Andover pilot dies in crash

BURLINGTON (UPI) — An Andover man was killed Thursday night in the second crash of a small plane at the Johnnycake Airport in less than a week, state police said.

Police said Gary A. West, 28, was killed when his plane crashed at the end of an airport runway shortly after taking off at 8:15 p.m. Police said West, the only person on board, was headed for Bradley International Airport in Windsor Locks.

Fred Pesce, co-owner of the airport, said West was thrown from the plane in the crash. Pesce said he heard the plane take off, but knew nothing of the crash until he got a call from state police.

"Visibility was down. I would say it was pretty poor weather, low-lying clouds," he said. The plane hit treetops, then slammed into a big beech tree along Johnnycake Mountain Road, Pesce said.

The wings were torn from the plane and a power line was cut when the plane fell, about a mile from the runway near the intersection of Johnnycake Mountain and Polly Dam roads, he said.

Police said West's body was found 15 feet from the plane.

Pesce said West was seasonal flyer and said the cause of the crash may have been mechanical.

Last Saturday, a student pilot was killed when his single-engine Piper Arrow plane crashed shortly after takeoff. Police said the pilot, Shlomo Hassas, 28, of Plymouth, was inexperienced. He "became overwhelmed with the situation" and was unable to get himself out of it, police said.

Les Reingold of the National Transportation Safety Board in Washington, D.C., said Thursday that NTSB officials would be arriving in Connecticut to investigate Thursday's crash. The FAA has not yet issued its findings on Saturday's crash.

Standoff in fourth day; Libya mulls British plan to end siege

By Cathy Booth
United Press International

LONDON — Libya today considered a British proposal for ending the siege at the Libyan embassy and Prime Minister Thatcher promised to move with caution as the standoff entered its fourth day. The British Foreign Ministry said its ambassador to Tripoli, Oliver Miles, met with the Libyan foreign minister, who handed over a response to London's ideas for ending the diplomatic crisis.

"The response is now being considered," a British Foreign Ministry spokesman said, refusing to disclose how the government of Col. Moammar Khadafi answered. "The new meeting this morning in Libya took place in a constructive atmosphere and both sides reaffirmed their wish to conclude matters in a peaceful manner." A public Libyan Foreign Ministry statement earlier today said Britain's request to search the London embassy was "unacceptable." The deadlock at the Libyan "People's Bureau" in London began Tuesday when, during an anti-Khadafi rally, a burst of machine-gun fire from inside killed a police woman and wounded 11 people. Mrs. Thatcher, resting at her residence Chequers near London after a three-day visit to Portugal, was being briefed on the siege but there were no plans for her to take direct charge of the embassy crisis.

Asked on British radio when developments could be expected toward lifting the ring of sharpshooters surrounding approximately 25 Libyans who have been holed up since the shooting, Miles said, "I would say very soon." "I expect some further movement today (Friday). I don't think it will be a day off for me," Miles said, speaking from the Libyan capital of Tripoli. Miles said that while he did not see a general threat to the British community in Libya, his men were advising Britons "to keep their heads down a bit" as a precaution. The ambassador met with Libyan Foreign Minister Dr. Abdul-salam Traiki Thursday night to discuss ending the crisis, and the British Foreign Office said the "atmosphere was good." Late Thursday Mrs. Thatcher urged caution, calling the situation "very sensitive." "One has to take every single action as a result of measured consideration," she said. Police said negotiations were continuing today by telephone with the people inside the embassy but said there had been no movement and none was expected until "things are sorted out on the political side." Police sent in more food, soft drinks and cigarettes to occupants of the building and for the first time, candy bars. "The reports of diplomatic progress from Tripoli were in stark contrast to strong statements Thursday from Libyan leader Col. Khadafi.

Reagan seeks to improve trade dealings with China

SANTA BARBARA, Calif. (UPI) — President Reagan, a longtime ardent foe of communism, says that China has undergone an "amazing change" in its willingness to deal with private enterprise and is seeking greater American investment.

