8th District should alter meet format

The format of the annual meeting of the Eighth Utilities District is dead. It encourages district voters who attend the meeting to leave early, as soon as they have participated in what they consider the main business of the meeting: electing a district president.

If the district charter and bylaws permit it, the order of business at the meeting should be changed so that all the questions of high interest come up early in the meeting, and the routine matters come up later.

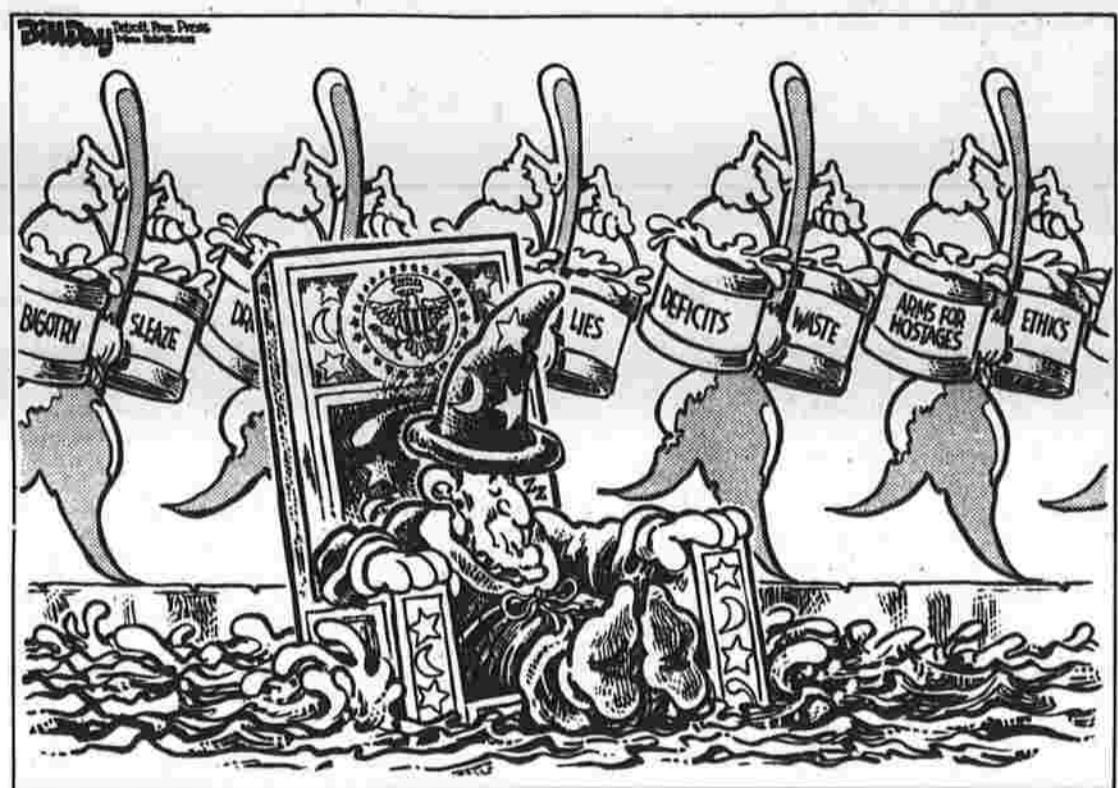

At the district meeting Wednesday, 283 district voters cast ballots in the presidential race. The last major item of business was a decision on whether the district government should be authorized to borrow $300,000 to convert the former Don Willis Garage to district offices.

By the time a vote on that subject was taken, at least a quarter of the people had long since left. The vote against the borrowing authority might have gone the same way if all the voters had stayed, but there is a possibility it would have been different. When more people take part in the decision, the elected officials have broader mandates.

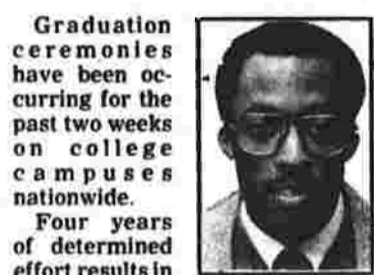

Under the procedure used Wednesday, even the election of a president had to wait until the moderator had read the long formal call to convert the former Don Willis Garage to district offices.

And before they got to the Willis garage, they had to approve the choice of banks that will hold district funds, and they had to give the district directors routine authority to borrow a minimum amount of money if they need it.

The procedures are imbedded in custom and no doubt codified by regulation, but there ought to be a way to change them so that what are clearly the matters of greatest importance and interest are taken up first. When the agenda is as long as the one facing the district voters Wednesday, the temptation to put aside civic duties for a televised basketball game is too strong for many to resist.

Memorial Day: time to remember

To the Editor: To many Americans, Memorial Day is the beginning of the summer season, of family gatherings or a trip to the beach. To others, it is a time to remember and to reflect upon our loved ones who have gone to their eternal reward. The War Between the States, 1861 to 1865, gave our Declaration Day to honor the soldiers who died in battle.

Let us especially remember those who are being held against their will in various parts of the world. We call it Memorial Day now to honor all of these brave soldiers of our history who died to keep us free.

George Bush at campaign's midpoint

William Rusher

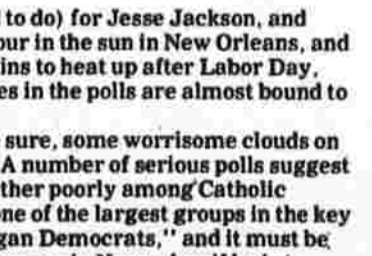

There are, to be sure, some worrisome clouds on the Bush horizon. A number of serious polls suggest that he is doing rather poorly among Catholic voters.

More broadly, the Bush campaign has yet to offer much serious evidence that it understands how absolutely indispensable the vast category of social conservatives is to its hope of victory. Presumably this commission will be rectified when the time comes for Bush to choose his running-mate. If not earlier, but ignoring the subject would be Bush's surest and swiftest road to electoral disaster.

doubt this budget, to many means the loss of one or more Social Security monthly payments. He said he was troubled, not only because the Interior Department wasn't requiring an environmental impact statement, but because it looked like professionals in the Park Service were to blame.

Several environmental groups, including the Sierra Club and the National Parks and Conservation Association, moved into action when the Park Service approved the exploration. They filed a suit claiming that the oil and gas survey violates the Park Service's pledge to protect and conserve. Their suit claims that Shell Western has the right to disturb the surface to get to the minerals.

Oil search is threat to nature area

Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — An oil exploration company is making plans to explore about $10,000 charges of dynamite in the Big Cypress National Preserve, the home of endangered Florida panthers and bald eagles. It can get the blessing of the federal government, Shell Western Energy and Petroleum Inc. wants to blast along an 85-mile stretch of the preserve in southwest Florida, looking for oil and gas deposits.

After all, he's got peace and prosperity.

STATE & REGION

AIDS project curbed

HARTFORD — A Maryland firm hired to coordinate the state's AIDS prevention campaign among blacks and Hispanics has had its role drastically curtailed in the wake of protests from Hispanic leaders and other critics that it produced very little for the $500,000 it was paid, an official said.

Most of the responsibility for the campaign called Project Solo will be moved from Expand Associates Inc. to the AIDS program within the state Department of Health Services, said Wanda Rickerby, a health department spokeswoman.

Communist anthem picked

NEW YORK — Queens College Law School students selected the communist anthem, the Internationale, for their graduation ceremony today, but a college dean insists it wasn't meant as a political statement.

No attendance required

STAMFORD — A new college is scheduled to open in Connecticut where the students won't have to attend class. The college, called Connecticut Learning Network, won't even have a campus because all courses will be transmitted via personal computer and telephone.

The Connecticut Learning Network is the first of its kind in the world, said Seymour Eshow, a member of the network's executive committee. "It's a powerful opportunity to teach lots of people who would otherwise have to delay their education or not have an education at all."

