Signs School Wing Bond Issue

Last week town officials completed arrangements with the Connecticut Bank and Trust Co. in Hartford for the $400,000 bond issue needed to finance the new school addition.

The bonds 80 in number of $5,000 each and with an interest rate of 2.9 per cent, will be due in amounts of $30,000 annually except for a few payments of $25,000 in the last few years of amortization.

With the assumption of this new bonded debt obligation, Andover is neither the borrower of more nor less long-term debt. In the last 10 years the town has paid off school bonds, the 1953 school cost and our share of the Ethan high school bonds of 1957, to the extent of $42,000 a year.

Thus, in 10 years the town has paid off about $400,000 and now takes on the same amount in new debt.

The Andover Garden Club has taken upon itself the beautification of the grounds of public buildings in town. To finance such projects it is necessary to raise some money at intervals. To do so it occasionally holds a sale of green things.

Mrs. John H. Yeomans, chairman of ways and means for the club, has announced a sale of annual plants and geraniums May 20 at her home on Rt. 6. Those people who missed getting their plantings at the PTA Fair Saturday will find an ample supply of what they need for their gardens.

Wine-Tasting Program The Andover Community Club, a group made up of young and relatively young couples in town, will meet Saturday at 8 p.m. at the Town Hall for a demonstration of the art of wine tasting. All members are to bring along the proper glassware needed for the technique.

Toward the end of the evening a sloop of rare sherry will be raffled off, followed by dancing on the floor laid down by the arduous labor of club members as one of their community service projects.

Demonstration Session Some town officials say that some citizens are still unsure of how a voting machine operates. Anyone wanting to know how to do this may go to the Town Office building Saturday afternoon, between 3 and 5 and get a demonstration. Also, on Town Election Day, May 15, a demonstration, before casting ballots will be available.

Army Doctor's Trial Opens; Wouldn't Train Viet Troops

COLUMBIA, S.C. (AP) — Alleged references to Special Forces soldiers as "barbarians" in a recent planning to call 40 or more witnesses in the court-martial of an Army doctor charged with refusing to obey orders and train men for Vietnam duty.

The five charges against the specialist in dermatology include refusal to obey an order that he train Vietnam-bound Army Special Forces soldiers in the treatment of skin diseases. A motion picture was shown to the court and the case transferred to civilian court was held in Washington Tuesday.

Dr. Robert M. Johnson, an attorney for the American Civil Liberties Union, argued for the transfer and said a soldier's right of free speech overrides the military right to silence him unless national security is directly involved.

He asked that the appeals court overrule a district court that refused last week to take the case from the military tribunal.

Irwin Goldblum, arguing for the U.S. Justice Department, said the Levy case involved military discipline, not freedom of speech.

Levy is asking unprecedented release, release which no court ever has granted," Goldblum said.

Levy also faces charges in Vietnam for refusing to serve in Vietnam if ordered to do so and his club.

Harry Walker is in his third full season as manager of the Pittsburgh Pirates, favorites to win the National League flag this year. The team has finished third in his two seasons with the club.

Levy's mother and father are in Columbia for the court-martial. His father, Howard Levy, is a sales executive for an electronics firm in New York.

Eisenhower Improving, To Stay Abed All Week

WASHINGTON (AP) — At least the remainder of the week, President Dwight D. Eisenhower, 74, will remain hospitalized for at least the remainder of the week while his condition continues to improve, say his doctors.

The diagnosis of acute gastroenteritis — inflammation of the lining of the stomach and small intestine — remains provisional more than three days after the first general was admitted to Walter Reed Army Hospital about midnight Saturday.

His doctors, however, say nothing has happened so far to alter their initial impression that only gastroenteritis beset him.

Doctors answered Tuesday night written questions submitted by The Associated Press.

Q. Is the diagnosis of acute gastroenteritis still a provisional one?

A. So far, no findings to alter initial impression.

Q. If so, what are the other possibilities as to the nature of the general's illness?

A. Speculation not appropriate.

Q. For example, is there any possibility that this illness is a recurrence of the general's regional enteritis attack of June 1959 — or a brand new attack of enteritis at a different site in the intestine?

A. No evidence at present.

Q. Is there any evidence of any obstruction in the gastrointestinal tract?

A. No clinical findings of mechanical obstruction.

Q. What tests have been made in establishing a diagnosis, and what others, if any, are contemplated?

A. X ray, blood studies and culture (test tube) tests for infectious disease of the gastrointestinal tract.

Q. Tuesday's medical bulletin, on the surface at least, does not appear to be as optimistic as Monday's. Is the general continuing to improve?

School Make-up Day Scheduled May 27

The board of education adopted the recommendation of the superintendent of schools last night on make-up days for the school system. School will be held Saturday, May 27, at Avery Street Elementary School, Pleasant Valley School and Union School from 8 a.m. to noon.

Orchard Hill Elementary School classes will open at 8:45 a.m. and run to 12:45 p.m. with kindergarten sessions (morning) to be held from 8:45 to 11:15 on this day.

On June 23, following the completion of a legal school day for the high school and the Wapping middle school, all schools will be released in the following order:

High school and Wapping middle school; Ellsworth middle school and the morning session of the kindergarten; Ell Terry and Wapping Elementary schools; Avery Street, Pleasant Valley and Union Schools and Orchard Hill.

