Church Group Starts Season

Women's Federation Entertains, Has Banquet At Center Church

Center Church Women's Federation opened its 1946-47 season last night with a delicious pot luck supper, business meeting and entertainment in the banquet hall, in which all four groups participated.

Mrs. Irving Spencer of Group D welcomed the guests as they arrived. Mrs. Robert Scribner of Group B and her committee were in charge of the meal and each colorful flower decorations on each table.

During the business session, at which Mrs. Ernest Kritzmancher presided, the sum of $25 was voted for the Manchester Girl Scout drive for funds for the new camp between Fern and Line streets.

Wants Wallace Correct Errors

United States delegation could not consider any modification in the "fundamental principles" of its plan, which was attacked at length by Wallace in a letter on foreign policy written last July 23 which Wallace then was secretary of commerce.

Released Long Memorandum The United States delegates released, with the consent of the president, a long memorandum to the president answering Wallace's letter point by point. He also released the statement which he said Wallace did not sign; an alternate statement submitted by Wallace which he rejected, and a telegram dispatched by Baruch to Wallace late yesterday charging that the "errors" are "gravely dangerous to the delicate negotiations now under way" and that they "create confusion and division among our people."

Wallace was not available for comment in Washington last night. However, an associate said Wallace had not broken off his exchange on the matter with Baruch but had telephoned a suggested statement yesterday afternoon to Ferdinand Eberstadt, Baruch's assistant. The Wallace associate said Eberstadt was to have called Wallace back later but did not do so.

Wallace resigned recently as secretary of commerce at the request of President Truman, the result of Wallace's differences with Secretary of State Byrnes on American foreign policy. He disagreed with Byrnes' policy in a speech in New York on Sept. 12. His letter of July 23, setting forth his views on foreign policy, was released Sept. 17. His resignation came shortly afterwards.

First Clash in Long Career Baruch said his difference with Wallace was the first time he had clashed with a public official in a long career. He said he had always before dealt in "facts."

In the telegram to Wallace, dispatched Baruch said, after repeated efforts to have Wallace issue a public correction, "Baruch said he was 'disappointed' and shocked by your suggestion, over the telephone late Monday afternoon, Sept. 20, as to the method of correcting certain 'mistatements' contained in your letter to the president, dated July 23."

Says Policies May Be Followed Which Lead to Warfare

words would dispel "the unwarranted charges that the United States is seeking to use its possession of the atomic bomb as a threat of force against the Soviet Union."

"Just because war is not now imminent, we must take the greatest care not to plant the seeds of a future war. We must seek ways to defend our actions in the eyes of those who do not agree with us."

The secretary declared his belief that nobody wants war today, but he said, "I am not sure."

"The difficulty is that while no nation wants war, nations may pursue policies or courses of action which lead to war. Nations may seek political and economic advantages which they cannot obtain without war," Byrnes declared.

The major portion of his speech was devoted to his views on the future control of Germany. He amplified in some respects his recent speech at Stuttgart and the 40-year treaty that he proposed last spring for keeping Germany disarmed and demilitarized.

The United States, he said, "is firmly opposed to a struggle for the control of Germany which would again give Germany the power to divide and conquer."

With this remark, Byrnes was answering French fears about the Ruhr and advancing a program different from the French one for internationalizing the arsenal.

The occupation of Germany should be continued, he said, until disarmament and demilitarization is accepted by whatever German government emerges. And, he reiterated, "so long as there is an occupation army in Germany, the armed forces of the United States will be in the Army of occupation."

"To keep watch over our potential in this industrial age, engineers are more important than infantry. Engineers can detect at an early stage any effort upon the part of a manufacturer of motorcars to convert his machinery to the manufacture of tanks or other weapons of war. Engineers can probe the mysteries of a chemical plant. Infantry soldiers cannot."

Should any such situation arise, he said, a report would be made immediately to the control commission. The commission, in turn, would demand that the plants be closed.

39 Persons Die In Flaming Crash; Six Are Children

a hill quite high up and was still smoking.

The night was poor and I could not identify any part of the plane. I saw a burnt spot on the hillside. It is a fairly wooded hill. I could see no path cut through the trees. The plane probably went straight into the hill.

Earlier reports to the Coast Guard indicated the plane hit one-half mile up the side of the hill and 100 feet from the top of the slope, which is covered with rocks and scrub trees.

Captain Charnock said the 42 persons in his plane, 12 of them women, caught a glimpse of the wreckage.

Another description of the wreckage was given by Robert Albee, 4 Darlington street, Forest Hills, N. Y., navigator on the French plane.

"Our plane circled the wreck at 1,500 feet," Albee related. "I could not see the actual fire, but the wreckage was smoking. The fire had died down quite a bit, but there still was a glow."

The navigator said PEYs were landing four to five miles from the wreckage.

Earlier, the Coast Guard said it crashed 100 feet from the scene and an Army searching party was at the foot of the hill into which the plane crashed.

The message sent the searching party had one-half mile to go. The plane crashed 100 feet from the top of the hill, which is covered with rocks and scrub trees.