Reagan made his remarks at a roundtable discussion with export trade leaders in Tacoma, Wash., where he stopped off for a few hours before heading to his mountain ranch for a weekend stay before going to China next week.

Reagan brought up the subject of a change in China's outlook in explaining that some difficulties had been encountered in planning for next week's trip to the mainland.

"The change that has occurred there ... in their willingness for American investment, their willingness to collaborate with private enterprise, free enterprise, is an amazing change and offers not only a great hope for us, but, I think, a great hope for them and their people."

Reagan said, "None of us can measure yet what the changes are that are taking place in that great continent with virtually a fourth of the world's population."

"But he added that there appears to be a difference in what it set out to be "when it first adopted its (communist) ideology."

Reagan said he would press for stepped up trade during his six-day trip.

"I go as something of a salesman, and I'll do everything up to not putting a 'buy American' sticker on my bag."

Fishermen angling in tackle shops

HARTFORD (UPI) — Hours before the fishing season opens, Connecticut trout are still swimming undisturbed but inland fishermen are frantically angling for a spot in the tackle shops to buy their rods, reels and lures.

Tackle shop owners say sales of equipment and lures indicate a record number of fishermen will be casting lines this year into state's well-stocked rivers, streams and lakes.

"This season has been much more frenetic, much more so than usual," said Bob Dimosky, owner of the Autumn and Greenleaf Tackle Shop in Simsbury. "We will be looking for a banner year."

The state fishing season officially opens this Saturday at 6 a.m., and state officials said by the end of the season more than 200,000 licensed anglers and 200,000 children under 16 who do not need licenses will cast their lines.

Saying the shops had been bustling for the last month but he expected business to explode today, Dimosky said this week he had sold 200 licenses but believed he would sell the same number today alone.

At the Hartford Club Sport Center, manager Roger Sperry said his staff was "going crazy" selling hooks, weights, lures, line rods and reels" in great numbers, as well as the 80 fishing licenses.

"I am getting writer's cramp from writing licenses," said Sperry, who estimated that he had sold 300 licenses this week of the supply of 800 he had just received.

In preparation for opening day, the state's freshwaters have been stocked to the gills with half the state's stock of 700,000 brook, brown and rainbow trout, said Jim Moulton, assistant director of Inland Fisheries.

Moulton said the 9 to 15-inch stock trout were cultivated at the state's Burlington Hatchery and the Quehobay Valley Hatchery in Plainfield, and additional stock would be introduced throughout the season.

Moulton agreed with tackle shop owners who said a rain shower Saturday might dampen the opening day's sport but heavy rains this spring had not hurt the fishing this season.

"The water is higher, the fish are in deeper pockets and fishing areas may be less accessible," said Sperry. "But that's alright because that means two weeks later when the water is lower, fishing will be all the better."

Dimosky noted that another wave of fishermen usually come forward after opening day, waiting until the first group of enthusiasts leaves before he casts his line.

"The serious angler will really begin coming out 3 or 4 days after the opening rush is over," he said. "They want to be at ease when fishing, they don't necessarily want to catch a fish."

Latin scholars take 2nd

BOLTON — Bolton High School Latin students won second place in the State Latin Day competitions last month at Trinity College. Bolton High School has placed first or second in every State Latin Day since the competitions began several years ago.

Latin teacher Susan Murray led a group of 50 students in a series of events ranging from track and field events to costume competitions.

Individual awards went to Danae Marshall and Diane Manning — first place for their military standard; Deborah Marshall — third place for school banner; John Lebler — third place for male costume; Donald Halobardo — first place in the 220-yard sprint; Wendy Flisky — first place in the girls' broad jump; Tracey Rich, Patty Sobol, William Kietzman and John Roberts — third place in a relay race; and Tracey Rich, Matthew Maynard, William Kietzman, Patty Sobol and Wendy Flisky — third place in a high school bowl quiz contest.

