

Stall Attempt Fails To Stop Agostinelli

By DOUG BEVINS

State Comptroller Nathan Agostinelli of Manchester won the Republican nomination for lieutenant governor by acclamation at the GOP State Convention Saturday, despite an unsuccessful stalling effort by Bridgeport delegates which might have resulted in opposition.

Agostinelli, a former Manchester mayor, was unopposed for the No. 2 spot on the state GOP ticket led by U.S. Rep. Robert Steele of Vernon, who won party endorsement for governor Saturday after beating Bridgeport Mayor Nicholas Panuzio 753-472 on the first ballot.

Agostinelli himself was a gubernatorial aspirant earlier this year, but he withdrew from the race long before the state convention became a strong supporter of Steele.

Spot Certain

A slot on the Republican ticket was certain for Agostinelli even if Panuzio had won the gubernatorial nomination. But the local man, popular with the GOP rank-and-file, probably would have had to be

Republican Slate Listed

The Republican State Convention Saturday nominated the following state ticket for the November election:

- Governor — U.S. Rep. Robert Steele of Vernon, 753 delegate votes. Other contenders: Bridgeport Mayor Nicholas Panuzio, 472 votes; House Speaker Francis Collins of Brookfield, 61 votes; and State Agriculture Commissioner Fenton Futner of South Windsor, one vote.

- U.S. Senate — State Rep. James "Buddy" Brannen III of Colchester, 734 votes. Other contenders were: State Rep. Herbert Camp of Ridgefield, 454 votes; former Motor Vehicles Commissioner Edward Kozlowski of Milford, 44 votes; and Mrs. Norman Jorgensen of Newington, 27 votes.

- Lieutenant Governor — State Comptroller Nathan Agostinelli of Manchester, by acclamation.

- Treasurer — State Sen. John J. Zajac Jr. of Meriden, by acclamation.

- Comptroller — First Selectman Michael Kenney of Southbury, by acclamation.

- Secretary of the State — Mrs. Sally Bolster of Norwalk, by acclamation.

- Attorney General — State Rep. James Bingam of Stamford, 717 votes. The other contender was former State Rep. Gerard Spiegel of Trumbull, 530 votes.

'Buddy' Brannen to Face Formidable Vote-Getter

HARTFORD (UPI) — Republicans have nominated a black airline pilot to try to unseat Sen. Abraham A. Ribicoff.

Rep. James H. "Buddy" Brannen III, R-Colchester, 33, a pilot for United Airlines, became the first black in Connecticut history to be nominated for the U.S. Senate.

"It's great," Brannen said Saturday after winning the GOP state convention's endorsement. "But it's ability that counts."

Mustachioed with graying hair that adds years to his youthful image, Brannen was the author of an unsuccessful bill calling for the legalization of marijuana.

Under the proposal the state would have regulated the sale of the hallucinogen and imposed stiffer penalties on hard drug pushers.

Should Be Discussed Saturday, he publicly opposed such satisfied with seeking re-election as comptroller if Steele didn't make it.

Agostinelli's name was placed in nomination Saturday afternoon by State Sen. Lewis Rome of Bloomfield, who characterized him as "a man who listens and hears the people" and as "one of the finest campaigners on any state ticket."

Seconding speeches for Agostinelli were made by Joseph E. Casey, Republican town chairman from West Haven; State Rep. Donald S. Genovesi of Manchester; and Mrs. Raeanne Curtis, vice chairman in New Haven.

Recess Rejected

Immediately after Agostinelli's name was placed in nomination, a Bridgeport delegate asked for a recess, but the convention shouted it down.

Indications were that the Bridgeport delegation wanted time to select an opponent to Agostinelli in case Panuzio sought a primary for the gubernatorial nomination. Panuzio later announced he wouldn't primary.

Among names being mentioned for opposition to Agostinelli's nomination were former State Sen. Roger Eddy of Newington, a well-known Republican; and State Sen. John Zajac of Meriden, who later won the GOP nomination for state treasurer.

Agostinelli drew thunderous applause from convention delegates each time he was introduced, even when he was introduced but didn't appear.

Missed His Cue

That happened Saturday night, when U.S. Rep. Ronald Sarasin, the convention chairman, introduced Agostinelli to make his acceptance speech. Agostinelli missed his cue, though, because he was outside the Bushnell Memorial stage door.

Word was sent outside, and Agostinelli rushed in, asking, "Are you waiting for me?" He got another standing ovation when he finally got to the podium.

The Manchester delegation to the convention was especially pleased with Agostinelli's selection for the No. 2 spot even though the local delegates were split over the gubernatorial nominee.

Geography Discounted

The fact that both Steele, Agostinelli, and State Rep. James Brannen (who won the U.S. Senate nomination) are from Eastern Connecticut was discounted by most delegates, who maintained that geography is becoming less important to selection of a state ticket.

Manchester's delegation cast 12 votes for Steele, six for Panuzio, and one for Collins in delegate-by-delegate roll-call balloting for the gubernatorial nomination Saturday morning.

Agostinelli Career Got Start in 1966

By SOL R. COHEN

Back in the spring of 1966, if someone had told Nate Agostinelli he'd be running for lieutenant governor of the State of Connecticut in 1974, and on the Republican ticket yet, he'd probably have said, "Are you crazy?"

Then in his middle thirties and a Democrat since he was 21, Agostinelli ran a family restaurant, started by his Italian immigrant parents, and had had no involvement with politics, except indignation and dismay at some of the things he felt weren't being handled right.

He was busy making a living for his wife, the former Helena Hare, and their two sons, Michael and Steven.

Suddenly, along came his boyhood friend, GOP Town Chairman M. Adler Dobkin.

"How would you like to run for the Board of Directors?" asked Dobkin.

"Why me?" replied Agostinelli.

"The Republican party needs new blood," explained Dobkin, "and I believe your future is with us."

Agostinelli agreed to run.

"I had no strong feelings about either party," he explains. "I believed then and I do now that one's loyalty lies with whatever party he represents."

So, Agostinelli switched parties and became a Republican, except that he wasn't officially a Republican for six months — until after the election.

He admits now, "I ran scared. Here I was, a Democrat for 13 years, running as a Republican."

He ran a very vigorous campaign, concentrating his efforts on newspaper pictures and accounts of what he thought was wrong in Manchester and what should be done to correct things.

He led the ticket by only 34 votes. Many of the Republican leaders wanted to bypass him for the office of mayor — in favor of a longtime Republican who ran second. Agostinelli and his advisors remained adamant, and he was named mayor.

Power Abuse Debate Starts

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Judiciary Committee, which has recommended President Nixon's removal from office for obstruction of justice in the Watergate cover-up, today debates whether he also should be impeached for abusing the powers of his presidency.

A second article of impeachment was expected to pass late today or early Tuesday, supported by roughly the same coalition of Democrats and conservative and moderate Republicans who recommended 27 to 11 Saturday night that Nixon be impeached for the cover-up.

The bipartisan committee support for the first article brought predictions the entire House would impeach Nixon and send his case to the Senate for a trial.

The House might start debate on impeachment in two weeks. If it votes Tuesday, supported by roughly the same coalition of Democrats and conservative and moderate Republicans who recommended 27 to 11 Saturday night that Nixon be impeached for the cover-up.

Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield said the committee vote meant "the line of demarcation has been reached." He called a meeting today with minority leader Hugh Scott to start preparations for the Senate trial.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger, who would preside at the trial, planned no long out-of-town trips during the court's summer recess.

Nixon got the word of the committee vote while walking on a beach in San Clemente, Calif. He returned to Washington Sunday and an aide said he would personally direct the defense. The President was said to be not surprised by the vote but confident he would not be impeached.

The second article, modified but not substantially changed in a lengthy meeting of some Republicans and Southern Democrats Sunday, lists eight specific charges against Nixon. They are grouped under the accusation that Nixon "abused the powers vested in him" and did so "in violation of his constitutional duty to take care that the laws be faithfully executed."

Specifically the charges are: —Nixon ordered the FBI and Secret Service to engage in illegal spying on American citizens.

—Nixon established the White House "plumbers" unit to carry out illegal activities including the burglary of Daniel Ellsberg's psychiatrist.

—Nixon used the Internal Revenue Service to retaliate against his political enemies and to help friends who had tax problems.

—Nixon interfered with the FBI by authorizing illegal wiretaps and thwarting their investigation of Watergate.