The message, sent from a Coast Guard plane at the scene, said the airplane appeared to have exploded after the crash and that only a tiny fragment of the ship was visible. There was a heavy rain at the time.

Cattle, Hogs Killings Low Past Month

Record Not So Emphatic In cattle, the record is not so emphatic. Wyatt said range cows were coming to market now, and native dairy cows will start coming shortly.

Records show that cattle receipts at Chicago are higher in October than September, but that they fall off in November and drop still lower in December.

Meanwhile, everyone was blaming everyone else for sponsoring the war. The American Meat Institute said it was the OPA, Congressman Sabath (D-Ill.) said it was the packers. Democrats said Republicans did it, and Republicans said it was all the fault of Democrats.

Cows said "Moo" and hogs said "Oink." Observers interpreted this as "No comment."

Foreign Ministers To Ponder Issues

followed a western nation victory in the long and bitter fight over Trieste in the Italian Political and Territorial commission.

The commission adopted a Czechoslovak resolution recognizing that country's right to collect reparations from Hungary in less than eight years under a bilateral accord.

Delegates to Russia and the five Slavic states had fought doggedly all through the night against a French compromise proposal for establishment of a new free state of Trieste to be governed by the United Nations Security Council.

But, went down to defeat, 14 to 6. And when the commissions convened today, U. S. Delegate Wilard Thorp insisted that the $300,000,000 Hungary must pay the Soviet union, Czechoslovakia and Yugoslavia; and the $300,000,000 Finland pay Russia, he carried to $200,000,000.

Ukrainian Delegate W. Tarasenko immediately charged Thorp with committing an "unfriendly act" and Soviet Delegate Fedor Gusev accused the United States of attempting to disturb the "good relations" between Hungary and Russia.

Truman Urges All Do Best to Keep Industrial Peace

Noting that this number represents almost half the total unemployed, he said: "It is the nation's responsibility to see to it that veterans looking for jobs get satisfactory employment at the highest level of their skills and at good wages."

Steelman saw both great promise and danger in the outlook for the national economy, setting forth two problems which he said confronts the nation:

"For the long range, to 'maintain our economy at full production and full employment.' 'If prices keep on rising and precipitate a wage-price spiral, business and agriculture will find themselves priced out of the market and into a depression.' Steelman said that in his quarterly report to President Truman and Congress.

He added that if on the other hand "we can successfully retard the rise in prices, the backlog of demand for goods and the tremendous hoards of savings and current income should reduce the rate at which demand slackens."

"National Target" Balance In stating that "our national target" is a "balance of supply with demand at a high level of production and employment," the reconversion chief rejected the suggestion of "some . . . that the best way" to achieve this goal is to "let prices go."

"An uncontrolled advance in the general level of prices," Steelman said, "is the worst possible way to bring demand into balance with supply."

Such a course, he added, "can only lead to price collapse." His report said also: "1. Production of consumer durable goods, such as automobiles, refrigerators and washing machines, is just beginning to hit its stride, but 'there is some indication that the boom is off' the market for clothes and other soft goods."

"The 'buy-at-any-price' psychology is 'being tempered by some consumer resistance to high prices and poor quality.'"

2. If consumer or business spending—now at 'extremely high' levels—falls to normal, the government "must be prepared to readjust its policies to promote an increase in consumption." Public works programs should be "blue-printed and ready to go," and tax and other fiscal policy "would require readjustment."

3. To arrest such a decline in spending, "the first and most salutary action could be taken by business itself in reducing prices—wherever possible—without reducing wages."

Moriconi Sells His Restaurant

Place Known as the Garden Bought by Pazianos and Vazzolo

Joseph E. Moriconi, proprietor of the Garden Restaurant at 940 Main street, just south of the Montgomery Ward & Co. store, today sold the business, fixtures, stock and good will to George M. Pazianos of this town, and Frank Vazzolo, of Hartford. The new owners have a three year lease on the premises and will continue to operate the restaurant.

Mr. Pazianos is a partner in the ownership of the Princess Restaurant at Main and Pearl streets; Mr. Vazzolo is a resident of Hartford and was formerly employed by the Hartford branch of the Ruppert's brewery. Mr. Pazianos does not intend to relinquish his interests in the Princess Restaurant and Mr. Vazzolo will manage the Garden restaurant.

Greeks Surround Band of Leftists

Athens, Oct. 3.—Press dispatches from northern Greece today reported that Greek troops had surrounded a band of 300 leftists at Naoussa, 25 miles south of the Yugoslav border, after the band had raided and burned part of the town.

The advisers said the leftists, armed with machine guns and mortars, had attacked Naoussa yesterday morning and that approximately 200 casualties had resulted in the ensuing battle. About 700 residents of the town were said to have assisted the attackers.

News Conferences Welcome Dish Now

Dreary Season in Washington as Congress Away and Will Not Be Back This Year

By James Marlow
Washington, Oct. 3.—(P)—News conferences, like lambsteak on a chilly evening, are a welcome dish here these days. This is the dreary season in Washington. When Congress is here, news tumbles in bursting bundles out of the Capitol where somebody is always mad at somebody and never pleased with things as they are.

But Congress is away now and won't be back till January. So news from the Capitol comes only in dribbles.