Wood professor links chips in Crafts trial

NEW LONDON (AP) — In an attempt to establish a link between a U-Haul truck Richard Crafts rented and a Southbury scene where fragments of bone, tooth, hair and wood chips were recovered, prosecutors quizzed a University of Massachusetts professor for four hours on the technology of wood chips.

State police confiscated and searched the truck Jan. 15, 1987, two days after Crafts was arrested and charged with murder, and found chips of wood and one fragment that had been since been matched to Helle Crafts' blood type.

Professor R. Bruce Headley, who holds a wood technology, was asked by prosecutors and investigators in January 1987 to trace the species of trees of wood chips gathered from the U-Haul truck, the Southbury river bank and a wood lot Crafts owned in Newtown.

O'Neill's office moves to save radio system

HARTFORD (AP) — A state trooper leading the fight to salvage a $52 million radio communications system from the legislative scrap heap says he's encouraged by signals coming from the governor's office.

Without that money, the state police say their chances are slim of getting the terms of equipment they say the Federal Communications Commission is to assign next year. The FCC won't grant the frequencies unless money for the project is in place.

State prison jam worst in U.S.

WALLINGFORD (AP) — Connecticut's system of jails and prisons is the nation's most overcrowded in terms of design capacity, the state's correction commissioner says. "I do not know how to deal with the numbers that come through," Commissioner Larry R. Meachum told a group of newspaper editors and publishers on Thursday. "We have no options. There's very little sympathy" for the problem.

Meachum, who took over Connecticut's system of jails and prisons eight months ago, explained some of the reasons why there are more than twice as many people behind bars per 100,000 population in the state as there were in 1980.

In remarks to the annual spring meeting of the Connecticut circuit of The Associated Press, he said the answer does not lie in building new prisons.

Gaming chief standing by his gag order

HARTFORD — State gaming chief Orlando P. Ragazzi is standing by his order barring the head of state lotteries from talking to reporters, and Gov. William A. O'Neill is backing him up. "My directive of May 18 needs no clarification and all chiefs will comply," Ragazzi said in a memo Thursday to J. Blaine Lewis Jr., the lottery unit chief. The memo was written a day after a meeting between Ragazzi and Lewis at lottery headquarters in Newton.

Ragazzi, executive director of the Division of Special Revenue, reiterated that most state agencies have similar arrangements, where media inquiries must be channeled through the agency's public information officer.

The directive, which some have described as a "radio freedom" issued 10 days after the state switched companies running the lottery — a move Lewis had loudly criticized. The new system had massive and immediate computer problems, although it has since stabilized.

This week, state Sen. Fred H. Lovegrove Jr., R-Fairfield, had called on Gov. William A. O'Neill to intervene and lift the order.

In a response issued Thursday, O'Neill said he was surprised by Lovegrove's request and said he would stay out of the issue.

Lovegrove said your colorful language alleging a 'gag order' has been placed on Blaine Lewis."

"The Legislature gave the department of public works $10 million to build more beds," Meachum said. "If they gave me $300 million more, I could not build this fast enough to solve the problem... Prisons beds, once built will find an inmate. So it is, so it was, and trust me, so it shall be overcrowded."

The commissioner said there were 60 inmates per 100,000 population in 1980 and 140 per 100,000 population now even though the number of people victimized by crime has reached a 14-year low. Police are more effective in making arrests, prosecutors are more efficient, and courts are processing cases and handing down sentences at a faster rate, the commissioner said.

"The whole system is moving faster and more effectively so the prison rate is higher," he said.

Just in January, he said, the Connecticut prison system has grown by 1,200 inmates.

"I'm talking about how many people we're going to house in the state jail," he said. "And how many under the state jail."

Meachum said the discretion of correction officials is limited to such programs as halfway houses and supervised home release for certain inmates near the ends of their sentences. He said just as there are "two Connecticut, rich and poor" there are two correction systems — state prisons, which he said are admirable, and jails.

Jails, formerly run by counties but now run by the state, are in poor condition, he said. The jails are "a system that your social conscience will tell you: 'I cannot believe that is in our own state.'" Meachum said.

He said in jails in New Haven and Hartford there are sometimes 100 or more inmates held for days in the "bullpen" without toilet facilities.

LARRY MEACHUM, "little sympathy"

Gaming chief standing by his gag order

By Judd Everhart The Associated Press

HARTFORD — State gaming chief Orlando P. Ragazzi is standing by his order barring the head of state lotteries from talking to reporters, and Gov. William A. O'Neill is backing him up.

Meachum said the discretion of correction officials is limited to such programs as halfway houses and supervised home release for certain inmates near the ends of their sentences. He said just as there are "two Connecticut, rich and poor" there are two correction systems — state prisons, which he said are admirable, and jails.

George Bush at campaign's midpoint

These are difficult days for George Bush. Having long since disposed of his rivals for the Republican nomination, he must traverse the country, trying to look busy, still the Republican convention opens in New Orleans on Aug. 15.

Meanwhile, the media entertain themselves by rooting around in any garbage that looks promising, trying (for instance) to prove that Bush knew more about the Iran-Contra affair than he has admitted (or alternatively that he didn't, in which case, why didn't he?).

The New York Times's Stephen Engleberg briefly thought he had nailed Bush with having been told in 1986 by Edward Briggs, our ambassador to Panama, that Panamanian dictator Manuel Noriega was trafficking in drugs. Unfortunately for Engleberg, Briggs promptly denied having told Bush any such thing — an admission Engleberg had carelessly failed to anticipate.

George Bush at campaign's midpoint

There are, to be sure, some worrisome clouds on the Bush horizon. A number of serious polls suggest that he is doing rather poorly among Catholic voters.

More broadly, the Bush campaign has yet to offer much serious evidence that it understands how absolutely indispensable the vast category of social conservatives is to its hope of victory. Presumably this commission will be rectified when the time comes for Bush to choose his running-mate. If not earlier, but ignoring the subject would be Bush's surest and swiftest road to electoral disaster.

Still, looking at the big picture, it's hard to imagine the election being a walkover for Mike Dukakis. The very fact that, eight years after Ronald Reagan's first election as president, the Democrats are about to nominate yet another knee-jerk liberal makes it plain that they have found nothing better to offer. And while the Iran-Contra flap or the Mexico brouhaha or the "astrology issue" may be good for a vote here or there, I doubt that Bush would trade issues with the Democrats if he could.

Package to depict deformed infant

NEWARK, N.J. (AP) — In an unprecedented move, federal regulators ordered the makers of the anti-ane medicine Accutane to warn customers of potential birth defects by using a picture of a deformed baby on the drug's packaging.

Grigg said Thursday that Hoffman-La Roche include a photograph of an infant deformed by the drug was "unprecedented."

released the letter Thursday. Grigg said Thursday that "there's still some negotiating to do" if Hoffman-La Roche seeks to alter some of the requirements.

Linton joins Epstein Realty

Joan Linton of Manchester recently joined Epstein Realty of 543 N. Main St.

Linton received her L.P.N. designation from Windham Community Memorial Hospital in 1974 and was employed as a nurse from 1974 to 1979. She earned a bachelor's degree in politics and government from the University of Hartford in 1982 and worked as a lobbyist at the state Capitol from 1981 to 1983. She was an intern with the Manchester Health Department in 1985 and completed requirements for a master's degree in public health in 1987.

She has served as the Bowers School PTA president and a Brownie leader since 1986. Linton also has worked in fund-raising for the American Cancer Society, served on the Manchester Curriculum Review Committee and on the board of directors for the Manchester Area Family Day Care Exchange.

Field signs purchase deal

MIDDLETOWN — Field Publications has signed an agreement to buy Funk & Wagnalls Inc., an encyclopedia publisher from Ramsey, N.J., the company announced.

The deal will add about $20 million in sales to Field Publications, which employs more than 300 people at its headquarters in Middletown. Bruce Seide, president of Field, said Thursday.

The acquisition also gives Field — which publishes Weekly Reader, and runs book clubs for children and adults — an entry into a new marketplace: the supermarket.