Hush Money —Nixon interfered with the Justice Department investigation of Watergate by withholding information, divulging grand jury information to potential defendants, instructing his aides to commit perjury and by offering hush money and clemency to obtain the silence of Watergate burglars.

—Nixon tried to induce the CIA to aid the Watergate burglars.

—Nixon defied committee subpoenas for 147 tapes and other evidence in the impeachment inquiry.

Rep. Robert McClory of Illinois, the second ranking Republican on the committee, was planning to propose that Nixon's defiance of committee subpoenas be made into a third article. McClory said he would vote for such an article.

If he did, he would become the seventh of the 17 Republicans to back impeachment.

Rep. Edward Mezvinsky, D-Iowa, said he would introduce an article proposing Nixon be impeached for avoiding payment of $400,000 in personal income taxes over four years. While many Democrats would support such a charge, it probably will not be adopted because it would not attract bipartisan support.

The first article, approved Saturday night, said that from June 17, 1972, the date of the Watergate burglary, Nixon pursued a "course of action or plan" to cover up White House involvement in the break-in by thwarting the investigation, buying the silence of burglars and lying publicly.

All Democrats Aye

It was supported by all 21 Democrats, including three Southerners who had been "undecided" until the past few days. Six Republicans, including conservatives M. Caldwell Butler of Virginia and Lawrence Hogan of Maryland, joined the Democratic majority.

The vote had pretty much been forecast in three previous days of debate. As one of Nixon's defenders, Rep. Charles Sandman, R-N.J., said, "You could stand on your head and do tricks and it wouldn't change any votes."

The only surprise was Rep. Harold V. Froehlich, R-Wis. He had said he wanted to vote for impeachment, but the article was too strong. In the end, however, he voted "aye."

When it was all over and the weary committee members took a single day's rest before resuming their task, there was little joy.

Cyprus Talks Deadlocked

United Press International

Greek Foreign Minister George Mavros said today the Cyprus talks among Britain, Greece and Turkey in Geneva had deadlocked after apparent agreement had been reached. But Turkish Premier Bulent Ecevit said later Turkey and Greece were studying an "acceptable" plan for phased withdrawal from Cyprus.

Ecevit told a news conference in Ankara that "an agreement can be signed today — or never." He set a deadline for midnight today (6 p.m. EDT) on what appeared to be an ultimatum to Greece to accept his demands, including the reinforcement of the 20,000 troops landed on Cyprus since last Friday's invasion.

Withdrawal Plan

"Now each side is working on a plan for gradual withdrawal at a time seen fit for each of us," Ecevit told newsmen later. "This formula is acceptable for both Greece and Turkey."

UPI Correspondent Michael Keats, reporting from the Turkish-held port city of Kyrenia, said Turkish troops and tanks moved out of their beachhead today and took up positions at a beach six miles to the east. U.N. officials called this a major violation of the cease-fire, the first in four days.

Reinecke Conviction Poses Legal Problem

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — State officials seem in no hurry to oust California Lt. Gov. Ed Reinecke despite his perjury conviction this weekend.

If forced to quit, Reinecke would become the first top-ranking state officer to be removed from office because of a crime, according to a spokesman for Gov. Ronald Reagan.

The aide said Reagan would not comment on Reinecke's fate until he has discussed the matter with the lieutenant governor, but the governor has said if he was in a similar situation—convicted of a felony—he would resign.

Will Appeal

Reinecke said he would appeal the verdict by a federal jury in Washington, D.C., Saturday that he lied to the Senate Judiciary Committee about an ITT offer to help finance the 1972 Republican convention.

The state government code specifies that any office holder is disqualified by conviction of a felony, but the legalities were clouded in Reinecke's case.

Conviction by a jury does not mean immediate removal from office, according to Jerry Littman, a spokesman for the state attorney general's office.

"Such removal is predicated on sentencing by the judge," he said, noting that will not occur until all defense motions are made.

No date has been set for sentencing.

Defining 'Felony'

Another problem might arise because a "felony" is defined in California as a crime punishable by a state prison term. This statutory definition would not apply to Reinecke, convicted under federal statutes.

A formal opinion by state Attorney General Evelle J. Younger probably will be needed to clarify Reinecke's right to continue his term as lieutenant governor, which expires in January, according to Reagan press aide Patrick McKelvey.

However, McKelvey said, no such opinion has yet been requested.

Reagan, who handpicked Reinecke for the lieutenant governor's post in 1969, said in a statement: "I personally have always had confidence in his integrity and feel that he did not intentionally do wrong."

The Manchester Interfaith Day Camp will open Monday, Aug. 5, at Concordia Lutheran Church on Pitkin St.

Jointly sponsored by the Special Ministries Division of MACC and Church Women United of Manchester, the actual funding of the camp is provided through the generosity of Manchester churches, service groups, and open-hearted individuals.

Staffed entirely by adult volunteers (directors, cooks, skits, teachers, nurses) and volunteer counselors, the day camp provides two weeks of learning and playing experience for 60 children from Manchester and Hartford referred to us by Manchester social workers and Hartford Inner City Exchange.

Twenty dollars sponsors a child for the entire two weeks and provides him with free busling, a hot meal, a morning and afternoon snack, arts and crafts material, and several all-day trips to the beach, state parks, and other areas of interest and education.

Of course, the most important part of this camping experience is provided by our volunteers. It is the "you're important and I care about you" expressed by our counselors as they help little fingers cut and paste, map up spiders, and exclaim with pleasure over their camper's efforts, look for lost towels and the other snicker, and cheerfully allow themselves to be dunked for the umpteenth time as they keep a careful eye on their charges. A full and exhausting day given freely and with loving hearts!

'Italian' Film Biggie's Scurry to Hollywood

By Dick Kleiner

HOLLYWOOD — (NEA) — Hollywood is busy these days than it has been for some years. But one city's "busydays" is another city's disaster. While Hollywood is now prospering again, things are tough for the movie folks in Europe.

I sat in the Warner Bros. commissary with Harvey Matusky and we talked about Rome. Matusky was, for 10 years or so, one of the biggies in Italian movies, an American who was almost an expatriate.

The big question, then, was why did Harvey Matusky come back home?

We would love to have you stop in, come see Manchester people in action because they are. We would love to have you stop in, come see Manchester people in action because they are. We would love to have you stop in, come see Manchester people in action because they are.

Impeachment Vote Reaction Favorable

United Press International Members of the House Judiciary Committee apparently have little to fear from their constituents because of their votes Saturday on whether to recommend impeachment for President Nixon.

A UPI sampling of opinion from party leaders across the country indicates that even when they disagree with their representative's decision, they felt he was voting his conscience or "just doing his job."

Home-town reaction especially is important to the three Southern Democrats and one Republican who voted to recommend impeachment.

Among the first reactions, only one was heated.

"I think the whole (Judiciary Committee) crowd should go to jail," said Jesse Cookley, chairman of the South Carolina Republican committee. "This is the worst thing that has ever happened to this country and they should be impeached, not just the President."

Cookley said Rep. James R. Mann, D-S.C., who voted for impeachment, "will be beaten as he did not vote the conscience of the Fourth District."

But Mann had his defenders, too. Donald Fowler, chairman of the South Carolina Democratic party, called it "illogical and irrational to condemn members of the Judiciary Committee for carrying out their constitutionally imposed duty."

Arkansas is another state in which Nixon's popularity remains high. But leaders of both parties lauded Democrat Ray Thornton, who voted for impeachment.

"He kept an open mind and waited until all the evidence was in," said Republican national committee member Odell Polard. "I am not going to be critical of any of our men."

Gov. Dale Bumpers, Democratic nominee for the Senate, called Thornton "a man in everything he undertakes," and David Pryor, Democratic nominee for governor, said it "was not a partisan nor a sectional vote."

Pryor also said Thornton's vote, cast by Mann and Rep. Walter Flowers, D-Ala., indicate that the President may not count on solid Southern support either in the House or Senate.

D. Ala., indicate that the President may not count on solid Southern support either in the House or Senate.

Rep. Charles E. Wiggins, R-Calif., led the anti-impeachment Republicans. "I'm delighted with his vote and am with him. He's an excellent representative of Orange County," said Lois Lundberg, who voted with the federal government, under state authorization.

