

Postmaster Laurie Fuller, 26, East Bowdoin, Maine, the mother of three small children, never leaves home when she goes to work. The post office is open four hours a day, on the porch of her family's home here. Laurie's mother was the postmaster for 25 years when she sold the home to Laurie and her husband, the postal service wanted to close the tiny post office, but residents mounted a three year effort to have Laurie become the postmaster and the move was successful last month. Post office battle won

WEST BOWDOIN, Maine (UPI) — Laurie Fuller bought a house recently that came equipped with the town's only post office. She is now the postmaster of Mrs. Fuller to become postmaster of this tiny community. After all it was her mother's former job and her mother's house.

Search continues in Tolland for body of missing child

TOLLAND (UPI) — Prompted by a new lead, authorities have begun digging up parts of a heavily wooded area in eastern Connecticut in search for the body of a young girl who disappeared when she went to look for a butterfly in 1972.

"We are following up on a lead as we have been for a number of years involving the Janice Pockett case," said state police spokesman John McLeod, whose department's seven years of searching have turned up little or nothing.

Volcano burps in Washington

What do you think the Democrats will have to do to reunite the Jimmy Carter and Edward M. Kennedy factions?

Caryn Luddie, Granby — "It's hopeless. I don't think they, the Democrats, have a chance in November."

Alfred Corbin Jr., East Hartford — "Mr. Carter will have to give in many of his holdouts. I doubt very much if he can straighten it out."

Gail Welsh, Wallingford — "I don't know. Kennedy would have to make an effort to join Carter."

Gary Hansen, East Hartford — "I think it can be done. Kennedy will have to join Carter to stop Reagan."

Joe Bowen, Glastonbury — "They are going to have to get on the ball and start working together."

Wings of Morning

A man to admire

By CLIFF SIMPSON

Recently I received a letter from a Manchester family that loves to travel by boat. It was a picture of a vessel out of Fort Lauderdale. Guess what was the name of the boat? "Wings of the Morning." On the back of the picture was written "Isn't that a lovely name?" Thanks - and I agree.

Loren Eiseley

I have admired this man for many years, marveling at his wide array of knowledge and the beautiful ways he expressed his ideas and feelings. Although a precise student he was well aware of the mystery in the universe about us. Recently in the Wall Street Journal there was a review of his best posthumous book "The Night Wings" in which I learned that Dr. Eiseley had openly fought meekly and outraged depression all his life. My admiration for the man deepened considerably. To read about the handicaps of people who have given so much to the world is humbling. When we recall Milton and his blindness and the president of the United States with his polio, or when we see the pictures of Helen Keller and Anne Sullivan or of the U.S. postage stamp, it tends to lessen the petty complaints about which you and I are so apt to splutter.

"Put all things to the test" When Paul wrote that to the Thessalonians I Thessalonians 5:19, I don't believe he had in mind the Christian Church and modern charity giving. There are so many appeals we cannot give to all of them, but we need to be selective in our gifts. The Internal Revenue Service refused to grant tax exemption to a California-based church for a number of reasons, one of which was that the only voting members were John Calvin Herberts, president, his wife as secretary and treasurer, and their son Dan as vice-president. Before sending money to some vague appeal, let us "put all things to the test." The Good News Bible:

"If food is a cause of my brother's stumbling . . . another denomination sends me a free subscription to a magazine. In the current issue there is an article stressing how important it is that the clergy dress properly. Never wear a bow tie and the other kind should have its tip 'just to the belt buckle.'" A conservatively put, dark, two-piece suit or a leisure suit, etc., etc. is a "scientific" pious and an experiment. It certainly makes a difference where the poll is taken. Whether in suburban Connecticut or in California I was interested to read this right after I returned from preaching in Quosque in a town next to Rangleigh) which was:

"And why worry about clothes? It is God who clothes the wild grass that is here today and gone tomorrow. Won't he be all the more sure to clothe you?" So do not start worrying. Where will my food come from or my drink? or my clothes? (Matthew 6:28-31. See Good News Bible)

The article makes sweeping statements like "and a man should never wear a solid red shirt, no matter who he is or what he does." If I were going hunting I would ignore this warning completely.

However, I would accept any clothing conditions if I felt it would make a difference in the acceptance of the gospel message. The minister's task is to share the "good news" of Jesus Christ with others. I'm sure that no minister would risk that possibility just to express his ego in colored shirts or bow ties.

Thus, sinning against your brother and sounding the trumpet, is serious when it is weak, you sin against Christ. Therefore, if food is a cause of my brother's falling, I will never eat meat, lest I cause my brother to fall." (1 Corinthians 8:12, 13 R.S.V.)

I might add that many a clergyman would welcome any suggestions about clothes or conduct quietly offered - for as I wrote in this column many weeks ago, "My critics are the guardians of my soul."

