Hanoi Bars Peace Bid

TOKYO (AP) — North Vietnam rejected today President Johnson's offer for peace talk aboard a neutral ship in the sea. It reiterated Communist terms for ending the war in Vietnam.

The rejection was in an article of the Hanoi newspaper Vietnam Communist party. The article, signed by "the Communist," synonym of a high-ranking party official, was broadcast by Hanoi's Vietnam News Agency.

Commenting on Johnson's remarks made on the flight deck of the carrier Enterprise off San Diego Saturday, the article said: "On Nov. 11, aboard the U.S. aircraft carrier 'Enterprise,' Johnson made a vague statement that a peace conference can be held 'on a neutral ship in a neutral sea.'"

Johnson also brazenly claimed that the United States offers the dream of peace, so we include even the sea in our search.

"What else are U.S. aircraft carriers 'searching' for in North Vietnam except more of the North's barbarous bombing of the DRV (North Vietnam) territory?"

The Hanoi paper said, "We have many a time pointed out that there is no need of going a thousand miles to search for peace. Peace will be restored immediately after the United States stops definitively and unconditionally its bombing of North Vietnam, withdraws all U.S. and satellite troops from South Vietnam and lets the Vietnamese people settle their own affairs without foreign interference."

The article then repeated Communist terms for Vietnam peace by saying: "The basis for the settlement of the Vietnam problem is the four-point stand of the DRV government and the political program of the South Vietnam National Front for Liberation (the Viet Cong), the sole authentic representative of the South Vietnamese people."

Second General Dies in Vietnam

SAIGON (AP) — The United States lost its second general in the Vietnam War today. Maj. Gen. Bruno A. Hochmuth, 56, commander of the 3rd Marine Division, was killed in a helicopter explosion and crash north of Hue. Four men died with him.

The crash came little more than four months after Maj. Gen. William J. Cronin of the U.S. Air Force died in a collision of two B-52 bombers over the South China Sea while en route to a Communist target in South Vietnam. Five men were lost with Cronin, 48, in that accident July 6. He headed the Strategic Air Command's 3rd Air Division on Guam.

The U.S. Command also announced that Communist gunners shot down two American helicopters Monday in fighting along the coastal lowlands 300 miles northeast of Saigon. But it was not known whether Hochmuth's death was due to enemy action.

The general, a lawyer-lawyer, Texas who took command of the 3rd Marine Division in August, was on an inspection trip. The pilot of another helicopter accompanying him was killed in a crash when it appeared to explode in the air, broke in two and crashed on its back in a lake.

There were no survivors. Two American pilots, the American crew chief and a Vietnamese interpreter also died in the crash. American air power in the area, Hanoi and Viet Cong propaganda threatened vengeance against captured U.S. Marine headquarters in Da Nang said they did not rule out that possibility.

The flareup of fighting along the coastal lowlands coincided with a hill around Da Nang in the central highlands, after two weeks of hard battling there. Only occasional sniper and mortar fire were reported this morning after a fierce battle between Communist and South troops of the U.S. 173d Airborne Brigade were reported killed and another 33 wounded.

Classes were resumed at the National Guardsmen who helped put down a student riot at Central State University early this morning when they were ordered by highway patrolmen and sheriffs' officers.

University, law enforcement and military officials were in the area of the riot that resulted in the death of a student and at least 10 state patrolmen injured, including one with a broken leg.

The Greene County sheriff's office said between 300 and 400 students were involved. Several of those arrested also complained of injuries.

About 800 National Guardsmen moved into the area Monday night to help put down the riot. About half moved onto the campus and the others were on standby at the county fairgrounds four miles away.

Capt. Dwight Carey of the highway patrol said classes were reported on and off the campus. The display window was shot out of a furniture store two miles from campus and a fire caused damage to a grocery at Xenia, four miles from the campus.

Warren allegedly threatened to kill Stokes "when the revolution comes." His alleged remark reportedly was made while he was on the patrol camp to get supporters for a Central State demonstration.

Warren's plans to return to campus were announced at a student movie Sunday night by student Black Power advocates who earlier this month in support of demands made by nonacademic Central State workers.

Upon his return, several other students quickly joined him in barricading themselves in a class room. Classroom chairs, desks and other furniture were used to block the door.