The question arose during the winter when some schools were closed for a total of five days due to snow or extreme weather conditions and other schools were out only four days because of these causes.

In the school calendar for the current year, only three days were provided for snow days. Therefore, the additional days used resulted in less than the 180-day school year being in effect.

It has been anticipated that the state board of education would rule that a 178-day school year would be acceptable for kindergarten classes this year due to the extreme weather conditions of the past winter. No formal notification has been received on this matter to date, however.

Under the accepted proposal of the administration, the kindergarten classes would have a minimum of 178 days for the year.

Town schools requiring two additional days to fulfill the 180-day calendar are Avery Street, Orchard Hill, Pleasant Valley and Union.

Schools requiring only one additional day to complete the calendar are Ell Terry, Wapping Elementary, Ellsworth Middle School, Wapping Middle School and the high school.

State aid funds are based on the number of days that school is in session and if the 180-day requirement is not met, a resultant loss of state aid funds to the school system would be considerable.

Legislation Report
State Rep. Edwin A. Lassman reported to the board on a summary of legislation to date in the current session of the state legislature.

Rep. Lassman commented on legislation on the ADM grant funds based on $180 for the first 300 pupils and $150 for the remainder of pupils in the school system.

He commented that an additional $25 million would be needed for a policy of $180 "across the board" or for each pupil in the school system to be implemented.

A favorable report has been made by the education committee of the legislature on a special education act to include children with hearing handicaps. Under the act 100 per cent of the cost to the town for the construction or reconstruction of special rooms and alterations to provide for these children would be returned by the state.

Also, 75 per cent of the difference between the ADM grant funds and the actual cost to educate children with hearing deficiencies would be returned to the town. Transportation costs would also be included in the act.

Rep. Lassman termed the act "a major step forward." He noted that children of below kindergarten age and requiring special education would be included in the provisions of the act.

A bill providing for the payment of $14 cents per pupil for library books was also discussed by Rep. Lassman. He noted that the bill was geared to an "incentive action" by towns whereby towns will not receive funds unless an appropriation in addition to present appropriations is made.

Some $60,000 will be made available for this purpose, but will only be granted if the town makes an additional appropriation to present library funds.

Sick Leave Time
Personal policies of teachers' groups include a provision for 120 days of sick leave instead of the present 90 days and a provision of duty free time is also included in favorable recommendations.

Under the act, professional employees of the school systems would be entitled to an unassigned period, duty free of reasonable length each day.

Some $2 million has been recommended in state aid to school lunch programs. This grant would be to supplement "existing" federal aid to the program, Rep. Lassman said. A bill to make kindergarten

Teachers' Pay

The board, expressed his thanks to Rep. Lassman for his help and information to the board on the legislative acts concerning education during the current session of the legislature.

Superintendent of schools Charles Warner said a letter had been received from the Wapping Fair Association requesting the use of the Wapping Elementary school grounds, entrance corridor to cafeteria and other portions of the building for the annual Wapping Fair.

Supt. Warner said "the administration is not opposed to the use of the school but has requested a guarantee of a clean up of the building and maintenance of the floors so that the building can be used on Monday for school classes."

He also questioned the use of both the cafeteria and auditorium for the event, noting that "crowd control" could become a problem if both areas were used.

Returns of Funds
Mrs. Romeyn made a motion that the board request the town council to reconsider the return of Project Concern funds to the board. She commented that in light of the fact that the grand list for the town had surpassed any expectations of the council.

Supt. Warner said he had made an analysis of what is required of the school board budget. It is to meet the $170,000 cuts in the proposed budget and this would be discussed at the May 16 meeting of the board.

Also, the teachers' agreement, under mediation, and the results of a meeting with the transportation contractor for buses would be considered at this meeting.

In view of these factors, Supt. Warner suggested that the motion be withheld pending the May 16 meeting.

Mrs. Romeyn requested that the motion be temporarily withdrawn pending the next meeting.

Meeting with Planners
Both commented Rep. Lassman on his stand on the controversial pension plan for members of the state legislature. Rep. Lassman has issued statements in opposition to the granting of pensions to members of the legislature.

Robert Eversole, chairman of the board, said one of the reasons for the

He noted that the report would be in four sections—complete minutes of every meeting; an outline of suggested areas of study; recommendations of the committee and a bibliography of materials considered by the committee.

Tripp also said a report by the committee would be forwarded to the State Department of Health on some 77 films viewed by the committee pertinent to the subject including a critique of the committee's views of the films.

MISAC Inspects Apartments in Hartford, Meriden Area

Members of the church-sponsored MISAC Corporation toured Hartford and Meriden Saturday and inspected apartments for moderate-income families with the view of getting similar apartments built in Manchester.

The Manchester apartments would be financed 100 per cent by federal funds.

The group looked over a 78-unit apartment complex of Artway St. in Hartford built by E. E. Slisk Associates and looked at several projects, some completed, others being constructed by Carabatta Enterprises.

The members and Town Planner Joseph Turnsky, who inspected the Kennedy Building in Meriden, a 6-story concrete mill now housing more than 100 families and about a dozen of floors. The building was completely rebuilt inside; the outside, made of brick, was reworked into a bright, modern building. This, an other Carabatta building in Middletown, Waterbury and Bristol were financed by the FHEA.