Realtors give bushes to beautify 'gateway'

Motorists entering Manchester after leaving the interstate will soon get a better first impression of the town, thanks to the Manchester Board of Realtors.

The board has agreed to donate 20 rhododendron bushes to be planted in a grassy area near Howell Cheney Regional Vocational Technical School on West Middle Turnpike.

"I'm sure this start will snowball into all sorts of projects around town," said Board of Realtors President Ed Gorman as he presented a check to Mayor Barbara B. Weinberg and other town officials Thursday morning.

The rhododendrons will join several white pine trees the town intends to plant near the same site.

Gorman said the board was enthused about the idea of planting the flowering shrubs because the area, which is just off Interstate 86, is where more than half of the people who come to Manchester first enter the town.

"You really notice those

Police roundup

Two charged with liquor violations

A 55-year-old Manchester woman and an East Hartford teenager were charged with liquor violations Tuesday after plainclothes police officers on a roving surveillance of liquor stores saw beer being sold to a teenager at Prestige Liquor in the K-Mart plaza on Spencer Street, police said.

The officers confiscated two quarts and one six pack of beer after stopping the boy, David G. Michaud, 17, as he left the store, police said. Michaud was charged with procurement of liquor by a minor.

The store owner, Brian Motola, told police Michaud was a regular customer, police said. Police charged Motola's mother, Violet Motola, of 30 Santa Drive, with selling liquor to a minor.

Michaud was released after posting a $100 bond and ordered to appear Monday in court. Mrs. Motola was released on a written promise to appear Monday in court.

An East Hartford woman turned herself into Manchester police Monday to face a charge that she fraudulently obtained $793 in unemployment compensation from the state while she was working at

FOCUS / Weekend

 United Press International

Baseball madness has descended upon the country. Even if you don't know a fly ball from a baseball, you will probably find yourself at some point during the next six months trapped in a conversation about baseball.

It can be embarrassing to pretend you know what people are talking about when they start mentioning ERAs or designated hitters, to say nothing of more esoteric terms such as a Gillette or a Baltimore chop.

To help you survive, the following are some commonly used terms, and a few trivia tidbits that can help you keep up with their osmosis.

The assumption is that by mere osmosis you have already picked up basics such as, "one, two, three strikes you're out," "play ball" and "batter up."

If even those terms leave you mystified, you have two choices: baldly admit you know nothing about the sport and cloak yourself in smug superiority, or find a good book or friend to explain the most fundamental of fundamentals.

Here goes:

National pastime: Baseball's nickname. Even in a presidential election year, the name still holds. Make disparaging remarks about the sport at your own risk.

American League: One of the two major leagues. The other is the National League. The pennant is the league championship, and the pennant winners face each other in the World Series in October.

Base hit: A safely batted ball that allows the batter, without the help of an error by the opposing team, to reach first base before the ball gets there.

Baltimore chop: A batted ball that bounces just in front of home plate and high into the air, hopefully giving the batter time to safely reach first base.

Batting average: One of many statistics baseball aficionados love to throw around. It's based on dividing the number of base hits by the number of times at bat. Generally, below .300 is bad while .300 or above means a better contact may be in the offing. The exception: pitchers, who aren't expected to hit.

Beanball: When the pitcher intentionally throws the ball at a batter's head. A Gillette, on the other hand, is a "close shave" intended to intimidate the batter. It also is called a brushback or duster.

Boys in blue, men in blue: One of the kinder terms applied to umpires.

Bottom of the inning: The second half of an inning, when the home team's at bat.

Bunt: Special batting maneuver designed to place the ball softly and accurately somewhere in the infield, often for the purpose of ensuring the advance of a teammate on the bases.

Count: The number of balls and strikes on a batter, with balls mentioned first.

Cy Young Award: Goes to the best pitcher in each league. Named in honor of Cy Young, who won a record 511 games during his career at the turn of the century.

