Police investigating theft of steel beams

Manchester Police are investigating a variety of thefts and burglaries reported Thursday, including the disappearance of structural steel from a Tolland Tpk. site.

The structural steel, discovered missing Thursday from the rear of the Connecticut Motor Lodge, 404 Tolland Tpk., is worth about $1,500, police said.

It consisted of four steel I-beams, each of them about 4 by 8 inches in size and 20 feet long. Several other I-beams at the site weren't disturbed.

A large truck had to be used to steal the steel, police said. The theft occurred after April 1, victim John Barnini told police.

In other incidents reported Thursday:

- Burglars stole a stereo system and an antique clock in a break into a Tolland Tpk. home.
- About $80 in cash was taken in a burglary into the Mark Manufacturing Co., 140 Hilliard St. Entry to the building was made by smashing glass, police said, and the burglar, who apparently cut himself while breaking in, left some blood behind.
- A break into a Vernon St. home in which the only item taken was a set of house keys.

Door-to-door check for dogs planned

Animal control authorities will begin a door-to-door check for unlicensed dogs in Manchester Monday, Police Chief Robert Lannan announced today.

The townwide survey will be conducted by Manchester Dog Warden John McClelland and state canine officer Ronald Mathewson, assisted by a group of youth volunteers authorized by Lannan.

The last townwide survey of dogs, done about five years ago, resulted in discovery of several hundred unlicensed canines, Mathewson said.

Townspolice were warned that failure to obtain a license for a dog six months or older can result in a court fine of up to $25. Authorities asked lawbreakers to comply with state laws and cooperate in the survey.

Mary Carmody weaves a wall hanging in preparation for an art and crafts fair sponsored by the Manchester Community College Art Club to be held Sunday from 1 to 6 p.m. at the Hartford Rd. campus building. Police arrest three men on narcotics charges

Manchester Police detectives, armed with arrest warrants obtained after undercover "buys," lodged drug charges against three persons this morning.

William Henderson, 19, of 233 Burnham St. was charged with illegal possession and sale of a prescription drug.

Rafael Trujillo, 18, of Bissell St. was charged with illegal possession and sale of a controlled substance (amphetamines).

Paul B. Duffy, 17, of 689 Main St. was charged with illegal possession and sale of a controlled substance (tranquilizers).

Each was held on a $1,000 surety bond for appearance April 20 in Common Pleas Court 12, East Hartford. Police said the arrests are the result of a lengthy local investigation involving purchase of small quantities of the substances by authorities.

Historian dies

NEW HAVEN (UPI) — Private funeral services are planned for Prof. Lewis P. Curtis, 75, a noted historian who retired from Yale University in 1969. Curtis, who had been in poor health recently, died Thursday at his New Haven home.

For many years one of Yale's leading teachers, he had been chairman of a new program, "History, Arts and Letters." He is survived by his widow, Janet, a son and daughter.

Other arrests made or summonses issued by Manchester Police included:

- Ross K. Hunt, 19, of 4 Tyler Circle, charged on a warrant Thursday with third-degree larceny. Police said the charges stem from thefts of motor vehicle batteries from school buses on Glen Rd. Court date is April 26.

A police case of sexual equality

When does sexual equality amount to rank discrimination? This is the question facing the U.S. Sixth Circuit Court of Appeals in Cincinnati in a case involving alleged unconstitutional discrimination against women candidates for the Columbus, Ohio, police department. The complaint is not that women are treated differently from men but that they are treated the same.

The department's physical tests require a candidate to run 440 yards in 100 seconds, scramble through an obstacle course and pull a revolver trigger so many times in one minute. Failing any of these tests eliminates the candidate.

"We question the nature of these tests and contend that they discriminate against women," an attorney for the National Organization for Women argued before the court the other day. "We are only asking the tests be fair," he said, and by fair he means that the physical qualifications for women police officers should be less strenuous than for men.

A lawyer for the police department argued, however, that since all police academy graduates are immediately assigned the same jobs, both sexes should be treated alike. And no doubt there would be charges of discrimination if this were not true — if women were not given equal assignment opportunities, including that of beat patrolman, as well as equal pay.

But as one judge observed, chasing people is part of a police officer's job. So is firing a revolver. What happens in a perilous situation if a policewoman is unable to give her fellow officers the support and assistance they would expect from a man?

This talk about sexual equality is all very well, but despite contentions by some women liberals to the contrary, there is no escaping the fact that there are certain fundamental differences between men and women that no law or rule or judicial decree can erase.

And what about the less-vigorous male who is unable to pass the physical tests but who might otherwise make a good officer — as good as any woman?

Combustible environment

There are about a million building fires in the United States each year and 70 per cent of them are residential fires, according to the National Commission on Fire Prevention and Control. Residential fires also account for about 40 per cent of all property losses due to fire and 85 to 90 per cent of all fire deaths.

The National Bureau of Standards fact sheet shows that in the decade of 1962-1972, there were 12 fatalities a year in high-rise building fires. In the same 10-year period, there were 60,000 fatalities in residential fires.