Funk & Wagnalls, the second-largest general reference encyclopedia publisher in the United States, sells exclusively in supermarkets, according to advertising director Scott Incone.

Seide said the buyout "will not have any change as far as the operations of the two companies."

The Field Corp., based in Chicago, is the parent company of Field Publications.

Nuclear plant pact still faces obstacles

By Robert Bellorfole
The Associated Press

ALBANY, N.Y. — Gov. Mario Cuomo, who persuaded a Long Island utility to abandon a $5.3 billion nuclear plant, still has to sell the deal to Wall Street bankers and a host of federal, state and local officials.

Cuomo, who announced the tentative agreement on the Shoreham nuclear plant Thursday, also wants the plant 55 miles east of Manhattan dismantled, but said there may be problems winning approval from the U.S. Nuclear Regulatory Commission.

"I expect the NRC to do everything it can to kill us and open the plant," the governor said. "I don't trust the NRC."

If the agreement with the Long Island Lighting Co. goes through, it would mark the first time a completed U.S. nuclear plant was abandoned before opening. For LILCO, which was driven to the edge of bankruptcy by the plant, the deal averted a threatened takeover by the state.

The accord drew applause from Shoreham opponents, even though it concedes LILCO a rate hike of more than 40 percent over the next decade to pay for the shutdown.

"This makes my whole year!" said Linda Schmitt, who lives in the town of Shoreham with her husband and two children.

But it was the latest bad news for the troubled nuclear industry. More than 100 nuclear plants have been canceled since LILCO began building Shoreham in 1973 and no plants have been proposed in the last decade.

The pact "is a bad agreement for the nation as a whole," said Edward M. Davis, president of the American Nuclear Energy Council, an industry group in Washington. "The agreement could threaten energy security, as well as national security, by increasing oil prices in the face of predicted brownouts in the Northeast this summer."

Cuomo said the plant must be torn down to prevent future state leaders from resurrecting it.

Just mottoballing it, he told an Albany news conference, "would be very much like taking a loaded rifle and storing it in the closet."

U.S. Rep. George Hochbrueckner, whose district includes the plant, agreed. "We've shown Shoreham the cross, but we have to put a stake through its heart," he said.

However, if the plant were dismantled, the fuel rods would have to be disposed of at a nuclear waste facility. There are no facilities for high-level, commercial nuclear waste in the United States. NRC spokesman Frank Ingram said earlier this month.

The Shoreham project, begun in 1965, ended up 10 years behind schedule and 80 times more expensive than predicted.

The plant was completed in 1984 but never opened because state and local officials refused to participate in preparing emergency evacuation plans, arguing that Long Island couldn't be safely evacuated in a nuclear accident. Lacking such a plan, the NRC refused to issue more than a low-power testing license.

Most laid-off employees don't have jobs lined up

WASHINGTON (AP) — More than three-fourths of the workers who lost their jobs in plant closings or mass layoffs last year did not have new jobs lined up when they went off their companies' payrolls, according to new government data.

Of the 466,837 victims of plant closings or large layoffs in 23 states in 1987, 73 percent, or 339,343, filed claims for unemployment insurance benefits, the Labor Department said Thursday.

The government tracked those people through state employment offices and found that 85,548, or more than one-fourth of them, exhausted their unemployment benefits — an average $139 a week with a 26-week maximum in most states — before finding new work.

The report was hailed by advocates of the 60-day advance notice requirement that President Reagan cited as a major reason why he vetoed the 1,000-page trade bill on Tuesday.

"With that kind of advance notice, many of these people would have had an opportunity to seek new jobs while they were currently employed and would likely not have had to draw unemployment insurance," said John Zalusky, an economist for the AFL-CIO.

The advance notice provision was approved by Congress after surveys by the Labor Department and the General Accounting Office showed that two of every three U.S. workers caught up in such layoffs get no warning.

The National Academy of Sciences said in a report last year that the Reagan administration's reliance on "voluntary" notices is "not providing workers with the 'best practice' minimum of two or three months to adjust successfully to job loss."

The academy estimated that advance layoff notices would reduce by 25 percent the time a laid-off employee is out of work.

saving hundreds of millions of dollars in unemployment benefits.

Reagan, however, said when he vetoed the trade bill that the layoff notice requirements would "cost jobs and damage our economic growth."

Business groups supportive of the bill in general had urged Reagan to veto the measure because of the layoff provision, which U.S. Chamber of Commerce President Richard Leshner called "the carnal nose under the tent" in a broad union agenda for more government control in the work place.

The House on Tuesday immediately overrode Reagan's veto, with Democrats rejoicing that Reagan had given them an issue for rallying voters in the November election.

Democratic presidential front-runner Michael Dukakis said Reagan and Vice President George Bush "don't understand that for working families ... there is nothing more painful than losing a job."

The Senate, which passed the trade bill on a 63-36 vote that was short of what would be needed to override Reagan's veto, was expected to take up the measure again early next month.

The report Thursday by the Labor Department's Bureau of Labor Statistics was the first comprehensive examination of the mass layoff phenomenon ever released by the government.

Congress in 1983 ordered government statisticians to start conducting the survey after the nation's unemployment rate soared to 11.4 percent and the rolls of the unemployed grew to 12.5 million during the first two years of Reagan's administration.

Tax-free municipal bonds not outlawed by Congress

QUESTION: On April 18, I purchased some shares in a "tax-free income" mutual fund through a brokerage firm affiliated with a savings and loan association. I think I wasted my money because I was told that the fund would be used to buy municipal bonds. Enclosed is a copy of the brokerage contract I received.

On a recent Sunday television financial report, I heard that Congress has passed a bill prohibiting tax-free municipal bonds. Is that true?

ANSWER: No, it's most unlikely any TV commentator said that. You seem to have misunderstood the words from the tube, as well as your investment. Let's start from the beginning. The paper you sent along, which you call a "contract," is a copy of a brokerage confirmation statement. It shows you purchased $5,467.928 in shares at $11.36 per share, for a total cost of $39,395.66.

You bought shares of a mutual fund which uses your money and the money invested by other shareholders to buy municipal bonds paying interest that is not subject to federal income tax. The fund collects that tax-free interest and, after deducting its operating expenses, passes the money along to shareholders as dividends, also exempt from federal income tax.

To get a better understanding of your investment, you really should study that mutual fund's prospectus, which the broker was required to give you at or before the time of your purchase.

Peppin

Day ceremony Monday along with Rodney T. Moorey, parade marshal and a retired U.S. Navy commander.

Peppin was part of the advance patrol that on April 10, 1945, captured the first concentration camp in Germany, Stalag Oberrhein, which was as big as Dachau, but was a "pretty good-sized facility," he said. At that time Germany was falling apart and many of the SS officers had fled the camp.

But not before shooting some of the prisoners. "The bodies were all over the courtyard. They (the SS) had shot a number of prisoners. Some of the bodies were still warm," he said. "We did shoot quite a number of SS."

The scene at the camp didn't sink in right away, he said. Peppin, who enlisted in the Army in 1942, had already been through a lot of fighting, including the Battle of the Bulge and the crossing of the Rhine.

Later, the reality hit him. The war wasn't all bad memories, however. Peppin remembers how he received the Croix de Guerre, one of France's highest military honors, for helping to liberate French prisoners of war.

"As we fought our way through the (prison) camp, we went from barracks to barracks and got the French prisoners out," he said. "Later, a French officer asked me the names of the men in my squad."

Peppin said he didn't know why the officer wanted the names, but found out later when he and his men were decorated.

The medal is one of many Peppin wears proudly. He's also been decorated with two Bronze Star medals for valor, an Army Commendation Medal and a Combat Infantryman's Badge for direct combat with the enemy, among others.

He was also very active in the peace movement during the Vietnam War.

"Many a man that have been involved in a war... a lot of them didn't know what they were fighting for," Peppin said. People now also don't know or remember what they fought for, Peppin said.

The day Pearl Harbor was bombed, Peppin was coming out of a theater in Hartford and saw the newspapers.