The release of selected American prisoners instead of threats of reprisals against captives in general could mean the Communists think they might catch more files with sugar than with vinegar.

The tactic could be aimed at giving certain antiwar elements in the United States a sense of accomplishment, and thus hold the promise of building additional pressure against Johnson administration's war policy.

For about a week in that period Hanoi broadcast a proposal to the Viet Cong in the South that it "set up a court to try and appropriately punish those American pilots who are blood debtors to our people."

Hanoi Shifting Its Propaganda

By WILLIAM L. RYAN — The Vietnam Communist line with regard to their American captives illustrates a shift in propaganda emphasis over the past 16 months and suggest that both Hanoi and the Viet Cong are investing hopes in the antiwar movement in the United States.

In July 1966, after more than a year of air attacks on North Vietnam and heavy use of the Viet Cong in the South, Hanoi said it had captured the North American pilot and crew chief and a Vietnamese interpreter also died in the crash.

Rebuts New Charge

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's press secretary, replying to a news society's charge that White House news conferences are sometimes designed to be "show jobs" affairs, said today that the White House does not stage such conferences.

Signa Delta Chi, the national journalistic society, contended in a Freedom of Information Committee report that Johnson refused to hold conferences without reasonable advance notice. Consequently, the committee said, only regular White House reporters can attend and everything's organized for a "White House show job."

Presidential press secretary George Christian said Monday that the President has averaged better than two news conferences monthly since he has been in office and about half of them have been open to television-radio coverage.

Christian said that while the White House doesn't schedule televised sessions, the news works do have the opportunity of covering those that are to be televised.

Christian said Johnson has held 113 news conferences, with about half of them open to news reporters and the remainder also covered by television and radio or radio alone.

In War Protests Aitken Says Administration Implies Criticism Treason

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. George D. Aitken says President Johnson and administration officials imply Vietnam war policy critics border on treason.

The Vermont Republican calls it "biting below the belt."

"To imply that those who question the judgment of the President may not be wholly loyal to their country would seem to me to be hitting below the belt," Aitken said.

Humphrey said the greatest need at this point in the war is "support by the American people" which "can give a clear, unmistakable signal to our adversary and thereby shorten the war."

"I can tell him (Johnson) how to get unity," Aitken said. "Just let somebody drop bombs on Silvertown, Md., and Falls Church, Va., and he will get them. The American people will."

PARADISE EXPERT
INVENTS END PLAY

By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Something funny happened on the way to a cash prize of $12,000 two weeks ago at the Grand Hotel in Las Vegas. All of the famous experts were knocked out of the annual International Rubber Bridge Championship, and the top prize went to Robert E. Krotz, a Pasadena accountant, and Clark Merritt, a retired tax auditor. Krotz earned his victory by making "four hearts on the hand shown to him."

Opening lead — King of diamonds, and Krotz won with the ace. Declarer led a spade to the queen. West, an internationally famous expert, continued with the ten of diamonds.

Krotz ruffed in dummy and ruffed another spade, confirming the expert's lead. He then led his last diamond, and West took it. West covered with the nine of diamonds, and Krotz discarded a club from dummy rather than ruff with dummy's trump. It was West's turn to think, and he came up with the right answer — his last diamond.

Complicated Position
Krotz had already taken seven tricks and still had one trump in each hand. If he ruffed the ace of spades in either hand he would get his other trump trick, but this would still leave him one trick short. Instead of ruffing, Krotz discarded a low club from each hand. This left dummy with two spades and a trump and South with two clubs and a trump. West's last three cards were the ace-queen-jack of clubs.

If West led a low club declarer would discard from dummy and win with the king in his hand. If West led the ace of clubs, dummy would ruff and South would take the last two tricks with a trump and the king of clubs.

It was an inventive end play.

Changed Bill

After Alaska became a state, the U. S. House amended an existing law that protects bald eagles under the American flag everywhere "except in the territory of Alaska," removing the exception.

NEW YORK (NEA) — Bill Crawford thinks it's very nice to win a trophy because it represents an accomplishment but "it's not enough of them in his life to stand alone as a work of art."

Crawford, chief editorial cartoonist for the Newspaper Enterprise Association, knows something about trophies. He has won enough of them in his field career as cartoonist, sculptor, painter and champion field archer.