Statistics like these indicate that the hazard of fire in high-rise buildings is oversensationalized, says C. E. Peck, vice president of a building materials manufacturing firm. "Considering these fundamental facts," he asks, "why has so much effort been expended the past few years in an attempt to deal with the so-called high-rise fire problem, while very little has been done with respect to other, more basic fire safety problems?"

We live in a combustible environment, he points out. The principal hazard in large buildings lies with the contents, not the products used to build the buildings. In high-rise and other large buildings, the materials of construction make up only one per cent of all burnable materials; the other 99 per cent is primarily furniture, carpeting, paper and other working materials brought into the buildings.

More attention should be focused on improving the fire-resistant properties of desks, curtains and carpeting, he agrees. But in a broader perspective, research should be directed to reducing the cost of our current technical solutions to fire safety. Smoke and heat detectors, for example, are very inexpensive compared with attempts to eliminate combustibles entirely.

Once we accept the fact that we live in a combustible environment, says Peck, we can then concentrate our efforts on developing realistic and economical fire suppression systems.

Have the liberals become too elitist?

WASHINGTON — A funny thing happened on my way to a second cup of morning coffee. The house liberal looked up from her newspaper and said she agreed with President Ford's charge that the Democratic Party is to blame for "big government."

Funny things are happening all over to the liberals. For instance, political observers keep asking where they are. Given the liberals' capacity for making noise, that's never happened before. And there are liberals around the country actually saying nice things about Sen. Hubert Humphrey, the man their establishment denounced in 1969 and 1972 as Lyndon Johnson's assistant war monger.

For crying out loud, we have even got Sen. Henry Jackson telling audiences that he's the only viable Democratic candidate for President who's willing to call himself a liberal. Scoop's record on domestic issues is almost 100 per cent liberal-perfect, but he's a no-no to the establishment because he's a hawk on national defense and doesn't trust the Russians.

Where are the liberals? Well, they are living in a compound labeled "isolationist," and at the same time praying that Teddy Kennedy will run for Top Banana. Teddy is an un-ashamed internationalist, a worthy successor to brother Jack, who told us in his inaugural speech that U.S. would defend freedom around the globe. Funny.

I suspect the liberals' major

problem is that they have become too elitist. Those who wield the power in the establishment don't want to associate with anybody who can't or won't meet the standards of their political culture. They want to pick and choose their supporters — or, perhaps a better word, their followers.

Pat Moynihan, our former United Nations ambassador, sums it up every time he runs into a reporter or makes a speech. He claims the "elitist liberals" have so selected themselves in the last several years that they no longer have credit with the average voter.

"They almost succeeded in running the workingman out of the Democratic Party," Moynihan keeps roaring. "They made the workingman feel liberals they poked fun at him, they made him a caricature. In their eyes, if you're not a cultural liberal, then you're not a political liberal."

Liberals indeed have been too standoffish, going way back to Jack Kennedy and Lyndon Johnson. They manufactured all those grandiose social programs, then retired to their clubs and to visit their kids' private schools, expecting the unwashed to make the programs work. Liberal chieftains never had to live with forced school busing to achieve racial balance. They made that the lot of the laborer and the shoe salesman.

It is almost incredible that, at this writing, the liberals don't have a running candidate for President. Mo Udall? He refuses to call himself a liberal; he's now a "progressive."

Fred Harris is out of it, and besides he's always been just a touch unfashionable for the elites. Fred is for the Common Man, but let's face it, he lives in a trailer.

Jimmy Carter? He prays, sometimes in public, if you can imagine that. To the elites that summons up visions of a Democratic Bill Graham opening every Cabinet meeting with a couple of verses from the Bible. The elites are not, publicly at least, against prayer. But, well, it is so square to keep announcing that you believe in God.

The elitist liberals are now turning to Humphrey. At least, they think they are. They are not big at making up their minds these days. At any rate, Humphrey would be their last resort. That's funny, too. Ironically, four years ago, Hubert had to pay his way into George McGovern's hotel suite in Miami.

Don't look, here comes the future!

LEESBURG, Va. — For Americans, the next 25 years will be marked by growing shortages of basic commodities, accelerating demands by "have not" nations to share our wealth, fewer white collar jobs for even the best educated, sharper conflict between the need for energy and the desire for a clean environment, and a possible capital formation crunch that could toss a monkey wrench into the U.S. economy.

That's the "good" news that emerges from the first of three Bicentennial "think tank" symposiums which are being held at the Xerox Corporation's international training center near this sleepy town 30 miles from Washington. Now for the bad news: in the absence of change, the U.S. social, political and economic systems may be utterly incapable of dealing effectively with these challenges.

Those disturbing thoughts come compliments of about 100 of the nation's brightest thinkers who recently were brought to the richly appointed Xerox facility for three days of intense musing on what life will be like between now and the year 2000. Collectively called "Project: Knowledge 2000," the three symposiums being held here (the other two are scheduled in April and June) are jointly sponsored by Xerox, the National Science Foundation, and the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration.

The project, costing an estimated $736,000, will involve nearly 350 leading figures from government, industry, academia, the professions and the media. Videotaped summaries of the sessions will be sent to communities throughout the country for local group discussion and — sponsors hope — action on the issues raised in Leesburg.