Spend time with the family The other day I picked up an old sermon written back in 1963 that had two illustrations in it that might remind us that this summer season is winding down. So fast might still be an opportunity for each of us to spend more time with other members of the family. The sermon concerns a little girl who each night sat in her mother's lap and turned the pages as she heard the familiar story. Until a tragic accident killed the mother, the father tried to take her place, but after a week of reading the same story, he conceived of the off-springer idea of taping it. So, he turned back to "scientific" pills and an experiment. It certainly makes a difference where the poll is taken. Here's some help on mailing trading or refund forms

By MARTIN SLOANE

DEAR SUPERMARKET SHOPPER—I recently received a monthly refund magazine that has hundreds of classified ads from people who want to trade refund forms by mail.

The illustration comes from the writer, Leigh Hodges. It concerns a very wealthy and busy father who had an unusual gift for his son. It was sure to clothe you? So do not start worrying. Where will my food come from or my drink? or my clothes? (Matthew 6:28-31. See Good News Bible) definition of "junk." One refunder's junk is another refunder's golden opportunity. Whether or not junk depends on how your trading partner views it.

To avoid this problem, I recommend that at least half of the forms in your trade be for food products. These forms are rarely considered junk.

The remainder should include no more than one form each for the various types of nonfood products, such as hair spray, light bulbs, and so on.

Sometimes a sense of humor isn't appreciated — but sometimes one can't resist it anyway. Such was the case when the South Windsor Police received a call that four tires and the spare were stolen from a car. Police couldn't resist saying to the complainant, "Don't go anywhere, we'll be right over."

During a recent discussion on whether or not to raise the price of items offered by the Bolton school lunch program, John Morianos, Board of Education member, said, "Go to the great McDonalds and see what you get for $1." School Superintendent Raymond Allen immediately replied, "You don't get change anymore."

Pioneer aviator
Fred Gilmore, a retired machinist and one-time pilot, leans against a tractor-bulldozer he built in 1947. Gilmore's entire flying career was crammed into one day — the day he flew his homebuilt 475-pound airplane on and off the frozen surface of Nequasset Lake in Woolwich, Maine, in 1937. (UPI photo)

Thrift shop restocked

SOUTH WINDSOR — The South Windsor Community Thrift Shop, located in the Sullivan Avenue Plaza, is completely restocked and will be open for business Tuesday, Aug. 19. Shop hours are: Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. and beginning Sept. 8, every Saturday from 1 p.m. to 4 p.m.

Troopers fail in search for body of Tolland girl

TOLLAND (UPI) — State police failed Friday to find the body of an unnamed informant to the site where troopers had spent three days looking for the body of the girl who disappeared in 1973.

"They've wrapped it up for today with no success," spokesman Adam Bertoli said. "They will not resume searching over the weekend." He said no decision had been made about whether to continue the search on Monday.

The informant was kept hidden on the floor of a car as police took him into the area at 5 a.m. Friday. He spent about an hour at the digging site, which was roped off as a "major crime scene" to keep reporters away.

State police spokesman Adam Bertoli refused to comment on the man, but the Hartford Courant reported a carnival worker being held in a similar case in Massachusetts had confessed to slaying Miss Pickett and Debra Spickler, 13, of Mystic, who disappeared in Vernon in July 1968.

After the man was taken from the scene, troopers spent the day digging in the same spot they had been digging Thursday — the fourth location they've dug with a backhoe since Wednesday. The digging site is about a mile from the Pickett girl's home.

Bertoli said only that state police "have new leads in the Pickett case which involve digging in a wooded area of Tolland. We've been digging three days with no success."

"Investigators refuse to comment on any other aspect of the leads they're investigating," he said.

The Pickett girl was last seen July 26, 1973 when she went for a bicycle ride in search of a dead butterfly she had left under a rock near her family's home. Her bicycle was found six days later — about a half mile from where troopers and a Department of Transportation crew were digging.

She is one of six females missing or found dead in the same area of eastern Connecticut, which prompted state police to set up a special task force last year to probe the cases and search for a possible link among them.

The bodies of three of the women who disappeared after the Pickett girl — Susan La Rosa, 20, Patricia Luce, 18, and Janette Reynolds, 17 — have been found.

But the Pickett girl, Lisa White, 13, and Miss Spickler all remain officially classified as missing persons. Mrs. LaRosa's body was found in a wooded area of Vernon in 1978, nearly three years after she disappeared. State police said her skull had been smashed, possibly by a gunshot.

Miss Luce's body was found in Marlborough in March 1979, nearly a year after she disappeared. Troopers said she appeared to have died from a blow to the head.

Miss Reynolds was discovered under a Grotton bridge in March 1979, seven months after she disappeared.

Drought and heat wave to boost grocery costs

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Drought and heat have sharply increased wholesale food prices, and as a result consumers soon will be paying more at supermarkets, the government reported Friday.