MISAC (Manchester Interfaith Social Action Council) is a non-profit, non-stock organization sponsored by seven local churches. It was incorporated recently and its main purpose is "to provide on a non-profit basis, housing for moderate-income families."

The tour, which was originally scheduled for about 30 participants, was postponed because of rain.

When the tour members seemed surprised at this — the fact that left-handed bulbs even existed for special sockets — Bernard explained that he was making the request "because I've been losing about 100 bulbs burning bulbs in the halls, the tenants knew this and helped themselves."

He said the problem would be solved by changing the sockets. In the apartments which he kept the right hand thread sockets. Changing the ones in the hall to left hand thread and left hand screw-type bulbs would discourage the costly "borrowing," he said.

The only objection to the Slisk apartments was that they were too compact for the space, members said. The 79 units were in four buildings, built in many didn't go because of the main Saturday morning. Besides Turnsky and Klaus, the following MISAC members went on the tour: Hoyt Saultie, principal of Hill Junior High School; Irving Bayer, builder; Martin Mangun, housewife; Clifford Hansen, a stock broker and real estate agent; Samuel Peterson, a business executive and partner of the ABA Tool Co.

The inspectors for MISAC all indicated they learned much from the tour, including what light bulbs with left-hand threads are used for, and how placement of families of different nationalities is a crucial factor in renting apartments.

The group's first stop was in Hartford where Albert Bernard, MISAC chairman, showed the members the Kennedy Building. Bernard is the building superintendent, takes care of the leases and collects rents. He spoke quite frankly about the problems and advantages of the moderate-income type apartment complex.

He said persons representing 12 nationalities lived in the 79 units with a total of 98 children there.

As the group was preparing to leave, Bernard asked one complex owner about getting sockets for left handed bulbs installed in the halls.

Deputy Finds Kids Assets On Stakeout

DETROIT (AP) — For the Novak kids, a ride with deputy police officers was a lot more intriguing than most youngsters know.

Novak is a deputy inspector of the Wayne County Road Patrol and he has three deputies, Junior grade — Ann, 12, Michael, 8, and Richard, 7.

On five occasions, Novak said, he took his children along while watching a number of men suspected of crimes in western Wayne County.

Novak, a widower for two years, said he was unable to find a babysitter while on surveillance assignments.

He says, though, that things worked out well.

Driving an unmarked car Novak and his partner kept tabs on the suspects and "no one would ever suspect that we were police because we had kids in the car," he said.

So far, 28 men have been charged with burglary, theft and receiving and concealing stolen property as a result of the operation which ran from late January through early April.

SEARCHERS BIG DANGER SEDRO WOOLLEY, Wash. (AP) — The residents of Sedro Woolley are going batty over a "beep beep" that's been bugging them every night for a month.

The strange noise, which seems to fit through the wooded hills nearby, starts about 9:30 each night and continues until dawn. When the beeping begins, the usual frog and cricket noises cease, listeners report.

An estimated 400 persons drove out to investigate the mysterious sound Monday night, and two deputy sheriffs went out to check the noise wound up directing traffic instead. Sheriff John Boynton issued a public appeal Tuesday for people to stay home.

The source of the sound couldn't be as dangerous as some of those looking for it, Boynton said.

Wirtz Defends Rules
 WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz has defended his new regulations on radiation levels in underground uranium mines in the face of criticisms that are increasing and could force shutdowns of some mines.

Wirtz told a Joint Committee on Atomic Energy subcommittee he set the new standards after deciding there was little prospect the Federal Radiation Council would recommend any action. The council, made up of Cabinet members, has studied the matter for several years.

Subcommittee Chairman Carl Albert, D-Calif., called the new regulations impractical, a stance also taken by industry spokesmen.

Failure to change the regulations would expose miners to radiation levels which at least triple the prospects of dying of lung cancer, Wirtz contended.

Albert called the new standard arbitrary and criticized Wirtz' order requiring mining companies to prove they are in compliance. He said the companies would have difficulty doing so because of difficulties in measuring underground radiation levels.

Report Disputed
 WASHINGTON (AP) — The tobacco institute disputes a report on the varying fat and nicotine content of 56 brands of cigarettes.

The institute, sponsored by major manufacturers of tobacco products, called the findings of the report "unreliable and deeply misleading."

The report, dated April 11, was based on 56 brands of cigarettes. It listed the fat and nicotine content of each brand, claimed the tobacco institute.

Federal Aid Seen Unlikely To Finance Paper for Poor

WASHINGTON (AP) — A request had been received here but no action had been taken by the Federal Communications Commission to fund a newspaper for the poor in western North Carolina is not likely to receive approval from the agency, sources indicated today.

In the past, the Office of Economic Opportunity has refused to fund a newspaper project because, as one official said last week, "there are serious doubts as to the propriety of federal funding of a commercial newspaper."

The OEO has, however, given funds to local community action agencies which have used part of the money to print mimeographed newsletters explaining anti-poverty programs and giving other information. This is particularly true in Indian reservations.

When the request was made to the FCC, it was handled by the Federal Communications Commission staff report to President Johnson's Vietnam policies.

Vatican Vetoes Miniskirt
 VATICAN CITY (AP) — A Vatican City publication said the Holy See has vetoed a long radio program over local commercial stations.