Several of the key participants, all of whom were selected by the American Academy of Arts and Sciences, suggested that what is needed more than accumulation of new knowledge is the putting to better use of knowledge already in hand. "The country's leading medical educators, Dr. Robert S. Morison of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, for example, commented on the incongruity of worrying about the possible health hazards of environmental air pollution while doing little about the certain hazards of smoking."

"We already have evidence that greatest single cause of cancer cigarettes," said Morison. "If people gave up smoking we would have 90 per cent less cancer 30 years from now. But no one has figured out how to put that knowledge in a way that teenagers will understand it."

Of the principal panelists at the symposium, the most radical in the views he expressed was Robert Coles, Harvard University psychiatrist and winner of the Pulitzer Prize in 1973 for his three-volume work, "Children of Crisis." Coles argued that answers are already in hand for "most major problems of humanity, including how to feed hungry Americans such as those in the rural South. While suggesting at one point the possibility of "abandoning capitalism for some type of socialism," Coles later conceded that "one thing this country does have is political liberty." Still later he appeared to back away from his "socialism" suggestion, saying "I'm a card-carrying liberal and I want change in society, but I want to keep the freedom we have."

Other major figures at the symposium likewise appeared to believe that a relatively free economy remains the best hope for the future. "The most outspoken panelist voiced such a view, however, was also the most pessimistic in his outlook on the future of capitalism. Fletcher Byrom, chairman of the board of a chemical manufacturing company called the Koppers Co., and chairman of the President's Export Council, said flatly that his company "operates on the theory that the free enterprise system in the United States may not survive more than five more years."

Byrom, who added that his firm doesn't invest capital in anything that doesn't pay out in five years or less, explained that his dark view primarily is a result of a national political system in which U.S. leaders refuse to make politically unpopular decisions.

"The system that we espouse," said Byrom, "that has provided us with the freedoms that we believe in so strongly, has — what — 15 years to go? I doubt that we can continue the system we have if we don't start to

Today's thought

"If anyone loves me he will keep my word and my Father will love him, and we shall come to Him and make our home with Him.

Those who do not love me do not keep my words. And my word is not my own. It is the word of the one who sent me. I have said these things to you while still with you, but the Advocate, the Holy Spirit, whom the Father will send in my name will teach you everything and remind you of all I have said to you. Peace I leave with you my own peace I give you, a peace the world cannot give, this is my gift to you. Do not let your hearts be troubled or afraid." John 14:22-27

Lord give us all the gift of knowing You and living in the quiet of Your peace.

Heading the list of judges for the Miss Manchester Scholarship Pageant to be held Saturday will be Hilton Kaderli, weather forecaster for television station WFSB Channel 3. Kaderli was born in Port Worth, Tex., and spent his first 19 years in that state. He moved to Oklahoma where he attended the University of Oklahoma and participated in the campus radio station. This experience changed Kaderli's interest from law to broadcasting and halfway through his college career he made a similar switch in his major.

Working as a jack-of-all trades in a small Oklahoma radio station, Kaderli found an opening on a television station when he auditioned as a six-month replacement for a weather girl in Oklahoma City. He moved into the newsroom at KWTN in Oklahoma City and then relocated to join WTTG-TV in Washington, D.C. After two years with WTOP-TV in Washington as weather reporter, Kaderli was transferred to Hartford when the Post-Newsweek Corp. purchased Channel 3. Kaderli and his family live in Simsbury.

Other judges include Paul Catalone, general chairman of the Miss Bristol Scholarship Pageant; Gaylan S. Edwards, former field director of the Miss Connecticut Pageant; Kenneth J. Murphy, state field director for the Massachusetts and Connecticut State pageants; and Cheryl-Leigh Bufum, teacher at the Horace W. Porter School in Coventry.

John A. Hedlund, vice president of the Heritage Savings and Loan Association and John W. Thompson, deputy mayor of Manchester will serve as auditors.

The Miss Manchester Pageant, sponsored by the Manchester Jaycees, will feature seven young ladies from the greater Manchester area who will vie in swimsuit, talent and evening gown competition for the title.

The winner has a chance of going on to become Miss Connecticut, and Miss America crown and a $15,000 scholarship. Nearly one million dollars in educational scholarships are awarded annually at the local, state, and national Miss America Pageants, making it the largest scholarship foundation in the world for women.

The ladies will be introduced in the Bailey Auditorium at Manchester High School. Proceeds from the event are contributed to the scholarship fund awarded to the contestants and to the Manchester Scholarship Foundation.

Advance sale tickets are available at Watkin's, the Senior Citizens Center, or by calling Gary Espelin, ticket chairman at 508-9320.

Legion to bestow life memberships

The Dilworth-Cornell-Quey Post of the American Legion in Manchester will honor three of its members with life memberships on May 8 at the Post Home.

The award, the highest honor bestowed on a Legionnaire on the post level, will be presented to Harold C. Belcher, Theodore L. Fairbanks, and Ernest C. Linders Jr.