No estimate on the start of the project is available. Town Manager Robert Weisz said he explained that some of the equipment items could take as long as seven months for delivery. The contract requirement is for completion within one calendar year of the start of work.

Traffic control improvements will be made on Middle Pike at Tower, Broad, Homestead and Parker Sts.; on Broad St. at Green Manor Blvd. and at the entrance to King's Department Store; at Spruce and School Sts.; and at Hartford Rd. and Bidwell St. The intersection will also get geometric improvements (without traffic signal installations) will be made at Woodbridge and Mather St., and at Woodbridge and Parker Sts.

The Woodbridge-Parker Sts. intersection is one of the busiest in Manchester. It intersects at Green Rd. and carries truck, bus, and passenger car traffic heading for N. Main St., the condominiums on Lydall St., the residential Forest Hills Area, apartment complexes on Green Rd. and on Oakland St., the industrial parks off Colonial Rd. and Sheldon Rd., the Tri-City Shopping Area in Vernon and the towns of Vernon-Rockville.

Because Woodbridge St. is closed to traffic from Middle Pike to its intersection with Parker St. (the Woodbridge bridge over Bigelow Brook) is closed, now is carrying all of the traffic in that area.

Senate Impeachment Rules Ready for Use

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Based on the 12 impeachment trials in the Senate since 1799, the House Judiciary Committee has ready for use the rules to be used in the impeachment trial of President Nixon. The House of Representatives is expected to begin a presidential impeachment trial in the next few days.

There are 26 rules, including one that would allow a committee of 12 senators to question Nixon in the White House. There is even one rule for what to do if a summons cannot be served on the accused.

If that were the case, the summons would be left at the last known place of abode of such person, or at his usual place of business in some court of law.

That would be on the door of 1600 Pennsylvania Avenue in Washington—the White House.

The rules also provide for a special oath committing the senators to administer "impartial justice when sitting as impeachment jurors and for jailing the impeached person for refusing to submit subpoenaed evidence.

The last change in the impeachment rules came in 1935, authorizing the creation of a committee of 12 senators to take evidence and testimony as though "having been received and taken before the Senate itself."

The President presumably would have to agree to undergo examination. He also has the choice, under the rules, whether to appear in person during the impeachment trial or be represented by counsel.

Subpoena Powers

If the Senate wanted to, it could issue its own subpoena for the Watergate tapes Nixon has refused to turn over to the House Judiciary Committee.

The rules give the Senate broad subpoena power during impeachment trials and the power "to punish in a summary way contempts of, and disobedience to, its authority."

The chief justice of the Supreme Court is expected to preside over the trial. The Senate Manual apply.

Ducci Gets TOPICS Job

A contract has been awarded Ducci Electric Co. Inc. of Torrington for traffic control and geometric improvements at 11 Manchester intersections — under the TOPICS (Traffic Operations Program to Increase Capacity and Safety) Project.

The contract is for about $215,000, with the town obligated to pay for 15 per cent ($32,000). The other 85 per cent will be funded by the federal government, under state authorization.

No estimate on the start of the project is available. Town Manager Robert Weisz said he explained that some of the equipment items could take as long as seven months for delivery. The contract requirement is for completion within one calendar year of the start of work.

Our Favorite 'Sons' Candidacy

Robert Hampton Steele of Vernon, 35, in politics for four years, now has control of Connecticut's Republican party.

Steele did what he said he would do. He would win the GOP nomination for governor on the first ballot. That has to be quite a blow to the Meskill-Gaffney forces who supported Bridgeport Mayor Nicholas Panuzio. Praise is certainly due Panuzio, though, for declining a primary. There is nothing the Republicans need more between now and November than a unified party.

Steele's nomination wasn't any surprise. After all, he said he would win. It was any surprise out of the convention it had to be Manchester's Nathan Agostinelli, who was assured of a spot on the ticket, being nominated for lieutenant governor.

A few tongues are wagging that perhaps Nate's nomination for lieutenant governor was sealed when he withdrew from the race for governor and pledged his support to Steele.

Steele and Agostinelli have a lot of work to do, in the form of exposure, between now and the general election in getting acquainted with the wishes and desires of the voters in other parts of the Nutmeg State.

Actually, the Democrats aren't that much better off either with Ella Grasso from Windsor Locks and Robert Killian from Hartford.

Rest assured a lot of the voters, particularly independents, will be asking one simple question between now and the general election. The governor is supposed to be an administrator, and what are the qualifications of either Grasso or Steele, members of the U.S. House of Representatives, when it comes to administering state government?

We folks east of the river can't help but be pleased with a Steele-Agostinelli ticket. Praise is certainly due the party's delegates for the confidence they have expressed in "our" sons. It has been often said that an election is merely a popularity contest. Unfortunately Republicans, with Watergate and the possible impeachment of the President in the shadows, can't view the election in that manner in 1974.

Unfair Situation

Judicial decision seeking to show fairness to minorities too often instead creates a situation which is totally unfair to the majority.

This has been notable in so-called fair employment practices when minority applicants are hired over better qualified majority persons to attain quotas. It also has been creating an unfair acceptance policy in institutions of higher learning, as in the Mark DeFusse case in the state of Washington.

The latest example of this is in the ruling of a federal district court judge in Miami that spring school vacations cannot be scheduled in a floating manner to coincide with Good Friday and Easter.

The case arose when one of the teachers, Leonard Speier, brought suit asserting that non-Christian teachers had to use sick leave time to observe their religious holidays, whereas Christian teachers did not have to use their sick leave days for the observance of their holidays.

The judge ruled that Dade County schools must hold sessions on Good Friday and the so-called spring vacation fluctuating to correspond with the dates of Good Friday and Easter.

In some strange reasoning the judge also said that a winter school break could be set at Christmas time since that holiday has become secularized and is not only a religious holiday. This is a glaring example of setting policy to be fair to minorities. Good Friday and Easter are, of course, the days on which Christian faiths are based. The death on the cross and subsequent resurrection on Easter are considered to be the final proof of the divinity of Christ.

In a future extension of his ruling the judge said that teachers might use all of their 10 days sick leave time for the observance of their holidays, rather than the two days which the school board had been allowing. This seems to us a further intrusion into the administration of the schools.

It seems to us that it would have been much fairer to allow the minority teachers to take days off to observe their religious holidays on an established basis but not to pay them for an equal number of days out of school when Christian holidays were being celebrated.

This would give them more days. It would not deprive thousands of the opportunity of reverentially observing Good Friday.

The fear held by the founding fathers of too much government and intrusion into personal rights is valid. And the judiciary is as guilty of this as either the executive or legislative branches of the government.

Today's Thought

During part of this week I shall be sharing with you excerpts from a few books which have been helpful to me. Perhaps these books may suggest some helpful reading for you. Let's begin with "The Velvet Ribbon" by Margery Williams, basically a children's book but intriguing for us "older" children. For instance, a conversation between two sensitive toys: "What is REAL? asked the Rabbit one day. "Does it mean having things that buzz inside you and a stick-out handle?" "Real isn't how you are made," said the Skin Horse. "It's a thing that happens to you. When a child loves you for a long, long time, not just to play with, but REALLY loves you, then you become Real. It doesn't happen all at once. You become. It takes a long time. Generally, by the time you are Real, most of your hair has been loved off, and your eyes drop out and you get loose in the joints and very shabby. But these things don't matter at all, because once you are Real you can't be ugly, except to people who don't understand." "That is true," said the Skin Horse. "There is nothing so helpful as self-justification but isn't it time you grew up?" "I am already," said the Skin Horse. "I have been through that. I understand."

Give Little League Back To the Kids

To the editor: Tuesday evening, July 16, I attended the Little League All-Star game at Buckley Field. I know there were many enthusiastic parents, friends and relatives of the players waiting to see their favorite player on the field. Not yet a partner of a Little League ballplayer I was only an onlooker, but I know how I would feel if my son was not good enough to be chosen to play that night. I'm sure there were several upset parents in the crowd, after bringing their sons to practice every day for almost two weeks and then not to play that night and were again not chosen by the coach to play in their next game which was the Little League game. Does the unfairness of our society all the way down to our Little League for the kids, I feel that the coaches and parents learn sportsmanship, competitiveness and to just have fun playing baseball? Too many times the coaches and parents become too involved, if I then no longer a game for the kids, I feel that the coaches and parents give Burger's own preoccupation with the administrative reform of criminal justice. But beyond this emphasis there was the more critical act of striking down the claim of an absolute and unlimited control by a President of his papers, tapes and memoranda.