"I thought, 'Oh my God, we're definitely in a war,'" he said. He talked to the people around him about it.

"They didn't even know where Pearl Harbor was," he said. "This is the way it is today."

in town churches beginning at 11:45 p.m.

On Monday, the parade begins at 10 a.m. at George Hersey Robertson School and will proceed down Cross Street and down Lake Street to Nathan Hale Cemetery where a service will be held. Town Council Chairman John Lewis will speak.

SOUTH WINDSOR: The parade begins Monday at 2 p.m. at Town Hall and will proceed to Nevers Road Park. After the parade, a dedication will be held at the Rotary Pavilion, where an army encampment will be set up. Helicopters and military airplanes will be featured and food will be available.

'Mrs. Letterman' is arrested again

NEW CANAAN (AP) — The woman who apparently set up housekeeping in David Letterman's house while he was out of town and took the show host's sports car for a spin in New Jersey has been re-arrested after returning to Letterman's house, authorities said today.

Mary Ray, 36, of no known address, was charged with second-degree burglary Thursday night after local police found her at Letterman's house, a day after she was released by New Jersey authorities because Letterman said he didn't want her prosecuted, authorities said.

Ray was being held on $15,000 bond pending arraignment in Newark Superior Court today, said New Canaan Capt. Michael Angelastro.

Ray was first arrested Sunday at the Lincoln Tunnel on a charge of receiving stolen property as she was driving into New York from New Jersey with a 3-year-old passenger. She didn't have the $3 toll, authorities said.

Congregate housing gets $2.9 million

A $2.9 million state grant that will permit the Manchester Housing Authority to build congregated housing at its Westhill Gardens site was approved late this morning by the state Bonding Commission, according to state Sen. Michael Meotti, D-Glastonbury.

Meotti, whose 4th Senatorial District includes Manchester, said the authorization provides for 45 housing units in a building that will include a common kitchen, a common dining room, a community room and office space.

Ada Sullivan, chairwoman of the housing authority, said she was "delighted" to hear of the approval and said the congregated housing will be a "great thing for Manchester."

The authority operates federal and state-subsidized apartments for the elderly, but does not have any congregated-type housing now.

While there are no detailed plans for the facility, Sullivan said it will have to be three or four stories high to fit on the site, a parcel east of Bluefield Drive, behind existing apartments for the elderly.

While the individual units will contain some food-preparation facilities, congregated housing is designed for tenants who expect to eat most of their meals in the common dining room.

Experts in housing for the elderly say congregated housing is valuable as a means of providing for elderly people who need some services, but do not need to be in nursing homes.

Meotti said the $2.9 million grant was in the budget recommendation of Gov. William O'Neill and that he was among the legislators who supported the grant.

Brown

and drinking the night of Feb. 5 and early morning of Feb. 6, Brown returned to the couple's apartment at about 9:30 a.m. on Feb. 6. As Sullivan was talking, Brown put his head down on the table.

Sullivan reported that the couple got into an argument, and Brown's anger turned to rage. He grabbed a pair of scissors and stabbed Susan Brown repeatedly, probably acting under "extreme emotional distress," Sullivan said.

Brown was arrested Feb. 7 in Red Bank, N.J., and will face various motor vehicle charges there. He was also charged with possession of cocaine.

Vasquez

murder charge had been scheduled for Thursday. Vasquez's public defender, Christopher Congrove, would not comment on the plea outside the courtroom. O'Connor could not be reached for comment.

A pretrial hearing is scheduled for next Wednesday.

A person convicted on a murder charge faces a sentence of from 25 years to life imprisonment. The sentence for conviction on first-degree manslaughter is from five to 20 years.

An affidavit related to the investigation of Anderson's killing remains sealed. Congrove has said that the affidavit was ordered sealed probably to protect the identity of an informant.

Anderson, 26, was found dead in her apartment at 82A Congress St. on Jan. 27, 1987, with a bullet wound in the side of her body. Vasquez was believed to have fled the scene in a 1986 red Toyota Celica.

Sullivan said Brown was indicted for attempted murder in New Jersey because while fleeing police he attempted to run a police roadblock.

He was turned over to Willimantic police Feb. 11. He was originally scheduled to enter a plea March 18, but Judge Noren granted a motion from Kelley to have Brown undergo psychiatric examination at the Institute of Living in Hartford.

Brown pleaded guilty to manslaughter under the Alford Doctrine, whereby a defendant does not admit guilt, but concedes that the state probably has enough evidence to convict him.

Vasquez was extradited to Connecticut from New York in March after drug charges against him in Rochester were thrown out.

Police have said that the murder may have resulted from an argument Vasquez and Anderson, his former girlfriend, were having about drugs. Anderson was killed by a single bullet, which struck her left arm and entered her body, police have said.

Vasquez was arrested June 11, 1987, in Rochester and charged with possession of 2 ounces of cocaine, according to authorities there. Manchester authorities were informed of his arrest at the time and began extradition proceedings.

Vasquez had been arrested April 28, 1987, with a bullet wound in the side of his chest. He was charged with criminal possession of a controlled substance and criminal possession of a hypodermic instrument.

Summit

then backed off. "As soon as an issue reaches the American delegation in Geneva, it gets stuck there," he complained.

And an aide to Gorbachev charged that the United States is violating a peace accord by continuing to ship arms to Afghanistan's anti-communist Mujahadeen guerrillas.

Before Reagan spoke, U.S. Jewish activists for Soviet Jews urged the president to remind the Soviets that human rights were indirectly linked to progress in arms control.

Morris B. Abram, chairman of the National Council for Soviet Jewish emigration is a "test of whether arms reductions can succeed." Any agreement "depends on trust and credibility," he told a news conference. "No one asks for direct linkage."

Abram called the improvement in Jewish emigration figures "insignificant compared with those who wish to leave... It's smoke and mirrors as far as the right to leave is concerned."

The Council, an umbrella organization of U.S. Jewish groups active for Soviet Jews, brought a 58-member delegation to Helsinki to draw attention to the issue.

The 1978 Helsinki agreement signed by the United States, Canada and 39 European nations including the Soviet Union initially was viewed skeptically by American political conservatives because it implicitly accepts East European boundaries set after World War II in Moscow's favor.

But in the years since, the Helsinki agreement has served as a Western platform for chastising the Soviets for deficiencies on human rights.

Meanwhile, in Washington, the U.S. Senate today moved toward ratification of the historic treaty that Reagan and Gorbachev signed at their December summit eliminating medium range nuclear missiles.

Senate leaders said they had the votes to approve the pact. White House Chief of Staff Howard H. Baker Jr. was set to rush the treaty to the president for a ceremonial exchange of the ratification documents with Gorbachev.

Oilers once again on top of the NHL

By Ken Rasoopoor The Associated Press

EDMONTON, Alberta — With Wayne Gretzky leading the way, the Edmonton Oilers are once more on top of the NHL. "He was playing like he never has before," Mark Messier said after Gretzky led the Oilers to the Stanley Cup championship Thursday night.

Gretzky had a crucial goal and two timely assists as the Oilers beat the Boston Bruins 6-3 for a four-game sweep of the Stanley Cup Finals.

The Cup was the Oilers' second straight and fourth in five years, establishing them as one of the great teams in NHL history.

"We had the greatest in this offense from Wayne," said Messier, saluting his teammate who broke two records on the way to the Conn Smythe Trophy as the most valuable player in the playoffs. "It just enabled all of us to play an excellent defensive style. Everyone complemented each other beautifully."

Gretzky's two assists gave him 31 in the playoffs and 10 in the finals, both breaking his own records.

Although the Oilers were credited with a four-game sweep, they actually played two games. The first game was tied 3-3 with 3:23 left in the second period on Tuesday when a power failure darkened Boston Garden. NHL officials ruled it no-contest but said all statistics would count.

"What can be said about Wayne Gretzky?" Boston Coach Terry O'Reilly said. "Everything I can say has been said before. He's the best. 'Too bad' he's here in Edmonton. It should be a league rule that he should be passed around."