"I am so sick and tired of seeing loving cups and bowls and shiny chrome figures of football players and golfers that I'm wondering why people bother to give anything other than money," he says.

Crawford was recently given the opportunity to translate his ideas into sculpture when he was commissioned to create the Nine Flags Trophy for NEA's American Road Race of Champions, the country's biggest racing spectacle, Nov. 22-26 at the Daytona International Speedway in Florida.

"This was, Crawford admits, something of a challenge because sculpture is basically static. How can you get a sense of motion or speed and man's control of speed, which is what racing is really about?"

And then the idea came: "For me, the most dramatic moment of a race is when the starter drops the checkered flag as the winner crosses the finish line." Crawford explains: "That great, flapping flag is the extension of the man. And the man through the flag, shows to all who is the fastest, who is the best."

Nine different flags are most often used during a race, ranging from the green start flag to the checkered finish flag. Coincidentally, sponsor of the American Road Race of Champions with NEA used this newspaper in Nine Flags International, makers of men's grooming

Tolland Town Subdivision Bought by Acorn Company

The Acorn Construction Company of Glastonbury has signed the bond for deed, purchasing the 55-lot Tolland Town subdivision off Old Stafford Rd., town counsel Robert King stated yesterday.

The purchase agreement is subject to approval of the letter sent to the Board of Selectmen Nov. 2, outlining proposed road specifications and completion of a title search.

The Planning and Zoning Commission granted preliminary approval to the proposed road spaces at its meeting last week, subject to review of profiles and maps on file in the town clerk's office.

Acorn Construction will complete the roads in the existing portion of the subdivision to the 10 occupied homes, before starting on the undeveloped section. The company will be required to post a bond for the road construction work.

The company will then sell the lots to a builder.

The situation at Tolland Town has long been a headache to the town and the selectmen as well as an eyesore. King stated at last Monday's PZC meeting.

The original builders of the subdivision went bankrupt before the houses and roads were completed. The bank foreclosed on the homes, finished them and sold them. The purchasers were informed the roads were not accepted by the town. The town has fulfilled a "moral obligation" by paving the roads, but residents had reported the deterioration of the roads during the past few years.

The proposed road specifications are a compromise between what was required by the town at the time the houses were built and the present road space. Former First Selectmen Carmelo Zanghi has gone on record stating the proposal will provide the town with "good results."

Crawford and his Nine Flags Trophy

No Love for Loving Cups

By ROBERT COCHRAN
NEA Staff Correspondent

NEW YORK (NEA) — Bill Crawford thinks it's very nice to win a trophy because it represents an accomplishment but "it's not enough of them in his life to stand alone as a work of art."

Crawford, chief editorial cartoonist for the Newspaper Enterprise Association, knows something about trophies. He has won enough of them in his field career as cartoonist, sculptor, painter and champion field archer.

"I am so sick and tired of seeing loving cups and bowls and shiny chrome figures of football players and golfers that I'm wondering why people bother to give anything other than money," he says.

Witness in Mail Theft Trial Describes Driver of Truck

BOSTON (AP)—A Civil Serv investigator from Malden says he saw a "big headed" man with roddy complexion, sandy hair and old fashioned horn rimmed glasses driving a U.S. Mail truck on Route 3 in Plymouth the night of the $1.5 million mail truck robbery.

William F. Fitzgerald, eighth witness for the prosecution in the week old Plymouth mail robbery trial, testified in U.S. District Court Monday that he was driving north on the highway about 8 p.m., Aug. 14, 1962 when he spotted the truck.

"Government prosecutors claim the robbery—biggest cash theft in U.S. history—took place on an isolated section of Route 3 about that time.

One of the defendants, John J. Kelley, 53, of Watertown, is accused of holding up the truck with another man and robbing it of $1,551,277 in cash after driving it to a secluded spot.

Under examination by U.S. Atty. Edward Lee, Fitzgerald said he got several "penetrating glances" of the man at two different times when he pulled abreast of the truck to pass.

He said the man was wearing a cap and had a "longish type" nose.

Judge Charles E. Wyzanski, for the benefit of the jury, asked him to point to anyone in the crowded courtroom who might have a similar nose.

Fitzgerald pointed to a man seated at a table near the front of the courtroom. The judge and the jury began laughing. The man was U.S. Atty. Paul F. Markham, head prosecutor in the trial.