Designated hitter: A player who is part of the lineup and substitutes at bat for someone else, almost always the pitcher, but doesn't play in the field. Allowed in the American

Grand Slam: One of the more exciting moments in baseball, a home run with the bases loaded.

Leadoff: The first player to bat in an inning.

Line drive: A well struck batted ball that travels on a line parallel to the ground.

Losing pitcher: The unfortunate pitcher who is tagged with the loss. It goes to the starting pitcher if he plays the entire game for the losing side or if his team is losing when he is taken out and never regains the lead. A relief pitcher becomes the loser if his team later draws even or ahead and he allows the opposing team to regain the lead for keeps.

No-hitter: A pitcher's moment of ultimate glory. He pitches the entire game without giving up any base hits to the other team.

Perfect game: The super-ultimate. Pitcher allows no hits, no bases on balls, and no runners reach first base by any means.

Pinehitter: Can be sent up at anytime during the game — but only once per game — to hit for someone else. After the inning in which he takes his turn at bat, he may replace a teammate in the field. If he does not, he is out of the game.

Run batted in: Credited to a batter when he allows a runner to score by getting a base hit or — hold on now — a base on balls, getting hit by pitch, making a sacrifice or sacrifice fly, or on an error with less than two outs and a runner at third base who could have scored if there hadn't been an error.

Sacrifice fly: A fly ball that is hit far enough for someone on base to tag up and reach home plate safely. The batter is credited with an RBI but a sacrifice fly doesn't count as a time at bat so doesn't affect the batting average.

Seventh-inning stretch: Another baseball ritual, this one by the fans. The fans get a few minutes to stand up, stretch their legs and run to get beer and hotdogs before their team comes up in the seventh inning.

Unearned run: When a run is scored because of an error. Does not alter the pitcher's ERA.

Finally, there will always be "experts" who will leave you dizzy with their seemingly endless knowledge of names and statistics. Don't even try to compete. Follow a time-honored baseball tradition. Declare your undying allegiance to your hometown team.

Aetna earnings down following tough winter

HARTFORD - Unusually severe winter weather that pushed up claims costs combined with other factors to cut sharply into first-quarter earnings for Aetna Life & Casualty, the insurance giant announced Friday. Results were lower in all major areas except individual life, health and annuity business. Aetna said in announcing first-quarter operating earnings of $19 million, or 15 cents per common share. In the same period a year ago, Aetna reported earnings of $119 million or $1.15 per common share, when the company had a $48 million benefit from a reinsurance transaction.

Firm offers insurance for system performance

NEW YORK (UPI) - Launching a business enterprise usually involves a marketable idea, the right people and the necessary financing. Lack of financing can stop a project dead. Now, however, a new twist in an old insurance idea may make it easier to get financial backing. The new insurance product is called "system performance insurance."

Hubcaps pay the bills

They set up hotline for help

Corporal punishment has made some parents frightened

By Patricia McCormack United Press International

Corporal punishment in schools has been documented in the calls of frantic parents to a hotline run by the National Committee for Citizens in Education.

Intimidation among students. Some parents punish kids for not working up to potential. In one second grade, all who did not score 100 on a math test were paddled for neglecting to turn in homework.

school board members invariably back the teacher and principal and are not responsive to the parents' objections to this type of punishment.

New England In Brief

POET RIPS U.S. RACISM
RINDGE, N.H. - Dennis Brutus, a South African political refugee, said Sunday the question of "how many must die and how much destruction" there will be among non-whites in South Africa is in the hands of Americans.

Vt. power line approved
RUTLAND, Vt. - The U.S. Department of Energy has given final approval for construction of a huge power line through the northeastern corner of Vermont.

Hannah signed
HOLLYWOOD (UPI) - Daryl Hannah, the end-of-the-rainbow movie star, has signed to star in "The Clans of the Cave," based on the novel by Jean M. Auel.