Belcher, a World War I veteran, is a 50-year member of the American Legion. He has served the Bingo Committee for 30 years, worked on the Poppy Program for 20 years, served in the decorating of graves for Memorial Day, and on the fireworks committee until that program was discontinued. He was a frequent visitor to the area veterans hospital. He devoted 50 years of service to his post. He retired from Hamilton Standard in 1961 and went to work for Mercer-Dunbar as a security guard for 11 years. Fully retired now, Belcher at 79, still works Bingo every Wednesday.

Homecoming Parade in 1955, past chairman of the Past Commanders Association. He served as a member of the Manchester Board of Directors, director and past president of the Manchester Little League, and is presently a member of the Manchester Permanent Memorial Day committee representing the citizens and the Bicentennial committee as parade coordinator.

He is currently in the employ of the Manchester Board of Education as supervisor of building and grounds. Fairbanks will retire in July, is a communicant of St. James Church in Manchester and resides at 344 Oak St. with his wife, Helen, an active auxiliary member.

Linders, a World War II veteran, served the post for two terms as commander. He received congratulations from Post, District and Department Legionnaires for his dedicated and proper conduct of post business. He presided at 100 per cent of his meetings and additional meetings while in the capacity of senior vice commander.

He lives at 57 Main St. with his wife, Dorothy. The couple has three children, Lawrence at home, and Ernest and Christine, married and living out-of-town.

There will be a social hour from 6 to 7 p.m. followed with a roast beef dinner promptly at 7. After the awards program, there will be dancing in the Fireplace Room.

A guest speaker will be announced at a later date. Tickets are available from the Post stewards.

Honor roll dates voted

Hebron

The American Legion Auxiliary's Bicentennial Committee met recently with representatives from the American Legion, Board of Selectmen and Lions Club to vote on the dates to be placed on the permanent honor roll.

The dates voted on were:

- World War II - Dec. 7, 1941 to Dec. 31, 1945
- Korean Conflict - June 25, 1950 to Jan. 31, 1955
- Vietnam Conflict - Aug. 5, 1964 to Aug. 15, 1973

The names of about 270 men and women who entered the service from Hebron during the above periods will be placed on the honor roll.

Last month the Auxiliary placed an order for the permanent marker with the Manchester Memorial Company. The marker will be of Vermont granite and there will be a center marker flanked on either side by smaller markers.

The auxiliary has set a goal of $5,000 and to date has realized $2,500. The honor roll will replace the wooden one now located at Veteran's Park. It is to be ready for Veteran's Day in November.

Aiding the auxiliary are the Lions, Women's Republican Club and the legion.

Two-town hearing set

Andover

Andover's Board of Selectmen has called a public hearing for Wednesday to discuss the Andover Bolton disposal situation.

The Board of Selectmen and Board of Finance from both towns will attend.

Charles Kurker from the state Department of Environmental Protection (DEP) will also attend.

It will be held at the Andover Elementary School all purpose room at 8 p.m.

Andover First Selectman David Yeomans said if the hearing shows no change on Andover's part, the matter should be dropped.

At a March 1975 Andover Town Meeting residents voted 104-39 to cease sharing the Andover Disposal Area with Bolton.

At a February 1976 Town Meeting residents reaffirmed their original action by 71-27.

Andover Selectman J. Russell Thompson who in the past favored the towns no longer sharing the area said the two towns should be able to talk.

He said if Andover could get from $40,000 to $50,000 from Bolton he would reconsider. He said with that kind of money Andover would be able to consider renovating its own town hall, and getting more for its kids.

Andover is now begging for Bolton to come back," he said.

During the past couple weeks a group of Bolton residents have been working to arrange such a public hearing for residents of both towns.

In Tolland, Merrill is a building official, a former first selectman, deputy sheriff, and vice chairman of the Republican Town Committee.

Merrill said, "I work for Frank Merrill and my district, not as a full-time lobbyist for Big Brother's Inc., who are paid by Hartford corporations like United Aircraft."

He was referring to incumbent State Rep. Robert Walsh, D-Coventry.

Merrill said, "a common sense approach" to government is necessary and supports a state income tax, coupled with a complete overhaul of the present tax structure, the completion of I-84, industrial development, and a district sewer system.

Merrill, responding to questioning, supports subsidized higher education for needy students.

Dressely calls Yeomans

Bolton First Selectman David Dressely called Yeomans last week and asked him to arrange such a hearing.

In the past Yeomans has favored both sharing the area.

The Andover selectmen's 1976-77 budget request for money to operate the disposal area on a one town basis is $24,487. In Andover one mill is less than $14,000. In Bolton one mill is about $22,000.

The Bolton selectmen's 1976-77 budget request to solve the refuse disposal problem is now $75,000.

Volunteers injured in test drive

Bolton

DONNA HOLLAND

The town of Bolton may be liable for injuries sustained recently by a member of the Bolton Volunteer Fire Department while riding in its new emergency rescue service vehicle.

The vehicle arrived in town last week. Some of the volunteers decided to test drive it. While one drove, several rode in the back portion which is now only a big metal box.

several days but is not under a doctor's care.

Dimock said he thought the accident was avoidable.

Rattazzi said that when Dow was test driving, Rattazzi himself was banged around to the point of being sore.

Robert Smith of the town's Insurance Advisory Board said the town's insurance would cover Dimock's medical bills.