Talk Slated By Dr. Horton

Dr. Frank Horton, Manchester pediatrician, will speak on "Sex Education for Elementary School Children" at a meeting of the Verplanck School PTA tonight at 8 in the school auditorium.

Because of the timely nature of the subject, the meeting will be open without charge to the public.

Board member Donald Morganston noted the board's responsibility only embraces the plan for a coordinated program of "family life" education for all grades, K-12. Such a program would include sex education.

A question period will follow Dr. Horton's presentation.

Along with the talk, a 30-minute film in sound and color will be shown and discussed.

Refreshments will be served after the program.

Dr. Horton, a native of Providence, R.I., has practiced pediatrics in Manchester since 1930 except for the period 1952-54 when he was recalled to service in the U.S. Navy.

He is the father of two and resides with his family at 43 Princeton St.

Tolland Town Clerk's Pay Request Reviewed by Finance Board

The Board of Finance last night reviewed the $7,800 annual salary request submitted by Town Clerk Gloria Meurant and postponed action until the board meets with the Board of Selectmen Dec. 12.

Mrs. Meurant also submitted a $2 hourly wage for an assistant town clerk up to the present 800-hour maximum per year.

Other requests submitted by the town clerk called for expanded space for the town clerk's office, an extension of the hours permitted to be worked by the assistant town clerk to 8:30 and the purchase of a reproduction camera to photograph town records.

Board member Atty. Harold Garrity submitted a study of town clerks' salaries in towns of similar size, notably Madison and Andover, which have similar populations and pay their town clerk $12,000 and $12,800 respectively.

He did not recommend any salary amount for Mrs. Meurant, noting the town meeting called for the Board of Finance and the Board of Selectmen to decide the salary together.

The average salary of the Tolland clerk, on a fee basis for the 1963 to 1966 period was $9,355. In 1966 she received $10,802; 1964, $8,907; 1965, $10,404, and 1966, $7,800. The average work week is 29 hours locally, compared to 33 in Garrity's study.

The Board member Donald Morganston noted the board's responsibility only embraces the plan for a coordinated program of "family life" education for all grades, K-12. Such a program would include sex education.

The board agreed to take action in co-operation with the selectmen at the Dec. 12 meeting. The expansion of space and other requests will be given further study for recommendation only.

Effective Jan. 1, the new salary will become effective Jan. 1. She is presently paid on a fee basis for work performed by the office.

The method of payment will be changed to a salary basis in which she will be paid by the town. The fees collected through her office will then go to the town as income.

The town clerk presently sends local records to Coventry to be photographed. It is becoming increasingly difficult to find places to send them, Garrity noted in his report.

The purchase of a reproduction camera would require a great deal of space, according to Garrity.

Board member Frederick Carpenter questioned whether there was enough available space in the already cramped town hall to accommodate the camera.

The board agreed to set the second Tuesday of every month

Public Opinion Polls Show LBJ Near Bottom of Barrel

WASHINGTON (AP)—In speeches, this writer has been public opinion President Johnson, according to the polls, is near the bottom of the barrel. There is no place for him to go now but up.

To go up he'll have to start fighting, for a change. Much of his time in the White House has been like living in a monastery. He has done so little talking to the people about national problems.

But as a politician, and with the 1968 elections coming up, it can be taken for granted he will try to fight to restore himself in the public mind. How he fights will be one of the most fascinating full-length talks on Vietnam was Sept. 28. It's hard to remember when he did the same before. Instead, he has a habit of throwing in bits and pieces on Vietnam in a speech.

But those bits and pieces, in a talk that roams over other subjects, too, get lost in view and memory. Recently Johnson has been depending on aides—like Vice President Hubert H. Humphrey and Secretary of State Dean Rusk—to answer the critic's questions on Vietnam. The result: the public has forgotten his tremendous achievements with legislation in 1966—wouldn't even remember.

His concentration on the war dragged on, as it had been doing before. The Vietnam war, it seems to have gotten in the way of working on Congress. That shows now Johnson's standing with the people is at an all-time low. Yet, between Glasboro and now nothing has changed.

Since the biggest monkey on Johnson's back is, and has been, almost from the beginning of his presidency, the Vietnam war, it would seem he would use every device to lighten the load.