Striped bass decline
PROVIDENCE, R.I. - Sen. John H. Chafee, R-R.I., says the results of a new study on the decline of the striped bass population in Atlantic coastal waters shows the federal government must take action to protect the species from further destruction.

Student firemen killed
NORTHFIELD, Vt. - Three students on the Norwich University fire brigade were killed Sunday when their fire truck overturned on a steep shoulder of the road, college officials said.

Senator says 'join me'
AUGUSTA, Maine - A New Hampshire senator who convinced nine Republicans he defeated in a primary fight to back his candidacy has told Maine conventioners that unity is the key to success.

Murder suspect to use Vietnam as his defense

CONCORD, N.H. - The first-degree murder trial was to begin today in the case of Gary Place, a former Marine who claims he couldn't leave the battlefields of Vietnam behind.

Von Bulow likens trial to Nazi horrors
BOSTON (UPI) - Claus von Bulow, whose conviction for the attempted murder of his wife was overturned, compared the strain of the trial to "the three years I spent in Nazi-occupied Denmark."

Police vow extensive search for slain prostitute
PROVIDENCE, R.I. (UPI) - Rhode Island state police say they are ready to go through "tons of garbage" searching for the body of Boston prostitute Robin Benedict after her admitted killer said he stuffed the remains into a dumpster.

A Dog's Day
Little Katie Bowler (right), 3, of North Quincy, Mass., places straw hat on patient "Kelly's" head during visit to Boston's Public Garden Sunday. The welcome return of spring brought many people outside as temperatures in New England flirted near the 80's.

Committee recommends impeachment

By Bruno V. Ranniello
United Press International

HARTFORD — A select House committee unanimously today recommended the full House impeach Hartford Probate Court Judge James H. Kinsella for abusing his office and the public trust.

The eight members of the bipartisan committee voted "yes" on a motion to submit articles of impeachment charging Kinsella with abusing and undermining the integrity of his office and violating public trust.

If the recommendation is adopted by the House, Kinsella would be the first public official impeached in more than 300 years of state history.

"It is sufficiently clear that respondent Kinsella engaged in impeachable conduct by abusing and undermining the integrity of his office," said Deputy House Speaker Robert Frankel, D-Stratford, the committee's co-chairman.

Kinsella was censured by a panel of probate judges in 1983 for mishandling the $34 million estate of elderly West Hartford heiress Ethel Donoghue.

The veteran probate judge was accused of placing two attorney friends in charge of the estate in order to take control of the woman's fortune.

If impeached by the House, Kinsella would be tried by the Senate, where a two-thirds vote would be needed for conviction to remove him from office.

Kinsella was charged in two articles with misconduct of office, furnishing false evidence under oath, disregarding proper supervision of his employees and refusing to cooperate with the select committee's investigation.

The probate panel of judges said Kinsella had repeatedly violated ethical standards by trying to help two friends, lawyers Alexander A. Goldfarb and Paul J. Aparo, gain control of the ailing woman's estate.

Kinsella brought "disdain upon the office and trust he held by refusing to cooperate with official investigations of the probate court and of his conduct as a judge of probate," said Frankel.

Kinsella refused to testify before the committee, which met seven times since February. Kinsella's lawyer also had unsuccessfully challenged the legality of the tribunal in the state's superior and supreme courts.

Two committee members said their decision for impeachment was based a large part on Kinsella's refusal to appear before the committee.

"The public trust has been violated," said Rep. William Wollenberg, R-Farmington. "Judge Kinsella has chosen not to respond and that is required."

Rep. John Wayne Fox, D-Stamford, said, "I would like to have heard Kinsella," but added that based on the evidence presented, "There is no doubt in my mind he has abused his office, violated his trust and should be removed from office."

Rep. Richard Tulisano, D-Rocky Hill, who moved for adoption of the impeachment articles, called the unprecedented action "one of the most onerous proceedings we can engage in."