That much was clear from new wholesale price figures. What it means for inflation overall was less clear as economists came up with widely differing opinions.

The Labor Department said its index of producer prices for finished goods ready for retailers rose 1.7 percent from June to July — a compound annual rate of 22.3 percent.

That was the biggest jump since a 2 percent monthly rise in November of 1974 during the last recession.

Most of the latest increase came from wholesale food prices, which rose 3.8 percent. Food prices at intermediate stages of production jumped 3.2 percent, and at the farm or crude products level, 9 percent.

Analysts said these rising food production prices began with a number of factors, including tight credit for farmers, and were worsened by this summer's drought and heat wave.

Poultry prices jumped 23.5 percent in June as millions of chickens died in the heat. Beef and veal rose 7.4 percent at wholesale, pork 13.7 percent.

Labor Department economist John Layng said these prices will show up in supermarkets in about a month.

Lawrence Chimerine of Chase Econometrics said the rise in retail food prices will be substantial. By the end of 1981, he said, supermarket prices will be 20 percent higher than they were this past June.

"Consumer food prices will rise," said Charles Schultz, chairman of the president's Council of Economic Advisors, "but we still expect the overall rate of inflation in the Consumer Price Index to slow down in the months ahead."

The administration believes this will occur as recently falling home mortgage rates show up in the CPI and slow its rise more than food prices accelerate it.

Alan Greenspan, Schultz's counterpart in the last Republican administration, said in an interview the rise in overall consumer prices is likely to slow to an annual rate of 5 percent or less in coming months but later will increase.

One bright spot was that wholesale energy prices declined for the second month in a row, falling 0.6 percent. Wholesale gasoline fell 1.2 percent.

But economists interviewed expect higher cartel prices and the effects of U.S. oil decontrol to reverse that.

All of them also noted that wholesale prices of consumer goods other than food rose 1.1 percent in July, indicating a stubborn "underlying" rate of inflation in the economy. Thus, even if overall inflation subsides in the next few months before the presidential election, many believe it will return to this underlying rate close to 10 percent.

Carter predicts big win

NEW YORK (UPI) — President Carter said Friday that even though he trails Ronald Reagan in every White House poll, he will score a "tremendous victory" over his Republican rival in the November election.

As he left the Democratic National Convention for a few days rest at his Camp David retreat, Carter was still trying to patch up relations with his once bitter rival, Sen. Edward Kennedy.

Carter said Kennedy's appearance at his side at the closing convention session Thursday night was a "very gracious" signal of party unity.

Before leaving New York, Carter met briefly with black Democratic leaders who made it clear at the convention the president has not done enough for minorities and the poor.

"I have a secret weapon, and that is the black people in this country," Carter said.

Carter discussed his reunion with Kennedy after visiting the Pablo Picasso exhibit at the Museum of Modern Art, four blocks from his midtown Manhattan hotel headquarters.

"I think it was fine," he said. "Last night was good. I think although it (the convention) may have started out rocky and divided... there was a steady buildup of unity. I think it was a major step forward for the Democratic Party and the nation."

"I thought it was very gracious of him to come to the convention platform," Carter said. "Kennedy's appearance on the podium."

MANCHESTER — A smoky fire one official described as a "teacup" blaze was quickly extinguished Friday night in a brick street home. The same official said the fire began when a woman attempted to dry clothes in an oven.

At 7:30 p.m., 69, and his wife Fern, 67, of 58 Holl St. were led from the smoking home shortly before 7 p.m. by neighbors who called the alarm to the South Manchester Fire Department.

Firefighters at the scene searched for the source of the thick white smoke, and finally discovered a bundle of clothing in the oven on fire.

A crowd watched as the flaming clothes were extinguished in the home's backyard by firefighters who then placed a number of fans in the windows to draw off the smoke.

Deputy Fire Chief James McKay called the smoke damage to the small two-story woodframe house "moderate."

The Rev. Philip Saunders, who lives at 59 Holl St., and his son, Weldon, were the first on scene. "He was at the front door almost collapsing and she was in the back on a couch sleeping," the Rev. Mr. Saunders said. "Weldon crawled on the floor to get her, but she wouldn't leave. We finally got her out though."

McKay said some of the flaming clothing contained foam rubber, which he noted may have caused much of the smoke. He added that the house sustained no water damage during the 15-minute incident and there were no injuries.

"We just picked the stuff right out of the oven and put it out," he said. "It was a teacup fire."

Moriarty wins Twi game

MORIARTY — Moriarty won the Jack Rose Memorial Twilight League championship best three-of-five playoff last night with a 10-5 win over the Bristol Cassins at St. Thomas Seminary.

The clubs resume the series Sunday at the Seminary at 5 o'clock.

The Gas Housers opened the scoring with two runs in the first inning. Ray Sullivan singled and Steve Chotiner blasted a two-run homer for the early lead.