Grow Up

To the editor: From the letter recently published on July 22 regarding Frank Lupkin:

I regard the writer as either a senile citizen or a senile junior citizen; certainly not mature. At one time I had the mistaken theory that Case Mountain could be turned into a beauty spot, as the frog was turned into a prince.

Since then I have been to Case Mountain on several occasions. I have found cars flooding every parking spot to the exclusion of a person desiring to obtain spring water, the banks above the road appearing to be a tribe of unfriendly savages ready to pounce upon a thirsty traveler, while drinking and smoking God knows what.

Does Ms. Miriam Garfield dare to ask now? We went again on a Sunday, hoping they'll find me running up and down the streets howling like a dog. That almost happened the other night during a discussion of the horrifying interlude during which two armed convicts look over the cellblock of the U.S. District Courthouse and held seven hostages for 68 hours while they tried to persuade authorities to fly them out of the country. An eighth hostage, a deputy U.S. marshal, was released as a gesture of good will 11 hours after the takeover.

"Well, you've got to give those two guys a lot of credit for one thing," remarked a State Department staffer. "They didn't hurt anybody." We did intermingle with girls during the winter, sliding, skiing, skating and dog roasts (no making out). And we enjoyed ourselves. We were chased at times, and caught by the police, when we were turned over to our parents which was more severe than anything the courts dish out today.

You, Miriam, evidently have made. No one to answer to. There is nothing so helpful as self-justification but isn't it time you grew up? Richard E. Jackman 89 Oak St. Manchester

Max Lerner Comments

Taming The President

Supreme Court. He drew the line starkly, with no concessions, and he got his answer sharply. Conceivably he might have fared better if he had given some ground the compromise and had pleaded that the President would hold the line and that he would not give up the judicial power to the executive privilege. Chief Justice Warren Burger couched his opinion throughout in the terms of the demands of "criminal justice." This was an understandable emphasis, gives Burger's own preoccupation with the administrative reform of criminal justice. But beyond this emphasis there was the more critical act of striking down the claim of an absolute and unlimited control by a President of his papers, tapes and memoranda.

Whatever their differences the members of our Supreme Court — and it applies to the Burger court as well — are likely to sink when their judicial power is called in question. Hence Burger's repeated references to Marbury vs. Madison, in which Chief Justice John Marshall had already asserted the court's power of judicial review. Now vs. United States rounds off historically the process begun by Marbury vs. Madison.

That we have new and creative constitutional laws being shaped in the midst of the great constitutional crisis of today. The doctrine of the confidentiality of presidential papers and tapes is clearer now than it was. They have no absolute confidentiality although their secrecy must be preserved when high military and national security grounds can be established. The policy ground on which the claim had been made — that otherwise no complete candor — was dismissed as overstated.

As for the separation-of-powers doctrine, Chief Justice Burger turns it to the court's advantage by pointing out that the President has the power of veto and Congress the power of overriding his veto, but that the courts are entrusted with the supremacy of criminal justice, and neither of the other branches can trench on it.

Chief Justice Burger was right to recognize the needs of presidential office, as witness the strict and explicit conditions that he laid down to U.S. Dist. Judge John Sirica in regard to sifting the tapes. But to the Nixon-St. Clair argument that the President can be controlled only through impeachment, and that impeachment is a political game to be played out between the President and Congress, the Supreme Court's answer is brusque and sharp — that if the tapes are needed for the process of criminal justice, then that is the overriding consideration, game or no game.

Only at a time when the people are so conscious of the swollen powers of the Presidency could the court have taken so sharp a stand, unanimously. Whatever its prides and prejudices, the Supreme Court does respond to the movement of opinion. By doing so, it retains its, high authority among the people.

In a very legitimate sense, a mental ordeal such as the hostages suffered is a close second to violent death. I don't know how long Debra Collins will suffer from nightmares. But surely she and the other hostages, including the brave and ingenious Mouton and Colquitt, will live through the horror of their captivity often before time moves in with its slow, healing forgiveness. They didn't hurt anybody. It is pretty sick. There are people in this curious town who have even made heroes of two convicts who repeatedly threatened to do violence to their hostages unless their demands were met. The rationale, if a word can be so vaguely misused, is that after all, Gorham and Jones did not kill or physically harm any of their captives.

Well, God knows that is good, and I am thankful in behalf of the hostages. But I find it hard to be grateful to Gorham and Jones for not adding murder or physical abuse to their crimes. Yes, I think the fact that the hostages escaped with their lives and physically undamaged should be applied to two men who nevertheless made it plain to their captives that the next minute could be their last.

Indeed, in a very legitimate sense, a mental ordeal such as the hostages suffered is a close second to violent death. I don't know how long Debra Collins will suffer from nightmares. Panuzio's Vain Bid For Nomination Assessed EDITOR'S NOTE: Bridgeport Mayor Nicholas A. Panuzio had great hopes for gaining the Republican nomination for governor this weekend. This UPI report looks at some of the reasons why he failed.

By JUAN TAMAYO
HARTFORD (UPI) — Bridgeport Mayor Nicholas A. Panuzio began his quest for the Republican gubernatorial nomination to the tune of "The Impossible Dream." It ended with the same tune Saturday when Rep. Robert H. Steele, R-Conn., was nominated. Panuzio, 38, told convention delegates he would not force a primary, earning him a thunderous applause from the 1,287 delegates and their alternates. His eyes welling with tears and voice choking, Panuzio thanked his campaign workers seated in front of the speaker's podium at Bushnell Memorial Auditorium. "Kiss of Death" Panuzio was the GOP organization's choice, supported by Gov. Thomas J. Meskill and State Party Chairman J. Brian Gaffney. Panuzio's aides claimed the support was the "kiss of death."

To the strains of a hand playing "The Impossible Dream," Panuzio began his campaign April 6, as what many considered a stand-for-two-lieliear candidate, he decided not to run in the year of Watergate. Meskill decided in early March to speak a federal judgeship instead of reelection. His heir apparent, Wall Street financier Dan W. Lufkin, mulled it over for nearly three weeks before opting not to run. Panuzio leaped into the vacuum and received the support of a shaky machinery that had not been able to grip the party reins in only four years of power.

Unable to Deliver Gaffney and Meskill stayed out of the fray for a while, hoping to avoid charges of "bossism," and unable to deliver the vote to Panuzio. Steele, meanwhile, mounted an efficient campaign organization that began pulling the rug from under the party leaders. The first visible break in the ranks came when Steele was endorsed by New Haven's GOP delegates. Party leaders quickly came to the rescue with public endorsements for Panuzio, and Steele charged "bossism."

This Panuzio had the worst of two worlds. The party leaders allowed WINDSOR LOCKS, Conn. (UPI) — Federal drug agents have taken a haul of 300 pounds of marijuana which they estimated would be worth more than $100,000 if sold on the street.

Montville Boy Killed
FRANKLIN (UPI) — A 10-year-old Montville boy died in a weekend accident in Franklin. State Police said Kevin Dunham was crushed to death when a 24-foot utility pole rolled off a trailer the boy was riding on, knocked the boy off the trailer and rolled over him. Officers said the boy was riding on the trailer Saturday evening with two poles, neither being pulled by a tractor driven by Leo Blenewe, 47. When the tractor turned a corner, the load shifted, knocking the boy off, then killing him. The accident happened at the intersection of Rte. 207 and Pautipaug Hill Rd. Blenewe was charged with criminally negligent homicide and released without bail for court appearance in Norwich Aug. 19.

State GOP Chairman's Future Now in Limbo

HARTFORD (UPI) — Connecticut Republican State Chairman J. Brian Gaffney is suspended in political limbo, favored by the Republican leadership but ducked by the party's gubernatorial nominee.

The New Britain attorney will remain titular party chief until at least Aug. 8, when a second meeting of the 72-member Republican State Central Committee is scheduled to determine when and if he shall be replaced. The first such meeting ended inconclusively Saturday night after the GOP state convention.

Picked by Meskill Gov. Thomas J. Meskill picked the New Britain attorney to succeed Howard E. Hausman, whom he named chairman of the state Public Utilities Commission. Gaffney's association with Meskill had spanned Meskill's tenures as New Britain mayor and 8th district congressman. But Meskill and Gaffney's hand-picked candidate to succeed Meskill, Mayor Nicholas A. Panuzio of Bridgeport, Steele wants a new chairman.