Of the 13 Indian reservations in 20 states with OEO projects, 11 have newsletters to tell residents what community action is and how they can participate in it and other poverty programs.

Roll cooked asparagus stalks in their rectangles of warmed American newspapers, big and small, and to the American people, it is a step toward controlled press.

An OEO spokesman said the World Health Organization to establish a system to study and report on diverse effects of new drugs.

The Justice Department has asked the Federal Communications Commission for a grant of immunity from prosecution resulting from any further testimony. Kaslovi's refusal to answer grand jury questions means he can be jailed for months — the life of the grand jury — or until he decides to testify further.

He told the grand jury the bombings were done for propaganda purposes "to let people know the true nature of the Yugoslavian regime, its role in world politics and its role in Communist conspiracies against the free world and the United States."

Kaslovi, a naturalized citizen now living in Chicago, once was imprisoned in Yugoslavia because of educational expenses by teachers and physicians.

The pre-dawn bombings, most simultaneous, hit Yugoslav embassies at Washington and Ottawa and consulates in New York, Chicago, San Francisco and Toronto.

Gators Smell Rain Coming For Florida
 MIAMI, Fla. (AP) — Floridians are looking to Washington for what the U.S. Weather Bureau has not promised — relief from the drought for their animals and crops.

Sen. George Smathers, D-Fla., has urged Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman in a telegram to approve Tuesday's request from Gov. Claude Rik to declare 24 counties a disaster area.

Dried Everglades rebot-toms look like adobe bricks in the sun.

Miami is setting heat records. Stephen Foster's started Suwannee River is a coffee-colored trickle just 18 inches deep. Where flood markers show the Suwannee flooded to 40 feet, small mock rivers at the Stephen Foster Memorial cancelled cruises because their keels scraped bottom.

Kendall Toile, a member of the memorial commission, says, "It's still the Suwannee, and folks come long ways to see her, drought or not."

Miccosukee Indians, a break-away arm of the Seminoles who live in the Everglades, take the drought seriously. But Bobby Tiger, one of the Indians, said his alligators smell rain in the air despite Weather Bureau forecasts to the contrary.

"A big, grizzled gator lay along at the edge of a green pond. From inside him came a grumble."

"Listen," said Tiger. "That means rain. When the alligator sneezes like a hon, that means rain in the next few days. The alligator sneezes it in the air. He sneezes it to come."

In Miami, the Weather Bureau looked at its scientific instruments and said, "Half-inch accumulations of a few tenths of an inch will occur at a few locations resulting from widely scattered showers while most locations will receive little or no rain through the period."

N.Y. Furrier Kaplan Mixes Furs with Art

NEW YORK (AP) — With the help of his chauffeur, Jacques Kaplan is putting the finishing touches on a lot of fur coats. He has a jagged green eye, and a skinny square of cal fur that undulates like a go-go girl.

Out front in his chic Fifth Avenue showroom, Kaplan is busy becoming Jacques Kaplan the artist.

Kaplan customers have at ways taken in stride his zealous efforts to combine his fur and art.

Last year he commissioned Richard Amalievicz to create his eyeball battering on art terms and Mortel her audacious female nudes on the backs of his new fur coats. His theory had been that this would permit his clients to own an original work of art without depriving themselves of a new coat.

However, not all his artistic friends are enthusiastic about having him as a colleague.

"They are afraid they are going to lose a collector," says Kaplan with a purring French accent. "They may be right. If I don't sell mine, I'll have to move their work to find room in my wall."

Kaplan is an ebullient man with wire-rimmed glasses, gauzy bowties, a stocky physique and a Long Island sand dune tan. Though he is without any formal art training, he is assured success, even before his exhibit opens May 9 at the Waldorf Gallery.

His "Extended Zebras," an op animal fattened steamroller-like on a white acrylic painted canvas, has made the cover of an arts magazine. Another prestigious periodical plans to use a Kaplan fur art photo. Now, then, next July the Iolas Gallery in Paris will make a big fuss over him.

His zeal about zebras inspired him to form a circle canvas called "Crazy Mixed Zebras," partly painted, partly real animal. He has an "Exploded Zebras" too — "all opened up and blown out," he describes it.

Kaplan bounces from one steggy, unpredictable creation to another, giggling like a pariah school boy every time one of his animated fur jumps, whirs, shudders, pulsates, or lights up suddenly.

"My chauffeur is in charge of the motors," Kaplan explains in assured success, even before his exhibit opens May 9 at the Waldorf Gallery.

"I tried to persuade the gallery above mine to cut a hole in the ceiling so that I wouldn't have to shorten the pole. I thought it would be terribly amusing, growing like a bean stalk into another man's exhibit," said Kaplan.

His neighbor upstairs was not amused.

Highway Digging Turns Up Archeological Specimens

WASHINGTON (AP) — At least 10,000 major specimens of prehistoric artifacts were turned up by highway workers in the Midwest last week.

In the Night of Wages and Location Office of the Bureau of Public Roads, Kirk and James A. Carney, a highway engineer, made sure that archeological specimens were properly handled and that archeological salvage get to the world of science.

The Cleveland project cost some $110,000, of which 90 per cent is from federal funds and the rest from the museum.