One handy device would have been repeated talks to the nation on the war, with explanations. Years from now biographers and historians will have a field day trying to explain Johnson's growing reluctance to make nationwide talks.

This is particularly strange since, in private, he talks incessantly and with force. He really is not at his best making

A Constitution Rejected... Voters of the state of New York, last Tuesday, voted 2,360,813 to 1,368,472 against the adoption of the new state constitution which had been submitted to them by their Constitutional Convention.

The decisive nature of the defeat was a surprise. It was, in many respects, a controversial document, which many of the state's political leaders felt required to oppose for one reason or another.

But the proposed Constitution's most controversial single item was supposed to be one which, on the prognostication of most routine observers, would at least serve to preserve it from any such ignominious defeat, and make the decision close.

The most controversial thing the proposed new Constitution would have done was to repeal the existing Constitution's legal separation of church and state.

The reason the presence of this controversial change was supposed to bring important support to the new constitution was that the change would make it legal to extend all kinds of public aid to the parochial schools of the state.

The Catholics of New York state were supposed to be so eager to grab such benefits for their parochial schools that they would vote all troops to the polls and vote unanimously for the new Constitution, no matter how unworthy a document it might be in their respects.

And some of the religious leadership did, perhaps unwittingly, ask them to do just that.

The voting returns last Tuesday showed, clearly enough, that New York state's Catholics did not vote as a bloc on the new Constitution. Many voting districts where the registration was clearly and predominantly Catholic nevertheless voted against the new Constitution.

One thing political observers were concluding, the next day, was that there was no such thing as "religious bloc voting" in New York, "no monolithic Catholic vote."

His Williamsburg Swing... It was narrated in yesterday's news that the President of the United States repaired to a golf course Sunday afternoon and that the club professional was played in his foursome reported that the President was hitting the ball "surprisingly well."

There was also in the news, although not in the same story, an explanation of why the President, on that particular Monday afternoon, might have been addressing himself to the ball with a certain added instinct to hit something hard and square and drive it far.

The President had that morning, attended church. And church, in Williamsburg that morning, had proved to be something rather different from church as it has normally been for the President, in his Washington and Texas attendances.

The Washington and Texas pastors who normally have the privilege of preaching to the President happen, pleasantly for him, to be clergymen who find it in their conscience to dissent, even when they find him sitting in front of them, sermons in which they support his leadership in the war in Vietnam.

But, since the controversy over the war in Vietnam is so divisive, through the ranks of the clergy no less divisively than it runs through the Congress, the colleges, the general population, it has always been a possibility that the President might, sooner or later, stray into a sermon which didn't just pat him on the back and give him more religious backing for his conduct of the war.

This was what happened Sunday, when the Rev. Cotsworth Finckley, Rev. Latta, mounting his pulpit to deliver a sermon on world affairs, found the President of the United States sitting in the congregation and then proceeding not only to deliver his scheduled sermon, but apparently to throw in a few special questions about Vietnam for the special benefit of the President.

There were, immediately, those who considered the mere questioning of the war from an opposition point of view a terrible breach of etiquette. Most of us, however, will fall to see how, if it is all right for other pastors to make a special point of approving the war in Vietnam when they happen to see the President in one of their pews, a pastor who happens to find himself severely troubled by the war does not actually owe it to President and nation, and not merely to his own conscience, to make him one point of view known.

The questions the Rev. Mr. Lewis posed in his sermon Sunday were—and this could be an additional explanation of the special fervor with which the President hit those golf balls later in the day—questions the President might have imagined himself to have answered during the $10 million seven-speech tour he had just completed. The Rev. Mr. Lewis, in however, still needed to say they could not be some clearer statement of the why and how of our policy in Vietnam.

The chief reason any such question could still be asked by the President was that he had made seven speeches on the subject in the last part of all of patriotism, that all of love of country, that all of worship of freedom, that all of honest solicitude for the American boys he has sent to Vietnam, that all of godliness must inevitably be on the President's side of the issue. But, as he was reminded Sunday, the President's division against him extends through stabilities as deep as his own, and even, of course, into the pulpit. That this should be so is not the result of sudden emotional ideas one way or another, or even, as the Sunday sermon so kindly suggested, the result of any failure to explain and communicate properly, but a result of the particular facts about this particular war. These basic facts—and nothing else—are the major cause of our disunity. This is a possibility the President himself never admits. And that in turn may be why the more speeches he delivers in behalf of unity, the less unity there is.