In the name of party unity, Steele has been urged to wait until after the November election to make his decision, but if

FINAST BREAKS TRADITION IN FOOD PRICING

Finast will no longer increase the prices of food already on the shelves. Effective on Wednesday, July 24, 1974 all Finast supermarkets began a new pricing policy on Grocery, Meat & Produce items. Here is how it works:

When Finast is forced to make a price increase, cans and packages already price-marked will be sold at the old, lower price.

When these items are restocked on the shelves, the new, higher priced items will be placed behind the lower priced items.

As regular prices go down, Finast will immediately reduce the price on shelf stock, and the lower price will always be honored at the register. When a can or package shows more than one price, the customer pays the lowest price for that item.

Weekly specials or "sale" items will be priced at the lower price, and if any remains after the sale event, it will be repriced upward.

Baked goods, baby foods, fair trade and items controlled by state laws are exempt from this new policy.

Finast supermarkets strongly believe that breaking the old industry tradition of re-pricing will find favorable reaction by the public.

Sewer Line, Ice Study Before Town Council

VERNON
 A proposed ordinance asking for an appropriation of $3.2 million for sewer line extensions in Vernon and a resolution asking for an appropriation of $14,000 for Phase 2 of a feasibility study and design documents for an ice facility, will be aired at a public hearing tonight at 7:30 at the Administration Building.

The sewer line extension will involve streets off Rt. 20 and the Talcottville section of Vernon.

In connection with the sewer installations, a group of residents from Elm Hill Rd. in Talcottville will present a petition asking that section be eliminated in the sewer installation program.

Also to be presented is a petition from residents of Washington St. asking that they be included in the program. The street had originally been excluded, as a line to service it would have to go by way of Church St. and the residents of that street petitioned against the sewer.

Phase 1 of the ice facility study showed Vernon could support such a facility. Following the public hearing a special town meeting will be conducted to consider the requested appropriation.

Following the public hearing and special town meeting, the Town Council will meet to discuss the possible purchase of the Vernon Water Co., owned by the late Barney Moses of Vernon.

The town had considered the purchase several years ago and then dropped it. Recently, Rockville Water & Aqueduct petitioned to purchase it, conditional on an increase in rates to customers, and the town opposed the sale under those conditions as it would also mean an increase in fire hydrant rates to the town. Rockville Water later withdrew its petition.

Also at the meeting the council will discuss a proposed ordinance which would prohibit motorcycles using the bicycle trails in town.

Giulietti Seeks Probate Reforms

VERNON
 Atty. John L. Giulietti of Vernon, nominee for judge of probate on the Republican ticket (Ellington-Vernon District), said his campaign platform will stress the importance of new legislation on the local level and on making the probate court responsive to the electorate.

Giulietti, who is presently serving on the Town Council, said, "There is no reason why most deceased persons' estates cannot be administered by the probate court and a close family member, without an attorney."

"Not that attorneys don't earn their fees but most of their time is spent, in the average case, inventorying a deceased person's assets," he said.

He said this information is usually obtained through relatives, by the attorney, and results in a duplication of effort and therefore increased expense to the family.

Library Becomes Homestead ANDOVER

ANDOVER
 Ellen Lariviere
 Correspondent
 742-9117

As part of the Library's Summer Children's program, those attending Tuesday's 2 p.m. activity will find the library has turned into an early Andover homestead. Mrs. Carolyn Graham (Mrs. Jesse T.) of Times Farm Rd. will be the resource person.

There will be a trammel, spider and quill wheel among the tools and utensils which Mrs. Graham will demonstrate and tell their usage in an 1780 Andover home. She will also introduce "the girl in the Martin Box," a true story about a young girl who lived on Long Hill Rd. over 100 years ago.

The program is designed for children between second and sixth grades. No registration is necessary. Adults are most welcome to sit in. The concluding program will be a picnic and tour of the Nathan Hale Homestead on Tuesday, Aug. 6.

Parents will need to transport their children to and from the homestead. An entrance fee of 25 cents per child and 75 cents per adult is required. Children should bring a complete picnic lunch including beverage. The tour will conclude at 2 p.m.

Mrs. John Corl III and Mrs. J.F. Hohnmann Jr. are coordinating the event as part of the Friends of the Andover Library program.

A NEW NAME FOR AN OLD FRIEND

Manchester Savings & Loan Assn. is now called Heritage Savings & Loan Assn.

The name Manchester Savings and Loan Association has been changed to Heritage Savings and Loan Association effective July 22, 1974 with the prior approval of the membership, the Board of Directors and the State Banking Department. We believe our new name more accurately describes our identity.

Since 1891, this institution has been an important part of the local heritage. Back then, there was no bank where a family could save and borrow for a home. A group of our forebearers got together and founded the Manchester Building and Loan Association (later called the Manchester Savings and Loan Association) for this purpose. These men of vision pioneered the concept of local people getting together to encourage thrift and home ownership. As the first and oldest savings institution in Manchester and Coventry, we have played a significant role in our local heritage since our founding in 1891.

Today, we are very enthusiastic about plans for expanded usefulness through broadened services in the future. Our new branch office is now open in K-Mart Plaza on Spencer Street in Manchester. There are several new and exciting services now in the planning stage at Heritage Savings. We enjoy serving you and we look forward with enthusiasm to a continuously expanding role in the financial heritage of our communities during the years ahead.

ONLY OUR NAME HAS CHANGED
 Ownership and management remain unchanged. As a mutual institution, we continue to be owned by you, our customers. Our board of directors, officers and staff remain unchanged.

NO EXCHANGE OF PASSBOOK or other documents required or necessary.

INSURED SECURITY FOR YOUR FUNDS
 Deposits at Heritage Savings are insured by the Federal Savings and Loan Insurance Corporation, an agency of the U.S. Government. There is no stronger insurance for your savings.

As a graphic symbol for Heritage Savings and Loan Association, we have adopted this woodcut representing landmarks of significance to our local heritage. As the first savings institution in our area, and being owned and operated by local people, we are indeed tied closely to the local heritage.

CHENEY MILL (left foreground) The nation's first silk manufacturing was done at this Manchester Mill in the eighteenth century. Since then, Cheney Brothers have perhaps been our best known local manufacturer. In 1905 Frank Cheney became a president of this Savings and Loan Association.

NATHAN HALE HOMESTEAD (extreme right) The homestead of the early American patriot, Nathan Hale, is a nationally known landmark. It is located in Coventry.

CENTER CONGREGATIONAL CHURCH (rear center) Standing atop the hill in the center of Manchester, this church is regarded as an outstanding example of church architecture of its era.

PITKIN GLASS WORKS (rear, to left of church) The Glass Works is the earliest manufacturing concern of significance in Manchester.

A HOMESTEAD (near, extreme left) Homes are an important part of our local heritage. A home is a fitting element on our symbol since we were the original home financing institution in this area. Most other savings and loan associations finance more homes than all the other types of financial institutions combined.

Two Softball League Races Up for Grabs

Champions have been determined in seven of the nine local soft pitch softball leagues with honors still up for grabs in the Nike and Dusty Leagues. Final games are slated this week. The annual town tournament of the top two clubs in each circuit, except Silk City, will start next week. Crockett's and Pervo's are deadlocked in the Nike circuit with 11-2 records and the MCC Vets hold a one-game edge over Vitner's Gardens in the Dusty loop with an 11-3 stand-

Queen and Her Court Play Here Tomorrow

Blondes have all the way, so they say. One blonde who is having a ball these days is Rosie Beardi, a 22-year-old Californian who is the principal character with the Queen and Her Mads' softball team which will play here tomorrow night. Opposition will be supplied by Groman's Girls, defending State ASA soft pitch champs. The exhibition will be staged at Fitzgerald Field starting at 8 o'clock. Proceeds will enter the Silk City League Fund for use in making improvements to Fitzgerald Field. Miss Beardi will serve up her fastest pitches to sister Eileen, another blonde who admits to being all of 19. Debby Bevers is the first baseman and funster Lotta Chatter the shortstop. Rosie Beardi has 16 different pitches including curves, risers, drops, knuckleballs and change-ups from the regular mound. She also serves up pitches from behind her back, some while blindfolded and some from second base or between her legs. She is capable of tossing a ball at a speed of 90 mph. No-hitters are routine with the star of the cast credited with more than 200. She has been on tour in nine years. Tickets will be available all the time.