While being driven by the department's chief, Donato Rattazzi Jr., two of the volunteers were injured, Lance Dimock and William Dow, said members of the department.

Dimock is now under a doctor's care for internal bruises near his kidney, Dimock said.

Sportsmen gun for Dodd

GROTON (UPI)

Sportsmen in eastern Connecticut opposed to gun control are forming a group to support a third party congressional candidate against Rep. Christopher J. Dodd, D-Conn.

Gregory Kopcak, 30, of Groton, who describes himself as a "pro-gunner," said Wednesday he hopes to run against Dodd in the 2nd Congressional District as a candidate for "United Sportsmen."

Kopcak, an engineer with the Electric Boat Division of General Dynamics Corp., said he does not think he will have any trouble getting the 1,770 signatures he needs on petitions to qualify for a place on the ballot.

"I'm a pro-gunner. I don't believe we need any more gun legislation. We've got enough," Kopcak said.

Dodd said he is sorry the sportsmen in his district do not understand his position on gun control.

"I don't consider myself anti-sportsman. I am just against the proliferation of hand guns," Dodd said.

Kopcak, one of 350 members of Groton Sportsmen in North Stonington, said, "I believe in the basic rights of our forefathers that a man has a right to bear arms and I don't believe anyone should take that away from him."

The dispute between sportsmen and Dodd is reminiscent of the opposition that greeted Dodd's father, the late Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., over his 1964 proposal to stop some persons from ordering handguns by mail.

Marcham declares for Burke's seat

VERNON

Stephen Marcham, a member of the Vernon Board of Education, today announced his candidacy state representative from the 56th District.

Atty. Martin Burke now serving in that position, announced last week that he will not seek re-election.

Marcham, 27, is a graduate of Rockville High School, attended Tufts University, graduated from the University of Connecticut (cum laude) with a degree in Political Science and from the university's School of Pharmacy. He is employed by Vincenzi's Pharmacy, Rockville.

Marcham said the issue that looms over all others is the financial crisis felt by all levels of government. Marcham is budget chairman for the school board.

He resolves to carry to the General Assembly his concerns for such things as fine educational services versus the public's ability to pay.

He will discuss a specific economic platform for helping return the state and local governments to fiscal sanity.

Marcham said because he is single and the nature of his employment, he can pledge full-time effort.

"The town of Vernon and the state of Connecticut stand at the crossroads of a very uncertain future. Both will require legislators of vision and imagination to insure a sound and prosperous direction. I look forward to the challenge of playing a role in such decisions," Marcham said.

Council considers Cable TV

VERNON

After listening to a proposal concerning extending Cable TV into Vernon at the Town Council meeting Tuesday, Mayor Thomas Benoit said he will extend the same courtesy to a local resident who is setting up a Cable TV corporation.

Mayor Benoit did not say who the local resident is but Vincent King of Cox Cable Communications, Greater Hartford CATV Inc., explained his proposal.

King said Vernon has 6,700 single dwellings and 3,900 apartments. With some 111 miles of street, there are about 45 homes per mile.

If granted, the franchise would be part of the Manchester Cable TV system. He said the company carries 16 channels and plans to expand to 17 or 18.

King said the cost to the company for complete installation runs about $8,000 a mile. In Vernon there would be 40 to 50 miles to build. He said the system could be in 33 per cent of the homes within one year, "but we need the cooperation of the council."

He also said his company has the financial and cable background to build and upgrade its systems which change rapidly.

He said it takes 60 homes per mile to put us at a break even point. Where there are seven homes or less per mile we can't do it.

King said he would like the council's active support before going to the Public Utilities Control Authority (P.U.C.A.). "We're here to stay to make the franchise work for at least the next 50 years," he said.

Councilman Thomas Dooley asked what the homeowner would have to pay to get the service in his home. Vincent said the charge would be $7.95 a month for one outlet and $3.50 more for each extra one.

The council's blessing would be a plus toward getting P.U.C.A. approval," he said.

He said the Federal Communications Corporation dictates what channels the system can carry. He said they are only allowed to take from New York City and Boston markets.

He said the company pays eight per cent cash into the town's general fund in lieu of paying taxes.

Charles O'Reilly of Valley View Lane is the name of the Vernon man interested in bringing Cable TV to Vernon with his firm VET Cable Vision. said Mayor Benoit at his press conference Thursday afternoon.

GOP hopeful attacks Walsh

The Republican Town Committee opened its April meeting with guest speaker Frank Merrill, possible candidate from the 53rd Assembly District.

In Tolland, Merrill is a building official, a former first selectman, deputy sheriff, and vice chairman of the Republican Town Committee.

Bridge sparks talk

The delayed Flanders River Road Bridge opening prompted talk about the Town Council, the town road foreman and crew and their apparent inaction.

Jesse Brainard, a Republican and chairman of the Town Council, said "The Flanders River Road Bridge will be open Friday (today) with thanks to our friends in Columbia."

Bertiz Brackch urged the Republican members of the council be guests at the June 1 meeting to "hear the gripes and desires of the townspeople and voters" because the Town Committee "needs information to help and defend the Council" in its most difficult job.