Gretzky, of course, wasn't the whole story for the Oilers, who once again played a marvelous defensive game in shutting down the Bruins.

In three of the four games in the championship round, the Oilers held the Bruins to less than 20 shots. On Thursday night, the Bruins only got off 19 shots on Grant Fuhr.

"That's a great team that beat us here," Boston coach Terry O'Reilly said. "We weren't at our best, but that's because the Oilers played so well defensively."

"Those (defensive) guys are the six most underrated players in the league. Everyone talks about Gretzky, Messier, (Jar) Kurri, (Glenn) Anderson and Fuhr. But nothing is ever said about our defense."

Boston's Cam Neely had something to say.

"The Oilers surprised a lot of people," he said. "Nothing is ever said about it, but they play a very solid game. Kevin Lowe is one of the best defensive defenses in the league, and he gets the puck out of the zone very well."

Which is what the Oilers were doing Thursday night after a tight first period that ended 2-2.

"It was definitely an even period," Sather said of the first 20 minutes. "I think they even had the territorial advantage. They played in the Boston tradition. They didn't stop trying."

Steve Kasper and Ken Linseman scored first-period goals for the Bruins, while Norm Macomber and Esa Tikkanen scored for the Oilers, with Gretzky notching his first assist on Tikkanen's goal.

The goal not only tied the game 2-2, but started a run of five straight Edmonton goals that extended into the third period.

It was the second period, however, that was the game-breaker. It was then that Gretzky made his move.

"Wayne had that look in his eye and the flush in his cheeks, and you knew he was going to do everything right," Sather said. "His line was just scary tonight."

Mike Krushelnyski, an unheralded forward who once played for the Bruins, put the Oilers ahead with a goal at the 6:38 mark of the second period. Gretzky then had a hand in the Oilers' next two goals.

He scored at 9:44 on the power play, then assisted on a goal by Craig Simpson just two seconds before the period ended.

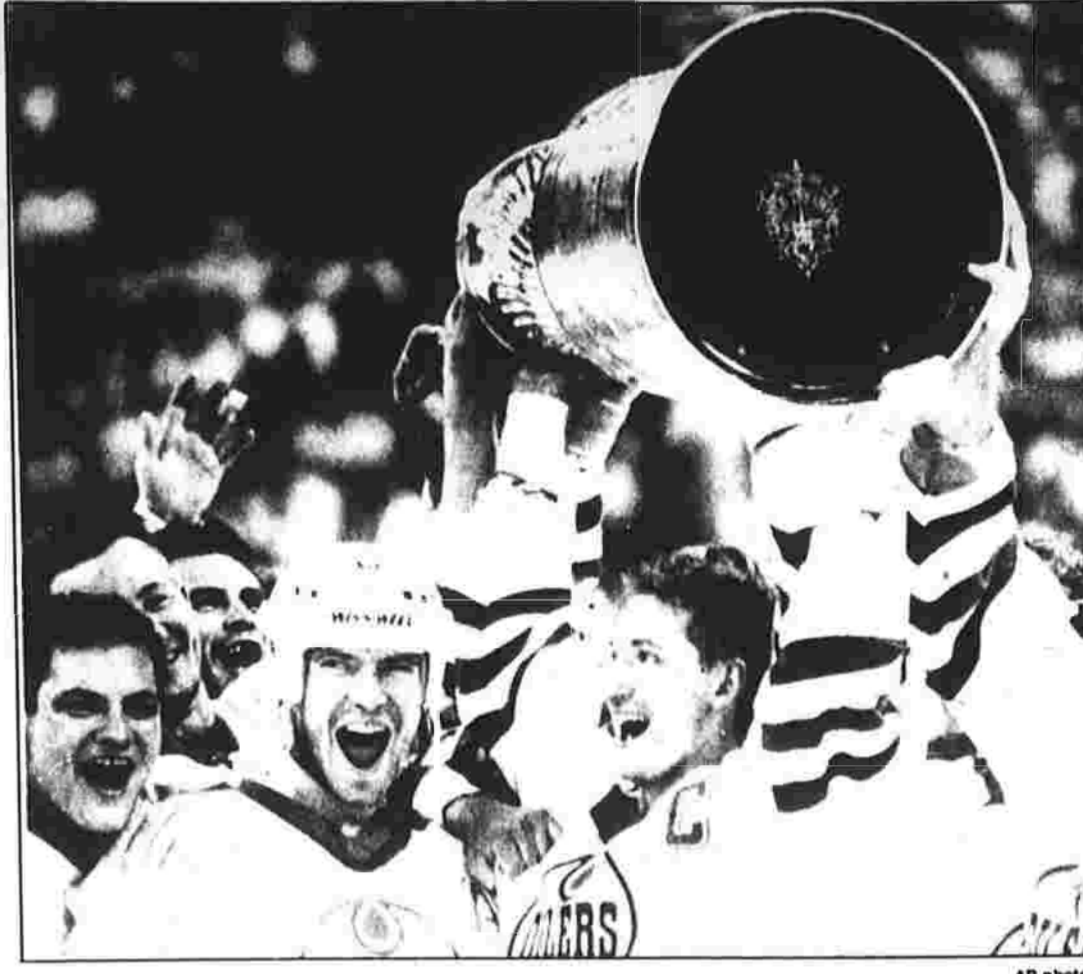

With the final seconds of the period ticking away, Gretzky roared down the left side and slapped a hard shot from the deep slot on net. Simpson, whom the Oilers acquired from Pittsburgh in the blockbuster trade for defenseman Paul Coffey, deflected a beautiful, acrobatic shot past Andy Moog.

That gave the Oilers a 5-2 lead going into the third period, and to Sather, might have been the back-breaker for the Bruins.

"It was an enormous goal," Sather said.

Tikkanen, who has played on Gretzky's line since 1985, virtually clinched it for the Oilers with a goal in the first two minutes of the third period. Kasper scored his second goal of the night, but it was too little too late for the Bruins.

"We met the best team in the NHL and we are not going to kid anybody," Kasper said. "They were a lot better than we were."

CONQUERING HEROES — Edmonton's Wayne Gretzky, right, holds up the Stanley Cup as he and teammate Mark Messier, left, celebrate the Oilers' 6-3 win over the Boston Bruins Thursday night.

They checked well and the defense showed everyone what they can do. "And of course everyone knows about their offense and their goaltending." "We've seen the Oilers' fourth in only nine years of existence in the NHL, but they're right behind the Montreal Canadiens and New York Islanders for dynastic consideration."

Woody, that was no way to treat a lady

Rivalries in sports usually spawn positive results between the combatants, draining every ounce of physical and emotional energy from the athletes involved.

Concerning the "Sport of Kings," an unfortunate scenario has surfaced following the running of the Preakness Stakes, the second jewel of horse racing's Triple Crown, last Saturday.

Two horses — the filly Winning Colors (only the third filly ever to win the Kentucky Derby on May 7) and Forty Niner (fast-closing runner-up to Winning Colors in the Derby), D. Wayne Lukas (trainer of Winning Colors), Woody Stephens (trainer of Forty Niner), Gary Stevens (jockey of Winning Colors), Pat Day (jockey of Forty Niner) and Eugene V. Klein (owner of Winning Colors) are the heated adversaries.

Attempting to become the first filly ever to win two Triple Crown races, Winning Colors brought her phenomenal front-running style to Pimlico to try to duplicate her victorious Derby performance.

Meanwhile, Stephens and Day were plotting a scheme to gain revenge against the filly who had six firsts and a second to her credit in her seven-year career.

The venerable Hall of Fame trainer, Stephens, 74, ostensibly had become obsessed with not letting the filly and Lukas, the winningest trainer in the country, win the Preakness.

"We're going to send her (Winning Colors) back to the farm," Stephens said prior to the Preakness. "Talk about a poor sport, immature comment from a supposed legend around the track!"