There still is news here, of course. And much of it is of first-rank importance because it affects the whole country. But still, it only comes in jerks.

So battalions of newsmen gladly, and hopefully, trudge around to the news conferences. Looking for green pastures and a tidy item. The best and most far-reaching conferences, now as at any other time, are held most regularly at the White House, where President Truman does the conducting, and at the State department, where foreign affairs are always the subject.

Always Most Respectful
The White House conferences are always the most respectful and newsmen, crowded in the oval room around the Mr. Truman's desk, say again and again: "Mr. President, would you care to comment on so and so?"

There's no rule about the manner of asking the question. Sometimes a direct question is shot at the president.

Since many of the newsmen are interested in some one subject, these individuals come prepared to ask a question about that subject only. Mr. Truman can always duck by saying "No comment."

When he attempts to answer a question right off 'e cuff, as he has had a habit of doing, it may get him in trouble, as it has, unless he's very sure of the answer he gives and how he gives it.

Acheson Has Big Conferences
Secretary of State Byrnes has the top State department conferences when he's in town. But he's in Paris now at the Peace conference. Undersecretary of State Acheson has the big conferences in Byrnes' place.

Acheson, heavily mustached, with a Yale and Harvard background, a great many years around Washington, a quick mind, and large, intelligent eyes, does a polished job at his conferences.

He's always at ease. Byrnes is more tense, in spite of his years in Congress and his time on the Supreme court.

All through the Byrnes and Acheson conferences, the questions usually are prefaced with the title "Mr. Secretary. For example: "Mr. Secretary, what is the position of this country on so and so?"

These two men—and, in fact anyone else (below the president) who has a news conference—leaves himself open to a strenuous grilling when he steps into the conference room.

Sometimes the questions are loaded, in an attempt to trip up the man holding the conference.

And sometimes an answer is snapped out—say by a military man who is talking like a sailor or soldier and forgets to think what he says will sound like to diplomats. That sets up better reaction abroad.

At times like these, the answer may be regarded abroad not as an innocent, too-quick answer but as part of a plan or plot to shout American defiance to the rest of the world.

Maybe this sort of thing happens sometimes. But most of the time it's somebody talking too much too fast.

Safety Record Set by State

1946 Increase in Fatalities Will Be Lowest If Rate Continues

Hartford, Oct. 3.—(P)—Director William M. Greene of the state's Highway Safety commission reported today that Connecticut was establishing an outstanding record for the country in traffic fatality experience this year.

The records of the Department of Motor Vehicles show, he explained, that Connecticut recorded 163 traffic fatalities as of Sept. 30, compared with 162 cases for the same period last year.

Will Be Lowest in Country
The 1946 increase of 0.6 will be the lowest in the country for the period, according to the latest information received by the Highway Safety commission from national sources, said Greene.

Recently, according to Greene, the National Safety council praised the nation-wide July traffic accident rate of 7.4 cases per 100 million miles of traffic movement. Connecticut's July rate, he emphasizes, was 2.2 cases, substantially below the national figure and the lowest monthly traffic fatality rate in Connecticut's traffic statistical history.

Fatality Rate Low
"For the eight months ending Aug. 31," concluded Greene, "our traffic fatality rate was 4.5 cases per million miles of traffic movement. This will be one of the lowest, if not the lowest, for that period throughout the country."

"We are, of course, still killing too many persons in Connecticut traffic accidents despite this enviable record. One gratifying phase, however, has been the reduction of nine cases in pedestrian fatalities, eight of which were in the school age group. Connecticut now faces the worst three months of the year for traffic mishaps, especially involving pedestrians. Early darkness adds extra hazard for foot traffic which should move with extra care."

Lettered Sign Works

Lafayette, Ind.—(P)—William L. O'Brien, Jr., of Evansville, Ind., a student at Purdue university, answered the telephone sleepily at 6 a. m., listened, then sprang into action. Evansville was 200 miles away. Bus and train connections were not good enough and time was an important element. Quickly he lettered a sign and rushed to the highway. The sign said: "Help me beat the stork." He hid, by 70 minutes. It was a girl.

Rainbow Club Opens Season

Ellsworth Mitten and His Band to Be the Featured Attraction

The Rainbow Club in Bolton, next to the New England Hotel, tonight opens officially its Fall and Winter season of dancing and entertainment. Ellsworth Mitten, his trumpet and his orchestra with Nancy Lee will be featured every Thursday, Friday and Saturday night at this popular dine and dance spot.

Ellsworth Mitten's band is known throughout Connecticut as one of the most versatile units in the business. Students at Connecticut University as well as numerous fraternities throughout the state rank this band as their top favorite. Just recently they completed an engagement at the Elks Fair in Willimantic after a long run at the Officer's Club in Groton. Many members of the band have had radio experience and fame with name bands.

The fine arrangements and novelty numbers as presented by this band make it a must on your program of entertainment this season.

Rainbow Club, of course, is known far and wide for the excellence of its food and drinks. Now with added attraction of Ellsworth Mitten's music the Rainbow Club becomes the Number One spot in this locality for an evening of pleasurable dining and dancing.