Defending the council, Brainard listed the Council's property report, unfinished work of the previous council, and formidable budget problems, as examples of its work.

Brainard asked for patience and said, "We are working for the town," not the party. We will show results soon."

Town Councilman Larry Knight announced the winner of the 1976 intern program is Martine Vinney.

Also, the annual Young Republican Golf Tournament will be May 2 at the Skungamaug River Golf Club.

Notes of the cuff How the times have changed department: Not too many years ago, baseball teams didn't want to play at Mt. Nebo because it was too far from the center of town.

With the scholastic baseball season starting today, Leo Diana, secretary of the Manchester Chapter of Approved Baseball Umpires, assigned 491 umpires to spring games, 248 variety assignments and 243 jayvee and junior high encounters.

Blanchard's home run and three for four hitting performance, completed the three-hit pitching of Rich Linden, enabled the Cougars to blank Dean Junior College yesterday in Franklin, Mass., 5-0.

The local punt game of eight with six runs in the ninth on four base hits, including doubles by Don Slomcinsky and Placido, an error, three walks and hit batsman.

Right hander Linden spaced the three hits while fanning five. He issued two walks. Putrino took the loss and was followed on the mound by Jim Lally, Doug D'Andrea and Larry King.

New look ready at Fenway Park BOSTON (UPI) — Fenway Park now has the capability of saying, "Ready when you are Red Sox."

When the American League champions arrive at the 64-year-old ballpark, they will see the faces, batting averages and messages starting back at them from center field.

The project was completed early this month and the board, which can show replays and video tapes as well as compute statistics, will be in operation for Monday's home opener between the Red Sox and Cleveland Indians.

The space-age screen, solid black when not in use, was designed to be as unobtrusive as possible within the chimney, green-painted confines of the venerable park. Red Sox officials have also stipulated that the visual images on the board be kept conservative.

"There won't be any cartoons of a pitcher being dragged to the shower or of a pitcher getting the book," like they have on other boards," said screen operator Jim Healy last week.

"There will be no time to show replays between batters and once the hitter gets into the batters box, the image will be still. We don't want anything on the board that will distract the players."

The purpose of the board, which will add to rather than eliminate the scores on the existing manually operated board in left field, is to provide fans with instant information on the players. It also will carry tidbits on breaking sports stories culled from a wire service machine in the control room.

"We're also financing it by selling advertising space on the board so we don't have to raise ticket prices," explained Healy as he punched in a commercial message for visiting soft drink executives.

Healy, 22, is a former grounds crew attendant who for two seasons helped operate the old board from inside the left field wall. "That's a great place to watch a ballgame, looking out through the slits in the old board like you're a member of the old 'Knutehole Gang,'" said the 1975 Boston College graduate.

Reds play like champs

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Cincinnati Reds performed to the manner born when they began the defense of their world championship.

With a hometown crowd of 52,949 looking on at Riverfront Stadium, the Reds opened the National League season Thursday with an 11-5 victory over the Houston Astros.

The Reds made it look easy as Tony Perez drove in four runs and Joe Morgan and Pete Rose each had three hits in a 15-hit assault on six Houston pitchers. The Reds clinched the decision with a five-run sixth inning with George Foster's two-run single the big blow.

Jim Slaton pitched a four-hitter and Hank Aaron drove in three runs as the Milwaukee Brewers defeated Jim Hunter and the New York Yankees, 5-1, in the American League's opener.

The Boston Red Sox began the defense of their AL title Friday against the Orioles at Baltimore with Oakland at California, Minnesota at Texas and Kansas City at Chicago in other A.L. games.

Monroney is at New York, Chicago at St. Louis, Atlanta at San Diego and Los Angeles at San Francisco in N.L. games.

"This was a fun day," laughed Cincinnati Manager Sparky Anderson after the game. "One game doesn't make a season and we've got to go but this was a fun day."

Gary Nolan allowed four hits and six runs in 8 1/3 innings with Pedro Borbon taking over in the sixth and allowing one run and five hits the rest of the way. The Reds scored four runs off J.R. Richard in four innings and continued their attack on live relievers.

Cesar Cedeno and Bob Watson hit homers for the Astros. Slaton, 11-18 last season, walked three, struck out one and allowed only two Yankees to advance as far as third base.

A crowd of 14,888 in Milwaukee saw Aaron deliver a two-run, bases-filled single off Hunter in the first inning and then single home Darrell Porter in the second inning. Hunter, pitching on his 30th birthday, was 3-0 against the Brewers last season and started the game with a 16-4 lifetime mark against them.

"The power just isn't there any more," commented Aaron in just minutes. "Besides, I've hit enough home runs."

MCC blanks Dean, Blanchard homers

Good things come in small packages and Manchester Community College is thankful that its cargo comes in the form of Jim Blanchard.

Blanchard's home run and three for four hitting performance, completed the three-hit pitching of Rich Linden, enabled the Cougars to blank Dean Junior College yesterday in Franklin, Mass., 5-0.

The 5-7, 125-pound Blanchard clocked a Joe Putrino fastball into leftfield to give MCC a first inning 1-0 lead in the regular season opener.

There was no further scoring until the fourth when Larry Morrison, Blanchard and Paul Placido each struck out singles for a 2-0 lead.