Winners, Scoring Champs Noted in Junior Soccer Play

Winners and scoring champions have been crowned in the Manchester Recreation Department's junior soccer program. The Chiefs copped the Pee Wee crown with the Falcons and Matadors sharing the Midget Division title and the Astros walked off with Junior Division laurels. Billy Masse was the main reason the Chiefs wound up first. He led all scorers in the program with 23 points, more than double the output of any other boy. Mike Zotta of the Falcons was next best among the Pee Wee players and Mike Bryan of the Wildcats had seven and Bill Silver of the Tigers six. Johnny Hedland of the three-place Cougars tallied a dozen scores for the Midgets with Ron Calabro of the Matadors and Mike St Laurent of the Falcons close behind with seven each. PGA Golf Tour String of Birdies Wins for Nichols

TORONTO (UPI) — Bobby Nichols, rebounding from a 37-hole lapse, fired four birdies on the way to a four stroke victory in the 65th Canadian Open. The win won him $40,000 and pushed Nichols' 1974 tour earnings to $111,000. Nichols shot four sub-par rounds — 67, 67, 68, 68 — for a 10-under-par 270 in the 72-hole, $200,000 championship played over the 6,788 yard Mississauga County Club course just west of Toronto. Larry Ziegler and John Schiele tied for second place at 74, and collected $18,500 each. Schiele gained the tie for second with a 16-foot birdie putt on the final green — a putt that was worth an extra $9,934 to him. Five others — Dale Douglas, Ray Floyd, Lou Graham, Jim "Chi Chi" Rodriguez and Lee Trevino — finished with 275 for $7,420 apiece. The win carried an extra bonus for the 34-year-old Nichols, head pro at Akron, Ohio's Firestone golf course. The Canadian Open is an alternate tournament for the World Series of Golf, the four-man tournament played at Nichols' home course. Winners of the British Open, the Masters, the U.S. Open and the U.S. PGA championship are eligible for the tournament. Because Gary Player has won both the Masters and the British Open, the Canadian Open gets a crack at the World Series of Golf. Nichols last played in the tournament in 1964 when he lost to the late Tony Leika. Nichols entered the final round with a one stroke lead over Mike Hill and Trevino. He played the first nine holes of the final round in one under 34 but then, in an apparent loss of composure, bogeyed the 10th and 11th. But on the par-five 12th, the tough, "Big Chief" of the course, he sank a three-foot pressure putt for a birdie. Bowed by this, Nichols went on to birdie the 13th and 14th and then teed the cake with another birdie on the 17th hole. Nichols credited Canadian amateur Gary Cowan, former champion of both the Canadian and U.S. amateur tournaments, with helping him win. "I played a practice round with Gary Tuesday and he gave me a putting lesson," said Nichols, who had not putted well in his previous three tournaments. "He is a very intelligent man and I'll tell you, I'm glad he's not a professional. He'd make a lot of money."

Plan Offered BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (UPI) — Two university professors have developed a plan they believe could solve the conflict between the two major professional sports leagues.

James L. Beeland, assistant professor of management at the University of Alabama-Birmingham, and Fred L. Johnson, associate professor of economics, propose placing a value on each player determined under a formula using present salaries and a career expectancy factor. An insurance company actuary could determine a player's career expectancy by studying records, Johnson said. Teams would then have price tags available on all players. Under the current "Rozelle rule," NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle can arbitrarily decide the compensation of a team receives when a player is lost through free agent signing. Players may become free agents after playing one year beyond a signed contract at a 10 percent pay cut. The striking players' contend Rozelle has misused his power and has ruined the market by making it difficult for teams to sign free agents. The owners disagree.

Rain and Lightning Fails To Stop Carole Jo Skala

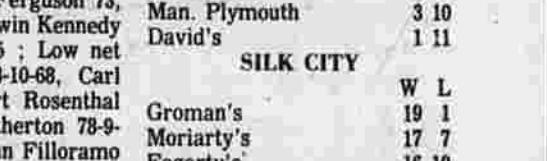

WHEELING, W. Va. (UPI) — Rain and lightning were the biggest threats facing Carole Jo Skala Sunday as she breezed to a four-stroke victory in the $25,000 LPGA Wheeling Classic, but she would have preferred a competitor breathing down her neck. "Today I didn't play a hole well," she said after shooting a one-over-par 73 for a 212 to win in two years on the LPGA tour. "I play better under pressure." For a while Mrs. Skala had the lead in the 36-hole par-five fifth hole, sinking an eight-foot putt. Mrs. Skala took her six-shot lead before Ted Pappas rumbled over the West Virginia hills and the first light rain fell on the Speidel course in Oglebay Park. She birdied the 400-yard par-five fifth hole, sinking an eight-foot putt. Miss Blalock pulled within two strokes on Nos. 8, 10, and 13; but she dropped back after bogeying the long 14th. Mrs. Skala said she would have played better if the competition had remained tight. "I'm a gunner. I like to play gambling golf. I played better when I heard Blalock was two behind me." Miss Blalock picked up $3,750 and Miss Astrolagos $2,850. Mrs. Skala's win pushed her earnings for the year to $35,466.

160th Win for Petty

ATLANTA (UPI) — Despite being one lap down halfway through Sunday's Dixie 500, Richard Petty wasn't about to give up. He figured he was due a little luck. Petty's break came when Tony Bettenhausen blew an engine in his Chevrolet after 360 miles. The caution flag enabled Petty to gain back a lap he had lost earlier on a bad break, and won a race with 14 laps to set up a battle to the finish between Petty and rival David Pearson. The anticipated stretch duel quickly became a "ho-hum" affair, however, as Petty's Dodge easily outdistanced Pearson's Mercury and the ultimate NASCAR champion coasted to his 160th career victory. "You don't ever give up," explained Petty. "The farthest behind I ever was and won a race was 14 laps so you don't ever give up."

Lions Mourn Death of McCafferty, Coach Stricken Working at Home

BLOOMFIELD HILLS, Mich. (UPI) — The Detroit Lions, mourning the sudden death of Head Coach Don McCafferty of an apparent heart attack Sunday, were expected to name one of three Lions' assistant coaches to replace him today. McCafferty, 53, who took the Baltimore Colts to the Super Bowl in 1970, collapsed and died Sunday while cutting the grass and moving sand in the back yard of his West Bloomfield, Mich., home. General Manager Russ Thomas of the Lions talked late Sunday with former William Clay Ford of Detroit, on a trip to East Hampton, N.Y., about naming a successor to McCafferty, who coached the club to a 6-1 record in his only season in Detroit. "Don was an excellent coach and an intelligent man," Ford said in a statement after learning of the death of the coach he and Thomas personally selected after Joe Schmidt abruptly resigned in 1972. "All of us will sorely miss him."

Hollway was the most likely choice. He was credited with mounding the tough Minnesota Vikings defense as an assistant to Bud Grant. He was fired after two seasons coaching the St. Louis Cardinals. Khayat is best remembered for rallying the Philadelphia Eagles in the final 11 games of 1971 with his tough disciplinary methods, which included short haircuts and no moustaches. He also was fired after the 1972 season. Forzano was the head man at Navy for three years, and while he has no experience at running an NFL team, he was an assistant for the Cardinals in 1966-67 and the Cincinnati Bengals in 1968 before moving to the Naval Academy. A memorial service for McCafferty was planned for 7 EDT tonight at the bell chapel of the William R. Hamilton Funeral Home in the Detroit suburb of Birmingham. The funeral was scheduled for Wednesday in Towson, Md., where the McCafferty family lived during the off-season. McCafferty was survived by his widow, June, daughters Jaclyn and Lisa, and sons Bill and Donald. Mrs. McCafferty asked that money be donated to the heart fund in lieu of flowers. "I still can't believe it," Lions fullback Steve Owens said. "It was a tremendous loss for all of us. The ironic thing was that we were in the hotel having a meeting—and he was across the street in the hospital and we didn't even know he was there."