Stephens had said he wouldn't allow Winning Colors to stand away to an early lead in the Preakness as she did in the Derby, set slow fractions and utilize her powerful stride to subjugate her rivals.

As soon as the gate swung open in the Preakness, Day stormed Forty Niner to the lead, cutting off the filly in the process, and began his Stephens' conceived "not-let-the-filly-win" strategy.

Day took Forty Niner unusually wide on the clubhouse turn forcing the filly out even further. Up the backstretch under the watchful eye of Day, Forty Niner bumped and brushed Winning Colors without the least bit concern for the rest of the field. Why didn't the filly pull back behind Forty Niner?

Because she's a veritable front-runner. Would you ask John Freezy to sit back and wait for a quick Enameo downhill over the last 400 meters?

On the far turn, Risen Star, who had stalked the lead duo, slid through on the rail and went on to win holding off Brian's Time. Winning Colors, Enameo, and Day were in the clubhouse, hung on gamely

Loss costs Cheney tournament berth

By Jim Tierney Manchester Herald

PORTLAND — With their backs to the wall in a do-or-die situation in order to qualify for the Class I state tournament, Cheney Tech came up on the short end of a 6-3 verdict to host Portland High Thursday afternoon.

Cheney is now 9-10 while Portland moves to 14-6. A team must be at least .500 in order to make the tournament.

The Beavers wind up their season today at 3:30 p.m. at Coventry High in a makeup of a game postponed Wednesday. However, a Cheney victory would not qualify for the Oilers with a game time was Thursday.

"It's a tough way not to make it (the tournament)," Cheney Coach Bill Baccaro said. "These kids faced a lot of adversity, injuries and hung in there down to the last day."

pitched a fine game in defeat. In 5 2/3 innings, Maguire allowed four runs (two earned) on four hits, walked two and struck out eight.

"He (Maguire) pitched great," Baccaro said. "I didn't start him because he had pitched twice this week and we wanted to get a few innings out of Jeff."

Don Moskey twirled a complete-game four-hitter for the Highlanders. He allowed only one earned run, walked three and struck out five. "You have to give the Portland pitcher credit," Baccaro said.

Portland took a quick 2-0 lead in the first and Moskey didn't allow a Cheney base runner until junior Don Sauer singled in the fourth. Sauer scored on an infield hit by senior Glenn Parent. The Beavers knotted the affair in the fifth when pinch-runner Brett Lassen scored from second base on two consecutive errant throws by Portland. Allen led off the fifth with a booming double to right.

Leading 3-2 in the fifth, the winning Highlanders run crossed the plate after Parent made an excellent one-handed snag at shortstop. His throw, however, to first got past Allen allowing John Guidice, who had an RBI-single in the frame, to score. In the Cheney fifth, Beaver pinch runner Nate Paradis was tagged out after a Cheney suicide squeeze attempt went astray.

Trailing 6-3 in its final at-bat, Cheney loaded the bases with one out. But Rich Assid struck out and Maguire grounded into force play at third end the game.

"We couldn't be scrambled back," Baccaro said. "We didn't make two or three plays and Portland won the game."

referee Jack Madden conferred with the other referee, Mike Mathis, and the alternate referee, Bill Saar. Again, Boston had luck on its side.

Madden said Mathis didn't have a clear view and Saar was concerned with the game clock. "So we went with my original call," Madden said.

"It was ruled a 3-pointer," Detroit coach Chuck Daly said. "I'm not sure it was."

"I have to stick with the official," Jones said. "I thought he made just a fantastic call."

"You think I was actually worried about where my feet were?" McHale said. "I was in no man's land with the clock ticking down."

Similarly impressive misfortunes have struck the Pistons in Boston Garden.

In the fifth game of last season's conference final, Bird stole Thomas' inbound pass with five seconds left and fed Johnson for a layup as Boston won 108-107.

In the seventh game, Detroit's Adrian Dantley and Vinnie Johnson collided headfirst while diving for a ball in front of their bench. The Pistons were leading 89-79 at the time, but without Dantley for the rest of the game they lost 117-114.

"There is something special about this team. We have won games like this before," McHale, who had 24 points, said of the latest thriller. "It gives us confidence."

But with the next two games in a building where the Celtics have had problems, "we're still not sitting on top of the world," he added.

"It's a big game Saturday," said Thomas, who led Detroit with 24 points. "If we win all games at home, we win the (conference) championship."

Despite the loss, the Pistons remained confident after nearly winning two games in two days in Boston after going winless there in 5 1/2 years.

Magic moment by McHale saves Celtics

By Howard Ulman The Associated Press

BOSTON — The outlook was grim. The Boston Celtics faced almost certain defeat.

Standing just 15 feet from the treacherous painted at the center of the parquet floor, Kevin McHale, of all people, flung up a desperation 3-point shot.

It went in, adding another magic moment to the Celtic mystique.

The Celtics were down 103-109 in the second overtime. With Dennis Johnson scoring the last six points of the second overtime, the Celtics overtook the Pistons 119-115 Thursday night to even the best-of-seven Eastern Conference final at one game each.

Detroit, which broke a 2-1 game Boston Garden losing streak in Wednesday night's opener, will be home for the next two games Saturday and Monday afternoons.

Boston has lost its last eight NBA games at the Pontiac Silverdome. "It really could have been scary" if Boston had lost Game 2, Johnson said.

In his eight NBA seasons, the 6-foot-10 McHale had taken just 21 shots from 3-point range and made only one. His 3-point attempt Thursday night was his first of the season.

"The prepcoach stepped up for us," Boston coach K.C. Jones said. "We were lucky."

Not even the supremely confident Larry Bird had confidence that McHale's shot would go in. Bird was cutting toward the basket when Johnson's inbound pass went behind him and hit his left hand.