MCC collected a third tally in the seventh when Jack Maloney singled and after two were out, Joe Banning walked to set up double steal, followed by a throwing error.

The locals put the game out of sight with six runs in the ninth on four base hits, including doubles by Don Slomcinsky and Placido, an error, three walks and hit batsman.

Right hander Linden spaced the three hits while fanning five. He issued two walks. Putrino took the loss and was followed on the mound by Jim Lally, Doug D'Andrea and Larry King.

Blanchard picked up two RBIs and Placido three. Maloney collected three hits in five trips.

Saturday's winners face Matlatluc C.C. in a twinbill in Waterbury.

Champions were crowned in the Rec Senior and Businessmen's Basketball Leagues last night. Sportsman capped the National title by trouncing the UAC Braves, 93-77, and Linden Volkswagen outlasted Moriarty Braves, 89-70.

MCC women cop second

Collecting its second win of the season yesterday afternoon was the Manchester Community College women's softball team, a 12-2 decision over the University of Hartford.

The home team scored first but Manchester came back and led 5-1 after two innings.

Sally Lentocha and Kim Keeley struck extra base hits in the three-run fifth and four runs in the seventh completed the MCC scoring.

Speedy Penberthart hurled the distance, striking out six and walking the same number.

Next start for MCC will be Saturday at Mattatuck.

Runners carry load with Indian squad

By LEN AUSTER Herald Sports Editor

Wait until next year might be the forced posture of Manchester High track coach Dick Williams in 1976. The Indian thinclads open up with a triangler meet Tuesday in West Hartford against host High and Fermi.

The Silk Tommers posted a 105-want-lost record last year, but Williams, 12-year coach, finds himself this time around with most of the best.

Likes of Jim Buay, Scott Moffat, Jeff Lumpkin, Mike Lombardo, Matt Wallace, Dave Lemieux, Kevin Sosulsky, Paul Phibick and others — we could hardly expect to be league contenders," he noted.

There are 52 on the squad including a promising group of sophomores which numbers 24. Seventeen juniors and 11 seniors, including tri-captains Jeff Joy, Bob Hawkes and Lew Hirschfeld, round out the roster.

Manchester lost almost all its strong performers in the field and jumping events from a year ago so the runners, at least at the start, will have to carry the load. That means added pressure for sprinters Joy and junior Steve Dawson who are returning veterans. Dawson besides the 100 and 220-yard dashes most likely will be entered in the 440. Joy is also a hurdler.

Phoenix clinches playoff spot

NEW YORK (UPI) — The Phoenix Suns clinched a berth in the National Basketball Association playoffs by defeating their chief rival head-to-head.

The Suns earned their berth when they beat the Los Angeles Lakers, 113-98 Thursday night, giving them a 41-40 record with one game left on their schedule. The Lakers completed their season with a 41-41 mark.

The Suns would still get the NBA's Western Conference wild card berth, even if they lose their final game of the season, because they have a better conference record than the Lakers.

It was a bitter season ending for the Lakers inasmuch as they had the league's most valuable player in Kareem Abdul-Jabbar.

The Suns never trailed after a 6-6 tie early in the game. They led, 31-22, after the first period, 56-43 at halftime and by 96-75 with 7:46 left in the game.

Ricky Sobers scored 23 points and five other Suns were in double figures in a well-balanced attack.

The Golden State Warriors downed the Portland Trail Blazers, 121-106, in other NBA games.

The Kentucky Colonels defeated the Indiana Pacers, 120-109, in the first of their best-of-three American Basketball Association play-off—the only ABA game of the night.

Jim Chones scored 20 points and Bobby Smith led 18 to lead Cleveland to a win over New Orleans.

The Cavs led all the way after the opening moments and had a 53-25 halftime lead. Nate Williams had 21 points and Pete Maravich 20 for the Jazz.

Kings 131, Celtics 104. Nate Archibald scored 22 points, including 15 in the first period, as Kansas City set a club single-game scoring mark for the season.

The Braves overcame an early 10-point deficit to lead by 44-36 at the half at New York. Jim McMillan scored 27 points, including 15 in the first period.

over the Pacers at Louisville. Billy Knight scored 43 points for the Pacers but Gilmore tossed in key baskets for the Colonels when Indiana drew close.

The winner of the series will earn the right to meet Denver in the semifinals of the ABA playoffs.

Hale Irwin, Hubert Green and Johnny Miller all had first-round 71s and Tom Weiskopf, second four times in the previous seven years, and Gary Player both had 73s.

Floyd, who won three tournaments including the PGA championship in 1969 and didn't win again until the 1973 Kemper Open, reeled off four straight birdies on the back nine Thursday to vault into the Masters' lead.

But it was the 67 by Nicklaus that most worried the rest of the field because that showed that the man favored to win the Masters in his game.

Nicklaus' bid for his 17th "major" golf title appears to be aided by the fact that those expected to be his most serious challengers got off to sluggish starts.

Nicklaus trails Ray Floyd

AUGUSTA, Ga. (UPI) — A sixth Masters championship looks like fair game for the "Golden Bear."