Other highway archeology projects, by states, last year included:

Arizona — Exploration and excavation of prehistoric ruins in Mohave County.

Arkansas — Excavation and study by the University of Arkansas of an Indian village near Picking Lake.

California — In Sacramento, excavation and salvage of historic building foundations associated with the gold rush days.

Idaho — Excavation of an early Indian community area in Idaho County.

Illinois — Salvage of Indian artifacts in St. Clair County.

Iowa — Salvage of five Indian mounds in Lee County.

Nebraska — Archeological salvage of the historic Oregon House in Omaha.

New Mexico — Salvaging of several Indian sites in Grant County.

Tennessee — Investigations in the vicinity of the Tennessee River crossing.

Utah — Salvage operations in the Silver Creek Junction area.

When bulldozer operators started digging for a section of Interstate 71 near Cleveland, Ohio, they set off one of the biggest fossil hunts ever undertaken in the United States. Scientists collected 10,000 specimens. "Scientists evidently figure this is a big deal as far as they are concerned," James E. Kirk, a highway engineer of the Bureau of Public Roads, said in an interview.

Congress has said that federal aid highway funds may be used in archeological and paleontological salvage in highway construction. It follows a national policy of preserving for public use sites such as Indian ruins, historic buildings, fossils or other objects of antiquity that have national significance.

Since 1966, under the Highway Transportation Act, 118 federal aid archeological and paleontological projects have been undertaken in 21 states. Their cost totals some $1.4 million, of which $1.2 million was in federal-aid funds.

The initiative for such projects must come from the states. Agreements for the work both ourselves and Russia to courses which mean ultimate complete tragedy for both.

There may be a chance of keeping some check on the President, of reining him back to some semblance of the supposed objective of keeping this limited rather than a perpetually expanding war. It may conceivably be possible to get some sense out of us just as it can conceivably be national disunity which will destroy us. If everybody knew which, it would be an easy world.

All any of us can do is try to judge what is right for our country, in principle and then believe that what is right in principle will always accumulate its own special forces.

Computers As Handicappers
 The truly idiotic thing is the way we all joke about the computers, with such ready if tiresome repetition that we never take time to realize that the computers aren't joking, not at all. Even when we read that the patient has been cured by a small, convenient, desk-size computer which will figure out the individual's credit rating and put it on the line for his loan—what he has applied for his loan—even when we realize that a few years from now computers will be rating all of us as to our financial situation and that up in Canada, supposedly a country where sanity has better chances of surviving than elsewhere, one of the great banks of the country is now offering to use its computers to calculate member handicaps for golf clubs.

Different People Or Different War?
 Things are happening to the United States in connection with Vietnam which have not happened during other wars.

There is a heavy and almost continual flow of men into the war in the United States.

A wide variety of leaders of religion, of the academic scene of student bodies, and even, for that matter, a number of generals who have served their country with ability, distinction and courage in other wars are holding positions of dissent.

Draft cards have been burned. The American flag has been desecrated. Unprecedented numbers of people are refusing to serve in the war for one reason or another, some because they have decided they are pacifists, some because they have decided they object to this particular war.

Abroad, there is widespread criticism of the United States for its role in Vietnam. In much of the civilized world, the dislike for us because of Vietnam amounts to a pathological condition. It is a shadow which comes between ourselves and our best friends. Great world leaders, like the Pope and the Secretary General of the United Nations, appeal to us to take actions we refuse to take.

The great question is why all this is so at home and abroad. Those who try to give this question a single, simple answer usually come up with a theory that people and nations today are behaving differently to-day than they did in other wars. This means that at home our young people and our United States Senators are worse than our young people and our United States Senators were during Korea and two world wars. This means that other nations in the world must have changed too, and for the worse, otherwise why should they disapprove, now, of the war being fought by a nation which once fought their wars for them?

Reducing all this to the single answer again, it reads simply that "everything has changed, everybody is wrong except us" and even some of us have deserted the ship of state.

There is, of course, an alternative kind of simple answer. It is that this is a different kind of war. It is that people and nations have not changed, but that this particular war has elicited different reaction and different conduct from the same kind of people and nations which never did any of these things in other wars.

We incline, here, to the view that this is a different kind of war, not that the kind of people and nations we have, the kind of other nations "there are in the world have all changed."

Suppose this is so. Suppose it is the nature of the war which inspires the dissent. Suppose some of the dissent, therefore, has legitimacy and principle—the question then becomes that: what purpose does it serve? Should it not be abandoned, even if those who have been making it are still sure they are right, because it might give comfort to the enemy? What, indeed, is to be gained by continuing to criticize away at our American leadership? Won't it merely prolong the war, by handicapping our own leadership and encouraging that of the enemy? Isn't the only way to shorten the war one of piling everything we have into it, until we complete the sorry, tragic task? Since we all know and admit we are in it, and can't ever just pull out of it, why not our discussion, rally and close our minds, and back the President?

There are almost as many answers to such questions as there are individuals. But the one most important answer has to concern the question of whether the same leadership which has escalated us into our present dead end situation can be trusted ever to halt its escalation short of the confrontations which mean World War III. It may be noted that the "Hanoi Report" columnist, in this paper, has said that President Johnson may indeed reject the next series of escalations presented to him, as the next way to bring war to that ever elusive, ever-receding victory. But there is other opinion which does not expect the same President who has taken us in this dead end to refuse to go in ever a little deeper.