Connecticut Yankee

By A.B.O. There was a cruel ironic just thrown in. That came when the voters of Hartford re-elected the first plumb of that city's new political era to a Republican...

The key charter change is that which provides for the election of a strong mayor in 1968, two years from now. The city manager will be replaced by the new Charter claimed to be preserving the city manager even while they created a system for political responsibility.

Although this might have seemed to have been a rather important choice for the people of Hartford, not a civic vote, not any ingering warlike from the outside, it was a vote of 20 years ago, appeared on the scene this year to alert the people that the mayor might be losing something they really wanted to keep.

Any slight stirring of civic leadership, these statistics indicate, could have turned the Democratic machine back once more. But there was no such slight stirring. To the contrary, there were numerous civic leaders who allowed their prestige to be used in behalf of the charter changes.

One of the thoughtful touches in the new Charter provides that the mayor elected last Tuesday, although still mainly ceremonial in power, shall be receiving a $10,000 salary for the 1969 date when the new charter goes into effect.

Vernon 16 Courses Added At High School

In giving approval to 16 additional to the high school curriculum last night, the Board of Education in effect liberalized the program of study.

The subject cost of adding these courses to the existing curriculum will be about $4,500. The science summer study program will cost about $4,500. This will be one coordinator to be added at an hour and a secretary, $2 an hour.

Professional books and other materials will cost about $40. Included in the expenses is a proposed to bring in a University of Connecticut consultant for a day or secondary subject teachers for one or two days.

Major goals of the study are: Selecting topics to be covered in each grade; determining the best method of teaching; developing experiments and audio-visuals to go with the material; determining supplies needed for experiments and budgets; correlating library reference materials with the course.

WASHINGTON — While rejoicing over the victory of New York's Democratic leader, Governor Rockefeller, the Democrats in Indiana are furious over the loss of the state to the Republican National Committee.

So the question arises: why, in the face of the permanent artificial Christmas tree, should we persist in the expensive, wasteful folly of the natural pumpkin? # Shirley Temple Hopes For Political Debut

The San Mateo County registration is predominantly Democratic.

The special election was set by Gov. Ronald Reagan to fill the seat vacated by the death of Rep. J. Arthur Younger, a Republican.

Mrs. Black, who wants the Vietnam war pressed to a military conclusion on decisions left to the Joint Chiefs of Staff, and McCloskey, who favors a negotiated peace and a withdrawal within the next two years, were rated strong as Republicans.

On the Democratic side, it appeared to be narrowed to a race between Edward M. Keating, the author-attorney who founded Ramparts magazine, and Roy A. Archibald, 47, a consultant for the state's largest city, San Mateo. Keating demands an immediate stop to the bombing of Vietnam and negotiated peace. Archibald favors stabilizing the military position by stopping the bombing and negotiating.

The flare-up of campaign's end between McCloskey and Mrs. Black was over his position on what to do about South Vietnamese civilians "should we permit South Vietnam to fight its own war," then stopping the bombing and negotiating.

The polls are open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. The county clerk's office expected the registration machine tabulation of the complete but unofficial count to be available around 10 p.m.

Alcoholic Housewives: Hidden Health Problem

Mary is a mother of four and has been married "more than once." Very self-spoken, Mary at 37 has the appearance of being very tired.

"I was a loser. That's the only way to describe it," she explained. "When things started going wrong, I'd always find someone or some situation to blame my problems on. It never occurred to me that there was any correlation between my drinking and my problems."

"The last couple of years, my life was just a crazy merry-go-round and nightmare of drinking. When a woman is an alcoholic she's a mess, so ashamed, she just hides."

"It's just not an acceptable for a woman to be drunk as it is for a man. So she won't seek help... she feels she's so bad she can't face anybody. And it's easier for a woman to get into a bad habit, and she's just so tired, she just goes to bed and she doesn't care."

"You know that you're going to go through hell and get sick when you start believing your own lies," admitted one of the women. "You just can't be happy. You're either an alcoholic or you aren't."

"She hasn't heard of a partially pregnant woman here? Well, there is no partial alcoholism here. The only thing you're cured is when they bury you."