Chotiner added a two-run double in the fifth frame and a grand slam homer in a five-run sixth to finish 3-for-4 with 4 RBIs.

Sullivan also drove in a run in the fifth with a two-base knock while Tony Mitta was 3-for-4 to add to Moriarty's 12-hit attack.

Jim Balsano hurled 6½ innings to get the win. He allowed a first-inning single and then held the Cassins without a safety until the sixth when they broke into the scoring column.

Bristol rallied mildly in the seventh inning, scoring four times. But Craig Seavernag relieved Balesano and secured only one pitch to alarm the door shut.

Engineer to study roof

BOLTON — The Public Building Commission approved a structural engineer to do a detailed study of the Bolton Elementary school roof to determine the precise additional structural requirements needed, if any.

John Sambogna, commission chairman, said at a special meeting Friday night. "The study will cost about $1,000 and can be completed in one week."

Nine bids for the roof were received earlier this week.

The reason for the detailed study is the engineering firm of Bounds and Griffes "vaguely questioned the adequacy of the existing structural system."

In a surprise move Sambogna said he received a bid at his home address Tuesday-the day after bids were opened.

The bid was sent to the Community Hall and re-addressed to Sambogna's home because it didn't say "Bid enclosed" on the envelope. The first postmark on the envelope was Aug. 7, four days before the bids were opened.

The bid from Eagle Corncore Co. of Rhode Island was higher than six of the nine bids received.

Sambogna plans to discuss the situation with the Board of Selectman's office staff to ensure that it doesn't happen again.

Floods hit Pennsylvania
By United Press International
Deadly flash floods roared through houses, churches and businesses in western Pennsylvania Friday, sweeping away people and property alike in a raging torrent.

At least six people were killed and police said more bodies may be found as floodwaters recede.

There are still a lot of conditions that have to be met before we'll know if there are more, said a state police spokesman at Kittanning, Armstrong County. "For instance, there's a lot of cars still completely submerged in water and we have to get into them to make sure no one is inside."

The Pennsylvania floods were spawned by a massive storm system that dumped rain from the Plains to New England. Up to 2 inches of rain in two hours sent creeks gushing over three western Pennsylvania counties.

The town of East Brady, Pa., was virtually isolated by floodwaters from rain-glutted creeks.

"We have two bodies here and we know of at least two more bodies at another funeral home that are supposed to come here," said an East Brady funeral director. "All of them are the result of the flooding."

"You can't get into East Brady... or out either, for that matter. It's just a disaster. The water was up over the pens at a church. One lady lost five cars. Some houses are said to be lost."

Rescue crews patrolled the mud-caked streets in search of more victims.

Waters began receding by sunrise in most areas and cleanup operations began. Department of Transportation crews were called out to clean up mudslides that blocked many roads in the area.

Heavy rains also spread over Ohio, where floods earlier in the week inflicted damage estimated in some $30 million. The new rains hit just as floodwaters began to subside.

Jets talking playoffs

NEW YORK (UPI) — For the first time in nearly a decade, the New York Jets are talking playoffs — and people are taking them seriously. The AFC East has taken a 4-year rest this year and the Jets feel they've reached the point where they can take at least a wild card berth. Many in New England, the division powers in past years, have personal problems and the youthful Jets and Buffalo appear to be on the rise.

The key lies with an offensive unit that led the NFL in rushing last year and has even more firepower for 1980 with the return of Wesley Walker, out with an injury last season, and the addition of Olympic gold medalist Johnny "Lam" Jones.

Walker, who led the NFL in receiving yardage two years ago, missed half of last season with a knee injury. He will team with Jones, the second player drafted overall behind Oklahoma's Billy Sims, to form the fastest set of wide receivers in the NFL.

Both were world class sprinters in college and Jones has clocked 9.9 seconds for 100 yards. Both turned in a stizzling 4.38-4.04 yard times in training camp.

The addition of Jones and the seeming rebirth of Richard Todd at quarterback figure to rank the Jets among the league's offensive powers. Todd, relaxed and confident after a year of anguish caused by competing with nowdeparted Matt Robinson, has been extremely sharp in pre-training camp. In his first exhibition game, he hit 8-of-11 passes for 121 yards in one half.

In addition to Walker and Jones, Todd will be working behind one of the top young offensive lines in the

Patriots being realistic

FOXBORO, Mass. (UPI) — The annual pick that hits the New England Patriots every year, causing them to crumble like a cookie, came early this year. "I just think the arrogance of this guy is monumental," says Sullivan. "I'm damned if I'm going to turn over the control of this team to him." Slusher, who has had clients who have when they didn't get what he wanted, is equally adamant. "The people running that organization are not reasonable and rational. Maybe they want to go to the wall on this, but they'll be going to the wall with their feet in quicksand," Slusher says.