There are, for that matter, many signs that we may already have found

But perhaps some of us will be realistically stirred, at last, when we read that up in Canada, supposedly a country where sanity has better chances of surviving than elsewhere, one of the great banks of the country is now offering to use its computers to calculate member handicaps for golf clubs.

The thread this poses to the existing organizational structure of the golf clubs of the world can easily be understood by anybody who has been on either end of the handicapping process—either as a member of the committee which sets them, or as one of the players who has to accept them.

Perhaps, when it dawns strike into the sacred precincts of the ancient and honorable game of golf the computer will raise such a storm against itself that it may be repudiated and expelled from what should be other equally sacred corners of human living, like credit rating.

Cutting The Pile
 We Americans are casting aside our mountainous volume of debris, emptied the bottles, and used up the contents, cans, tubes, jars and other trash, and total is staggering. The President's Science Advisory Committee puts it at 25 billion bottles, plus another 25 billion of miscellaneous packages a year.

Some of this debris is burned. Some is collected and buried. Some of it, unfortunately, comes to rest as litter on beaches or roadsides. In recent years, 2,665 pieces of litter, ranging from gum wrappers to beer cans and bottles, were picked up in major cities. Leaders in the packaging industry have begun to express concern. William F. May, chairman of the American Can Company, gave voice to the concern in an address before the National Packaging Institute in 1965. The gist of that talk was that the volume of debris would increase in the years ahead, that the problem of debris would become more and more difficult, and that if the industry didn't take the long view and seek out some answers in time, the public would be imposed its own solutions.

The container industry itself, Mr. May pointed out, is partly responsible for making the disposal problem more difficult. He cited an article in the Harvard Business Review, "While the tin plate cans will rust and disintegrate in time," the article observed, "aluminum and glass are much more permanent, and the new family of plastic containers will probably be even more durable. None of these containers can be completely consumed by the incinerator. Consequently, the present trend toward throw-away tin drink and beer bottles and plastic milk bottles adds to the problem."

Mr. May has offered two proposals. He suggests that the packaging industry set up its own collection and disposal, because if it is incinerated, it pollutes the air, if it is buried, it may pollute the ground. "If we must bury the debris somewhere," he says, "so we are slowly filling the earth with our refuse, and one day we may fill the sea with it."

Mr. May's second proposal is that more research be made on degradable containers. These are containers which are sturdy enough to serve their principal purpose, but which are made of materials that disintegrate or "degrade" rather quickly after they have been thrown away. An example of a degradable container, easily crushed and disposed of, is the fiber-foam container, now being used increasingly for frozen soft drinks and for motor oil.

Inside Report

By Rowland Evans Jr.

WASHINGTON—Whatever he says publicly, President Johnson must not be having agonizing doubts about the escalation of his policy of escalation in Vietnam.

The harsh truth is that Mr. Johnson, prodded by his military advisers, has been gradually and discreetly extending the war in Vietnam, with the aim of reaching a point where the right to disengage himself is lost.

There is, of course, a large element of bravado in these words of General Vinh, who is also chairman of the reunification department of the Lao North Vietnam.

But what is happening today in the Viet Cong area of South Vietnam—the northern part of the country adjoining the Demilitarized Zone (DMZ)—is a parallel—gives his words an ominous ring.

When several divisions of North Vietnam's army moved south near the DMZ, raising the spectre of possibly massive attack, General William Westmoreland was forced to deplete his troops in the midlands and rush reinforcements to the First Corps.

Further protest on the part of the United States, having heard the "voice of the MUD," is an accomplishment in the TALMUD.

I wholeheartedly subscribe to the privilege of dissent. Dissatisfaction with the progress in Vietnam, and criticism of the administration policy on the Far East are well founded. Never before has the protest to war been as vocal or as effective; however, we have now reached a point where the right to disengage oneself is lost.

Long Plan Seen Doomed Election Fund Rider Tied to Tax Measure

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Senate finally has passed the so-called election fund rider, but it is tied to a tax measure which is expected to pass in the House.

The rider, which would provide for the creation of a new fund to be used for election expenses, is a key part of a long-range plan to reform the federal election process.

The rider is tied to a tax measure which is expected to pass in the House. The tax measure would allow a deduction for contributions to a new fund for election expenses.

Only 11-10 Margin Military Leaders Vote Reserve Cuts

The cutting edge of the Guard would be reduced to 45 divisions and 10 brigades—margined at 11 to 10.

Officials said most of the men now in these low-priority divisions probably would be absorbed into first-line units.

The officers and enlisted men in the four Army Reserve brigades, labeled as units also are expected to wind up in high priority units.

Under the plan as now drawn, even the eight high-strength Guard divisions would be reorganized geographically.

The effort is being made to merge as many states as possible at least one brigade or 4,500 men each.

Depledge countermeasures from the Hill, government and Guard divisions, four National Guard units have eliminated 10 Reserve divisions, four National Guard units.

No Solution Reached Over Lincoln School

A third joint meeting of the Board of Education and the Town Planning Commission, again resulted in the TPC's tabling the board's request to place a new Lincoln School in Center Springs Park.