Busy Schedule For Twi Nines

Three games in as many nights, starting tonight, confront the American Division-leading Morlarty Brothers' entry of Manchester in the Hartford Twilight League. Manchester Community College, holding down the last spot in the National Division standings, is down for a pair of contests as the season is rapidly drawing to a close. Coach Gene Johnson's classy MB's face West Hartford tonight at St. Thomas, return home Tuesday to face Volkswegan at Mt. Nebo and hit the road again Wednesday, this time to Rockville to face the Orioles at Henry Park. The Collegians meet Bristol Tuesday at St. Thomas and entertain Hartford Thursday night at Mt. Nebo. All remaining games starting tonight are listed to get underway at 5:45, 15 minutes earlier than usual. Two more weeks remain before the playoffs. Johnson has dropped out of the batting lead but his .375 average is still the fourth best in the circuit. Al Putteri of Vernon is No. 2 at .409 behind Bill Keenan's .429. The latter is with West Hartford. Morlarty's pace the team averages with a .382 mark. Publicist Jim Gallagher points out: Rick Riordan is at .367, Ron Krough at .327 and Frank DiMauro at .302. MCC's only 300 batter is Jim Lehan at .260.

Death of Lion Coach Could Alter Thinking

PONTIAC, Mich. (UPI) — The death of Coach Don McCafferty of Detroit may alter the thinking of some Lions' veterans. "We might let our quarterbacks into camp to learn the signals when they (the Lions) name a new coach," said center Ed Flanagan, Detroit player representative for the striking members of the National Football League Players' Association. "They'll have to learn the signals so we won't be behind when the strike is over," Flanagan said Sunday after learning of McCafferty's death. If the quarterbacks go, can the rest of the strikers be far behind? Who will throw, handle handoffs and call signals when striking players work out on their own at a suburban Detroit high school? Detroit was one of three teams with no defectors—until Friday, when cornerback Rudy Redmond and running back Leon Crosswhite crossed over.

NFL Players Still at Odds

Demands on behalf of the players but stressed they have not been abandoned. The players' image has been suffering the last week. Twenty union members were arrested last week for illegally picketing a Chicago-Green Bay scrimmage and pickets outside the Hall of Fame Game Saturday at Canton, Ohio, were in turn picketed by members of the National Football League Veterans Association, protesting the fact that players who retired before 1959 were not included in the union's pension setup. The NFL, on the other hand, is not eager to play many games with the Dallas Cowboys and Pat Sullivan with the Atlanta Falcons. Linebacker Bill Bergey, traded recently by Cincinnati to Philadelphia, reported to the Eagles' camp. The move by Morton, who has signed with the WFL for next season, particularly incensed some Cowboys. "I don't want to get into any controversy regarding the Players' Association and management but I just feel that it is best for me to get out there and to work," Morton said. "I had planned to go last week but I decided to wait."

Quarterbacks May Cross Lines

Linebackers Jim Laslavie and Mike Hennigan made it a foursome during the weekend. A common theme also ran through the sentiments of the Lions' veterans—that the death of their popular coach made the strike insignificant. "The thing about something like this is that it shows you the strike doesn't mean much," guard Bob Kowalkowski said. "It makes all the other problems we are facing at this time so minor," tackle Jim Yarbrough said. "We'll miss him," fullback Steve Owens said. "Hopefully, we can regroup and dedicate this season to him. It's amazing. You get a phone call and suddenly everything else is insignificant. "The ironic thing was we were in the hotel having a meeting and he was across the street in the hospital and we didn't even know he was there."

Friends may call at the funeral home Tuesday from 2 to 4 and 7 to 9 p.m.

Ernest J. Jacobs — Ernest J. Jacobs, 74, of Hartford, formerly of Manchester, died Sunday at University-McCook Hospital in Hartford. He was the husband of Florence Hoffman Jacobs.

He was born in Manchester Sept. 24, 1899, and lived in Hartford the past 48 years. He had at one time owned and operated the West Side Dairy in Manchester. He was a self-employed painter and decorator in Hartford until his retirement two years ago.

He was a communicant of the Immaculate Conception Church in Hartford.

Besides his wife, survivors are two brothers, John F. Jacobs and Peter P. Jacobs, both of Manchester; and a sister, Mrs. Martha Massey of Bolton.

The funeral will be Wednesday at 8:30 a.m. from the Giuliano-Sagarino Funeral Home, 247 Washington St., Hartford, with a Mass at 9 at the Immaculate Conception Church. Burial will be in St. James Cemetery, Manchester.

Friends may call at the funeral home Tuesday from 7 to 9 p.m.

Donald Wojcik Jr. — Funeral services were held July 17 in Dallas, Tex., for Donald Wojcik Jr., 22 months, of Dallas, formerly of Manchester, who died suddenly July 15. Burial was in Restland Cemetery, Dallas.

He was born in Manchester Aug. 30, 1972, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Wojcik Sr. He moved his family to Dallas about a year ago.

Besides his parents, he leaves three sisters, Wendy Ann, Nancy Lynn, and Melanie Marie, all at home in Dallas; his maternal grandmother, Mrs. Helen Larson of Manchester; and his paternal grandmother, Mrs. Anna Mae Wojcik of Syracuse, N.Y.

Stall Attempt Fails

Voting for Steele were Agostinelli, Saund Taylor, Harlan Taylor, Carl Zinsser, Hilary Gallagher, Eugene Montany, Charles McKenzie, Elsie Swenson, Roy Thompson, M. Phillip Susag, Mary Fletcher and Donald Kuehl.

Favoring Panuzio were A. Paul Berte, Marion Mercer, M. Adler Dobkin, David Odegard, Anita Murphy, Vivian Ferguson and district delegate Elinor Hashim.

The lone Collins supporter, Donald

Nate Agostinelli

Genovesi, switched his vote to Steele after the roll-call and before the final tally.

The convention was doubly hectic for Republican Town Chairman A. Paul Berte of Manchester, who led the local delegation.

Besides convention business, Berte was worrying about his wife, Susan, who was expecting a baby.

Periodically throughout the convention Friday and Saturday, Berte left the floor to make phone calls.

The baby was still being expected this morning.

Agostinelli

While mayor of Manchester, Agostinelli was chosen by his peers to head the 29-town Capital Region Council of Governments.

Early in 1970, admirers of Agostinelli — and there were many — convinced him he should seek state office. He declared he was a candidate for lieutenant governor and campaigned vigorously for the nomination — traveling the length and breadth of the state and speaking at meetings of from two to 1,000 persons.

He became well-known and, although he didn't get the nomination for lieutenant governor in 1970, he did get the nomination for comptroller. Again, he campaigned vigorously — the length and breadth of the state.

'Instant Recognition'

Then came Oct. 12, 1970, and "instant recognition."

President Richard Nixon was in Hartford to speak to a national group of editors. Agostinelli, was on the sidewalk outside the Hartford Hilton Hotel as President Nixon walked into the lobby. Agostinelli noticed a Viet Cong flag being waved by demonstrators opposite the hotel.

He rushed over, tore the flag from the hands of the demonstrator, threw it to the ground and stomped on it. TV cameras caught the action and reporters from throughout the country observed it.

Agostinelli received coast-to-coast recognition.

President Nixon was informed of the incident and congratulated Agostinelli

Manchester's 20-member delegation, which included district delegate Elinor Hashim, cast 19 votes for Brannen and one for Kozlowski Saturday afternoon. The lone vote for Kozlowski came from Agostinelli.

In a short caucus in the Bushnell lobby before the senate candidate vote, Manchester delegates concentrated on Brannen in discussing preferences. A few of the women delegates mentioned Mrs. Jorgensen, but then agreed that Brannen was first choice.

"Brannen's wife will be a plus," Manchester delegate Mary Fletcher pointed out.

The Manchester delegation cast all its 20 votes for Bingham in the two-way contest for attorney general nomination.

There was little discussion by the local delegates about that race.

State Agriculture Commissioner Fenton "Pat" Futner of South Windsor garnered eight votes for the gubernatorial nomination — all from the South Windsor delegation — during the delegate-by-delegate roll call of 1,287 Republicans at Saturday's convention.

But he only wound up with one vote after the vote-switching permitted by convention rules, which occurred after the roll call and before the votes were tallied.

Seven of South Windsor's eight delegates switched their votes to Steele. The only remaining vote for Futner which wasn't switched was cast by David Sorensen, who was sitting as alternate for district delegate Futner.

Other towns in the Manchester area went all-out for Steele.

The First Congressional District Town of Bolton cast its three ballots for Steele. The Second District towns surrounding Manchester also cast all their votes for Steele.