Sue is 36 years old, an attractive and well-groomed woman, a wife and a mother. She has had three marriages. Her first marriage lasted only a few months — taking one day at a time.

"Just remember, what I'm telling you isn't something in the past," Sue began, with a cup of black coffee close at hand and a lit cigarette. "It was me, my life just eight months ago... and it can be me again. All I have to do is take one drink."

"When did Sue's problems begin? When she started drinking," "I was 17 years old, that's when it started," she remembered.

"Every time I'd start on a binge, I'd say: 'Oh God, I hope this time I don't get sick or in trouble... but that doesn't stop an alcoholic.'

"I'd disappear from home for days at a time. I found myself in Las Vegas once and didn't know how I got there. I lied and cheated. You just do anything to get a drink."

"I'd sit with any man who would buy me a drink. I didn't look like I did now. Weeks would go by and I didn't bathe or even comb my hair. It got so bad I couldn't sleep, couldn't eat. I've been in jails and hospitals and places you'll never dream of."

An alcoholic is shrewd and clever when it comes to drinking explained Sue. "When I was working for awhile, well I used to get a couple of drinks at the office. Then I'd empty half of it and go to my car. I'd fill the rest of the bottle with booze and drink it in the car... that's what a lot of girls do on the job."

The children of an alcoholic mother become shrewd, emotionally unbalanced and misguided also. Sue's young ten-year-old son was "just as sick as me" because of my drinking as I was when I was an alcoholic. "When I would wake up in the mornings, I'd have to have a little boy, he was 13, would hide my bottle at night after I went to bed."

"Then he'd offer to sell the bottle back to me in the morning... and I'd pay him just to get that drink."

"We have no business in a civil war," Mrs. Vivian Williams, Lockman's mother, collapsed loudly in the court after hearing the prison sentence for her son.

Mrs. Williams and Lynette Folk, 30, Philadelphia, Lockman's girl friend, sat by him with tear-filled eyes at a news conference after the court proceedings.

No Skirts for Men, Insists Designer

By JEAN SPRAY WILSON AP Fashion Editor

NEW YORK (AP) — Despite tunics, togas, kilts and caftans domed from time to time by men, British royal dressmaker Hardy Amies insists skirts will never again be seriously worn by men, regardless of the designers of some avant-garde fashions. Instead, a man's trousers suit is such a thing of beauty and practical engineering that to Amies there is little wonder it is covered by the weaker sex.

Described as "part American, part Italian Continental, and part British Teddy," Amies' trousers fitted below the waist "to make a nicer curve," he said. "The suit is made of slinky over-shoulder and a half inch heels. Higher heels are sure to be hit with ball girls out with shorter skirts."

Though the Amies collection for men included turtleneck shirts with blazer suits, the British designer said he would not make a skirt for men. "It's not a fashion," he said. "It's a fact. Men will never wear skirts. It's the old story of the ready-made clothes store. The new line of suits appeared, and shoes labeled 'Hardy Amies, U.S.A.'"

As for fur coats, they are practical, useful enough for men, he said. "But fur is usually a tribute to femininity. It's the old story of the ready-made clothes store. The new line of suits appeared, and shoes labeled 'Hardy Amies, U.S.A.'"

But Americans are eager to catch up, he has observed. "I've seen men in London who have the skirts they believe they are dragging home the best for the skirts to accept higher-heeled lady fair. It's too strong in our shoes, bright colors, curly silks, practical, useful enough for men, he said. "But fur is usually a tribute to femininity. It's the old story of the ready-made clothes store. The new line of suits appeared, and shoes labeled 'Hardy Amies, U.S.A.'"

Guard Enforces Armistice After Riot at Ohio's CSU

Warren later left the campus and was arrested several hours later at Yellow Springs, eight miles north of the city. All of those arrested were jailed in Xenia for a meeting of the Municipal Court Judge Joseph L. Hager said 80 of those taken into custody would be charged with disorderly conduct and be eligible for release on bonds of $25 each. Warren, the judge, also read the state's riot act.

Eight varieties of trees were planted according to a plan worked out by Rudy Fawcett, professor of landscape design at the University of Connecticut. (Herald photo by Eusebio Vicius.)

Weiss Seeks to Save Money By MWC Appraisal Delay

Town Manager Robert Weiss said today that, in order to effect a saving for the town, he has put off until after the first of the year the hiring of two appraisers, to determine the value of the Manchester Water Co. (MWC).