"None of the four has commented but teammates are trying not to take sides. "We have to be more mature than the past," says halfback Andy Johnson, returning after missing most of 1979 with a knee injury. "We can't dwell on the problems of four players who aren't here. In the past, players who took sides and it ruined our team. I hope we've learned our lesson. Hannah, however, pulled no punches. "We're going to miss them," says Hannah, who last year blasted the front office when Gray was traded to Houston. "When I see everybody in this organization, I don't see just the players, wanting to win. I'll be happy. But I don't know where winning fits into the priorities of the people at the top."

Adversity is nothing new to the Patriots. Last year, they were shocked by the Gray trade and the year before that was Darryl Stingley's paralyzing injury and Chuck Fairbanks' resignation. In 1977, it was the Hannah-Gray walkout. All of which breeds a sense of fatalism on a team which for the last few years has been one of the best — at least on paper. "We've got to stay away from injuries and not worry about the in-

Graham stroke ahead

HARRISON, N.Y. (UPI) — David Graham, 34, aggressively thrashed what he calls an explosive golf course, shot a 4-under-par 67 Friday to take a one-stroke lead over George Cade after the second round of the $400,000 Westchester Classic.

Graham, winner of this tournament in 1976 and runner-up last year, played his round in a morning rain, and his lead held even under sunny afternoon skies. Following a 65 Thursday, Graham was at 10-under 132 after two rounds.

Lurking in strong position for a weekend challenge was Tom Watson, who fired seven birdies in a round of 66 that gave him a 36-hole total of 134. Watson, seeking his seventh victory of the year, sank a 40-foot birdie on the second hole, then holed a pair of 20-footers on the fifth and 18th. Still, he called the key to his round a bogey on the third, where he got out of further trouble by accurately sending an 8-iron shot through a pine tree.

Semis for Borg, Goolong upset

TORONTO (UPI) — Bjorn Borg, who felt almost like a 10 and played like a 20, overwhelmed 18th-ranked John Sadri in straight sets Friday to advance to the semifinals of the $325,000 Canadian International Championships.

The Wimbledon champion, who has made this tournament his tune-up event for the U.S. Open, dispatched the fifth-seeded Sadri, 6-1, 6-4, in a match that lasted just one hour and five minutes.

"I felt good from the first ball to the last," said Borg, who is riding well after his electric streak. "I felt not exactly like a 10 but I'm getting there."

The year-old Swede has run off a string of 39 sets without a loss in major tournament play and has won nine tournaments since he lost to Roscoe Tanner in the U.S. Open last year.

Earlier in the day, Kathy Jordan staged the major upset of the week, crushing lethargic Wimbledon champion Evonne Goolongow Cayley in straight sets to advance to the semifinals.

Patty Shriver, recovering from her two-year slump, ousted 15-year-old rookie sensation Andrea Jaeger. Though Borg is coming off a four-week loss to Jimmy Connors, he is a Romanian pro Maria Simionescu, he was typically unimpressive in dissecting the much-heralded serve of the 22-year-old Swede.

Borg was irresistible on the attack, drilling home 12 of 26 first serves in the opening set, three for aces, and all but two for aces in the second set. "I was well satisfied with my serve today," said Borg. "I'm feeling very good. Everyone knows he has a hard serve so I stayed very deep so I could force him to miss."

Sadri, who has climbed steadily up the draft picks, Marty Lyons and Mark Gasteau. Neither was a top-tier passurshing threat last year but things look different this time around. Behind one of the top young offensive lines in the

Bradley in front

ST. PAUL, Minn. (UPI) — Pat Bradley, riding the crest of an LPGA victory last weekend in Ontario, birdied eight holes Friday to take a 1-stroke lead in the first round of the $100,000 Patty Berg Golf Classic with a 6-under par 67.

Bradley, victor in the Peter Jackman Classic with an 11-under-par 65 while second-year mainstay Bernadette Landrum, a first-round, although Rick Sanford, a first-round pick in 1979, is groomed for Haynes' slot. And they drafted two defensive linemen, Steve McMichael and Doug McDougald, and traded for two more to create a fierce battle among nine players for the six slots.

Quarterback Steve Grogan, coming off his finest season, once again leads the offense. Promising Matt Cavanaugh and rookie Jimmy Jordan were the backups.

Last year, the Patriots led the NFL with 30 touchdowns. Grogan has some gifted talents in wide receiver Harold Jackson and Stanley Morgan plus tight end Russ Francis.

Hannah anchors the offensive line on the left side with Dwight Wheeler as the tackle. Shelby Jordan will play tackle on the right side while Bill LeKaltis is the center. Sam Adams and Bob Cryer will battle for the other guard slot.

Linebacker Steve Nelson heads a defense which led the NFL in sacks with 57 but had the reputation of being as the tackle. Shelby Jordan will play tackle on the right side while Bill LeKaltis is the center. Sam Adams and Bob Cryer will battle for the other guard slot.