Deputy House Minority Leader Robert Jaekle, R-Stratford, the committee's other co-chairman, said the office of probate judge was "a special trust" that Kinsella violated.

The decision was announced after 14½ hours of deliberations Saturday, Sunday and Monday.

The committee was created last May after the House approved a resolution by Rep. Christopher Shays, R-Stamford, to investigate Kinsella. Bridgeport Attorney Jacob Zeldes was chosen as special counsel for the historic committee.

Tulisano and another committee member, Rep. Beatrice Murdock, R-Avon, were appointed by Frankel to serve as liaisons with the Senate in the event the House votes impeachment.

Also on the committee was Rep. Teresalee Bertinuson, D-East Windsor, and Rep. Elinor Wilber, R-Fairfield.

A simple majority would be needed by the 151-member House to vote impeachment but a two-thirds vote would be required in the 36-member Senate to remove Kinsella from office.

Zeldes, special counsel for the panel, told the members Saturday their job was only to recommend to the full House whether it should impeach Kinsella.

Eight police officers being promoted Friday

Eight Manchester police officers are scheduled for promotions Friday, following months of delay in completing testing of nearly half of the police department's 80-member force, police spokesman Gary Wood announced today.

Stated for promotion to detective sergeant is Detective Donald W. Wright, 42, who has been a member of the department for 16 years and a detective for nearly eight years.

Detective Gary H. Benson, 38, and Patrol Officers Lewis W. Dischert, 38, and Patrick P. Reeves, 27, will become sergeants in the patrol division. Benson is a 13-year veteran of the force and has been a detective for five years. Dischert has also been with the force for 13 years. Reeves has four years on the force.

Stated for promotion to detective are Patrol Officers Richard V.C. Busick, 33, a seven-year veteran; Edward Wilson, 30, with five years on the police force; Joseph R. Morrissey, 29, with four years in the department; and Michael V. Ludlow, 29, with five years in the department.

Candidates for sergeant, a total of 34 officers, took written examinations and then were each put through a day-long role-playing evaluation at the University of Connecticut's Institute for Public Service. Candidates were required to respond to incidents acted out by volunteers and to complete a collection of routine paperwork, all designed to resemble the work of an actual supervisor in the Manchester Police Department.

Candidates for detective took written examinations only.

Reagan calls trip a success

FAIRBANKS, Alaska (UPI) — President Reagan said today relations between China and America have reached "a new plateau" as a result of his six-day journey and that he and Chinese are now in "great agreement" on many world problems.

The president, in obvious good spirits at the end of his first venture into a communist society, discussed the trip with reporters aboard Air Force One before a stopover in Fairbanks, where he will meet with Pope John Paul II on Wednesday just before flying to Washington, D.C.

Reagan said that during his talks with Chinese leaders, "We arrived at a new level and a new stage now in the relationship."

Despite the differences between

Chinese communism and American democracy, he said. "We still found areas of agreement with regard to peace, opposition to (Soviet) expansionism and hegemony, and we found we could agree on a great many things more."

"There were some areas where they had misunderstandings and we cleared those up," the president said. "In these meetings in the last few days... we reached a new plateau... We moved into a level of general understanding about international relations there on the global level, regional spots of possible trouble, and so forth, and found ourselves in great agreement on many of those."

Reagan was in shirt-sleeves as he talked with reporters, and later during the eight-hour plane trip he changed into faded blue denim. Nancy, dressed in a wine-colored velvet sweat suit, sat on the arm of an airplane seat near the president as he talked.

"He's as upbeat as I've ever seen him about a trip," White House spokesman Larry Speakes told reporters after the interview. "He had studied about it (China) for years."

Reagan landed in Fairbanks during a light rain on a chilly day. He planned to attend a "welcome home" rally and address a group of business and community leaders later in the day. On Wednesday, he will hold private talks with the pope, who is stopping over in Alaska en route to South Korea.