The commission's action was by consensus not by majority vote, with both its chairman, John Lemmon, and Town Planning Commission chairmen, Robert J. Gordon, Jr. and Robert J. Gordon, Jr.

The package will be considered by Gen. Harold K. Johnson, Army chief of staff, and Secretary of the Army Stanley Secretary before being sent to McNamara for final approval.

In successive stages dating back more than five years, McNamara has sought to cut away those Guard and Reserve units which he considered surplus to war plan requirements and too lightly manned and equipped to be of any quick use in mobilization.

Historical Society has been re-organized with a large and enthusiastic membership. Souvenirs of historical significance are being collected, catalogued, and housed in the basement of Mary Cheney Library. A permanent home is still only a dream. It is Mrs. Spiese's hope that historically important buildings and local Manchester Historical Society will use as a base for proper marking.

Children's Museum
In 1928, Mr. Spiese offered to any school that would establish a children's historical museum his valuable collection of Indian and colonial relics. An editorial in the Manchester Evening Herald spoke of this offer as "the finest manifestation of intelligent public spirit."
Mr. Alfred Howe, superintendent of the English District Schools, and Mr. Thomas Bentley, principal of the Bentley School, accepted the offer. However, when the houses were constructed, the school carpenter shop, and soon the children became familiar with objects of early Manchester life: beadswork, baskets, hand-woven fabrics, armoire, dresses, boxes and armoires, tenon-joints, battle axes, and other relics. The houses were first to be dis-posed of in the Palatine, a German home of pre-historic origin. The houses were first to be dis-posed of in the Palatine, a German home of pre-historic origin. Civic Consciousness
History was not Mr. Spiese's only interest. This man's civic eye for the site of Indian and social consciousness led dwellings. At the time of Mr. Spiese's death in 1938, an editorial in the Herald stated: "The Manchester Evening Herald has been a witness to the fact that the Spiese family has been a constant force for the betterment of the city. U.S. to Use Dixie Educators In School Segregation War

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Office of Education will use Southern educators in a new effort to attack the summer on the more than 1,000 Southern school districts that have lagged in meeting federal desegregation guidelines.

Plans are to hire about 35 Southern school administrators and officials for the Office of Education's annual summer compliance drive.

The new program marks a shift in tactics. Last summer, about 100 Southern school districts were selected to work with and investigate Southern school districts having trouble complying with 1964 desegregation orders.

"We're looking for Southern school administrators who have had some experience with desegregation," David E. Seeley, assistant education commissioner for equal education opportunity, said in an interview. "We're looking for Southerners who know how to do it and do it right."

The idea originated with Harold Howe II, U.S. commissioner of education, who sent out letters earlier this year to state and local school officials in 17 Southern and border states.

Howe requested the officials to recommend likely candidates for the summer compliance drive and offered to pay between $750 and $1,200 per month for the summer.

Despite the relatively high pay, Seeley said only about 20 candidates have been tentatively accepted, although he hopes the program will enlist 25 men.

"It's a problem," he said, "how to get people interested. One of the major problems is the general lack of responsibility among education professionals in the South."

"By and large," Seeley said, "the education profession has not assumed its responsibility regarding desegregation compliance."

The educators will work with 60 part-time students this summer and visit districts throughout the South.

Last summer's law student school districts which have been cited for noncompliance with the Civil Rights Act stand to lose at least $15 million in federal school aid.

Statistics indicate that as of this year 12.5 per cent of Negro children are attending desegregated schools in 21 Southern states.

Recent Office of Education figures show 1,002 school districts in the South still have some segregated classes, although desegregation plans gradually are under way. An additional 219 districts are under federal court orders to desegregate.

Legislative Roundup

State Health Dept. Accused Of Lobby For Fluoridation

HARTFORD (AP)—A Republican state senator has accused the State Health Department of lobbying on behalf of compulsory fluoridation.

The letter was addressed to "dentists, physicians and individuals interested in fluoridation," and said: "Our 1966 fluoridation law is in trouble because the anti-fluoridationists have been successful in overwhelming the members of the General Assembly with mail."

"Your department's action," said Gunther, "certainly confirms what the opponents of compulsory fluoridation have been saying for years, that the department is set on slowing this measure down the throats of the people."

Gunther also said he may head a drive to have a bill that would repeal mandatory fluoridation petitioned on the Public Health and Safety Committee.

Earlier in the day the committee voted to kill the bill 15-10.

Asks Pension Hike - HARTFORD (AP)—The House has passed and sent to the Senate a resolution urging Congress to increase social security benefits 20 per cent.

The resolution received Republican support Tuesday, but House Minority Leader Nicholas A. Lange said the proposal "doesn't get to the fundamental cause of our slide."

Upgrading social security benefits has been requested by President Johnson to help the elderly offset the rising cost of living.

Lottery Ticket Bid - HARTFORD (AP)—Hoping Gov. John Dempsey will change his mind, the House has passed and sent to the Senate a bill legalizing the possession of up to five state lottery tickets.

The governor vetoed a similar measure two years ago, but the Democratic legislative leadership indicated Tuesday the year's bill will be signed.

Rep. Carl Ajello, D-Ansonia, said he felt the General Assembly was proceeding "too timidly." If possession of five lottery tickets was legal, possession of 500 tickets should be also, he said.