Joe's World Rod and gun clubs

The Manchester Sportman's Association shot under lights at their skeet field for the first time last Wednesday night. It was a lot of fun, and a long time in the making.

For a couple of years now, we have shot, along with some dedicated non-members, every Wednesday evening until dark, from Memorial Day until Labor Day, and then retired to the club house, where we would sit down to a meat supper, cooked by each member on a rotating basis.

The discussion around the supper table always came back to one theme, on and off over the previous summer. It was repeated over and over again, even into the fall and winter. "Wouldn't it be great if we could shoot after dusk, under lights?"

Back last January, we started talking, and planning, looking into costs, wondering about obtaining the poles, lights, etc. In the late spring, we started the actual work, and everything proceeded at a snail's pace, until we shot under lights for the first time last Wednesday night.

Why the snail's pace? That question, or statement, is the reason for this column. The question is not asked in a derogatory way, but to show that the commitment, equipment, the work, and the financing were done on a strictly voluntary basis. That's what makes me feel so proud, and makes the shooting so much more enjoyable.

A handful of members, donated money for the material to build the poles, another group made them, we dug the holes, poured the concrete, and some non-shooting members donated the lights and did the electric work.

It was just don't know what happened," said Goolongow. "I was lethargic; I got down in a slump and she just wouldn't let me out." "I just hope I don't have too many of those (slumps). I made a lot of errors and she just wouldn't help me out."

It was Goolongow's first loss to Jordan in four matches. Goolongow, ranked fourth in the world, dropped her ranking in the seventh game to fall behind 3-4, and then blew an opportunity to break back when she squandered a 40-love lead, allowing Jordan to hold service in the 11th game.

"She made a lot of errors. In the early part of the first set I was watching and trying to pass her, but I decided later that I would simply let her miss," said Jordan.

Shriver, an 18-year-old from Lutherville, Md., who has been a two-year slump since losing to Chris Evert Lloyd in the 1978 U.S. Open final, was blown away in the first set by Jaeger but evened her by taking the second set and then played with her old confidence, rushing the net.

Shriver took the match, 6-6, 6-2, 7-5. In other quarterfinal action, Australian Paul Kronk defeated Trey Semmler, 6-4, 6-2, to advance to the semifinals and finals will be at Trinity College in Hartford, Sept. 20 and 21.

Registration cost is $5 per singles entrant and $10 per doubles team. Balls will be provided. Categories are men's and women's singles and doubles, men's 45 singles and doubles and mixed doubles.

Australia's mast breaks in Trials

NEWPORT, R.I. (UPI) — The 90-foot aluminum mast on the yacht Australia snapped Friday during a practice run for the America's Cup.

Australia was nearly three minutes ahead of the Swedish yacht Sverige, which had the final upwind leg on the 24.3-mile course, when its sails fluttered and the 81,000 mast toppled at its midsection.

Although Sverige finished the race, a protest by Australia at the start clouded what would have been a victory by default for the Swedish yacht. Sverige was badly beaten by Australia Thursday in the opening round of the challenger semifinals.

Australia had led over the entire course Friday in 7-70 knot easterly breeze. The broken mast had only been put on Australia two weeks ago.

Giants see improved offense

EAST RUTHERFORD, N.J. (UPI) — The last time the New York Giants made the NFL playoffs, Lyndon Johnson was president and Philip Simms was a Kentucky schoolboy learning how to multiply and divide.

Three presidents have followed in the intervening years since 1963 but Simms finished himself still in school — the school of hard knocks.

Simms, 24, injected some hope into the ever-faithful Giant fans last year when he guided the club to four straight victories after taking over as quarterback in the sixth week. The No. 1 draft pick finished with a 6.5 record as a starter and threw for 1,743 yards and 13 touchdowns.

The MSA, and some of the other organizations I have belonged to, are not like that, thank goodness. I can't say that the entire membership pitches in and helps to get things done. No way. But every good organization, has prime movers and doers, and these are the people who get projects started and off the ground. The members who do not participate and help out, really are the losers, because they take advantage of the actual work and activities. I sometimes think that these people are afraid to participate, because they worry that they will see them, and put them to work.

My wool gathering now centered on what we had around us, and it really adds up to a lot. A comfortable club house, maintenance, painting etc., courtesy of club members pitching in and helping, a good kitchen, courtesy of kitchen committee, good outdoor facilities, pond, woods, road, lawn, courtesy of house and grounds committee, good fishing and hunting, courtesy of fish and game committee, good skeet field, courtesy of the skeet committee, and their neat activities, such as picnics, game dinners, suppers, fish derbies, etc., all courtesy of the contributing work numbers.