House panel blasts FBI stings

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A House subcommittee blasted the FBI today for its Abscam-style undercover operations, charging that the bureau has not hesitated to interfere with the nation's "political, judicial and financial institutions."

The Judiciary subcommittee on civil and constitutional rights called on Congress to require the FBI to obtain a court warrant and prove there is sufficient evidence of a crime before an undercover investigation is launched.

A review of the FBI's undercover activities by the subcommittee was prompted by the FBI's congressional sting operation known as Abscam. The four-year study also reviewed and found fault with other undercover probes, including ones in Cleveland, Columbus County, N.C., Jacksonville, Fla., and Sacramento, Calif.

"The FBI has not hesitated to interfere with political, judicial and financial institutions across the nation," the subcommittee said in its report.

"They have initiated and continued broad-based investigations on the merest of suspicions of unspecified criminal activity... and there is no assurance... that criminal activity, other than that created or fostered by the undercover activity, is being effectively curtailed."

The 100-page report said that while undercover activity is a valuable weapon when used wisely, it posed a threat to liberties guaranteed by the Constitution.

Fiano plan to be cut by 4 lots

By Kathy Garmus
Herald Reporter

Manchester attorney Lawrence A. Fiano has withdrawn plans for a 49-lot subdivision off Keeney Street in favor of plans that would provide for 45 lots instead.

Those plans have not yet been submitted to the Planning and Zoning Commission.

The withdrawal of the plans has no effect on the zone change application pending before the PZC, Fiano said Monday in a letter to the commission.

Fiano applied to have 28.7 acres changed from Rural Residence to Residence A to permit the 49 lots. Area residents have opposed the plans on the grounds that the subdivision would be too dense to fit in with the characteristics of surrounding neighborhoods.

The area, which is near the intersection of Blush Hill Road, is largely rural.

At a Monday night meeting, about 100 members of the Southwest Property Homeowners Association voted to continue to fight Fiano's subdivision plans.

"The consensus was they didn't favor it," said Eugene A. Sierakowski, one of about 100 members of the informal association who attended the meeting at Keeney Street School. "They didn't think it was compatible with the existing characteristics of the neighborhood."

Theunis Werkhoven, chairman of the association, said the meeting was called to inform area residents of the latest developments in Fiano's bid to put in a subdivision.

"I didn't want to have them (the residents) feel it was a one-ring circus," he said.

Werkhoven, who did not know this morning about the withdrawal of the subdivision application, said people at Monday's meeting were 100 percent in favor of continuing the fight against the subdivision plans.

"We are really concerned with what is going on," he said. "I feel as though something a little better could be put in that land."

Werkhoven said residents feared the subdivision would decrease property values in the area.

Fiano, who is president of Gerald Investments, asked that the zoning of the land be changed to Residence A after an earlier bid to have it changed to Planned Residence Development to permit 57 lots was denied.

Residents of the Keeney Street area have hired Manchester attorney Stephen F. McEneaney to represent them, and have submitted a petition to the PZC which makes a 4-1 vote necessary before the zone change can be approved. Under zoning regulations, a 4-1 vote by the PZC is required to change the zoning of land if owners of more than 20 percent of the property within 500 feet of the zone sign a petition opposing the change.

It was a similar petition that led to the denial in February of Fiano's application to have the land changed to Planned Residence Development.

Sierakowski said that although Fiano said he would exceed the minimum requirements for lot sizes, "it doesn't preclude another developer from coming down Keeney Street and meeting the minimum requirements of the regulations."

Many of the lots in the area are as large as 30,000 square feet. In a Residence A zone, lots must contain a minimum of 12,000 square feet.

At an April 2 public hearing on the zone change application, Fiano said the lots in his subdivision would probably contain about 14,000 square feet each. Fiano could not be reached for comment this morning on his latest subdivision plans, but in his letter to the PZC, he indicated the new plans "will involve much larger lots."

The PZC tabled the application at its last meeting. It has until June 6 to decide on the zone change.