The Board of Directors, in September, allocated $25,000 for the appraisals, needed to fulfill terms of an application for a rate-of-return agreement.

The state's cost will be for open-space appraisal only, he explained. The town still will pay the cost for appraising water company's physical plant, its mains and its pumping equipment.

Weiss originally had asked for a $100,000 appraisal of property outside the water company's holdings and facilities.

U.S. Teens Yearly Spend $18 Billion

NEW YORK (AP) — Things a columnist might never know if he didn't open his mail:

American teen-agers are in the big money. They now spend $18 billion a year. Older teenagers—the 16-to-19 age groups—have an average of $17 a week to spend from their own earnings and parental allowances.

It has been found that a woman ironing uses up more energy than a bricklayer does on the job. This will surprise no woman.

What will you name the baby if it's a boy? The most popular male names at the turn of the century were, in order, John, William, Charles, George, Joseph, Edward, James, Louis, Francis and Samuel. Top favorites today are Michael, John, Robert, David, Stephen, Anthony, William, Joseph, Thomas and Christopher.

Starvation diets, under strict supervision, are the most effective way to lose weight, an international medical convention in Switzerland was told recently. With or without supervision, this has always been true. It is estimated that more than half of the entire population of the world still suffers from hunger or malnutrition, or both.

Do you see your dentist at least twice a year? Only a fraction of the American population does. One-third of the nation never—or almost never—goes to a dentist.

Quotable notables: "You will find that at the times when life becomes most real, in the great times of life, almost every man or woman becomes a poet at heart, as when in love or in the moments of great loss or bereavement."—John Hall Wheelock.

Farwell appearance: One of the last things Queen Marie Antoinette did before losing her head to the guillotine was to have herself painted in her full court regalia. She wore a mauve foundation cream made of vanilla, almond paste and violets; two scarlet spots of rouge on her cheeks; her eyelids were tinted green and the veins of her temples tinted blue. On her head was a high, collapsible wig decorated with diamonds and lace.

Tip to bachelorettes: If you're looking for a husband, girls, you'll probably do better in Massachusetts than Manhattan. Last year was the third biggest bumper crop of marriages—1,844,000—in U.S. history. But the number of weddings in New York City fell off 7 per cent from the year before, whereas in Massachusetts it rose by 14 per cent.

Weekly quiz: Magsazine publisher J. I. Rodin says now that police are using voiceprints as well as fingerprints to catch criminals, crooks may start wearing gloves on their tongues.

In focus: Posterity won't have to wonder what we looked like, no matter how much it may wonder at what we did with our lives. More than 50 million U.S. families own one or more cameras.

Worth remembering: "The world isn't really any worse. It's just that the news coverage is so much better."—Farmers' Almanac.

History lesson: Can you identify the U.S. presidents who... following nicknames: "Cincinnatus of the West," "Frog," a "crackpot," the "Tasmanian Devil," "Old Vet," and "Schoolmaster in Politics"? They were, in order, James Washington, Andrew Jackson, U.S. Grant, Grover Cleveland, and Woodrow Wilson.

Shakespeare: Earthquakes—there's usually one major one a year on the average, as well as nature's quietest way to cut down the human population. An earthquake in California in 1792 took 20,000 lives, more than the present population of Alaska. Between 1868 and 1925, five violent quakes killed over half a million people in China, Italy, Japan, and Pakistan.

It was Benjamin Franklin who observed, "If a man could have half his wishes, he would double his troubles."

Disputed Question The question as to which Pharaoh ruled Egypt at the time of the Exodus of the Israelites remains in dispute. The traditional and most general view is that Ramses II was the Pharaoh of the oppression and other Mernephta or Merneptah of the Exodus.

GRANTS TO FOUR YOUNG PLAYWRIGHTS NEW YORK (AP) — Four young playwrights have been selected as initial recipients of grants under the first fellowship grants under the Paul O'Neill Foundation and Wesleyan University of Middletown, Conn. The program, created under a three-year Rockefeller Foundation allotment of $225,000 provides each writer with $5,000 cash and free residence for a year at the foundation headquarters in Waterford, Conn. Chosen for the grants were Ben Cavan, John Chase, Tom Oliver and Ruth Rehner.