I was brought back to reality from my musings, by discussion that had surfaced about last Wednesday night, within the organization. No club is perfect, and all members are not perfect. There are always a few poor apples that manage to work in, but I remarked to the troops, "We have facilities, and good fellowship here, I wouldn't swap for a million bucks."

Billy Taylor, who rushed for 700 yards and seven TDs last season, and advanced to the No. 1 spot. Second-year pro Dave Rader, who has never appeared in an NFL regular-season game, also backs up Simms as a potential "veteran."

"I don't believe in that five-year theory for an NFL quarterback to mature," says General Manager George Young, who vows the Giants are no longer "treating water."

But does that mean they have to suffer? The club admittedly has little depth in the running back and linebacker positions and Perkins is putting a lot of faith in his rookies and free agents.

Battle against heartworm is constant in summer

BOSTON (UPI)—The family dog was alert, playful, never turned down food, and seemed to be healthy. One day, Josh's owners noticed his bloated belly. They also realized he had been coughing quite a bit and no longer cleaned his dish. He now frequently opted to doze under a shade tree rather than play ball with the kids.

A trip to the veterinarian revealed their pet's problem: Josh suffered from heartworm, and had from six months to three years to live unless he underwent a treatment of arsenic injections designed to kill the long white worms growing in and around his heart.

An adult heartworm, which can be anywhere from seven to 12 inches long, clogs the heart chambers and major blood vessels and eventually migrates to the lungs. A severe infection leads to heart failure or related complications, and death, the veterinarian told the stunned family.

Heartworm "is something we've just become aware of within the past 15 years," said Dr. Karen Reamsnyder of the Driftway Animal Hospital in suburban Scituate. "As with any disease, it increases until the public realizes it is preventable."

A dog may contract heartworm through a single mosquito bite. Mosquitoes flock to a dog's unprotected abdominal region, where they release infected heartworm larvae through the flesh into the bloodstream.

The larvae are harmless for about 40 days, or until they work their way to the heart, mature and begin reproducing. Heartworms at this stage can be detected by simple fast and inexpensive test veterinarians recommend be done every year.

Heartworm medication is "virtually 100 percent effective in preventing the transfer of heartworm larvae to the heart," said Dr. Neil Harpster, a veterinary cardiologist at Boston's Angel Memorial Hospital.

Harpster said said the facility's outpatient clinic has treated "two to three times as many cases this year as during any time in the past few years."

"People are getting more careless about treating their dogs," he said. "It seems to be a nuisance to give dogs daily medication, but it's becoming more obvious this year that we do need to have our pets on medication."

Preventive heartworm medication is crucial to active, outside dogs who live or travel near his risk areas, Reamsnyder said, noting the disease is most rampant near heavily wooded, marshy areas, oceans, rivers and inland waterways.

Most veterinarians recommend preventive heartworm pills be given starting two months before mosquito season and continuing until two months after it is over.

Residents, leaders meet to stop Holyoke violence

HOLYOKE, Mass. (UPI) — City officials, police officers, community leaders and some youths met Friday to try to stop violence which for two straight nights plagued the Flats, a predominantly-Hispanic section of the city.

Three police officers were hurt, at least nine persons arrested, a car overturned and windows in businesses and apartments smashed as every available city police unit was called to quell Thursday night's melee which began about 11 p.m. when police were called to a disturbance at the Salsa Lounge.

Some two dozen police in riot gear had cordoned off a six-block area in the Flats' section Wednesday night to quell the disturbance involving about 100 persons. One man was arrested and a police officer hospitalized in that melee.

"I think we can handle it without declaring a state of emergency," Police Chief Harold Skelton said Friday. He said no contingency plans had been set up in case of further disturbances in the western Massachusetts industrial city.

City officials and police have indicated the problems on small gangs. Skelton said Friday police reports indicated black tee-shirts lettered with the words "Brother Hood," the name of one gang, had been confiscated from some persons involved in Thursday's disturbances.

Skelton admitted there were not enough permanent officers in his department, a charge made by Police Officer Arthur Therrien, head of the city's police union. But he said no new officers could be hired without Civil Service approval.

Jesus Sepulveda, 19, of Holyoke, was charged with assault and battery with a dangerous weapon, assault and battery on a police officer and breach of peace after he allegedly hit Patrolman Dennis Eng on the head with a brick at the Salsa Lounge Thursday night.

Sepulveda fled in handcuffs but was later arrested at the nearby Diamond Mine lounge.

Police in several nearby communities were put on standby during the disturbance in which Patrolmen John Dinicola suffered a cut leg and Patrolman David Johnson was hit in the back with a brick.

All three police officers were treated and released at Holyoke Hospital.

Arrested on charges of breach of peace were Holyoke residents John Bernier, 17; Roman Lopez, 17; Daniel Deldalle, 18; Louis Rodriguez, 19; Lino Vega, 21; Ma Zabeiba Devalle, 19; and one juvenile.