Those towns, and the number of delegates, were: Andover, three; Columbia, three; Coventry, four; Ellington, four; Tolland, four; and Vernon (Steele's hometown), 12.

before leaving the Hilton. Later, he sent Agostinelli a personal letter of congratulations.

Agostinelli has a picture of the President in his office. As he tells visitors, "He's the President. If he were a Democrat, I'd still have his picture on the wall."

When he was Manchester mayor, he followed the same philosophy. He accorded respect to top office-holders, of whatever party. He never failed to welcome them to town, in his official capacity and out of respect.

A Popular Republican

Since he became comptroller, he has become one of the most popular Republicans in the state. When he was introduced Friday night to the GOP State Convention, the applause for him was spontaneous, warm and sincere. It was not contrived — as was the applause for several of those introduced.

For nine weeks, from mid-April to mid-June, Agostinelli had been a candidate for governor. He withdrew from the race on June 19 and threw his support to Robert Steele. Many top Republicans are convinced the June 19 action insured Steele's nomination for governor.

With Gov. Thomas Meskill ineffective because of his "lame duck" status and the anticipation he will resign soon for a federal judgeship, Agostinelli will be the only Republican still occupying the state office to which he was elected in 1970.

The "Agostinelli Story" may be just beginning. At 43, he has many years of political future before him. Win, lose or draw, he is an asset to the Republican party, to Manchester and to Connecticut.

Police Report

MANCHESTER

Alan Gagne, 19, of 33 Montauk Dr., Vernon, was arrested Saturday at noon on Williams St. by Patrolman John Marvin after police were alerted to watch for a car like the one Gagne was driving. The alert was in regards to a theft of work boots at the King's department store at 11:43 a.m.

After the arrest, police found that the car he was driving had been stolen.

Gagne was charged with second-degree larceny by possession, having a weapon in a motor vehicle (a .22 cal. pellet gun), forgery of motor vehicle registration, misuse of marker plates, and fourth-degree larceny (in connection with the theft of the boots). He was scheduled to be presented in Circuit Court 12 in Manchester today.

The car was stolen from Anne M. Patten of West Hartford and had been partially repainted.

Matthew Dubiel, 17, of 608 Governors Highway, South Windsor; Arthur McNary, 16, of 2289 Ellington Rd., South Windsor; and Deborah A. Compinger, 18, of East Hartford were all arrested Saturday at 8:20 p.m. at Mt. Nebo and charged with possession of marijuana.

The three, along with three 15-year-olds from South Windsor, were found in a car at the park. Three bags of marijuana were found in the car along with nine cans of beer and several pipes with marijuana in them.

The three juveniles were turned over to their parents.

The three older teens were released on $150 non-surety bonds each for court Aug. 12.

Dubiel was also issued a written warning for possession of liquor in a motor vehicle operated by a minor.

David E. Fine, 20, of Bethesda, Md., was arrested Sunday at 1:47 a.m. on Main St. near the center after Thomas M. Reardon of Cromwell said he saw him kick in the door of his sports car. Reardon detained Fine until a policeman came on the scene.

The door kicking apparently occurred after Fine and Mark B. Thompson, 20, of Bethesda, Md., were in a fight with a band playing at the Other Horse restaurant on E. Center St. Reardon is an employe of the restaurant.

Fine was charged with intoxication and third-degree criminal mischief. Court was set for today.

Thompson was arrested a short time later at Police Headquarters and charged with intoxication and breach of peace after he caused a disturbance there during the processing of Fine's arrest. He posted $100 cash bond for court Aug. 12.

David J. Swanson, 20, of East Hartford was arrested today at 2:02 a.m. and charged with operating a motor vehicle while his license is under suspension and having passengers outside his motor vehicle. Police stopped the convertible Swanson was driving on Main St. with six passengers, one of them on the trunk. He was released on $150 non-surety bond for court Aug. 12.

Rene E. Hirth, 24, of 51 Sandy Beach Rd. Ext., Ellington was arrested Sunday at 12:50 p.m. and charged with possession of marijuana. He posted $500 non-surety bond for court Aug. 12 and was released to a state trooper from the Stafford Barracks due to an investigation in Stafford of a car theft. The arrest here was made in Wickham Park.

Donald P. King, 24, of Stafford Springs was brought to Police Headquarters today from the State Correctional Center in Hartford at 10 a.m. and served a Circuit Court 12 warrant charging him with third-degree larceny by possession in regards to a theft at The Collector's Corner.

Wilfred J. Meyer, 52, of 24 Locust St. was arrested Saturday and charged with breach of peace. He posted a $100 non-surety bond for court Aug. 12.

Edward S. Opalack, 51, of 223 E. Middle Tpke. was arrested Saturday at 4:48 p.m. on Deming St. and charged with operating a motor vehicle while his license is suspended. He posted $150 cash bond for court Aug. 5.

Donna Sheldon, 24, of 99 Spencer St. was charged with an improper left-hand turn Saturday at 4:59 p.m. after the car she was driving east on Spencer St. began a left turn and struck a motorcycle head-on.

Denis B. Falcon, 25, of 147 South St., Rockville, the motorcyclist, was taken by ambulance to Manchester Memorial Hospital where he was treated for a wrist injury and discharged.

Court for Sheldon is Aug. 12.

VERNON

Two Manchester men were admitted to Manchester Memorial Hospital Sunday night when they were both struck by a car on I-86 in Vernon.

Roger Dubay, 23, of Wadsworth St. was reported in serious condition and John Norton, 26, of 92 Bissell St. in satisfactory condition. They suffered head and leg injuries.

State Police said the two men were struck by a car driven by Kenneth Buratt of Hartford. Police said the car was westbound when it struck the two men, whom police said were standing in the center lane. The accident is still under investigation.

Howard Gilnite, 20, of 444 Center St., Manchester, was charged Saturday with disorderly conduct, fourth-degree larceny and interfering with a police officer in connection with the investigation of the theft of liquor from a Vernon store.

Gilnite was also charged Sunday with intoxication and tampering with a motor vehicle. Allen Pilote, 18, of 105 High St., Rockville was also charged with the same offenses in connection with the investigation of an incident on Gerald Dr., Vernon.

They are scheduled to appear in Circuit Court 12, Rockville, Aug. 20.

Roger Michaud, 16, of W. Middle Tpke., Manchester was charged with operating a motor vehicle under suspension and operating an unregistered motor vehicle.

Police said Michaud, who was operating a motorcycle, was stopped on Maple St. in Rockville and then fled the scene. He was later apprehended in Manchester by Manchester Police and released on a $200 non-surety bond for appearance in Circuit Court 12, Rockville, Aug. 20.

Jered R. Tompkins, 16, of 187 Gardner St. was charged with improper passing on a curve Saturday at 12:26 a.m. after the car he was driving west on Timber Trail went off the side of the road and struck a utility pole.

Patrolman Gary Benson and neighbors administered first aid and Tompkins was taken by ambulance to Manchester Memorial Hospital where he was treated for a lacerated forehead and discharged.

Court for Tompkins is Aug. 12.

John R. Rae, 27, of East Hartford was injured Sunday at 9:30 p.m. after a two-car collision at Spencer St. and Hartford Rd. He was taken by ambulance to Manchester Memorial Hospital where he was treated for multiple abrasions and discharged.

Gary T. Beaulieu, 21, of East Hartford was the other driver. There were no passengers. Both drivers told police they thought they had the green light. No arrests made and the accident is still under investigation.

Richard Migliore, 20, of 12 West St. and JoAnne Chevette, 15, of 176 Lyness St. were riding a motorcycle in the woods Sunday at 6:50 p.m. to the rear of 144 Linwood Dr. The bike hit a piece of wood causing it to hit the youth in the jaw. The neighbors called for help. The ambulance crew found the youth in the kitchen of 144 Linwood Dr.

He was taken to Manchester Memorial Hospital where he was treated for facial lacerations and discharged. Miss Chevette, his passenger, was uninjured.

Ken Arnold of 365 W. Middle Tpke. was able to save his motorcycle Sunday at 1:45 a.m. from two young thieves.

He leaned the black Ossa motorcycle against the east side of his house. A few minutes later, he heard it being wheeled away.

Arnold ran outside and saw two youths running west down W. Middle Tpke. with his bike. He chased them on a road on the east side of Hilliard Pond. The youths then from the bike into the woods where Arnold lost them. The motorcycle was okay.