Jack Nicklaus trails pace-setting Ray Floyd by two strokes going into today's second round, but he missed a half dozen putts of 15 feet or less on Thursday and firmly predicts that's not going to happen again.

"I'm a better putter than that," he says. "I had a lot of putts of 10, 12, 15 feet and didn't make them. I'll make them next time."

Floyd capitalized on a new five-wood to birdie three of the four par-5 holes at the Augusta National Thursday and shot a seven-under-par 65—one stroke off the Masters' record. Andy North had a 66.

He took his lone bogey at No. 12, 69. Fourteen others broke par. "I was really pumped up on the back nine," said Floyd, a far more serious golfer than he was a decade ago when he was one of the more renowned playboys of the tour.

Seven golfers, one-tenth of the field, were in the 60s Thursday. Larry Ziegler matched Nicklaus' 67, U.S. Open champ Lou Graham had a 74.

88, and Dave Hill and Bud Allin had 89. Fourteen others broke par. The starting field of 72 will be trimmed to the low 44 scorers at the end of today's second round.

Those in trouble include Lee Trevino, former Masters champion Gay Brewer and Greensboro winner Al Geiberger who all had 75s Thursday.

Sam Snead, who will be 64 next month, shot even-par 72 and four-time Masters champ Arnold Palmer had a 74.

Macek, 21, of Manchester, N.H., was the first selection from New England. The 6-foot-2, 255-pounder was taken in the second round by the San Diego Chargers.

Eight N.E. selections

FOXBORO, Mass. (UPI) — Eight New England collegians, including four from Boston College and three from the Ivy League, were among players selected in the first day of the National Football League draft.

The Boston College players were center Don Macek, quarterback Mike Kruczek, kicker Fred Stenfort, and fullback Keith Barnette. The Ivy Leaguers were Dartmouth linebacker Reggie Williams, Harvard guard Dan Jiggett and Brown quarterback Bob Bateman. Also selected was Williams College defensive back Scott Perry.

Everett, Dow win women's net title

Capturing the 1976 women's doubles title at Manchester Racquet Club last weekend were Linnea Everett and Cheri Dow, both of Manchester.

Everett and Dow defeated the tandem of Judy Riley and Faith Murray of East Hartford 6-2, 7-6 for the title. The winning team beat the team of Hilary Demarest of Glastonbury and Judy Kallet of Vernon 6-3, 6-3 in the semifinals.

The Sabres' 21-year-old second-year player, who felt slighted last year when he scored 31 goals and finished third in the Calder Cup balloting for Rookie of the Year honors, scored his second goal of the game at 11:43 of the first overtime session Thursday night to help Buffalo state off elimination in the Stanley Cup playoffs with a 3-2 victory over St. Louis.

The Sabres dropped behind, 1-0, when Garry Unger scored at 2:01 of the third period, but bounced back to take the lead on a short-handed goal by Craig Hansay and Gary's first goal, before Dave Firekrook tied it with 1:38 left on a rebound.

Buffalo had a close call in the overtime when Pierre Plante broke in alone on goalie Gerry Desjardins, but the Sabres netminder thwarted him.

In other playoff action, Pittsburgh, also facing elimination, blanked Toronto, 2-0, to even that series at one game apiece, but Vancouver and Atlanta were less fortunate, losing to the Islanders and Los Angeles, 3-1 and 1-0 respectively.

Little talent left in pro grid draft

NEW YORK (UPI) — The National Football League's annual college player draft, crawling along at a snail's pace, crept into its final day today with very little name talent available for the last 10 rounds.

The NFL's 28 clubs needed more than 14 hours and a special decision by Commissioner Pete Rozelle on Thursday to complete the first seven rounds, the slowest selection process since the merger of the two football leagues in the mid-1960s.

Rozelle waived the 9 p.m. EST deadline for drafting Thursday night because of the sluggishness of the selecting, and the Pittsburgh Steelers made the final pick on the seventh round at 12:02 this morning.

The only "known" players still left when drafting resumed today were Virginia quarterback Scott Gardner, State's Herb Lusk, the nation's No. 2 rusher, and Indiana's Quinn Buckner, a star defensive back before he turned his attention solely to basketball and helped lead the Hoosiers to the NCAA title.

Tampa Bay opened the drafting Thursday as expected by taking Oklahoma's star defensive tackle, Leroy Simon, and Seattle the other expansion club, pulled a mild surprise by passing over California running back Chuck Muncie to take Steve Niehaus, the Notre Dame defensive tackle who had had surgery on both knees.

The rush was on for running backs, with Muncie's selection by New Orleans opening the way for six runners on the first round, capped by Cincinnati's choice of Archie Griffin, the two-time Heisman Trophy winner from Ohio State, as the 24th player. Other running backs grabbed off on the first round were Oklahoma's Joe Washington (San Diego), Purdue's Mike Pruitt (Cleveland), Texas A&M's Bubba Bean (Atlanta) and Wyoming's Larry Gaines (Detroit).

The New York Jets pulled one surprise, taking quarterback Richard Todd of Alabama. Todd is the first quarterback ever chosen on the first round by the Jets since Joe Namath was taken from Alabama in 1965 and only the third passer the club has picked overall since then.