Another juvenile, 16, was charged with breach of peace, assault and battery with a dangerous weapon, a brick, and assault and battery on a police officer for allegedly striking Johnson.

Buckley terms platform as 'tired promises' list

HARTFORD (UPI) — Republican Sen. James Buckley said Friday the Democratic party's national platform was "a warmed-over list of tired promises" supported by Democratic Senate candidate Christopher Dodd.

Buckley called the platform approved this week at the Democratic National Convention "the tired, failed policies of the 1960's" and said it reflected the thinking of Dodd, "who distrusts the ability of private men and women working in a free competitive economy."

Buckley also defended his stand in not debating his opponent in the Sept. 9 primary, Senate Minority Leader Richard Rozato, who lost the party's endorsement by a mere 15 votes at the state convention last month.

"I've been given the responsibility to defeat Dodd," Buckley told a news conference. "I've got a job to do and the best way to do it is to fight him (Dodd) now. If I don't, this guy will walk into the job without any qualifications."

The Democratic platform showed nothing from its experiences of the past 20 years," he said. "The wistful, warmed-over list of tired promises adopted by Democratic Senate candidate Christopher Dodd."

Buckley said the platform was "an acknowledgment of the awesome economic mismanagement in Washington by the party of 'who distrusts the ability of private men and women working in a free competitive economy.'"

Probe reveals lottery violations

AUGUSTA, Maine (UPI) — An investigation into the Maine state lottery shows tickets to a millionaire game were sold in violation of game rules but it cleared lottery operators of any criminal charges, said Attorney General Richard S. Cohen. He said the results would be reviewed by members of his staff before being released next week.

"There will be no criminal charges resulting from our investigation, but there will be a number of items of interest to the Legislature," said Cohen. "The attorney general's office has been looking into the operation of the game since Lottery Director Richard 'Spike' Carey filed suit to the million-dollar 'Maine Event' game were illegally sold after the cutoff date last month."

Although the million dollar prize was awarded at the conclusion of the game, Carey earlier said it lost $200,000 because of slack ticket sales.

Cohen, in a preliminary review last week, said the department confirmed a number of the $5 tickets were sold in the days preceding the drawing of the game in Old Orchard Beach.

"Our investigators interviewed almost 50 individuals, including ticket purchasers, lottery employees and lottery commissioners," Cohen said. "In addition, members of my staff have examined numerous documents connected with the operation of the game since Lottery Director Richard 'Spike' Carey filed suit to the million-dollar 'Maine Event' game were illegally sold after the cutoff date last month."

DEAR ABBY: The last time he was here I saw him two days in a row... Abby

DEAR ABBY: I know he loves me, Abby, but I don't know how to handle things from now on... Abby

DEAR ABBY: I'm a working woman, divorced, and the mother of a 4-year-old child... Abby

DEAR ABBY: My best friend and I were talking about my sister... Abby

A MIRAGE IN THE DESERT CAN REALLY FOOL YOU, ABBY. THINK YOU SEE AN OASIS OFF IN THE DISTANCE, BUT...

WHEN YOU FINALLY GET THERE, YOU'LL FIND YOURSELF WALKING RIGHT THROUGH IT...

I HATE TO SAY IT, BUT I'LL BE GLAD WHEN WINTER COMES...

I THINK IT'S A WASTE OF MONEY TO TRY TO DEVELOP SYNTHETIC FUELS...

LET'S GET AN OPINION FROM REVEREND WEEMS...

REVEREND, HOW DO YOU FEEL ABOUT SYNTHETIC FUELS?

I THINK BAD BOOKS AND BAD MOVIES ARE PROBABLY THE WORST...

NO FLIGHT ENGINEER? HERE WE GO DANGLING AND PLEASE - DON'T REGULARLY COME AT ME!

HE'VE WAIT A MINUTE! THAT FLIGHT PLAN YOU MENTIONED...

WHAT ABOUT IT? HOW COULD YOU FILE A FLIGHT PLAN WHEN YOU DON'T EVEN KNOW WHERE I WANT TO GO?

BOBBI ON A BUDGET

DEAR BOBBI: Some do and some don't. It depends on the man. You can't put them all in one bag...

DEAR ABBY: My 12-year-old daughter, Anne (made-up name), has a big problem she needs help with...

History of transfer bids

By Oswald Jacoby and Alan Sontag

Dave Carter of St. Louis, who invented two-way Stayman, heard about this convention and adopted it enthusiastically...

Then in 1955 Richard Truckell, one of his opponents in the Eastern pairs mentioned that he used Stayman at the two level. The idea appealed to him and he started studying low-level transfer bids...

Stayman is played by the responder with the hand to play in four hearts, but also with his partner to play the hand so that the lead will come up to the outcrop bid...

We will discuss Jacoby transfer bids (JTB) next Saturday.