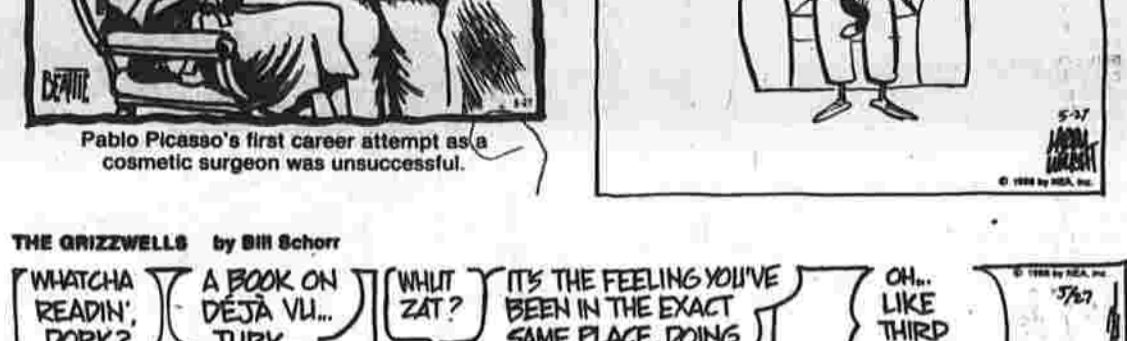

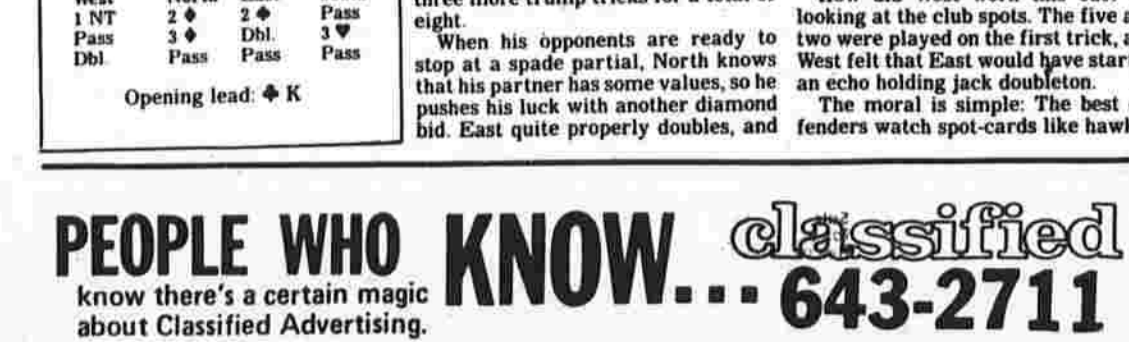

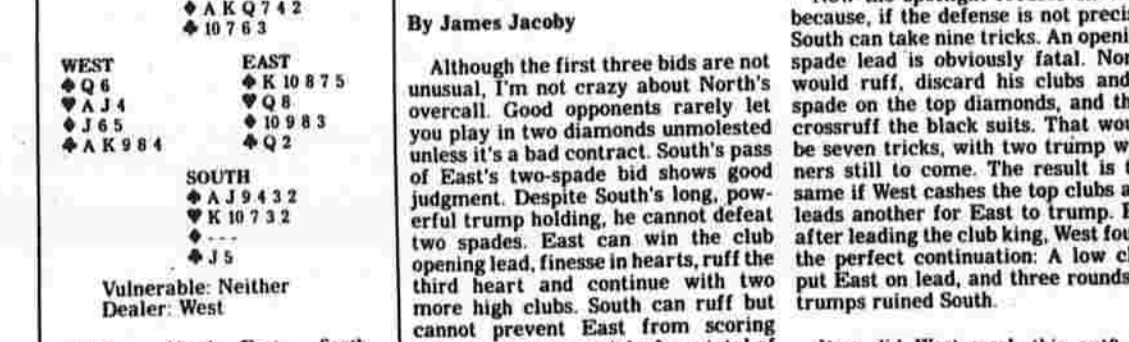

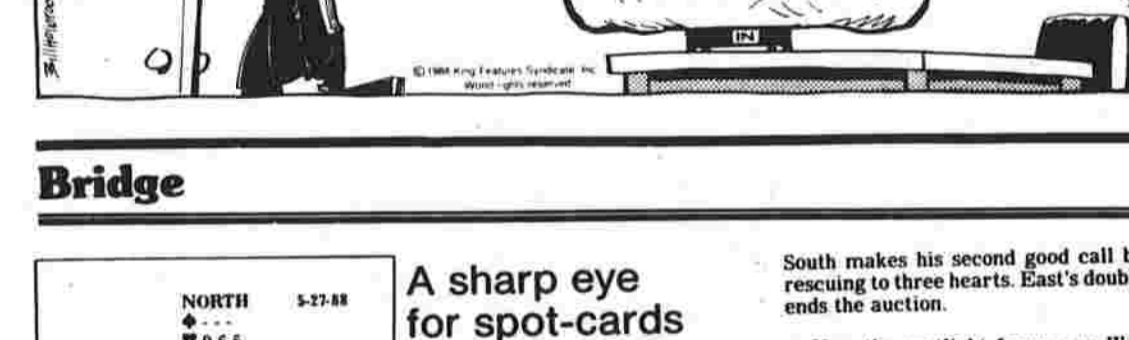

"I thought it was over," Bird said. "I thought for sure someone on the other team would pick it up."

Day took Forty Niner unusually wide on the clubhouse turn forcing the filly out even further. Up the backstretch under the watchful eye of Day, Forty Niner bumped and brushed Winning Colors without the least bit concern for the rest of the field. Why didn't the filly pull back behind Forty Niner?

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING. The Board of Directors of the Town of Manchester, in its capacity as the Water Pollution Control Authority, will hold a public hearing on June 7, 1988 at 7:30 p.m. at the Hearing Room, Lincoln Center, Second Floor, 4th Main Street, Manchester, Connecticut, for the purpose of receiving public comment concerning the proposed establishment and revision of charges for the connection with and for the use of the sewer system.

The proposed charges are as follows:

PROPOSED SCHEDULE OF RATES AND CHARGES MANCHESTER SEWER DEPARTMENT

I. QUARTERLY SEWER USE RATES - GENERAL CUSTOMER BILLING

The use charge is a flat rate of $1.31 per Hundred Cubic Feet based upon water consumption as indicated on the water meter.

Unmetered customers shall be charged as follows:

1. Residential Customers - Consumption based on 100 gallons per capita per day with 2.5 capita per dwelling unit.
2. Commercial Customers - Consumption based upon 2,000 gallons per acre per day of property owned on sewer footage, whichever is greater.
3. Industrial Customers - Consumption based upon 5,000 gallons per acre per day of property owned on sewer footage, or whichever is greater.

II. QUARTERLY SEWER USE RATES FOR LYDIA, INC.

The above schedule of use charges will apply less a credit for Lydia's prior payment of its share of the 1971 bond debt, which credit has been accumulated to be $497 per 100 cubic feet of their water, used mainly for process, comes from private sources.

III. QUARTERLY SEWER USE RATES FOR EIGHTY UTILITIES DISTRICT

The sewer use charges will be based on metered water at the rate of $1.263 per one hundred cubic feet.

IV. SURCHARGE RATES

In addition to the above sewer use charges, the Sewer Department will levy surcharges for increased quantities of Biochemical Oxygen Demand (BOD5) and Suspended Solids (SS) as follows:

BOD5: 50.07¢ per pound in excess of 350 milligrams per liter (mg/L), as determined by laboratory analysis.

SS: 50.04¢ per pound in excess of 250 milligrams per liter (mg/L), as determined by laboratory analysis.

Septic tank discharge of sewage Treatment Plant: $42.00 per 1,000 gallons.

V. EXCEPTION METERS - LARGE COMMERCIAL AND INDUSTRIAL CUSTOMERS

The Sewer Department will permit use of exception meters, installed and maintained by the customer of the Sewer Department, for the purpose of measuring process water that is not discharged to the sanitary sewer system. The quantity of water metered will be deducted from the total quantity of metered water used prior to calculations of the sewer use charge.

VI. SEWER SYSTEM LATERAL SEWER CONNECTION CHARGES

A. Town Installation: The Town may, at its discretion, perform sewer connections to the sewer system, or cause for such installation by Town in Town roadway, right of way, or easement, as are follows:

Size	Charge
4" or larger	Based upon actual costs of labor, tools, materials, equipment, engineering and administration.
3" or smaller	In addition, the cost of labor will be surcharged an additional 36% to reflect overhead and the cost of materials will be surcharged 15% to reflect stacking and handling charges.

B. Installation in Subdivisions: In a new subdivision or where a developer must install a new sewer main, the developer will install all sewer facilities, including house connections, all the expense in accordance with the time a permit application is filed with the Water and Sewer Department. Under all conditions where work on a sewer project is entirely completed by one contractor, the contractor shall be responsible for the cost of engineering, administration, and inspection.

C. Chargeable Repairs: Repairs to facilities such as manholes, laterals, manholes, etc., which are beyond the responsibility of the Sewer Department will be based upon the actual cost of labor, tools, materials, and equipment. In addition, the cost of labor will be surcharged an additional 36% to reflect overhead and the cost of materials will be surcharged 15% to reflect stacking and handling charges.

VII. MISCELLANEOUS CHARGES

A. Meter Removal on Existing Sewer Only Accounts	$35.00/Unit
B. Hauler Charge	$14.00/Hour
Compressor	$19.00/Hour
Pick up	$19.00/Hour
Dump Truck	$28.00/Hour
Backhoe	$38.00/Hour
Van	$38.00/Hour

VIII. LATE PAYMENT PENALTY

All user, utility surcharges, connection and miscellaneous charges are due and payable upon receipt of the bill by the customer. Any charge not paid within thirty (30) days of the due date shall thereupon be delinquent and shall bear interest from the due date of the rate and in the manner provided by the General Statutes of the State of Connecticut for delinquent property taxes.