Yet Hits Rightists - HARTFORD (AP)—The national commander of the Jewish War Veterans told the General Assembly Tuesday that a "new ecumenism in politics" is needed to neutralize extremists.

Malcolm Tarlov of Norwalk said extremists on the right are more dangerous than those on the left "because they are not so easy to recognize."

The Jewish war veteran said the right-wingers "prey on the ill-informed patriotism of decent citizens."

More Study Ordered - HARTFORD (AP)—The House has sent to the Legislative Council for further study a bill that would not automatically court as a separate judicial entity.

Although he did not oppose the move Tuesday, Rep. Benjamin L. Barringer, R-New Milford, complained that the family court proposal "has been studied ad nauseam over the years."

Safety Bills Speedup - HARTFORD (AP)—The House has passed a resolution calling for re-examination and approval of pending highway safety bills.

The resolution, offered Tuesday by Rep. Victor Tuden, D-Windsor, called on the House to speed-up action on bills designed to promote highway safety that are stuck in committee.

Earlier in the day the Democratic leadership was criticized by Rep. Michael Morano, R-Groveland, for going too slow on bills related to accident prevention.

Opposition Develops - HARTFORD (AP)—Some opposition developed today at a legislative public hearing on proposals to lighten the state's system of higher education.

The proposals were developed by a special steering committee named by Gov. John Dempsey, who has been critical of the operation of the two-year-old higher education.

The major recommendation aired today before the General Assembly's Education Committee calls for approval by the Commission for Higher Education of appointment and terms of employment of the executive officer and staff of constituent units.

The Board of Trustees for Regional Community Colleges and the Board of Trustees for State Colleges.

Another recommendation would require approval of the commission for site selection for new facilities made by the constituent units.

Area Weather WINDSOR LOCKS (AP) — The U.S. Weather Bureau says that there may be a few scattered brief showers early this morning and again during the afternoon. Temperatures will reach the upper 50s or 60s as heavy northwest winds carry dry but cool Canadian air into southern New England.

The wet atmosphere of the past few days is gradually drying out. A low pressure system in New Brunswick province will move into the Atlantic today, while a high pressure system in the Mississippi River Valley moves eastward.

Sites will become fair tonight and temperatures will cool off rapidly as the wind dies out. Low temperatures will be 40 to 45 with a chance of some freezing temperatures in the deeper valleys.

On Thursday, the Mississippi Valley high will move over the Atlantic seaboard. Sites will be mostly sunny in dry air and temperatures will be warmer than today. Temperatures will push into the mid and upper 60s during the afternoon.

Mick and Keith

CHICHESTER, England (AP) — Mick Jagger and Keith Richards of the Rolling Stones appeared in court today on drug charges and chose a jury trial. So did Robert Frazer, owner of a pop art gallery in London's Mayfair section.

A holiday atmosphere prevailed outside the magistrate's court in this Sussex town for the appearance of the lead singer and the guitarist of the best-selling pop music group. All police-leaves were canceled to cope with any demonstrations.

Jagger, 23, was accused of being in unlawful possession of four tablets containing amphetamine sulphate and methylamphetamine hydrochloride.

Richard, 23, was charged with allowing his house on the Chancel coast at West Wittering to be used for the smoking of marijuana. Frazer, 29, was accused of unlawful possession of heroin and eight capsules containing methylamphetamine hydrochloride.

Sandra Hilder (AP) — The Australian man who tried to starve himself to death in a clear cruiser while it was docked in Sydney said Thursday he will appear in a court with his Coast Guard by friend.

Sandra Hilder, 20, who had in an admiral's cabin overnight April 19, and Seaman Bernard (Bud) Brewer, 23, will portray a pair of lovers in "The Young Man and the Sea" which stars Phyllis Diller.

Miss Diller met the couple during a news conference on the set and offered to marry them for $2.

They were joined in a free offer, reported Sandra Hilder, besides Bud's going to college when he gets out of the service.

The couple met two months ago while Brewer's ship was docked in Sydney.

Margaret Hansen (AP) — LAGOS, Nigeria (AP) — Margaret Hansen and her husband, Ian Hansen, left Lagos Tuesday after two weeks at sea.

Miss Hansen, 43, quit dairy farming in Middletown, N.Y., to make her second tour in Africa with the Peace Corps.

"I am nothing like the Peace Corps image," she said aboard the freighter African Lightering which carried her 100 letters from Vermont, New York and Connecticut. They left New York City April 24.

Tran Kim Thoa (AP) — SAIGON (AP) — An attractive woman member of the Saigon City Council announced today she will be a candidate for president of South Vietnam.

Tran Kim Thoa, 48, said she favored a policy of love and affection rather than tyranny and power.

She became the sixth person to announce a bid for the presidency in the Sept. 3 national elections. All the others are men.

we care

What is A Mother?

To her family, she's special.
 She's understanding,
 a banquet chef, a short order cook,
 a fountain of love, a chauffeur,
 warmth and security.
 She's clean socks, starched dresses,
 a mender of hurts.
 She's scrubbed ears,
 a tender nurse, a maid, a queen.
 She deserves a day of honor and tribute.
 She deserves the love of those she loves.
 Yes, she's very, very special.
 This Sunday, you'll tell your mother
 how much you care.
 We'd like to tell all mothers,
 "We Care, too."