IX. SEWER SYSTEM OUTLET CHARGE

Each property owner within the Town of Manchester, including within the Eighth Utilities District, ultimately utilizing the Town of Manchester Sewer System shall pay a sewer outlet charge in the time a permit application is filed with the Water and Sewer Department for connection to the sanitary sewer system. The property owner shall pay the applicable outlet charge in full at the time of permit application. Charge shall be in accordance with the following schedule:

For all residential dwellings including private homes, apartment units, and condominiums.	$400
For all hotels, motels, convalescent homes and hospitals.	$200
For all institutional type buildings such as schools and churches.	$1,000
For all retail, commercial and industrial buildings.	$2,000

Per acre of land approved for development calculated to the nearest 1/10 of an acre.

Per acre of land approved for development calculated to the nearest 1/10 of an acre.

Sold outlet charges shall be used to reimburse the Town of Manchester Sewer Department for downstream improvements to the Wastewater Treatment Plant and other such facilities as force mains, pumping stations, trunk sewers and interceptor or relief sewers.

A sharp eye for spot-cards
By James Jacoby

South makes his second good call by rescuing to three hearts. East's double ends the auction.

Now the spotlight focuses on West because, if the defense is not precise, South can take nine tricks. An opening spade lead is obviously fatal. North would ruff, discard his clubs and then crossruff the black suits. That would be seven tricks, with two trump winners still to come. The result is the same if West cashes the top clubs and leads another for East to trump. But after leading the club king, West found the perfect continuation: A low club put East on lead, and three rounds of trumps ruined South.

How did West work this out? By looking at the club spots. The five and two were played on the first trick, and West felt that East would have started an echo holding jack doubton. The moral is simple: The best defenders watch spot-cards like hawk-eyes.

IN BRIEF

MB's open with a win

Moriarty Brothers swung into its 1988 Greater Hartford Twilight League season Thursday night with a 6-5 win over Katz Sports at Moriarty Field.

Dave Jenetti was the winning pitcher in relief of starter Craig Steuernagel. Kenny Hill picked up the save as he worked out of a last inning bases-loaded situation with a strikeout and groundout.

Brian Crowley ripped a two-run homer and Chris Petersen had an RBI sacrifice fly to lead the MB's.

Moriarty's is back in action Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. against Terry-Pat at Muzzy Field in Bristol.

Sheehan ties for first

CORNING, N.Y. — Tour veteran Patty Sheehan and three-year pro Sherri Steinhilber each shot a 5-under-par 67 Thursday to share the first-round lead in the $325,000 LPGA Corning Classic.

Cathy Morse, a native of nearby Rochester, and Lauri Peterson finished at 68, while a group of six golfers were another stroke back.

It was an encouraging performance after a prolonged dry spell for Sheehan, one of the LPGA's top players.

"The last month, month and a half, I haven't made a cut," said Sheehan, who declined to discuss the reasons for her recent poor play. "That's in the past."

Bill Bradley inducted

NEW YORK — Bill Bradley, who captained the 1964 U.S. Olympic basketball team, and four others were inducted into the U.S. Olympic Hall of Fame Thursday night.

Also inducted were Tenley Albright, who won a gold medal for figure skating in the 1956 Winter Games at Cortina, Italy; the late Charles Daniels, who won five gold medals for swimming during the early 1900's; Mal Whitfield, who won three Olympic gold medals in track and field, and from 1948-1954 won 66 of 69 races, and broadcaster Jim McKay, who has covered the Olympic Games 11 times.

Jacobsen shares lead

DUBLIN, Ohio — Peter Jacobsen, on the mend from major back problems, shot a 4-under-par 68 Thursday to tie John Mahaffey for the first-round lead in the $1 million Memorial Tournament.

Tom Kite was the only man in the field to escape without a bogey and had a 3-under-par 69, tying him with South African David Frost. Aki Ohmachi of Japan, Rocco Mediate, John Hallett and John Huston.

Jacobsen said he's rounding into form after the back problems cut into his performance in 1987 and dropped him to 111th on the winnings list.

FRENCH WINNER — John McEnroe returns the ball to Sweden's Christian Bergstrom during their second-round match Thursday at the French Open tennis tournament. McEnroe advanced with a 6-2, 6-1, 6-3 victory.

Graf, Sabatini advance

PARIS — Steffi Graf and Gabriela Sabatini, the teen-age stars of women's tennis, are headed toward an expected semifinal showdown in the French Open now that upsets have cleared out all of the other seeded players in their paths.

Three women's seeds were ousted in third-round matches Thursday, all of them potential opponents for the top-seeded Graf and No. 4 Sabatini in the top half of the draw.

The two 18-year-olds — Graf from West Germany and Sabatini from Argentina — have romped through their early matches in straight sets, leaving outclassed opponents gasping.

Graf took just 50 minutes Thursday to beat Susan Sloane 6-0, 6-1, then said it was her toughest match of the tournament.

Sabatini, whose dark beauty combined with tennis skills draws crowds to her matches, had only a slightly stronger test. It took her 61 minutes to whip Masako Yanagi of Japan 6-2, 6-1.

'Real' Mavericks coming

DALLAS — After Dallas fell behind the Los Angeles Lakers 2-0 in the NBA Western Conference finals, Mavericks forward Sam Perkins had drawn a conclusion that explained his team's problem.

"You haven't seen the real Mavericks," Perkins said. "Unfortunately, you have seen the real Lakers, though."

The best-of-seven series shifts to the Mavericks' home court at Reunion Arena tonight and Sunday and Dallas Coach John MacLeod hopes his team finally shows up before it's too late.

Final preparations being made for the Indy 500

INDIANAPOLIS — The roars of the engines have been fired for the last time in practice and the mechanics are making their final adjustments for Sunday's 72nd Indianapolis 500.

Mario Andretti, who has been the fastest in nearly every practice session this month but had a disappointing qualifying run that put him in the second row of the starting grid was the quickest of the traditional "Carburetion Day" two-hour practice session on Thursday.

Thirty-one of the 33 starters got onto the 2 1/2-mile track during the only practice session of the week leading up to the $4 million race. Scott Brayton and Dominic Dobson, the fastest rookie qualifier ever, were the only starters who didn't practice.

Butch Dennison, Brayton's crew chief, said, "The car had been rebuilt prior to (last) Sunday, and we used that as our warmup day. We were pleased with the performance of the car and did not feel this morning's warmup was necessary."

Dobson was in a different situation, missing the practice because of a fuel system problem.

"I really wanted to be out there, but we've got work to do to get the car ready for Sunday and we didn't want to have to rush and mess anything up," Dobson said. "I hated missing the time on the track. I don't believe it is going to be a problem though, once we start the race."

Andretti had a fast lap of 215.105 mph. Teammates Danny Sullivan and Rick Mears, the pole-winner, were close behind Andretti in a practice period that was completed without a serious accident.

Sullivan turned a fast lap of 214.694, while Mears, who set one and four-lap qualifying records of 220.453 mph and 219.198, respectively, had a lap at 213.118.

Others fast laps on Thursday included Bobby Rahal at 212.811, defending champion Al Unser 210.035, Kevin Cogan 208.790, Al Unser Jr. 208.7 and Arie Luyendyk of Holland 208.6.

Michael Andretti, Mario's son, left the track with confidence after a lap at 210.981.

"The car is basically a good race car now and that's what we came out here to do. I would have like to have a better qualifying speed but it didn't happen and now I'm ready to race. We could use more horsepower, that's all," said the younger Andretti, who qualified his March-Cosworth at 210.183.

Andretti, starting his fifth Indy 500, doesn't expect to lead many laps Sunday.

"I don't think the car's going to stay and battle for the lead all day, but with the right breaks who knows what will happen. Our plan is to stay on the lead lap. I don't think we'll be able to lead a lot of laps, but if we're on the lead lap with 50 to go, we'll be in the chase," he said.

The race could be the last one here for the Michael, who is thinking about going to Formula One racing when his contract ends at the completion of the 1988 season.

"My options are open. I'd like to try Formula One and I think this is a good time for the switch," he said. "But, I wouldn't make the switch just to get into Formula One. It would have to be with a competitive team. If something develops I would only drive Formula One."
